THE CLIMAX AT THE CORNERS.

"Well, I will give you an opportunity first."

The crowd pricked up their ears.

"What were you doing on the road near Biggers' about three o'clock this morning?"

"Who says we were on the road?"

"Answer."

"Who says it? How'd you know it?"

"I was on the road."

"Oh, you was! What was you doin' on the road, then? Didn't you tell the folks you'd stop till daylight at Biggers'?"

"Yes."

"But you didn't."

"No? Least my recollection is I met one of your gang on the way home."

"Well, why don't you tell why you said one thing and did another?"

"You haven't answered my question."

"Nor you mine."

"You deny being on the road."

"I can prove we weren't."

"How? All of your associates will swear it, will they?"

"No matter—I can prove I wasn't on the road, nor five miles near Biggers', if that's plain enough."

"Well, I suppose you don't know who shot Tom Biggers' dog along about three this morning?"

"Didn't know it was shot."

"You didn't shoot it?"

"No."

"Nor your brother Ned, nor Pete, nor Squatty there?"

"I guess not. May be the dog shot hisself."

The Monks laughed now.

It was very funny.

"Say, Hank Dawson, how do you know Dan Bash didn't run off—kind a rued, an' lit out in time?"

"What do you mean, Bill Monk? Put it in plain words."

"Why 'taint the first time a man's changed his mind. And if he did, whose business is it, 'cept yours? The hull county ain't interested in it, or oughtn't to be."

"No! Very true. My friends might be. Well, any more, Bill? Speak freely now whatsoever's in your mind."

"Since you want to know, I think—and there's more'n me thinks it's mighty curus how a chap nobody knows anythin' about, 'ceptin' he's spry an' sharp an' a crack shot and jumper, can come here an' get a school, an' put on a heap o' airs over people as were here afore he was born."

"Yes," said Ned Monk. "Who is this here Dan Bush anyhow? Nobody knows where he come from, do they? Don't know if he has folks, or whether he haint something to keep dark about, and sneaked off up here in the mountains, where nobody would think of looking for him."

"Lots o' people are saying just the same thing, Hank Dawson," said Bill Monk, with an ugly leer at those nearest him.

"Are you through now?" inquired Chub Dawson, quietly.

The Monks stepped closer together; there was a movement as though they were preparing for an attack.

"O, don't mind your pistols and knives just yet. Let's talk a little longer. You, Ned and Bill Monk—you know you tried to murder Dan Bash once. You dare not deny it."

"O, pshaw! you mean the fight we had that day right here."

"No, I don't. I mean when you two and one of your gang laid among the bushes by the spring, and when Ned aimed at Dan, I scared him, shooting over his head. When you jumped out on the road with a knife on Dan, and the coward with you had a club. But I shot your arm—you dare not bare it now—and Dan and me drove you three down the road like dogs."

As Chub uttered these words, she extended her hand toward the Monks, who fell back in dismay.

They rallied, however, again, and Bill Monk laughed—a hard, unnatural laugh it was.

"Go on! Why, that's as good as what a clown tells in the circus. But it's a lie—a lie out of whole cloth, Chub Dawson!"

"Very well. I suppose you are ready to swear now you weren't on the road this morning?"

"Of course we will swear it—and prove it!"

"And you didn't see Dan Bash?"

"No."

"Not since the day he rode over from Biggers'?"

"No."

"You didn't look for him?"

"No. 'Twan't none of our business. You was lookin' for him."

"You hadn't any one out on the road, neither?"

"Nary one."

"Didn't kill Biggers' dog?"

"I'm glad it's dead though, for it bit me once."

"There's a good many witnesses here—mind what the Monks say," said Chub, calmly.

"Now, then," said Chub, suddenly, as she stepped back and grasped her rifle from Eli Potts' hand, "throw up your hands!"

As the two Monks facing her obeyed reluctantly, Pete and one or two of the gang found themselves covered with rifles drawn by the crowd.

Then Chub addressed herself to the crowd:

"Take their knives and guns, boys."

The Monks were speedily disarmed.

"Squatty, come here!"

Squatty approached her in fear. His cheeks were pale—his hand trembled.

The Monks looked at him curiously.

"Squatty, you can choose now. Will you keep your promise, or will you take your chances with the Monks. Choose quick. The Sheriff will soon take a hand in this matter."

"He ought to be at my house now," said Hank Dawson, coolly. "Least that was our understanding."

"No matter, dad. If the Sheriff's lost his way, or anything's happened him or his horse, I reckon you and I can take them into the town," said Chub, calmly.

"You'll wish you hadn't, Chub," said Bill Monk.

"Squatty."

Squatty stood beside her.

"Did the Monks send you upon the road to our house between two and three this morning?"

"Don't ask me."

"Yes, or no!" thundered Hank Dawson.

"Yes."

"It's a lie!" said Bill Monk.

"It's true—I caught him with the help of my dog," said Tom Biggers.

"And I'll swear it in court," added Hank Dawson.

The Monks turned wrathfully upon him and scowled.

"I tell you, we never touched Dan Bash. We don't know anything about him, and Squatty's lying if he says we do."

"Wait till he does say it," replied Chub, calmly. "He only confesses you sent him on the road. That proves you are interested."

"Nobody will believe Squatty."

"When we swear the same thing may be they will," said Tom Biggers.

"Now, then, Squatty; look me in the eye."

Poor Squatty could with difficulty obey Chub.

"Were you at the spring on the day Ned and Bill Monk planned to kill Dan Bash?"

"Don't ask me—don't."

"Yes or no!" said Hank Dawson.

"I—I—I was."

"You was in the plot?"

"I—I was."

"But when I suspected what they were up to, and followed Dan—cutting across the near way—did or did I not shoot Bill Monk's arm; and then he, and you, and Ned were afraid to fight us both, or of the consequences if they killed me and Dan—and they and you slunk off. Is that true or not, Squatty?"

"It's the God's truth; but they'll kill me for telling Chub."

"We'll see to that. Now, then, dad, if the sheriff doesn't show up in five minutes, you'd best take the whole gang to town."

As she ceased speaking, a horse's hoofs were heard clankering along the stony road, and the sheriff was soon in the midst of the excited crowd.

"I'm an hour late. Some whelp's been foolin' with my horse. I had to get another on the road," said the sheriff.

"Maybe the Monks will explain it," said Chub, pointing to them.

"I shouldn't wonder a mite," said the sheriff.

"Take 'em along, Sheriff. I'll be in town in time to see they don't get out on straw bail. Mind—the charge is—murder!"

"Hem! You make it?"

"No! I do," said Chub.

"It's all the same, Sheriff," said Hank Dawson, with a smile.

"Yes, it's in the family," said the sheriff.

Now then—I'm ready to move on."

And soon the sheriff, with a strong guard of volunteers, rode off to the town with the Monks and Squatty, who was held both as a principal and witness.

CHAPTER XIV.

THE COUNTERFEIT BANK NOTE.

"I reckon that was the best way out of it," said Hank Dawson slowly as the sheriff disappeared with his prisoners. "We've got to makes a fight sooner or later with that gang. But I don't like the way they talked about Dan Bash. It was most too true, Chub."

"What, dad?"

They were alone now. Tom Biggers had gone off with the sheriff.

"Why, about Dan's people. We never knew nuthin' about his folks much. He never talked about them."

"No. But 'twasn't because he hadn't reason to be proud of them."

"How do you know, Chub?"

"Well, dad, I couldn't just tell you—but I know. He'd smile curiously when he spoke about the great folks he'd met. You make up your mind, his folks are above the common."

"I hope so, Chub—for your sake."

"But I know it, dad—there's ways of finding out a girl can't just explain. You'll see Dan's folks are tip-top. And Dan's good as gold."

"Oh, Dan's all right himself, Chub."

"And he's not dead; I said murder—but I meant the plot to kill him—and to hold them till he is found—as he will be."

At that moment a traveler on a horse that looked as if it was hard ridden, stopped at the Corners tavern and dismounting entered and called for some liquor.

Eli Potts waited on him, and the traveler was leaving the door with his wallet in his hand when he suddenly stopped.

"Hello! What's this?"

He turned, and Eli, who had followed him to the door, looked at him in astonishment as he held up a bank note.

"Eh? Ain't it good?"

"Good? Look at it."

Eli looked at it closely.

"That's good as wheat. Good as wheat."

Chub signed to her father quickly. Hank moved to Eli.

"Let me look at it, Eli."

"Well?"

The traveler regarded Hank attentively. Then he glanced at Chub and bowed slightly.

"I think it's good. It's a little worn—ragged-like—but I've seen worse printed notes than that, sir."

"So have I."

The stranger looked very soberly at Eli Potts now.

The blood mounted to the landlord's cheeks.

"You—you—you don't think——"

"I'm paid to think."

"Pshaw! That's good enough, but if you don't like it, I'll give you another."

"No. This will do me. Your name is Potts?"

"Yes; Eli Potts, and I don't care who knows it, and I ain't carin' for any one's opinion. I can live or get along without keepin' tavern, and I don't pass no bad money."

"I didn't say you did."

"Yes, you did. You've as good as said it's bad. 'Tain't like the times when we'd State banks, and the bank busted. You insinuated it wasn't genooine."

"It isn't."

Eli recoiled in alarm.

His wife came to the door.

"What is it, Eli?"

"This man says I've put a counterfeit note onto him—a counterfeit ten-dollar note. He gave me a twenty to change—said he'd no small change—and now he says——"

Here Eli's anger choked him.

"Don't get in a passion. Keep your shirt on, Mr. Potts. Keep cool; I'm cool."

"Nobody said you was passing counterfeit money."

"Will you allow me to see the note?" said Chub, suddenly.

The stranger handed it to her, keeping a keen eye on her all the while.

"It looks all right," said Chub, handing it back to the traveler, who carefully deposited it in his pocketbook.

"Mr. Potts, you know who gave it to you?" said Chub.

"To be sure I do; so does Susan here. She seen me make the change for that ten—she brought me the bills."

"Then you have no hesitation in telling who gave it to you?"

The stranger looked at Eli keenly.

"None in the least."

"And you," to Mrs. Potts, "can explain all the circumstances?"

"Why, to be sure."

"Then how was it?"

"Why, the man that gave Eli the bill laid it on top of the bar'l there—I seed it. And Eli said to me, 'You bring me change for that money.' I says, 'Is it a ten?' And he said 'twas. I brought the bills to Eli, and when he put the ten in his pocketbook I looked at the money, and that was the solitary ten-dollar note in the pile."

"That's plain. Will you swear to that, madam?"

"I reckon—if it's necessary."

"Who gave you the ten-dollar note, Mr. Potts?"

It was Chub's voice cutting in clear and brisk.

"Why, 'twas just Bill Monk."

"I thought so."

The stranger turned and looked at her now keenly.

"Why did you think so?"

"Excuse me, sir. You are a stranger to me."

The traveler smiled, then said in an indifferent manner:

"There's a good deal of counterfeit money circulating in the middle of the State—not much in Pine County, but there's the marks of Pine County on the make."

"What's that?" said Hank Dawson quickly.

"I say there's reason to believe there's a factory up here, or a place where it is collected for distribution.

"Are you a Government officer?" said Chub quickly.

The man smiled again.

"I am not at liberty to answer that question. Supposing I am, what then?"

"We could help you find the factory, I think," said Chub, in low tones.

"There's money in it if you do."

"I don't want money. I've more than I can use now."

Chub looked disdainfully at the stranger.

"I beg your pardon, miss."

"No offense. You don't know us, I reckon, that's all."

"This Monk—is he——"

"We've just sent him to town with the Sheriff on account of Dan Bash."

"Dan Bash!"

"Yes—what do you know of Dan Bash?"

"What do you know?"

"Me—oh! I've just heard of him, that's all. You know him, then?"

"Everybody in Pine County knew we were to be married last Wednesday."

"Yes," said Hank Dawson. "He has disappeared. We think the Monks made way with him. They had quarreled from the time Bash came here."

"Hum. So—just so."

The traveler was making mental notes of the father and daughter.

The notes read thus:

"As straight as a die—and fearless. Pluck and grit—and enormous grip all over him. Great beauty—splendid form! Like her father—only quicker. Die for their friends and never squeal once."

But aloud he said, in very calm tones, "Mr. Potts—it will be necessary for you to explain how you came by this note. I shall arrest you—don't be alarmed—a mere matter of form—your friend here, Mr. ——"

"Dawson."

"Dawson will bail you—then I will make regular charges against Mr. Bill Monk, and——"

"If you'll be guided by me," said Chub, "you'll do nothing of the sort."

"Eh!—how?"

"I said you'll put your foot in it if you go about it in that way."

"Well, then, will you be able to give me a better plan?"

"Easily."

"Pray inform me."

"I will. Mr. Potts, please step outside with dad and me—Mrs. Potts can attend to the house—and she mustn't speak a word of this."

"Indeed, I won't—mercy knows I shan't," said Mrs. Potts.

Then Eli Potts, the traveler, and Chub stood beside Hank Dawson, in close deliberation.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

Lighting London Streets.

Lighting the streets of a large city in olden times was a far different thing from lighting the streets at the present time. In 1661 the streets of London were directed to be lighted with candles or lanterns by every householder fronting the main road, from nightfall to nine o'clock, the hour of retiring to bed.

In the last year of Charles II.'s reign, one Edward Henning obtained the right to light the streets with lanterns placed over every tenth door, from six o'clock on moonless evenings until midnight, between October and April.

During the reign of Queen Anne, in July, 1708, Mr. Michael Coke introduced globular glass lamps with oil burners instead of the former glimmering lanterns. In 1716 an act was passed which enjoined every householder to furnish a light before his door from six to eleven o'clock at night, except on evenings between the seventh night of each moon and the third after it reached the full.

In a few years a company was formed to light the street from six o'clock until midnight, each householder who paid poor rates being required to contribute for this purpose six shillings a year.

Gaslight, at its introduction in the beginning of the present century, presented such a novel spectacle to the eyes of the foreign ambassadors that they were vain enough to imagine that the brilliant lamps were a part of a general illumination to celebrate their arrival.

Electricity is now taking the place of gas, but the change is made far less rapidly in London than in even the cities of comparatively small population in this country.

THE Bank of England was established in 1694, and is older than any of the institutions of the class in any other of the great nations. It was not the first of the important financial houses, however. The Bank of Venice was created in 1101, that of Genoa in 1407, that of Hamburg in 1619 and that of Rotterdam in 1685. In 1803 the Bank of France was established.

THIS country is so rich that the fingers of all its washer-women are full of wrings.

HUMOR.

Collection Buttons.

"So you are collecting buttons, Millie. Why, what a lot you have! You must have more than any little girl in the neighborhood."

"No, sir; Diasy Fourthly has ever so many more."

"Indeed! How does she get so many—is her papa a dry goods merchant?"

"No, sir; he's a minister."

All He Knew.

Old doctor—Has any one been in?

Student—One gentleman called. Said he wanted to know what to do for a cold. He hadn't time to wait, so I told him everything I knew.

Old doctor—Humph! That couldn't have been much.

Student—Oh, I know more than you think. I told him to bathe his feet in hot water, take a pint of lemonade, sponge with salt water, remain in a warm room, bathe the face in hot water every five minutes, snuff up hot salt water, inhale ammonia or menthol, take a ten-grain dose of quinine and lots of outdoor exercise.—New York Weekly.

Fair Exchange.

"Grindstone, what's the matter?"

"Grip, Kiljordan. Just got over it."

"What did you give up to it for? It's all imagination. A fellow with any strength of mind won't take the grip, and it's a bad thing to have. It always attacks a fellow where he is weakest."

"You haven't had it?"

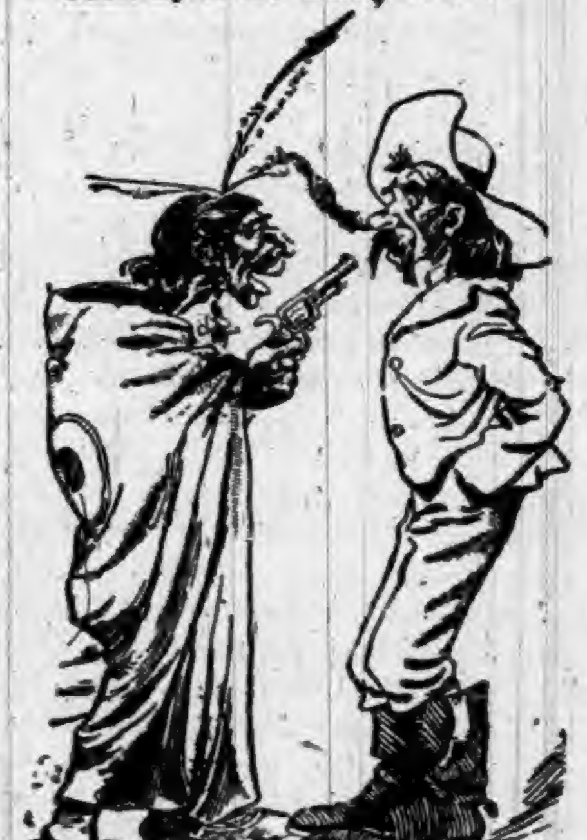
"No. Nothing the matter with me but a cold in the head."

"Um. Are you sure the grip always attacks a man in his weakest part?"

"That's what the doctors all say."

"Then it isn't a cold in the head you've got, Kiljordan. It's the grip."

Jealousy in the Dime Museum.



Cowboy—What's the matter, Johnson?

Chief Kicking Bird (alias Johnson)—The next time I catch you flirting with the bearded woman, off comes the top of your head. Ugh!—Texas Siftings.

New Method of Testing Them.

"Sure these eggs are fresh?" inquired a man with a basket on his arm, peering into an oblong box in a grocery store on Chicago avenue yesterday morning and looking suspiciously at the proprietor.

"Certainly, sir," answered the latter. "Those eggs are perfectly fresh. They're from the country."

"What are they worth?"

"Twenty-five cents a dozen, and I don't make a cent on them at that."

"If you had any right fresh city eggs I think I'd rather have 'em," observed the customer, doubtfully. "Tell you what I'll do. If you'll let me test a dozen or so by a way of my own, and they turn out to be all right, I'll give you 50 cents a dozen for them. If any are a little too subsequent, as it were, you give me the dozen for nothing. How does that strike you?"

"I guess it's a go," said the grocer, after a moment's reflection.

"I have the privilege of testing the entire dozen?"

"Certainly."

"In my own way?"

"Yes."

"That's all right. Please stand still a moment."

Whix! An egg thrown with terrific force just grazed the grocer's ear and broke with awful effect on a pile of baking powder cans on the counter.

"You moved a little," said the customer, considerably vexed, putting his basket down and picking up another egg. "I'll——"

"Hold on!" shouted the proprietor. "What are you doing?"

"Testing the eggs. In my own way. That one was all right, anyhow. I have my doubts about this one, though."

And he drew back to throw it.

"Stop!" yelled the excited grocer, dodging behind a potato barrel, "or I'll call the police."

"They won't touch me. Stand out a little, please."

"Say!" called out the grocer in an appealing tone. "Let's compromise this thing. Take the eggs for twenty cents."

"I'd prefer to pay fifty cents for them if they are sound."

"Take 'em for fifteen."

"That's unreasonable. If this one I've got hold of now turns out to be bad I get a dozen for nothing. See? Stand out a little, if you please."

"Look here!" said the grocer, despairingly; "you can have 'em for ten cents—five—two and a half. Take a couple of dozen for nothing and go!"

"H'm! That seems fair," mused the customer, putting the egg back in the oblong box and picking up his basket again; "but, Christopher Columbus! I don't want any eggs. I only wanted to introduce my new way of testing them. See you again some time. Good-morning."—Chicago Tribune.

Pretty well rattled.—Life.

THERE are six Siamese students at Westminster College, a small institution at New Wilmington, Pa.

PLEASURE BOATS

—AND—

CANOES.

Oars, rowlocks, paddles, masts, spars, sails, blocks, cleats, anchors, etc., etc., etc.

$30 A BOAT FOR —TO— $300

THE PLEASURE BOATS OF AMERICA:

DON'T BUY ELSEWHERE until you see my catalogue for 1891; send 5 cent stamp for it.

J. H. RUSHTON, Canton, N. Y.

N. Y. CITY SALESROOM,
H. C. SQUIRES, 178 BROADWAY.

The greatest improvement in Corsets during the past twenty years is the use of Coraline in the place of horn or whalebone. It is used in all of Dr. Warner's Corsets and in no others.

The advantages of Coraline over horn or whalebone are that it does not become set like whalebone, and it is more flexible and more durable.

Dr. Warner's Coraline Corsets are made in twenty-four different styles, fitting every variety of figures—thin, medium, stout, long waists and short waists.

Sold everywhere.

WARNER BROS., Mfrs.,
New York and Chicago.

Jackson Favorite Waist

HAS STYLE

SUPPORTS BACK AND SPINE.

GIVES COMFORT AND EASE.

Adjustable shoulder straps, soft button fronts or ordinary clasps.

HYGIENIC, HEALTHFUL, BOON TO WOMEN.

FOR SALE BY ALL DEALERS, OR SENT POST PAID FOR $1.10

State size and if white or drab is desired. ALWAYS ADDRESS THE

Coronet Corset Co., JACKSON, MICH.

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

The only line running through solid Vestibuled Trains between Chicago and Philadelphia via Washington and Baltimore.

Time Card in Effect Jan. 25, 1891.

Stations— WEST-BOUND.
Sandusky......lv	......	......	am 7 30	......	......
Wheeling........	am *7 50	pm 10 45	......	am 11 05	pm ‡4 30
Zanesville.......	9 58	am 12 53	......	pm 1 50	7 12
Newark........	pm 10 40	1 37	......	2 45	8 02
Columbus.....ar	1 30	2 50	......	4 00	9 30
Columbus.....lv	am 7 20	pm 11 35	......	am 11 25	pm ‡6 50
Mansfield.......	pm 12 29	am 3 25	......	pm 6 19	10 25
Deshler.........	3 10	5 53	10 50	10 22	am 1 42
Defiance.........	3 57	6 30	11 47	11 40	2 34
Auburn jc.......	4 58	7 28	pm 1 07	am 1 02	3 33
Avilla...........	......	......	......	......	......
Milford jc.......	......	......	......	......	......
Wellsboro.......	......	......	......	......	......
Chicago.......ar	pm 9 30	11 40	6 40	5 50	8 25
Stations— EAST-BOUND.
Chicago......lv	am *10 10	pm *2 55	am †7 10	pm *10 40	pm *6 25
Wellsboro.......	......	......	......	......	......
Milford jc.......	......	......	......	......	......
Avilla...........	......	......	......	......	......
Auburn jc.......	......	7 10	pm 12 48	am 3 00	10 45
Defiance	pm 3 09	8 00	2 12	4 26	11 40
Mansfield	6 14	11 20	4 58	9 45	am ‡3 05
Columbus.....lv	*6 50	am 11 35	......	pm 11 27	......
Newark	8 07	1 00	7 05	12 40	4 50
Zanesville.......	8 47	1 44	......	1 30	5 32
Wheeling......ar	am 12 55	5 40	......	6 10	10 20
Pittsburgh....ar	......	8 25	......	9 00	pm 5 06
Washington...ar	11 50	pm 5 00	......	am 7 10	......
Baltimore.....ar	pm 12 45	5 45	......	8 30	......
Philadelphia..ar	3 22	8 10	......	11 10	......
New York.....ar	5 52	10 40	......	pm 1 40	......

*Trains run daily. †Daily except Sunday.
‡ Daily except Monday.

Sleeping and Dining Cars on all through trains. For further information call on B. & O. Ticket Agent or address L. S. ALLEN, Ass't Gen'l Pass Agent, Chicago., Ill. City Office Auburn, Ind.

C. O. SCULL, Gen'l Passenger Agent, Baltimore, Md.
J. T. ODELL, Gen. Manager Baltimore, Md.
EDW. DICKINSON, Gen. Sup't.

TIME TABLE

THE WABASH LINE

TRAINS CARRYING PASSENGERS LEAVE

AUBURN, INDIANA.

GOING EAST.

Train	Time	Days
Atlantic Express	2:38 am	Daily
Boston Express	5:45 am	Daily
Detroit Accom	2:30 pm	Ex Sun
New York Lim	8:04 pm	Daily

GOING WEST.

Train	Time	Days
Pacific Express	1:32 am	Daily
Logansport Accom	7:55 am	Daily
Mail & Express	12:38 pm	Ex Sun
Chicago & St. Louis Lim	5:12 pm	Daily
St. Louis	7:33 pm	Daily

No. 53 will only stop for Chicago passengers.

For rates, Tickets, Time Table, etc., apply to I. M. ZENT, Agent, Auburn, Ind.

T. H. SPROTT, City Ticket Agent.
CHAS. M. HAYS, Gen'l Mannager.
F. CHANDLER, Gen'l Pass and Ticket Agent

BOURKE'S HOUSEHOLD · SPECIALTIES ·

COMBINATION BRUSH, MOP AND SPONGE HOLDER

CARPET STRETCHER and GARDEN RAKE.

Nonpareil Window Cleaner, A MARVEL.

Galvanized iron, rubber adjustable to expose new surface as it wears, no glue or cement, lasts a life-time and more efficient than any cleaner made.

Sash Lock and FASTENER.
Most Durable,
Most Compact,
Most Perfect

BURGLAR PROOF FASTENER MADE.

Bourke Mfg. Co., Youngstown, O.

WANTED experienced and efficient agents to sell line of desirable household articles. Terms liberal, agents make money selling them. Samples furnished prepaid: Holder, 15c., cleaner, 10-inch 15c.; Fasteners, bronze 5c., nickel, 7c. BOURKE MFG. CO., Youngstown, O.

MOST POPULAR BUGGY ON WHEELS

SINGLE CENTER SPRING.

BUSINESS MEN'S COMPANION.

POINTS

Body always level.
Load distributed at five points on rear axle.
Gear, best grade steel throughout.
Spring, long and elastic, makes easiest riding wagon made.
Runs easy because it always tracks.
30 pounds lighter than a side bar.
Superior first-class wagon.
Made of choicest materials.
Spring and Gear guaranteed two years.

Vehicles of every style made on this Spring.

CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION. AGENTS WANTED.

Defies Competition for Rough Roads. SINGLE CENTER SPRING CO., EVANSVILLE, INDIANA.

For WEAK AND DEBILITATED MEN.

A NEW DISCOVERY! —BY— DR. ALBERT. TESTICURA EXTERNOSUM

AFTER years of experience in the leading Hospitals of the World, and as a Private Specialist in the treatment of Sexual Weakness, DR. ALBERT has finally been induced to place before the afflicted at a nominal expense, this

WONDERFUL REMEDY!

An Outward Application

TESTICURA EXTERNOSUM
For the Cure of Seminal Weakness, Impotency, Nocturnal Emissions, Varicocele, and Lack of Development.

Cure by Absorption.

TESTICURA EXTERNOSUM
Applied direct to the parts. No Nauseous Drugs that Ruin the Stomach. Guaranteed Cure, or Money Refunded.

No Nauseous Drugs.

A PERFECT RESTORATION GUARANTEED.

Sent to any part of the U. S., securely packed, free from observation, upon receipt of $2.00.

For full information, address enclosing 4 cents postage,
The ALBERT MEDICAL DISPENSARY, Cleveland, O.

THE AUBURN COURIER

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY.

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post-office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY............MAY 21, 1891.

What's Come to Stay?

Old Honesty PLUG CHEWING TOBACCO.

WHY?

Because it's the Chewer's delight
Just what he wants and will have, now that he can get it.
It's the finest in the market.
Gives a delicious and lasting CHEW.

Get a sample from your Dealer.
John Finzer & Bros.
Louisville, Ky.

Notice to Non-Residents.

State of Indiana, } ss:
DeKalb County. }

In the DeKalb circuit court May term, 1891, Ira R. Barager is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against him in said court, for divorce by Caroline Barager, and that the same will be heard and determined on the 37th juridicial day of the next term of said court, which commences May 18, 1891.

Witness, the clerk of said court, this 6th day of May, 1891.

GEO. A. BISHOP, Clerk.

JOHN W. BAXTER, Att'y.

Dynamite explosion Tuesday, Tarrytown, N. Y. Thirty men in atoms.

May 15, a foot of snow fell at Sherman, Wyoming, the highest point on the U. P. Ry.

Harrison made 140 speeches during his recent 10,000 mile trip to the Pacific and back to Washington.

Latest from the Chilian trouble, is that the Itata had gone past Acapulco, south, and the Charleston had followed.

Will our friends, the republican editors who are complaining of the state debt, tell us how it will be paid if taxes are not in some way increased?

Foster, now secretary of the treasury is asking for more time on the bonds that will soon fall due. What has become of the money Cleveland left in the treasury?

Raum, commissioner of pensions, made a new office for his son, and the latter used it to sell favors, etc. Is now turned out. No such scandals under Cleveland.

No new tin plate establishment started in DeKalb county yet. What is the matter with the McKinley bill, that it didn't start a factory here, as well as in so many, many other towns at a distance?

The crucifix used by Columbus when taking possession of points on the South American coast, is to be at the great Chicago fair. After that it becomes the property of Notre Dame University at South Bend.

If those republican papers that complain of the new assessment law, would publish such a one as they think would be better, it would be a little more sensible. Please explain as to what you would have it be.

Republican editors have all failed to answer our question, as to why sugar became cheaper when the tariff was taken off, if as they claim, the tariff is not a tax. Don't be over modest, gentlemen. Speak out.

Republican papers still complain about our state debt, that has increased so much under a republican state administration. Will they kindly state, what ought to be done and how to do it. That would be more to the point. Speak up boys, one at a time.

Gov. Boyd, democrat, elected last fall governor of Nebraska, was turned out by the state supreme court, as not being a citizen has appealed to the U. S. court, on the ground that he was a citizen of his state when it was admitted into the union.

Those who rejoiced at the election of a republican mayor in Chicago, because, as they claimed, saloons would have to shut up, will know how much to rely on republican election promises. The new mayor goes right on in licensing saloons, just as the old mayor did, only now he is not so careful as to the character of the men who get license. One of the most notorious Sunday-breakers in the city, was licensed last week, over the protests of citizens. And he now talks in a friendly way about Sunday saloons.

THE NEW CLOTHING STORE IS NOW -:READY:- FOR THE SPRING BUSINESS!

With tho largest stock of Men's Wearing Apparel ever shown in Auburn. Men's Spring Suits and Overcoats that are

Equal to Custom Made!

Prince Alberts, Sacks, Cutaways and Frocks, and every other style in all the newest shapes. In

GENTS' FURNISHINGS HATS, CAPS, Gloves, Underwear, Etc.,

Our Stock is complete. We also have a nice line of samples to select from for

CUSTOM ORDERED GARMENTS,

which, in point of fit and workmanship cannot be surpassed by any in the country. Do not fail to examine our

NEW STOCK OF STRAW HATS

that are very beautiful. We also carry a nice line of

TRUNKS AND VALISES!

THE BOSTON CLOTHING STORE.

One Price and the Truth.

AUBURN - - IND.

We wonder if the Dispatch is as ignorant as the Indianapolis Journal appears to be. It quoted last week from the Journal an article containing this gem: "There appears to be a tax of 16 cents on $100 for the school fund." So it appears that republican papers, have heard of this at last. But it was made a part of the constitution in 1850, just forty-one years ago, and they are not certain of it yet, but admit it "appears to be so." The Dispatch, we presume copied the article to make a point against the new assessment law, for it uses this "16-cent" rate to show that taxes will be about doubled. But fortunately, our average officers understand these things better than these editors. We showed last week how this part of the tax could, and no doubt would be managed, so that the amount actually paid will not be materially increased. Trustees and Commissioners already understand it, but we think a little more talk needed to enlighten these newspapers. Now, a given township needs a certain amount of money in this fund, the state tuition fund; say it needs, all told for the year, $2,000. Under the old way of assessing, the 16 cents levied by the state did not produce enough, but brought in, say $1,200. The law gives trustees the right to levy an extra rate to get the other $800, and they did it, and in the two ways, the people paid the $2,000. Under the new law, if the assessment runs about once and two-thirds as much as under the old law, no extra levy will be made by the trustee, and the people will only be called on to pay the $2,000, just what they have always paid, no more, no less. In the same way, the county commissioners, will find themselves in a condition to reduce the rates, so that with the one exception, that extra 6 cents on a hundred levied by the legislature, there need be no especial increase of tax burdens. But the better way of getting property on the assessor's books, will put our finances in so much better shape, that on ordinary taxpayers, the burdens will be lightened, not made heavier, at least after a year or so, when the new system is fully at work. We have shown in last week's Courier, that the new law is just like the old one, which these newspapers are so in love with. Let them read it, and become better posted. The great fault we have to find with the new condition of things, is not the assessment law proper, but that extra 6 cents on the state levy. We think that could have been omitted. But every republican paper last year, asked that this very thing be done. They all exclaimed against the "bad management of the democratic legislature that failed to raise the tax rate to a point that would pay off our debt," etc. But a republican paper would lose caste if it could not talk differently before election and after it.

Center of Population.

The center of population keeps moving westward. Now it is near Greensburg, Decatur county, Ind., and May 10, there was a great meeting there, for on that day, the Chicago Herald celebrated the tenth year of its existence by erecting a monument on the spot, and unveiling it on the day named. About 10,000 were present and many speeches were made. The monument is on the farm of Samuel Engle, about ten miles south of Greensburg, the geographical point being marked on the monument, 85 deg. 32 min. 53 sec., west longitude; 39 deg. 11 min. 56., north latitude. A hundred years ago, the first census, that of 1790, showed the center of population 23 miles east of Baltimore. In 1800 it was 18 miles west of that city. In 1810 it was 40 miles west of Washington, D. C. In 1820 it was 16 miles north of Woodstock, Va. In 1830, 19 miles southwest of Moorefield, West Va. In 1840, 16 miles south of Clarksburg, West Va. In 1860 20 miles south of Chillicothe, Ohio. In 1870, 48 miles east by north of Cincinnati. In 1880, 8 miles west by south of Cincinnati, and now 10 miles south of Greensburg, Ind., It has moved from 36 to 81 miles each decade.

Trial by Jury.

This sparkling opera, will be presented at the Opera House, on Friday of next week, May 29, by our talented home singers under the direction of Miss Woodhull. They have been for some time working to perfect themselves in this splendid piece and will, we feel assured give a fine entertainment. The opera is by Gilbert and Sullivan, who have won fame by their "Mikado" "Pirates of Penzance" and other operatic gems. This one is equal to their best, not only in its fine music, but in the drollery and humor of the situations introduced. Some of our best musical talent will take part, and we hope to see a turnout that night that will prove our people's good taste, and be an encouragement to the worthy and talented lady under whose teaching it is brought out. Let all make up their minds to attend.

Furniture by the Acre.

That is a peculiar way of putting it. Furniture is not usually sold by the acre. Neither do we sell it that way. We only want to impress upon you the extensive character of our establishment. So we say we have three acres of furniture to show you; one acre of floor and one acre at Terre Haute. We are the largest furniture dealers in the state. We show at each of our establishments one hundred designs in decorated crockery sets for bed rooms. We pay freight to your town if you purchase amounts to $25, and upwards. We have but one price, permit no misrepresentation of goods and guarantee every article sold.

FOSTER FURNITURE & CARPET CO.

Notice of Election.

The annual meeting of the Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Co., of DeKalb county, for the election of officers for the ensuing year, will be held at Ensley's Hall, in Auburn, on Saturday, May 30, at 10 o'clock, a. m. A full attendance of members is requested. 21-22

S. KUTZNER, Sec'y.

Remembering the Absent Ones.

This was true in a double sense, of the gathering of the L. L. C. at Dr. Ford's last Wednesday evening. Not only, did they all wish to see and talk with the Doctor himself, but to remember his daughter, Mrs. Lottie Cochran, one of their absent members, who had in turn remembered them by sending home by her father a fine fruit cake, to her old associates of the L. L. C. Each member could invite one guest, and of course had no trouble in getting her invitation accepted. They were welcomed by the Doctor with his well known hospitatity. When all were assembled, the Club's president, Mrs. Barns, called them to order. She read a most affectionate letter from Mrs. Cochran, in which, besides expressing her love for the club and its members and alluding to the gift sent by the hand of her father, she added that she had sent some seeds of the California Poppy, the beautiful "Eschscholtzia," which grows wild at Ontario in great abundance. The seeds were afterward given to each, they will be planted and will during the summer, no doubt call up many pleasant memories of the absent one. An address by Mrs. Ehlers came next. This was one of the most felicitous of all the good talks we have heard her make. She called up so gracefully, many kind memories of the absent member, in whose honor they had met, and of the Doctor's family whose hospitality and neighborly kindness, they had so often enjoyed. While her talk was cheerful, her allusions to the past were often affecting, and kept her hearers alternating between smiles and tears. The Doctor was much affected, and when called on to respond, he told his hearers, he would speak more especially of their absent sister and her present home life and surroundings, as he thought this was what they would like to hear. Proceeding, he drew a happy picture of the home at Ontario, where Mr. and Mrs. Cochran and Mary, now are. He spoke of the residence covered with roses, of the beautiful town with the finest avenue in the world, 200 feet wide and 7 miles long, with rows of trees on each side, and two rows in the middle, and the street cars running between the middle rows the entire distance, extending to the foot hills. He spoke of the fine climate, the lovely mountain views, the endless flowers, the orange and other tropical fruits, in short he gave a masterly word picture of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cochran. The ladies and guests, were greatly interested. Then followed a fine lunch, the first article being the fruit cake, Mrs. Cochran had made and sent home by him. Its excellence was not lessened by the knowledge that it was the gift of a loving heart, to the associates she held so dear. A surprise followed this, when the Doctor passed around, some fine "crystallized" figs, a delicacy few had ever seen. He had brought home a few boxes, without any particular object in view, but they were most appropriate for this occasion, which he could not have foreseen. Cake, ice cream, coffee, etc., were added, and a social hour followed. It would be impossible to mention all the enjoyable things of that evening, and the fortunate guests hardly know whom to thank most for it, the club, the Doctor or Mrs. Cochran. It was one of the most pleasant meetings the club ever held.

Their Second Recital.

Miss Woodhull's class in music gave another of their enjoyable recitals last Friday evening, at the residence of J. W. Baxter. There were a number of invited guests, who were hospitably received by Mr. and Mrs. Baxter, and who spent a most enjoyable evening. The exercises included both vocal and instrumental music, and were very fine, showing Miss Woodhull's ability and zeal as a teacher. The class members who took part, were: Edna Davis, Mary Young, Reba Houser, Mary Baxter, Jessie Boland, Master Johnny Richards and little Aileen Garwood. Mrs. Garwood, also assisted, she and Miss Woodhull giving some fine selections, vocal and instrumental. The members of the class all did well, and showed marked improvement. There was also a song by a quartet, composed of Jim. Eldridge, Jake Raut, Will Schaab and Art. Steele, which was well received. The guests thank the teacher, as well as the host and hostess for a pleasant evening.

Decoration Day in Auburn.

Decoration Day will be observed here May 30, and it will be in order for our people to begin to arrange for flowers. By taking a little pains, nearly everyone can secure at least a few, and it will all help, for they are not so very plenty at present, though we hope they will be by the 30th. All who can, should make arrangements to leave the flowers with Mrs. Green, Mrs. Gordon or Mrs. Silver the day before, so they will be cared for and be ready. At least it would be well to see these ladies about it. All children over eight and under fourteen years of age, are requested to meet at G. A. R. hall Saturday May 30 at one o'clock to take part in decorating soldiers' graves. If the weather is suitable, it is suggested that all who can should dress in white. The committee finds it impossible to see all the children and hope to reach them all by these notices.

Decoration.

The people at Cedar Chapel and vicinity, will decorate on Sunday, May 31, 1891. The speaker for the occasion, will be Rev. Mr. Frech. Committees have been appointed and all the necessary arrangements will be duly made. The services will be held in Fansler's grove, north of the cemetery, under the auspices of DeLong Post No. 67, Auburn, Ind. All are cordially invited to attend and assist in paying the tribute of respect we owe the fallen heroes, who died that we as a nation might live. By order of committee.

JOHN H. HEITZ, Chairman,
W. H. H. CORNELL, Sec'y.

Program for Decoration Day, Saturday, May 30th, at Auburn.

1. Assemble at G. A. R. Hall, at 1:30 p. m., (sun time).
2. Exercises at Eureka Opera House at 2 o'clock, sharp.
3. Vocal music by choir.
4. Reading memorial orders.
5. G. A. R. exercises.
6. Prayer by Rev. J. W. Stringfellow.
7. Music by choir.
8. Reading roll of deceased soldiers by Adj't E. L. Mason.
9. Address by Mrs. Mary Ehlers.
10. Music by choir.
11. Benediction, by Rev. A. S. Wooton.
12. Procession will march to cemetery, column forming on Cedar street, with right on Sixth street in the following order:
    a. G. A. R. drum corps.
    b. Rifle squad.
    c. G. A. R.
    d. Children of decoration corps.
    e. W. R. C.
    f. S. of V.
    g. Citizens.

The columns will march west on 6th street, to Main street; south to Defiance street; thence east to cemetery.

13. Decoration Ceremonies.
14. Procession will return left in front preceded by the G. A. R. drum corps, and disband on public square.

It is earnestly desired, that, in returning, the column shall remain unbroken until dismissed by the marshal at public square.

BY ORDER OF COMMITTEE.

Court.

Work has fairly got started, much time being necessary in "making up issues," etc. One grand juror, W. D. Miller of Butler, was excused as he and his brother C. E. have a prosperous grocery store, and the brother was sick. A. B. Richards of this city took his place. The trial jury does not begin till next week. On Tuesday, A. B. Walsworth brought in a young man named Harris, who had been working some time for his father, Wm. Walsworth. The young man had been suspected of stealing a watch from the elder Walsworth, and it became so certain, that he was called in to see the grand jury. It is likely he reside at Sheriff Plum's a short time. Houser, the man who stole Sloffer's horse, in the west part of the county, got two years at the pen. He was taken there yesterday by Mr. Plum. There has been considerable other work done, though the sessions at first only lasted till noon each day. We suppose work will go off faster when they get down to business. Uncle Jimmy Lateon is court bailiff while Jerry Plum holds the lines over the young colts, that are driven up before the grand jury.

B. & O. Excursion.

The Baltimore and Ohio railroad will sell excursion tickets to Hagerstown, Md., and return, at the rate of one first-class limited fare for the round trip, on account of the annual meeting of German Baptists, to be held at Hagerstown, Md., May 28th to June 5th, 1891. From points west of Pittsburgh, and Wheeling, these tickets will be on sale from May 20th to June 1st, inclusive, and will be good for return passage until June 30th, inclusive, with privilege of one stop off west of the above named cities and one stop off east of the above named cities, on the trip to Hagerstown, and the same privilege on the return trip. This offers a rare opportunity to visit points in Western Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia.

A Good Business Chance.

We wish to secure a representative in Auburn, Ind., for our new No. 9 High-Arm Sewing Machine, and would like to hear from anyone who desires to secure a profitable occupation or a valuable adjunct to an already established business. To a responsible party, or one who can give good security, we are prepared to make liberal terms of credit. No previous experience in sewing machines is necessary, as we spend time and money in assisting our dealers to learn the business. The world is fast learning that the new "No. 9" is the only perfect sewing machine ever made. Address WHEELER & WILSON Mfg. Co., Chicago, Ill.

The May Juries.

Those serving on the grand jury, are: Geo. E. King, Benj. Martz, A. B. Richards, John Lowe, D. W. Baker and H. C. Rohm.

TRIAL JURY.

Robt. Chambers, of Wilmington; J. H. Elson, of Fairfield; Ed. Weeks and Cal. Husselman, of Union; James Kuhlman, of Keyser; Sol. Casebeer, Stafford; Wm. Shilling, Butler; Simon Nichols, Newville; A. Z. Foote, Richland, Henry Bechtel and Chas. Voss of Grant, and Frank Carpenter, of Keyser.

A Lady's Perfect Companion.

Painless childbirth, our new book tells how any woman may become a mother without suffering any pain whatever. Also how to treat and overcome morning sickness, swelled limbs, and other evils attending pregnancy. It is reliable and highly endorsed by physicians as the wife's true private companion. Send two cent stamp for descriptive circulars and confidential letter, sent in sealed envelope. Address FRANK THOMAS & Co., Publishers, Baltimore, Maryland.

Veal Calves, Poultry and Butter.

I will pay the highest cash prices for your veal calves at all times, for I am making a specialty of shipping. Also highest cash prices paid for poultry and number one butter. Call at Crystal Palace meat market before selling.

23 B. C. ZEIGLER.

Smoking Tobacco.

Kessler Brothers wish to inform their customers and friends, that they now have a full stock of smoking tobacco, which they will from this time forth keep on hand. Don't forget the place, Kessler Bothers' fine room, in the Ben ret Building on north Main St.

Notice.

DeLong Post No. 67 G. A. R. will meet at their hall on Sunday the 24th, to attend memorial services at the Presbyterian church. All comrades are requested to come with their memorial and membership badges with them.

E. L. MASON, Adjt.

ALAS!

How wretched is the man who has fallen a victim to Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, or diseased Liver, with all the horrible attendants. Look upon the picture. Poor man, being tired of dragging out a miserable existence, he is the picture of despondency; altogether, he is rather a forlorn specimen. Do we pity him? Of course; but at the same time feel assured that in a measure he is to blame for the bad state into which he has fallen. A sure, safe, speedy and easy cure can be found in Simmons Liver Regulator—Nature's own remedy. No mercury or deleterious drugs, not unpleasant to the taste, and always reliable—just such a remedy as you can pin your faith to without a shadow of disappointment. Read the testimonial, don't take our word for it:

"I have been subject to severe spells of Congestion of the Liver, and have been in the habit of taking from 15 to 20 grains of calomel, which generally laid me up for three or four days. Lately I have been taking Simmons Liver Regulator which gave me relief, without any interruption to business." J. HUGG, Middleport, Ohio.

J. H. ZEILIN & CO.,
SOLE PROPRIETORS, PHILADELPHIA, PA.
PRICE, $1.00.

MARSHALL'S HOOF CURE

MARSHALL'S HOOF CURE

cures sand and quarter cracks, split hoofs, sore and contracted feet, corns and all hoof troubles. Stops cracking, shelling and scaling hoofs. Softens and toughens brittle hoofs. It is better than soaking with oil, meal, etc. Should be used on all horses standing on hard floors or driven on hard roads. It also cures scratches, tetter, galls of all kinds, bruises, etc.

TOLEDO, O., April 6, 1891.

I had a horse in my stables that had hoofs so brittle that it was impossible to keep a shoe on his feet. I have used one can of Marshall's Hoof Cure on his hoofs and the horse has been shod for four weeks and the shoes stay on all right. I consider it the best hoof cure I have ever used.

JOSEPH POPP, Liveryman.

THOUSANDS OF WOMEN

Become afflicted and remain so suffering untold miseries from a sense of delicacy they cannot overcome. BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR, by stimulating and arousing to healthy action all her organs,

ACTS AS A SPECIFIC.

It causes health to bloom on the cheek, and joy to reign throughout the frame. It never fails to cure.

The Best Medicine ever Made for Women.

"My wife has been under treatment of leading physicians three years, without benefit. After using three bottles of BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR she can do HER OWN COOKING, MILKING AND WASHING.

N. S. BRYAN, Henderson, Ala.

BRADFIELD REGULATOR Co., Atlanta, Ga. Sold by druggists at $1.00 per bottle.

F. E. DAVENPORT, Auburn, Ind.

McElree's Wine of Cardui

and THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT are for sale by the following merchants in Auburn by Robbins & McCord.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

By virtue of a certified copy of a decree to me directed from the Clerk of the DeKalb circuit court, in a cause wherein Lewis C. Shutt administrator of estate of Barbara Ann Wearley deceased is plaintiff, and William L. Wearley is defendant requiring me to make the sum of Two hundred and twenty dollars, with interest on said decree and costs, I will expose at public sale, to the highest bidder, on Saturday, June 6, 1891.

between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m., of said day, at the door of the court house in Auburn DeKalb county, Indiana, the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years, of the following real estate, to wit:

Commencing at the southeast corner of the northwest quarter of section thirty-four (34), in township thirty-three (33) north, of range fourteen (14) east, thence west forty (40) rods, thence north easterly to the northeast corner of said quarter and thence south to the place of beginning, situated in DeKalb County State of Indiana.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said decree, interest and costs, I will at the same time and place expose to public sale the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said decree, interest and costs. Said sale will be made without any relief whatever from valuation or appraisement laws.

PHIL. PLUM,
Sheriff of DeKalb county, Indiana.

Auburn, May 11, 1891.

DON A. GARWOOD, Att'y for plaintiff.

IRA BRANDON,

Dealer in

GROCERIES AND PROVISIONS.

A complete line of

STAPLE ....AND.... FANCY GROCERIES

Constantly on hand.

Goods are always fresh.

Cash or Trade ....FOR.... Butter, Eggs, and Lard.

Call and see me.

North Main Street,
Opposite Woolen Mills.

ROOT & COMPANY,

FORT WAYNE, : : : : INDIANA.

THE GRAND CARPETS

We are now showing our citizens without doub without a parallel in the carpet trade of Ft. Wayne.

THE GREAT QUANTITIES

Overlapping the stock of two or three departments.

THE SUPERIOR PATTERNS

That makes everyone who enter the department say at once, "Here's the carpets we want."

The Grand Good Qualities.

We don't let any poor ones of any grade enter.

The great masses of the people want

A GOOD INGRAIN CARPET.

We want you to examine the two

EXTRA HEAVY WEIGHTS

Placed upon the market this season. Exact copies of the finest Brussels,

Do You Want a LOWELL?

Here is the place to see the assortment of choice patterns.

Beautiful Moquettes, Soft velvets, Axminsters, Body and Tapestry Brussels.

Choice China Mattings.

China mattings are cheaper and styles much prettier.

MAIL ORDERS recive careful Attention.

THE NEW YORK STORE.

NEW GOODS!

That are Very Desirable and Cheap.

BOYS' WAISTS,
20c, 25c, 29c, 50c.

Children' Blouses,
50c, 75c, $1.00.

BLACK SILK MITTS,
15c, 20c, 25c, 35c, 50c.

Ladies' Jersey Vests,
10c, 19c, 25c, 35c.

CHILDREN'S SUMMER UNDERWEAR,
All Sizes—Short and Long Sleeves.

Men's Summer Flannel Shirts,
35c, 48c, 50c, 75c.

OUR NEW CORSET, "MARGUERITA"
Splendid 50c, Corset.

Wash Dress Goods,
Pretty Line, Variety Unexcelled

OUR MILLINERY DEP'T

Is Full of Pretty, New Goods.

HARTER

East of Court House, Auburn.

I. O. BUCHTEL,
Homœopathic
Physician and Surgeon.

Special attention given to chronic and obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.

Office and residence over Smith & Madden's marble works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, night or day.

Dr. James Adams,

VETERINARY SURGEON.

Will treat all Diseases of Domestic Animals. He has had THIRTY YEARS successful PRACTICE. Call on him at his residence No. 34, North Main street, or at ROBBINS & McCORD'S Drug Store.

Dr. David N. Fitch,

VETERINARY SURGEON
and DENTIST,

Has located in Auburn, and will give his entire attention to the treatment of all DISEASES of DOMESTIC ANIMALS. Is a graduate in Veterinary Surgery and Dentistry, from the CHICAGO VETERINARY COLLEGE.

Office at the PALACE FEED BARN on West 9th St.

----AUBURN WOOLEN MILLS----
........DOES........

All kinds of CUSTOM WORK, such as Carding, Spinning, Etc.

.=====ALSO=====.

MANUFACTURE for the TRADE, Yarns Flannels, Skirtings, Blankets and Wool Bats.

These goods are absolutely PURE and warranted to give SATISFACTION to the Consumer.

—ENSLEY & FORKNER, Proprietors.—
Call at FACTORY North End of Main street
AUBURN, IND.

YOUNG MEN,

THE CHURCH OF GOD

Extends a cordial invitation to all who are not already attending some school, to come to our

SABBATH SCHOOL,

and spend an hour each SUNDAY, from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m., in the study of the BIBLE. You will find the church at corner of 10th and Jackson streets.

L. B. FRETZ, Supt.

LOCAL NEWS.

See Davenport's new wall paper.

Schwarz sells clothing the cheapest.

ORGAN FOR SALE: A nice large one of the Story & Camp make, as good as new. Call at this office.

H. J. Mossey still keeps his stock of groceries, provisions, etc., up to the standard of competition and low prices. Farmers find him one of the men to deal with.

MILES' NERVE & LIVER PILLS. Act on a new principle—regulating the liver, stomach and bowels through the nerves. A new discovery. Dr. Miles' Pills speedily cure biliousness, bad taste, torpid liver, piles, constipation. Unequaled for men, women, and children. Smallest, mildest, surest! 30 doses, 25 cts. Samples free at F. E. Davenport's.

McELREE'S WINE OF CARDUI for Weak Nerves.

Casebeer & Matheny for wall paper and paper and paints. 19tf

The largest line of wall paper in the city will be found at City Book Store.

Malarial fevers and effects quickly give way to Simmons Liver Regulator.

If you want strictly pure mixed paints call at Casebeer & Matheny's drugstore.

PIANOS & ORGANS on easy terms. Address, Davis & Husselman, Waterloo, Ind.

Dr. S. B. Johnson, dentist, will be in his office at Waterloo on Thursday of each week.

To cure constipation, sick headache and dyspepsia Simmons Liver Regulator has no equal.

Unfailing in effects, always reliable pure and harmless, is Simmons Liver Regulator.

See our advt of Marshall's famous Hoof Cure, believed to be the best remedy known. Sold by Casebeer & Matheny at Physidians' drugstore.

So much complaint is made about the cotton-like blooms flying from the silver maples, or poplars, on the public square, that it is likely the commissioners will be asked to have them removed.

Ira Brandon, the hustling grocer at the North Side, has added a new feature to his business. He will hereafter have fresh fish on sale Friday and Saturday of each week. Those wishing to invest their money in the finny tribe, will find his prices and goods up to the standard. 20tf

Thomas C. Day & Co. of Indianapolis, have established a branch office at Waterloo for DeKalb and Steuben counties. Parties desiring to borrow money either on farm or town property, at a low rate of interest, and easy terms, will receive full information by addressing J. F. Shuman, Waterloo, Ind. 21

English Spavin Liniment removes all hard, soft, or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavin, curbs, splints, sweeny, ring-bone, stifles, all swollen throats, coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle, warranted. The most wonderful blemish cure known. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Indiana. tf

RHEUMATISM CURED IN A DAY.—"Mystic Cure" for rheumatism and neuralgia radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immdiately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. 75 cents. Sold by Robbins & McCord, druggists, Auburn.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

We notice that Chester Hodge has invested in a very fine Jersey bull. This bull is registered in the A. J. C. C. records, his number is 24,111. He is of the fawn color, and is out of a cow that made 21 pounds of butter a week. He is but 2 years old and a perfect beauty. He will be kept at the Greenhurst farm just north of Auburn. Anyone wishing to breed to a Jersey will not find anything better in the state. tf

Try BLACK-DRAUGHT tea for Dyspepsia.

Remember the cheap goods at Hoff's new location.

Trial by Jury, Friday evening, May 29, at Opera House.

Mrs. D. Carruth and daughter Elsie, spent Thursday last in Ft. Wayne.

A good house on Jackson street for rent. Inquire of W. H. McIntyre.

For a mild tonic, gentle laxative and invigorant take Simmons Liver Regulator.

Hoff has a new stock of goods just opened up. Groceries new and fresh. See him.

Mrs. Mary Dickinson has begun work on the addition to her residence on West Seventh street.

"Broken Java" in glass jars for 25c at Brandon's. Examine them at once, while the stock is yet flush.

For sale or rent a good, new house, just completed. Inquire of Mrs. Sophie Baird, near Presbyterian church.

Mrs. Cook Ford and daughter Maggie, spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Lewis, at Hicksville.

Call on Miss Myers next to Rainier's for the latest and nicest goods. Children's hats a special line just received.

Do you know that you can get the genuine hand made lemonade at Cora Shugers'? Well, you can and it's good too. 20tf

Remember the Reading Room when you are in the city. It is a pleasant place to spend a few hours in culture and recreation.

Mr. Faulkner went to Ft. Wayne last Friday in the interest of the Woolen Mill, which we are pleased to learn is prospering.

Frank Davenport and Minnie Zimmerman spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Lamport at Kendallville. They left them all well.

W. H. McIntyre has two very desirable residences for sale, to some responsible parties on the installment plan, at from $8 to $12 per month. See him and stop paying rent. 20tf

Harris company of comedians in this screaming four act farce, A Tattoo Mark at the Opera House, three nights, coming Thursday, May 21. Admission 15, 25 and 35 cents.

Frank Hoff for cheap ten-cent counter. He has a big lot of goods damaged by the fire, that will be sold in this way for a trifle. Call at the new room west of Ed. Baker's on Eight street.

J. H. Weaver, of the north end has built an addition to his already spacious residence. His improvement on this line indicates very strongly that he is succeeding as a citizen of the town.

The milk shake season has just opened up. Cora Shugers is better prepared than ever to deal out lunch, cigars, tobacco, lemonade, ginger ales, pop beers, and milk shake than ever. Remember his place on West Seventh St. 20tf

Mrs. May Dills attended commencement exercises at the Angola Normal School last week. A nephew was one of the graduating class. The exercises were highly interesting. Over 300 students were in attendance during the past year.

LOST: On Sunday, May 17, going south from the Rakestraw school house to Holmes Link's, or going from Holmes Link's to the Junction, a Persian shawl. Finder will confer a great favor by leaving it at this office, or sending word. 3

Our friend L. J. Gengler of Garrett, was here Tuesday, accompanied by Geo. Arnold, the newly elected clerk of that town. We were pleased to make his acquaintance, and find him an intelligent gentleman, and one who will do credit to the town.

When a man wishes to indulge in a smoke, he wants something that is fragrant and lasting, Kessler Bros., an putting a line of cigars on the market, which are coming up to the standard of a first-class quality of goods. When you smoke be sure and get the Kessler cigar.

A prominent merchant says "I have sold Megrimine for over a year and guaranteed it to cure any headache without after effects, and have not found a single case it did not relieve." Sold by Robbins & McCord in Auburn. Sample free. The Dr. Whitehall Megrimine Co., South Bend, Ind.

Among our friends who called this week, we were pleased to meet Mrs. Sharritt, of Bethany, W. Va, formerly Miss Emma Yarlet, of Wilmington township. She and her husband are students at the Bethany College. She was accompanied by her sister Mrs. Freeman, who resides in Wilmington township.

The Greenhurst farm affords one of best registered Poland China boars now in the state. He is brought here for the purpose of improving the swine. His breeding cannot be excelled. Anyone wishing to use this fine fellow will find him at the Greenhurst farm just north of Auburn. He is owned by Chester Hodge. tf

Our old friend D. B. Olinger was here last Thursday, and called to chat awhile. He is still feeling the effects of the grip, and was also somewhat banged up, by a too lively yearling colt he had had a tussle with the day before. But he is still lively. He brought old Mr. Cupp to town with him that day, the latter having also been sick for some time, but now better.

A letter from Hon. E. W. Davis of Laporte, dated at Muskegon, Mich., announces the death of his father Caleb B. Davis at Elbridge, Oceana county, May 13, at over 82. He was one of the most widely known of the early pioneers of Laporte county, in which he resided from 1833 to 1879. Many readers of the COURIER in the northwest part of this state will remember him and learn of his death with regret.

GREEN MOUNTAIN SALVE: Is unequalled as a cure for all rheumatic pains, weakness in the side, back or any other place, and is unexcelled for cuts, bruises, corns, etc. It is the uncompromising enemy of pain in whatever form, or wherever manifested, and has never been known to fail in a contest with this dreaded foe of human happiness. If you would live a peaceful and painless life, try this great remedy and you will never regret it.

The Dispatch is evidently afraid of breaking down under its many burdens. It is in a worse fix than St. Paul, who had so many cares" besides that which cometh on me daily, the care of all the churches." The Dispatch is managing (in its mind) the town board, the county board, and the state, but is evidently afraid to venture to assume the management of the nation, at least it has not mentioned the work of the last republican congress that appropriated over five hundred millions a year, or a republican administration that in two years has changed a fifty million surplus into a monthly deficit of a million and a half. Well, we think it proper to stop somewhere, and no doubt the Dispatch found this point a good stopping place. We can see no other good reason for stopping just where it does.

BLACK-DRAUGHT tea cures Constipation.

City Book Store has wall paper.

Smoking tobacco at Kessler Bros'.

Nicest hats for children at Miss Myers'.

Buy your clothing of Schwarz and save money. 21

A new line of wall paper at 10 cents a roll at City Book Store.

All designs of latest style wall paper at Casebeer & Matheny's. 19tf

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Stamets are the happy parents of a fine boy baby.

Pains in the region of the kidneys are cured by Simmons Liver Regulator.

All new styles of wall paper at Casebeer & Matheny's. No shoddy goods.

Highest market price paid for tub-washed wool at Auburn Woolen Mills. tf

Mrs. G. W. Craig has been up at Pleasant Lake, for a visit, returning on Tuesday.

General Blair, of Waterloo, was here Friday. Getting cases ready for court, we suppose.

Geo. McEnterffer of Waterloo, is working on the new residence of his sister, Mrs. Dickinson, is putting up here.

Hon. Nick. Ensley was home from Indianapolis over Sunday. He reports Mrs. Ensley and all the family well.

The chuck'ty, chick, chuck at the woolen mills, can be plainly heard at the north side. They're doing business up there.

Choice music, quaint humor, and numberless good laughs at the "Trial by Jury." Opera House, May 29. Don't you forget it.

A Tattoo Mark Co. at the Opera House 3 nights, coming Thursday May 21, in a repertoire of popular plays. Admission 15, 25 and 35c.

Gilbert Rhodenbaugh, formerly of this place, who recently died at his home in Allen county, leaves all his property to Mrs. R. who is executrix.

WOOL! WOOL!! WOOL!!! We will pay the highest market price for WOOL. It will be to your interest to see us before you sell. Schaab & Bro. 19tf

Our young friend Samuel Pepple started southward again to-day. He expects to go again to the City of Mexico although he may stop in the States. We wish him prosperity anyway.

Inventors who wish to obtain patents or wish to sell rights in patents should address, Chas McClellan, Solicitor of Claims, 612 F. St. N. W. Washington, D. C.

Cal. VanAuken surveyed the lots of the Benedict and Murphy ground, southeast of the court house Tuesday in order to locate correctly the old M. E. church building.

Megrimine cures any headache in 30 minutes. Sold by Robbins & McCord druggists in Auburn. Samples free. The Dr. Whitehall Megrimine Co., South Bend, Ind.

Dr. O. F. Rudolph of Corunna, was in town Monday. He has changed his residence from Fairfield Center, for convenience and to accommodate the widening field of his practice.

LOST, Monday, somewhere on the road between Auburn and Waterloo, a day book containing money. The finder will receive $5 by leaving at this office or returning to George McEnterffer, at Waterloo.

I. M. Zent and wife started for St. Louis, Monday evening, where they expect to remain for some time, at least till his health improves. Mr. Parsell, from the Junction, will take his place till he returns.

J. J. Evans, of Riverside, California, cut his throat and died on the street in Chicago, last week. His father, Cary Evans, is well known here, and at Ft. Wayne, their former home. Deceased was quite wealthy, but was insane.

Albert Houghton has erected a fine cottage residence on south Jackson street, and the beautiful colors in which he had E. C. Foltz paint it, indicates very distinctly his peculiarly good taste in matters of building and the selection of colors.

Say farmers, if you want some of the best machinery manufactured, you should go to Ed. Weeks, south of the jail. He handles the Champion reapers and mowers, also some of the best grades of small implements. Give him a call and examine his terms. 19tf

The old M. E. church building is at located at its final stopping place, on the second lot east side going south on Cedar street after passing the public square. It was somewhat racked by the long journey, but is still a solid building being of the old heavy frame style The base board all around the outside is of black walnut, and its great age makes it very fine colored and rich.

Supt. Knisely of Whitley county, sends out a neat program for the opening of the Permanent Exhibit, connected with his office in the court house at Columbia City. This event takes place, on on Saturday, of this week, and will no doubt be very interesting. We lately had the pleasure of looking over a part of the exhibit, which shows well for Mr. Knisely's energy and liberality.

A SPECIAL BARGAIN:—I will be enabled to offer for a short time, a line of fine, white-backed papers, very best quality, for 15 cents per roll. This is a special thing, and will only be open to those who take advantage of the opportunity, and come while the supply lasts. The patterns are just the thing for kitchen and hall papers. Don't miss this opportunity. 18t3

DAVENPORT, The Druggist.

Our old friend B. B. Dearborn was up to see us Tuesday. He is still hopeful that he can save the sight of his remaining eye, and will have it operated on as soon as it reaches the proper stage. He and his wife have had similar misfortune, each has had trouble with the eyes, each has lost one while being treated. Mrs. Dearborn has saved one eye in good shape, and we sincerely hope he may be as fortunate. They have made for both, nine trips to Ann Arbor.

H. C. Shull was to have gone to Cincinnati, this week, as a delegate from the Alliance of this county, to the national meeting held there. But at the last hours it was found he could not go, as his little boy was quite sick with some severe case, like spinal fever. So he got Will Francis, of Waterloo, to go in his stead. It was quite a disappointment to Mr. Shull, as it would have enabled him to visit again the old Normal School at Lebanon, north of Cincinnati, where he used to attend.

Bird Dickinson formerly of Waterloo, now located at Oscoda, Mich., was married to Miss Carrie McDougall, last Wednesday evening. They will go to housekeeping at Oscoda, which is a town on Lake Huron, just north of the City of Port Huron. Mr. Dickinson is a jeweler by trade, and will follow that business. His wife is a typesetter, having been employed several years in the Dispatch office, at this place. Both are worthy young people, and we predict for them a happy and successful married life.

WINE OF CARDUI, a Tonic for Women.

A Tattoo Mark.

Nice rain yesterday.

H. C. Shull's boy is much better.

Miss Myers has new goods just arrived.

Remember Decoration Day, Saturday, May 30.

The band practices several evenings, each week now.

County S. S. convention at St. Joe June 9th and 10th.

Theater at Opera House, last three nights of this week.

City Book Store has a fine line of all grades of wall paper.

Mrs. Eugene Trout has been quite ill, but is some better now.

A new line of wall paper just received at Casebeer & Matheny's. 19tf

Dr. Fruth will be here again Tuesday, May 26, at the Swineford House.

Ex-Trustee T. S. Merica of Garrett, was in the city Monday on business.

If your blood is impure regulate your liver with Simmons liver Regulator.

Dr. M. W. Johnston is improving rapidly under Dr. Swarts' watchful care.

Megrimine, the new cure for headache and neuralgia, at Robbins & McCord's.

A store is going into the vacant Draggoo room south of the court house, we are told.

Read our notice of the annual election of the DeKalb county Mutual Fire Insurance Co.

Preaching at the Lutheran church, St. Marks, on Sunday next, both morning and evening.

G. D. McGowan sheared two one-year old Shropshires this week, one clipping 10 and one 11 pounds.

Mrs. Sprow, of Sherwood, Ohio, is here visiting the family of Frank Powers. Mrs. Powers is her daughter.

J. W. Rickel, who has been over at Rochester, attending court is back home now, in time for the session here.

Vic. Hendry, of Angola, was here yesterday. He says they have sold 160,000 feet of logs to our band sawmill recently.

Wanted! Wanted!! Wanted!!! at the Auburn Woolen Mills, all the wool we can get. Highest market price, don't forget it. 19tf

Memorial services will be at the Presbyterian church next Sunday at 10:30 a. m., Rev. Geo. Wade Healy conducting the services.

Authorities are trying some plan to improve the sewerage in the west and southwest parts of town. Too much sickness over there.

Very dusty Tuesday, because the sprinkling wagon could not get to the tank. The old church stood across the street. All right yesterday.

One of our prominent gentlemen has been sued for breach of promise. Trial by Jury, at the Opera House May 29. All come and hear the trial.

P. J. Lockwood come up from Washington this week. Though he had not seen all the friends there for some weeks, he thinks all are prospering.

The Y. M. C. of the Lutheran church will give an ice cream social in the court yard Friday eve May 22. Mite 10 cents. All cordially invited.

The ladies of the Lutheran church will give a dinner on Old Settlers' Day, June 20th. Those who attend are kindly requested to bear this in mind.

Mrs. M. B. Willis was last week able to attend the meeting of the L. L. C., at Dr. Ford's, the first time she has attended in some months. We hope her improvement will be permanent.

Schnell & Weeks are still south of the jail with as fine a line of groceries, provisions, etc., as can be found in the city. They are great favorites with the "reciprocity" plan, that is, you will always get value received for every dollar spent for goods in their establishment.

Have you tried South American Nervine—the gem of the century? The great cure for indigestion, dyspepsia and nervousness. Warranted the most wonderful stomach and nerve cure ever known. Trial bottles 15 cents. Sold by Robbins & McCord, druggists, Auburn.

We were shown this week some beautiful specimens of those fine crystals known as "Hot Springs diamonds," by Mr. A. R. Cobb, who recently returned from there. They are singularly brilliant and small as ordinary garnets. They are found in the sand and gravel, and are quite common down there.

We received this week an announcement of the marriage at her parents' home in Minneapolis, of Maud Best, second daughter of Judge James I. Best, to Mr. Geo. Wm. Stricker. They were married May 4. The bride and her people have many warm friends in this section, who will wish her and her husband abundant happiness.

Old Settlers' Annual Meeting will be held in Auburn June 20th, this year. All please bear this in mind. W. L. Blair, Butler, is president, D. Z. Hoffman, Auburn, is secretary, and J. E. Rose, Auburn, is historian. All deaths, etc., of old settlers should be carefully reported to Mr. Rose, so he can have a full and correct list for the past year.

The town council at its Monday meeting discussed a variety of subjects among them, the sidewalk down into Stamets' Addition. There was a difference of opinion as to which side of the Wabash tracks, and they will take a look at the ground. Dr. Matheny spoke in favor of fixing the salary of members now, and favored making it so much a session, but no action was taken. They also will see what can be done as to getting crushed stone, and better gravel for streets.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to extend our sincere thanks to the many friends and neighbors, who rendered us so much needed assistance during the last sickness and burial of our little boy, Lyston. May you receive your reward in the great eternal day, when the world shall be rewarded for the deeds it has done.

MR. and MRS. A. H. SMITH,
Auburn Junction.

Unclaimed Letters.

Unclaimed letters remaining in the postoffice at Auburn, Ind., for the week ending May 15, 1891. Mrs. Ellen Reed, Mrs. Lu Russel, Timothy Clowne, E. L. Conklin, Willard Thomas.

Claimants will please call for letters in advertised list.

GEO. W. GORDON, P. M.

Notice to Farmers.

That a fine Yorkshire boar is now owned by Frank Stamets one-half mile south of Auburn. This hog is white and very fine. Registered No. 94 of the Espyville, Yorkshire Herd. Call at the premises. 21-23

McElree's WINE OF CARDUI for female diseases.

Theater to-night.

Schwarz is the best clothier. 21

Mrs. Frank Hogue remains about as before, no better.

Just received 1000 rolls of new wall paper at the City Book Store. tf

Gilt papers at 18 cents a roll, borders to match at City Book Store.

A house to rent. Inquire of James McClellan, East Seventh street.

A Tattoo Mark Co., at the Opera House 3 nights, commencing Thursday, 21.

Remember the ice cream social on the puplic square to-morrow, Friday evening.

Lawyers, doctors, musical people, and the rest, should hear the Trial by Jury. It is very enjoyable.

They have lately been filling a big order for adjustable stove backs, at the Eagle Iron Works, at the Junction.

W. P. Myers, former principal of our schools was here yesterday. He is looking well and reports all well at home in Kendallville.

Kiblinger is giving his residence a new coat of paint. With its other improvements it will be one of the very nicest in town.

Miss Myers has a bright new stock of goods including the neatest line of children's hats. Just lovely, and so cheap! Call and see.

Joseph Ashley is putting up another dwelling house, on the west end of the lot where Mr. Harter lives, and just in the cluster of large apple trees.

Miss Ada Myers has completed the facilities in her millinery department by securing the services of Miss Edith Metler, of Centreville, Mich., who will do trimming in all latest styles.

The familiar face of Judge McClellan is seen about the court room again and he is in full work on cases that are being tried. He always has his full share of cases especially the difficult ones.

A. H. Smith, who lives at the Junction, had the misfortune to lose his little son last Wednesday. It was buried Friday in Woodlawn cemetery. We extend our sympathy to the bereaved parents.

Ex-Auditor C. C. Walter was in town last Thursday. He is devoting his entire attention to farming now, and is working with his old time vigor. It don't spoil him for hard work to hold an office a few years.

The C. L. S. C. will meet next Saturday afternoon with Mrs. Penfield. Program, Walks and talks, Mrs. Plum; Classic French course in English, Miss Ramsey; England's possessions in Africa, Mrs. Henry.

The L. L. C. will meet this week with Mrs. Josie Brown. Lesson from page 162 to 167. Leader Mrs. Hodge; Business openings for women, Mrs. McCord; Conversazione, Literary men of America, The club.

The new bake oven on John Leasure's lot is completed. It took about 17,000 bricks; more than anyone would guess. The building proper, will soon go up, and Frank Hoff, we believe goes right forward with his Nettie Willis went up to Waterloo Friday evening to attend a reception given that evening by F. W. Willis and wife, in honor of the coming graduation of their two sons, Clyde and Raymond, who are Nettie's cousins.

The Tattoo Mark Comedy Co., at Eureka Hall, Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings of this week, May 21, 22 and 23. It is said to be one of the livest companies on the road, and we believe will have good audiences, especially as we have had no entertainments for some time.

Ice Cream Social.

The Y. M. C. of the Lutheran church will give an ice cream social on the court house lawn, Friday eve. Mite 10 cents. All invited.

Please Call and Settle.

Frank Hoff respectfully asks all who owe him on account, to call and settle as soon as they can, as the fire compelled him to buy new goods, and to put up an expensive new building, and he will need every cent coming to him.

Commencement Exercises.

The common school commencement exercises will be held at the following times and places. Concord, Fairfield, and Richland have not yet determined upon their dates: Grant, June 4, Norris Chapel; Jackson, June 11, Grove Bethel; Franklin, June 12, Memorial Chapel; Smithfield, June 13, Barker's Chapel.

The high schools will have their commencements: Butler, May 26; Garrett, 28; Waterloo, 27 and 28; Auburn, June 5.

Shaffer & Berg.

If you want a good farm wagon call on this reliable firm in Auburn. Everything is made on honor, and only of the best material. Everyone who has used their wagons knows this and will testify to the excellent quality of their work. They have now twenty-four of these fine wagons all completed and ready to deliver, so you can be suited and get your wagon at once, without waiting. Their prices are reasonable. Custom work a specialty. Repairing done neatly and promptly. Call on them on South Main Street, Auburn.

NEW GOODS.

ALL WOOL

PLAIN AND PLAID

Serges, Henriettas, Cashmeres, Domet and Zephyr Flannels, Criterion Ginghams, Calicos, Muslins, Tickings, Towelings, Table Linens,

WHITE
—and—
BLACK

Goods, Ribbons, Buttons, Handkerchiefs, Hosiery, Gloves Underwear, Silk Umbrellas.

Call and See
New Goods.
MRS. M. JONES & SON.

If you want to save
Time and Money
GO TO
Cowan Sisters,
where you will find
A Numberless Variety
........OF........
HATS, TRIMMED.
No WAITING to Get Work Done.
Our store is full of
New Summer Goods
With prices surprisingly low. Call and see them.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A CHOICE SELECTION OF INTERESTING ITEMS.

Comments and Criticisms Based Upon the Happenings of the Day—Historical and News Notes.

HE who chooses to be led will never redeem the mortgage on his will power.

THE fellows who are waiting for the office to seek the man are getting awfully tired.

AN Indian industrial school similar to the one at Carlisle, Pa., is to be established at Mount Pleasant, Mich.

AN immense dam is being built in New Mexico to collect water to irrigate several million acres of arid land.

THERE is nothing absolutely good or absolutely bad in this world. To look at everything in a gloomy light is silly; in a roseate hue is a delusion.

SAMUEL P. JONES, the Georgio evangelist, declares in a letter to a Texas friend that his health has failed, and he is on the verge of physical collapse.

A MELBOURNE photographer, it is stated, has contrived a plan which enables him to make excellent pictures of objects as far distant as sixteen miles.

AT Tecumseh, Kan., boys or girls under sixteen years of age found on the streets after 9 o'clock are arrested, unless accompanied by a parent or a guardian.

THERE is a class of people in Japan who hire the poor to beg clothes from the charity associations, and, dyeing them, sell them at higher rates for new clothes.

FOR all the practical purposes, there is nothing in the world more useless than a young man in love, unless it be a young woman in the same predicament.

SO SEVERE is the climate of South America upon iron that before railroad ties, have shown signs of decay the flanges of the rails will be nearly eaten off by rust.

WHILE striving to inflate a toy balloon, with a whistle at the end, Charles Snyder, of Pittsburgh, Pa., drew the whistle into his throat, where it lodged, choking him to death.

MEMBERS of the British Parliament receive no pay. In Germany the legislators receive about $2.50 a day; in France and Austria, $5 a day; in Belgium, $85 a month; in Portugal, $335 a year.

WE can never sustain permantly that which we do not hold in respect, and only when the value and dignity of the affections are fully realized can their culture maintain the place which it really deserves.

IN the mountains of Northern California there is a belt of red snow about fifty feet wide and a mile or more in length. The belt is not all red, but a mixture of red and white, presenting a mottled appearance.

LIVE for something. Do good, and leave behind you a monument of virtue that the storms of time can never destroy. Write your name in kindness, in love, and in mercy on the hearts of the thousands you come in contact with year by year.

THE timber on our railroads amounted to 516,000,000 ties, or an average of 2,694 per mile of railroad, in use in this country in 1889; 310 ties per mile, or a total of 60,000,000, were annually required for renewals, and 13,000,000 for new construction.

A YOUNG man in Batavia, N. Y., will go over Niagara Falls in a rubber ball if the public will contribute $100,000. He will then take the money and build twenty meeting houses for poor congregations, and if no preachers can be had he will fill the pulpits himself.

THE evils of cigarette smoking are said to be chiefly due to the fact that cigarettes are cheap, convenient, and are used in large and excessive quantities, that the smoke is usually inhaled, and that children and immature persons so freely use them.

JOHN MCSHANE, of Cincinnati, broke his leg, and the doctor who set it was in a hurry and got the heel in front for a change. John sued for malpractice, and a jury has given him a verdict of $10. It's a pretty cold day when a doctor gets left for more than that sum.

SOME Japanese real estate boomers went out and founded a farm and advertised, as a leading feature, "a great avenue, fifteen feet wide, running the length of the town." This extravagant waste of land was reported to the government, and the boomers were ordered to simmer down or go to prison.

THERE is a tract of forest trees in Southern Oregon, embracing about 16,000 square miles, which, if cut and sold at $10 per thousand feet, would pay our national debt twice over. It is estimated that the amount of merchantable timber standing amounts to 400,000,000,000 feet.

AMATEUR writers may take courage in the fact that no new and popular writer has had the least help from the magazines. Conway, Kipling and half a dozen more were sat down upon hard and their matter refused by the very publishers who afterward paid them the most.

SAYS a Philadelphia surgeon: "Unless a dog be suffering from hydrophobia his bite is easily cured, but the bite of a cat at any time is a serious matter and will cause death sooner than a wound inflicted by any other animal. A cat's claws also inflict wounds which may result very seriously."

IN several cases of late Naigara Falls hackmen have not only been beaten out of their fares, but have suffered bodily injuries besides and they declare that the general public has become so "sassy" that they must ask for protection from the authorities. This will make lots of men grin with delight.

DR. JOHN EGE, of Reading, in Pennsylvania, who has of late been experimenting with skin grafting between white and black persons, has found that the transferred skin does not maintain its original color, but gradually assumes that of the man of whom it has become part and parcel.

MR. FAYE read a paper before the recent meeting of the Academie des Sciences in which he maintained that the most precise of later geodetic and pendulum measurements of the earth's shape prove it to be an ellipsoid of revolution, thereby confirming the well-known theory of Laplace as to the formation of the globe.

THE King of Siam celebrated the 148th anniversary of one of his elephants the other day, and the animal was as coltish as some of the herd only 15 years old. This is the oldest elephant with any authentic record of his age, and the only signs of decay appear in his ears. He can't flop them quite so briskly as of yore.

AN Ohio man who was in Pittsburgh looked like a noted crook, acted in a suspicious manner and could not tell a straight story when arrested. Even before a jury he made his case so bad that he got five years in prison. It has taken two years to prove that he was entirely innocent and to get him pardoned and it will be a lesson to him to learn how to talk straight.

THE highest velocity that has been imparted to shot is given as 1,656 feet per second, being equal to a mile in 3.2 seconds. The velocity of the earth at the equator, due to rotation on its axis, is 1,000 miles per hour, or a mile in 3.6 seconds; and thus, if a cannon-ball were fired due west, and could maintain its initial velocity, it would beat the sun in its apparent journey around the earth.

DANIEL DOUGHERTY, in his descriptions of the oratorical style of well-known members of Parliament, pictures Timothy M. Healy, anti-Parnellite, in this way. Dougerty throws back his coat-tails, thrusts his hands deep into his pockets, and, assuming the accent and manner of the wild Hibernian, exclaims: "Where did yez git the land? Where, I ax yez, did yez git it? Yez stoled it!"

A MYSTERIOUS individual of Blount County, Ala., has been seized with the strange hallucination that he has been commissioned by the Deity to slay as many of his neighbors' cows as possible. He goes about at night, striking the cows in the throat with a sharp instrument, leaving them to die without further molestation other than a small black cross on their foreheads. The farmers have made many efforts to catch him, but so far all attempts have proved fruitless.

To "OVERCOME evil with good" expresses a deep and true philosophy we do not always fathom when we repeat the words. The enthusiasm which lifts a man out of himself, which makes him forget for a time his own petty affairs, and fills for a time his mind with other thoughts and his heart with other affections, hopes, and desires, is a good which by its mere presence will overcome much evil. Among the many means of lifting and helping others there are few so effective as this.

LORD TENNYSON is well known for his apprehension of being mobbed, and many stories are circulated in regard to this monomania. One in an English paper says that Lord Tennyson was taking a country walk with a friend when a fellow creature was espied in the distance. "We must turn back," said the poet, "that fellow means to waylay us." His companion persuaded him, however, to continue on their path. They caught up to the enemy and passed him. He took no notice of them whatever. "What an extraordinary thing," cried the irate poet, "the fellow seems to have no idea who I am!"

FURTHER excavations at Winchester England, have brought to light the massive foundations of the palace of the Norman kings. One fragment of the wall is 18 feet long and 4 feet thick Worked up with it are fragments of Roman tiles, and further traces of Roman occupation are presumed to exist deeper in the ground. According to the maps of Norman Winchester, the king's kitchen and four forges, with the residence of the Master of the Horse, stood upon the site of the excavations, so that the walls lately uncovered no doubt formed portions of the palace where public business was transacted, and where public treasure was stored.

Companionship Healthful.

There is a wise old German saying that "Only a god or a brute can dwell in solitude." Men and women need congenial companionship, both for the sake of health and happiness. Just as your lungs, after using up all the oxygen in a close room, need to be filled with fresh, out-of-door air, so your mind needs contact with other minds to get new ideas. There is such a thing as mental as well as physical hunger. Herders on the large cattle ranches of the West frequently become mad from the isolotion they are forced to endure. Women on lonely farms and in small villages grow morbid and mildly insane, and people do not guess that the cause is want of companionship.

It is for this reason that a woman's work at home is always more trying than that of her husband, who goes to his office, sees new faces, and has the friction that is produced by meeting other people. Even the farmer has more intercourse with his neighbors at the market, or at the village grocery, than his wife, who may not see any one outside of her own family for weeks. It is a great mistake for young married people to isolate themselves. Even if their tastes lead them to a quiet life, they should make it a point to cultivate a few agreeable friends.—Exchange.

A SOAP BUBBLE BURST.

TRICK OF A PROTECTIONIST PAPER EXPOSED.

The Chicago High Tariff Organ Tries to Prove the Tariff Is Not a Tax—Pears' Soap Sold as an Advertisement—A Liberal Offer Not Accepted—A Tariff Editor in a Hole.

The protectionist organs are hard pressed to prove that the tariff is not a tax. One would suppose that the fall of two cents a pound on sugar the very day when the duty was removed would silence them forever. But the old song still goes on, "The tariff is not a tax."

These organs even try to get what they call proofs that the consumer does not pay the tariff tax. The proofs they print are extremely ridiculous, and they are often tripped up on the spot. The Chicago Inter Ocean has recently suffered this fate.

Everybody knows that large retail dry-goods stores often sell some article far below cost in order to advertise their business and attract custom. The tariff editor of the Inter Ocean not long ago found some merchant doing this with Pears' soap, and instantly he uncorked his ink-bottle and wrote a paragraph to show how the foreigner pays the tax. This paragraph made a choice pin-hook bait with which to delude the ignorant, and it was extensively copied into the protection organs of the country.

In the meantime this morsel came to the notice of Messrs. Gaunt & Janvier, of New York, who handle every pound of Pears' soap imported into the United States. At once they sent the following letter to the Inter Ocean:

Chicago Inter Ocean, Chicago, Ill.:

DEAR SIRS—Our attention has been called to a cutting from your editorial of March 31, in which you say that "Pears' soap, English made, and sold in England at 12 cents per cake, pays 20 per cent. duty for admission to the American market, and is sold there regularly at 10 cents and occasionally at 5 cents. Hence, 'the tariff duty has not added to the price.'"

So intelligent a paper as yours will surely want to be put right on several misstatements made in the above. The soap is not sold in England at 12 cents a cake, but generally from 7 to 8 cents. The soap does not pay 20 per cent. duty for admission, but 15 cents per pound specific. It is not sold regularly in the American market at 10 cents.

You evidently have assumed that the marked retail price, 6d., is the price at which the unscented soap is sold in London. It is cut there as well as here to near cost price. We sell to jobbers here at precisely the English price plus duty and shipping charges. See price list inclosed.

We have yet to find importers who do not add to their imported goods the actual duty which they pay the United States government, and which, of course, the people have to pay back to the importer.

The net price of the unscented soap in London is about 78 cents United States money; one dozen soap weighs 2¼ pounds, and upon this the United States government assesses 15 cents per pound, or 33¾ cents. This is added to the cost of the soap, and in addition there is also added the cost of the United States consul fees in London, and the cost of clearance from the custom house in landing here. These, together with the freight, make $1.16, at which price we sell to jobbers.

We have known Pears' soap to be sold in Chicago at 2 cents per cake, or 48 cents per dozen, for which the purchaser paid us in New York $1.16 per dozen, he himself paying the freight to Chicago; he therefore sold the goods at much less than half the cost to him, and he seemed to think this was good advertising.

It seems to us that you have taken an unfortunate example to illustrate your argument. The tariff is unquestionably a tax, and is just as surely added to the cost of the goods as the freight is added to the beef in New York when brought from Chicago, or grain from Chicago, or oranges which are brought from California.

You must know that the selling price of an article at a certain point is based, first upon the selling price at the place of production or manufacture, plus transportation and other charges.

People, of course, may sell a certain article for less than cost, but that the great bulk of business is not done in this way goes without saying. We are, gentlemen, respectfully yours, GAUNT & JANVIER.

The Inter Ocean's tariff man replied to this letter as follows:

Messrs. Gaunt & Janvier, 365-367 Canal street, New York;

GENTLEMEN—Your favor of date 6th of April has been referred to me. The firm mentioned by the Inter Ocean as selling Pears' soap at 5 cents a cake assures me that it did not sell at a loss; that it does not buy from Pears' New York agency; that it purchases surplus lots of all sorts of goods, Pears' soap included, at nominal rates. Tariff very seldom, very seldom, indeed, is added to cost. The Welsh tin-plate makers, who have given assurance of their willingness to supply American dealers with plates at old rates under an increased duty, will enlighten you on this point. Respectfully, JOHN W. TINDALL, Tariff Editor.

Mr. Gaunt replied to the above in the following "put-up-or-shut-up" style:

Mr. John W. Tindall, Tariff Editor Chicago Inter Ocean, Chicago, Ill.:

DEAR SIR—I am in receipt of your letter addressed to Gaunt & Janvier. In our private letter I called your attention to the fact that the three statements which you made in regard to Pears' soap were not true, and that the inferences you drew are false. In your letter of April 10 you evade the issue, but I assume that you have been imposed upon.

You say that the firm sells Pears' soap at 5 cents per cake, and that it did not sell at a loss.

Now, I will buy twenty-five thousand dollars' ($25,000) worth at 6 cents per cake; this will then afford the firm $5,000 profit.

Further, when this purchase is made, I will give such an order for advertising to the Inter Ocean as shall make it worth while to have started the discussion.

If the source of information upon which you make your assertion that the "Tariff very seldom, very seldom, indeed, is added to the cost," be as inaccurate as the source of information about Pears' soap, it is without the pale of discussion, and it is hardly worth while to go to Wales until we have settled the present. Respectfully,

JAMES GAUNT,
Of the firm of Gaunt & Janiver.

No answer has been made to Mr. Gaunt's liberal offer; and it can safely be assumed that the Inter Ocean man "feels like a fool." Meantime the country press of the protectionist persuasion go on repeating his fib as a part of protection's gospel. A lie travels with "seven-league boots."

President vs. Tariff-Maker.

When President Harrison was in the Pacific States he made allusion in nearly all his speeches to the Nicaragua canal. He thought it would prove of great advantage to those States by facilitating trade with States lying on the Atlantic.

If the protective theory is sound, ought not the President, on the other hand, to have offered his sympathies to the people on the Pacific? The completion of the canal will "flood" California and neighboring States with cheap Eastern goods. Wages are very much lower in the manufacturing States of the East than in the far West. So great is the difference, in fact, that the Pacific people might well call our goods "pauper-made."

Now there is nothing which so paralyzes the protectionist soul as the fear of the "cheap pauper-made goods of Europe." Nothing, to his mind, threatens such dire ruin to this country, and his patriotism demands a high McKinley wall to shut out these goods, or, at any rate, to make them dear.

The building of the Nicaragua canal will make all kinds of Eastern manufactures vastly cheaper on the Pacific slope. Yet, strange to say, the President waxed eloquent over the canal, and the Pacific audiences applauded warmly. If protection is true, how can the people of the far West bear to think of cloth, iron manufactures, steel rails, window glass, etc., coming in at the Golden Gate at prices far lower than they have ever known? Will it not "ruin" California? Will it not make the people there "cheap men?"

As if all this were not enough, the President even spoke eloquently about extending our foreign trade. Here is one of his sentences: "I believe we have come to a time when we should choose whether we will continue to be non-participants in the commerce of the world, or will now vigorously, with the push and energy which our people have shown in other lines of enterprise, claim our share of the world's commerce."

Now, this is diametrically opposed to McKinleyism. In his speech a year ago on his tariff bill, McKinley said:

"If our trade and commerce are increasing and profitable within our own borders, what advantage can come from passing by confessedly the best market, that we may reach the poorest by distant seas? In the foreign market the profit is divided between our own citizen and the foreigner, while with the trade and commerce among ourselves the profit is kept in our own family and increases our national wealth, and promotes the welfare of the individual citizen."

Let protectionists decide which is right, President or tariff maker.

"Serves Mexico's Interests."

Is not this too bad? A dispatch from the City of Mexico announces that since we have abolished the duty on sugar Mexico has begun to export sugar to this country. "During the present year," the dispatch goes on, "there will be a large increase in area devoted to agriculture, and especially by sugar planters, who are everywhere prosperous. The trade of the country is increasing daily."

Whenever anybody in this country talks about reducing duties, the McKinleyites instantly pop up on all sides and shout that he "serves foreign interests," that he is working against the interests of his native land, and charges are made that he has in his pockets Cobden Club gold. These McKinleyites hunt up all the news they can find and print it in their papers showing how McKinley's high duties on foreign-made goods have closed up factories in Europe and thrown thousands of workmen out of employment. Thereupon they smile very broadly, rub their hands in glee, and exclaim, "Europe's loss is our gain."

But where we remove a duty, as we have just done with the sugar tax, and the removal of it brings renewed prosperity to other nations, must it not inevitably follow, upon the protectionists' argument, that we have done a very bad day's work for our own country? If "Europe's loss is our gain," it must be true that Mexico's gain is our loss. But are our people suffering a loss? On the contrary, they are buying their sugar two cents per pound cheaper than before the removal of the duty. Who concerns himself that Mexico is helped? Let Mexico enjoy to the full every advantage that our vast free-sugar market gives it; no man except a protectionist, not even the veriest ignoramus in the world, could suppose that we have given Mexico that advantage at our own expense.

Trade, like charity, blesses him that gives and him that takes. Trade must be beneficial to both buyer and seller, or trade ceases—a principle constantly and persistently ignored by the whole school of McKinleyites. Therefore we can say to the Mexicans, "Dump your pauper-made sugar upon our markets as rapidly and in as great quantities as possible; the more the better. The cheaper sugar is the better for our people, and we don't begrudge your 'paupers' the pennies which they earn in producing it."

Harrison's Unsuspecting Happiness.—Chicago Times.

Tin-Plate Lying.

McKinley's high duty on tin-plate goes into effect July 1, and the importers have been bringing in enormous quantities of plate in order to save the extra duty.

How imports have grown may be seen from the following table:

IN THE LAST TWO YEARS.

	1889.	1890.
Tin plates, terne plates, and taggers' tin imported in the calendar year, pounds......	742,135,688	737,735,029
Average quantity per month..................	61,844,640	61,477,919

FIRST THREE MONTHS OF 1890 AND 1891.

	1890.	1891.
Imports in January......	54,809,779	80,782,064
Imports in February.....	54,055,297	66,764,466
Imports in March........	48,609,428	101,174,507
Three months........	157,474,504	218,721,037

The figures for April, May and June will be still more remarkable. The increase from forty-eight million pounds in March, 1890, to 101 million in March, 1891, shows how tin plate with a tax of 1 cent per per pound is preferred in the market above plate taxed 2 2-10 cents. If the foreigner pays this tax, is there any reason why our tin plate dealers should be in such a hurry to fill their warehouses?

This inrush of tin plate from England shows clearly where the large stocks now in our markets come from. Yet the lying New York Tribune has the brazenness to make the following remarks in commenting upon the reports that the Welch tin plate mills are to shut down on July 1 for one month:

"Why, the McKinley bill was going to raise the price of tin plate! Don't you remember the free trade tears that were shed over the 'little tin pail of the laborer?' And now to learn that the American market in six months' time has been so far filled by American tin plate as to compel the Welch trust to shut down to prevent a glut of the market. This is sad for the free trader."

The only evidence that American tin plate is filling the market is found in the shape of tin plate bills of fare at protectionist banquets, and sheets of tin hung in the windows of protectionist newspapers. In no American city has American made tin plate been offered for sale in "commercial quantities."

Selling Farm Implements.

The New York Press rejoices thus in the increased exports of our agricultural implements:

"United States Treasury reports do not lie. The one just issued dealing with our exports and imports shows that whereas in March, 1890, we sold American agricultural implements, to other nations to the value of $387,255. In March, 1891, we sold these implements abroad to the value of $621,721. This does not look as though the McKinley tariff was checking our exports."

No; but it looks as though our manufacturers of farm implements, with a protection of 45 per cent., were succeeding pretty well in enlarging their foreign market by their method of making special discounts in that market below home prices. Why then do they need protection at home?

The Reciprocity Principle.

Our imports of coffee from Venezuela during the fiscal year 1890 reached a value of $9,662,207, making her the most formidable competitor of Brazil, from whom we purchased $45,664,127 worth. Negotiations are now going on to form a reciprocity arrangement with the United States, and it is said there is among the Venezuelans a wholesome fear of having the duty imposed upon coffee at the beginning of next year if no agreement is made in the meantime.

According to the terms of McKinley reciprocity, it is made the duty of the President next January to put a duty of three cents a pound on coffee coming from countries which by that time have not given us a reciprocity arrangement satisfactory to him.

This is the "reciprocity principle. "We tax ourselves to punish the people who will not buy from us!

The Price of Beef.

The wholesale price of beef in Chicago has advanced about 33⅓ per cent. within the last month. The cause of the advance is said to be the scarcity not only of good cattle but a general scarcity of all grades and the advance in price of corn.

So far as known, not even the blindest protection journal has been so idiotic as to claim that this rise is due to McKinley's doubling the duty. He changed the duty from one cent per pound to two cents. The Treasury reports do not mention any beef among the imports into this country. But they show that last year we exported more than $35,000,000 worth of live cattle and beef.

McKinley's beef duty was only made to fool the farmers.

New Hampshire's Woods.

It is a hopeful sign that New Hampshire seems to be recognizing the commercial value of her mountain forests, and the movement in favor of establishing a permanent forestry commission, with a view to the preservation of the natural beauties of Crawford, Dixville, Franconia and other mountain notches, is one which ought to succeed. The judiciary committee of the House has before it several bills relating to forest preservation, and it is not improbable that important legislation may be the outcome. To strip the mountains of New Hampshire of their timber is to seriously affect the water supply on which so many manufacturing industries depend and to destroy the attractiveness of New Hampshire scenery for summer tourists.—Boston Traveller.

Mr. Sloane Objected.

The venerable and dignified Samuel Sloane, of the Delaware, Lackawana & Western Railroad, was recently called up by an imperative ring on his telephone, addressed by a reporter at the other end of the line as "Sammy" and requested to give up what information he had about a certain foot-ball game. Mr. Sloane remarked that his name wasn't "Sammy" and he had no information about a foot-ball game or a dog fight either, and would the other fellow kindly take himself away. A few words of explanation sufficed to show that the reported was after a sporting man of the same name and had called up the wrong number.—New York World.

ONE of the strong objections to the tariff system as a means to raise revenues is the enormous expense of collection. A Philadelphia paper reports that the customs receipts at that city now amount to less than $270,000 a month, and that the expense of running the Custom House averages $100,000 a month. It is said that under the old sugar duty the Government paid not far from $160,000 a year for weighing sugar alone at the three ports of New York, Philadelphia and Boston. Is there not a less expensive way to get revenues?

A SMALL box filled with lime and placed on a shelf in the pantry or closet will absorb damp and keep the air dry and sweet.

MISS-FORTUNES come to some men when they get married, and they don't mind it a bit.

TRADE MARK.
DUTCH JELLY
NONE GENUINE WITHOUT CREST AND SIGNATURE
K. van Arnheim
KEEP THE LID ON THE POT

If you want a beautiful complexion and a perfect skin, use Dutch Jelly. No tans freckles, moth patches, pimples, black heads or wrinkles. No coarse, rough, greasy, chafed or chapped face and hands. Dutch Jelly is absolutely pure, being a vegetable compound and void of all mineral properties; contains no grease or oil, and after its application the most delicate fabric can be handled without soiling. Gentlemen use it after shaving. For eczema Dutch Jelly is a positive cure. For ulcers pimples, itching and all eruptive skin diseases, Dutch Jelly is simply invaluable and permanently effective. For cuts, bruises, sun burn, insect bites Dutch Jelly is supreme and is absolutely odorless. Dutch Jelly is not a cosmetic, but rather a skin tonic and has the highest medical endorsement. One trial will convince the most skeptical that it will keep the roughest skin in the smoothest and whitest condition. Ask your druggist, or send 50 cents in Stamps or Postal Note for Sample Jar. Address

Dutch Jelly Co.,
50-52 Michigan Ave.,
CHICAGO, ILL.

SANGOLE
ACTUALLY
PRODUCES FLESH
AND CURES
CONSUMPTION
IN INCIPIENCY.
PALATABLE, DIGESTIBLE,
NUTRITIOUS.
IMPARTS LIFE AND VIGOR TO EVERY FIBRE.
SPECIMEN TESTIMONIAL.

Gentlemen:— WHEELING, Feb. 10, 1891.
Early last fall I contracted a severe cold, which settled on my lungs. I coughed dreadfully and lost flesh rapidly until advised to try Sangole, which I did with the most gratifying result.
After taking three bottles my cough ceased and I found that I had gained six pounds in weight. I most heartily recommend it to sufferers of loss of flesh from any cause. Respectfully,
LIZZIE G. CAMPBELL.

Recommended and sold by all Druggists.
Post paid to any address on receipt of $1.00
Silver Guarantee Remedy Co.,
WHEELING, W. VA.

The D&C
TO MACKINAC
SUMMER TOURS
PALACE STEAMERS. LOW RATES.
Four Trips per Week Between
DETROIT, MACKINAC ISLAND
Petoskey, The Soo, Marquette, and Lake Huron Ports.
Every Evening Between
DETROIT AND CLEVELAND
Sunday Trips during June, July, August and September Only.
OUR ILLUSTRATED PAMPHLETS,
Rates and Excursion Tickets will be furnished by your Ticket Agent, or Address
A. A. SCHANTZ, Ass't G. P. A., DETROIT, MICH.,
THE DETROIT & CLEVELAND STEAM NAV. CO

FARMS IN CENTRAL MICHIGAN
are positively first rate as proven by both State and United States agricultural preports. In yield and value of crops per acre, they excell Southern Michigan, Indiana and Illinois. We offer for sale at low prices and on easy terms 20,000 acres of good unimproved farming lands in Isabella County, the center county of the lower peninsular of Michigan. Write for descriptive pamphlet and sample price list.
C. M. C. Cook, Mt. Pleasant, Mich.

Page CYCLE
SPRING FORK.
EASIEST RIDING
WHEEL - ON - EARTH.
HAS WITHOUT EXCEPTION THE
FINEST SPRING IN AMERICA.
Rides as gently over obstructions as a carriage and is in every sense of the word a perfect cycle
BUILT FINEST DESIGN. FINEST STEEL. FINEST FINISH. FINEST BALL BEARINGS.
Do not buy without getting our Catalogue or seeing this wheel.
PAGE STEEL WHEEL CO., TOLEDO, OHIO.

Manny
Lemon Juice Extractor
BEST AND MOST ECONOMICAL.
ORDINARY Lemon Squeezers act upon lemon from outside, inducing a bitter oil and crushing living creatures which appear on skin as dark scales.
THE "MANNY" Lemon Juice Extractor operates on pulp within, and gives clear pure juice free from insects, oil or seeds.
IF your dealer cannot supply you send 30 CENTS postal note or stamps for a sample post paid.
Manny Lemon Juice Extractor Co.,
202 COLUMBIA ST., ROCKFORD, ILL.
WE WANT GOOD AGENTS.

DON'T WASTE MONEY
BUYING THE WRONG WAIST.
BUY THE "HAUT-TON" WAIST.
HAUT TON WAIST.
PAT. MARCH 18 1890
IT meets the popular demand for hygienic garments. Made of fine satteen in white, drab, ecru, old gold, and fast black, well stayed with cords; has no steels except in front and back, with clasp or button fronts.
Is so soft and pliable, yet produces a perfect figure.
A Perfect Waist.
Canvassers Wanted. Send for Catalogue.
Waist sent post paid on receipt $1.15
Bortree Mfg. Co., Jackson, Mich.

The Rock Island "Jewett Hay Rake and Loader."
NO FARMER CAN AFFORD TO BE WITHOUT ONE.
TAKES the hay as left by mower, rakes it CLEAN and will deliver a ton onto wagon every fifteen minutes.
Will certainly save its cost in one year, and under some circumstances in one day.
Light Draft. Fully Guaranteed.
Send for full description and testimonials.
Rock Island Plow Co.
ROCK ISLAND, ILL.
(Mention this paper).

The Electric Capsule
is a pleasant laxative and sure cure for general debility, billousness, torpid liver, malaria, sleeplessness, loss of appetite, melancholy, costiveness, nervousness and pains in the back. It positively cures that lassitude and weariness, and want of appetite experienced by so many. Are you fatigued? The most recently discovered wonderful remedy for
LOST VITALITY.
25 Cents per box.
Address ELECTRIC CAPSULE CO.
Post Office Box 3349, N. Y.
FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

ORANGE BLOSSOM
A POSITIVE CURE FOR
ALL FEMALE DISEASES.
SOME SYMPTOMS: A tired, languid feeling, low spirited and despondent, with no apparent cause. Indigestion, headache, backache, bearing down pains, pain across lower part of bowels, with great soreness in region of ovaries. Tumors, Bladder difficulty, Frequent urination, Leucorrhœa, Constipation of bowels, piles. With all these symptoms patient nervous and irritable. THE ORANGE BLOSSOM TREATMENT removes all these by a thorough process of absorption.
A LOCAL APPLICATION Perfectly harmless, which every lady can use, herself. Medicines taken internally will never relieve the many forms of female weakness. The remedy must be applied to the parts to obtain permanent relief.
A PLAIN TALK TO LADIES in our circular. Ask your druggist for one, or send two cent stamp to home office for sample box and circular.
EVERY LADY CAN TREAT HERSELF.
O. B. Pile Remedy. $1.00 FOR ONE MONTH'S TREATMENT. O. B. Stomach Powders.
O. B. Catarrh Cure. —PREPARED BY— O. B. Kidney Cones.
J. A. McGILL, M. D., & CO., 2 & 4 PANORAMA PLACE, CHICAGO, ILL.
FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
ALONZO G. FISHER, Wholesale Agent, 87 Washington St., Chicago, Ill.

THE WABASH LINE.
H-andsome equipment,
E-legant day coaches, and
W-agner palace sleeping cars
A-re in daily service
B-etween the city of St. Louis
A-nd New York and Boston.
S-pacious reclining chair cars
H-ave no equal
L-ike those run by the
I-ncomparable and only Wabash.
N-ew trains and fast time
E-very day in the year.
From East to West the sun's bright ray,
Smiles on the line that leads the way.

MAGNIFICENT VESTIBULE EXPRESS TRAINS, running free reclining chair cars and palace sleepers to St. Louis, Kansas City, and Council Bluffs. The direct route to all points in Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Texas, Indian Territory, Arkansas, Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, Washington, Montana, and California. For rates, routes, maps, etc., apply to any ticket agent or address F. CHANDLER,
Gen. Pass. and Ticket Agent,
St. Louis, Mo.

A LADY who allowed a dude and a poodle to take supper with her, said they were "purpy-two-at-tea."—Newman Independent.

IT is said that Sullivan made some good hits on the stage.

St. Jacobs Oil
A SURE CURE — A PROMPT CURE
CURES PERMANENTLY
Rheumatism
SCIATICA
Back-Aches
all Aches
NEURALGIA.
IT HAS NO EQUAL.
IT IS THE BEST.

All The Year
whether for spring weakness, summer faintness,
autumn illness, or winter sickness,
Take Only that medicine which has stood the test of years, viz.,
AYER'S
Sarsaparilla
Cures others, will cure you.

SHILOH'S
CONSUMPTION
CURE.

The success of this Great Cough Cure is without a parallel in the history of medicine. All druggists are authorized to sell it on a positive guarantee, a test that no other cure can successfully stand. That it may become known, the Proprietors, at an enormous expense, are placing a Sample Bottle Free into every home in the United States and Canada. If you have a Cough, Sore Throat, or Bronchitis, use it, for it will cure you. If your child has the Croup, or Whooping Cough, use it promptly, and relief is sure. If you dread that insidious disease Consumption, use it. Ask your Druggist for SHILOH'S CURE, Price 10 cts., 50 cts. and $1.00. If your Lungs are sore or Back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster, Price 25 cts.

PURIFY YOUR BLOOD.

But do not use the dangerous alkaline and mercurial preparations which destroy your nervous system and ruin the digestive power of the stomach. The vegetable kingdom gives us the best and safest remedial agents. Dr. Sherman devoted the greater part of his life to the discovery of this reliable and safe remedy, and all its ingredients are vegetable. He gave it the name of a name every one can remember, and to the present day nothing has been discovered that is so beneficial for the BLOOD, for the LIVER, for the KIDNEYS and for the STOMACH. This remedy is now so well and favorably known by all who have used it that arguments as to its merits are useless, and if others who require a corrective to the system would but give it a trial the health of this country would be vastly improved. Remember the name—PRICKLY ASH BITTERS. Ask your druggist for it.

Prickly Ash Bitters!

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS CO.,
ST. LOUIS. MO.

Dyspepsia is the bane of the present generation. It is for its cure and its attendants, sick headache, constipation and piles, that have become so famous. They act gently on the digestive organs, giving them tone and vigor without griping or nausea. 25c.
Tutt's Pills

EVERYBODY wants our goods. Send stamp for illustrated catalogue, or dime for sample. Agents wanted. FURNALD & Co., New Haven, Conn.

The Soap
that Cleans
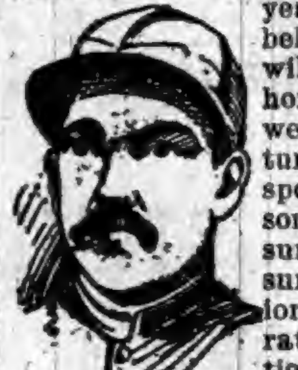
Most
is Lenox.

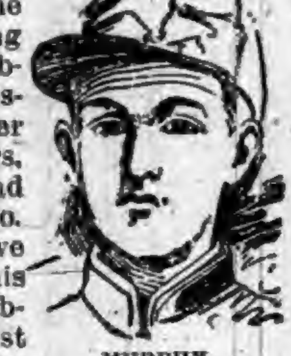
STARS OF THE TURF.

LEADING JOCKEYS AND THEIR EMPLOYERS.



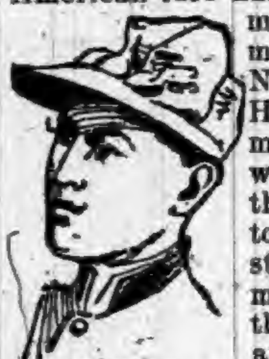
M'LAUGHLIN.

"There is nothing in the great middle-class or the second class to beat this year, and, therefore, I believe that the season will be one of short horses." So spoke a well-known New York turfman to your correspondent. "The season," he added, "will surely be one of many surprises." This opinion, the result of a rather close observation in the matter of winter form, is concurred in by not a few shrewd turfmen. The element of uncertainty in the outlook is added to by the probable action of the association in the concern of clearing the turf of many objectionable and dishonest men; together with their trainers, their jockeys, and their horses, too. Such owners as have been classed in this category will be subjected to the closest scrutiny and at the first slip they will be expelled forever from all tracks.



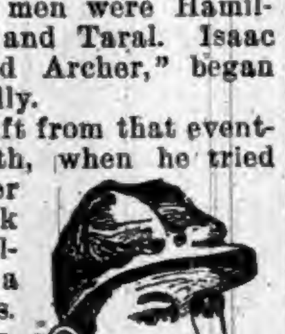
MURPHY.

Since the close of racing in 1890 the American turf has lost many of its best, most honorable and most wealthy patrons. No more will we have Hearst, Jerome, Belmont, and some others whose connection with the track was an honor to it. The sales of big stables have been commonplace events during the winter just past, and we have grown as accustomed to notable turf properties being brought to the auction block as we are to the annual sales of yearlings. All these shiftings and changes will be felt, and sincerely, in the practical racing, and will only tend to increase uncertainty already spoken of.



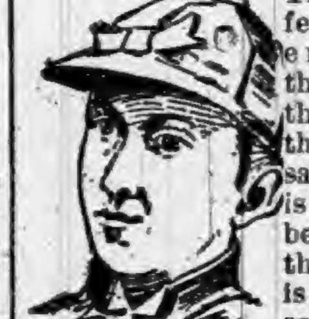
BARNES.

Not less is this true of the jockeys than the owners and the horses. Last year there were a dozen famous jockeys in the saddle. Of that dozen but half will be seen on the big tracks in 1891. Last year the leading men were Hamilton, Taylor, Bergen and Taral. Isaac Murphy, "the colored Archer," began well, but fell off rapidly.



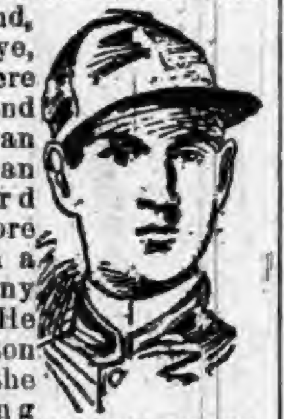
GARRISON.

His decline was swift from that eventful day at Monmouth, when he tried to ride Firenzi after drinking several milk punches that were calculated to confuse a harder head than his. Reports from Lexington, where Murphy has been staying, say that he is ill from the effects of those punches yet. He may be restored to the privileges of the turf again this year, but it is not probable that he will enjoy as much of the public confidence as he did in the days, not many years ago, when people used to say: "We will back Murphy's mount, for we know that he is honest." It may be that Murphy was drugged that day, as he claims, and that an injustice was done him. His friends claim so, and they will make an effort to have him reinstated.



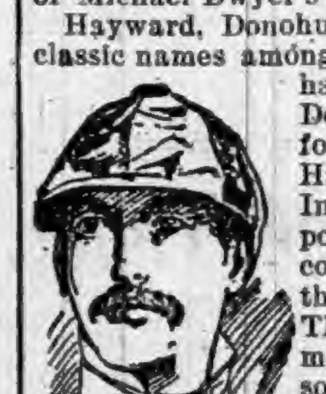
TARAL.

Bergen proved the star of last season. He made some money and he saved it. That is the reason he feels independent enough to proclaim that he will not ride this year at all; but there are those who say he will. When he is finally listed he will be the first choice of the Haggin stable. He is not more than 22, and is as fractious as many of the thoroughbreds he strides. Starters execrate him, and he has turned up a peck of trouble more than once. For all that his performance on Salvator against time, his work in pulling out Loantaka from the ruck and other notable feats of his stamp him as a jockey of the fore front rank and order.



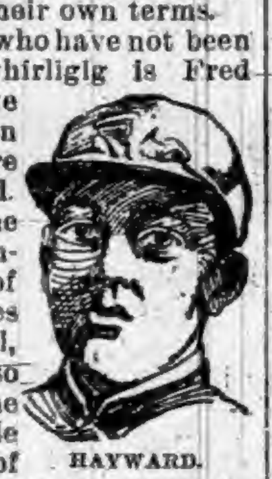
"MARTY" BERGEN.

It has often been said that Hamilton would mount a sawhorse if he were ordered to do so; and, farthermore, mark ye, he would be somewhere near the judges' stand when the race was at an end. This young man has had more hard knocks, has ridden more horses and has shown a better average than any jockey of late years. He is a graduate of Brighton Beach and was once the ideal of the "selling platers." He takes kindly to animals that are out of ambition and can give Fitzpatrick one or two points on a finish. Hamilton was the first jockey for the Belmont people last season and this year he wears the colors of Michael Dwyer's stable.



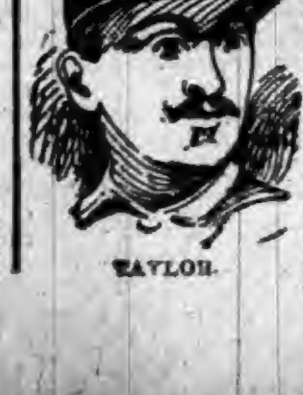
DONOHUE.

Hayward, Donohue, and Shauer are classic names among jockeys, but they have refused to retire. Donohue is more than forty years old and Hayward is close up. Indeed, as the turf reporters say, you can cover the three of them with a blanket. These are the foremost men for the season. Behind them is a crop of perhaps a hundred youngsters. From these will surely develop a few who at the beginning of next year can dictate their own terms.



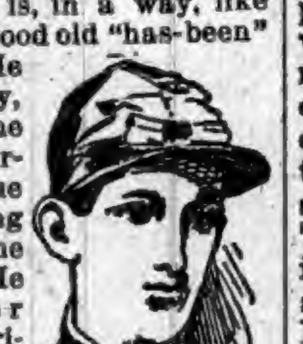
HAYWARD.

Another of the stars who have not been thrown out by the whirligig is Fred Taral. Few riders have a better reputation than he, and his services are in constant demand. Taral used to ride in the West years ago, and enjoyed the confidence of Western men as he does East. He is a careful, painstaking man, not so brilliant as some of the others, but he is reliable and gets the most out of a valuable horse without injuring the animal. His finishes are strong and well judged. His services have been retained by Walcott & Campbell, and it is reported he will get $12,000 for riding that firm's horses.



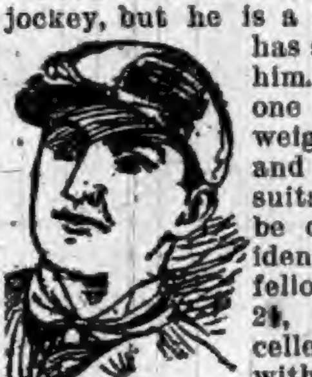
TAYLOR.

It is not because of any symptoms of senility that Jockey Taylor is called "Old George Taylor." It is purely a term of affection, for Taylor is really a man of splendid disposition. He is not more than thirty and has demonstrated that as a jockey he has tried and sterling merit. Taylor's first lessons were learned on the winter tracks, but he outgrew that soon and was with Pierre Lorrillard last year. This season he will handle the reins for the "Rancocos" stables. Taylor's best spirit appears and his brightest work has been done in long-distance races. He is skillful in the handling of horses and he is a splendid judge of thoroughbreds.



LITTLEFIELD.

"Snapper" Garrison is, in a way, like the horse Barnum, a good old "has-been" of the days gone by. He has lost his popularity, and what is worse he has acquired an overplus of adipose tissue that might be fitting anywhere except on the bones of a jockey. He will ride in welter weight events. Garrison bought a good string of horses for himself, but he will not make much money out of his investment. "Jimmy" McLaughlin has retired as often as Patti, but he now announces that he will do his farewell act this season. He will have some work to do for Phil Dwyer, and if he can manage to keep his weight without fatality, he will be Mr. Dwyer's leading rider.



SHAUER.

Fred Littlefield is not exactly a star jockey, but he is a masterly rider and has some future before him. He is considered one of the best light weight men on the turf, and in handicaps with suitable weights he can be careless as to the identity of the other fellows. He is a boy of 24, modest, and of excellent habits. He was with the Morris interest last season, and has remained for this. With him may be classed "Pike" Barnes. In 1889 Barnes had the record for winning mounts. He is a skillful finisher, and is a rarely keen judge of the possibilities that are in a horse. Last season he was with the Santa Anita stables, and will ride under the same colors this season.

A HOME-MADE VOLCANO.

A Very Clever Trick that Illustrates the Eruption of a Mountain of Fire.

An easy, cunning trick, forsooth! Instructive besides for our little ones, who learn in school of the eruptions of the volcanoes and have no idea what they look like.

A tolerably good-sized glass vessel is needed and a little mound of plaster of paris, but this mound must be left open in the rear. (See sectional cut.) Into this hollow space is placed a small bottle of claret, and a fine vertical hole is bored through the center of the cork.

The vessel is then filled two-thirds with water. It will not be long before a red stream shoots on high from the top of the mountain. By stirring the water a little before admitting the spectators to view the diminutive explosion the stream of red will also move about, thus increasing the illusion of a volcanic eruption.

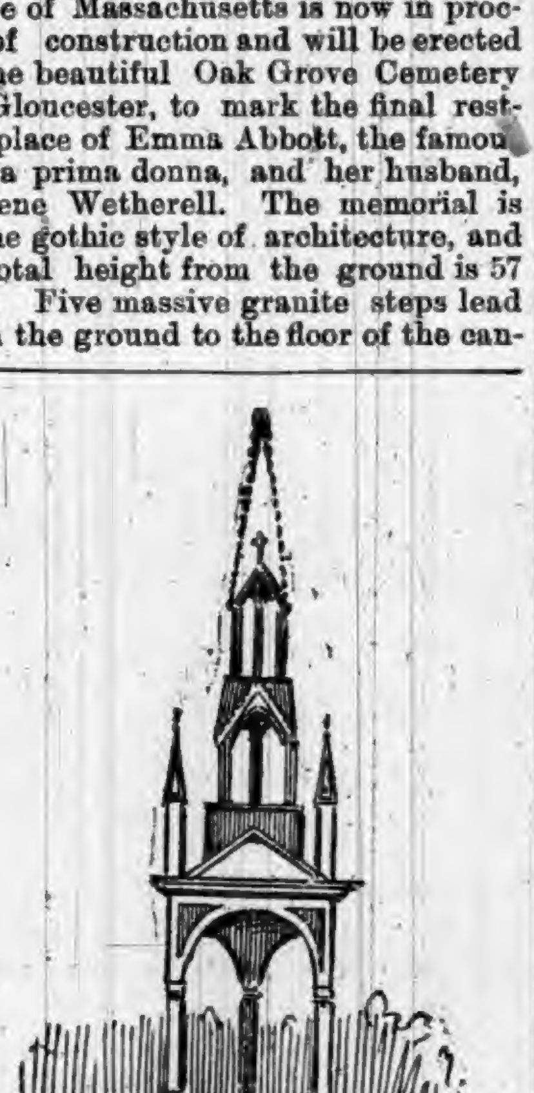
Why does the claret ascend unaided from the bottle? Because water is heavier than wine and forces its way way through the tiny hole, driving out the claret, which gathers at the top of the water and forms the red sky caused by the reflection of a volcanic eruption.—Post Dispatch.

A VOLCANO IN MINIATURE.

EMMA ABBOTT'S MONUMENT.

An Imposing Shaft Erected by Direction of the Late Singer at Gloucester, Mass.

The handsomest mortuary memorial ever erected in any cemetery in the State of Massachusetts is now in process of construction and will be erected in the beautiful Oak Grove Cemetery of Gloucester, to mark the final resting place of Emma Abbott, the famous opera prima donna, and her husband, Eugene Wetherell. The memorial is of the gothic style of architecture, and its total height from the ground is 57 feet. Five massive granite steps lead from the ground to the floor of the canopy, and under this floor the ashes of the famous songtress will be placed.



The interior arrangement of the tomb is novel. The lower compartment contains the casket in which the body of Mr. Wetherell is incased; this in turn is inclosed in a catacomb receptacle of pure white marble, hermetically sealed, on top of which will be built a unique Columbarium to receive the remains of Mrs. Wetherell (nee Abbott). The heavy slab of Quincy granite composing the center piece of the floor will securely seal the receptacle.

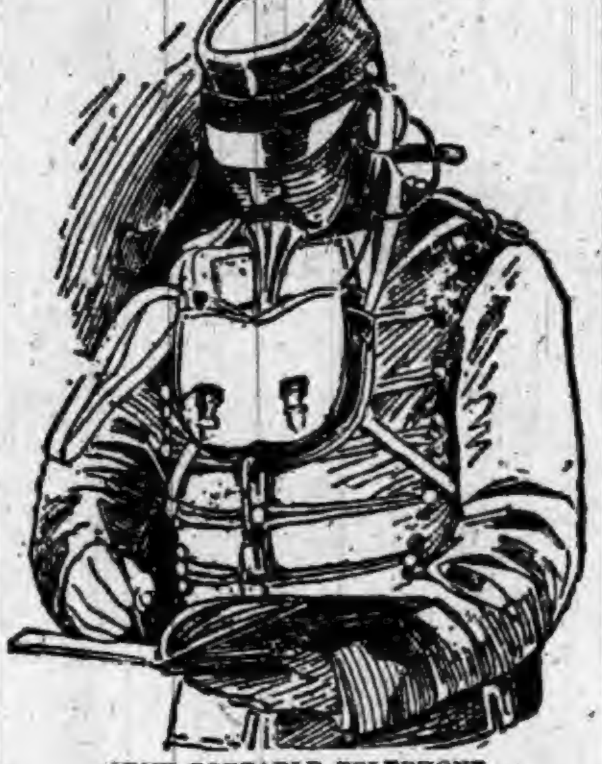
From the base up the memorial is to be of selected Westerly granite. The carved pillars supporting the three sections will be highly polished, while the remaining decorative work shown in the cut is to be carved in the rough, in high relief. The apex of the monument will be crowned by a carving of the lamp of life.

This memorial was selected by Miss Abbott from a great number of designs submitted to her by the principal constructors of this class of work, both at home and abroad.

NEW PORTABLE HELLO.

M. Roulez Devises the Much Longed For Instrument.

The portable telephone, for which engineers, surveyors, army and navy people have been sighing for so long, has come at last. And the strangest part of the invention is the fact that it was a Frenchman who evolved it, and not an American, as is usual in such cases. M. Roulez, a French inventor, devised the instrument, and electricians everywhere are wondering why some one never thought of it before. The great trouble in this direction of invention was to find something to do away with the necessity of a battery. Magnets without number have been made for the purpose, but until the present time none has answered the requirement. M. Roulez conceived the idea of using two magnets with the same poles opposed and separated by a small bit of soft wire, instead of the old horseshoe magnets with wire bobbins that have hitherto failed. With his new instrument the inventor claims results as perfect as by the use of the stationary return circuit telephone. It can be carried in a small hand-bag, requires no support except the head of the user, and can be applied at a distance of 400 miles quite successfully.



ARMY PORTABLE TELEPHONE.

The cut pictures the new instrument better than could any description. In use, the telephone is carried on the head of the operator, the receivers remaining attached to his ears continually. Its use will be largely by surveyors and by advanced guards or pickets on reconnoitering duty. Vessels of a fleet at sea communicate with each other by the same means, a well-insulated pair of wires being kept floating above the water by supporters or immersed by sinkers, as the occasion may require.

HYPNOTISM.

How the Science Was Demonstrated on a Georgia Train.

A few weeks ago a well-known Philadelphian was traveling through Georgia in an exceedingly slow train. There were only two other passengers in that car, and with one of these the Quaker City man engaged in conversation. After a while they got to talking about mind reading, and Mr. Blanke, of Philadelphia, expressed his disbelief in anything of the kind.

"Maybe you don't take any stock in hypnotism either?" suggested the young man.

Mr. Blanke didn't.

"Well," continued the other, "I am an expert hypnotizer and can prove it. See that other passenger up in the corner?"

Mr. Blanke looked and beheld a little old man, wearing a white felt hat, curled up in a seat, sound asleep.

"Now," said the young man, "I can hypnotize that old fellow so he will wake up when the conductor enters, knock him down, choke him, and throw his hat out of the window."

"I'll bet $50 to $15 that you can't," exclaimed the incredulous Philadelphian. The wager was accepted, the money was deposited with the solitary brakeman, and then the hypnotizer crept softly up to the sleeping passenger, waving his hands over the latter's head and whispering the proper instructions. Then he took his seat beside Mr. Blanke.

In a quarter of an hour the conductor entered the car and sang out, "Tickets!" The next second the elderly passenger awoke with a start and leaped into the aisle and struck the conductor under the left ear, knocking him flat to floor. Without wasting an instant he seized him by the throat, and before Mr. Blanke or the brakeman could come to the rescue the conductor's hat was picked up and thrown out of an open window. Suddenly the hypnotizer cried "Right!" at the same time clapping his hands. The old man started, rubbed his eyes, and didn't know what to make of the conductor's anger until all was explained. The money was paid over to the hypnotizer and Mr. Blanke left the train at the next station.

Then the old man and the conductor and the hypnotizer had a drink together and divided the $50.

"Worked him nicely, didn't we?" observed the hypnotizer, as he whiffed the foam off his beard.

"You bet!" ejaculated the old man.

"I'll pick up my hat on the return trip," concluded the conductor.—Philadelphia Press.

A Timely Favor.

A sense of humor has never been a bar to ecclesiastical preferment, and, indeed, it sometimes happens that dignitaries of the church are famous for their witticisms. This is the case with a certain clergyman of the Church of England, a man of Irish birth, who was lately raised to an exalted bishopric.

Accompanying his appointment, there was a certain readjustment of employments and preferments in the diocese, and with it came a few promotions.

At this time the new bishop was visited by a curate whose manners and services had not commended him to his ecclesiastical superiors, and who thought that his time had now come to make a decided push for a "living"—that is, the charge of a parish.

"Well, my lord," said the curate; "now that it's raining livings, what are you going to give me?"

"I can lend you an umbrella," said the bishop, coolly.

The curate departed without his preferment.—Youth's Companion.

THE English postal authorities have introduced nickel-in-the-slot machines for the sale of postage stamps. The town council of Inverness has just given permission for the erection of the first machines.

A Sea Sick Passenger.
On the ocean, cares little about a storm. He is positively indifferent whether he is washed overboard or not. But, set right by a wineglassful or two of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, he feels renewed interest in his personal safety. This fine corrective neutralizes in brackish water—often compulsory drank on shipboard, to the grievous detriment of health—the pernicious impurities which give rise to disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels. To the mariner, the tourist, the Western pioneer, and miner, the Bitters is invaluable as a means of protection against malaria, when its seeds are latent in air and water. To the effects of overwork, mental or manual, it is a most reliable antidote, and to the debilitated and nervous, it affords great and speedily felt relief and vigor.

Riffraff for the Fair.

There is considerable Georgia bric-a-brac that should be exhibited at the World's Fair. For instance, the editor of the Carrollton Times has a dining table upon which George Washington made a speech six years before the Revolutionary War; the editor of the Smithville News has a hand press that was used by the British as a battering ram; the Cuthbert Liberal Enterprise has captured a man who talks all day and all night, a year at a time, without ceasing; the Dahlonega Nugget has caged a Georgia editor who owns a gold mine, and the Quitman Press has a subscription book that has never known a delinquent subscriber.—Atlanta Constitution.

M. L. THOMPSON & CO., Druggists, Coudersport, Pa., say Hall's Catarrh Cure is the best and only sure cure for catarrh they ever sold. Druggists sell it, 75c.

Fond of Doughnuts.

The Atchison Globe reports that a woman with six children in that place made 175 doughnuts the other day, and in twenty-four hours there was not a single doughnut left.

LIONS differ. The lion of the Atlas Mountains is a terror, the Cap-lion a cur. The lion among scouring soaps is SAPOLIO. Buy a cake and avoid all imitations.

Only Words.

"God be with you forever! Take my house—my home—my all. I am your slave. I bow down and kiss your foot." The Chinese householder must make use of the above when a stranger enters his door, and if the aforesaid stranger is murdered during the night it's the Chinaman who does it.

NO REMEDY in the world is so highly appreciated by mothers as Dr. Bull's Worm Destroyers. Many little children owe their good-health to these dainty little candies. By mail, 25 cts. John D. Park, Cincinnati, O.

A Cheerless Habitation.

Downton—Dining at the club pretty regular now, I see.

Upton—Yes; the girl has gone off, and there is no one at home to do any cooking.

IS IT probable that what a million women say is a mistake? They say they know by test that Dobbins' Electric is most economical, purest and best. They have had 24 years to try it. You give it one trial.

Nova Scotia Gold.

From such returns as are available it appears that the total yield of gold in Nova Scotia last year was about 21,000 ounces—a decrease of about 5,000 ounces as compared with the yield of 1889.

THE Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., are giving away a beautiful illustrated book, "Guide to health and Etiquette." Ladies should send their address and stamp for copy.

WHEN the man with the deep voice sings, he is sure to get off his bass.—Boston Post.

SUFFERERS FROM COUGHS, SORE THROAT, etc., should try "Brown's Bronchial Troches," a simple but sure remedy. Sold only in boxes. Price 25 cts.

WHAT room would one expect to find in a castle in the air? A "brown study," to be sure.—Life.

IF afflicted with Sore Eyes, use Dr. Isaac Thompson's Eye Water. Druggists sell it. 25c.

WHEN a giraffe wants a drink, he knows what a long-felt want is.—New Orleans Picayune.

BEECHAM'S PILLS cure Sick-Headache.

THERE are only 262,000 Indians in the United States.

FITS.—All Fits stopped free by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. No Fits after first day's use. Marvellous cures. Treatise and $2.00 trial bottle free to Fit cases. Send to Dr. Kline, 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

AN Indianapolis man has discovered a new plan to eject delinquent tenants. He hires a brass band to serenade them.

That Tired Feeling
Whether caused by change of climate, season or life, by overwork or illness, is driven off by Hood's Sarsaparilla, which imparts great nerve, mental and bodily strength. Be sure to get Hood's
Sarsaparilla

SYRUP of FIGS
ONE ENJOYS
Both the method and results when Syrup of Figs is taken; it is pleasant and refreshing to the taste, and acts gently yet promptly on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels, cleanses the system effectually, dispels colds, headaches and fevers and cures habitual constipation. Syrup of Figs is the only remedy of its kind ever produced, pleasing to the taste and acceptable to the stomach, prompt in its action and truly beneficial in its effects, prepared only from the most healthy and agreeable substances, its many excellent qualities commend it to all and have made it the most popular remedy known.
Syrup of Figs is for sale in 50c and $1 bottles by all leading druggists. Any reliable druggist who may not have it on hand will procure it promptly for any one who wishes to try it. Do not accept any substitute.
CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.
LOUISVILLE, KY. NEW YORK, N. Y.

WHY are you sick? Because you have neglected Nature's laws. She continually tries to correct the trouble, but cannot do it without assistance. Prickly Ash Bitters is the assistant needed, and with the help of this medicine your health will be fully restored. Give it a trial and watch the results.

WOULD a law against tight lacing be inimical to the freedom of contracts?—Boston Star.

BEST, easiest to use and cheapest. Piso's Remedy for Catarrh. By druggists. 50c.

A MAN don't have to live long in Paris to learn the road to Rouen.

COPYRIGHT 1890
An imitation of Nature—that's the result you want to reach. With Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, you have it. They cleanse and renovate the whole system naturally. That means that they do it thoroughly, but mildly. They're the smallest in size, but the most effective—sugar-coated, easiest to take. Sick Headache, Bilious Headache, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the Liver, Stomach and Bowels are prevented, relieved, and cured. Purely vegetable, perfectly harmless, and gently laxative, or an active cathartic, according to size of dose. As a Liver Pill, they've been imitated, but never equaled.

"German Syrup"
Here is an incident from the South—Mississippi, written in April, 1890, just after the Grippe had visited that country. "I am a farmer, one of those who have to rise early and work late. At the beginning of last Winter I was on a trip to the City of Vicksburg, Miss., where I got well drenched in a shower of rain. I went home and was soon after seized with a dry, hacking cough. This grew worse every day, until I had to seek relief. I consulted Dr. Dixon who has since died, and he told me to get a bottle of Boschee's German Syrup. Meantime my cough grew worse and worse and then the Grippe came along and I caught that also very severely. My condition then compelled me to do something. I got two bottles of German Syrup. I began using them, and before taking much of the second bottle, I was entirely clear of the Cough that had hung to me so long, the Grippe, and all its bad effects. I felt tip-top and have felt that way ever since."
PETER J. BRIALS, Jr., Cayuga, Hines Co., Miss.

"WOMAN, HER DISEASES AND THEIR Treatment." A valuable illustrated book of 72 pages sent free, on receipt of 10 cents, to cover cost of mailing, etc. Address P. O. Box 1001, Phila., Pa.

"NO MORE DOCTORS FOR ME!
They said I was consumptive, sent me to Florida, told me to keep quiet, no excitement, and no tennis. Just think of it. One day I found a little book called 'Guide to Health,' by Mrs. Pinkham, and in it I found out what ailed me. So I wrote to her, got a lovely reply, told me just what to do, and I am in splendid health now."
LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S Vegetable Compound conquers all those weaknesses and ailments so prevalent with the sex, and restores perfect health.
All Druggists sell it as a standard article, or sent by mail, in form of Pills or Lozenges, on receipt of $1.00.
For the cure of Kidney Complaints, either sex, the Compound has no rival.
Send stamp for "Guide to Health and Etiquette," a beautiful illustrated book.
Mrs. Pinkham freely answers letters of inquiry. Enclose stamp for reply.
Lydia E. Pinkham Med. Co., Lynn, Mass.

GOLD MEDAL, PARIS, 1878.
GERMAN
Sweet Chocolate.
The most popular sweet Chocolate in the market. It is nutritious and palatable; a particular favorite with children, and a most excellent article for family use.
Served as a drink, or eaten as confectionery, it is a delicious Chocolate.
The genuine is stamped upon the wrapper, S. German, Dorchester, Mass.
Sold by Grocers everywhere.
W. BAKER & CO., Dorchester, Mass.

JONES' SCALES
THE BEST
FULLY WARRANTED
5 TON SCALES $60 FREIGHT PAID
Address JONES of BINGHAMTON, N.Y.

It PAID Me—
'Twill PAY You
Plain directions by which anybody, anywhere can make from $25 to $2,500 per year. 'Twill not interfere with, but will improve any business. Send Name, Postoffice and State, enclosing $1.00. Address, R. CONGDON, Nauda, Ill.

FREE ILLUSTRATED PUBLICATIONS, WITH MAPS, describing Minnesota, North Dakota, Montana, Idaho, Washington and Oregon, the Free Government and Cheap NORTHERN PACIFIC R. R. LANDS
Best Agricultural, Grazing and Timber Lands now open to settlers. Mailed FREE. Address CHAS. B. LAMBORN, Land Com. N. P. R. R., St. Paul, Minn.

WALL PAPER
SAMPLES SENT FREE of spring patterns with borders and ceilings to match. One half million rolls offered at wholesale prices.
White blanks, 4c to 6c; Gilts, 8c to 35c; Embossed Gilts, 10c to 50c. I will send you the most popular colorings, and guarantee to save you money. ALFRED PEATS, Wall Paper Merchant, 63-65 W. Washington-st., Chicago.

FAT FOLKS REDUCED
15 to 25 lbs. per month by harmless herbal remedies. No starving, no inconvenience and no bad effects. Strictly confidential. Send 6c. for circulars and testimonials. Address Dr. O. W. F. SNYDER, McVicker's Theatre Bldg. Chicago, Ill.

PENSION JOHN W. MORRIS, Washington, D. C.
Successfully Prosecutes Claims
Late Principal Examiner U. S. Pension Bureau. 3 yrs in last war, 15 adjudicating claims, atty since.

CATARRH CURED. Sample FREE Agents wanted. Landerbach Co. Newark, N.J.

GREAT MEN
are like Sapolio.-They waste themselves to make the world brighter. SAPOLIO is the electric light of house-cleaning.

THE OLD RUT
and old methods are not the easiest by far. Many people travel them because they have not tried the better way. It is a relief from a sort of slavery to break away from old-fashioned methods and adopt the labor-saving and strength-sparing inventions of modern times. Get out of old ruts and into new ways by using a cake of SAPOLIO in your house-cleaning.

DOWN WITH HIGH PRICES.
WHY not buy from the Largest Factory of its kind in the world, and SAVE Middlemen's or Dealers' profits.
Over 1,000 Articles sold direct to consumers, thereby saving 30 to 50 per cent.
Our New Automatic Brake on all Coaches, FREE.
The WONDERFUL 50 CHANGES LUBURG CHAIR.
SAFETIES
TRICYCLES, &c.
100 DESIGNS
ROLLING CHAIRS.
REFRIGERATORS and ICE CHESTS.
OFFICE and LIBRARY DESKS.
COMBINATION FOLDING BEDS.
THE WONDERFUL LUBURG CHAIR Combines a room-full of Chairs in one, besides making a Lounge, Bed, or Couch. Invalid appliances of every description. Fancy Chairs, Rockers, &c. Write at once for Catalogue. Send stamps and mention goods wanted.
THE LUBURG MANUFACTURING CO. PHILADELPHIA, PA.
Dept. A, 101 No. 321, 323, 325 North 8th Street.

PISO'S REMEDY FOR CATARRH.—Best. Easiest to use. Cheapest. Relief is immediate. A cure is certain. For Cold in the Head it has no equal.
CATARRH
It is an Ointment, of which a small particle is applied to the nostrils. Price, 50c. Sold by druggists or sent by mail. Address, E. T. HAZELTINE, Warren, Pa.

CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH, RED CROSS DIAMOND BRAND
PENNYROYAL PILLS
THE ORIGINAL AND GENUINE. The only Safe, Sure, and reliable Pill for sale. Ladies, ask Druggist for Chichester's English Diamond Brand in Red and Gold metallic boxes sealed with blue ribbon. Take no other kind. Refuse Substitutions and Imitations. All pills in pasteboard boxes, pink wrappers, are dangerous counterfeits. At Druggists, or send us 4c. in stamps for particulars, testimonials, and "Relief for Ladies," in letter, by return Mail. 10,000 Testimonials. Name Paper. CHICHESTER CHEMICAL CO., Madison Square, PHILADELPHIA, PA.
Sold by all Local Druggists.

HIRES
ROOT BEER
THE GREAT HEALTH DRINK.
Package makes 5 gallons. Delicious, sparkling and appetizing. Sold by all dealers. A beautiful Picture Book and Cards sent free to any one sending their address to The C. E. HIRES CO., Philad'a.

PATENTS Illustrated Hand Book free. J. B. CRALLE & CO., Washington, D. C. Please mention this Paper every time you write.

N. U. F. W. .... No. 21—91.

When Writing to Advertisers, please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

GREATEST

Announcement

Ever Heard of!

BEGINNING

April 1,

—WE WILL GIVE AWAY—

TO THE TRADE at large, a handsome PARLOR ORGAN worth in the market $85 00, to the person who buys the highest amount of goods from One Dollar and upward at one time, for CASH ONLY, at our store up to Aug. 1st.

ALSO

A fine SUIT OF CLOTHES worth in the market $18.00 with the next highest amount purchased;

A nice Saratoga Trunk, worth in the market $8,00;

A fine pair of Ladies' French Kid Shoes, worth in the market $4 00,

A nice Fine Silk Umbrella, worth in the market $3.00;

We also give with this elegant instrument a handsome Organ Stool, and Instruction Book and a guarantee from the factory for five years. This instrument was just received from the factory and is bran new. Please call and see these articles. They are now on exhibition at our store. Remember they bear inspection.

Such an opportunity is not offered very often to obtain such elegant gifts for nothing. These goods which you buy you need anyway, and unless you find the prices satisfactory don't buy; and we will sell them to you as low as the lowest and defy competition in our line.

DON'T MISS THIS

Golden

Opportunity which will never be offered to you again.
Respectfully yours,

J. LŒWENSTEIN & CO.

No Money Required of Responsible Parties to Commence Treatment.

DRS. FRUTH,

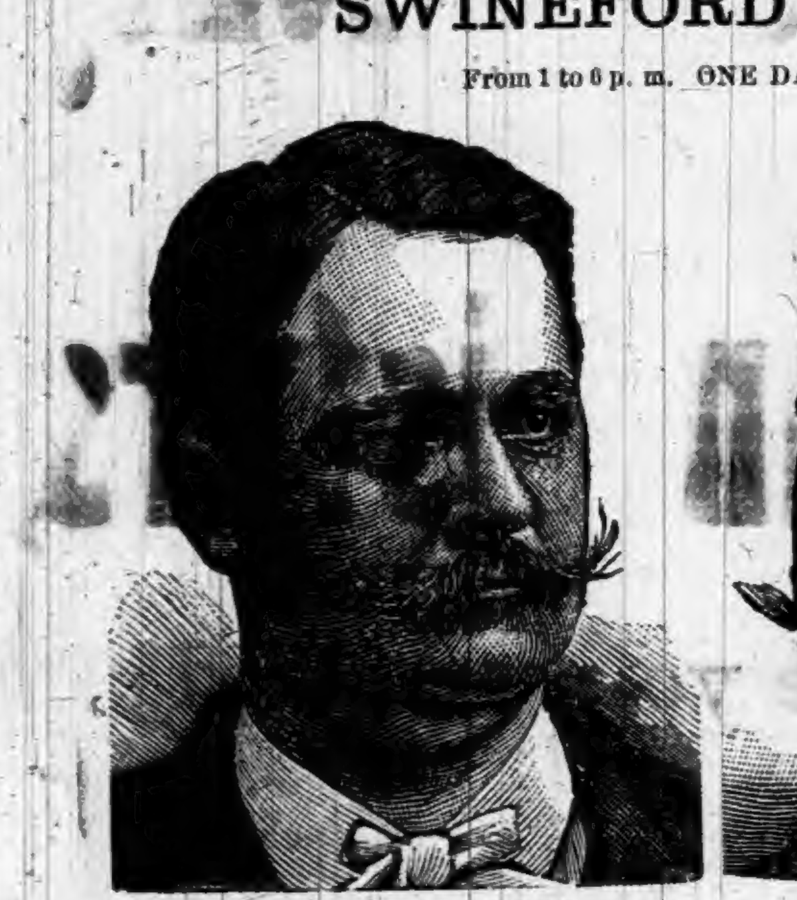
Formerly of New York, now the celebrated Examining Physicians and Surgeons of the Fruth Medical and Surgical Institute, Chicago, Ill., by request of many Friends and Patients, have decided to visit AUBURN

TUESDAY, MAY 26, 1891

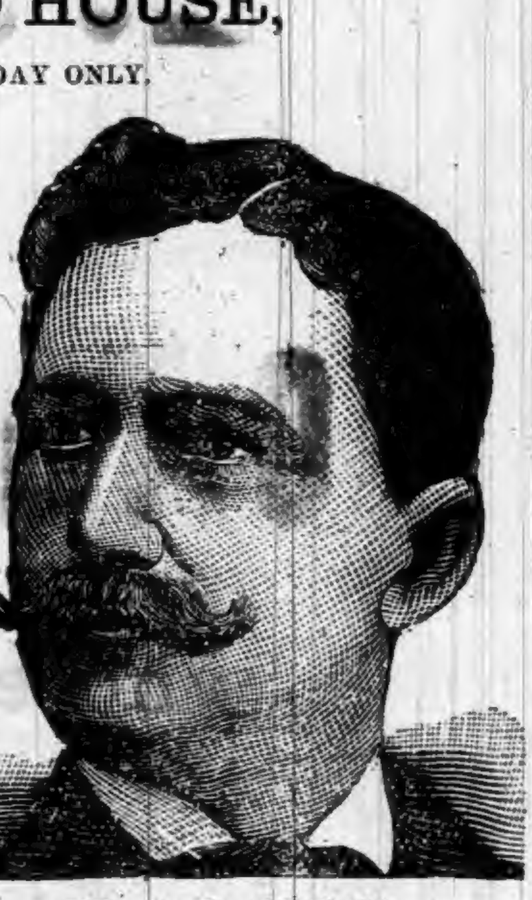
Consultation and examination free and strictly confidential in the private parlors of the

SWINEFORD HOUSE,

From 1 to 6 p. m. ONE DAY ONLY.



DR. D. O. FRUTH,
Celebrated Surgeon.



DR. A. C. FRUTH,
Examining Physician.

—OF THE—

Fruth Medical and Surgical Institute.

Permanently established and incorporated under the laws of the state of Ill., with a capital stock of $100,000, for the scientific and successful treatment of all forms of Chronic and Sexual Diseases, Catarrh, Asthma, Stomach, Kidney Bladder, Nervous and Spinal Diseases of Men and Women.

Ably assisted by a full staff of eminent physicians and surgeons for every department of medicine and surgery.

Female Diseases positively cured by a never failing method. A home treatment entirely harmless and easily applied. Consultation free and strictly confidential.

Dr Fruth after years of experience has perfected the most infallible method of curing Vital drain in Urine, Nocturnal losses, Impaired Memory, Weak Back, Melancholy, Want of Energy, Premature decline of the Manly Powers if consulted, idiocy, insanity, falling fits, or total impotency results. These terrible disorders arising from ruinous practices of youth, blighting the most radiant hopes, unfitting patients for study society or marriage, annually sweeping to an untimely grave thousands of young men of brilliant intellect and exalted talent.

Piles Cured without pain, knife or cautery.

Marriage. Married persons or young men contemplating marriage, aware of physical weakness, loss of procreative powers, impotency or other disqualification, speedily restored.

Epilepsy positively cured by our new and never failing Hospital treatment.

Kidney and Bladder Diseases. Bright's Disease, Diabetes and kindred maladies treated and cures effected in thousands of cases that had been pronounced beyond hope.

Private Diseases—Blood Poison, Syphilis, Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Stricture, Hydrocele, Varicocele, Loss of Sexual Power and all diseases of the genito-urinary organs speedily and permanently cured. No risks incurred. Consultation free and strictly confidential. Medicine sent free from observation to all parts of the United States.

Catarrh Cured.—Catarrhal affections of the nose, throat, lungs, and stomach, bronchitis, asthma, consumption and dyspepsia, successfully treated by the most recent and scientific methods which a vast hospital experience has proved worthy of confidence. We desire no better proof of success than the testimonials on file at the institute, of thousands of helpless cases that have been restored to health and happiness.

Free Examination of the Urine. Each person applying for medical treatment should send or bring an ounce of their urine, which will receive a careful chemical and microscopical examination.

Wonderful Cures Perfected in old cases which have been neglected or unskillfully treated. No experiments or failures. Parties treated by mail and express, but where possible, personal consultation is preferred. Curable cases guaranteed.

☞ Cases and Correspondence confidential. Treatment sent C. O. D. to any part of the U. S. List of 130 questions free. Address with postage, Dr. D. O. FRUTH, 89 East Madison Street, Chicago, Ill.

CORRESPONDENCE

WATERLOO.

Thursday Mr. St. John of Toledo, was here.

Wednesday last Rev. Heller visited Angola.

Sheriff Plum of Auburn, was here Monday.

Charley McBride of Elkhart, has gone to California.

D. Shepard of Convoy, O., was in town a few days ago.

G. W. Gilbert of Kendallville, was in our town this week.

Judge McClellan was over here from Auburn on Monday.

Wednesday, Eugene Trout of Auburn, was over to Waterloo.

The quarterly meeting of the M. E. church will be held May 23rd and 24th.

Friday last Rev. and Mrs. DeWeese drove over to Rome City, returning the same evening.

Dell Locke, Scott Campbell and A. V. Sinclair went last Friday on a fishing excursion to Hamilton.

There will be an ice cream and strawberry social at the residence of Rev. Mr. Moot, on Friday evening.

Rev. Eberly and wife from Montpelier, are visiting the family of J. A. Denison. Mrs. Eberly and Mrs. Denison are sisters.

The evenings of the 27, and 28, of May the exercises of the Waterloo high school graduates, will be held in the M. E. church.

Sunday evening next the baccalaureate sermon will be delivered for the graduating class, by Prof. Fairfield, of Angola.

The frosts lately have nipped grapes, strawberries, beans and potatoes for some, while others more protected have not suffered.

J. C. Boyer has bought of Eli Williams a lot, or part of one, adjoining his residence property and is underdraining quite extensively.

Bird Dickinson and wife were here this week visiting his people. They go to Michigan next Monday, and will go to housekeeping at their home in Oscoda.

At the regular session of the L. M. C., last week at the home of Mrs. J. U. Winslow, Mrs. Dora Locke was elected a member of the club by a unanimous vote.

Rev. Mygrantz of Hicksville, O., was sent for to conduct the funeral services of Mr. Heller, of this vicinity. He expresses himself as much pleased with his new location.

Mrs. Jackson a daughter of Wm. Beard, of this place, died in Ft. Wayne last week at her home leaving a husband and two children. The children have been sent here to be cared for by their grandparents.

Mr. VanAuken, assistant surveyor, of Auburn, came over to Waterloo Monday to survey the property recently purchased by Jacob Beck on South Wayne street, preparatory to the erection as contemplated of his business building.

John Koons had a severe attack of probable grip last Saturday. Commencing with a severe chill, followed by a high fever and accompanied with a hard cough. Many are complaining of suffering from the results of that singular and uncomfortable disease, and even so late in the season there are new victims.

Clyde and Raymond Willis who are in the graduating class, invited the members of the class to a reception at their home last Friday evening. Mr. Buchanan was also invited, and Agnes Matson, Emma Abrent, and out of town Nettie Willis of Auburn, and Mr. Fried of Corunna. One of the young lady guests said to the writer, "I think it is a pleasant place to go. We had a delightful time, and were so finely entertained. The supper was very nice, and Mr. and Mrs. Willis were like young people, and took pains to make it a happy time for us. Mr. W. gave us a complete surprise by inviting the band to play for us, and afterwards they were feasted."

BUTLER.

A great many new houses are being built this spring.

Our marshal takes off his coat and sees that his men keep busy.

The Butler Odd Fellows will observe Odd Fellows' decoration day.

The Wabash pay car gladdened the employes of that road last Monday.

Miss Sarah Imhoff living two miles east of town is seriously ill, with meager hopes of early improvement

D. C. Woolpert, the new M. E. presiding elder made his maiden visit to Butler and Butler circuit last Sunday.

Dallas Hollinger has retired from Miller brothers grocery and is now working in the P. I. store for Thurston & Co.

W. H. Bard, a Wabash brakeman of Butler was seriously injured last week by a fall in attempting to board a moving train.

Emlin Campbell and Henry Dills were home over Sunday, the former returns to Angola to continue his studies for another term.

Joshua Chilcote is about to buy the Isaac Garber house on East North street and then to make his home in Butler instead of Edgerton.

W. D. Miller was over at Auburn Monday. He had been drawn for a grand juror, but as his brother Curt. was sick, he got off and returned that afternoon.

The new Tomlinson brick block is nearly up to the roof and is going to be an ornament to the burned district if not used for saloon and gambling purposes.

The town board have purchased the Lake Shore coal dock bed which is composed of sand and cinders and are putting it on the streets, it will make a good roadbed.

The writer spent a part of last week in Auburn. In driving about town he was much surprised to see the great number of new dwellings that are being erected in all parts of town.

Elias Strauss submitted to a long and painful surgical operation at Ft. Wayne a week ago to reduce an ulcerous sore mouth. He reports himself considerable improved but still much incapacitated.

The death trap at the Lake Shore crossing east of town is being repaired and thirty inch tile will take the place of the old broken culvert that has been in a crippled condition so long. A like tile culvert will span Broadway between the two railroads.

Our public schools close next week; commencement exercises on next Tuesday evening at the M. E. church. The graduates are: Arthur Leiter, Hiram Vandusen, Margarette Bolan and Romanec Campbell. The baccalaureate exercises will take place at the M. E. church next Sunday.

CORUNNA.

Heber Fried spent Friday at Waterloo.

Milo Calkins went to Ligonier Wednesday on business.

Mrs. J. Shook has been quite sick for several days but is now better.

Nettie Crane of Auburn is visiting her grandparents, N. Griffith and wife.

Frank Fluke and wife were the guests of H. Kline and wife Friday afternoon.

F. G. Fried left Saturday morning for Mt. Clemens, Mich., for medical treatment.

J. Steller of Brimfield, came down Thursday evening to attend the K. of P. lodge.

Normal school began Monday under charge of Mr. French, and will continue six weeks.

D. Thomas, wife and daughter Minnie were guests in the family of M. J. Thomas, Sunday.

The Christian Sunday School Institute was held at the M. E. church, Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. A. Cox, Mrs. Blanche Cox and Ida Husselman attended the commencement at Angola last week.

Mrs. T. Dailey returned to her home at Auburn Saturday, after a week's visit with her former neighbors.

George Miles has the frame up for a new dwelling. It will make a handsome addition to the north side of town.

Gerry Rudolph is assisting Mr. Knauer in the store this week, Harvey Knauer being confined to the house with heart trouble.

Mesdames Willitts, Griffith and Adams attended the Christian Ministerial Association at Kendallville Wednesday and Thursday.

Wm. Wiley died at his home west of town Thursday morning, in the 80th year of his age. Funeral services were held at his residence, Rev. Moot, of Waterloo, officiating.

CONCORD.

Ed. Berry of St. Joe, was here last Monday.

Will Scott and Mrs. Mansfield are sufferer by felons.

Frank Draggoo had a severe attack of neuralgia last week.

Mrs. Keeler came home from Churubusco last Saturday.

Cormie Gifford visited friends in Spencerville last Sabbath.

A goodly number attended church at Fairview Sabbath last.

A fair attendance of the social at J. B. Gifford's Saturday evening.

Miss Lily Jones, of near Edgerton, O., returned home last Thursday.

Will Baker and Jim Smith are putting up a large amount of slat and wire fence.

Planting corn and sheep shearing are the essential part of the farmers' program.

Why is Adelbert Draggoo like Sampson? Because he is getting (Daisy) Strong.

Mrs. M. E. Baker and children returned from visiting friends in Auburn Junction.

Ernest Johns, Jimmie Baker and Connie Gifford are attending the normal school at St. Joe.

H. R. Culbertson was here Monday on a business trip accompanied by Rev. Mr. Healy of Auburn.

Tuesday evening of last week Enoch Morr had a stroke of paralysis, and on Thursday little Mamie Layman had a stroke. Both are in a critical condition.

M. T. Bishop, of St. Joe, visited our Sabbath school last Sunday. His well chosen remarks and affable ways will leave a lasting impression on the school. Accept our thanks and come again.

DEKALB.

Corn planting will be finished up this week.

The farmers' Alliance still lives and hopes to do well.

Mother Baber is very sick, supposed to be the dropsy and old age.

Dry weather still prevails and is likely to according to our prophet.

The fruit has suffered from the frost considerable, especially the small fruit.

People well and busy, with the exception of Mother Hall, she is failing slowly.

Mail advertised for the month of May, Mr. Frank Birtsfield; postal card, James Nichols.

The G. A. R. boys are preparing for decoration day at Cedar Creek cemetery May 31.

Butter is tilting the scales at 10 cents per pound at J. F. Housel's grocery, eggs 11 cents.

The DeKalb reporter was supposed to be dead, but he is not, only somewhat negligent.

Hucksters seem to be the most business men we have at present, by the wagons you meet on the road.

Mrs. Emma Mathews has been visiting her mother a few days and will return home Monday to Colton, Ohio.

SUMMIT.

Miss Oleva Grambling has been on the sick list the past week.

S. A. Harmon and wife went to Angola last Wednesday on business.

John Wysong, from north of Hudson, was on our street last Monday.

Mrs. H. D. Snowberger is visiting relatives in Waterloo at this writing.

Miss Rosa and Lena Shffli visited friends in Ohio over Sunday last.

Miss Margart Mortorff visited Mrs. Riley Freed a few days last week.

Henry Lawson and wife were the guest of Geo. Erwin and wife last Sunday.

Noble Cherry, of Butler, visited his daughter, Mrs. Joseph Penick last Saturday nigh.

James Long and daughter, from west of Hudson, made our town a short call last Saturday.

Mrs. G. H. McDougle, of Husdson, visited her daughter, Mrs. Henry Lawson last Tuesday night.

Miss Ida Mortorff and her nephew Freddie, started last Thursday for Manistee, Mich., where her sister Mrs. J. Hornberger lives.

UNION CHAPEL.

Isaac Likens was on our streets Sunday.

Enoch Morr has been quite sick the last week.

Rev. Stoy was the guest of J. Grimm and family, Sunday.

Jennie Hoffman visited with her sister Mrs. G. Owens Sunday.

REVOLUTION! REVOLUTION!! REVOLUTION!!

SOMETHING NEW!

Wonderful as the Telephone!

THE

NEW PROCESS VAPOR STOVE!

IMPROVED FOR 1891..

Call and see it in operation before buying any other kind.

It has no
Generator
Burner,
Stand Pipe,
Packing,
Needle
Valves,
Drip Cup,
Pneumatic
Pressure or anything to get out of order.

And Still He Gazed!
And Still His Wonder Grew
Reading That Which Him Amazed
But Others Always Knew—
That We Are The People
Who Make The New Process
Vapor Stove
Which Leads Them All.
Try It!
Buy It!
Be Happy!!!
Standard Lighting Co. Cleveland

It is Simply Wonderful
and it will pay you to Investigate.
Any Child can operate it.
On Exhibition during Business
Hours.

A Full line of PLAIN AND RANGE STOVES in two and three burners always on hand. MURILLO the new Wall Finish, a specialty.
He also handles
one of the finest lines of Paints, Oils, etc., which the public will do well to inspect before purchasing elsewhere.

FOR SALE BY

J. BEURET,

Auburn, - - Indiana.

Alda Rohm of Waterloo visited with Samuel Moor's family last week.

Frank Pyles, the popular agent for the Deering machine, made a number of sales last week.

F. J. Yesbera is making radical changes on his farm. When he purchased his farm, there were no improvments upon it, but he will soon have it converted into a splendid stock farm.

The many friends of Elmer Likens gave him a surprise Monday evening. About thirty of his friends gathered at his home and celebrated with him his 20th birthday. Music and games were indulged in, and the evening was spent very pleasantly.

Jeff Davis' Memoir.

The life of Jeff. Davis is published by The Belford Company, New York, gives an account of his connection with the Mexican War. On the breaking out of the Mexican War, Mr Davis at once offered his services. At the storming of Monterey his figure was one of the most conspicuous. Vol. I., p. 294:

"Anticipating General Quitman, Colonel Davis, about the same time, gave the order to charge. With wild desperation his men followed him. The escalade was made with the fury of a tempest, the men flinging themselves upon the guns of the enemy. Sword in hand, McClung has sprung over the ditch. After him dashes Davis, cheering on the Mississippians, and then Campbell with his Tennesseeans and others, brothers in the fight and rivals for its honors. Then was wild work. The assault was irresistible."

It was Mr. Davis' skill and courage that saved the day at Buena Vista. Vol. I., pp. 345-352:

"Here Colonel Davis formed the celebrated V, which was in reality no V, but a re entering angle. The formation was ordered by Colonel Davis without the counsel or co-operation of any officer, for indeed there was none to advise with."

"Jefferson Davis twice saved the day during the great battle which conquered one-half of Mexico, and made General Taylor President of these United States."

Real Witty.

The Waterloo Press has this bright little piece of wit:

It is currently reported that the editor of the COURIER has been convinced of the real value of American tin plate, and that he sees immense fortunes in it, and has ordered from Maj. McKinley a quantity of tin plate seed, and proposes raising a crop in the COURIER garden.

At first we thought he was in fun, but the more we study the article over, the more we see he is earnest. A man who claims a tariff is not a tax, and that a tax added to an article makes that article cheaper, is just the man to actually believe that tin plate is raised from the seed, like squashes. The one theory is no more ridiculous than the other.

Dr. Price's Cream
Baking
Powder.

A Pure Cream of Tartar Powder.
Superior to every other known.
Used in Millions of Homes—
40 Years the Standard.
Delicious Cake and Pastry, Light Flaky
Biscuit, Griddle Cakes, Palatable and Wholesome.
No other baking powder does such work.

Obituary.

Daniel Andrew Krum, infant son of Fred. and Mary Ellen Krum, was born July 7, 1890, at their home near Hicksville, Ohio, and died May 15, 1891, aged 10 months and 8 days.

The child I love, lies still before me now
The calm of heaven on his marble brow;
I take his hand in mine, how stiff and cold!
'Tis not the pressure I knew of old.
Low on his pillow my sad face I bow,
And murmur softly, "Sleep dear child, for thou,
So good, so true, in thy short life did show,
In what fond memory the world could hold
The child I loved."
How long the years, O God, how long and slow,
Between my boy in heaven and me below?
Yet in that land I shall again behold,
Not lifeless clay, but in my arms enfold,
With joy no mortal heart can ever know, the Child I loved.

Tell the Boys and Girls

That any boy or girl who sends us the addresses of ten or more teachers and ten cents postage will receive the Normal Herald, a first-class school paper, all this year free. Send at once. We want names now. Address,

THE NORMAL HERALD,
Ladoga, Ind.

Cheapest and Best.

Chamberlain's Immediate Relief is pronounced by those who have used it to be the cheapest and best remedy that can be had. Listen to the following testimonial.

Sturgis, Mich., July 26, 1886.

I find Chamberlain's Immediat Relief not only the cheapest but the best remedy to keep in the house and would not be without it for double its cost

HENRY DRIESBUCH

Sold by all druggists. 4

English telephone charges are graded according to distance from the central exchange, and range from forty dollars a year for half-mile circuits to seventy dollars for mile circuits.

Farmers.—Your Timber.

We want some of your timber suitable for our hub and handle factory. Such things as these:

Elm butts, 4 to 14 inches in diameter.

Hickory and ash butts, 5 inches and upward.

Timber for handles, etc. For particulars call at the Hub and Handle factory, south of Wabash station, foot of Main street, Auburn, Indiana. tf

"A Good Thing."

We have an excellent opening for a live energetic man. To one with small capital we can furnish permanent employment. This territory must be occupied at once. If you mean business write to,

Wood & Fuller, Oberlin, Ohio.

TO WEAK MEN

Suffering from the effects of youthful errors, early decay, wasting weakness, lost manhood, etc., I will send a valuable treatise (sealed) containing full particulars for home cure, FREE of charge. A splendid medical work; should be read by every man who is nervous and debilitated. Address,

Prof. F. C. FOWLER, Moodus, Conn.

J. A. CAMPBELL,
BUTLER, IND.,
INSURANCE,
In all the leading companies promptly placed in DeKalb and Steuben Counties.

WE PAY SALARY

and expenses to LIVE AGENTS men or women. NO DRONES WANTED. Work steady year round and cash weekly. Good pay for part time. FINE OUTFIT FREE. Experience not needed. Send references and stamp at once. J. EUGENE WHITNEY, Rochester, New York.

☞ This firm is perfectly responsible.

AGENTS WANTED by an old reliable firm; large profits, quick sales, SAMPLE FREE. A rare opportunity. Geo. A. Scott, 842 Broadway, N. Y.

Notice of Hearing of Ditch Petition

In the matter of the petition of Henry Schuster, of Richland, Fairfield and Smithfield townships, notice is hereby given that a petition has been filed with the Auditor of DeKalb county, State of Indiana, and viewers have been appointed who have viewed and reported said view which is on file in my office. The hearing of said petition on its merits will be on Tuesday, the 2nd day of June, 1891, the same being the 2nd day of their June term, 1891.

The prayer of said petition is that a ditch be constructed on the following route, to-wit:

Beginning One hundred ten (110) feet east of the southwest corner of the southeast one fourth (¼) of the southeast quarter of section thirty-five (35) township thirty-five (35) north of range twelve (12) east of DeKalb County, State of Indiana, and from thence as follows:

No.	Course	Distance
1	north 35 degrees east	145 feet
2	north 23 degrees east	320 feet
3	north 52 degrees east	555 feet
4	north 41 degrees east	210 feet
5	north 49 degrees east	290 feet
6	north 17 degrees east	260 feet
7	north 51 degrees east	160 feet
8	north	500 feet
9	east	60 feet
10	north 52 degrees east	950 feet
11	north 54 degrees east	250 feet
12	north 60 degrees east	400 feet
13	north 88 degrees east	1160 feet
14	north 52 degrees east	385 feet
15	north 85 degrees east	120 feet
16	north 78 degrees east	485 feet
17	north 53 degrees east	105 feet
18	north 24½ degrees east	700 feet
19	north 30 degrees east	200 feet
20	north 30 degrees east	280 feet
21	north 24 degrees east	245 feet
22	north 32 degrees west	165 feet
23	north 2 degrees east	360 feet
24	north 20 degrees west	420 feet
25	north 6¼ degrees east	210 feet
26	north 4 degrees west	385 feet
27	north 74¼ degrees east	785 feet
28	north 56 degrees east	100 feet
29	north 84 degrees east	200 feet
30	south 43 degrees east	254 feet
31	north 60 degrees east	168 feet
32	north 25 degrees east	205 feet
33	south 70¼ degrees east	375 feet
34	south 86¼ degrees east	1250 feet

Ending into the Enos Vian ditch No. 516, fifteen (15) feet above stake No. 283 of said Vian ditch.

This proposed work will affect the lands of the following persons:

Brooks L. Hine,
Christena Rhinehart,
Martin Wetzel,
Emily Gutherie,
Horatio S. Hine,
Harrison Jones,
Henry Schuster,
Alonzo McCullick,
John Benny,
Jacob Brand,
John Peterman,
William Streb,
George Wittig,
John Kloepfel,
Joseph G. Raub,
Shipley Wilson,
David Goodrich,
Andrew Bateman,
Frederick Wittig,
William Smith,
David Rice deceased, heirs unknown, Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railroad. Simon Rohm, Henry F. DeLong heirs, viz: Jane DeLong, Marion S. DeLong, Alice L. DeLong, Loa DeLong, Clarence DeLong, and perhaps others unknown, David D. DeLong, Truman W. Gray, Park and Mary J. Sebert, John W. Farrington, John Homrighouse, heirs unknown, Henry Deubner, John Rhinehart heirs, viz: Margaret Rhinehart, Martin Rhinehart, George Rhinehart, John Rhinehart, Peter Rhinehart, Frank Rhinehart, Anna Triplett, Catherine Metzger and perhaps others unknown.

H. N. COFFINBERRY,
Auditor, DeKalb county, Ind.

Notice To Heirs of Petition to Sell Real Estate.

State of Indiana, DeKalb County. ss:

IN THE DEKALB CIRCUIT COURT.

Notice is hereby given that William Seeley, Administrator of the estate of David H. Murray, deceased, has filed a petition to sell the Real Estate of the decedent, the personal being insufficient to pay the debts; and that said petition will be heard at the next term of said Court.

ATTEST: GEO. A. BISHOP, Clerk.

JAMES E. ROSE, Attorney.
April 30, 1891.

FORT WAYNE BRANCH L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—In Effect Nov. 30, 1890.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations—	Mail.	Exp'ss	Fre'gt.
Fort Wayne,....dp	11 50 am	4 40 pm	6 40 am
New Era	12 20 pm	5 16	7 29
Auburn Junc	12 31	5 27	7 45
Auburn	12 34	5 30	8 05
Waterloo	12 47	5 42	8 20
Summit	1 02	5 55	10 25
Pleasant Lake	1 12	6 07	11 20
Angola	1 20	6 18	12 01 pm
Fremont	1 35	6 34	1 35
Reading	2 04	7 04	2 35
Bankers	2 15	7 15	2 55
Hillsdale	2 37	7 30	......
Ft. Wayne Junc	2 45	7 39	3 35
Jonesville	2 47	7 41	3 40
Jackson	3 45	8 40	5 20

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations—	Freight	Exp'ss	Mail
Jackson........dp	6 45 am	11 15 am	6 30 am
Jonesville	8 50	12 10 pm	7 23
Ft. Wayne Junc	8 55	12 15	7 25
Hillsdale	......	12 45	7 40
Bankers	9 40	12 56	7 51
Reading	10 05	1 07	8 01
Fremont	11 20	1 35	8 32
Angola	12 01 pm	1 55	8 48
Pleasant Lake	1 12	2 06	8 58
Summit	1 45	2 16	9 08
Waterloo	2 40	2 40	9 20
Auburn	3 45	2 53	9 33
Auburn Junc	4 00	2 57	9 36
New Era	4 40	3 08	9 47
Fort Wayne	6 20	3 40	10 29

For rates on tickets or freight to all points, call on or address E. T. DeLAPP, Agent at Auburn. The Lake Shore via Cleveland in connection with the Erie, and P. & L. E. R. Rs, forms the quickest and most direct route to Pittsburgh.

THE INBRED
HAMBLETONIAN
Morgan Stallion,

BILLY MORGAN, 2.41

Will make the season of 1891, commencing April 15th, and closing June 15th at the Fair Ground,

Auburn, - - Ind.

TERMS:—$20.00 to insure a mare in foal.

PROPRIETORS:

A. D. MOORE,
Moore's, DeKalb County, Ind.
CASEBEER & MATHENY,
Auburn, Ind.

Recorder's Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XXI. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, MAY 27, 1891. NUMBER 22.

Rickel & Sprott

—Have—

Money

TO LOAN

IN SUMS OF

$1,000

And Up,

AT 6 PER CENT.

Apply at once, as the amount is limited. Apply to

RICKEL & SPROTT,

Real Estate and Immigration Ag'ts,

Under Farmers Bank, AUBURN, IND.

Will Be Given Away.

Our enterprising druggist F. E. Davenport who carries the finest stock of drugs, perfumeries, toilet articles, brushes, sponges, etc., is giving away a large number of trial bottles of Dr. Miles' celebrated Restorative Nervine. They guarantee it to cure headache, dizziness, nervous prostration, sleeplessness, the ill effects of spirits, tobacco, coffee, etc. Druggists say it is the greatest seller they ever knew, and is universally satisfactory. They also guarantee Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure in all cases of nervous or organic heart disease, palpitation, pain in side, smothering, etc. Fine book on "Nervous and Heart Diseases" free. 1

Captain William Bruce, of San Francisco, has just cut his third set of teeth at eighty-two.

A Safe Investment.

Is one which is guaranteed to bring you satisfactory results, or in case of failure a return of purchase price. On this safe plan you can buy from our advertised Druggist a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. It is guaranteed to bring relief in every case, when used for any affection of throat, lungs or chest, such as consumption, inflammation of lungs, bronchitis, asthma, whooping cough, croup, etc. It is pleasant and agreeable to taste, perfectly safe, and can always be depended upon. Trial bottles free at Robbins & McCord's. 1

What is the average expense of a single voyage, New York to Liverpool and return? Seventy-five thousand dollars.

The Greates Strike.

Among the great strikes that of Dr. Miles in discovering his New Heart Cure has proven itself to be one of the most important. The demand for it has become astonishing. Already the treatment of heart disease is being revolutionized, and many unexpected cures effected. It soon relieves short breath, fluttering, pains in side, arm, shoulder, weak and hungry spells, oppression, swelling of ankles, smothering and dropsy. Dr. Miles' book on Heart and Nervous Diseases free. The unequaled New Heart Cure is sold and guaranteed by F. E. Davenport, also his Restorative Nervine for headache, fits, sprees, hot flashes, nervous chills, opium habit, etc 1

How many cabin passengers were landed in New York during 1890? Ninety-nine thousand one hundred and eighty-nine.

MERIT WINS. We desire to say to our citizens, that for years we have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Dr. King's New Life Pills, Bucklen's Arnica Salve and Electric Bitters, and have never handled remedies that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, and we stand ready to refund the purchase price, if satisfactory results do not follow their use. These remedies have won their great popularity purely on their merits.
Robbins & McCord, Druggists. 1

Cornelius Vanderbuilt keeps his face smooth shaven, except an inch of close cropped whiskers. His features are refined and intellectual.

LOUIS WOLF & CO.,

54 Calhoun St., - - - FORT WAYNE, Ind.

CARPET DEPARTMENT

is stacked to the ceiling with a magnificent line of carpets.

Moquettes, that are NEW in pattern and delicate, soft tone, color almost too beautiful to walk on.

VELVETS

54 inches wide, don't cost any more proportionately than the narrow goods, because of the width you have less seams in your carpet. The pile won't sweep or pull out. New patterns in BODY BRUSSELS, and at a price a little lower than elsewhere. Magnificent line of tapestries, and all of them are private patterns to us in this market.

We show the full line of Lowell Ingrains. They are prettier this year than ever before, and the price is right. New styles of Portiers and Chenille curtains. Large line of Lace Curtains and Swiss Muslin. Mats, Rugs, Matting and Window Shades. We will send our Upholsters to your city to lay your new carpets. We employ only strictly first-class workmen.

DRESS GOODS.

Our stock of Dress Goods is complete in every detail. Prices the lowest. Spring Jackets, Reefers and capes in great variety.

LOUIS WOLF & CO.,

54 Calhoun St., FORT WAYNE, Ind.

☞Mail Orders Promptly Attended to

AUBURN AND VICINITY.

Some Reminiscences of its Early Days and Pioneer Citizens.

1848,—Continued.

That part of the Ft. Wayne and Coldwater road extending through the village bore the name, West street and the Defiance and Goshen road laid out as entering the village on Seventh, left Third on street.

What is now known as Cedar street was platted as Main street and a street east of this was named East street, but its course through Cedar Creek bottom and swamp land has never been available and it was vacated in 1855.

Lots lying along the line of East street that was, were held as of little if any value except for grazing and in later years shrewd men having faith in Auburn became owners at little cost and find a good investment.

For many years, from Ninth street south to the old home of Mrs Penny, now the property of S. Rakestraw, was a swampy tract too low for drainage, covered with rank vegetation in summer and setting all attempts at reclamation at defiance.

The credit of opening the street is due to John Kruger, who established an ashery east of the street, on the the north side of Church street, used the leached ashes for foundation and built up a site for a dwelling in which he lived for years.

Last year, building began on the west side by Nedry and Pfefferl, and in the near future the entire space on both sides of the street will be filled and built upon and the swamps become a memory.

John B. Howe and Wesley Park had acknowleded their plat on Oct. 14, 1836 at Lima, Lagrange county before Francis F. Jewett, a justice of the peace and it was duly recorded next day by J. T. Hobbs, county recorder.

Spencer's Addition was acknowledged before John M. Witt, a notary public of Allen county by John Spencer, on Jan. 29, 1838. Twelve years had now gone by since Auburn had been given a legal existence and DeKalb had been organized although dwellings were of round or hewed logs on the farms, and humble frames in the village, still progress had been made from forest towards civilization. It is no trouble to find many persons who will tell you of the primitive condition of affairs even in 1848, but the village of those days kept pace with its contiguous farm lands and the one was a criterion by which to judge the other.

The county assessor had valued the farm lands at $395,947, the improvements at $106,625, and the total value of village, farm and personal property was $607,612, and this fact marks the stable progress of the settlers and the result of their unwearying labors in the woods of the new county.

The average valuation of lands for purposes of taxation was from $2 to $3. The southwest quarter of section 27, Union township, then owned by John U. Ashleman, just east of Auburn, was valued at $2 an acre, with $200 of improvements.

Taxes had begun to bring in quite a revenue and the aggregate for 1848 was $18,337.39. In Auburn the largest returns were made by the three men engaged in keeping store, namely: Thomas Freeman, Nelson Payne and Jonathan Puffenberger. Their respective valuations were $2,846, $1,065 and $1,006.

E. R. Woodbury and Alonzo Watkins under the firm name of Woodbury & Watkins were assessed $1,221. This firm engaged in the cattle trade and bought up and drove cattle to Buffalo.

The day of the drover is past never to return, and the swift car carries even from the prairies and plains of far away Texas, the wide-horned, wild-eyed steers for dwellers on the Atlantic coast, and the great packing houses of Kansas City and Chicago ship dressed beef across the ocean to the capital and metropolitan cities of Europe.

Union township raised $75 for a township fund, a sum that would not go far these days toward defraying the expenses of the small area of farm land composing it.

Auburn in 1848 had about forty houses and two hundred fifty inhabitants. There was scarcely a perceptible growth.

Somewhat more than half a dozen leading villagers, prominent among whom was the founder of the village, Park, thought they saw a future for the place and for themselves as its citizens. They had so long been identified with the village that it had grown to appear to them as the best location and of the first importance, and it had long been their home.

They marked the incoming of settlers, the rapidly growing volume of wealth in lands. They were justified in looking for an increase of business, a greater population, proportionate building and improvements and they had faith in Auburn.

They were thus encouraged to continue residence and to persevere in order that they and theirs in the years to come might reap a many-fold benefit for all their privations, inconveniences and difficulties, being firmly of the belief that increase of civilized society with its improvements would surely follow steady and patient industry.

And their faith and hopes have not been in vain, such expectations had been realized for years by many now departed, and such realizations are accorded to those who still remain, although their numbers are few and their years many.

(To be continued next week.)

PIONEER WEDDINGS.

1848.

Jan. 1, Noyce Coats to Rebecca Culp; ceremony Jan. 11 by John Bates J. P.

Jan. 21, Joseph Ellenwood to Eliza Smith, on same day by Jeremiah Hemstreet, J P.

Jan. 25, Wm. Whetsel to Eliza West, by Wm. R. McAnally, J. P. Jan. 27.

Jan. 27, Jesse C. Rose to Electa Handy, by P. B. Nimmons, J. P. Jan. 30.

Feb. 3, Isaac H. Latson to Lucetta Draggoo, by M. B. Carpenter, J. P. Feb 5.

Feb. 17, Lorenzo D. Conner to Lydia A. Wilson, by Rev. A. S. Bissell. Feb. 20.

Feb. 17, B. B. Dearborn to Elizabeth Wilson, by Rev. A. S. Bissell Feb. 20.

Feb. 26, Wm. Smith to Thirza Cosper, by Lanslot Ingman, J. P. Feb. 27.

March 8, John Antrup to Martha Jane Robbins, by M. B. Carpenter, J. P. March 8.

March 14, Edmund Elkins to Mary A. Carvin, by Rev. N. L. Thomas, March 15.

March 16, Charles C. Knapp to Sarah Ann Calkin, by John C. Wade, Probate Judge, March 30.

March 27, Squire Totten to Hester McCullough, by P. B. Nimmons, J. P. March 30.

April 17, Peter High to Sarah Ann Henderson, by John C. Hursh, April 23.

April 25, Geo. B. Shrader to Catharine Melly, by Rev. Emanuel Hall, April 27.

April 25, Elon Calkin to Polly Chappel, by M. B. Carpenter, J. P. April 25.

April 29, Harvey Ackley to Roxanna Coburn, by James Hadsell, Evangelist, April 30.

May 6, Daniel Stumbaugh to Ann S. Eichelberger, by Elder Enos H. Stewart, May 7.

May 8, Amos Halsey to Margaret Kinsey, by Elder H. Cherry, May 11.

May 11, James H. Abel to Abigail Putner, by Rev. John F. Coburn, May 14.

May 12, Wm. Prindle to Alvira Barnes, by Rev. S. Wanamaker.

May 31, Elias Noragon to Mary A. Waggoner, by Rev. James Cather, June 4.

June 21, Wm. Casebeer to Harriet P. Moor, by Samuel Learned, J. P. June 22.

June 21, Henry Chubb to Elizabeth Rub, by R. H. Warrell, J. P. June 22.

June 24, Rudolph Plattner to Sarah Smith, by Jacob Maurer, J. P. June 25.

July 1, Chas. Wanamaker to Lucinda Wanamaker, by Rev. S. Wanamaker. July 2.

July 17, John Rhinesmith to Esther Rickel, by Rev. James T. Bliss July 18.

July 21, Wm. Berry to Anna Plummer, by Jacob Maurer, J. P. July 23.

July 26, Edward Clark to Rachel Hite, by Jesse Sparks, July 28.

Aug. 1, David Humphry to Margaret Beere, by John Cary, J. P. Aug. 3.

Aug. 4, George W. A. Smith to Sarah Jane Watt, by M. B. Carpenter, J. P. August 17.

Aug. 24, Jonah Zeigler to Laura A. Hubbell, by John McCurdy, local preacher, August 25.

Sept. 2, Geo. McClish to Elizabeth McClish, by Jeremiah Hemstreet Sept. 7.

Sept. 16, John Husselman to Mary Ann Maxwell, by P. B. Nimmons, Sept. 17.

Sept. 23, Simeon Mann to Matilda McEndarffer, by Samuel Learned, J. P. October 3.

Sept. 30, Wm. Webster to Cordelia Wanamaker, by Rev. S. Wanamaker, October 1.

Oct. 2, Charles Bradley to Mary Ricketts, by John Bates, J. P. Oct. 3.

Oct. 4, Henry Robinson to Jerusha Andrews, by John Cary, J. P. Oct. 8.

Oct. 4, Rufus R. Lounsbury to Eliza Maxwell, by Rev. Samuel Lamb, Oct. 8.

Oct. 18, John Engle to Cynthia Knight, by Samuel Widney, associate, judge October 19.

Dec. 8, Henry Fountain to Sarah Truelove, by Jesse Sparks, Dec. 15.

Dec. 16, Adolphus Murphy to Angeline Crossly, by Rev. S. A. Bissell, Dec. 21.

Dec. 19, David A. Shoemaker to Phebe Ann Smith, by Elder Enos H. Stewart, December 25.

Dec. 3, Albert Draggoo to Sarah Miller, by Rev. Samuel Loomis, Dec. 3.

(To be Continued.)

Queer Pension Claim.

(Ft. Wayne News.)

Mayor Zollinger was applied to this morning by a lady resident in a queer pension case. The lady asserted that her deceased husband was a member of the 129th Indiana, of which the mayor was colonel, and brought his honor a photograph for identification. The lady further asserted that another woman claiming to be the wife of the deceased, was drawing his pension in Missouri. Mayor Zollinger instructed the lady to get further evidence and proof in support of her case, and he would interest himself in the matter.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder.

A Pure Cream of Tartar Powder. Superior to every other known. Used in Millions of Homes—40 Years the Standard.

Delicious Cake and Pastry, Light Flaky Biscuit, Griddle Cakes, Palatable and Wholesome.

No other baking powder does such work.

ATTENTION!

G. A. R.

We have just received a big lot of G. A. R. Suits and Hats. These suits are the genuine "Slater Blue". They are guaranteed to hold their color and give perfect satisfaction. We name the lowest prices. It will pay you to see them.

WE HANDLE THE

"Cleanfast Hosiery".

These goods have been thoroughly tested and prove to be absolutely fast color, and the prices are no higher than on hosiery which can not be guaranteed. Try a pair. If they crock in the least we will replace them or refund your money.

We are showing an immense line of Ginghams Challis, Muslin "D' Le Inde", Ceylon, Batiste, All Over Embroideries. Flouncings (both black and white), Silks, Satins, Serges and very many other fabrics, used for dresses which should be seen to be appreciated.

WE ARE PAYING

HIGHES PRICES

FOR WOOL.

It will be to your interest to trade with us.

Respectfully,

Schaab & Bro

The number of locomotives in the United States on June 20, 1890, is stated by the interstate commissioners' statistician at 29,036, and the total number of cars of all kinds at 1,097,571.

Are You Satisfied?

Are you satisfied when we say that every bottle of Dr. Marshal's Lung Syrup is sold on a positive guarantee? You could not ask for more. If you have never used this medicine do not fail to give it a trial. The proprietors of Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup, in guaranteeing this medicine to give satisfaction, are thorouhly convinced of its superior merit over all other cough medicines. Years of experience in handling this remedy enable them to know it's grea value. Sold by F. E. Davenport.

The Greeks raised statutes to their dogs. Socrates swore by his dog and Alexander the Great honored his by building a city with magnificent templse, which he dedicated to its memory.

James T. Gott, Carmi, Ill., Says:

He paid thirty-one dollars doctor's bill for his wife in one year, and one bottle of Bradfield's Female Regulator did her more good than all the medicine taken before. H. DALE, Druggist. Carmi, Ill. Write Bradfield Regl. Co., Atlanta, Ga., for particulars. Sold by F. E. Davenport and all druggists.

What is the length of a nautical knot in land measure? Six thousand and eighty feet. A land mile 5,280.

Says the Southern Medical World:

"Mother's Friend" is growing in favor throughout the south and is highly recommended by physicians. We consider it indispensible to those who know they must pass through the ordeal of childbirth. Write Bradfield Reg. Co., Atlanta, Ga., for particulars. Sold by F. E. Davenport and all druggists.

Recent statistics show that the French railways annually kill one person in each 2,000,000 carried, while in England 21,000,000 carried before one meets a violent death in a railway accident.

A Slip of Paper.

S. D. Henderson, of Mead Center, Kas. says: "I can not say too much in praise of your Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup and the peculiar way I came to try this medicine. I once found a slip of paper lying along the road, on which was printed these words, "Use Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup for Asthma," and my wife being troubled with asthma for several years, and having tried a great many different medicines, I thought I would just spend 50c more and try yours, and I must say it is the best she has ever used, and think it will cure her sound and well." Sold by F. E. Davenport.

What was the first regular transatlantic line, and when established? The British and American Royal Mail and Steam Packet company. Founded in 1840 by Samuel Cunard.

Just as Advertised.

Chamberlain's Immediate Relief has been tried for years and no one yet has ever found it to lack any of the qualities which it has been advertised to possess. It is a case where the truly great virtues of the medicine makes it necessary to add a single iota to the unvarnished truth about it. When Chamberlain's Immediate Relief is recommended as a cure for certain diseases, the public may rest assured that such results will be obtained, if the medicine is used according to directions. Try it and be convinced. Watch for testimony in next week's issue. Sold by all druggists. 5

The Rev. Frank C'en lenin, who is to marry Miss Gabrielle Greeley, had held to the theory that ministers should never marry. When he met the lady named he renounced.

"Thrift is a — good revenue."
Great Saving
results from cleanliness and SAPOLIO:
It is a solid cake ....of scouring soap
Try it in your next house-cleaning and be happy.

Looking out over the many homes of this country, we see thousands of women wearing away their lives in household drudgery that might be materially lessened by the use of a few cakes of SAPOLIO. If an hour is saved each time a cake is used, if one less wrinkle gathers upon the face because the toil is lightened, she must be a foolish woman who would hesitate to make the experiment, and he a churlish husband who would grudge the few cents which it costs.

NEW ASSESSMENT LAW.

A Fair Statement of the Principles and Provisions of the New Law—How it Will Benefit Honest Men and Particularly the Farmers.

("U. C." in Princeton Democrat.)

[Concluded from our issue of May 14.]

The statute of 1881 made it the duty of the assessor to value the real estate at its "full fair cash value, estimated at the price it would bring at a fair voluntary private sale." The law of 1891 says the assessor shall value the land at its "full true, cash value estimated at the price it would bring at a fair voluntary private sale, not at a forced or sheriff's sale." In each law the same elements are pointed out as those which shall be considered in fixing its value. The new law simply says to those who own the land: You shall no longer be false and insincere in this matter. You must value your real estate at what it is worth and not at what it is not worth." It is paradoxical to see a merchant insure his storehouse for $5,000 and value it for taxation at $1,000. Yet such is common. It is common to hear men talk of the sacrifice of property sold "under the hammer." Yet when the assessor calls these same men give "forced sale values" as "fair." The law is a strong, sincere and just effort to compel every particle of wealth, in whatever form its owner may have clothed it, to bear its part of the burden of taxation. These are the only sections of the law that affect the agricultural people, and no farmer will complain of a law that compels exact and equal taxation. Other sections of the law, however, fairly bristle with penalties against concealment of property. The assessor is armed with unusual and extraordinary power to compel corporations— banks, railroads and insurance companies, etc., to reveal their hidden riches and share with the farmer their just portion of the taxation. If the assessor does his duty the operation of the law will inure to the benefit of the farmer. If he has not the courage and ability to execute the law the censure should fall on him.

Many people are unduly and intencely excited and claim that taxes will be about doubled. This information comes from the same persons who knew the reforms of 1889 were all failures. Let us see how much of this is true and how much false.

The taxable property of Gibson county last year was $10,111,925. The amount of taxes levied in the whole county, including delinquent, was $196,469.25, of this amount $23,085.96 was for state purpose. The balance for the use of the county and the various townships and cities therein. This would show a necessary local tax, that it is a tax for other than state purposes, of about 1.7 per cent. less than derived from poll tax and loss from delinquency. Now suppose the new assessment law doubles the valuation of property in the county, increases it say from $10,000,000 to $20,000,000. There is a certain amount of money needed for local purposes and the merest novice can see that as you increase the valuation you decrease the rate. If you double the assessment you diminish the rate one-half. You decrease more even than this, for, by reason of the new law, more than $2,000,000 of property that has never been taxed for any other purposes will be compelled to bear its share of county taxation Take for illustration, the single item of railroads. They are valued under the last assessment at $700,095 in this county. They could not be purchased for less than $1,500,000 and will if justly assessed of themselves add an additional million almost to the valuation of Gibson county. For every dollar of tax paid in the county last year, one part went to the state and fourteen parts were used for local expenditure. If the new assessment decreases the county tax one-fourteenth by reason of the taxation of property heretofore untaxed, this will equal the increased taxation for state purposes. Will it do it? If it does not it will show one of two things to be true; either that assessors have been unable or untrue or that many people heretofore unsparingly censured for the concealment of property are innocent.

Last year the man whose property was valued at $400 paid a state tax of 48 cents. This year the same valuation of property will pay to the state $1.44. This is true of the theory that the assessment doubles the value of the property. But, as heretofore shown, if the county tax is decreased one fourteenth the increased state tax will be exactly equaled. While it is no doubt true that the taxable property of the county will pay a larger amount for taxes under the new law than under the old, it is equally true that the tangible and unconcealable property, that has eitherto borne all the weight of taxation, will not pay a farthing more to the million than it paid under the old law.

Under the new law Indiana's valuation of property will reach near $2,000,000,000. With an 18 cents levy her state debt should rapidly melt away. Her additional revenue is a financial necessity and legislative ingenuity could not more happily devise the means of obtaining it. From the foundation of the government to the present no patriotic citizen has ever murmured at a just and necessary tax however high. The social upheavals have been against unnecessary taxation.

Indiana, even under the new law, has a state taxation much lower than the vast majority of American commonwealths. That part of the state debt that the democratic party placed upon it is for the institutions of which every citizen, when properly informed, ought in justice to feel proud.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - PUBLISHER.

NEWS OF PAST WEEK.

AMATEUR HIGHWAYMEN AT WORK IN MAINE.

Twenty-Seven Chinamen Beheaded—Gov. Hovey Refuses a Requisition—Michigan's Governor Vetoes a Bill—A Million for the Fair.

A STRANGE STORY

In Which Figures an Elopement and a Stern Parent.

Indianapolis special: Gov. Hovey refused to honor a requisition from the Governor of Kentucky for Mrs. Laura Jones, of Rockport, daughter of John Bornhommi, of Owensboro, Ky., who charged her with committing perjury. Laura recently ran away from home and married young Mr. Jones, of Rockport, much against her father's wishes. He says that she swore she was of marriageable age, and is but 16 years of age. For this reason he would have her arrested, dragged back home and tried for a crime for which she would be sent to prison if proven guilty. In some way, which from this distance seems strange, Bornhommi succeeded in getting the Governor of Kentucky to issue a requisition for the girl, but Gov Hovey neatly nipped the scheme. In giving his reason for refusing to honor the requisition, he calls attention to the fact that there is only one person's affidavit against the girl and no grand jury indictment, while in Indiana the affidavit of at least two persons and an indictment are necessary before a requisition can be approved. In closing the communication Gov. Hovey gallantly says: "Outside of these considerations, this case seems very strange where a father seeks to have his daughter arrested and made a felon because of a natural desire to marry the man she loves. It is not an admirable spirit shown on the part of the parents, to say the least."

A BUNGLING JOB.

Amateur Highwaymen Unsuccessfully Attempt to Rob a Train.

Bangor, (Maine) special: A gang of four or five desperadoes attempted to hold up a train at Enfield. The train was bound for St. John, and when it had passed Enfield Station several shots were fired at the engineer. Just as the train was drawing out of Enfield a man was discovered by the fireman crawling over the tender. He shouted to the engineer to stop the train, but the latter paid no notice to his request. But subsequently the bell was rung, and after the ringing was repeated the train was brought to a stop. Immediately a party of four men began firing on the train. The leader was armed with a shot gun, and the others were armed with revolvers. The belief is that the men wanted to rifle the mail car. The engineer, however, started the train and succeeded in getting beyond the reach of the desperadoes' bullets before anybody was hurt. The station agent at Enfield fled for his life. He was in the act of hanging out the signal lamp when the gang fired upon him. One of the bullets struck the lantern. The affair has aroused the greatest excitement in this section. An effort will be made to effect their capture.

Michigan's Governor Vetoes a Bill.

Gov. Winans vetoed the bill which passed the Michigan Legislature appropriating $30,000 of State funds for the entertainment of the visitors to the State during the encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic at Detroit next August. The veto was based on constitutional grounds, the Governor holding the appropriation to be the diversion of public funds to a private purpose. An effort will be made to pass the bill over the veto. The failure to get the money from the State will cut no figure in Detroit's entertainment of the G. A. R. Great pressure has been brought on the Governor to let the bill go through.

Call Had a Call.

A special from Tallahassee, Fla., says: But Fifty-two members answered to the roll call Wednesday. The presiding officer at once declared a quorum, from which decision the anti-Call men appealed, but the chair was sustained and balloting for United States Senator commenced. Fifty-one votes were cast for Wilkinson Call and one for May. Call was then declared elected Senator for six years amid tremendous demonstrations of applause on the part of his friends.

Twenty-Seven Beheaded.

Advices by the steamship City of Peking, which has arrived at San Francisco from China and Japan, states that twenty-seven Chinese were beheaded by order of the authorities at Kowoloon City, April 27, and that nine of them are known to have participated in the Namoa piracy tragedy. A disturbance occurred recently at the Trentisn railroad between foreign employes of the railway company and Cantonese, and several foreigners were badly beaten.

A Million for the Fair.

The World's Fair bill appropriating $1,000,000 passed the Illinois Senate by a vote of 36 to 11. The friends of the measure were present in large numbers and joined with the Senators who voted in the affirmative in long and loud applause when the result of the vote was announced.

Barn Burners.

Incendiaries are at work at Fort Wayne, Ind. Two or three barns are sometimes fired in one night.

Paper Hangers Driven to the Wall.

R. T. Hyson's Sons, paper hangers, of Baltimore, Md., made an assignment. The assets are small.

Tramps, Temporarily.

The delegation which the Athletic Association of the University of Illinois appointed to attend the inter-State field day contest at St. Louis, procured old clothes and dressed as tramps, beat their way from Champaign to St. Louis and back.

A Dangerous Occupation.

Xenia Woods, son of Harold Woods, a prominent farmer residing several miles north of Upper Sandusky, Ohio, while breaking a pony, was trampled upon and so badly injured that it is feared he cannot recover.

A Bad Wreck.

Butler (Ind.) special: The west-bound train on the Lake Shore met with quite a bad mishap here. A sack of mail was thrown off as the train was passing the station at the rate of a mile a minute, and the sack struck a switch, throwing the same. As the sleeper passed the open switch, the rear trucks were thrown to the rails. Some men were on a handcar on the switch, and they quickly abandoned the car. The sleeper came on with terrific force, striking the car and knocking it into splinters. The train was stopped as quickly as possible but not until considerable damage had been done. The sleeper was badly wrecked. All the passengers were badly shaken up, and one of them had his leg quite badly crushed. It was fortunate that no one was killed.

LEPROSY

Sets Louisville, Ky., Wild.

Louisville special: There was a panic at the Short Line Depot recently when it was whispered around that a man who had the leprosy was in the gentlemen's waiting room. The man's face and hands were absolutely raw, and the nails dropping from the rotting fingers. His eyelids were almost gone and the sunken eyes nearly sightless. The hideous spectacle immediately caused a commotion, and, when a report was started that the man had leprosy, there was an immediate and hurried exodus from the depot. The watchman telephoned for the physicians, who soon arrived. The doctors refused to touch the loathsome object, but after a brief examination, by touching the quivering flesh with their canes, they pronounced the disease leprosy. By this time the depot was depopulated, and crowds of horror-stricken people stood across the street waiting for the doctors' verdict. The wretched man, evidently almost insane, stated that his name was William C. Piatt, and that his home was on Second street, in Covington, Ky. He muttered something about having just returned from the Sandwich Islands, where he had been on business and had fallen ill. Piatt is dressed in a fashionably cut suit of light clothing and a soft navy blue hat. He has a large tan-colored valise and a black overcoat in his possession. It was gathered from his rambling statement that he had come to Louisville several weeks ago, and had been aimlessly wandering about and was trying to return to Covington.

THE TREASURY ALL RIGHT.

There Will Be No Difficulty in Meeting the Quarterly Pension Payment Due June 4.

Secretary Foster says that he anticipated no difficulty in meeting the pension payments, aggregating $26,000,000, which fall due June 4. The available cash balance is now nearly $16,000,000, and will go beyond $26,000,000 by the early part of June by the continued excess of receipts over expenditures. The Secretary said there would be no necessity so far as he could see for calling in any Government deposits held by national banks to meet pension obligations. This bank fund now amounts to $24,500,000, exclusive of money deposits to the credit of disbursing officers. Secretary Foster said further, in response to inquiries on the subject, that while it was altogether unsettled, it was more than likely that the department would give holders of the $50,000,000 4½ per cent. bonds outstanding an opportunity to renew these bonds after September 1 at a reduced rate of interest. The Secretary, said a San Francisco banker, had given his opinion that these bonds could be floated at 1½ per cent. interest. He, however, did not think such a thing feasible with an interest rate less than 2 per cent. It was his impression that the matter would be settled definitely in a short time. He said that the recent gold shipments had clearly established one thing, and that was that the credit of the United States was above that of any other nation and could not be shaken by the severest drain.

The Supreme Court Adjourns.

The Supreme Court of the United States has adjourned until the second Monday in October. A large number of decisions, several of them of general importance, were rendered by the court. The most important case decided was that of John M. Wilkerson, Sheriff of Shawnee County, Kan., against Charles H. Rohrer. This is one of the original package cases, and it came to the Supreme Court on an appeal from the Kansas United States Circuit Court. Rohrer was the agent at Topeka, Kan., for a Kansas City, Mo., liquor firm. Last year he offered for sale beer and whisky in original packages. Rohrer was arrested for violating the Kansas prohibition law; but the United States Circuit Court for Kansas released him on a writ of habeas corpus. The Kansas authorities then brought the case to the Supreme Court on an appeal. The Court reverses the Circuit Court decree and remands the cause for further proceedings.

A Terrible Accident.

The limited on the Pennsylvania road dashed into a carriage at Mills' Crossing, near Latrobe, Westmoreland County, Pa. The particulars are very meagre, as the trainmen refuse to talk except to say that they were not running at extraordinary speed. Miss Mollie McNally, aged 17, was instantly killed; Miss Bertha McCreary, badly injured, and her companion, named R. Root, was torn to pieces. When the train pulled into Pittsburgh the engine presented a shocking appearance. The pilot, wheels and even steps were clotted with blood, while torn pieces of dress and strands of women's tresses were still clinging to portions of the train. The ladies, it seems, were driving across the track when struck. The engineer says he whistled and rang, but the horse was frightened and balked.

A Hoosier Enoch Arden.

Eighteen years ago Thomas Davis, a prominent and influential citizen of Bowling Green, Ind., mysteriously disappeared. His wife and two sons have for all these years mourned him as dead. The other night an elderly man appeared at Mrs. Davis' home and asked for the husband of the house. From an adjoining room Mrs. Davis recognized the voice and with a scream sprang into her long-lost husband's arms. Davis said he had been in Mexico most of the time, had written repeatedly but received no reply. Believing himself no longer loved he wandered from year to year until love for home prompted his return.

Bloody Boomers.

Helena (Mont.) special: Reports from the Flat Head country are to the effect that a reign of lawlessness exists among the boomers who have stampeded to that country in advance of the Great Northwestern extension, which is expected to boom land in the vicinity. Two new towns, Columbia Falls and Kalishell, have suddenly sprung up and $1,000,000 worth of lots sold in them. Among the motley population are many tough characters, and acts of violence are of frequent occurrence. Three men were killed within a few miles of each other in one day. Officials of the law are few and afford little protection.

Alphonso Taft Dead.

Ex-Minister Taft died at San Diego, Cal. Judge A. Taft has long been known as one of the most distinguished men of Cincinnati. He was an earnest, studious man, whose personal dignity lost nothing from habitual kindness and modesty. He served for a long time on the bench of the Superior Court, being honored once at least with election without opposition. General Grant called him to his cabinet as secretary of war and afterward made him attorney general. As Minister to Russia he maintained the highest name for his good judgement, and he was a good citizen in every sense of the word.

A Little Naval Economy.

The Secretary of the Navy issued a general order directing all officers of naval forces, whether squadrons or single ships, to practice the utmost economy in the use of coal. Vessels are expected to use sail whenever possible, and when under steam must not exceed their most economical rate except in cases of great emergency.

A Convict Killed by the Prison Guard.

Clayton Lloyd, a desperate white convict at the Pratt (Ala.) mines, serving a sentence of twelve years for attempting to poison his wife and children in Dale County, that he might marry a Georgia prostitute, attempted to escape by setting fire to the lattice work around the closet. He had saturated the wood with oil from his mine lamp. Having made an attempt before, he was being closely watched, and at the very time he was striking matches a guard was watching him from the outside. As he struck his second match the guard fired, killing him instantly. Four hundred prisoners were locked up in the building.

Indiana Baptist Assembly.

The Indiana Baptist Assembly will hold its third session at the Baptist Chautauqua, Pine Lake, Laporte, from June 20 to October 15. The Indiana Baptist Young People's Association will hold their annual meeting at the same place, permanently, as will also the Ministers' Institute. There will be Bible instruction and instruction in Baptist Church history. All evenings will be taken up with addresses, music and other entertainments. The annual meeting for the election of officers of the Indiana Baptist Assembly will be held on Wednesday, August 6.

Swift Justice.

Evansville (Ind.) special: News was received here of the waylaying and assaulting of a little white girl, 13 years old, the daughter of George Bowles, by a negro named Jennings. The negro was captured in a strip of woods a few miles from the scene of the assault, and while on the way to jail, a party of neighbors of Bowles took the brute from the guards, put a rope around his neck and dragged him into the air, afterwards filling his body with bullets. Jennings, before being hanged, acknowledged his crime and pleaded for mercy.

Is It True?

Mr. Samuel Ohmart, of Laketon, Ind., while fishing on the banks of Eel River, dislodged a half pint flask, containing the following note:

VIOLA, NOBLE Co., July 30, '63.

To whom it may concern:

This certifies that I, Will Morris, murdered Joe Smook for the purpose of robbery and because of ill treatment of me, on the 13th of July, 1863. You may find his body in Turkey Lake, about four miles east of Syracuse, Kosciusco County, Ind. His body lays about fifteen feet from the shore and about 175 feet southeast of a very big rock about 100 feet north of the shore of the lake. I got about $45, and will go to Mexico, never to return.

W. C. MORRIS.

Took Poison by Mistake.

Particulars of the death of Congressman Leondias Houk has reached Cincinnati. It states that Mr. Houk went into a drug store in Knoxville, and asked the clerk for a glass of ice water. It was placed on the counter next to a glass of dissolved arsenic and Mr. Houk picked up the latter and drank it. The clerk discovered the mistake and at once gave him an emetic and summoned a physician, who worked with his patient all night, but Mr. Houk grew worse and died before morning.

Coal Famine in Iowa.

The strike among the coal miners in Iowa must soon be settled or a number of railroads will suffer seriously from it. The Iowa Central can stand the strain for a few weeks yet, but the Milwaukee Road's supply is about exhausted. Work being resumed in the Illinois mines has helped matters some east of the Mississippi, but the Iowa lines have been supplied from the Iowa mines, and it is entirely shut off.

Amid a Shower of Bullets.

The wife of Derato Medina, living at Rio Grande, City, Texas, deserted him two weeks ago for a soldier at the barracks. Medina, on entering his house, found her arranging a basket of flowers. He stepped up, and while speaking words of welcome, drove a dirk into her heart, killing her instantly. He then fled followed by a mob, swam the river amid a shower of bullets, and escaped into Mexico.

Stolen Schooner Found.

The schooner Addie Emma, of Gloucester, Mass., which was stolen by Captain Edward Worthley several weeks ago, was picked up by some Lunenberg fishermen in an abandoned condition off Halifax harbor and towed as a prize to Lunenberg. The whereabouts of Worthley and his crew are unknown.

Killed Two Officers.

At Clements, Tuscaloosa County, Alabama, two officers, names unknown, surrounded the house of Jim Morrison, a notorious outlaw, and attempted to arrest him. Morrison opened fire, killing both officers, and was himself dangerously wounded, but escaped.

Sweetness on Our Shores.

There are thirty vessels lying at the Delaware breakwater laden with sugar from the West Indies. Their cargoes are worth $720,000 and aggregate 12,000 tons of sugar. This is the largest amount of sugar that ever passed the port of Wilmington, Del.

Increased Duties on Gold.

Telegrams from Rio Janeiro say that owing to the increase of exchange on London the Brazilian government's decree ordering that customs duties be levied in gold has been rescinded but that the duties have been increased 5 per cent.

A Revolution at Cordotz.

A cablegram from Buenos Ayres says a revolution has broken out in the Province of Cordotz. The insurgents have cut the telegraph wires.

THE MARKETS.

CHICAGO.
CATTLE—Common to Prime	$3.50	@ 6.40
HOGS—Shipping Grades	4.30	@ 4.68
SHEEP	5.00	@ 6.75
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	1.03	@ 1.04
CORN—No. 2	.57	@ .58
OATS—No. 2	.47	@ .49
RYE—No. 2	.86	@ .89
BUTTER—Choice Creamery	.17	@ .18
CHEESE—Full Cream, flats	.09½	@ .10
EGGS—Fresh	.15	@ .16
POTATOES—Western, per bu.	.96	@ 1.05
INDIANAPOLIS.
CATTLE—Shipping	3.50	@ 5.75
HOGS—Choice Light	3.00	@ 4.75
SHEEP—Common to Prime	4.00	@ 4.75
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	1.03	@ 1.04½
CORN—No. 1 White	.58	@ .59
OATS—No. 2 White	.49	@ .50
ST. LOUIS.
CATTLE	5.00	@ 5.95
HOGS	4.50	@ 4.60
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	1.02	@ 1.08
CORN—No. 2	.54	@ .54½
OATS—No. 2	.46½	@ .47
BARLEY—Iowa	.69	@ .71
CINCINNATI.
CATTLE	3.00	@ 5.25
HOGS	3.50	@ 5.60
SHEEP	3.50	@ 5.00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	1.07	@ 1.09
CORN—No. 2	.67	@ .68
OATS—No. 2 Mixed	.54	@ .56
DETROIT.
CATTLE	3.00	@ 5.25
HOGS	3.00	@ 4.85
SHEEP	3.00	@ 5.50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	1.09	@ 1.09½
CORN—No. 2 Yellow	.61	@ .62
OATS—No. 2 White	.52	@ .52½
TOLEDO.
WHEAT	1.08	@ 1.09
CORN—Cash	.58	@ .60
OATS—No. 1 White	.51	@ .52
CLOVER SEED	4.10	@ 4.20
EAST LIBERTY.
CATTLE—Common to Prime	4.25	@ 6.25
HOGS—Light	4.00	@ 5.00
SHEEP—Medium	4.50	@ 5.25
LAMBS	5.00	@ 7.00
MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—No 2 Spring	1.03	@ 1.04
CORN—No. 3	.64	@ .66
OATS—No. 2 White	.53	@ .54
RYE—No. 1	.93	@ .95
BARLEY—No. 2	.74	@ .75
PORK—Mess	11.25	@11.75
NEW YORK.
CATTLE	5.00	@ 6.50
HOGS	4.25	@ 5.40
SHEEP	5.50	@ 6.50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	1.12	@ 1.14½
CORN—No. 2	.67	@ .69½
OATS—Mixed Western	.50	@ .55
BUTTER—Creamery	.14	@ .19
EGGS—Western	.15	@ .16½
PORK—New Mess	12.00	@13.25

BORN AT CINCINNATI.

THE PEOPLE'S PARTY OF THE UNITED STATES.

Platform Adopted Amid Frantic Excitement—It Will Nominate a Presidential Ticket — Favors the Sub-Treasury Scheme, Demands Free Silver and Government Control of Railroads—"Good-by, Old Parties, Good-by."

A little political party was born into the world to-day, says a Cincinnati telegram. A chorus from the Farmers' Alliance song-book and three bangs from Temporary Chairman Cunningham's iron hammer preceded a prayer by the Rev. Gilbert Delamatyr, the Greenback ex-Congressman. Mr. Delamatyr was roundly applauded when he arose to pray.

Frequent and earnest amens from the audience punctuated the invocation, after which the delegates seemed to feel better and settled contentedly back in their chairs, while the Kansas Glee Club regaled them with a humorous ditty.

After an address by Jesse Harper, of Illinois, the report of the Committee on Credentials was presented, showing that thirty-four States and Territories were represented by 1,417 delegates having proper credentials. An invitation to lunch with the local delegates and an intimation that the lunch would not be entirely dry provoked a row. Helen M. Gougar created a scene by repudiating the convention, and retired amid cheers and hisses. Senator Peffer followed in a fervent address in favor of a new party, and then a recess was taken.

Soon after the convention had reassembled the report of the Committee on Platform was presented by Ignatius Donnelly and read by Robert Schilling. It opened with a lengthy statement of the political and social grievances and evils that had rendered political action not only desirable but necessary. Then came the resolutions, which read as follows:

1. That in view of the great social, industrial and economical revolution now dawning upon the civilized world, and the new and living issues confronting the American people, we believe that the time has arrived for a crystallization of the political reform forces of our country and the formation of what should be known as the People's Party of the United States.

2. That we most heartily indorse the demands of the platforms as adopted at St. Louis, Mo., in 1889, Ocala, Fla., in 1890, and Omaha, Neb., in 1891, by the industrial organizations there represented, summarized as follows:

A—The right to make and issue money is a sovereign power to be maintained by the people for the common benefit, hence we demand the abolition of national banks as banks of issue, and as a substitute for national bank notes we demand that legal tender treasury notes be issued in sufficient volume to transact the business of the country on a cash basis, without damage or especial advantage to any class or calling, such notes to be a legal tender in payment of all debts, public and private, and such notes, when demanded by the people, shall be loaned to them at not more than 2 per cent. per annum upon non-perishable products, as indicated in the Sub-Treasury plan, and also upon real estate with proper limitation upon the quantity of land and amount of money.

B—We demand the free and unlimited coinage of silver.

C—We demand the passage of laws prohibiting alien ownership of land, and that Congress take prompt action to devise some plan to obtain all lands now owned by alien and foreign syndicates, and that all land held by railroads and other corporations in excess of such as is actually used and needed by them be reclaimed by the Government and held for actual settlers only.

D—Believing the doctrine of equal rights to all and special privilege to none, we demand that taxation—national, State or municipal—shall not be used to build up one interest or class at the expense of another.

E—We demand that all revenue—national, State or county—shall be limited to the necessary expenses of the Government, economically and honestly administered.

F—We demand a just and equitable system of graduated tax on income.

G—We demand the most rigid, honest and just national control and supervision of the means of public communication and transportation, and if this control and supervision does not remove the abuses now existing we demand the Government ownership of such means of communication and transportation.

H—We demand the election of President, Vice President and United States Senators by a direct vote of the people.

3. That we urge united action of all progressive organizations in attending the conference called for Feb. 22, 1892, by six of the leading reform organizations.

4. That a national central committee be appointed by this conference, to be composed of a chairman to be elected by this body and of three members from each State represented, to be named by each State delegation.

5. That this central committee shall represent this body, attend the national conference on Feb. 22, 1892, and, if possible, unite with that and all other reform organizations there assembled. If no satisfactory arrangement can be effected this committee shall call a national convention not later than June 1, 1892, for the purpose of nominating candidates for President and Vice President.

6. That the members of the central committee for each State where there is no independent political organization conduct an active system of political agitation in their respective States.

The platform was adopted by a rising vote, and the roll of States was called for members of the National Committee, the convention adopting the innovation of appointing three members from each State instead of one member as the old parties have.

The Alliance Congressman, J. G. Otis, of Kansas, nominated H. E. Taubeneck, of Illinois, as Chairman of the National Executive Committee. There was a great outburst of cheers when Taubeneck's name was mentioned. W. R. Lamb, of Texas, seconded the nomination, saying he had watched Taubeneck's record and was satisfied. Taubeneck was chosen by acclamation. Loud calls for Taubeneck finally brought that gento the rostrum, where he made a brief but very manly and modest speech, thanking the delegates. He said:

"Gentlemen, you see before you all that is left of the celebrated independent party in the Illinois Legislature so often called the 'big three'." He added that while he sincerely appreciated the honor the convention had conferred upon him, he scarcely felt equal to doing the position of National Chairman justice, but he would do the best he could and would rely upon the assistance of the other members of the committee.

The following is the National Committee as appointed:

Arkansas—L. P. Featherstone, Isaac E. McCracken, J. Q. A. Bush.
California—Marion Cannon, H. C. Dillon, A. G. Hinckley.
Connecticut—Robert Pique.
Florida—W. D. Condon, L. Baskins, J. D. Goss.
Georgia—C. C. Post.
Iowa—J. B. Weaver, M. L. Wheat, A. J. Westfield.
Indiana—C. A. Powers, Leroy Templeton, J. D. Comstock.
Illinois—S. N. Norton, A. J. Streeter, H. E. Taubeneck.
Kansas—P. P. Elder, Levi Dumbald, R. S. Osborn.
Kentucky—D. L. Graves, S. F. Smith, T. G. Fallin.
Louisiana—J. J. Mills, Dr. R. B. Paine, John Pickett.
Massachusetts—C. F. Washburn, A. C. Brown, E. M. Boynton.
Michigan—Ben Colvin, Mrs. S. E. V. Emery, John O. Seabel.
Minnesota—Ignatius Donnelly, C. M. Perkins, Andre Stevenson.
Missouri—Paul J. Dickson, J. W. Rodgers, W. O. Atkeson.
Maine—H. S. Hobbs, F. A. Howard, D. W. Smith.
Nebraska—J. H. Edmeston, William Dysart, W. H. West.
New York—Jacob H. Studer, Joel J. Hoyt.
Ohio—Hugo Preyer, J. C. H. Cobb, H. F. Barnes.
Oklahoma—Samuel Crocker, A. E. Light, John Hogan.
Pennsylvania—R. A. Thompson, F. R. Agnew, Lewis Edwards.
South Dakota—J. W. Hardin, H. L. Loucks, Fred Zeppe.
Texas—W. R. Lamb, Thomas Gaines, J. H. Davis.
Tennessee—H. P. Osborne, G. W. J. Kay, John W. James.
Wisconsin—Robert Schilling, Alfred Manheimer, A. J. Philips.
West Virginia—Luther C. Shinn, George W. Hammond, Thomas C. Keeney.
Wyoming—H. Bretenstein, James A. Smith, H. D. Merrett.
District of Columbia—Lee Crandall, S. A. Bland, H. I. Schulthets.

A few moments of confused preparation for adjournment sine die ensued, then the Chairman's gavel fell, and the first convention of the People's Party of the United States had passed into history.

SCENES AND INCIDENTS.

Possibly the picture that will be longest remembered by those who witnessed it will be the unequaled display of enthusiasm by the big gathering at the joining of the blue and the gray with the black, in the person of an ex-Union soldier, a Texan ex-rebel, and the leader of the Colored Farmers' Alliance. The significance of the incident was little if any marred by the fact that the third of the trio was of pure Caucasian blood.

An appeal was made from the platform for funds to pay the fare home of a colored Alliance delegate from South Carolina. The delegate, Savage by name, came forward personally, and in a really clever speech, said the reason so few of the colored organizations were represented was that the colored people were too poor. It was perhaps as well for the convention, he added, naively, eyeing the hats that were being passed around for his benefit, that so few of the colored delegates came. He was handed the hatfuls of small change and retired amid great cheering for the colored Alliance.

A sensational feature of the proceedings following Donnelly's announcement came after the platform proper had been adopted. A California man was the individual that nearly rivaled the classic youth of ancient renown who fired the Ephesian dome. The Californian's name was G. W. Miller, and he was a Prohibitionist from the summit of his steeply brushed hair to the very bottom of his boot heels. Apparently nothing on earth could disconcert that Californian. Over 1,000 thoroughly enraged and disgusted brawny grangers and mechanics turned on him as if they could tear him limb from limb, but he refused to budge an inch.

He worked his jaws without ceasing, though every syllable he uttered was lost in the hurricane of jeers and contumely. The Californian wanted to thrust before the convention a resolution pledging the new party to the prohibition cause. The convention emphatically did not want to submit to any such process. But it had to. The nerve and grit of one man against a thousand carried the day, and the People's party before it was an hour old was forced to go on record upon the young Westerner's resolution.

The convention, however, instantly took its revenge. Like a vicious young colt it kicked the resolution into kingdom come with a sickening suddenness and vigor that must have surprised even Mr. Miller himself, though he managed somehow not to betray the fact. It is reported that many members of the national reform organization, headed by President W. W. Jones, of Illinois, had withdrawn from the party because of the defeat of the resolution.

THE PRESIDENT AND WIFE.

Some of the Presents Given Them on Their Recent Trip.

When Mrs. Harrison had her trunks unpacked, all the souvenirs of her journey were brought to light. She has them all arranged on the tables up-stairs in the corridor, and they make a glittering array of precious metals. The presents made to the President are also among the display, and between them all the number must certainly reach 400. On one long table are arranged all the gold and silver souvenirs. Their value is great, and in size and variety they range from the superb silver salver presented to Mrs. Harrison by the ladies of San Francisco to a tiny bit of a silver baby carriage, not much over an inch square, but beautifully wrought in filigree work, which was intrusted to the President to present to his grandson, Benjamin McKee. In Utah the President was given the freedom of the Territory in the presentation of a silver map of the Territory a foot square. In San Francisco the invitation to the Palace Hotel banquet was on a thick gold card, his menu card was another gold plate, and the freedom of the city was on a superbly wrought square of gold.

MORE NEW JERSEY JUSTICE.

An Illinois Man Fined Because He Wore Rubber Boots.

They do things queerly in New Jersey, say a New York telegram. A young man dressed in the height of fashion, with his feet encased in a pair of rubber boots that reached to his knees, was walking hurriedly through Summit avenue, Jersey City, late the other night. A number of burglaries have been committed in that part of the city, and Policeman Rockford met the fashionably-dressed man, and concluded that he came under the head of suspicious characters, and arrested him. At the police station the prisoner, who declared his arrest an outrage, gave his name as Isaac P. S. Olivar, and said his home was in Tompkinsville, Ill. He was locked up. He told Police Justice Davis that he was on a walking tour when arrested. "Why did you wear rubber boots?" asked the justice. "I supposed I had a right to wear any kind of boots or shoes I pleased," replied the prisoner. "You are fined $10," said the justice.

Lawless Huckleberry Farmers.

Anyone who has ever lived or traveled through the wooded countries of this State or Pennsylvania, writes a correspondent for Corning, N. Y., can't have failed to notice, in the early spring or late fall, pillars of smoke rising among the trees on the mountains at regular intervals in the woods. The fires are the work of the shiftless bushwhackers, who live in the mountains of all such regions. They start the fires in the woods simply to increase the area of huckleberry bushes in the picking and marketing of the fruit, on which they largely depend for eking out the miserable existence they lead. There is only one way in which the huckleberries can be cultivated, and the huckleberry farmer does not need to own an inch of land. If he has the title to only one lucifer match he can put thousands of acres under cultivation in a very short time. He has only to light it and touch it to the dry leaves and brush, either in early spring or late fall, and his cultivation is soon under way. What the result may be in loss of life and property does not concern him, and nine out of ten forest fires that devastate the Pennsylvania woods annually may be traced directly to the torch of these outlaws.

BY the aid of popular subscription, and after much agitation, the Metropolitan Museum in New York will hereafter be open on Sundays.

A SPRINGFIELD (Mo.) man burst a blood vessel by blowing his nose and nearly bled to death before medical attendance arrived.

STRICTLY FOR INDIANA.

TAKE THE TIME TO READ ABOUT A GREAT STATE.

Injured While Rolling Logs—Co-Operative Cheese Factory—Paroled by the Governor—New Albany Needs Brick—Sudden Deaths.

—Frankfort expects soon to get free delivery.

—The usual fee for a spree in New Albany is $9.50.

—A child at Fortville caught diphtheria from a cat and died.

—Total sales of plants by Indiana florists last year $276,909.58.

—Lulu Preefer is the second woman notary public in Clark County.

—Clark County has twenty-three one-armed persons—all self-sustaining.

—The Methodists are preparing to build a new church in New Albany.

—The New Albany Council expects to increase the salaries of all city officers.

—Charles Strand fell into an elevator shaft at Michigan City and was killed.

—Dr. D. Pagin, of South Bend, predicts the world will come to an end in the year 2062.

—Andy Brown, prominent farmer, disappeared from his home near Martinsville.

—They can't make bricks fast enough at New Albany to supply building demands.

—Kokomo Strawboard Company will be prosecuted for polluting waters of the Wildcat.

—Sherman Perkins, of Company E., Sixth Ohio Infantry, was found crazy wandering in Rising Sun.

—Six-year-old Frank Fox waded over his head in St. Mary's River at Fort Wayne, and was drowned.

—Norton Brown, one of the wealthiest farmers in Floyd County, died at his home near Galena, aged 74.

—A firemen's tournament will be one of the features of the Fourth of July celebration at Crawfordsville.

—John Baker, New Albany, took sugar of lead for epsom salts and was retained on earth with great difficulty.

—An unknown man about 70 years of age was run down by the Big Four east-bound passenger train at Colfax.

—Conduit system for electric railways invented by Wm. Bradley, Fort Wayne, awakening interest the country over.

—Women are not permitted to sell ribbons and corsets from house to house in New Albany without a city license.

—Rev. J. W. Bird, of Charlestown, has accepted a call to the pastorate of the First Presbyterian Church at Seymour.

—Frank Bullet, a Claysburg boy, while being chewed up by a vicious bull dog, was rescued by a large Newfoundland dog.

—Frank Smith, a traveling man of Indianapolis, drove off a bridge near Crawfordsville, and had his thigh broken.

—A man in Montgomery County, when his child died, made inquiry if he could get a second-hand coffin cheaper than a new one.

—Tramps near Richmond took a basket of groceries from a boy named John Johnson and then tied him to a tree in the woods.

—Rain or shine, 'Squire Keigwin every day manages to kiss some Kentucky bride and get his name in the paper at Jeffersonville.

—There are 207 members in the Crawfordsville Young Men's Christian Association, which has been organized about four years.

—Landlord Burnett, who was euchred out of his hotel at Logansport on a Dakota land deal, has "swapped back" by order of the court.

—Aaron Hudson, of Montgomery County, who, in attempting to commit suicide, severed his wind-pipe, is able to be up again and at work.

—The Cerealine Manufacturing Company at Columbus is erecting a $27,000 elevator, as a store-house for corn to be used in the manufacture of cerealine.

—Panhandle Engineer John Manes, of Hartford City, has presented the Soldiers' Home at Marion with one of the eagles captured at English lake, Porter County.

—The $10,000 damage suit of Mrs. Elizabeth Goedecker, of New Albany, against the Monon for killing J. B. Goedecker in the wreck near Mitchell, in February, 1890, has been compromised for $3,000.

—Florence Boyd one, of the best known men in Clay Township, Wayne County, was perhaps fatally hurt while loading logs on a Pan-Handle car at Greensfork. A stake was thrown against his breast with such force as to knock him ten feet, injuring him internally.

—At Amboy a peculiar and terrible accident befell Mrs. David Lemon. She started to a neighbor's, and had walked but thirty yards when she was stricken totally blind. She was taken back home, and an hour later became a raving maniac. Before midnight she was dead.

—In 1825 Mrs. Elizabeth Daugherty reached Bartholomew County by way of Madison, and since that time until the other day had never been out of the county. She went down to Madison to see some relatives that have recenty moved there. She is one of the oldest inhabitants in the county.

—Ted Ring, the Montgomery County desperado, who was serving a jail sentence in Parke County for beating his grandfather, broke jail and returned to Crawfordsville, where he was thrown out of a saloon and rearrested.

—Henry Schenk, of Montgomery County, made an attempt to commit suicide by jumping in the creek, but the water was not of sufficient depth, and he will be sent to the insane asylum, where he had been undergoing treatment.

—The Humane Society of Greencastle has issued a decree that cruelty to animals as well as children must cease. The city fire department is preparing to take part in the firemen's tournament at Crawfordsville, to be held on the Fourth of July. Frequent runs with a heavy hose reel are made to the city limits to test the speed of the horses. But now comes to the S. P. C. A. with a protest to the city authorities against making the noble steeds suffer in that way. The fire committee has promised that there shall be no further cause of complaint.

—James Maham, 50 years old, who was trying to break a colt at Peru, received a bad fall and will die.

—Lucinda McKee and Martha Ann Darnell, of Bainbridge, are 81 years of age, and are twins. They look alike, dress alike, were married within a year of each other, and were widows within three months of each other. Mrs. McKee is the mother of sixteen children, and Mrs. Darnell of fourteen.

—S. Webber Smith, a farmer and stock dealer, residing one mile east of Columbus, recently sold to Eastman & Co., of Jersey City, 135 head of fat cattle for $10,964. One fat steer weighed 2,280 pounds. This is the largest sale of fat cattle ever made in Bartholomew County. The cattle were bought for export.

—The 10-year-old daughter of Virgil Wolf, living near Stamper's Creek, eight miles southeast of Orleans, was burned to death. While the mother was gone to the spring for some water the daughter attempted to lift the tea-kettle from a hook in the fire-place, when her clothing caught fire and burned her so badly that the flesh fell from the bones.

—Charles McMillen, sent to the Southern prison for two years in March, 1890, from Parke County, for larceny, has been paroled by the Governor upon petition of the court officials and many citizens, including the man from whom McMillen stole two revolvers, the theft for which he was sentenced. He is only 17 years old, and was led into crime by an older man, who is now serving a sentence at Michigan City.

—The better-class of people in the vicinity of Martinsville are determined to put an end to the wholesale slaughter of fish in White River by dynamite. Thousands are being destroyed in this manner, and the original sport of pole-fishing has been almost ruined. The other morning Blueford James was arranged before the Mayor on a charge of fishing with dynamite and pleaded guilty. He was fined $10 and costs. The officers are looking for several more persons who are said to have been engaged in the same business.

—A wood-house was erected in the yard of a country school in Montgomery County, and was painted. In a few days a saloon advertisement was painted on the building, and the trustee promptly painted over it. In a few days an advertisement for a grocery was found on it, and again it was painted over. One morning last week it was found that the Barnum show-bills had been pasted on the shed, and then all further attempts to keep the building free from advertisements were given up.

—Seventeen months ago Willie, the 13-year-old son of Louis Affelder, a very prominent and respected citizen of Peru, disappeared, and since then not the slightest trace has been obtained of his whereabouts, though his father expended a fortune in advertising and in detective agencies. The other day Willie came home. He had spent his time seeing the world in all large cities, as was his intention when he ran away. He spent the last seven months in San Francisco, was in Chicago for the first two weeks working as messenger in a police station, during which time the Chicago Pinkertons had the case.

—Miss Mary H. Krout, one of the lady managers of the World's Fair Commission from Indiana, had a narrow escape in a runaway in Crawfordsville. She was in a carriage on the way to the Monon depot to return to Chicago. The driver left the horses standing in front of a hotel, and during his absence the team started rapidly down the street to the 'bus stable. Turning the corner, the wheel struck a telephone pole, and Miss Krout was violently thrown against the side of the vehicle. The horses were caught, and as the carriage failed to be overturned, Miss Krout escaped with nothing worse than a scare and a bad shaking up.

—George Mabbitt, a prominent farmer, was instantly killed by lightning while returning home from Frankfort. His little boy occupied the seat with him in the wagon, and escaped with a slight shock. One of the horses was killed and the other badly injured. George Mabbitt was a cousin of the four Mabbitt children whose names have been so frequently before the public. Luella Mabbitt was murdered by her lover Green, who was brought back from Texas and lynched a few years ago. The other three children, Orvis, Mont, and Minnie were arrested last winter, charged with murdering Minnie's baby. She was acquitted and the two boys are awaiting their trial.

—A dastardly attempt was made to wreck the Pacific express on the Wabash railway, a mile east of Wabash. A steel rail, lying in a rack at the side of the track, was thrown across the rails in such a manner as to derail any train passing. A huge bowlder, weighing five hundred pounds, was rolled upon the track five hundred feet further west. The express, running at the rate of fifty miles an hour, struck the rail, the engineer not perceiving it until he was nearly on it. The truck wheels of the locomotive left the track, and ran along the ties for some distance. Fortunately the drivers held the rails, else the entire train would almost certainly have gone down a forty-foot embankment.

—While engaged at plastering a high ceiling at the Columbus St. Denis Hotel, Charles Ross fell to the floor, some fifteen feet below, breaking his right arm and sustaining internal injuries. He will recover.

—A student of Wabash College, while riding a bicycle down a hill, struck a man in the back and landed him at the bottom among several dozen eggs, which he was carrying. The student paid $1 for the broken eggs, and the man departed happy.

—George Farrell McCabe, of Richmond, who never saw or heard anything of his father after the latter went to the war, has found his long-lost parent in the Soldiers' Home at Dayton.

—A new company, with a capital stock of $4,500, has been organized at Russiaville for the purpose of starting a butter and cheese factory on the co-operative plan. There are fifty-one stockholders, the greater number being farmers. A contract has been let for building and equipping the factory to a Chicago firm, and the factory will be in operation about September.

SAVED AT LAST.

AUBURN, IND., Oct. 3, 1890.

Dr. J. W. Bergen:

Dear Sir:—By this time, I presume, you will want to know how I am getting along with Bergen's Asthma Cure.

Well, you have heard of persons obtaining a new life. Now I really feel that way myself. When I began taking Bergen's Asthma Cure, I was just coming out of a long siege of it, and was reduced to 115 pounds; weak, short of breath, chills, fever, and badly demoralized generally, coughing from half an hour to an hour every night.

Since commencing, from the third night, I have not lost ten minutes' sleep all night, cough gone, gained seventeen pounds, chills gone, fever gone, shortness of breath and difficulty of breathing gone, consequently I feel a thousand per cent. better. I thank God every day that I ever saw your advertisement, and that I was induced to write to you.

This is peculiarly encouraging in my case, as I had suffered so long and was so discouraged about my case, having tried everything. I am telling the good news every day.

Push on the good work; you are on the right track.

Yours Very Gratefully,
R. McDOUGALL.

Sold by ROBINS & McCORD.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The undersigned, having been restored to health by simple means, after suffering for several years with a severe lung affection, and that dread disease, CONSUMPTION, is anxious to make known to his fellow-sufferers the means of cure. To those who desire it he will cheerfully send, free of charge, a copy of the prescription used, which they will find a sure cure for CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, CATARRH, BRONCHITIS, and all Throat and Lung Maladies. He hopes all sufferers will try this Remedy, as it is invaluable. Those desiring the prescription, which will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing, will please address, REV. EDWARD A. WILSON, Williamsburg, Kings County, New York. 1y.

NO MORE OF THIS!

Rubber Shoes unless worn uncomfortably tight, will often slip off the feet. To remedy this evil the

"COLCHESTER" RUBBER CO.

offer a shoe with the inside of the heel lined with rubber. This clings to the shoe and prevents the Rubber from slipping off.

Call for the "Colchester"

"ADHESIVE COUNTERS"

and you can walk, run or jump in them.

ODELL TYPE WRITER

ONLY $15.

IN 3 DAYS YOU CAN WRITE FASTER THAN WITH A PEN.

CLEAN, PERFECT WORK.

Manifolds 14 Copies, METAL TYPE.

IT IS FOR EVERYBODY.

Only 35 parts; high-priced machines have $20. Shows simplicity and durability.

YOU WANT ONE.

STANDARD CYCLE CO., Buffalo, N. Y.

I CURE FITS!

When I say CURE I do not mean merely to stop them for a time, and then have them return again. I MEAN A RADICAL CURE. I have made the disease of

FITS, EPILEPSY or FALLING SICKNESS,

A life-long study. I WARRANT my remedy to CURE the worst cases. Because others have failed is no reason for not now receiving a cure. Send at once for a treatise and a FREE BOTTLE of my INFALLIBLE REMEDY. Give Express and Post Office. It costs you nothing for a trial, and it will cure you. Address

H. G. ROOT, M.C., 183 PEARL ST., NEW YORK

REMEMBER KLINCK IS THE NAME OF THAT Wonderful Remedy

That Cures Catarrh, Hay-Fever, Cold in the Head, Sore Throat, Canker, and Bronchitis.

The testimonials to these FACTS are NUMEROUS and STRONG, similar to the following:

From the Hon. Harvey D. Colvin, Ex-Mayor of Chicago:

CHICAGO, July 24, 1890.

S. H. KLINCK—DEAR SIR: I am pleased to say that I consider your remedy the best medicine in existence, for the human afflictions you claim to cure. I suffered from catarrh with bronchitis for many years. During that time I employed physicians and faithfully tried many so-called remedies advertised to cure this disease, without any material benefit, when a friend induced me to try your remedy, claiming others had been cured by it. The first bottle gave me the most pleasing results. I have continued its use and I can not say too much for it. It found me too near the grave for comfort and restored me to health again. It adorns my toilet stand and by using it occasionally I am kept well.

I would not be without it if it cost $25 per bottle. I earnestly recommend it to all my afflicted friends.

For Sale by leading Druggists.

PINT BOTTLES - - $1.00

Klinck Catarrh & Bronchial Remedy Co., 82 JACKSON ST., CHICAGO, ILL.

LIVING AND LOVING.

BY MATTIE HOLLAND SWANN.

It isn't life's purple and gold, dear,
That makes it best worth living;
Not always the very costliest gifts
Are dearest and best worth giving;
The heart that beats in truest time
With the music of creation
Is happier far than his whose will
Can make or mar a nation.

The little sunny gleams that prove
Our dark cloud's hopeful lining
Are brighter, dear, than if we had Walked always in the shining.
I do not think God loves us less,
Or frowns on us hereafter
Because we cover up a sigh
With single-hearted laughter.

There is no heart so poor but gives,
If it but will, a treasure
Richer than any kings may own,
Greater than time can measure.
No life can e'er be poor and cold,
Or craving some new blessing,
That hath and holdeth fairy gold,
Love's gracious self possessing.

Love soundeth depths that none may reach
With any common plummet,
It leadeth up to heights beyond
This work-a-day life's summit.
A little tender, human love,
Just at the right time given,
Goes far to make this sad old earth
Seem like a piece of Heaven.

CHUB.

A Romance of West Virginia.

BY DAVID LOWRY.

CHAPTER XV.

CHUB'S COMPACT WITH THE DETECTIVE.

"If you arrest Bill Monk—well, you may prove it on him, and he may find a way to get pardoned out of the penitentiary, or he may get off altogether. Mr. Potts and his wife were never out of Pine County. They might mix them up in court, and then where's the proof?"

"Well, what do you propose, Miss Dawson?"

"Plain sense. You've got all you can in this case. It won't hurt it to try and get another—as many as you can, especially if you have a chance of getting one of the gang to confess all he knows."

"Ah! That would be something. Counterfeiters don't usually leak so easily, though."

"Don't they? Well, maybe you know your business, Mr.——"

"Call me—call me Bash," said the stranger, in a low tone.

"What! Are you any kin to Mr. Bash?"

"I can't answer that now. I've told you what to call me for the present, if you use a name at all."

"Well, Mr. Bash," with an emphasis on the name that brought a faint tinge to the traveler's cheeks, "that's all I've got to say."

"But you was going to put me on a plan."

"Oh, no! Not if you don't want to be put on a plan."

"But I do."

"Then you must be guided entirely by me."

"But——"

"That's all. If you are ready to do as I say, promise solemnly in the presence of my father and Mr. Potts."

"And what will you promise?"

"I'll promise on my honor to tell you how you will find proof that will place every one of the gang—mind, all of them—in the penitentiary, and to clear Pine County of the meanest, lowest lot that ever lived on the mountains."

"It's a bargain. I'll take my solemn oath in the presence of the——"

"There, there! If your word won't do your swearing's of no account with me, Mr. Bash," said Hank Dawson. "If Chub says a thing she'll do it. Rely on it."

"Yes, you may, Mr. Bash," said Mr. Potts, greatly relieved by the turn affairs had taken.

He was very much indebted to Chub, and pressed her hand gently when unobserved by the stranger who called himself "Mr. Bash for the present."

"Now, then," said Chub, suddenly; "have you any men with you? Can you set out right away—in an hour, say—on the lookout for the factory?"

"I can pay any one you employ or name."

"You have power to search everywhere?"

"Everywhere."

"Then, dad, we'll start in a new direction this time. How much can you pay a day?"

"I can pay much or little—a great deal, if I choose."

"That's all, Mr. Bash. Stop right where you are till you hear from us again. Now, dad, let's get as many men, and boys, and dogs as we can find—we'll just comb the woods in every direction, just the same as if we'd never hunted for Dan at all."

"That's sensible, too, Chub."

"I'm going to find the counterfeiters' factory, and I'm going to find Dan before sundown, dad."

"I hope you may, Chub—I hope you may," said Hank Dawson.

But in his secret soul he believed Dan Bash was dead—that he would never be found alive, and that the chances were he would never be found in time to receive decent Christian burial.

While Mr. Bash was waiting at the Corners he drew Mr. and Mrs. Potts out freely.

"That's a bright girl, that."

"Who, Chub Dawson?" Eli Potts stroked his chin. "Bright's no name for it. I never knew a girl like her."

"Nor I," said Mrs. Potts.

"She don't seem the least bit proud."

"Well, she might be. Hank Dawson's about the richest man in this—yes, in three counties. You can't find a man in Oak, Pine, or Forest County like Hank; that is, for ready cash. But you see what he is. No airs at all."

"Any more children?"

"No, Chub'll get it all."

"Curious name?"

"'Taint her name at all," said Mrs. Potts. "Her name's Belle. That's the nickname her dad gave her—and everybody kept calling it, because she was such a chubby little girl. She'd climb the biggest trees—hunt and ride, and—well, there's nothing Chub Dawson can't do!"

"Except play the piano—and paint, and crochet" said Mr. Bash, slyly.

Mrs. Potts looked at him. Mr. Potts made a wry face. Then they looked at each other and smiled.

"What are you looking at each other that way for?" said Mr. Bash.

"Because it is so easy to fool the world."

"Meaning me?"

"Yes; you, too."

"Why?"

"You've seen Chub in her plain gown—heard her talking just as all talk—and you think she don't know no better."

"Does she?"

"She can teach you anything—that is, about how to behave—and about books and music and painting."

"Hello! How's that?"

"D'ye think Hank Dawson, if he was alone, would allow a daughter to grow up without giving her the best chances? That ain't Hank Dawson. No! Why, he sent her to the best music-teacher in the city—and to the place where they learn to draw—some college or other, where they design—he spent no end of money on Chub. She's her melodion, or organ—and planer and a harp—but she don't play on the harp—she does beat all the players I ever heard tell of on the piano. Oh, yes, and she can write a letter if she's a mind to; but living here 'mong us, and trying not to be above any one, she's just like a gal that's never been to school."

"Extraordinary—most extraordinary," said Mr. Bash.

"Yes, 'tis. I never heard of any one like her. And she's the pluckiest girl I ever seen—Chub is. If Chub Dawson would put her best duds on, I'll bet you never saw a pootier gal in all your life."

"I believe it," said Mr. Bash.

"You may," said Mr. Potts, solemnly.

Whereat Mr. Bash—at the present—wondered very much.

This, then, was the aid that was to enable him to capture the slipperiest gang of counterfeiters in the country.

They had been shrewd enough to refrain from circulating the base money near their home. But the smartest rogues are caught napping occasionally. Either accidentally or deliberately, Bill Monk had given Eli Potts a counterfeit ten dollar note—the very note that Mr. Bash was on the lookout for, and the reader has seen how it promised to bring him up with a round turn.

CHAPTER XVI.

ON THE TRAIL—A DISCOVERY.

"Now, dad," said Chub, as they hastened home, "you go to Speer's—have the women folks send to the men; tell them they'll get $10 apiece, and five for all the boys, and the same for every dog they bring. I'll ride to Keggers', and I'll get them to send over to Whalley's—that's the best plan to get the word round soon. And mind, everybody's to make straight for the Corners first. After that—and, oh! yes, dad, don't forget the horns—they must bring horns and keep blowing them. And if they find anything they must fire guns—that's the easiest and best plan I can think of now."

"That's the best idea out, Chub."

"Well, make haste, dad. I'll find Dan before sunset; be sure I will, dad."

"I hope and trust you may, Chub."

The neighbors, although living far apart, soon heard of the rare opportunity to make a considerable sum of money, and at the same time settle for all time the question of the disappearance of Dan Bash.

In less than an hour thirty men and as many boys were gathered at the Corners. There were a dozen good dogs, and some curs that ought to have been drowned.

A number had horns, and everybody had a gun.

It was Chub Dawson who issued orders. She did it in such clear terms that nobody could fail to comprehend just what he had to do.

"Dad, I'll go with Mr. Bash and these boys, and you take the same road you went over last night. Now, we are all ready."

It was thus the quest for the counterfeiters' factory was begun in earnest—and the most exciting and thorough search that had yet been made for Dan Bash.

It is unnecessary to say that Chub had, with the assistance of Mr. Bash, instructed a number of those heading the different little groups to be on the lookout for every sign that indicated the presence, at any time, of a man.

All crevices, heavy undergrowth, caves and great hollow trees were to be examined closely.

And everything that seemed like a pit or strange and unusual depression in the earth was to be examined.

Chub still remembered her strange dream. Her lover was lying bound somewhere. Bound by his enemies and left to die, or else some cruel fate had ordered it that nature was responsible for his condition.

The horns blew; the sound echoed over the mountain tops as the search was prosecuted. The dogs' barking assisted the hunters in keeping near each other.

"We are taking in a heap of territory in this hunt," said Hank Dawson to his neighbor as they joined each other at the end of an hour.

"Yes, indeed; we're spread out pretty wide. I reckon this is a leetle the biggest swath any hunting party has ever cut on any mountains. There's enough in the search now to find every squirrel and snake within five miles of the regular road. Seems as if the whole country's out now."

It was true.

Either the earnestness displayed by those who heard of the money to be earned or an unaccountable whim seized the people. Wherever the searchers moved they were quickly joined by others, who spread out until upward of a hundred were engaged in the search, on horseback and afoot.

"There! Did you hear that?"

It was Hank Dawson, who held his head to one side quickly.

"That's a gun."

"Yes—off to the right."

"Where would it be, likely?"

Hank reflected.

"Well, now, I believe I can locate that. If they'd only fire another."

He put a hand up to his ear and nodded.

"I thought so. I've got it now."

"Where did the sound come from?—these echoes mislead me," said his neighbor.

"Yes—they are misleadin'—but I've got the pint—we'll come to them right smart now—mind if we don't."

"There's another."

"They must be in a hurry—a pesky hurry. We'll make out to get there on time, now, I reckon."

"But you haven't told me where it is."

"Oh! I meant to. Why, as near as I can guess, that shootin' is about the Big Rock."

"I know as much now as I did afore."

"Humph! Well, there's lots o' folks round here that ain't a bit wiser than you be."

Hank Dawson was urging his horse forward now speedily. His companion could scarcely keep up with him as he made his way through the forest.

Back of them followed two or three others—men and boys on foot, with dogs yelping and barking.

Hank hastily made his way to the point he thought the sounds came from.

He called loudly to those near him to follow. These in turn shouted to others and blew their tin horns.

In ten minutes, or less time, a considerable number were directly in the rear of Hank Dawson, who pressed on quickly until he reached a spot that overlooked a considerable expanse of country.

This spot was known to the old inhabitants of the county as Baldy.

It was a spot that Nature seemed to have left unfinished. The rocks were so large and thick—so heavily piled on top of each other—that they looked like a pile of material tossed down in a heap, in a hurry. The trees would not grow there. Some vines grew around the gray rocks, and a few berries.

The place had such a lonely, such a dreary, desolate aspect, that mankind avoided it. The hunter happening that way never did more than glance at the waste place, shudder as the prospect of plunging into snakes' dens rose rapidly in his mind, and turn his back cheerfully on Baldy.

Even to Hank Dawson the place did not look very inviting.

The Big Rock he had spoken of loomed up before him. It was a marvel in height, length and solidity. What seemed to the eye of the traveler on the road far below a stone as large as an average log cabin rose sheer, abruptly at least fifty feet. Its gray face was wrinkled with the wash of untold centuries. The rocks near it were dwarfed in comparison.

Not a living creature was in sight.

"Cur'us," said Hank Dawson, "mighty cur'us, this is. I'm certain that shot came from here."

As Hank stood looking over Baldy, a group gathered near him.

Suddenly there was a shout—a loud voice was heard, followed by another in altercation. Then there were sounds of a scuffle.

The sounds seemed to come from the base of the big rock.

"Blast my cats!" a favorite expletive with Hank Dawson. "I ought to know that voice."

Then, picking his way carefully among the rocks—they were very thick there where he stood—he added, in a loud voice, to his companions:

"Come on, boys—that's Chub's gun I heard, I'm pretty sure; and I'm just as sure I heard her voice."

He pushed on over the stones, and passed around the corner of the big rock on Baldy, when those nearest him heard him utter a sharp exclamation and leap from his horse.

It was not much wonder.

What Hank Dawson beheld was sufficient to stir the blood of more sluggish men.

The scene that met his gaze there on Baldy was talked of years afterward.

In the cavity between the enormous rock and a lesser rock at its base in the rear was a rude cabin. The cabin was wholly concealed from the view of those who chanced to come that way. There was but one way to perceive it, and that was by approaching it from the corner of the rock Hank Dawson had approached it.

Even there the few bushes and vines clambering over the face of the low-lying rocks almost concealed the cabin.

Standing where Hank Dawson approached it, his attention was attracted by the flutter of a dress he well knew. Then his eye followed the movements of his daughter, first to a man lying on the ground, next to a man who crouched before the rifle aimed at him.

The rifle was in the hands of Chub. The man crouching at the base of a rock was one of the Monks gang.

From all other sides the opening between the two rocks was concealed, first by undergrowth, then by rocks tumbled up promiscuously. The roof of the cabin that caught Hank's eye was formed by placing limbs of trees between the edge and side of the small rock and the face of the great gray rock.

Hank Dawson's eye took these details in at a single glance, and then, as I have related, he leaped from his horse and sprang toward his daughter, exclaiming:

"I'm here, Chub!"

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

Had Been a Drummer.

He was a typical tramp, and every person in the room eyed him suspiciously as he entered the hotel office, and apologetically approached the stove. His ragged garments were greasy and dirty, and his swollen face and nervous hands gave evidence of recent intoxication.

"Gentlemen," he said, as he addressed himself to a group of commercial travelers, "can't you help a poor man a little. I'm huntin' work, an' ain't had nothin' to eat in——"

"Can't afford to encourage such cattle as you in idleness," replied a man near the table.

"Go to work and make an honest living," said another.

"Now, here, get a move on yourself, or I will help you along with my boot," shouted the clerk.

"It's hard—very hard," he complained, as he slowly walked to the door; "but it was not always thus. I used to be a drummer myself, boys; I used to be a drummer myself;" and he sobbed aloud as he wiped the tears from his soot-stained cheeks with the greasy fragments of a coat sleeve.

"You don't mean to say that you used to be a drummer," exclaimed a grocery salesman on the other side of the stove.

"That's wha—what I—I said."

"Well, sir, here's a quarter for you, and I hope you may have good luck."

"If this will do you any good, you are welcome to it," said a St. Louis man, as he donated fifty cents.

"Take this half dollar and get you a square meal and a bed," suggested a pilgrim from Nashville.

"Thank you, gentlemen, thank you; and may God bless——"

"What made you quit drumming?" one of the party asked.

"Big bust occurred and——"

"O, I see. House failed."

"Not exactly," he explained, as he quietly opened the door. "You see, some years ago, one beautiful Christmas morning, old Santa Claus brought me a beautiful toy drum, and I drummed until I busted the head——"

Three men made a grab for him, but he had evidently anticipated them, for he shut the door from the outside and rapidly disappeared in the darkness.

The Best Work Done Under Difficulties.

It has been my experience that a man does his best work under the most disadvantageous circumstances. When he gets things so that they exactly suit him he is apt to do nothing at all. It is the same with cities as with men. Look at Kansas City. If there is a spot on earth that one would pick out as the worst possible place for a city, that spot is the site of Kansas City, and yet there has grown a great city that has outstripped its competitors. Milwaukee has a better harbor and better conditions than Chicago, which had to be filled in; which has a stream running through it at a decline of an inch a mile, so that everything stands still and stinks, and yet see what Chicago is and think what it is destined to be. A hundred years hence Chicago will be the greatest city of the world, and I mean what I say. As it is with men and cities so it is with newspapers. A newspaper when it puts up a splendid building and surrounds itself with every convenience is apt to be a worse newspaper than when its editors and reporters had to work in one room under the greatest disadvantages. There is an inspiration when all are working thus together, which is lost when everybody has a separate room, and this editor is No. 14 on the first floor, and that editor is No. 79 on the sixth floor. Therefore, as a reader of newspapers, I can't say that I look upon the erection of big newspaper buildings with favor.—Col. Ingersoll.

Gen. Sherman's Turkey Story.

Gen. William Tecumseh Sherman told good stories.

When I was with the army in Georgia a slave-owner, one Christmas, missed a fat turkey. He suspected a fine-looking colored man, and had him brought before him.

"You have stolen my turkey and eaten it," said the irate master.

"I'se not gwine to say I didn't when you says I did, massa."

"I ought to do something to you. What have you to say why I should not punish you?"

"Well, massa, you han't los' anything particular. You see, you has a little less turkey and a good deal more nigger."

And the master had to acknowlenge the philosophy of the slave and let him go unpunished.

HUMOR.

His Training.

Browbeating Attorney—Now, sir, look me in the face! I want a truthful answer to my question.

Witness—I am trying to tell you the truth.

"Trying to tell me the truth! You find it hard work, hey? Now look me in the face! Were you not trained to tell the truth?"

"I—I don't know, sir. My folks always wanted me to be a lawyer."

A Wonderful Achievement.

"You see that old man opposite?"

"Well?"

"He has been wearing spectacles since a boy of five years. He is so used to them that he can put them on his nose with his eyes shut."

Ready for a Journey.

"I read that a cyclone in Kansas lifted up a large tree and carried it two miles," remarked Mrs. Shattuck.

"The tree was equipped for traveling, I suppose," replied Shattuck.

"I don't know what you mean."

"I mean that it took its trunk with it."

Recalling Colonel Sellers.

Professor—Now, Miss Cora, look at this morsel of cheese through the microscope. What do you think of it?

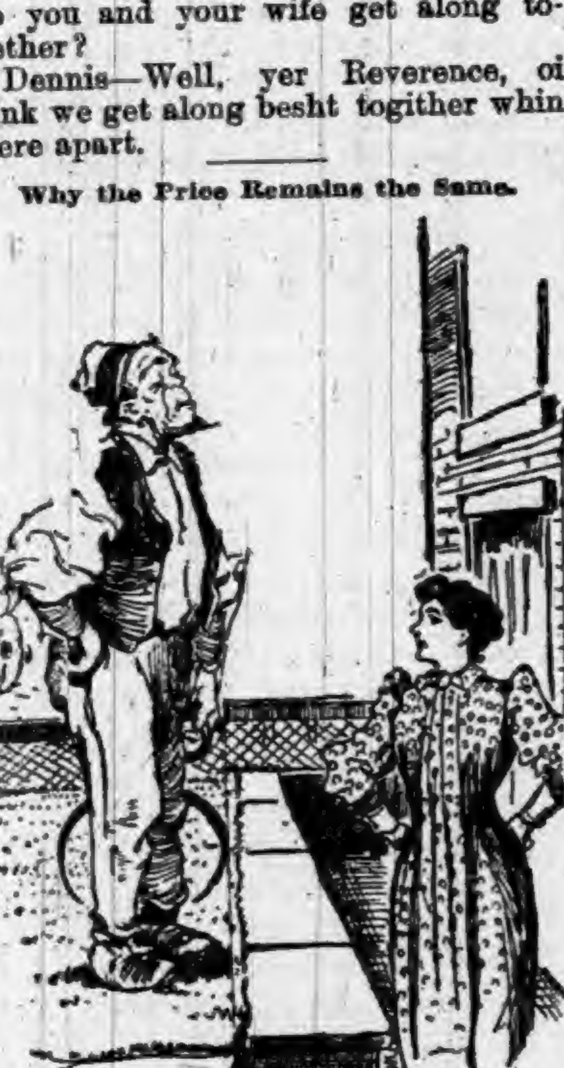
Cora (after a peep)—There's millions in it.

Conditional Unity.

Priest—Well, Dennis, you're married, I hear. I'm very glad of it. How do you and your wife get along together?

Dennis—Well, yer Reverence, oi t'ink we get along besht togither whin were apart.

Why the Price Remains the Same.



Lady—What! ice so plenty this year and yet higher priced than ever?

Iceman—Oh, yes, mum. The cutting of the ice was very expensive, mum; and don't yez see there was so much more to cut?—Judge.

The Thoughtful Manager.

Mrs. De Style (in theater box)—What was this placard, 'No Loud Talking,' put in the box for?

Mrs. Forundred (after reflection)—I presume the manager left it here so we could show it to the people on the stage when their chatter interrupts our conversation.—New York Weekly.

Kept It in a Locket.

"That's a queer thing you have in your watch charm," remarked Dicer to Trivvet. "What is it?"

"That's my summer girl's bathing suit."

Matrimonial Item.

Mr. Jones—So you have been off on a bridal tour to Canada and Niagara Falls. What did you see that pleased you most while you were away, Mrs. Spoony?

Mrs. Spoony (modestly)—My husband.

Her Dreams.

Burglar (flashing his dark lantern)—Wake up, here! Don't you make no noise, nuther! Where's yer vallybles?

Elderly Maiden Lady (moving uneasily in her slumbers)—Why, Algernon, this is so sudden, so—so unexpected!

Too Much of a Good Thing.

"How do you like your new boarding place?"

"Oh, everything they have to eat is nice, but there is too much sameness."

"How is that?"

"Well, for instance, they always have veal and chicken salad on the same day."—Lowell Citizen.

He Had Been There Before.

Portland Police Judge—Come, you'd better plead guilty. You'll get off easier.

Patsy, the Tramp—Aw, I'm dead onter yer. You wants to go to dinner, don't yer?—West Shore.

Wether beaten.—Munsey's Weekly.

Suggested a Subject.

The bewhiskered superintendent beamed upon the class of boys.

"Now, boys," said he, "what shall I talk about?"

"Talk about a minute," exclaimed the bad boy of the class.—Jewelers' Circular.

Breaking It to Him Gently.

Editor—Mr. Plumduff, you may make a little change in your column to-morrow morning. It takes up too much space. Cut it down one-half.

Mr. Plumduff—Yes, sir.

"Then the other half won't need any special heading. Remove the heading."

"Yes, sir."

"And it needn't be leaded. Run it in solid."

"Yes, sir."

"That will make it take up about a third of a column."

"Yes, sir."

"And then it can go in any part of the paper wherever there is room for it."

"Yes, sir."

"And if there isn't room it can be left out."

"Y-yes, sir."

"And it hardly seems worth while to keep it going, does it?"

"N-no, sir."

"You are right, Mr. Plumduff. Your resignation is accepted."

PLEASURE BOATS

—AND—

CANOES.

Oars, rowlocks, paddles, masts, spars, sails, blocks, cleats, anchors, etc., etc., etc.

$30 A BOAT FOR —TO— $300

THE PLEASURE BOATS OF AMERICA!

DON'T BUY ELSEWHERE until you see my catalogue for 1891; send 5 cent stamp for it.

J. H. RUSHTON, Canton, N. Y.

N. Y. CITY SALESROOM,

H. C. SQUIRES, 178 BROADWAY.

The greatest improvement in Corsets during the past twenty years is the use of Coraline in the place of horn or whalebone. It is used in all of Dr. Warner's Corsets and in no others.

The advantages of Coraline over horn or whalebone are that it does not become set like whalebone, and it is more flexible and more durable.

Dr. Warner's Coraline Corsets are made in twenty-four different styles, fitting every variety of figures—thin, medium, stout, long waists and short waists.

Sold everywhere.

WARNER BROS., Mfrs.,
New York and Chicago.

Jackson Favorite Waist

HAS STYLE

SUPPORTS BACK AND SPINE.

GIVES COMFORT AND EASE.

Adjustable shoulder straps, soft button fronts or ordinary clasps.

HYGIENIC, HEALTHFUL, BOON TO WOMEN.

FOR SALE BY ALL DEALERS, OR SENT POST PAID FOR $1.10

State size and if white or drab is desired. ALWAYS ADDRESS THE

Coronet Corset Co., JACKSON, MICH.

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

The only line running through solid Vestibuled Trains between Chicago and Philadelphia via Washington and Baltimore.

Time Card in Effect Jan. 25, 1891.

Stations— WEST-BOUND.		pm	am	am
Sandusky......lv	......	......	7 30	......	......
Wheeling........	am *7 50	10 15	......	11 30	pm †4 30
Zanesville.......	9 58	am 12 53	......	pm 1 50	7 12
Newark..........	pm 10 40	1 37	......	2 45	8 02
Columbus......ar	1 30	2 50	......	4 00	9 30
Columbus......lv	am 7 20	pm 11 35	......	am 11 25	pm †9 50
Mansfield........	pm 12 29	am 3 25	......	pm 5 19	10 25
Deshler..........	3 10	5 53	10 50	10 29	am 1 42
Defiance.........	3 57	6 30	11 47	11 40	2 34
Auburn jc........	4 58	7 28	pm 1 07	am 1 02	3 20
Avilla............	......	......	......	......	......
Milford jc........	......	......	......	......	......
Wellsboro........	......	......	......	......	......
Chicago.......ar	pm 9 30	11 40	6 40	5 50	8 25

Stations— EAST-BOUND.
Chicago.......lv	am *10 10	pm *1 55	am †7 10	pm *10 40	pm *6 25
Wellsboro........	......	......	......	......	......
Milford jc........	......	......	......	......	......
Avilla............	......	......	......	......	......
Auburn jc........	......	7 10	pm 12 43	am 3 00	10 46
Defiance.........	pm 3 09	8 00	2 12	4 20	11 40
Mansfield........	6 14	11 20	4 56	9 45	am 12 06
Columbus......lv	*6 50	am 11 35	......	pm 11 25	......
Newark..........	8 07	1 00	7 05	12 40	4 50
Zanesville.......	8 47	1 44	......	1 30	5 32
Wheeling......ar	am 12 55	5 40	......	6 10	10 20
Pittsburgh.....ar	......	6 25	......	9 00	pm 5 08
Washington...ar	11 50	pm 5 00	......	am 7 10	......
Baltimore......ar	pm 12 45	5 45	......	8 30	......
Philadelphia..ar	3 22	8 10	......	11 10	......
New York......ar	5 52	10 40	......	pm 1 40	......

*Trains run daily. †Daily except Sunday. ‡Daily except Monday.

Sleeping and Dining Cars on all through trains. For further information call on B. & O. Ticket Agent or address L. S. ALLEN, Ass't Gen'l Pass Agent, Chicago, Ill. City Office Auburn, Ind.

C. O. SCULL, Gen'l Passenger Agent, Baltimore, Md.

J. T. ODELL, Gen. Manager Baltimore, Md.

EDW. DICKINSON, Gen. Sup't.

TIME TABLE

THE WABASH LINE

TRAINS CARRYING PASSENGERS LEAVE

AUBURN, INDIANA.

GOING EAST.

Atlantic Express	2:38 am	Daily
Boston Express	5:45 am	Daily
Detroit Accom.	2:30 pm	Ex Sun
New York Lim.	8:04 pm	Daily

GOING WEST.

Pacific Express	1:22 am	Daily
Logansport Accom.	7:55 am	Daily
Mail & Express	12:38 pm	Ex Sun
Chicago & St. Louis Lim.	5:12 pm	Daily
St. Louis	7:33 pm	Daily

No. 53 will only stop for Chicago passengers.

For rates, Tickets, Time Table, etc., apply to I. M. ZENT, Agent, Auburn, Ind.

T. H. SPROTT, City Ticket Agent.

CHAS. M. HAYS, Gen'l Manager.

F. CHANDLER, Gen'l Pass and Ticket Agent

BOURKE'S HOUSEHOLD SPECIALTIES.

COMBINATION BRUSH, MOP AND SPONGE HOLDER CARPET STRETCHER and GARDEN RAKE.

Nonpareil Window Cleaner, A MARVEL.

Galvanized iron, rubber adjustable to expose new surface as it wears, no glue or cement, lasts a life-time and more efficient than any cleaner made.

Sash Lock and FASTENER. Most Durable, Most Compact, Most Perfect

BURGLAR PROOF FASTENER MADE.

Bourke Mfg. Co., Youngstown, O.

WANTED experienced and efficient agents to sell line of desirable household articles. Terms liberal, agents make money selling them. Samples furnished prepaid: Holder, 15c., cleaner, 10 inch 15c.; Fasteners, bronze 5c., nickel, 7c. BOURKE MFG. CO., Youngstown, O.

MOST POPULAR BUGGY ON WHEELS

SINGLE CENTER SPRING.

POINTS

Body always level.
Load distributed at five points on rear axle.
Gear, best grade steel throughout.
Spring, long and elastic, makes easiest riding wagon made.
Runs easy because it always tracks.
30 pounds lighter than a side bar.
Superior first-class wagon.
Made of choicest materials.
Spring and Gear guaranteed two years.

Vehicles of every style made on this Spring.

CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION. AGENTS WANTED.

BUSINESS MEN'S COMPANION.

Defies Competition for Rough Roads. SINGLE CENTER SPRING CO., EVANSVILLE, INDIANA.

For WEAK AND DEBILITATED MEN.

A NEW DISCOVERY! —BY— DR. ALBERT. TESTICURA EXTERNOSUM

AFTER years of experience in the leading Hospitals of the World, and as a Private Specialist in the treatment of Sexual Weakness, DR. ALBERT has finally been induced to place before the afflicted at a nominal expense, this

WONDERFUL REMEDY!

An Outward Application

TESTICURA EXTERNOSUM For the Cure of Seminal Weakness, Impotency, Nocturnal Emissions, Varicocele, and Lack of Development.

Cure by Absorption.

TESTICURA EXTERNOSUM Applied direct to the parts. No Nauseous Drugs that Ruin the Stomach. Guaranteed Cure, or Money Refunded.

No Nauseous Drugs.

A PERFECT RESTORATION GUARANTEED.

Sent to any part of the U. S., securely packed, free from observation, upon receipt of $2.00.

For full information, address enclosing 4 cents postage,

The ALBERT MEDICAL DISPENSARY, Cleveland, O.

THE AUBURN COURIER

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY.

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post-office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY............MAY 28, 1891.

A FINE PIECE OF CHEWING TOBACCO
IS INDEED A LUXURY
FINZER'S
Old Honesty
COMES AS NEAR BEING A FINE PIECE OF PLUG TOBACCO AS IT IS POSSIBLE TO MAKE IT

AND IS KNOWN AS A

Standard Brand
AMONG DEALERS
THESE GOODS ARE ON THE MARKET IN ONLY ONE SHAPE, 3x12 FULL 16 OZ. PLUG—THE MOST CONVENIENT TO CUT IN POCKET PIECES OR CARRY WHOLE.
JNO. FINZER & BROS., Louisville, Ky.

Read This.

Poneto, Ind., May 19, 1891.

S. U. Tarney,

Dear Sir: With pleasure I write to let you know that I am improving grandly. My appetite is now good. I work every day, pretty hard. May God bless you for what your Positive Painless Pile Cure has done for me.

Yours truly,
L. B. COLLINS.

24

About thirty millions of gold coin have been taken out of this country since March 1. It will be re-coined in other countries. What is the matter with McKinley's home market?

JACKSON PARK, Chicago, had a real duel Friday morning. A Kentuckian and an Austrian nobleman, quarreled about an actress. Latter slightly wounded with a sword.

Veterans who wish to obtain pensions, bounty etc., or who wish information concerning claims already filed, should write to Chas. McClellan Solicitor of Claims, 612 F St. N. W. Washington, D. C.

ESSEX, Canada, celebrated the Queen's birthday on Monday as the real day, May 24, was Sunday. It reads marvelously like our own Fourth of July, to look over the list of amusements, as given in The Essex Free Press. That paper has a good likeness of the Queen, who though by no means handsome, has proved a much less objectionable ruler, than the majority of "crowned heads."

THE great meeting of Farmers' Alliance and similar organizations last week at Cincinnati, resolved to form a new national party, and to run a candidate for president. This action, while it does not appear to suit all who have been working in these orders, was certainly the nearly unanimous sense of those at the meeting. Whether it is a wise step remains to be seen. But it must be conceded that every man has a right to attach himself to any party that suits his opinions, and when such cannot be found, then to organize a new party. These inherent rights are valuable in a free republic.

Trial by Jury.

This sparkling opera, will be presented at the Opera House, on Friday of this week, May 29, by our talented home singers under the direction of Miss Woodhull. They have been for some time working to perfect themselves in this splendid piece and will, we feel assured give a fine entertainment. The opera is by Gilbert and Sullivan, who have won fame by their "Mikado" "Pirates of Penzance" and other operatic gems. This one is equal to their best, not only in its fine music, but in the drollery and humor of the situations introduced. Some of our best musical talent will take part, and we hope to see a turnout that night that will prove our people's good taste, and be an encouragement to the worthy and talented lady under whose teaching it is brought out. Let all make up their minds to attend.

Notice of Election.

The annual meeting of the Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Co., of DeKalb county, for the election of officers for the ensuing year, will be held at Ensley's Hall, in Auburn, on Saturday, May 30 at 10 o'clock, a. m. A full attendance o members is requested. 21-22

S. KUTZNER, Sec'y.

Veal Calves, Poultry and Butter.

I will pay the highest cash prices for your veal calves at all times, for I am making a specialty of shipping. Also highest cash prices paid for poultry and number one butter. Call at Crystal Palace meat market before selling.

23 B. C. ZEIGLER.

THE
NEW CLOTHING STORE
IS NOW -:READY:- FOR THE
SPRING BUSINESS!

With the largest stock of Men's Wearing Apparel ever shown in Auburn. Men's Spring Suits and Overcoats that are

Equal to Custom Made!

Prince Alberts, Sacks, Cutaways and Frocks, and every other style in all the newest shapes. In

GENTS' FURNISHINGS
HATS, CAPS,
Gloves, Underwear, Etc.,

Our Stock is complete. We also have a nice line of samples to select from for

CUSTOM ORDERED GARMENTS,

which, in point of fit and workmanship cannot be surpassed by any in the country. Do not fail to examine our

NEW STOCK OF STRAW HATS

that are very beautiful. We also carry a nice line of

TRUNKS AND VALISES!

THE BOSTON CLOTHING STORE.
One Price and the Truth.
AUBURN - - IND.

Old Settlers' Committee Meeting.

The executive committee of the Old Settlers' Association, met at the office of J. E. Rose Saturday, May 23, at 1 p. m. Present, W. L. Blair, president; and the executive committee, J. W. McKay, Phillip Noel, Wm. Carr, W. R. Emerson and O. C. Clark. The chief business ing was to arrange for committees to, prepare for the coming meeting to be held at Auburn, June 20. They selected: special executive committee, J. W. McKay, Joseph Rainier, Isaac Hague; on program, J. W. McKay, M. B. Willis, M. Boland; on finance, C. C. Shaffer, Joseph Rainier, H. R. Culbertson; on stand, seating and water, John Treesh, A. J. Ralston, Joseph Stafford, J. C. Henry; on speaker, J. E. Rose, E. D. Hartman G. W. Gordon; on music, T. P. Scott, John W. Baxter, W. B. Brown, Chas. Eckhart; on after meeting entertainment, T. H Sprott, S. U. Tarney, John L. Davis. It was decided that the chairmen of these committees be notified of their appointment and requested to get their committees together and make arrangements for the meeting. A resolution was passed that the county papers be requested to donate a copy each. to be mailed to the address of the historian of the society, in order that he might be more certain to receive the obituaries of all old settlers who die during the year. The society will preserve these copies and have them kept as a part of the records. It was ascertained that many deaths of old settlers are not reported, though relatives are always urged to do so. It is hoped, this will hereafter be more carefully done. It would be well for all who have not reported, to do so at once, to the historian, J. E. Rose, Auburn, so he may make his report for the meeting. They then adjourned.

Court.

A good deal of business is blocked out and many cases put in shape. Trial jury began work yesterday. Among cases already finished, C. Pierson and D. Smurr, were fined $2 and costs for assault and battery, Curtis Harris, who stole Walsworth's watch, plead guilty, and being under age, sentence was suspended during good behavior. Geo. Nodine was given $5 and costs for gaming. Harmon Luce gets $178.83 on note against I. H. Lowman and W. H. Scott. The motion for a new trial of Durst vs Bundy was overruled. All the U. B. church cases were continued to next term. Anna B. Selby was divorced from Edward and has custody of child. In case of Anna Dueber vs Geo. Schuster, for partition, the court appointed R. G. Daniels, W. H. H. Beard and Hark Sebert, to partition the property and to report this term. Frank Carpenter, C, Voss, Ed. Weeks and Simon Nichols were excused from the jury. In their places have been put, W. Silberg, O. P. Smith, Levi McBride and Henry Hull.

Paid in April.

The following friends realized how much the printer needed money during the dull season, and contributed various amounts due on subscription, in order to help us out:

Henry Shaffer, G. W. Reed, S. Williams, J. C. Boyer, Geo. K. Walker, A. C. Wilson, J. E. Rohm, W. B. Butler, F. Fetter, Albert Guelford, Dona Schiffli, John Pepple, Sarah Miller, Wm. Eckhert, Peter Reinoehl, Chas Kelley, C. Curie, R. Blum, Hiram Brand, Joseph Ashley, Jacob Deetz, Henry Jenkins, John H. Gill, Milas Rhodes, John Dewitt, Solomon Deetz, John W. Dills, Henry McClish, Isaac Sawvel, Washington Betz, John Leas, F. D. Smith, Rachel Treesh, Levi Long, Millie Sechler, S. J. Tarney, J. S. Kalb, Wm. Seely, J. H. Merica. Solomon Reinoehl, Geo. A. Kraus, W. H. McGiffin, Jacob Henney, W. H. Madden, E. N. Myers, Fred. Kettel, Michael Shondel, B. Pullman, John Beerer, A. W. Camp, John Nichols, C. P. Hamman, Wm. Swartz, E. F. Metcalf, Thomas Shoyer, Harley Baker, John Rudolph, Samuel Miller, A. Smith, Anthony Zonker, Wayne Zonker, J. E. Dermott, Frank Powers, Jesse Myers, Samuel Brandaberry, J. J. Whitmer, C. F. Ash, John Kettel.

DeKalb Co. S. S. at St. Joe.

This will be June 9 and 10, and every-one who ever went to St. Joe, on an occasion like this knows it will be a grand success. Bring along your Gospel Hymns Combined. It is advised that each Sunday school send a delegate for each 25 members, and also take up a collection to help pay the expense of the county association. They begin at 9:30 a. m., sun time. Among the speakers, are Rev. Geo. Wade Healy, Mrs. Mary Ehlers, and Rev. A. S. Wooton, of Auburn, to whom suitable subjects have been assigned. The other ministers named for work, are M. M. Marshall, of Waterloo, J. J. Fred, Spencerville, A. L. Lamport, Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Jones of Garrett, Mr. Pattee of Sedan, Mr. Stone of Butler, Mr. Harris and Mr. Stanton of St. Joe. Remember the date, or send to M. E. Olds, sec., St. Joe for program.

Corunna Notes.

The May festival at Corunna will be held Saturday evening, May 30th, by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Christian church. There will be strawberries and ice cream, cake, etc. Don't miss it. The Corunna Band will furnish music.

The children's meeting at the hall, Corunna, Sunday evening, June 7th.

Town Lots for Sale.

Very desirable residence lots for sale at reasonable terms. Thirteen lots in the S. W. Ralston Addition south of the High school grounds. Also a fractional lot on West Seventh street, All in a good locality. Inquire of Mrs. S. W. Ralston or A. J. Ralston.

Base Ball.

Opening games of the North Western League at Ft. Wayne. Grand Rapids vs Ft. Wayne, Friday, May 29, Saturday, May 30, Decoration Day, two games forenoon and afternoon.

A TRIAL BY JURY.

At Eureka Opera House, To-Morrow (Friday) Evening.

PROGRAMME.

PART I.

1. OVERTURE,—Zampa,— Herold,
   MRS. D. A. GARWOOD, and MISS WOODHULL.
2. SONG,—I'm So Shy,— Arlington,
   MISS AILEEN GARWOOD.
3. CORNET SOLO,—I Am Here—Polka di Concert,— Brooks,
   MASTER LOUIS VAN ALSTYNE.
4. VOCAL SOLO,—Waltz Song—Lestasie,— Arditi,
   MRS. GARWOOD.
5. VIOLIN SOLO,—Caliph of Bagdad,— Boieldieu,
   DR. BUCHTEL.
6. VOCAL SOLO,—{ a. Cavatina, Al Dolce Guidami,— Donizetti,
   b. My Love is Like the Red, Red Rose,— Schumann,
   MISS WOODHULL.
7. SELECTION,—
   SCOTT'S MALE QUARTET.
8. OVERTURE,—Poet and Peasant,—
   MISSES DAVIS and HOUSER.

PART II.

TRIAL BY JURY—Sullivan.

DRAMATIS PERSONÆ.

Judge,	MR. ROGERS.
Defendant,	MR. HANNA.
Counsel,	DR. COATES.
Usher,	MR. HARTMAN.
Foreman of Jury,	MR. SCOTT.
Plaintiff,	MRS. GARWOOD.

Bridesmaids: Misses Hartman, Weaver, Davis, Trentman, Ralston and Young.

Jurymen: Messrs. Scott, Steele, Eldridge, Johnston, Schaab, Raut, Crewe, Rainier, etc.

Directress, MISS WOODHULL.
Pianist, MISS HOUSER.

Worthless.

We presume every town over this whole universe has its individual pests. These peculiar disturbances to the peace and comfort of citizens are not all alike, but vary as do the different localities in which they exist. Auburn is no more fortunate in this respect than many of her sister towns, and is at present pestered with a number of worthless curs, which are in many cases making themselves dangerously conspicuous, and some of our people have had to suffer in consequence. A week or two ago, while Mrs. D. I. Cramer, of North Main, was walking along the street, she was attacked by a large dog, whose savage nature and hostile demeanor so frightened the lady that total nervous prostration soon followed, from which she has not recovered, and at last reports was in a helpless condition which may result seriously. Tuesday evening another specimen of barbaric canine paganism was in a wild state of exhibition at E. Kuhlman's lumber yard. It seems that Kulman's dog and Willis Mochamer's bull dog could not find it in good taste with their doggish inclinations to agree, and have on several occasions engaged in a bloody conflict. At this particular time they met in Kuhlman's office and the blood that was spilled and the terrible battle that ensued was horrible to contemplate. The thought occurs that there ought to be a change in the manner of keeping vicious dogs in town. They should be muzzled or killed, as human life is entirely too precious to be sacrificed for the freedom of a few valueless members of the canine tribe that are not worth paying tax on.

An Expression of Confidence.

Geo. P. Rowell & Co., of New York, the publishers of the American Newspaper Directory, undertake to rate newspaper circulations very much as the mercantile agencies report the capital and the credit of the business community. About one publisher in ten tells his exact issue with truthful precision. Some of the other nine decline to tell the facts because they assert that those who do tell are in the habit of lying. Rowell & Co., after an experience of more than twenty years, have come to the conclusion that this view cannot be sustained. In the twenty-third annual issue of their book, issued in April, they designate every paper that is rated in accordance with a detailed statement from the publisher; and offer to pay a hundred dollars for every instance which can be pointed out of a mis-statement for which a publisher is responsible. The COURIER is one of the papers that is willing to have it known how many it prints and whose good faith the Directory publishers will guarantee.

Clean up.

The marshal requests that every business man in town clean up the gutters in front of his place, on Friday of each week, and on that day, he will have the town team come and haul the rubbish away. This will not only save the business men some work, but the town also, as it is not possible for the team to come around each day and get the rubbish that each would pile up, at various times in the week. So please have it ready at the stated time. It is also required by the board that all alleys, all over town be at once cleaned up, and kept clean. Let us join with the town board and have the cleanest and therefore the healthiest town in this section.

Unclaimed Letters.

Unclaimed letters remaining in the postoffice at Auburn Ind., for the week ending May 22, 1891. Miss Rosa Culver, Mrs. Ella Getts, John Barney, Sam'l W. Moore, William Pontius.

Claimants will please call for letters in advertised list.

GEO. W. GORDON, P. M.

Postoffice Bulletin.

The postoffice will be closed Decoration Day from 1:30 to 5 p. m., standard time.

G. W. GORDON, P. M.

Mr. Cleveland's Speech at Buffalo

(From Harper's Weekly.)

As a party man, the probable candidate of his party next year for the Presidency, and addressing a party association which bears his name, Mr. Cleveland spoke of politics, but upon broad principles and without acrimony. The significant remark in the speech, regarded politically, was this: "The axe will not be laid at the root of the unwholsome tariff tree, with its vicious inequality and injustice, until we reach and destroy its parent and support." This support Mr. Cleveland stated to be Public Extravagance, and it has been surmised that he meant to suggest that the democratic cry for the campaign of next year should be economy and denunciation of the "billion" republican appropriations rather than tariff reform. But tariff reform is in itself an effective check upon the spirit of extravagance. The enormous pension grants and the operation of high tariff duties are bribes for the support of classes of voters, and opposition both to extravagance and its consequent demoralization.

The chief interest of Mr. Cleveland's speech, however, lay in the impression, which he always produces, that he means what he says. His public career illustrates his belief that politics is something more than adroit jugglery, and that official duty means obligation to the people. The secret of his undoubted popularity is popular confidence in his political honesty. He may make mistakes, and his party sympathy may sometimes cause him to hesitate to trust the general good sense. But no public man is more universally believed to have political convictions and to be true to them, and it is very long since any democratic leader has commanded so much sincere respect among his political opponents as Mr. Cleveland.

IRA BRANDON,
—Dealer in—
GROCERIES
AND
PROVISIONS.
A complete line of
STAPLE
....AND....
FANCY
GROCERIES
Constantly on hand.
Goods are always fresh.
Cash or Trade
....FOR....
Butter, Eggs, and Lard.
Call and see me.
North Main Street,
Opposite Woolen Mills.

SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

SYMPTOMS OF LIVER DISEASE:

Loss of appetite; bad breath; bad taste in the mouth; tongue coated; pain under the shoulder-blade; in the back or side—often mistaken for rheumatism; sour stomach with flatulency and water-brash; indigestion; bowels lax and costive by turns; headache, with dull, heavy sensation; restlessness, with sensation of having left something undone which ought to have been done; fullness after eating; bad temper; blues; tired feeling; yellow appearance of skin and eyes; dizziness, etc. Not all, but always some of these indicate want of action of the Liver. For

A Safe, Reliable Remedy

that can do no harm and has never been known to fail to do good

Take Simmons Liver Regulator

—AN EFFECTUAL SPECIFIC FOR—

Malaria, Bowel Complaints,
Dyspepsia, Sick Headache,
Constipation, Billiousness,
Kidney Affections, Jaundice,
Mental Depression, Colic.

A PHYSICIAN'S OPINION.

"I have been practicing medicine for twenty years and have never been able to put up a vegetable compound that would, like Simmons Liver Regulator, promptly and effectually move the Liver to action, and at the same time aid (instead of weakening) the digestive and assimilative powers of the system."

L. M. HINTON, M.D., Washington, Ark.

ONLY GENUINE
Has our Z Stamp in red on front of wrapper.
J. H. Zeilin & Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

MARSHALL'S HOOF CURE

MARSHALL'S HOOF CURE

cures sand and quarter cracks, split hoofs, sore and contracted feet, corns and all hoof troubles. Stops cracking, shelling and scaling hoofs. Softens and toughens brittle hoofs. It is better than soaking with oil, meal, etc. Should be used on all horses standing on hard floors or driven on hard roads. It also cures scratches, tetter, galls of all kinds, bruises, etc.

TOLEDO, O., April 6, 1891.

I had a horse in my stables that had hoofs so brittle that it was impossible to keep a shoe on his feet. I have used one can of Marshall's Hoof Cure on his hoofs and the horse has been shod for four weeks and the shoes stay on all right. I consider it the best hoof cure I have ever used.

JOSEPH POPP, Liveryman.

Sold by CASEBEER & MATHENY.

THOUSANDS OF WOMEN

Become afflicted and remain so. suffering untold miseries from a sense of delicacy they cannot overcome.

BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR,

by stimulating and arousing to healthy action all her organs,

ACTS AS A SPECIFIC.

It causes health to bloom on the cheek, and joy to reign throughout the frame. It never fails to cure.

The Best Medicine ever Made for Women.

"My wife has been under treatment of leading physicians three years, without benefit. After using three bottles of BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR she can do HER OWN COOKING, MILKING AND WASHING.

N. S. BRYAN, Henderson, Ala.

BRADFIELD REGULATOR Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Sold by druggists at $1.00 per bottle.

F. E. DAVENPORT,
Auburn, Ind.

McElree's Wine of Cardui

and THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT

for sale by the following merchants

Auburn by Robbins & McConn, and by F. E. Davenport; Waterloo, by J. D. Campbell, and Willis & Co.; Butler, by Geo. Kehrer, and S. G. Stone; Corunna, O. P. Raber, and W. M. Me[illegible]; Garrett, J. M. Lefern; St Joe, Pa[illegible] Bros.; Concord, J. W. Wyatt.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

By virtue of a certified copy of a decree to me directed from the Clerk of the DeKalb circuit court, in a cause wherein Lewis C. Shutt administrator of estate of Barbara Ann [illegible]arley deceased is plaintiff, and William L. [illegible]ley defendant requiring me to make th[illegible] [illegible] hundred and twenty dollars, [illegible] said decree and costs, I will ex[illegible] at public sale, to the highest bidder, on Saturday, June 6, 1891.

between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m., of said day, at the door of the court house in Auburn DeKalb county, Indiana, the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years, of the following real estate, to wit:

Commencing at the southeast corner of the northwest quarter of section thirty-four (34), in township thirty-three (33) north of range fourteen (14) east, thence west for[illegible] rods, thence north easterly to the nort[illegible] corner of said quarter and thence south to place of beginning, situated in DeKalb County State of Indiana.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said decree, interest and costs, I will at the same time and place expose to public sale the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said decree, interest and costs. Said sale will be made without any relief whatever from valuation or appraisement laws.

PHIL. FLUM,
Sheriff of DeKalb county, Indiana.

Auburn, May 11, 1891

DON A. GARWOOD, Att'y for plaintiff.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

By virtue of a certified copy of a decree to me directed from the Clerk of the DeKalb circuit court, in a cause wherein Jacob B. Casebeer is plaintiff and Asa John and Hannah John are defendants, requiring me to make the sum of seven hundred twelve dollars and eighteen cents, with interest on said decree and costs. I will expose at Public Sale, to the highest bidder, on Saturday, June 20th, 1891,

between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m., and 4 o'clock p. m., of said day, at the door of the Court House in Auburn, DeKalb county, Indiana, the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years, of the following real estate to-wit:

The southwest quarter of the northwest quarter of section twenty (20) in township thirty-four (34) north, of range fourteen (14) east. Situated in DeKalb county, state of Indiana.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said decree, interest and costs, I will at the same time and place expose to public sale the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said decree, interest and costs. Said sale will be made without any relief whatever from valuation or appraisement laws.

PHIL. FLUM,
Sheriff of DeKalb county, Indiana.

PENFIELD & BLATTNER, Att'ys for Plaintiff.

Auburn, Ind., May 27th, 1891.

Notice to Non-Residents.

State of Indiana, }
DeKalb County. } ss:

In the DeKalb circuit court May term, 1891, James Prosser is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against him in said court, for decree authorizing plaintiff to make a deed, by Louisa A. Prosser. And that the same will be heard and determined on the 55th juridical day of the present term of said court, which commenced May 18, 1891.

Witness, The Clerk of said court, this 27th day of May, 1891.

GEO. A. BISHOP, Clerk.

JAMES E. ROSE, Att'y.

Consumption Surely Cured.

TO THE EDITOR:—Please inform your readers that I have a positive remedy for the above-named disease. By its timely use thousands of hopeless cases have been permanently cured. I shall be glad to send two bottles of my remedy FREE to any of your readers who have consumption if they will send me their Express and P. O. address. Respectfully, T. A. SLOCUM, M. C., 181 Pearl St., N. Y.

WE PAY SALARY

and expenses to LIVE AGENTS men or women. NO DRONES WANTED. Work steady year round and cash weekly. Good pay for part time. FINE OUTFIT FREE. Experience not needed. Send references and stamp at once. J. EUGENE WHITNEY, Rochester, New York.

☞ This firm is perfectly responsible.

ROOT & COMPANY,

FORT WAYNE, - - - - INDIANA.

THE GRAND CARPETS

We are now showing our citizens without doub without a parallel in the carpet trade of Ft. Wayne.

THE GREAT QUANTITIES

Overlapping the stock of two or three departments.

THE SUPERIOR PATTERNS

That makes everyone who enter the department say at once, "Here's the carpets we want."

The Grand Good Qualities.

We don't let any poor ones of any grade enter.

The great masses of the people want

A GOOD INGRAIN CARPET.

We want you to examine the two

EXTRA HEAVY WEIGHTS

Placed upon the market this season. Exact copies of the finest Brussels,

Do You Want a LOWELL?

Here is the place to see the assortment of choice patterns.

Beautiful Moquettes, Soft velvets, Axminsters, Body and Tapestry Brussels.

Choice China Mattings.

China mattings are cheaper and styles much prettier.

MAIL ORDERS recive careful Attention.

THE NEW YORK STORE.

OUR NEW

SUMMER CORSET

'COLD WAVE"

—AT—

50C.

Is decidedly the best corset we have ever offered at the price.

OUR W. B 440

Black Summer Corset

AND

OUR W. B. 414

White Summer Corset

Are exceptionally good, and worthy of a careful examination.

HARTER

East of Court House, Auburn.

I. O. BUCHTEL,

Homœopathic

Physician and Surgeon.

Special attention given to chronic and obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.

Office and residence over Smith & Madden's marble works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, night or day.

Dr. James Adams,

VETERINARY SURGEON.

Will treat all Diseases of Domestic Animals. He has had THIRTY YEARS successful PRACTICE. Call on him at his residence No. 34, North Main street, or at ROBBINS & McCORD'S Drug Store.

Dr. David N. Fitch,

VETERINARY SURGEON

and DENTIST,

Has located in Auburn, and will give his entire attention to the treatment of all DISEASES of DOMESTIC ANIMALS. Is a graduate in Veterinary Surgery and Dentistry, from the

CHICAGO VETERINARY COLLEGE.

Office at the PALACE FEED BARN on West 9th St.

---AUBURN WOOLEN MILLS---

.........DOES.........

All kinds of CUSTOM WORK, such as Carding, Spinning, Etc.

.====ALSO====.

MANUFACTURE for the TRADE, Yarns Flannels, Skirtings, Blankets and Wool Bats.

These goods are absolutely PURE and warranted to give SATISFACTION to the Consumer.

—ENSLEY & FORKNER, Proprietors.—

Call at FACTORY North End of Main street

AUBURN, IND.

YOUNG MEN,

THE CHURCH OF GOD

Extends a cordial invitation to all who are not already attending some school, to come to our

SABBATH SCHOOL,

and spend an hour each SUNDAY, from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m., in the study of the BIBLE. You will find the church at corner of 10th and Jackson streets.

L. B. FRETZ, Supt.

LOCAL NEWS.

If you are melancholy or down with the blues you need Simmons Liver Regulator.

ORGAN FOR SALE: A nice large one of the Story & Camp make, as good as new. Call at this office.

H. J. Mossey still keeps his stock of groceries, provisions, etc., up to the standard of competition and low prices. Farmers find him one of the men to deal with.

MILES' NERVE & LIVER PILLS. Act on a new principle—regulating the liver, stomach and bowels through the nerves. A new discovery. Dr. Miles' Pills speedily cure biliousness, bad taste, torpid liver, piles, constipation. Unequaled for men, women, and children. Smallest, mildest, surest! 30 doses, 25 cts. Samples free at F. E. Davenport's.

McELREE'S WINE OF CARDUI for Weak Nerves.

Casebeer & Matheny for wall paper and paper and paints. 19tf

The largest line of wall paper in the city will be found at City Book Store.

If you want strictly pure mixed paints call at Casebeer & Matheny's drugstore.

PIANOS & ORGANS on easy terms. Address, Davis & Husselman, Waterloo, Ind.

If you would be rid of chills and fever Simmons Liver Regulator is what you need.

Dr. S. B. Johnson, dentist, will be in his office at Waterloo on Thursday of each week.

In cases of colic in stock Simmons Liver Regulator will save them. R. V. Cox, Haddock's Sta.

The ice cream social in the Ashley room last Wednesday evening was patronized in spite of the rain. They made about $30.

See our advt of Marshall's famous Hoof Cure, believed to be the best remedy known. Sold by Casebeer & Matheny at Physicians' drugstore.

Ira Brandon, the hustling grocer at the North Side, has added a new feature to his business. He will hereafter have fresh fish on sale Friday and Saturday of each week. Those wishing to invest their money in the finny tribe, will find his prices and goods up to the standard. 20tf

English Spavin Liniment removes all hard, soft, or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavin, curbs, splints, sweeny, ring-bone, stifles, all swollen throats, coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle, warranted. The most wonderful blemish cure known. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn. Indiana. tf

RHEUMATISM CURED IN A DAY.—"Mystic Cure" for rheumatism and neuralgia radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immdiately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. 75 cents. Sold by Robbins & McCord, druggists, Auburn.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

We notice that Chester Hodge has invested in a very fine Jersey bull. This bull is registered in the A. J. C. C. records, his number is 24,111. He is of the fawn color, and is out of a cow that made 21 pounds of butter a week. He is but 2 years old and a perfect beauty. He will be kept at the Greenhurst farm just north of Auburn. Anyone wishing to breed to a Jersey will not find anything better in the state. tf

The Dispatch had a spasm of virtue last week, as refreshing as it was unusual. It spoke a kind word for a democratic officers Treasurer Sawvel. As a regular thing it usually gives all praise to republican officials as in case of our town board, and lays all the blame on the democratic members. We presume this change for the better is partly the result of some good ideas gleaned from remarks in the COURIER. But be the cause what it may, we hope the improvement will be permanent.

Try BLACK-DRAUGHT tea for Dyspepsia.

Grand excursion to Warsaw, June 11.

Commissioner's June term begins next Monday.

Trial by Jury, Friday evening, May 29, at Opera House.

The nice rains last week put the growing crops in fine shape.

A good house on Jackson street for rent. Inquire of W. H. McIntyre.

Mrs. George Schnell was home this week, visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Green.

For wakefulness, weakness or lack of energy Simmons Liver Regulator is a specific.

Hoff has a new stock of goods just opened up. Groceries new and fresh. See him.

A very large assortment of pantaloons can now be found at the Boston Clothing store.

J. D. McAnnally of Waterloo, was looking over matters and things in Auburn, Monday.

For distressing oppression and fullness in the stomach take Simmons Liver Regulator.

"Broken Java" in glass jars for 25c at Brandon's. Examine them at once, while the stock is yet flush.

For sale or rent a good, new house, just completed. Inquire of Mrs. Sophie Baird, near Presbyterian church.

Call on Miss Myers next to Rainier's for the latest and nicest goods. Children's hats a special line just received.

Do you know that you can get the genuine hand made lemonade at Cora Shugers'? Well, you can and it's good too. 20tf

Mrs. Eli Cochran has been up at Corunna a week or two, at the bedside of her mother, Mrs. Shook, who has been sick.

A number of members of the Baptist church went to Kendallville, Tuesday, to attend the association now in session there.

Congressman McClellan and wife were at Ft. Wayne, Monday, to attend the reception of Charles McCullough, that evening.

We gave a report of the Church of God convention and ministerial meeting held at Syracuse, in another column, which speks favorably for that organization.

W. H. McIntyre has two very desirable residences for sale, to some responsible parties on the installment plan, at from $8 to $12 per month. See him and stop paying rent. 20tf

Mrs. J. D. McAnally of Waterloo, was down here last week to visit her, daughter, Mrs. Geo. Stamets. She brought with her, her little granddaughter, Curt Klotz' little girl.

Nathan Alvord, son of our old friend S. E. Alvord of the Albion Democrat, was in town last Wednesday. He is himself connected with the Democrat force and a lively lad generally.

Let all get ready to on the excursoin to Warsaw, June 11. It is given by the Epworth League, of Auburn, a worthy society, and the fare will be made low. A good trip, good boat rides on the lakes and lovely parks.

The milk shake season has just opened up. Cora Shugers is better prepared than ever to deal out lunch, cigars, tobacco, lemonade, ginger ales, pop beers, and milk shake than ever. Remember his place on West Seventh St. 20tf

LOST: On Sunday, May 17, going south from the Rakestraw school house to Holmes Link's, or going from Holmes Link's to the Junction, a Persian shawl. Finder will confer a great favor by leaving it at this office, or sending word. 3

John Hebel got home Sunday from a week's visit with Wm. Groscup, at Buckhannon, W. Va. His sister, Tillie, went with him, and remains there for a time. He brings word that Mr. Groscup and family are well and prospering. Glad to hear it.

The unceasing activity of men and the buzz of machinery at the various factories are among the many evidences of a prosperous season just coming on. Every one should brace up and take new encouragement from the prospects before us.

Mrs. Leasure has a sister and cousin visiting her. They reside at Greensburg, in this state, and of course are familiar with the incidents of the great meeting there, when the Chicago Herald's monument was erected at the center of population.

The Tattoo Mark Company at the Opera House last week, proved a very good one, and gave a good entertainment in the main. The houses were fair except Friday evening, when the hard storm made attendance impossible, and they had no performance.

A prominent merchant says "I have sold Megrimine for over a year and guaranteed it to cure any headache without after effects, and have not found a single case it did not relieve." Sold by Robbins & McCord in Auburn. Sample free. The Dr. Whitehall Megrimine Co., South Bend, Ind.

The Greenhurst farm affords one of best registered Poland China boars now in the state. He is brought here for the purpose of improving the swine. His breeding cannot be excelled. Anyone wishing to use this fine fellow will find him at the Greenhurst farm just north of Auburn. He is owned by Chester Hodge. tf

GREEN MOUNTAIN SALVE: Is unequalled as a cure for all rheumatic pains, weakness in the side, back or any other place, and is unexcelled for cuts, bruises, corns, etc. It is the uncompromising enemy of pain in whatever form, or wherever manifested, and has never been known to fail in a contest with this dreaded foe of human happiness. If you would live a peaceful and painless life, try this great remedy and you will never regret it.

John Boots, last week took home the sculptured head, which had been at the Hollister House for a short time. It was the work of his brother Albert, now deceased, but whose home had been at Ashland, Ohio. Though not a professional sculptor, but a farmer, he always had a taste for stone cutting of this kind, and did some remarkable work. The head at the Hollister House, was cut from tough sandstone and the face, features, and general make up of the head were quite natural.

We predicted it all spring and now it has come to pass, that A. Lewis has the finest and best equipped lumber yard in this part of the state. He is selling vast quantities of building material of the best grades and at the lowest prices. He has just received a big carload of southern pine, which he invites the public to inspect. For every grade of lumber from quarter-inch pine moulding to three-inch Tennessee poplar plank, you will find this gentleman up to the demands of this age, ready and prepared to supply the trade. Office and yard near the Lake Shore depot. Rock salt is also kept in stock.

☞ BLACK-DRAUGHT tea cures Constipation.

Clean up the alleys.

City Book Store has wall paper.

Smoking tobacco at Kessler Bros'.

Nicest hats for children at Miss Myers'.

A new line of wall paper at 10 cents a roll at City Book Store.

All designs of latest style wall paper at Casebeer & Matheny's. 19tf

Hats 15, 25 and 35 cents at Mrs. Funk's. To close out stock. tf

The K. P. boys go to Spencerville this evening to institute a new lodge there.

All new styles of wall paper at Casebeer & Matheny's. No shoddy goods.

Highest market price paid for tub-washed wool at Auburn Woolen Mills. tf

Choice music, quaint humor, and numberless good laughs at the "Trial by Jury." Opera House, May 29. Don't you forget it.

WOOL! WOOL!! WOOL!!! We will pay the highest market price for WOOL. It will be to your interest to see us before you sell. Schaab & Bro. 19tf

Do you know that Brandon, at the North side, washes all his fish before putting them on the market? He does, and their quality is greatly improved.

G. A. Mader has put up a nice cottage residence on his land east of J. J. Latson's at the north of town. It is the farm formerly owned by James Griswold.

Jacob Davis, who hauls wood from the band mill is kept busy all the time. He has held this position for some time, and proven very efficient and trustworthy for the place.

Megrimine cures any headache in 30 minutes. Sold by Robbins & McCord druggists in Auburn. Samples free. The Dr. Whitehall Megrimine Co., South Bend, Ind.

Charlie Sthair came down from Lagrange last week to have a talk with the boys in Auburn. He likes his present location and business, and thinks Lagrange is a live town.

The health officer, Dr. Swartz, is liable to give your premises a sharp look. Get ready for him by cleaning up everything that can possibly offend the eye or the nostril, or breed disease.

John Kruger returned from his trip to Toledo and Detroit, on Friday of last week. He reports a good time, and we are inclined to think that as he wears an unusually broad smile, his assertions are correct.

LOST, Monday, somewhere on the road between Auburn and Waterloo, a day book containing money. The finder will receive $5 by leaving at this office or returning to George McEnterffer, at Waterloo.

If one could have all the horses hitched on the two sides of the public square last Saturday, he could retire from hard work for awhile. There were 94, at one time by actual count and they were mostly good ones.

BANKRUPT!! A big bankrupt stock of goods from the New York heavy failure is now being opened in Draggoo's building south of public square. Keep your eye on it. All kinds of goods. Look out for bargains.

Carpenters have been very busy this year, everyone being engaged ahead, so that a if man wants any odd jobs done it is out of the question. Several active carpenters from out of town, are also at work here. Auburn is on the move.

The L. L. C. do not meet this Saturday afternoon, as that is Decoration Day. But on the following Saturday, June 6, they meet with Mrs. Cal. Husselman, north of town, on the Waterloo road. And they will have a grand time there, too.

We see that newspapers generally are following up the plan of the COURIER, calling the attention of township trustees and county commissioners to the advisibility of reducing their tax levies to 54 conform to the increased assessments.

Say farmers, if you want some of the best machinery manufactured, you should go to Ed. Weeks, south of the jail. He handles the Champion reapers and mowers, also some of the best grades of small implements. Give him a call and examine his terms. 19tf

Henry Maxwell of St. Joe can be counted in among the "pretty honest" fellows after all. A man who will argue an editor into the belief that the latter once loaned him fifty cents and which he, the former, is now ready and anxious to pay, is "twice blessed."

The Indiana Music Teachers' Association and festival is at Muncie, this year, June 23, 24 and 25. It is the fourteenth and as usual, under the charge of Prof. Kinsey, well known here. He is secretary, and any information can be obtained by addressing him at Lafayette, Ind.

Columbia City Commercial: We were shown a family jump-seat carriage this morning at Ramp Bros'. feed stable. The vehicle was manufactured at Auburn, Ind., by the Eckhart Manufacturing Co., and is one of the finest carriages made. It is a model of neatness and the workmanship is first-class.

When you smoke, you want the best cigar on the market. It is equally true that every cigar factory claims to manufacture the best cigar. Of course, with so many conflicting assertions, it is not a small matter to pick out the best brands. Such results come only from trying all of them. Kessler Bros'. cigars are giving universal satisfaction, and one trial insures their future use.

A SPECIAL BARGAIN:—I will be enabled to offer for a short time, a line of fine, white-backed papers, very best quality, for 15 cents per roll. This is a special thing, and will only be open to those who take advantage of the opportunity, and come while the supply lasts. The patterns are just the thing for kitchen and hall papers. Don't miss this opportunity. 18t3

DAVENPORT, The Druggist.

Sheriff Plum and wife were at Michigan City last week, where he went to take Gid. Houser to prison. While there, they saw Isaac Williams and say he is determined to make a man of himself. We hope he will. He is in congenial work among the flowers and plants, just what he likes. He is a "trusty" and goes where he pleases, and the officers say he will be able to cut his five years down to three years and eight months.

The electric lights plant will be strengthened in effectiveness by the addition of a new engine of the most improved kind. It is 125 horse power, and will be put in soon as the sixty horse power engine now in use, has to be run even higher than its capacity, in order to do the work required. The company have had to stop furnishing more lights, and will not be able to give any further privileges till the new engine is in place. Then, they can fill all orders likely to come for some time. The managers of the company are alive to the town's interests.

☞ WINE OF CARDUI, a Tonic for Women.

Town lots for sale. See our notice.

Miss Myers has new goods just arrived.

Mrs. N. H. Weaver, of Waterloo, was here Monday.

County S. S. convention at St. Joe June 9th and 10th.

City Book Store has a fine line of all grades of wall paper.

A new line of wall paper just received at Casebeer & Matheny's. 19tf

Megrimine, the new cure for headache and neuralgia, at Robbins & McCord's.

Frost yesterday morning, May 27, though not severe, it did some slight damage in low places.

The nickel social of the M. E. church will meet with Mrs. H. A. Stevens on next Friday afternoon.

Miss Flora Hoffman was home over Sunday. She graduates soon at the conservatory in Ft. Wayne.

The ladies' aid society of the Catholic church will meet Thursday afternoon with Mrs. P. Ryan. All come.

Wanted! Wanted!! Wanted!!! at the Auburn Woolen Mills, all the wool we can get. Highest market price, don't forget it. 19tf Decoration exercises Sunday next at Cedar Chapel near New Era, in Fansler's Grove. Let us give them a good attendance.

Lovers of rare flowers should notice a beautiful flowering shrub standing in front of Frank Borst,s residence on Jackson street.

One of our prominent gentlemen has been sued for breach of promise. Trial by Jury, at the Opera House May 29. All come and hear the trial.

The ladies' aid society of the Catholic church intend giving a supper in Ashley's block, Saturday evening, June 13. Bill of fare will be published next week.

Isaiah Likens, one of our soldier friends, orders the COURIER sent to his brother, Capt, J. D. Likens, at Bassett, Neb. Thanks, we will try to give "Jerry" the cream of the news.

Miss Ada Myers has completed the facilities in her millinery department by securing the services of Miss Edith Metler, of Centreville, Mich., who will do trimming in all latest styles.

The nickel social of the Presbyterian church will meet with Mrs. Burke on Friday afternoon of this week. Let there be a full attendance, as there will be the yearly election of officers.

W. B. Brown and wife were in Fairfield yesterday. They called on Mr. Zonker's people, Mrs. Z. being formerly Miss Callie Britton, and both ladies at one time teachers in our public schools.

T. S. Murray showed us a beautiful gold headed cane yesterday, the gift of the members of his family on his 30th wedding day, which occured last December. He had just had Mr. Yesbera engrave it. We never saw a nicer one.

We have received, thanks to Mr. Wooton, the large pamphlet containing the minutes of the recent M. E. conference at Huntington. It is full of interesting matter as well as of valuable historical data on all subjects connected with the church.

Rev. Peter Croy who has been residing here sometime has purchased a home. Monday, he bought Dell Purdy's house and lot in Gas Addition, and will at once move over there. Mr. Purdy, we believe is looking for another residence.

Besides the regular program, there will be several extra pieces, both instrumental and vocal, given at Miss Woodhull's coming entertainment at the Opera House. Whoever enjoys delightful, music or a good laugh at a witty comic opera, should be there.

Schnell & Weeks are still south of the jail with as fine a line of groceries, provisions, etc., as can be found in the city. They are great favorites with the "reciprocity" plan, that is, you will always get value received for every dollar spent for goods in their establishment.

Have you tried South American Nervine—the gem of the century? The great cure for indigestion, dyspepsia and nervousness. Warranted the most wonderful stomach and nerve cure ever known. Trial bottles 15 cents. Sold by Robbins & McCord, druggists, Auburn.

C. P. Houser had another fire Saturday evening. The corn crib and other small buildings near by burned in the night. He was awakened by it, and saved a few things, a plow and other articles, but all else was a total loss. This is the second mysterious fire he has had.

Decoration Day Saturday. Rememour note last week, about bringing the flowers to Mrs. Green, Mrs. Gordon or Mrs. Silver, the evening before, or early that evening. Children meet at the hall at 1 p. m. and if the weather is good, white dresses will be in order. Read the program on another page.

Geo. H. Post, who has been in business here for several years, will locate at Glennville, Oceana Co., Mich., and go into business there. He has been a good citizen and valuable member of society, and our people will regret to lose him and his estimable wife. We hope their future may be prosperous.

Anna Ramsey, of the public schools, was called to Peru by telegram Monday announcing the death of her brother Samuel. He was drowned in the Mississinewa river while bathing, Sunday evening. It is reported that a cousin was drowned at the same place a few years ago. He was about twenty years old.

DeKalb county this year so far, has raised $8,237.81 tuition fund, and receives back from the state $9,870.96 This county always receives more that it pays in. The rate in this spring's division is $1.32 for each child of school age. The total amount of the May distribution over the state is $1,021,543.56. The other "draw" is in January.

The stone foundation on the new Leasure building began on Monday, in charge of August Schutt, which insures a good job. The Hoff building will go up right along after it, and the bricks are being rapidly delivered for the walls, Mr. Leasure has bought a piece off of Mr. Lockwood's lots at the south of his, so as to secure room at that end for a stairway, for the convenience of those who occupy the second story.

The memorial services at the Presbyterian church Sunday, were largely attended. The three orders, G. A. R., W. R. C., and S. of V., attended in a body. The sermon by Mr. Healy was excellent, and gave the old "boys" great satisfaction. The choir sang their best, and especially in the opening anthem, when some old vet, actually forgot himself and unconsciously started to stamp his feet in approval. At the close, the audience and all, sang "My country, 'tis of thee," with great fervor.

Notice to Farmers.

That a fine Yorkshire boar is now owned by Frank Stamets one-half mile south of Auburn. This hog is white and very fine. Registered No. 91 of the Espyville, Yorkshire Herd. Call at the premises. 21-23

McElree's WINE OF CARDUI for female diseases.

Oron Bair, of Fairfield, was here yesterday.

Just received 1000 rolls of new wall paper at the City Book Store. tf

Gilt papers at 18 cents a roll, borders to match at City Book Store.

Lawyers, doctors, musical people, and the rest, should hear the Trial by Jury. It is very enjoyable.

Henry Murray, of Spencerville, was here this week, on his way to attend the grand lodge of Masons at Indianapolis.

Miss Myers has a bright new stock of goods including the neatest line of children's hats. Just lovely, and so cheap! Call and see.

C. A. Dugan now principal of the schools at Decatur, Ind., was home at Auburn this week. He found congenial occupation greeting his former neighbors, who are of course his friends. He has just ended a year of successful school work.

W. M. Leedy, representing the Fort Wayne Journal was in town the first of the week. He has established for that excellent paper, quite a large list of the daily edition both in Auburn and Garrett. The Journal is worthy of support, and we are pleased to see it prosper.

The ice cream social given on the lawn last Friday evening, by the young people of the Lutheran church, came in contact with a cold afternoon and a very rainy evening. They finally took the tables into the court house hall to accommodate those who could get there. And the little misses had to finish up the next day.

We made the acquaintance yesterday of M. B. Swihart, an engineer or the Wabash road, who resides at Butler. His wife will be remembered by DeKalb county teachers and pupils, as Miss Sarah Zahner, once a most successful teacher in our schools. We are pleased to know that she and her husband are prospering.

Auditor Coffinberry has been notified by the attorney-general, that under the present law the trustees and commissioners will not make their levies in June, but at the September term. This will give them all the more time to study up the new conditions and to fix their levies to conform to the increased assessment under the new law.

The gentlemen of the M. E. church will give an ice cream and strawberry festival in the basement next Friday evening from 5 to 7 o'clock. Regular supper served including strawberries for 15 cents, those taking ice cream 10 cents extra. When the gentlemen give a social we all know it will be a grand success. So everybody come and get a good supper and don't forget the date.

Class of '91.

The graduating exercises of the class of '91 of our High School, will be at the Opera House, on Friday evening of next week, June 5. The baccalaureate sermon will by Mr. Healy, at the Presbyterian chuch, next Sunday evening. The members of the class are Ollie Buss, Gertie Wilson, Wilson Feagler, Nellie Buckley, Walter Hartman, Dan. Link and Chas. Hague. The class is a bright one, and the exercises will be unusually interesting, equal at least to those at our other commencements. A fee of 10 and 15 cents will be charged, to assist in paying the expenses. We believe our people appreciate our excellent school and the good work it is doing, and will crowd the big Opera House that evening in honor of the class of '91. Tickets will be on sale at Robbins & McCord's, June 3, 1891.

Smoking Tobacco.

Kessler Brothers wish to inform their customers and friends. that they now have a full stock of smoking tobacco, which they will from this time forth keep on hand. Don't forget the place, Kessler Bothers' fine room, in the Beuret Building on north Main St.

Please Call and Settle.

Frank Hoff respectfully asks all who owe him on account, to call and settle as soon as they can, as the fire compelled him to buy new goods, and to put up an expensive new building, and he will need every cent coming to him.

Commencement Exercises.

The common school commencement exercises will be held at the following times and places. Concord. Fairfield, and Richland have not yet determined upon their dates: Grant, June 4, Norris Chapel: Jackson, June 11, Grove Bethel; Franklin, June 12, Memorial Chapel; Smithfield, June 13, Barker's Chapel.

Shaffer & Berg.

If you want a good farm wagon call on this reliable firm in Auburn. Everything is made on honor, and only of the best material. Everyone who has used their wagons knows this and will testify to the excellent quality of their work. They have now twenty-four of these fine wagons all completed and ready to deliver, so you can be suited and get your wagon at once, without waiting. Their prices are reasonable. Custom work a specialty. Repairing done neatly and promptly. Call on them on South Main Street, Auburn.

NEW GOODS.

ALL WOOL

PLAIN AND PLAID

Serges, Henriettas, Cashmeres, Domet and Zephyr Flannels, Criterion Ginghams, Calicos, Muslins, Tickings, Towelings, Table Linens,

WHITE

—and—

BLACK

Goods, Ribbons, Buttons, Handkerchiefs, Hosiery, Gloves Underwear, Silk Umbrellas.

Call and See

New Goods.

MRS. M. JONES & SON.

If you want to save

Time and Money

GO TO

Cowan Sisters,

where you will find

A Numberless Variety

........OF........

HATS, TRIMMED.

No WAITING to Get Work Done.

Our store is full of

New Summer Goods

With prices surprisingly low. Call and see them.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A CHOICE SELECTION OF INTERESTING ITEMS.

Comments and Criticisms Based Upon the Happenings of the Day—Historical and News Notes.

A HEAD of hair measuring ten feet and seven inches in length adorns Mrs. Philpot, of Gainesville, Texas. Her height is only four feet.

A FEW years ago the great Salkirk glacier in British Columbia was pure water. Now it is grimy from ashes scattered by the wanton burning of forest trees.

THREE hundred to four hundred tons of coal per day is the amount used in some of the large passenger steamers on the Atlantic. This is about one ton per mile run.

THE crackling sound of freshly ignited wood or coal is caused by the air or liquid contained in the pores expanding by heat and bursting the covering in which it is confined.

NEW YORK has a wonder on its police force. This wonder arrested two women, and when they were assessed $10 and costs each, he gallantly paid their fine. They were strangers to him.

IT is a mistake to suppose that polar research has cost enormously in human life. Despite all the great disasters, ninety-seven out of every one hundred explorers have returned alive.

THE lowest body of water on the globe is the Caspian sea. Its level has been gradually lowering for centuries and now it is eighty-five feet below the level of its neighbor, the Black sea.

ENGLISH officers are aghast at the proposition to abolish the cocked hat and feathers worn by the superior officers of the army. Major James, of the Sixteenth Lancers, started the idea.

THE New York Supreme Court has decided that a man who abandons his wife without just cause must still give her an equitable share of his income, even if she has plenty of means of her own.

A SNORING woman was lately expelled from a church in Racine, Wis. She had not a pleasant countenance while asleep in her pew, and the clergyman thought she was making faces at him.

THE new State of Washington has raised the largest turnip ever seen. It was lately on exhibition in the Chamber of Commerce at New Whatcom, and measured four feet in circumference, and weighed over fifty pounds.

A PENNSYLVANIA farmer has a hen which habitually lays unusually large eggs. Inside of each of these eggs is another good sized egg, perfectly formed. Both the inside and outside egg have a yelk and white apart.

THE only man tried, found guilty and executed for treason during the existence of the United States was William B. Mumford, in 1862. The execution took place in New Orleans under an order of Gen. Benjamin F. Butler.

A CALIFORNIAN was out looking for some lost sheep in a canyon near Sespe, Ventura County, recently, when he ran against a large brown bear. He had no firearms, but he lassoed the bear and dragged it to death. It weighed 800 pounds.

THE olfactometer recently exhibited to the Academy of Sciences in Paris is a little apparatus for testing the smelling powers of individuals. It determines the weight of odorous vapor in a cubic centimetre of air which is perceptible by the olfactory sense of a person.

THE last engagement of the civil war was at Palmetto Ranche, Texas, May 11, 1865, the Sixty-second United States Colored Volunteers, Second Texas Cavalry and Thirty-fourth Indiana Volunteers under Col. Barrett, and the Confederates under Gen. Slaughter.

NOT long ago the Protestant Episcopal bishop of a far western State administered the rite of conformation in a little town; and the local paper, in a long and appreciative account of the event, unctuously described the good bishop "in his lawn tennis sleeves walking up the aisle with solemn step."

AN English dentist who tried hypnotism in his profession was very successful. He extracted a tooth for a lady while she was in a hypnotized condition, and when she was awakened she said she had not felt the removal of the tooth, and she had not experienced any discomfort since.

IN relation to his scheme for a tubular railway across the Straits of Dover, Sir E. G. Reed points out that, unlike the tunnel, the tube can be destroyed, if required, with torpedoes or mines by the fleet, and hence could never be used by an enemy to maintain the communications of an army of invasion.

A LADY came to the polls in Fort Scott, Kan., who refused a ticket from those doling them out, saying she had her ticket already prepared. She was allowed to have her own sweet way, and when the ballots were counted out her registration ticket, with her name in big letters, turned up all right.

THE true Bengal tiger is dying out, so say Indian sportsmen. The advance of civilization drives the creatures from their old haunts, and the rewards offered for the destruction of wild beasts encourage indiscriminate slaughter, so that tigers are rare, even in the islands of the Brahmapootra, where they formed the chief population some years ago.

A CANARY died in New York recently at the age of 15 years. The bird was blind for the last two years of his life, but sang at times till within a few days of his death. One morning he refused food, but took a little water, and then, according to the writer, he nestled down in his cage, ruffled out his feathers as usual, coiled up as if to sleep, and thus gently died.

A COLUMBUS, Ohio, miss of 16 was recently legally possessed of three names within the space of twelve hours. She started in the morning with Ryder; then in order to marry she required a guardian who would consent to the ceremony, and a friend by the name of Osborn adoted her. After this the minister and lover stepped in and she became Mrs. Travener.

ONE of the recent improvements in photographic telescopes is an object glass, one of whose lenses is so formed that when one side of it is turned outward the visual rays are brought to a proper focus and you have a telescope for seeing with; and when the other side of the lens is turned outward the actinic rays are brought to a focus and the telescope is in proper shape for taking photographs.

M. PAUL CRAMPEL, a French explorer, has given an account of the Bagayas, a pigmy race, inhabiting the great forests north of Ogowe, who appear to be related to the Wambuttis of Stanley's expedition. They live among the M'fangs, to whom they are in a measure subject. The Bagaya hunt ivory for the M'fangs, and recieve manioc and bananas in exchange. The M'fangs are about 5 feet 9 inches to 6 feet high, whereas the Bagayas are 4 feet 7 inches.

PERHAPS one of the most enterprising newspaper reporters that this country ever produced lives at Cleveland, Ohio. News items being very scarce one day he determined to furnish his paper with something in the way of news, so he took a dose of poison and telephoned the fact to his paper. The enterprising scribe, however, was pumped out in time to save his life, and he is no doubt now hatching up another sensation which will enable him to scoop the rival sheets.

DR. CHARCOT reports a girl of 15, "with blue eyes and long blonde hair," an inmate of a Paris hospital, who has "feline" spells, her eyes becoming periodically and suddenly "frightfully convulsed in the orbits," when she will assume a position on all fours, hop and skip around the room, imitate a cat in the "pht" and "meow" sounds, and wind up by fainting, rolling over on her back and assuming nominal humam conditions. He has dubbed he "femme-chat" or cat woman.

THE Germans have sent to Germany a few African chiefs whom they wished to impress with their power. The most amusing delegation which has yet gone to Europe from Africa was that of King Mandara, who lords it on the southern slope of Mount Kilima-Njaro. They saw nothing in Berlin that seemed to them half so grand as their own country, and they were constantly drawing comparisons between the young Emperor William and their sovereign which were not complimentary to the German ruler.

ONE of the Broadway restaurants is without seats or tables, and only sandwiches, fruit, cake, and pies are supplied to the numerous patrons, who are permitted to make their own selections from the buffets, and then name what they have eaten. The proprietor says, "I have confidence in the honesty of my customers. I give a good deal for what it would cost a man to tip a waiter in a sit-down restaurant, and if any one cheats me it will not amount to what I would loose if I employed a lot of waiters."

TWO MEN were talking of the average width of chest of men of different nationalities, when one of them, an Irishman, told this story: "A few years ago two regiments of the British army were lined up, the one in front of the other. There were a thousand Englishmen of the Royal Guard in one line, and a thousand Irishmen of the Connaught Rangers in the other. The lines began at the same place, but the line of Irishmen extended thirty-six feet further than the other. It was caused by the difference in width of chest, for the men in both regiments touched elbows."

"IN God we trust," first appeared on the copper two-cent issue of 1864, and is the first use of the word God in any Government act. This sentence was introduced by James Pollock, an Ex-Governor of Pennsylvania, Director of the Mint, with the approval of S. P. Chase, then Secretary of the Treasury. It appeared on the 1866 issue of the double-eagle, eagle, half-eagle, silver dollar, half-dollar and nickel five-cent piece, in lieu of the long-existing motto of E. Pluribus Unum. In the trade-dollar issue (1873) both mottoes were retained, "In God we trust" appearing on the obverse.

March!

Even an extremely aggressive enemy can easily be conquered by strategy; it is only a question of employing the stratagem exactly fitted to the case. An open-air preacher of East London understood this very well, and his stratagem fitted to a charm. He was addressing a crowd, when a soldier who had been drinking came up, and loudly ridiculed the service.

Finding it was useless to ignore the man, the preacher said, "Ah, my friend, you're no soldier; you've only borrowed those gay red clothes! No servant of the Queen would get drunk and interrupt a peaceful service."

The man warmly protested that he was a soldier, and invited the preacher to test him.

"Very well," was the reply, "I will. Now then, stand at ease!"

This the soldier did as well as his condition allowed. "Right about face!" This order was also obeyed, though with some trouble.

"Now, quick march!" and off went the valiant soldier, marching down the Mile-end Road at a vigorous pace, while the preacher resumed his discourse.—Youth's Companion.

FREE RAW MATERIALS.

WHAT FREE HIDES HAVE ACCOMPLISHED.

Large Increase in Exports of Leather and Boots and Shoes—English Buyers in the American Market—A Strong Case for Free Raw Materials.

The wisdom of the policy of free raw materials is well illustrated in the case of leather. Hides were put on the free list nearly twenty years ago, and our exports of leather and leather goods have steadily increased ever since then, reaching during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1890, the total of $12,438,000. These exports will be still larger during the fiscal year now drawing to a close.

On the subject of our foreign market for leather, the Boston Boot and Shoe Recorder says:

"Foreigners have become steady purchasers of shoe-making material from America. The future growth of the traffic is certain to be continuous and rapid. There are those in the leather trade who feel that in another ten years the volume of foreign transactions in leather will be double what it is now. They assume, of course, that there will be no absurd legislation to interfere with the business. The proposition a year or so ago to tax hides startled the trade somewhat at the time, but that has gone by and we cannot expect any interference in that quarter for several years to come. We shall expect the same steady increase in years to come that has been going on for the past six or eight years."

"English buyers of leather," the same journal goes on, "are now considered to be one of the regular factors of our market, and hardly a day passes that transactions in leather by these people are not recorded. The English leather commission merchant continues to solicit consignments of American leather, and considerable American leather is now going into this channel."

The foreign demand for leather is so strong and steady that it is looked to to raise prices. As the Recorder says: "The fact that larger quantities than usual of shoe materials are going out of the country will inevitably strengthen the determination of holders of leather to adhere to their price, and to advance if they can."

Under the influence of cheap leather our boot and shoe industry has developed, and machinery and methods have been invented which place us far ahead of Europe in capacity for rapid work. Our shoe-making machinery is even now being introduced into Europe. Mr. John T. Day, editor of the London Shoe and Leather Record, has recently been visiting this country. In speaking of his visit, the Boston Boot and Shoe Recorder says: "During his visit to America he has been investigating the methods of boot and shoe manufacturers in this country, and as a result will take home a mass of interesting information relative to it. In comparing English and American styles of work, editor Day states unhesitatingly that we are far ahead of our British cousins in the use of modern machinery and in the manner of doing the work."

Such have been the beneficent results of free trade. But these results have not been reaped by foreigners alone, but in a much larger measure by our own people. Never were our shoes so well made and cheaply sold as to-day. The pasteboard soles and heels, so common just after the war, have entirely disappeared, free raw material enabling our manufacturers to turn out cheaply shoes made entirely of leather.

With the increased exports of leather there has been also a very great increase in the imports of raw hides. These imports last year reached nearly $22,000,000.

It has certainly been of no disadvantage to our farmers that this large quantity of hides came into the country free. No one grows cattle for hides; and the value of the hide, is so small in comparison with the meat that it scarcely enters into calculation.

If free hides have proven of so great benefit to the leather industry, giving it a large and stable foreign market, why would not equal benefits follow free wool?

American Horses in Europe.

McKinley pretended to see that our farmers were in danger of being flooded with too many cheap horses coming into the country from Canada. Of course, the farmers are themselves the principal buyers of horses, but McKinley depended upon them to overlook that fact, and to be overwhelmed with gratitude to him to find in the "farmers' tariff" that he raised the duty on horses.

Under the old law, horses came in at 20 per cent. ad valorem. McKinley raised this duty to 30 per cent. on all horses valued at more than $150 per head, and to $30 apiece on horses worth less than $150.

These duties look like a sign of distress, like a confession that there is some ruinous outside competition. The following item from the Rural New-Yorker, however, shows that the American horse can hold up his head among the pauper horses of Europe:

"Shipping horses to Scotland from Philadelphia is becoming quite a business, 400 having been sent within the last few months. They all go to Aberdeen, where a dealer has opened large stables for the sale of American horses exclusively. The trade is expected to increase rapidly. The trotting horse is preferred, being used as a coach horse and roadster. It cost $30 for the transportation of each horse, besides $40 insurance on each animal valued at $200. But notwithstanding these heavy charges, which do not include the expenses to Aberdeen from Glasgow, the shippers realize a profit, and propose to push the trade."

McKinley's horse duty, then, was only intended to fool farmers who lack horse sense.

Hay Prices and a Hay Trust.

When the McKinleyites doubled the duty on hay last year many farmers doubtless thought that higher prices for hay would now be in order. It has not worked any disadvantage yet to the farmers of New York State. A correspondent of the Rural New-Yorker tells why: "The price has for several years ranged from $10 to $13 per ton to the grower, the buyer furnishing a press and the men to operate it, and the farmer furnishing the additional help, and board for all hands, horse-feed and coal, and he has also had to deliver the bales to the cars. All this was quite satisfactory until last fall, when the three hundred hay dealers in this State formed a "trust," fixing the price at $7, and charging $1.75 per ton for baling, in case the dealer baled the hay and did not buy it. Nor was this all; an iron-clad contract was produced for the farmer to sign, which gave the buyer the privilege of grading the hay at the car, and many received only $5 or $6 for hay for which they expected $7. There was no use in talking back after they had signed the contract, for the monopolists could pay what they saw fit and the growers were obliged to take it.

"All this naturally caused a vigorous kick, and new presses were bought by enterprising men. Most of the latter were approached by the trust men, who tried to induce them by various means not to press for farmers. The presses, however, have been constantly running, and some of the farmers have shipped their hay, while others have sold theirs where they saw fit. The hay dealers, however, had too good a thing, and stuck well to their trust, and go where one might, $7 was all they would offer, and they got plenty at that price, and, strange as it may seem, some old and very prosperous farmers have sold recently at that figure."

Protecting American Labor.

When the protected coal and coke operators of Pennsylvania had their great difficulty over wages some years ago, they got rid of their American labor and imported Hungarians and Italians by contract to take its place. This was the occasion for passing the national contract labor law, which forbids the employment of laborers in foreign countries and bringing them here under contract. The law was really a scheme to prevent protected American mine-owners from degrading American labor. The law was passed at the instance of Pennsylvania labor organizations, which were suffering from the competition of imported contract labor. These organizations had heard the usual amount of rot about protection of American labor; but they saw that a protective tariff law alone did not secure any benefit to labor. There must be a separate law to prevent the protected mine-owners from making contracts in Europe with "pauper labor," to come here and take the place of native Americans, who should organize and attempt to enforce their demands for living wages.

But the mischief had already been done. The Pennsylvania mine-owners had already brought in large numbers of Hungarians and Italians; others followed rapidly, and for some years now the Pennsylvania mines have been worked almost entirely by hordes of ignorant foreigners, the cheapest and most degraded labor in the United States. This labor, however, learned to writhe under its degradation. The worm trodden upon will turn. The imported labor learned to organize itself and move in a body for higher wages and a better standard of living.

When, therefore, the mine-owners several months ago resolved to reduce wages, they were met by a demand from their imported Hungarians and Italians for an increase instead of a reduction. Then followed the great coal and coke strike with some 30,000 laborers out of work. Bloody riots followed and the troops had to be called out to keep the peace.

Meanwhile, the strike had caused immense losses to both sides. At the end of the twelfth week, the estimated loss was $3,500,000, of which sum $1,000,000 represented loss of wages to the men, and the remainder losses of the manufacturers—an average loss to all parties of about $300,000 per week.

The latest news is to the effect that a new supply of Italians, "most of them fresh from Europe," is being shipped into the coke region, "under a strong guard." It was stated by the Italian leader of this band that there are American agents all over Italy trying to induce Italians to come to the United States. Several thousands of the poorest class have thus found their way to Pittsburg since the strike began, and, it is added, "just who pays their fares does not appear on the surface."

Such is the fate of American labor under protection. And the organs and the talkers go on reirerating their stale and exploded assertions about protection raising wages.

Does It Keep Wages High?

Protectionists coolly claim that protection not only raises but that it makes wages continue to go higher and higher. The tendency upward, they say, is permanent. If these advocates of protection will refer to the report of Carroll D. Wright, which he issued in 1883 as Labor Commissioner for the State of Massachusetts, they will find some figures not much calculated to strengthen their case. Here are the wages in some of the protected industries of Massachusetts in 1860 and 1880:

	Average Weekly Wages, 1860.	1880.
Boots and shoes	$11.42	$9.66
Carpets	6.62	5.87
Clothing	8.25	8.81
Cottons	6.50	7.37
Furniture	11.77	9.95
Leather	10.01	9.63
Linen and jute	4.63	4.89
Paper	8.63	8.17
Silk	5.91	5.87
Worsteds	6.10	5.66
Average in all industries	$8.00	$7.52

When protectionists are putting forth their extravagant assertions about what protection has done for labor they ought to have the decency to add, "Except in Massachusetts."

They have been figuring on the thing in Massachusetts with the above result. The State printer has put the figures into type, and everybody can read it. No wonder that the old superstition that protection raises wages is dying out among the workpeople of Massachusetts.

McKinley Tin Cans.

Certain protectionist organs have been printing the absured statement that tin cans are cheaper now than a year ago, before the prices of tin plate had been affected by the tariff. A statement of that character will do for use in McKinley organs; but men in the packing business know that cans are dearer than they were. At the National Association of Canned Goods Packers, in Chicago, T. L. Bunting, a well known packer of Hamburg, N. Y., said that duty had advanced the cost of 2-lb. cans 8½ cents per dozen, 3-lb. cans 10½ cents per dozen, and gallon cans 12 cents per dozen.

He further stated that if no duty were imposed the packer could afford to pay the farmer 25 per cent. more for produce than he pays now, and could still sell the goods at the same price. McKinley's tin-plate tax is therefore especially burdensome to all farmers who raise fruits or vegetables for the canneries.

The Foreign Market.

The McKinleyites take every occasion to belittle the foreign market, but all the same the foreign market goes on proving its value to our farmers. Our total exports of beef, hog, and dairy products during April reached a value of $9,536,059, against exports in April, 1890, of $9,379,706. The totals for the four months ending April 30 have increased from $42,148,694 for 1890 to $44,346,900 for 1891. The exports of breadstuffs during April were valued at $12,373,827, against $15,543,912 in same month last year. For the ten months ending April 30 the breadstuffs exported were valued at $97,626,753, against $126,170,289 the same time in 1890.

Poor crops at home last year left a smaller surplus of breadstuffs for export than usual; but the foreign demand is now raising prices in the home market.

The Tariff the Issue.

Senator Carlisle has recently been in New York. Asked while there whether the tariff would be the leading issue in 1892, he answered:

"I think so. It ought to be, and I sincerely hope that it will be. I think the Democratic party would make a serious mistake if it allowed the tariff question to be made second to the silver question or any other. It is the real issue. The party is a unit on that question, while on the silver question it is divided. That alone is one reason why the fight should be made with that for the main issue. I hope the silver question will be laid aside or made secondary, leaving the tariff as the dominant issue."

THE fellows who are waiting for the office to seek the man are getting awfully tired.

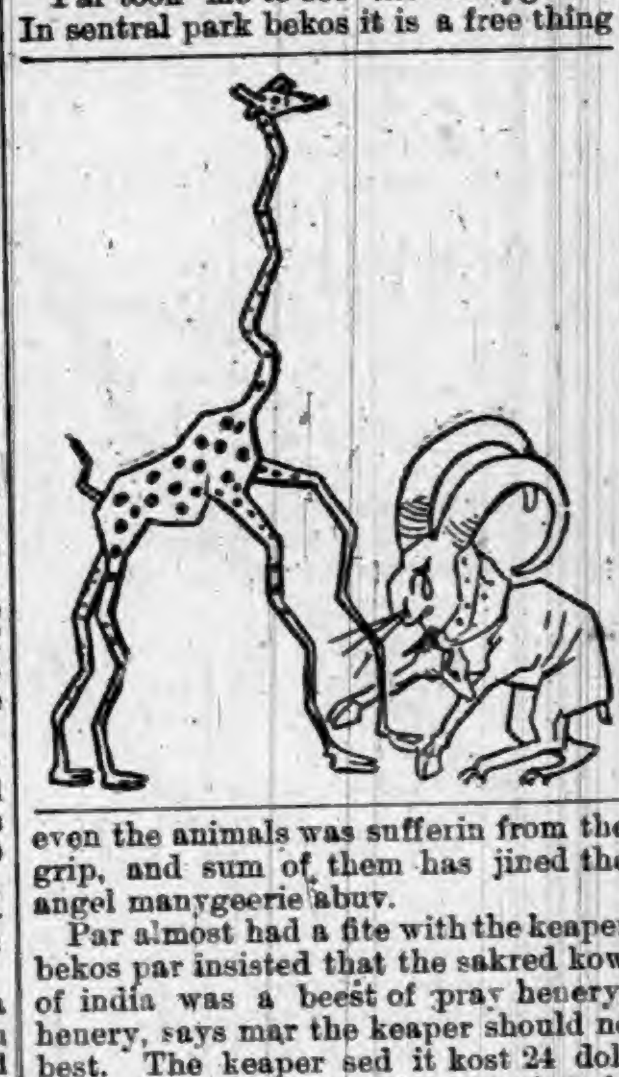
JOHNNIE CHAFFIE.

He Writes of the Grip and of Scenes in New York.

THE boy from Texas complains of the New York ozone—Col. Chaffie a sufferer from the grip—Johnnie visits the menagerie in Central Park—The giraffe very much under the influence of the weather—Why the hippopotamus smiled—Severe remarks about the New York police.

MISTUR EDITUR: par Has had the grip but he is okay now. o how he did kuss. He didn't say hello as if he was working a telefone, but said it backwards with the o fust. He kust so that everybody said profanity was on the inkreas his noze felt as if it was stuft fuller putty in noo york winter has several back bones dammit says par i wish i was in Texas. April kame in like a lion with jimjams, a soar tale and feelin ugly.

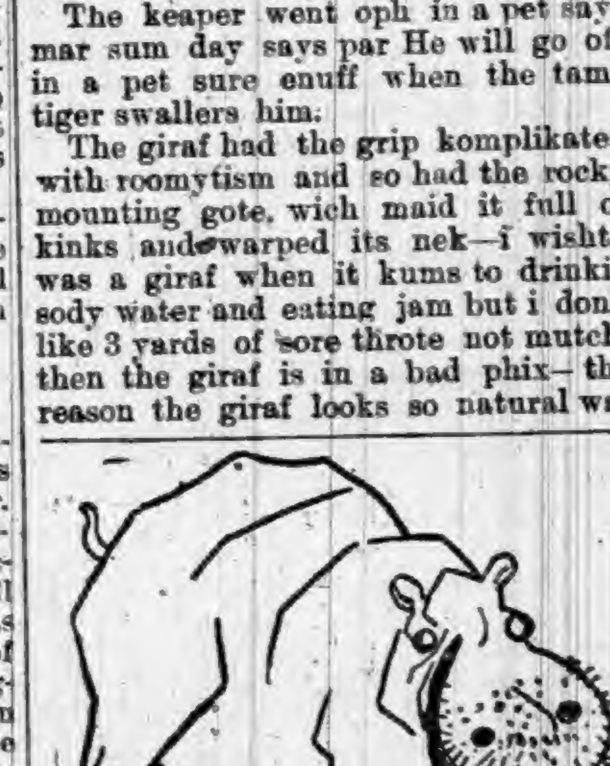
Par took me to see the manygeerie In sentral park bekos it is a free thing even the animals was sufferin from the grip, and sum of them has jined the angel manygeerie abuv.



Par almost had a fite with the keaper bekos par insisted that the sakred kow of india was a beest of pray henery, henery, says mar the keaper should no best. The keaper sed it kost 24 dollars a week to feed the bengal tiger in that case wat does the bord of a kat amount to, asked par.

The keaper went oph in a pet says mar sum day says par He will go off in a pet sure enuff when the tame tiger swallers him.

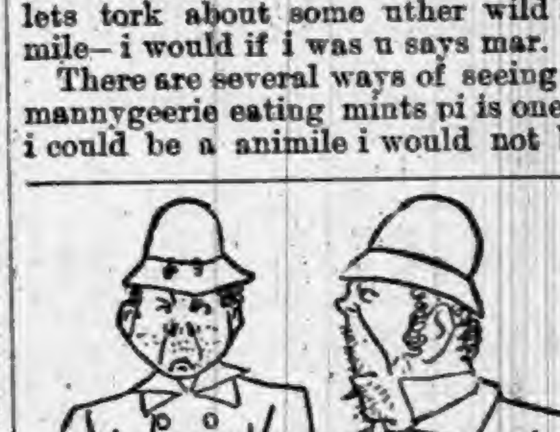
The giraf had the grip komplikated with roomytism and so had the rocky mounting gote, wich maid it full of kinks and warped its nek—i wisht i was a giraf when it kums to drinkin sody water and eating jam but i don't like 3 yards of sore throte not mutch, then the giraf is in a bad phix—the reason the giraf looks so natural was bekos it was alive it is a way it has says par.



The elefants lookt flabby as if they had got hold of some of the red suckus lemonade wen they wus on the rode so did the lions and tigers—an ole fashoned hare trunk with a paint brush tale and a brass eye kood put them awl to flite.

The only real happy animile in sentral park was the hippypotamus bekos it had a chill, and the keaper gave him fore gallons of wiskey—mar says elefants like wiskey two witch explains wy pars breth smells of wiskey wen he has been to see the elefant par said lets tork about some uther wild animile—i would if i was u says mar.

There are several ways of seeing the mannygeerie eating mints pi is one—if i could be a animile i would not be a elefant or a hippypotimuss altho they gets lots of peenuts—ide be a wasp thats the kind of a kwadrooped ide be so i could sting my sunday skool teacher.



Speaking of feroshus animiles par says the New York perleece is the most dangerus—it would be safer for the publick to put sum of the perleece behind the bars, and turn out the dekrepid ole lions and tigers with their decade teeth, sunkin eyes, slinking tales wich is harmless kompaired with the perleece—i would like to see them feed. Your friend

JOHNNIE CHAFFIE.

—Texas Siftings.

Not Troubled.

Irate Tenant—I asked you when I rented this place if you had ever been troubled by chicken thieves, and you said "no." Every one of my chickens was stolen last night, and I am told that the neighborhood has been infested with chicken thieves for years.

Suburban Agent—I never keep chickens.—Good News.

ONE BULL, a nephew of the dead chieftain, related an interesting incident that happened just the day before Sitting Bull was murdered. He said Sitting Bull that day climbed to the top of one of the highest neighboring buttes, where he fell asleep, and dreamed of the startling tragedy that would happen the next day. He came down, and told his people that their great medicine man would be killed on the morrow. How true his words were was attested by developments the next morning.

THERE are fifty-nine women in New York who keep provision stores, and they appear to meet with success. One of the leading real estate brokers in the city is a woman, and there are fifty or more female physicians.

TRADE MARK.
DUTCH JELLY
NONE GEUNUINE WITHOUT CREST AND SIGNATURE
K van Amhurn
KEEP THE LID ON THE POT
If you want a beautiful complexion and a perfect skin, use Dutch Jelly. No tan, freckles, moth patches, pimples, black heads or wrinkles. No coarse, rough, greasy, chafed or chapped face and hands. Dutch Jelly is absolutely pure, being a vegetable compound and void of all mineral properties; contains no grease or oil, and after its application the most delicate fabric can be handled without soiling. Gentlemen use it after shaving. For eczema Dutch Jelly is a positive cure. For ulcers pimples, itching and all eruptive skin diseases, Dutch Jelly is simply invaluable and permanently effective. For cuts, bruises, sun burn, insect bites Dutch Jelly is supreme and is absolutely odorless. Dutch Jelly is not a cosmetic, but rather a skin tonic and has the highest medical endorsement. One trial will convince the most skeptical that it will keep the roughest skin in the smoothest and whitest condition. Ask your druggist, or send 50 cents in Stamps or Postal Note for Sample Jar. Address
Dutch Jelly Co.,
50-52 Michigan Ave.,
CHICAGO, ILL.

Page CYCLE
SPRING FORK.

EASIEST RIDING
WHEEL - ON - EARTH.
HAS WITHOUT EXCEPTION THE
FINEST SPRING IN AMERICA.
Rides as gently over obstructions as a carriage and is in every sense of the word a perfect cycle
BUILT FINEST DESIGN. FINEST STEEL. FINEST FINISH. FINEST BALL BEARINGS.
Do not buy without getting our Catalogue or seeing this wheel.
PAGE STEEL WHEEL CO., TOLEDO, OHIO.

SANGOLE
ACTUALLY
PRODUCES FLESH
AND CURES
CONSUMPTION
IN INCIPIENCY.
PALATABLE, DIGESTIBLE,
NUTRITIOUS.
IMPARTS LIFE AND VIGOR TO EVERY FIBRE.
SPECIMEN TESTIMONIAL.
WHEELING, Feb. 10, 1891.
Gentlemen:— Early last fall I contracted a severe cold, which settled on my lungs. I coughed dreadfully and lost flesh rapidly until advised to try Sangole, which I did with the most gratifying result.
After taking three bottles my cough ceased and I found that I had gained six pounds in weight. I most heartily recommend it to sufferers of loss of flesh from any cause. Respectfully,
LIZZIE G. CAMPBELL.
Recommended and sold by all Druggists.
Post paid to any address on receipt of $1.00
Silver Guarantee Remedy Co.,
WHEELING, W. VA.

Manny
Lemon Juice Extractor
BEST AND MOST ECONOMICAL.

ORDINARY Lemon Squeezers act upon lemon from outside, inducing a bitter oil and crushing living creatures which appear on skin as dark scales.
THE "MANNY" Lemon Juice Extractor operates on pulp within, and gives clear pure juice free from insects, oil or seeds.
IF your dealer cannot supply you send 30 CENTS postal note or stamps for a sample post paid.
Manny Lemon Juice Extractor Co.,
202 COLUMBIA ST., ROCKFORD, ILL.
WE WANT GOOD AGENTS.

The D&C
TO MACKINAC
SUMMER TOURS
PALACE STEAMERS. LOW RATES.
Four Trips per Week Between
DETROIT, MACKINAC ISLAND
Petoskey, The Soo, Marquette, and Lake Huron Ports.
Every Evening Between
DETROIT AND CLEVELAND
Sunday Trips during June, July, August and September Only.
OUR ILLUSTRATED PAMPHLETS.
Rates and Excursion Tickets will be furnished by your Ticket Agent, or Address
A. A. SCHANTZ, Ass't G. P. A., DETROIT, MICH.,
THE DETROIT & CLEVELAND STEAM NAV. CO

DON'T WASTE MONEY
BUYING THE WRONG WAIST.
BUY THE "HAUT-TON"
WAIST.

HAUT TON WAIST.
PAT. MARCH 18 1890
IT meets the popular demand for hygienic garments. Made of fine satteen in white, drab, ecru, old gold, and fast black, well stayed with cords; has no steels except in front and back, with clasp or button fronts.
Is so soft and pliable, yet produces a perfect figure.
A Perfect Waist.
Canvassers Wanted. Send for Catalogue.
Waist sent post paid on receipt $1.15
Bortree Mfg. Co., Jackson, Mich.

FARMS IN CENTRAL MICHIGAN
are positively first rate as proven by both State and United States agricultural preports. In yield and value of crops per acre, they excell Southern Michigan, Indiana and Illinois. We offer for sale at low prices and on easy terms 20,000 acres of good unimproved farming lands in Isabella County, the center county of the lower peninsular of Michigan. Write for descriptive pamphlet and sample price list.
C. M. C. Cook, Mt. Pleasant, Mich.

The Rock Island "Jewett Hay Rake and Loader."
NO FARMER CAN AFFORD TO BE WITHOUT ONE.

TAKES the hay as left by mower, rakes it CLEAN and will deliver a ton onto wagon every fifteen minutes.
Will certainly save its cost in one year, and under some circumstances in one day.
Light Draft. Fully Guaranteed.
Send for full description and testimonials.
Rock Island Plow Co.
ROCK ISLAND, ILL.
(Mention this paper).

The Electric Capsule

Is a pleasant laxative and sure cure for general debility, billiousness, torpid liver, malaria, sleeplessness, loss of appetite, melancholy, costiveness, nervousness and pains in the back. It positively cures that lassitude and weariness, and want of appetite experienced by so many. Are you fatigued? The most recently discovered wonderful remedy for
LOST VITALITY.
25 Cents per box.
Address ELECTRIC CAPSULE CO.
Post Office Box 3349, N. Y.
FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

ORANGE BLOSSOM
A POSITIVE CURE FOR
ALL FEMALE DISEASES.
SOME SYMPTOMS: A tired, languid feeling, low spirited and despondent, with no apparent cause. Indigestion, headache, backache, bearing down pains, pain across lower part of bowels, with great soreness in region of ovaries. Tumors, Bladder difficulty, Frequent urination, Leucorrhoea, Constipation of bowels, piles. With all these symptoms patient nervous and irritable. THE ORANGE BLOSSOM TREATMENT removes all these by a thorough process of absorption.
A LOCAL APPLICATION Perfectly harmless, which every lady can use, herself. Medicines taken internally will never relieve the many forms of female weakness. The remedy must be applied to the parts to obtain permanent relief.
A PLAIN TALK TO LADIES in our circular. Ask your druggist for one, or send two cent stamp to home office for sample box and circular.
EVERY LADY CAN TREAT HERSELF.
O. B. Pile Remedy. $1.00 FOR ONE MONTH'S TREATMENT. O. B. Stomach Powders.
O. B. Catarrh Cure. —PREPARED BY— O. B. Kidney Cones.
J. A. McGILL, M. D., & CO., 2 & 4 PANORAMA PLACE, CHICAGO, ILL.
FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
ALONZO O. FISHER, Wholesale Agent, 97 Washington St., Chicago, Ill.

A Sharp Trick.

The first case called was that of Sam Johnsing, who was charged with having beaten his wife.

"If you have paid attention, Mr. Johnsing," said the Recorder, toying with a pen, "you are doubtless aware that those nearest and dearest to you, after you have paid your fine, have made it pretty evident that you are a black fiend."

"Dat's not de way you talked to me when you wanted me to vote for you," retorted Sam sulkily.

"Tempora mutantur, et nos mutamur in illis."

"Dat ain't what you tole me. Ef you had tole me dat ar I nebber would hab voted for you in dis world. You tole me dat ef I voted your ticket you would ebber after regard me in de light ob a pussonal friend."

"Silence in court. What proof have you got that you didn't inflict those bruises on her person?"

"I always heered a married man had de right to correct his wife."

"You hear to much, Mr. Johnsing," replied the Recorder, who had regained his good humor.

"There can be no reasonable objection to you appealing to the more tender susceptibilities of the partner of your joys with the toe of your boot. You may even, on special occasions, as on the Fourth of July or Ash Wednesday, warm her up with a skillet, bounce a stick of wood on her person, or cause a bootjack to carom among her features. The law encourages you to regulate your own family affairs as long as you keep within the bounds of moderation, but when you mistake murderation for moderation then, Sam, just at that crisis the law steps in."

"I was only a sportin' wid her."

"You were sporting with her, and now you are trying to make game of me. That will never do, Sam. That banged nose speaks out in thunder tones, and gives the lie to your assertions; that gouged eye is a mute but eloquent witness against you; and beside there is the testimony of the neighbors who heard the whacks. Ten days in the county jail."

"I don't think you am doin' de squar thing by me. I voted for you, and I helped elect you."

"That's just it. You helped me into a position, and now I have helped you into a position, so that I don't think you ought to accuse me of ingratitude any more."—Texas Siftings.

The late Bishop Wilberforce, of England, was the most eloquent preacher on the bench of bishops, the most energetic worker in his diocese, and the most accomplished and witty leader in society. Many who were jealous of his great gifts and influence, and others who disliked his High Church principles, used to accuse him of insincerity and a readiness to sacrifice convictions for social success. He acquired the undignified and suggestive nickname of "Soapy Sam." But he never showed greater presence of mind, or more ready wit, than in interpreting this nickname under trying circumstances. He was in a large and fashionable company, where a bright girl attracted his attention, and excited his rare power for fascinating children. Her confidence was completely won, and she ventured to ask,—

"Will you answer me a question?"

"Certainly," he answered.

"Will you, truly?" she repeated.

"Truly!"

By this time the attention of the whole company was arrested, and they listened, half in amusement and half in consternation, to the question,—

"Why do people call you 'Soapy Sam?'"

But the bishop's face did not color, nor his voice falter. The answer came prompt and gentle, "I suppose it must be because when I happen to get into dirty water I always come out clean." The company could not refrain from a general laugh, in which the bishop heartily joined.—Youth's Companion.

Stone Soled Shoes.

A German inventor proposes to make boots with stone soles. He mixes with a water-proof glue a suitable quantity of clean quartz sand, which is spread on the thin leather sole employed as a foundation. These quartz soles are said to be very flexible and almost indestructible, while they enable the wearer to walk safely over slippery roads.

AYER'S Sarsaparilla is booming all over the land, being everywhere considered

The Superior remedy for scrofula and all forms of blood disease.

Take no other

MEDICINE

Cures others, will cure you.

SHILOH'S CONSUMPTION CURE.

The success of this Great Cough Cure is without a parallel in the history of medicine. All druggists are authorized to sell it on a positive guarantee, a test that no other cure can successfully stand. That it may become known, the Proprietors, at an enormous expense, are placing a Sample Bottle Free into every home in the United States and Canada. If you have a Cough, Sore Throat, or Bronchitis, use it, for it will cure you. If your child has the Croup, or Whooping Cough, use it promptly, and relief is sure. If you dread that insidious disease Consumption, use it. Ask your Druggist for SHILOH'S CURE, Price 10 cts., 50 cts. and $1.00. If your Lungs are sore or Back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster, Price 25 cts.

THE GREAT ENGLISH REMEDY,
BEECHAM'S PILLS
For Bilious and Nervous Disorders.
"Worth a Guinea a Box" but sold for 25 Cents,
BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

From the "Pacific Journal."
"A great invention has been made by Dr. Tutt of New York. He has produced which imitates nature to perfection; it acts instantaneously and is perfectly harmless."
Tutt's Hair Dye
Price, $1. Office, 39 & 41 Park Place, N. Y.

MEMORIAL DAY.
HRatzer

WHEN the cadets at Charleston fired the first gun on fated Sumter early on that beautiful April morning in 1861, its reverberating echoes sent a tingle all over the Union. The first bloodshed in the streets of Baltimore quickened the patriotic pulse of the nation, and inspired the grand uprising of the North. The first call for 75,000 troops that followed the evacuation of Sumpter, and the alarming Confederate cry of "On to Washington" that moved President Lincoln to a second call for 83,000 troops, indicated to the world that the greatest conflict of modern times was imminent. The battle of Bull Run and the defeat of the Union forces added much to the enthusiasm of the Confederates and the belief in their military prowess. Disheartening as its resut was to the Federals, it fired the Northern circle with fresh fuel for the cause of liberty. The results of the campaigns of 1862 in the region of Virginia were not encouraging, but along the Atlantic coast line and the Mississippi, Kentucky, Tennessee and Mississippi Federal arms had been crowned with many successes. The war was being waged on an enormous scale; hundreds of thousands of men were in the field; both sides had long since discovered that secession was no trifling matter. The tide of battle, the red waves of war surged over the South for five long years; it defloured her youth, it freed her slaves her cause was lost, but the flag of the Union was sustained, and the integrity of the sisterhood of States preserved at frightful cost of human life and suffering. Thousands of the brave boys who marched away under the flaunting flags to the music of war returned not from the bloody fields of battle in the Southland. Every home felt the stress of suffering; while the enthusiasm of victory filled every loyal breast, the death rolls were depressing. Fathers, brothers, lovers had passed away; the widows, the sisters and the sweethearts were left to walk alone and in the shadow. Years have passed, the children of war-time have grown to manhood and womanhood, but the green graves of the soldiers are a perpetual reminder of the men who gave their lives that the Nation might live.

Long before the war had ended the soldiers' graves became marked objects of interest from the famous cities of the dead to the little groups in the hamlet, or the single ones on the lonely farm, and had been decorated with flowers at each returning spring. The observance of decorating the soldiers' graves came as a patriotic impulse, and while it did not have immediate authoritative recognition as a national ceremony, it was carried on with patriotic fervor that showed how nearly it touched the great heart of the people.

The second national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic met in Philadelphia on Jan. 15, 1868. The order had gained amazing strength in the meantime, and the roster showed the existence of 2,500 posts, with a membership believed to exceed 250,000 of the best men of the war. General John A. Logan was elected Commander-in-chief, and to that gallant and typical volunteer soldier belongs the honor of issuing the first order for the observance of Memorial Day. To whom the credit should be given of originally suggesting the beautiful ceremony of decorating the graves of dead comrades is not fully settled. It is thought, however, that the first suggestion came from a former private of the army, who addressed a letter on the subject to Col. N. P. Chipman, General Logan's adjutant general. The letter came from Cincinnati, and the writer, a native of Germany, spoke of the custom prevailing in the fatherland of assembling in the spring-time and scattering flowers upon the graves of the dead. He advised that the Grand Army inaugurate such an observance in memory of their dead. It is much to be regretted that Adjutant General Chipman failed to preserve the letter and was unable to remember the writer's name. General Logan, however, warmly approved of the suggestion and issued the now famous general order to the Grand Army of the Republic commanding that the day be properly observed.

Sentiments for the Day.

To God, thy country and thy friend be true.—Vaughan.

I only regret that I have but one life to lose for my country.—Nathan Hale.

The air is full of farewells to the dying and mourning for the dead.—Longfellow.

Whether in chains or in laurels, liberty knows nothing but victory.—Wendell Phillips.

Where society is powerless to create government, government must create society.—Talleyrand.

Prince Von Bismarck wrote to Von Schleinitz: "Napoleon healed through fire and iron the sick nation."

I'm Not Here for Fun.

I was wandering up one of the principal streets of Indianapolis one Decoration Day when I met a rugged old farmer from the interior who seemed to have lost his way. As he wandered aimlessly along I approached him, and asked: "Do you enjoy the exercises of the day?" "Wall, so-so," he answered; "but I ain't here for fun. I come up to go to the buryin' ground up there on the hill. My boy's buried up there. He was in the the army, you know. He had to lie about his age to get in, but the angels'll forgive that one lie. Lord, how he did fight! I've hearn the other soldiers tell about it. Wall, he went into the battle of the Wildeness and got wounded awful. They telegraphed to me, an' I went right down. He wanted to be took home, an' I fetched him. On the way up he grew worse, an' he said to me if he could only live to get home an' see his ma, he would be satisfied. He kep' getting weaker an' weaker, but he held on till I got him home. His ma tried to nu'se him back to life, but he kep' on running down. He called me up to his bed one night 'bout sundown, an' said, sez he: 'Pa, I wanter be buried up in town'(meanin' here in Inglanoplis), 'an' I want you to keep my grave green.'"

Here the old farmer wiped the tears from his cheeks with his big brown hand, and then brought it down on my shoulder in a determined manner, and exclaimed, "Ah, mister. I'm a-goin' to keep that grave green if I have to paint it!"—J. Whitcomb Riley.

The Nation's Dead.

The nation's dead are buried in seventy-three national cemeteries, only twelve of which are in the Northern States. The principal ones in the North are Cypress Hill, with its 3,786 dead; Finn's Point, N. J., with 2,644 unknown dead; Gettysburg, Pa., with 1,967 known and 1,608 unknown dead; Mound City, Ill., with 2,505 known and 2,721 unknown graves; and Woodlawn, Elmira, N. Y., with its 3,900 dead. In the South, near the scenes of the fearful conflicts, are located the largest resting places of the nation's heroic dead. Arlington, Va., 16,264, of which 4,319 are unknown; Chalmette, La., 12,511, of which 5,674 are unknown: Chattanooga, Tenn., 12,962, of which 4,963 are unknown; Fredericksburg, Va., 15,257, of which 12,770 are unknown; Jefferson Barracks, Mo., 11,490, of which 2,900 are unknown; Little Rock, Ark., 5,602, of which 2,317 are unknown; City Point, Va., 5,122, of which 1,374 are unknown; Marietta, Ga., 10,151, of which 2,693 are unknown; Memphis, Tenn., 13,997, of which 8,817 are unknown; Nashville, Tenn., 16,526, of which 4,700 are unknown; Poplar Grove, Va., 6,190, of which 4,001 are unknown; Richmond, Va., 6,542, of which 5,700 are unknown; Salisbury, N. C., 12,126, of which 12,032 are unknown; Stone River, Tenn., 5,602, of which 288 are unknown; Vicksburg, Miss., 16,600, of which 12,704 are unknown; Antietam, Md., 4,671, of which 1,818 are unknown; Winchester, Va., 4,559, of which 3,365 are unknown. The dust of 300,000 men who fought for the Union find guarded graves in our national cemeteries. Two cemeteries are devoted to the heroic souls who passed away in the prison pens, those festering fields of death of the same name. Andersonville, Ga., harbors 13,741, and Salisbury, N. C., 12,126. Of the Grand Army whose legions are dust 275,000 sleep in the blood-stained ground of the sunny South, and 145,000 of them fill unknown graves. The total Confederate loss will never be known, but estimates place it at 220,000 out of the 1,000,000 men enlisted in the Southern service. They fought the war on the defensive plan, and were acclimated, which gave enormous advantages.

The Confederacy's Vice President.

Alexander H. Stephens made the following prophetic utterance at Savannah, Ga., March 21, 1861: "We are a young republic just entering upon the arena of nations; we will be the architects of our own fortunes. Our destiny, under Providence, is in our own hands. With wisdom, prudence and statesmanship on the part of our public men, and intelligence, virtue and patriotism on the part of the people, success to the full measure of our most sanguine hopes may be looked for. But if unwise counsels prevail, if we become divided, if schisms arise, if dissensions spring up, if factions are engendered, if party spirit, nourished by unholy personal ambition, shall rear its hydra head, I have no good to prophesy for you. Without intelligence, virtue, integrity and patriotism on the part of the people, no republic or representative government can be durable or staple."

Ten Thousand Tramps.

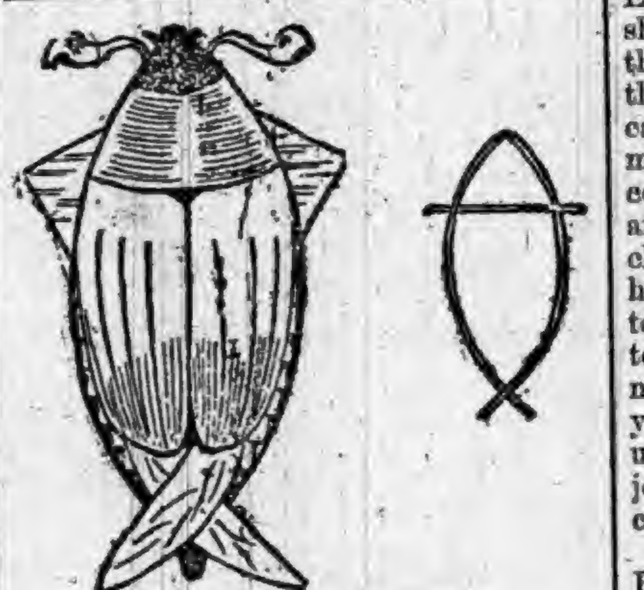
Queens County, New York, allows thirty cents a night for each tramp lodged and fed at the town hall, the money to be divided as follows: Ten cents to the town for lodging, five cents to the overseer of the poor for recording the names, and fifteen cents to the janitor for furnishing the meals. It is now demonstrated that 10,000 tramps have been lodged and fed in the town hall at Jamaica during the past ten months, an average of over thirty per night. What a snap for the tramps!

FUN ON A STRING.

Fantastic and Comical Kites—How to Make and Fly Them.

For the proper construction of a kite that will really soar, straight, smooth lath, about three-eighths of an inch thick and one and a half broad and some cane—willow or bamboo—are needed; also strong, fine twine, and whatever the kite is to be clothed with—paper, cloth, cambric, or silk.

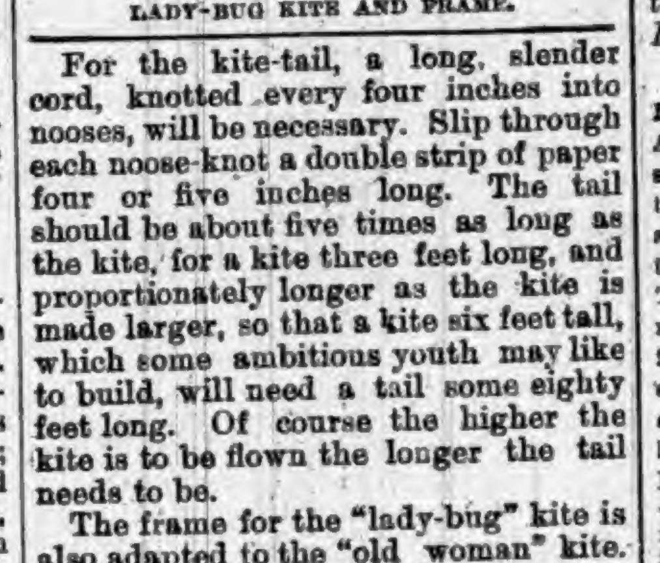
The "lady-bug" kite is not difficult to make. After the frame is made and covered with white paper, the head, the edges, and the little three-cornered piece between the wings are to be painted black, the neck in red stripes, the wings with brown veinings, and the under wings with light gray. The attennæ can be cut out of brown paper or card and gummed on. Then you will have an enormous lady-bug, which, when properly fitted with a kite-tail, will "fly away" at a fine rate.



LADY-BUG KITE AND FRAME.

For the kite-tail, a long, slender cord, knotted every four inches into nooses, will be necessary. Slip through each noose-knot a double strip of paper four or five inches long. The tail should be about five times as long as the kite, for a kite three feet long, and proportionately longer as the kite is made larger, so that a kite six feet tall, which some ambitious youth may like to build, will need a tail some eighty feet long. Of course the higher the kite is to be flown the longer the tail needs to be.

The frame for the "lady-bug" kite is also adapted to the "old woman" kite. Cover the frame with white paper, and paint in green, red, yellow, and sky-blue, the figure of a good-natured old dame. Leave the apron, face, and stockings white, paint the dress green, the hair red, and touch up the features with black and yellow. It really seems a shame to send the old lady up aloft in windy weather, when she might catch rheumatism or toothache, but youth is inexorable, and away she goes.



MISS HIGHFLYER KITE AND FRAME.

"Miss Highflyer," now, looks as if she might enjoy the breezy trip. The frame for this kite is not difficult to make. The cross-sticks should be securely fastened together with fine wire, and a strip of cane or bamboo bent to make an outline for the skirt, the ends being securely tied together with strong twine and fastened so they join the ends of the cross-pieces. The head is a circle of wire attached by cords to the frame, and the remainder of the frame is outlined by cords. After the frame is covered with paper, the woman's figure is painted as illustrated, or dressed in fashionable style with bits of brown striped calico and silk. These can be sewed on, remembering to fasten them only to the edge of the frame.

His Wife Prescribed for Him.

"Well, I'm in for it," he said as he dropped into an easy chair, wiped the perspiration from his brow, and looked across the room at his wife. "I've been afraid of it all along, and lately I have thought I'd get through. But I'm landed."

"What's the matter?" she asked, looking up from her book.

"The grip. I've been fighting it off for three or four days, but it's no use—I've got it."

"Dear me!" she exclaimed, laying the book aside. "I've been afraid you'd come down with it. It's fatal in so many cases now, too. You must be awfully careful, John."

"I propose to be," he said firmly. "I shan't go to the office to-morrow at all. I'm going to stay in bed and break this thing up at the start."

"That's right, John. I'm glad you realize the importance of prompt measures. What are your symptoms?"

"Well, I think I caught cold when we had this sudden change in the weather early in the week. That wouldn't bother me in itself, but it hasn't gotten any better, and I've been perspiring profusely, whether indoors or out, ever since. I have a feeling of suffocation, and I tell you, Maria, I've made up my mind that it will be dangerous to trifle with it any longer. I get no relief until I get my nightshirt on." She looked at him for a moment and then said:

"John, if when you felt the first symptoms you had laid aside your winter underclothing perhaps this tired, suffocating, hot feeling would have left you. If I were you, John, I would soak my feet in hot water to break up the slight cold, put on some lighter underclothing, and a light overcoat instead of an ulster, and go to work to-morrow without saying a word about grip."

Then she took up her book again and he thought and thought about the fool he was.—Chicago Tribune.

The Joys of the Suburbs.

"Why do you live in the country, anyhow?" asked a New-Yorker of a suburban friend.

"To save money."

"Is the cost of living less?"

"No; slightly higher."

"Then how do you save?"

"No opera, $50 a season. No concerts, $25 a season. No big dinners to friends, $100 a year. No fun of any kind, $500 a year."

"Say!" said the city man, seized with an inspiration, "wouldn't you save money if you died?"

The Grave of Paine.

Near Carthage, in a lonely spot rarely visited, sleeps a wandering minstrel of our own times, whose one immortal song has been heard everywhere the English language is spoken. Like the roving singers of lovely Provence, many times he had nothing but his harp. John Howard Payne was a gay Bohemian, extravagant in taste, lavish in expenditure, living much, too much, "mid pleasures and palaces," yet with a vein of sadness deep down in his heart. He died while holding the office of Consul, and a plain marble slab, sent out by the Government of the United States, marks the grave of the homeless man, sixty years a wanderer on this earth, the author of "Home, Sweet Home."

One winter he was without money or credit, and in London, had not where to lay his head. He tried to quiet the pain of hunger and homelessness by looking in at the windows and from the areas scenting good cheer. It was Christmas Eve; the snow fell fast, the wind was sharp and keen. At one luxurious house the hungry man stopped and watched the light of the Christmas tree. Its candles streamed brightly on the pavement, and among the evergreens he could see red berries of holly, the toys and garlands and the pretty heads of children. They danced and clapped their hands while the presents were distributed, and the air rang with shouts, laughter and screams of delight. When the merriment had spent itself a little one young girl went to the piano and struck up "Sweet Home," while the family joined in a rousing chorus. Was ever contrast so bitter?

I have this from Mrs. Consul General Heap. Payne told it to her long after those evil days were passed.—New York Independent.

"I Could Move the World

If I had something to rest my lever on," said Archimedes. Large bodies move or are moved slowly. But it is no impossible or even difficult task to render those small bodies, the kidneys, active when they are not so. Don't try to do this with unmedicated alcoholic stimulants. The experiment is unsafe. The sure, safe means is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which affords just the right amount of stimulus without overdoing the matter. Continued inactivity of either the kidneys or bladder, it should never be lost sight of, is attended with grave peril. Bright's disease, diabetes, and other ailments which affect the renal organs, have their origin in inaction of the kidneys. To overcome this is an easy matter at the outset. Not so later. Now is the appointed time in a case of this sort. Irregularity of the bowels, stomach and liver, rheumatism and malaria are remedied by the Bitters.

Thought She Had Heart Trouble.

A Tenth ward young lady who wished to rise early without waking her mother, who slept beside her, quietly tucked an alarm clock under her pillow, so that she could "choke it off" at the first whir. At midnight she was shaken awake by her mother, who cried: "A doctor, quick! Hear how my heart is beating!" The family was aroused and a doctor was about to be summoned when the daughter thought of the clock and pulled it out. The patient promptly rallied and is now out of danger.—Philadelphia Record.

HALL'S CATARRH CURE is a liquid and is taken internally, and acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free. Sold by Druggists, 75c.
F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O.

"Hard on the Chairs."

Among the ancestors of Wendell Phillips were several Puritan clergymen. Perhaps it was a push of heredity which made him at 5 years of age a preacher.

His congregation was composed of circles of chairs arranged in his father's parlor, while a taller chair, with a Bible on it, served him for a pulpit. He would harangue these wooden auditors by the hour.

"Wendell," said his father to him one day, "don't you get tired of this?"

"No, papa," wittily replied the boy-preacher, "I don't get tired, but it is rather hard on the chairs."—Youth's Companion.

WHY are you sick? Because you have neglected Nature's laws. She continually tries to correct the trouble, but cannot do it without assistance. Prickly Ash Bitters is the assistant needed, and with the help of this medicine your health will be fully restored. Give it a trial and watch the results.

A Pretty Small Man.

"I say, Bill," said one of Mr. Skinnem's workmen to another, "what's that the Scriptur' says about its being easier for a rich man to go through the eye of a needle than to get into heaven,"

"I dunno. Something like that."

"Waal, old Skinnem won't have any trouble. He could crawl through the eye of a needle with his overcoat on."—Free Press.

"Guide to Health and Etiquette" Free!

One of the greatest medicines on earth for women is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Send two two-cent stamps for "Guide to Health and Etiquette," by Lydia E. Pinkham, a beautifully illustrated book, containing a volume of invaluable information. It has saved lives and may save yours. Address the Lydia E. Pinkham Medical Company, Lynn, Mass., and be sure to mention this paper.

Unreasonable Anger.

The value of compliments depends in great part upon their seasonableness.

"I've got a bone to pick with Watts," said Mr. Briggs. "I intend to find out what he meant by calling me 'small potatoes.'"

"Why, man, there was no harm in that," replied his friend. "It is really a compliment this year to be called any kind of potatoes."—Indianapolis Journal.

FOR 24 years Dobbins' Electric Soap has been imitated by soap makers. Why? Because it is best of all and has an immense sale. Be sure and get Dobbins' and take no other. Your grocer has it.

Just the Same.

Father Jackson, of Indiana, who predicts for the Adventists, has made fourteen predictions and fourteen failures in the last twelve years, but he is out with the fifteenth, just the same, declaring that the judgment day will arrive on the 16th of August.

No Opium in Piso's Cure for Consumption. Cures where other remedies fail. 25c.

A COUNTRY where they have to bore for water is a healthy one—it is a well country.—Carl Pretzel's Weekly.

AN exchange tells of "a widow of 22." Twenty-two what? Husbands?—Philadelphia Call.

WHAT is a green grocer that we read about? One who trusts.

Creates An Appetite

There is nothing for which we recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla with greater confidence than for loss of appetite, indigestion, sick headache and other troubles of dyspeptic nature. In the most natural way this medicine gently tones the stomach, assists digestion, and makes one feel "real hungry." Ladies in delicate health, or very dainty and particular at meals, after taking Hood's Sarsaparilla a few days, find themselves longing for and eating the plainest food with unexpected relish and satisfaction. Try it.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

Syrup of Figs,

Produced from the laxative and nutritious juice of California figs, combined with the medicinal virtues of plants known to be most beneficial to the human system, acts gently on the kidneys, liver and bowels, effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds and headaches, and curing habitual constipation.

Her Fruitless Search.

Mrs. Slimdiet—You are not eating your meat, Mr. Hallroom.

New Boarder—Er—the fact is, Mrs. Slimdiet, my—er—teeth are not very good, and this meat seems a trifle tough to me.

Mrs. S.—Well, that's too bad. Such a time as I do have getting good meat. I have tried every place I can think of.

Mr. H.—Have you tried any of the places near the loin?—New York Weekly.

THE WABASH LINE.

H-andsome equipment,
E-legant day coaches, and

W-agner palace sleeping cars
A-re in daily service
B-etween the city of St. Louis
A-nd New York and Boston.
S-pacious reclining chair cars
H-ave no equal

L-ike those run by the
I-ncomparable and only Wabash.
N-ew trains and fast time
E-very day in the year.

From East to West the sun's bright ray.
Smiles on the line that leads the way.

MAGNIFICENT VESTIBULE EXPRESS TRAINS, running free reclining chair cars and palace sleepers to St. Louis, Kansas City, and Council Bluffs. The direct route to all points in Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Texas, Indian Territory, Arkansas, Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, Washington, Montana, and California. For rates, routes, maps, etc., apply to any ticket agent or address
F. CHANDLER,
Gen. Pass. and Ticket Agent,
St. Louis, Mo.

They Get It.

It is said there are no less than ten Russian agents in this country to report public opinion as to the Czar's action in the case of Jews and exiles. They get lots of it every day, but whether they dare forward it to the old man at St. Petersburg is quite another thing.

THE children consent to be undressed and go to bed only on condition that mamma gives them each one more Dr. Bull's Worm Destroyers. They taste so good. Worms don't like them, though. By mail, 25 cents. John D. Park, Cincinnati, Ohio.

A Market Naturalist.

Fair Customer—Those last oysters you sold me tasted fishy.

Dealer—I'm very sorry, mum; but fact is, mum, oysters are very sociable creatures, mum, and spend most of their time gallivantin' around with fishes.—Street & Smith's Good News.

WELL preserved women, when consulting their mirror see beside their satisfied reflection the calm and earnest face of Lydia E. Pinkham. They can tell you why.

Sharp Detective Work.

Minks—Don't say again that detectives never find anything.

Winks—Hugh! Why not?

Minks—I see by the papers that Detective O'Mally, of New Orleans has found himself.—Street & Smith's Good News.

IN 1850 "Brown's Bronchial Troches" were introduced, and their success as a cure for Colds, Coughs, Asthma, and Bronchitis has been unparalleled.

The Finishing Touch.

Contract Builder—Got that house done?

Assistant—Yes; just finished it.

Builder—All right. Now measure it, and see if it's in accordance with the architect's plans.—New York Weekly.

"ALL is not gold that glitters," but the brightness which illumines any house or kitchen cleaned with SAPOLIO is worth more than gold. Try a cake.

Russia's National Printing Office.

In the national printing office at St. Petersburg, Russia, documents can be printed in every known language. It is the most complete office of its kind in the world.

BEECHAM'S PILLS act like magic on a WEAK STOMACH.

Not so Very New.

Young Lobbylounger—Have you seen Mlle. Charmll, the new premier danseuse?

Old Greybeard—Not since I was a boy.—New York Weekly.

FITS.—All Fits stopped free by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. No Fits after first day's use. Marvellous cures. Treatise and $2.00 trial bottle free to Fit cases. Send to Dr. Kline, 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

It is said that Sullivan made some good hits on the stage.

There's a patent medicine which is not a patent medicine—paradoxical as that may sound. It's a discovery! the golden discovery of medical science! It's the medicine for you—tired, run-down, exhausted, nerve-wasted men and women; for you sufferers from diseases of skin or scalp, liver or lungs—it's chance is with every one, it's season always, because it aims to purify the fountain of life—the blood—upon which all such diseases depend.

The medicine is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

The makers of it have enough confidence in it to sell it on trial.

That is—you can get it from your druggist, and if it doesn't do what it's claimed to do, you can get your money back, every cent of it.

That's what its makers call taking the risk of their words.

Tiny, little, sugar-coated granules, are what Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are. The best Liver Pills ever invented; active, yet mild in operation; cure sick and bilious headaches. One a dose.

FAT FOLKS REDUCED 15 to 25 lbs. per month by harmless herbal remedies. No starving, no inconvenience and no bad effects. Strictly confidential. Send 6c. for circulars and testimonials. Address Dr. O. W. F. SNYDER, McVicker's Theatre Bldg. Chicago, Ill.

"August Flower"

Perhaps you do not believe these statements concerning Green's August Flower. Well, we can't make you. We can't force conviction into your head or medicine into your throat. We don't want to. The money is yours, and the misery is yours; and until you are willing to believe, and spend the one for the relief of the other, they will stay so. John H. Foster, 1122 Brown Street, Philadelphia, says: "My wife is a little Scotch woman, thirty years of age and of a naturally delicate disposition. For five or six years past she has been suffering from Dyspepsia. She became so bad at last that she could not sit down to a meal but she had to vomit it as soon as she had eaten it. Two bottles of your August Flower have cured her, after many doctors failed. She can now eat anything, and enjoy it; and as for Dyspepsia, she does not know that she ever had it."

Doubting Thomas.

Vomit Every Meal.

The Soap
that Cleans
Most
is Lenox.

PURIFY YOUR BLOOD.

But do not use the dangerous alkaline and mercurial preparations which destroy your nervous system and ruin the digestive power of the stomach. The vegetable kingdom gives us the best and safest remedial agents. Dr. Sherman devoted the greater part of his life to the discovery of this reliable and safe remedy, and all its ingredients are vegetable. He gave it the name of a name every one can remember, and to the present day nothing has been discovered that is so beneficial for the BLOOD, for the LIVER, for the KIDNEYS and for the STOMACH. This remedy is now so well and favorably known by all who have used it that arguments as to its merits are useless, and if others who require a corrective to the system would but give it a trial the health of this country would be vastly improved. Remember the name—PRICKLY ASH BITTERS. Ask your druggist for it.

Prickly Ash Bitters!

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS CO.,
ST. LOUIS, MO.

THIS IS THE ONLY MAN WHO MAKES AND SELLS STANDARD SCALES
AT A FAIR PRICE.
FREE BOOK AND PRICE LIST.
ADDRESS JONES OF BINGHAMTON, N.Y.

LEWIS' 98 % LYE
Powdered and Perfumed.
(PATENTED.)
The strongest and purest Lye made. Will make the best perfumed Hard Soap in 20 minutes without boiling. It is the Best for softening water, cleansing waste-pipes, disinfecting sinks, closets, washing bottles, paints, trees, etc.
PENNA. SALT M'F'G CO.,
Gen. Agts., Phila., Pa.

It PAID Me—
'Twill PAY You
Plain directions by which anybody, anywhere can make from $25 to $2,500 per year. 'Twill not interfere with, but will improve any business. Send Name, Postoffice and State, enclosing $1.00. Address, R. CONGDON, Nunda, Ill.

WALL PAPER
SAMPLES SENT FREE of spring patterns with borders and ceilings to match. One half million rolls offered at wholesale prices.
White blanks, 4c to 6c; Gilts, 8c to 35c; Embossed Gilts, 10c to 50c. I will send you the most popular colorings, and guarantee to save you money. ALFRED PEATS, Wall Paper Merchant, 38-75 W. Washington-st., Chicago.

THE DEAF HEAR
WHEN THE DEAFNESS IS CAUSED BY SCARLET FEVER, COLDS, MEASLES, CATARRH, &C. BY THE USE OF THE INVISIBLE SOUND DISC which is guaranteed to help a larger per cent. of cases than all similar devices combined. The same to the Ears as glasses are to the eyes. Positively invisible. Worn months without removal.
H. C. WALES, Bridgeport, Conn.

HIRES ROOT BEER THE GREAT HEALTH DRINK.
Package makes 5 gallons. Delicious, sparkling and appetizing. Sold by all dealers. A beautiful Picture Book and Cards sent free to any one sending their address to The C. E. HIRES CO., Phila'a.

"WOMAN, HER DISEASES AND THEIR Treatment." A valuable illustrated book of 72 pages sent free, on receipt of 10 cents, to cover cost of mailing, etc. Address P. O. Box 1066, Phila., Pa.

N. U. F. W...........................No. 22—91.

When Writing to Advertisers, please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

25 CTS PISO'S CURE FOR 25 CTS
Best Cough Medicine. Recommended by Physicians. Cures where all else fails. Pleasant and agreeable to the taste. Children take it without objection. By druggists.
CONSUMPTION

CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH, RED CROSS DIAMOND BRAND
PENNYROYAL PILLS
THE ORIGINAL AND GENUINE. The only Safe, Sure, and reliable Pill for sale. Ladies, ask Druggist for Chichester's English Diamond Brand in Red and Gold metallic boxes sealed with blue ribbon. Take no other kind. [illegible] All pills in pasteboard boxes, pink wrappers, are dangerous counterfeits. [illegible] 4c. [illegible] testimonials, and "Relief for Ladies," [illegible] 10,000 Testimonials. Name Paper. CHICHESTER CHEMICAL CO., [illegible] PHILADA., PA.
Sold by all Local Druggists.

GREATEST

Announcement

Ever Heard of!

BEGINNING

April 1,

—WE WILL GIVE AWAY—

TO THE TRADE at large, a handsome PARLOR ORGAN worth in the market $85.00, to the person who buys the highest amount of goods from One Dollar and upward at one time, for CASH ONLY, at our store up to Aug. 1st.

ALSO

A fine SUIT OF CLOTHES worth in the market $18.00 with the next highest amount purchased;
A nice Saratoga Trunk, worth in the market $8.00;
A fine pair of Ladies' French Kid Shoes, worth in the market $4.00,
A nice Fine Silk Umbrella, worth in the market $3.00;
We also give with this elegant instrument a handsome Organ Stool, and Instruction Book and a guarantee from the factory for five years. This instrument was just received from the factory and is bran new. Please call and see these articles. They are now on exhibition at our store. Remember they bear inspection.

Such an opportunity is not offered very often to obtain such elegant gifts for nothing. These goods which you buy you need anyway, and unless you find the prices satisfactory don't buy; and we will sell them to you as low as the lowest and defy competition in our line.

DON'T MISS THIS

Golden

Opportunity which will never be offered to you again.

Respectfully yours,

J. LŒWENSTEIN & CO.

REVOLUTION! REVOLUTION!! REVOLUTION!!

SOMETHING NEW!

Wonderful as the Telephone!

THE

NEW PROCESS VAPOR STOVE!

IMPROVED FOR 1891.

Call and see it in operation before buying any other kind.

It has no Generator Burner, Stand Pipe, Packing, Needle Valves, Drip Cup, Pneumatic Pressure or anything to get out of order.

It is Simply Wonderful and it will pay you to Investigate. Any Child can operate it. On Exhibition during Business Hours.

A Full line of PLAIN AND RANGE STOVES in two and three burners always on hand. MURILLO the new Wall Finish, a specialty.

He also handles one of the finest lines of Paints, Oils, etc., which the public will do well to inspect before purchasing elsewhere.

FOR SALE BY

J. BEURET,

Auburn, - Indiana-

THREE Pozzoni's POINTS

COMPLEXION

POWDER: SAFE; CURATIVE; BEAUTIFYING. 1.2.3.

THREE White, Flesh, Brunette. POZZONI'S All Druggists and Fancy Stores. TINTS

CORRESPONDENCE

WATERLOO.

Rev. Bernie Ackman of Ligonier, is in Waterloo.

Mrs George Huber has gone to Michigan on a visit.

Mr. Snyder of Franklin township, spent Sunday here.

Mrs. Marvin from Findlay, Ohio, is in Waterloo visiting friends.

J. T. Carpenter and wife of Pleasant Lake, spent Sunday with friends here.

Next Sunday evening a revival meeting will be commenced at the M. E. church.

Our people now have two ice cream rooms, J. A. Denison's and A. C. Gruhlke's.

Miss Alleman of Ft. Wayne will deliver the class address at commencement this week.

Herman Boozer is off now about all of the time, in the interest of the Buckeye Machines.

Tuesday Dr. Ringle of Chicago, was here. The same day Mr. Rath of Kendallville, was here.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Francis returned Thursday from Cincinnati, where they spent several days.

Tuesday Mrs. Hess and Miss Strong of Pleasant Lake, stopped here on their way to Kendallville.

Next Sunday Rev. M. M. Marshall will be installed pastor of the Presbyterian church of this place.

Isaac Speer has been up among the Lakes of Steuben county, and has returned feeling greatly improved.

Dr. Bevier is doing a good deal of practice out in the country, and at railroad points, as he is now again able to travel.

Isaac Speer has had a letter from his son Charlie, who is now engaged on a steamboat plying between Chicago and Buffalo.

At the regular session of the L. M. C. Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Chloe Kennedy, Mrs. B. B. Long was voted a member.

Mrs. Carpenter's sister Dollie Hills of California, Mich., is here to attend the commencement exercises Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

J. C. Boyer and wife have returned from Detroit, Mich., where they have been attending the general assembly of the Presbyterian church.

William Leas, wife and children have gone to Sioux City, Iowa, to visit friends; of whom Mrs. Bogne and Mrs. Jerry Jones formerly resided here.

Rose Blair spent Tuesday and Wednesday with the family of her uncle, B. F. Blair in Newville. Her cousin Belle Blair returns with her to remain here for a visit.

Frank Fisher, our new marshal is hustling around lively, and everybody will have to help him keep up the town's reputation for neatness, good health and good order.

Saturday is decoration day. The children are interested and engaging their flowers in advance. So many important events occur this week, pleasant weather is desirable.

R. G. Daniels has a fine row of box elder trees growing in front of his residence. These handsome trees are not as common here as in the new prairie states farther west.

Will. Francis came back last Thursday noon from Cincinnati where he was a delegate to the National Alliance Convention. He is very much interested in the new party.

G. T. Abbey has moved his building on the corner of Railroad and Franklin streets, and commenced work in earnest. When completed that corner will be greatly improved.

Wednesday Rev. Crouse of Butler, was in our town. He is engaged as pastor of a church where he resides and also of the Lutheran church at Auburn; preaching every alternate Sunday.

The Presbyterian church last Sunday afternoon was crowded, the occasion being the memorial services. The sermon delivered was an eloquent, thoughtful effort, and listened to with absorbed interest and attention.

Postmaster McBride holds the fort very gracefully in Uncle Sam's cash store around the corner and reports business as being good. He says, when the COURIER package are dumped down there, Thursday noons, to be distributed to other points, it looks like wholesale business.

A. C. Gruhlke, at the railroad crossing keeps adding to his already fine collection of curios. Considerable space in the front part of his restaurant is thus occupied, he by having lately obtained many rare things from distant countries. Among these is an Australian boomerang and many articles from the distant South Sea Islands.

Mrs. Edward Haynes of Grand Rapids, with her two children and her sister, Mrs. Jennie Durfee of Ft. Wayne, came to Waterloo last week to visit Mr. and Mrs. Boyer and other friends. They shortened their stay upon finding Mr. and Mrs. B. absent. Della Moore was well known here before her marriage to Mr. Haynes. She is well known here.

Last Friday evening Mrs. Isaac Speers entertained six couple of young people in honor of Miss Walker, who will leave here shortly. Those so fortunate as to have been present, speak of it as having had an excellent time. The supper was elaborate and very nice; the table ornamented with flowers, and with fine damask linen, the china and silver looked very beautiful and inviting. They also think Mr. and Mrs. Speers understand perfectly the art of entertaining.

Sunday evening Prof. Fairfield, of Angola, preached the baccalaureate sermon for the class of '91, at the M. E. church, from Hebrews 11th chapter, and part of 3rd verse. "So that things which are seen, were not made of things which do appear." The sermon was well suited for the occasion and was listened to with close attention. Prof. Fairchild is evidently a man of great ability, and drew a crowded house, and many probably went away for want of room. The singing and music added interest to the occasion.

BUTLER.

Mrs. Sarah A. Searight died suddenly last week, and was taken to Waseon, O., for burial. Her former home was Fredericksburg, Ohio. Her age was about 68 years.

A singular railroad accident occured at the Butler yards on last Friday morning to train No. 13, known as the Lake Shore fast mail, which passes our station at a high rate of speed. The train is made up of mail cars and carries one sleeper. The mail dropped off at this place is a large one and consists of from six to a dozen heavy pouches, and is tumbled off hastily and goes flying in all directions! Upon this occasion the heavy sacks happened to strike the switch stand and snapped off the heavy iron post like a pipe stem, and opened the switch. The mail cars passed over safely, except the rear trucks of the last one which left the track together with the front trucks of the sleeper. The displacement of the switch put the rear trucks of the sleeper on the other track which runs parallel, but about twenty feet from the other main track, this swung the coach around sidewise, and in this position was drawn about forty rods, the end repeatedly striking the cars of a freight train on another track, splintering and breaking it and making ugly patches on the freight cars. The sleeper was well filled with passengers, who were terribly frightened, and came rushing from the coach half clad, as the train slowed up. No one was seriously injured, except Buff. Likens, who with several others were on a hand car, on the off track, suffered the fracture of one bone of one arm. The train cut loose from the crippled car, and sped on its way.

CONCORD.

Wheat is heading out nicely.

Mrs. Reeler was taken sick at church Sunday.

Is. Wyatt will shortly erect his new dwelling.

Hugh Watt has his new barn almost completed.

Frankie George had a cousin visiting him last week.

Mrs. Em. Gifford was at Spencerville last Saturday.

C. H. Brown has set out nine hundred cabbage plants.

Charley McCrory, of Spencerville, was here Sabbath last.

C. Keller and daughter Mamie were at Butler Thursday.

C. A. Jenkins, of St. Joe, attended church here Sunday.

Mrs. Grimm and children visited in Garrett over Sunday.

Ira Watt has purchased 30 acres of land of Nickey & Gandy.

Mrs. Henry Harner, of Kansas, is here visiting her many friends.

Mattie Morr has a little cousin of Auburn Junction visiting her.

Rev. S. S. Stanton was well pleased with the attendance at church Sunday.

John Koch and wife and daughter, of Fairview, attended church here Sunday.

Elgie Fetters has gone to his grandmother's near Edgerton to attend school.

G. W. Reed and wife, of Union Chapel, were the guests of G. W. Draggoo's Sunday last.

Will and Ed Leighty and Fred Jenkins, of St. Joe, are agents for some nice road carts.

Mr. and Mrs. Swineford and grandson George, of St. Joe, called on Mrs. Sidney Culbertson Sunday.

Mrs. J. B. Draggoo and daughter will receive the social goers next Wednesday afternoon and evening.

N. Philipps and family, Ben. Bailey and wife, of Auburn, were the guests of Wm. Wise over Sunday.

G. W. Draggoo, James Hennessy and Master Roy took dinner with Wm. Carr, near Auburn last Sunday.

Mrs. Sherwood has been spending several days with relatives here returned to her home in Butler Tuesday.

Mr. Watt was considerably hurt when his wagon wheel came off, it seemed that the keg of nails rolled on his head.

Come and see Wayne Scott's twins. Will is 20, and the babe three days old. Wayne wears a smile all over his face.

Wednesday evening Addison Shilling was united in marriage to Miss Sowers, of Allen county this state. We extend congratulations.

SPENCERVILLE.

John W. Beams is building an addition to his house.

Kelley Hart's new house is approaching completion.

Rev. E. W. Erick, of Albion, is visiting his sons this week.

Frank Wise has gone to Otsego, Mich., and will remain during the summer.

A number of our citizens attended the medal contest at St. Joe Sunday evening.

The remains of Dr. Larimore were disinterred Monday and removed to Cedar Creek.

Milton Horn, of Lake Valley, N. M., is visiting his parents and friends in this vicinity.

Rev. J. J. Fred exchanged pulpits with the Rev. H. C. Ashcroft, of Leo, Sunday the 17th.

G. B. Erick went to Ft. Wayne Monday morning to consult Dr. Dills in relation to his brother.

Jack Beams and George Holabaugh have repainted their residences, making them very attractive.

Decoration day will be observed by the citizens of this vicinity. Rev. W. O. Butler will deliver the oration.

J. H. Murray went to Indianapolis Monday morning to attend the session of the Grand Lodge of F. & A. M.

The ladies of the W. C. T. U. will give a K. P. dinner Thursday, during the institution of the K. of P. lodge here. Meals served during the day and evening, in the old Lutheran church.

SUMMIT.

Wilson and Cora Grambling have the measles.

Four of Joseph Penick's children are down with the measles.

Frank Arnold, of Hicksville, visited over Sunday at his uncle's, P. H. Grambling's.

M. Zerker is lying very low at this writing, with but little hopes of his recovery.

Mrs. Blanche Boyer, from near Hamilton, visited her parents G. D. Coonrod's last Monday.

Jacob Meese and Mrs. Elizabeth Shountz were married last Thursday evening at Peter Snowberger's. Both of Steubenville.

Mrs. M. C. Shoudel, of Garrett, has been visiting her husband's parents the past week. She started home last Tuesday and will move to Illinois in the near future.

DEKALB.

Mother Baber about the same.

A. McKinley was in our village Sunday.

Farmer Alliance in a healthy condition and hopes to prosper.

Miss Eda Husselman, from near Waterloo, visited over Sunday with Mrs. D. C. Housel.

The pay car passed over the Lake Shore railroad and gladdened the hearts of the laborers.

The road scraper is leveling up the road in this district. I think the roadmaster is right.

Young folks continue practicing singing for decoration exercises at Cedar Chapel May 31.

Quite a number of people were seen marching towards the big creek with fish poles on their shoulders last Sunday. There should be a police stationed in that vicinity.

CUSTER.

J. W. Smith went to Auburn Saturday on business.

Measles are rapidly spreading throughout this section of country.

Joe. Dillman and John Fry are hard at shearing sheep every day.

Mrs. Andrew Alshouse, who has been sick for some time is reported better.

W. D. Smith, H. G. Helwig and E. I. Crossley attended the commencement at Angola last week.

W. X. Smith and family, of Angola, were the guests of J. W. and Andrew Smith over Sunday.

Saturday, May 16th Elmer Wisel and Sarah Shade were married. The writer wishes them a happy life.

Program for Decoration Day, Saturday, May 30th, at Auburn.

1. Assemble at G. A. R. Hall, at 1:30 p. m., (sun time).
2. Exercises at Eureka Opera House at 2 o'clock, sharp.
3. Vocal music by choir.
4. Reading memorial orders.
5. G. A. R. exercises.
6. Prayer by Rev. J. W. Stringfellow.
7. Music by choir.
8. Reading roll of deceased soldiers by Adj't E. L. Mason.
9. Address by Mrs. Mary Ehlers.
10. Music by choir.
11. Benediction, by Rev. A. S. Wooton.
12. Procession will march to cemetery, column forming on Cedar street, with right on Sixth street in the following order:
    a. G. A. R. drum corps.
    b. Rifle squad.
    c. G. A. R.
    d. Children of decoration corps.
    e. W. R. C.
    f. S. of V.
    g. Citizens.

The columns will march west on 6th street, to Main street; south to Defiance street; thence east to cemetery.

13. Decoration Ceremonies.
14. Procession will return left in front preceded by the G. A. R. drum corps, and disband on public square.

It is earnestly desired, that, in returning, the column shall remain unbroken until dismissed by the marshal at public square.

BY ORDER OF COMMITTEE.

Church of God Convention.

(Syracuse Register, of May 21, 1891.)

"Last Thursday evening, the Sunday School Convention and Ministerial Meeting opened with a discourse by Rev. E. H. Shanks of Ft. Wayne. Friday morning the convention organized with Rev. J. McCally, of Roann, in the chair, and Rev. Chas. Rittenhouse, of Butler, as secretary.

The topics under discussion were of peculiar interest and were well handled by the various members present. Saturday the Ministerial Association organized with Rev. Henry Smith, of Burkett, in the chair.

The future out-look of the Indiana Eldership was discussed by Rev. I. W. Markley, of Columbia City, in a most able way. "Profitable Pastoral Visiting" and "Qualifications of the Gospel Minister," were among the topics thoroughly discussed during the day. Rev. R. H. Dempsey, of Butler, preached to good acceptance on Friday evening, and on Saturday evening, L. B. Fretz, of Auburn, by his superior eloquence and high elocutionary attainments and interesting theme, that of "Evidence of God in Nature," held his audience in almost breathless silence. Mr. Fretz who has been in the ministry but a short time gives evidence of most extraordinary talent and native ability.

Sunday morning, after a most interesting school, conducted by Miss Winnie Holloway (under management of W. A. Mann) showing a model school, Rev. I. W. Markley preached the Pentecostal Sermon, in his plain, forcible manner. He handled his subject most admirably. Sunday evening, Rev. E. H. Shanks preached on the subject of "Singleness of Purpose."

The convention closed with all the evidence of success. The church was much revived and all those from a distance expressed themselves highly entertained.

B. & O. Excursion.

The Baltimore and Ohio railroad will sell excursion tickets to Hagerstown, Md., and return, at the rate of one first-class limited fare for the round trip, on account of the annual meeting of German Baptists, to be held at Hagerstown, Md., May 28th to June 5th, 1891. From points west of Pittsburgh, and Wheeling, these tickets will be on sale from May 20th to June 1st, inclusive, and will be good for return passage until June 30th, inclusive, with privilege of one stop off west of the above named cities and one stop off east of the above named cities, on the trip to Hagerstown, and the same privilege on the return trip. This offers a rare opportunity to visit points in Western Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia.

A Good Business Chance.

We wish to secure a representative in Auburn, Ind., for our new No. 9 High-Arm Sewing Machine, and would like to hear from anyone who desires to secure a profitable occupation or a valuable adjunct to an already established business. To a responsible party, or one who can give good security, we are prepared to make liberal terms of credit. No previous experience in sewing machines is necessary, as we spend time and money in assisting our dealers to learn the business. The world is fast learning that the new "No. 9" is the only perfect sewing machine ever made. Address WHEELER & WILSON MFG. CO., Chicago, Ill.

None as Good.

Mr. Elmer W. Jacoy, of Edgar Springs, Mo., says of Chamberlain's Restorative Pills: "I have tried your pills, and have never found any as good." Everyone who has used them say the same thing. Nothing can take their place. For sale by all druggists. 5

FIRE!

IN THE EYE OF

WILSON

The Shoe Man.

500 PAIRS SHOES

ALL KINDS

AT ACTUAL COST.

J. N. WILSON & SON,

NORTH SIDE OF SQUARE,

AUBURN, IND.

Uses of Hot Water.

Hot water is one of the best among simple remedies, says The Ladies' Home Journal. For instance, headache almost always yields to the simultaneous application of hot water to the feet and back of the neck.

A towel folded several times, and dipped in hot water, and quickly wrung out and applied over the toothache or neuralgia, will generally afford prompt relief.

A strip of flannel, or napkin folded lengthwise, and dipped in hot water and wrung out, and then applied round the neck of a child that has the croup, will sometimes bring relief in ten minutes.

Hot water taken freely half an hour before bed-time, is helpful in the case of constipation and has a most soothing effect upon the stomach.

A goblet of hot water taken just after rising, before breakfast, has cured thousands of indigestion, and no simple remedy is more widely recommended by physicians to dyspeptics.

Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly.

New Orleans, besides being a centre of interest in connection with the Mafia tragedy which has lately caused an international diplomatic flurry, is a city of checkered history and never-failing picturesqueness. Belle Hunt, the well-known and racy Southern writer, gives some vivid impressions of "New Orleans Yesterday and To-day," in a richly illustrated article which leads Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly for June. Nelly Hart Woodworth, whose bird papers are a charming monthly feature of this magazine, writes about "Vermont Homes and Friends." Alphonse de Lamartine, the great poet and statesman whose centenary France has just celebrated, is the subject of a thoughtful and interesting article by Richard B. Kimball, LL.D. Antarctic Exploration, and Nordenskiold's new expedition, are discussed by John Laird Wilson. Other illustrated articles are: "Fort Snelling," by Major Wm. H. Powell; "Over the Mount Cenis to Italy;" "Curio Shops and Curio Stalls in Japan," by Douglas Sladen; and "The New English, French and German Magazine Rifles," by a British Army Officer. There are short stories and sketches by Captain Burt Arnold, David Ker, Fannie Aymar Mathews, Bernard Almonte and others, and a number of dainty poems.

B. & O. Excursion Southwest.

On account of the travelers Protective Ass'n meeting at Little Rock, Ark., the B. & O. company will sell excursion tickets from all principal stations on their line to Little Rock, Ark., and return on May 31st and June 1st, at rate of one lowest limited first class fare for return passage until June 15, 1891.

Farmers.—Your Timber.

We want some of your timber suitable for our hub and handle factory. Such things as these:

Elm butts, 4 to 14 inches in diameter.
Hickory and ash butts, 5 inches and upward.

Timber for handles, etc. For particulars call at the Hub and Handle factory, south of Wabash station, foot of Main street, Auburn, Indiana. tf

AGENTS WANTED by an old reliable firm; large profits, quick sales, SAMPLE FREE. A rare opportunity. Geo. A. Scott, 842 Broadway, N. Y.

COUNTY AGENT WANTED.

The most remarkable book published during the last twenty years is "IN DARKEST AFRICA" by HENRY M. STANLEY. It is printed both in English and German, and all well informed people want it. Live agents can make more money with it than with any other book before the public. A good agent is wanted for this county, to whom very liberal terms will be given. Write for particulars.

CHAS. SCRIBNER'S SONS,
103 State St., Chicago, Ill.

"A Good Thing."

We have an excellent opening for a live energetic man. To one with small capital we can furnish permanent employment. This territory must be occupied at once. If you mean business write to,

Wood & Fuller, Oberlin, Ohio.

TO WEAK MEN

Suffering from the effects of youthful errors, early decay, wasting weakness, lost manhood, etc., I will send a valuable treatise (sealed) containing full particulars for home cure, FREE of charge. A splendid medical work; should be read by every man who is nervous and debilitated. Address,
Prof. F. C. FOWLER, Moodus, Conn.

FORT WAYNE BRANCH L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—In Effect Nov. 30, 1890.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations—	Mail.	Exp'ss	Fre'gt.
Fort Wayne,....dp	11 50 am	4 40 pm	6 40 am
New Era	12 20 pm	5 16	7 29
Auburn Junc.	12 31	5 27	7 45
Auburn	12 34	5 30	8 05
Waterloo	12 47	5 42	9 20
Summit	1 02	5 55	10 35
Pleasant Lake	1 12	6 07	11 20
Angola	1 20	6 18	12 01 pm
Fremont	1 35	6 34	1 35
Reading	2 04	7 04	2 35
Bankers	2 18	7 15	2 55
Hillsdale	2 37	7 30	....
Ft. Wayne Junc.	2 45	7 39	3 35
Jonesville	2 47	7 41	3 40
Jackson	3 45	8 40	5 20

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations—	Freight	Exp'ss	Mail
Jackson........dp	6 45 am	11 15 am	6 30 am
Jonesville	8 50	12 10 pm	7 23
Ft. Wayne Junc.	8 55	12 15	7 25
Hillsdale	....	12 45	7 40
Bankers	9 40	12 56	7 51
Reading	10 05	1 07	8 01
Fremont	11 20	1 35	8 32
Angola	12 01 pm	1 56	8 46
Pleasant Lake	1 12	2 06	8 58
Summit	1 45	2 16	9 06
Waterloo	2 40	2 40	9 20
Auburn	3 45	2 53	9 33
Auburn Junc.	4 00	2 57	9 36
New Era	4 40	3 08	9 47
Fort Wayne	6 20	3 40	10 20

For rates on tickets or freight to all points, call on or address E. T. DeLAPP, Agent at Auburn. The Lake Shore via Cleveland in connection with the Erie, and P. & L. E. R. Rs. forms the quickest and most direct route to Pittsburgh.

J. A. CAMPBELL,
BUTLER, IND.,
INSURANCE,
In all the leading companies promptly placed in DeKalb and Steuben Counties.

Recorder's Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XXI. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY JUNE 4, 1891 NUMBER 23.

Rickel & Sprott

—Have—

Money

TO LOAN

IN SUMS OF

$1,000

And Up,

AT 6 PER CENT.

Apply at once, as the amount is limited. Apply to

RICKEL & SPROTT,

Real Estate and Immigration Ag'ts,

Under Farmers Bank, AUBURN, IND.

HAPPY HOOSIERS. Wm. Timmons, Postmaster of Idaville, Ind., writes: "Electric Bitters has done more for me than all other medicines combined, for that bad feeling arising from kidney and liver trouble." John Leslie, farmer and stockman, of same place, says: "Find Electric Bitters to be the best kidney and liver medicine, made me feel like a new man." J. W. Gardner, hardware merchant, same town, says: Electric Bitters is just the thing for a man who is all run down and don't care whether he lives or dies; he found new strength, good appetite and felt just like he had a new lease on life. Only 50c. a bottle, at Robbins & McCords drug store. 2

Dr. Elizabeth Blackwell was the first American woman to receive a medical diploma. She graduated at Geneva, N. Y., in 1849.

La Grippe Again.

During the epidemic of La Grippe last season Dr King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds, proved to be the best remedy. Reports from the many who used it confirm this statement. They were not only quickly relieved, but the disease left no bad after results. We ask you to give this remedy a trial and we guarantee that you will be satisfied with the results, or the purchase price will be refunded. It has no equal in La Grippe, or any throat, chest or lung trouble. Trial bottles free at Robbins & McCord's drug store. Large bottles, 50c and $1.00. 2

Barnum desired to be cremated after his death, but his wife persuaded him to abandon the idea, as destructive to her peace of mind.

The Secret of Success.

Davenport the druggist, believes that the secret of success is perseverance. Therefore he persists in keeping the finest line of perfumeries, toilet articles, cosmetics, drugs and chemicals on the market. He especially invites all persons who have palpitation, short breath, weak or hungry spells, pain in side and shoulder, oppression, nightmare, dry cough, smothering, dropsy or heart disease to try Dr. Miles' unequaled New Heart Cure, before it is too late. It has the largest sale of any similar remedy. Fine book of testimonials free. Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is unsurpassed for sleeplessness, headache, fits, etc., and it contains no opiates. 2

Miss Hannah Adams, born in Massachusetts in 1755, was the first American women who made literature a profession.

A Husband's Mistake.

Husbands too often permit wives, and parents their children, to suffer from headache, dizziness, neuralgia, sleeplessness, fits, nervousness, when by the use of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine such serious results could easily be prevented. Druggists everywhere say it gives universal satisfaction, and has an immense sale. Woodworth & Co., of Ft. Wayne, Ind.; Snow & Co., of Syracuse, N. Y.; J. C. Wolf, Hillsdale, Mich.; and hundreds of others say "it is the greatest seller they ever knew." It contains no opiates. Trial bottles and fine book on nervous diseases, free at F. E. Davenport's. 2

Princess Alix, of Hesse Darmstadt, is the most beautiful unmarried girl in Europe.

LOUIS WOLF & CO.,

54 Calhoun St., - - FORT WAYNE, Ind.

CARPET DEPARTMENT

is stacked to the ceiling with a magnificent line of carpets.

Moquettes, that are NEW in pattern and delicate, soft tone, color almost too beautiful to walk on.

VELVETS

54 inches wide, don't cost any more proportionately than the narrow goods, because of the width you have less seams in your carpet. The pile won't sweep or pull out. New patterns in BODY BRUSSELS, and at a price a little lower than elsewhere. Magnificent line of tapestries, and all of them are private patterns to us in this market.

We show the full line of Lowell Ingrains. They are prettier this year than ever before, and the price is right. New styles of Portiers and Chenille curtains. Large line of Lace Curtains and Swiss Muslin. Mats, Rugs, Matting and Window Shades. We will send our Upholsters to your city to lay your new carpets. We employ only strictly first-class workmen.

DRESS GOODS.

Our stock of Dress Goods is complete in every detail. Prices the lowest Spring Jackets, Reefers and capes in great variety.

LOUIS WOLF & CO.,

54 Calhoun St., FORT WAYNE, Ind.

☞ Mail Orders Promptly Attended to

JUNE DISTRIBUTION.

The Auditor distributed to the townships at the June distribution, the different funds, as follows:

	Road.	Special Dog.	Ref. Sch. Dep't	Tp.	Tu'n	Sp'l Sch	Ad'l Sch	Br'ge	Corp'n	Dog	B. S. F.	Str't Li'g.
Butler,	798 79			113 01	579 80	139 44		209 17		46 04
Jackson,	731 99			257 01	559 59	676 50		245 67		64 85
Concord,	561 42			441 42	796 08	787 17		561 42		77 22
Newville,	201 73			109 92	291 86	343 96		201 73		23 26
Stafford,	360 53			124 30	206 23	141 08		270 34		15 84
Wilmington,	832 66			487 95	308 70	160 06		547 55		71 27
Union,	486 71			380 36	131 23	15 59		159 53		66 83
Richland,	757 21			271 37	601 75	726 84		252 35		55 44
Fairfield,	735 57			255 40	542 11	409 94		246 70		56 83
Smithfield,	778 66			273 97	692 52	581 33		258 65		43 56
Franklin,	425 69			336 10	564 70	564 64		425 70		36 13
Troy,	106 70			167 08	287 27	183 12		212 05		14 85
Keyser,	797 46			522 27	536 21	520 48		199 94		95 04
Grant,	539 61			336 06	515 04	470 80		177 97		33 66
Auburn,	996 58	30 69			551 90	1,192 70	1,090 57		1,075 98		430 41
Waterloo,	9 70				523 07	829 09
Butler,	849 32	25 25				1,130 10
Garrett,	709 20		357 48		461 63	874 05	671 38	233 82	676 18		3 87	405 72
	10,679 53			4,076 22	8,111 69	9,684 74	1,761 95		1,752 16	700 42	434 28	405 72

It was a Fine Day.

Once again, we are pleased to note, decoration day was a fine one in respect to weather. The clouds that had threaten rain all the morning passed by "on dry land," and the air was more pleasant than it had been for several days. At the appointed time, the people gathered at the Opera House, and at the conclusion of the exercises there they marched to the cemetery. As usual, they first went north on Cedar street to the old Mott residence, to decorate the grave of Lieutenant Mott, and then came out onto Main street and went south. The G. A. R. were in the lead, the next being the young girls, dressed in white and wearing blue sashes. Then came a column of little boys with red sashes, then more little girls in white. Following them were the W. R. C. and behind these marched the Sons of Veterans, and the uniformed cadets. The procession was marshaled by Dr. Johnston and led by the Drum Corps. Altogether it was the nicest procession we have ever had, and the abundance and beauty of the wreaths carried, showed there was no lack in the regard in which our dead heroes were held. The exercises were all fine. including the singing and the address by Mrs. Ehlers, which was appropriate and eloquent of course.

Pastimes of City Boys.

(Frank M. Chapman, in June St. Nicholas.)

Another and more singular game has for its foundation as an ash barrel. Across the top of this is placed a board two or three inches in width, which projects about the same distance over the rims of the barrel. On one of these projecting ends a ball is balanced; the batsman then takes his bat and with all his strength strikes the other end of the board. The ball flies up and away in a before-unknown direction, and the batsman, should he not be caught out, attempts to run to a base and return before the ball can be fielded "home." Interesting as we shall find this base-ball in its endless variations, and fascinating as are these miniature but expert little players, we must not spend all our time with them.

OKLAHOMA.

A complete map of Oklahoma and the Indian Territory, in colors, showing all the different reservations and name of tribes, and number of Indians occupying the same. Also showing date of treaties and those that have been ratified by congress, 2,000,000 acres of which will be opened to white settlement not later than September, Railroads, Rivers and all prominent towns.

A fine lithographic bird,s eye view of Guthrie, the capital of Oklahoma Territory, 24X36 inches, showing 30 cuts of the finest brick and stone blocks on the margin of the picture. The above described map and picture will be sent to any address, postage paid on receipt of fifty cents. Stamps taken. Address

LUTHER WEST,
Guthrie, Ok.

Advertising agent for Ok. Ter.

Surprise Party.

Saturday May 30, the children and grandchildren of John King had a surprise on him, it being his 85th birthday. Those present were Alexander King and wife, George Husselman and wife and daughter, Adam Husselman and wife, Lewis Husselman and wife, Mr. Frantz and wife, also two great grandchildren, and one nephew, George Reever and wife, D. C. Housel and a few friends who chanced to happen in and welcomed by all present. At 12 o'clock the table was filled with the good things of the land. After thanking God for his many blessings the guests did eat at a King's table, a King in years and a King by name. All had a pleasant and enjoyable time and felt that it was good to be there.

Decoration Day at Waterloo.

Memorial Day exercises in Waterloo last Saturday were marked by absence of ostentation and by soldierly promptness and attention. Fifty of the fifty-eight members of the post paraded and marched to martial music from the hall to the building where the services were held.

The Woman's Relief Corps brought up the column and found the people awaiting them.

No speaker ever had a better audience in point of order, attention and interest and it was apparent that there as well as elsewhere, Decoration day has a meaning that endears its ceremonies to our citizens.

There was abundance of flowers and many to carry them.

The school children, waiting long and patiently, finally moved from the school grounds to join the column marching to the cemetery.

There are fourteen soldiers' graves in the beautiful spot where the dead of Waterloo and vicinity repose, and as the column, winding about, halted at a grave, the adjutant called the name, company and regiment of the soldier buried there and comrades and ladies of the corps, carefully placed flowers.

In this fine, shaded cemetery are many costly monuments, and most of the graves showed care; the many flowers, showing that the day carries with it remembrance of the living to all the dead.

Interest converged about a large circle and huge mound in the eastern part of the grounds, where in the center from flag staff hung the national colors.

On the interior circle stood singers with wreaths, which, following patriotic song, were hung upon the staff. Then children with fit words and graceful action named our generals dead and placed their flower wreaths in their memory upon the mound. Next, flowers were strewn all about the mound for remembrance, and from beyond the circle of the veterans, on invitation many came with flowers, till the mound was beautiful with its floral adornment. Then the Rev. Mr. DeWeese, Methodist minister, briefly offered prayer and the adjutant announcing "Parade is dismissed," closed what must be regarded from standpoint of weather, attendance and exercises a pleasant and instructive occasion.

W. H. McINTOSH.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder.

A Pure Cream of Tartar Powder. Superior to every other known. Used in Millions of Homes—
40 Years the Standard.

Delicious Cake and Pastry, Light Flaky Biscuit, Griddle Cakes, Palatable and Wholesome.

No other baking powder does such work.

ATTENTION!

G. A. R.

We have just received a big lot of G. A. R. Suits and Hats. These suits are the genuine "Slater Blue". They are guaranteed to hold their color and give perfect satisfaction. We name the lowest prices. It will pay you to see them.

WE HANDLE THE

"Cleanfast Hosiery".

These goods have been thoroughly tested and prove to be absolutely fast color, and the prices are no higher than on hosiery which can not be guaranteed. Try a pair. If they crock in the least we will replace them or refund your money.

We are showing an immense line of Ginghams Challis, Muslin "D' Le Inde". Ceylon, Batiste, All Over Embroideries. Flouncings (both black and white), Silks, Satins, Serges and very many other fabrics, used for dresses which should be seen to be appreciated.

WE ARE PAYING

HIGHES PRICES

FOR WOOL.

It will be to your interest to trade with us.

Respectfully,

Schaab & Bro

Says the Southern Medical World:

"Mother's Friend" is growing in favor throughout the south and is highly recommended by physicians. We consider it indispensible to those who know they must pass through the ordeal of childbirth. Write Bradfield Reg. Co., Atlanta, Ga., for particulars, Sold by F. E. Davenport and all druggists.

Bulwer Lytton's line will have to be modernized. The typewriter is mightier than the dynamite gun.

James T. Gott, Carmi, Ill., Says:

He paid thirty-one dollars doctor's bill for his wife in one year, and one bottle of Bradfield's Female Regulator did her more good than all the medicine taken before. H. DALE, Druggist, Carmi, Ill.

Write Bradfield Regl. Co., Atlanta, Ga., for particulars. Sold by F. E. Davenport and all druggists.

The Rev. Antoinette Brown Blackwell was the first woman ordained to the ministry in the United States.

BETHESDA

Cures Diabetes and Bright's Disease.

RECOMMENDED AND USED BY

Hon. CHAS. FOSTER, Secretary of Treasury.

Hon. J. M. RUSK, Secretary of Agriculture.

Hon. GEO. R. DAVIS, Director General World's Fair, Chicago.

DR. SHRADY, New York City.

Prof. AGASSIZ, Cambridge, Mass.

FRANKLIN MacVEAGH, Chicago.

CLEM. STUDEBAKER, South Bend, Ind.

A Pure, Refreshing, Health-Giving Water, so delicately proportioned in mineral qualities by nature as to make it agreeable and wholesome in health, and in cases of Diabetes and Bright's Disease more benefit will be derived from it in twenty-four hours than in three months from any medicine known to science.

Write for Pamphlet. BETHESDA MINERAL SPRING CO., Waukesha, Wis.

DIRT BREEDS VERMIN

Of a good house-wife, who uses SAPOLIO, it is well said:—"The mouse is muzzled in her house." Try it and keep your house clean.—All grocers keep it.

Cleanliness and neatness about a house are necessary to insure comfort. Man likes comfort, and if he can't find it at home, he will seek elsewhere for it. Good housewives know that SAPOLIO makes a house clean and keeps it bright. Happiness always dwells in a comfortable home. Do you want cleanliness, comfort and happiness? Try SAPOLIO and you will be surprised at your success.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

AUBURN AND VICINITY.

Some Reminiscences of its Early Days and Pioneer Citizens.

1848,—Continued.

Rumble of speeding trains, shriek of steam whistle, clang of bells, noise of machinery and the music of the church bells on an evening or a Sabbath morning, constrast with the old silence or the discordant noise of the night.

The clang of fire bell, with galloping horses and steam engine arouse the sleeper only to assure him that a gallant company of firemen are hastening to strong and steady work to extinguish the flames and the old resident returning his head to the pillow muses for a moment ere he drops asleep, upon the times when the alarm was given by cries of "fire, fire," and he with others with pails in hand, ran to give what aid he could.

Handsome residences, the admiration of visitors to town, fine business blocks and elegant, capacious churches vividly constast with the appearance of our town in 1848.

It seems that a self-sacrificing generation must bestow their industry and hard labor for the benefit of their successors and rarely is it given to many of the pioneer class who removed the forest from farms and improved the villages, to live long in the enjoyment of their earned comfort.

One day an army corps of Sherman's marching through a vast pine forest in the Carolinas, heard thunderous noises like the discharge of heavy ordnance and looking questioningly in each others faces, the veterans wondered at the sound, till away to their left a regiment saw a tall pine come crashing to the ground although the air was quiet and no ax had touched its trunk.

So this generation hears almost daily, sees weekly in the columns of the county's papers, now of deaths of aged people, read their obituaries and scarcely understands the cause, till death comes suddenly in their sight and removes a father or a mother, whose stories of early days are so familiar, and then the truth flashes in mind, of a pioneer gone.

We have spoken of nights' discord, but believe them exceptional. The lulling, not unmelodious croaking of frogs heard all the night hours by restless sleepers near Cedar Creek is a reminder of 1848 when the silence of the long June days was pleasantly interrupted by the song of wild birds, the lowing of the herd of village cows, the sound of chopping and perhaps, the sharp crack of a rifle.

The public and the individual good was so evidenly dependent upon public morals that verbal and recorded testimony bear witness that all appeared reay to discountenance crime and assist in furthering the demands of justice. Indeed it is well remembered by many living in this and adjacent counties, that when the counties of Lagrange and Noble were infested by criminals, citizens organized as "Regulators" and by summary process terrorized and dispersed the band and speedily brought permanent reform.

Whether laborer, tradesman, farmer or professional, each hoped to rise to win at least a home by honorable exertion and to this new, broad field for endeavor brought a fund of self-reliance that was not easily disheartened, nor peculiarly sensitive to petty difficulties, nor readily balked by great inconveniences, but could bear privation and make sacrifices of personal comfort.

Such in the main was the character of those of whom we write and who in the years preceding and following 1848 settled in northeastern Indiana to begin life anew.

The new settlers labored hard, but their hearts were enlisted in their work, for increased values were certain to those who stood fast. They had advantages denied to us of to day and the young of those days enjoyed their pastimes with a zest not to be excelled.

Our parents found society in nature and repose in solitude; health in exertion and happiness in virtuous occupation. They doubtless felt at times a glow of generous pride in marking out a hitherto untrodden path, making the first clearings and building the first civilized tenements in the domain of nature and founding for themselves and their posterity a lasting and a noble inheritance.

Money was, indeed scarce but much that money cannot buy was plenty. Taxes in the light of our present experience were light but all too heavy where there was so little to pay them, hence the long list of delinquent lots and lands annually advertised in the Lagrange Democrat by Miles Waterman, the county auditor.

Those who had money used it to great advantage in purchase of those delinquent discriptions and such men as Reuben J. Dawson, Robert Work, J. C. Bowser and Alonzo Lockwood were regular purchasers.

Three advantages the settlers had in, abundance; timber for lumber, and fuel, water of excellent quality and game for meat. It was found easier to manufacture from native wood such articles of furniture as were needed in the family although plain, rough and clumsy perhaps, than to obtain them abroad, hence the association of the terms carpenter and cabinet-maker and the invaluable services of such men as Ingman, Sherlock, Houghton, Cosper, Ralston and Johnson.

(To be continued next week.)

AGENTS WANTED by an old reliable firm; large profits, quick sales. SAMPLE FREE. A rare opportunity. Geo. A. Scott, 842 Broadway, N. Y.

Auburn Courier.
AUBURN, INDIANA.
JAMES A. BARNS, - PUBLISHER.

HAPPENINGS OF A WEEK

THE DESTROYER OF A ONCE HAPPY HOME SHOT DOWN.

A Jury Fixer Fixed—A Prisoner Suffocated—Will Be Electrocutioned—A $20,000 Fire at Gallipolis, Ohio.

A Prisoner Attempts to Escape and Is Suffocated.

Indianapolis special: Charles Hope, 12 years old, was arrested on a trivial charge and taken in the Police Court. The judge dismissed the case and the lad was placed in the "coop" with the other prisoners. He climbed over the partition which separated the male from the female prisoners, and disappeared through the door that leads to the mouth of the small sewer under the court house. It was some time before the bailiff could elicit any information from the other prisoners, but he finally discovered the boy's footprints in the soft earth at the top of the hole. As the sewer is very small it is not believed that the boy can make his way through it, and fears are entertained that he has already died from the impure air. He evidently did not understand what disposition had been made of his case when he took such desperate chances to escape.

Terrible Tragedy at Roachdale, Ind.

At Roachdale, Ind., Noah Evans shot Richard Adams through the heart, killing him instantly. Evan's wife claimed that Adams criminally assaulted her some time ago, and this was the cause of the shooting. Mr. Evans and his wife, who live at Groveland, came driving into Roachdale, and Evans made inquiry where Adams lived. Some one pointed Mr. Adams, who was sitting in front of Rice's drug store. Mr. Evans asked his wife if that was the man, pointing to Mr. Adams, who gave her morphine and criminally assaulted her, and she answered affirmatively. Mr. Evans then fired seven shots in rapid succession, instantly killing Adams. Evans and his wife then hurried to their cart, and drove rapidly away, with an excited crowd in pursuit. They were warned by Evans not to interfere, as he would kill any man who molested him. He is still at large.

The Lottery Law.

The Postoffice Department has received information that the State agent in Wisconsin of the Louisiana Lottery Company has been indicted and convicted of selling lottery tickets. Since the passage of the law excluding the lottery company from the use of the mails it is estimated that their business has fallen off about one-half. It now does business through the express companies. They express their circulars and tickets and receive remittances by express. Two of the leading express companies, soon after the passage of the law, issued an order to their employes not to receive lottery matter for expressage. But it is said that these instructions are not enforced.

Powder in a Letter.

When Mayor Shakespeare, of New Orleans, examined his mail the other day he found a letter addressed to him in a scrawling hand. As it is customary to receive letters thus addressed he paid no attention to it. When he opened the letter, he changed his opinion. Nothing exploded, as the writer of the missive evidently intended, but on examining the epistle the mayor was surprised to find a gunpowder fuse with the heads of several matches securely tied or pinned to its head. The object of the sender of the letter was evidently to blow out Mr. Shakespeare's eyes when he opened the letter. Fortunately for the Mayor the machine did not work. There was no writing in the letter.

Five Men Killed.

A terrible accident, resulting in the death of five men and the wounding of eight others, all dangerously, occurred in J. L. Jordan's saw-mill, near Bowling Green, Caroline County, Va. The men were at work near the engine-room, when the boiler burst and they were caught in a shower of missiles and scalding water, several of them being buried out of sight in the ruins. Seven colored men and one white man were rescued alive, but their injuries are so serious that all may die. The cause of the explosion, which completely wrecked the mill building, has not been definitely ascertained.

They Wanted to Lynch Him.

Cincinnati special: The arrest of Ed Price, the O'Briensville barber, charged with indecent assault on three little girls, was a most sensational one. When the people of the village heard of the charge against Price, the cry of "lynch him," was raised and a rush made toward the offender. He was quickly hustled into a patrol wagon and the horses started off at a gallop. Close behind came a mass of outraged humanity bent on hanging the culprit. They were outstripped, however, and the prisoner lodged behind the bars.

A Jury Fixer Fixed.

In the Appellate Court at Chicago, Judge Carey affirmed the judgment of the Criminal Court in sending Jeremiah O'Donnell to the penitentiary for three years on a charge of conspiracy to "pack" a jury favorable to the defendants in the Dr. Cronin case.

Such a Wretch Should Be Hanged.

An unknown miscreant threw a rock through the window of a sleeper, near Shelter, Neb. The missile struck and fatally injured the infant child of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Holmes, of Chicago.

A $20,000 Fire at Gallipolis.

The Utterman Shoe manufacturing plant of Gallipolis, O., was destroyed by fire. Total loss on stock and building, $20,000.

Reinhold Guilty.

The jury in the Lemon Reinhold case, in which Reinhold, a former lawyer in Indianapolis, was triedfor robbery, returned a verdict against Reinhold, sentencing him to ten years' imprisonment and to pay a fine of $500.

Will Be Electrocutioned.

The three New York murderers, Smiler, Slocum, and Wood, whose appeals to the Supreme Court against electrocution failed, were sentenced to be executed during the week beginning July 6.

Must Not Reflect on Blaine.

Bangor (Me.) special: Reflections of any kind upon Mr. Blaine are not relished in Augusta, and a clergyman of that city has been given unmistakable evidence of this fact within the past week or two. The clergyman referred to, while delivering a discourse on temperance from his pulpit on a recent Sunday was imprudent enough to allude in rather uncomplimentary terms to the Secretary of State in connection with the shipment of beer from this country to South America. The result has been a decided coolness on the part of the congregation toward the pastor, while several of the prominent and influential members of the flock have cut loose altogether and now attend at other churches. The blundering clergyman will be fortunate if he is not frozen out altogether.

ROCKFORD WONDER

Establishes a Heaven in Kansas City.

Kansas City special: Jacob Schweinfurth, the Rockford Messiah, was given a reception to which only the faithful were admitted. The "Christ" sat on one side of the room along with his disciples, who sat in silent contemplation of the Rockford wonder. Silence reigned except at stated intervals when Schweinfurth would rise from his seat and exclaim: "I am the only true Christ." Then several of the female members of the congregation would rise and say, "Yes, he is the only true Christ." This reception lasted about two hours, but the reverend messiah did not deign to enlighten his believers by addressing them. Schweinfurth positively refused to talk to reporters, and says that newspapers are an abomination. He has given strict orders that all members of the press shall be excluded from his meetings. In the afternoon Schweinfurth talked for four hours to the faithful at the residence of Mrs. Adams. There was a large crowd coming and going all day, but his talk was of such a character that it was not necessary for the hearers to be there all the time, as he rambled along repeating the fact that he was the only true Christ with variations, and making no sensational statements.

Bandit Chief Captured.

Mail advices from Havana, dated May 29, say that ten bandits, members of Martin Valesquez' band, were killed in an encounter with soldiers near Cienfuegos. Rafael Sierra, who was Mannel Garcia's right-hand man, was captured at Santa Teresa, Yaguaramas, and conveyed to Havana. He, it is said, has committed more murders than any two bandits. This bandit, with three companions, was tracked by soldiers to swamps where they defended themselves savagely for some time. His companions got out of the swamp and disappeared in the woods, but Sierra could not join them, as he was wounded in the knee. Although alone, he defended himself savagely and exhausted all his cartridges, after which he used his machete. This was finally broken by a blow from a gun and he was soon overpowered. A trail of blood leading to a stream was found, proving that one or more of his friends had been wounded. Sierra himself was wounded in several places.

Seal Skins.

The President has received a cypher dispatch from Minister Lincoln at London, saying that official notice had been given in the House of Commons that a bill would be introduced to authorize the Queen to prohibit British subjects from taking seals in Behring Sea. The question engaged the President's principal attention and he had conferences at different times on its various phases with Secretary Foster, Secretary Tracy, Secretary Proctor, and Acting Secretary Whorton. One point considered was the advisability of sending war vessels to Behring Sea to reinforce the revenue cutters in preventing the taking of seals in case a closed season is decided upon. The fleet would of course co-operate with the English warships, now in those waters, in the enforcement of the agreement as concluded.

Deadly Work.

Edward Hagerman, a constable, went to the farm of Cyrus Aldrich, in Morton County, Kansas, to take possession of some mortgaged horses. Aldrich ordered him off the farm and drawing a revolver fired at him. Hagerman returned the fire and the two men engaged in a deadly duel until they had exhausted their weapons. Hagerman received a ball in the hand and one in the abdomen, the latter causing his death. Aldrich received three bullets in his shoulder and breast. He is still alive, but his death is hourly expected. When the fight began the men were thirty feet apart, but they advanced toward each other as the fight progressed, and when they dropped they were almost within arm's length.

Memorial Day Accident.

A feature of the Memorial Day parade at Lansing, Mich., was a float which was made by building a platform on a track and on this placing forty-three women to represent the States of the Union. Near the cemetery the platform gave way. Mr. Hardy and the front end of the platform fell under the horses' heels, frightening them into a run. The women hung, screaming to the float until thrown off along two or three blocks. The last one fell off just as the cemetery was reached, where the horses were stopped. When the wreckage was cleared it was found that Hardy had a badly smashed ankle and a lot of severe but not serious bruises, and about fifteen of the women were slightly bruised, none of them severely.

To Stop Bait Traffic.

The State Department has been informed of the action of the French Government in stationing a war ship at St. George's Bay to prevent Americans from obtaining bait, but will await further advices before taking action. It has not yet been made clear to the Department whether the war ship has prevented our fishermen from buying bait or whether it has prevented the French inhabitants from selling it. These are two very distinct and different propositions. In the first case it may be taken as an assertion of authority over American citizens, while in the second case the French Government might be exerting an undeniable authority over French subjects.

Doctored Whisky.

Inspector McCormick, of New York, has seized 313 barrels of Edgewood whisky, estimated to be worth $50,000. Seven hundred barrels of this whisky was shipped to Bermuda in 1883 by M. Hofheimer, of New York, and reshipped back here in August, 1890. While lying in the warehouse at Bermuda it is charged that the whisky was "doctored." The seizure was made because the whisky was entered at the custom house as of domestic manufacture. This is one of the biggest seizures made here for years. The duty on foreign whisky is $9.50 per gallon.

A Mayor in Disgrace.

Mayor Noonan, of St. Louis, is in trouble. Not only has the City Council refused to confirm his appointments, but a large section of local papers is exposing his moral weakness to the public. During the past week Boston and New Orleans municipal officials paid formal visits to the city to inspect public improvements. The Mayor and the New Orleans party began a rose-colored raid that culminated in a corousal on change, and so impaired the vitality of the St. Louis executive that he could not meet the Boston visitors. The affair has caused much scandal and talk.

Indicted.

The grand jury at Los Angeles, Cal., has indicted Super Cargo Burt and Capt. O'Farrell, of the schooner Robert and Minnie. O'Farrell is in jail, but Burt is out on $10,000 bail. The five sailors arrested were not indicted, but are held as witnesses against the deserters from the Itata. The grand jury found other indictments, but their names are not made public.

No More Revenue from Saloons.

The Sheriff has served notice on Mayor Macrae and all other city officials of Council Bluffs, Iowa, enjoining them from collecting the monthly fines from the saloon men, which they have been doing since the license law was abolished. The amount paid monthly by each saloon is $50, and there are now about eight places where liquor is sold.

Strange Assumption.

The Treasury Department is advised that the Mexican Lottery Company is having its tickets printed in El Paso, Texas, after which they are taken across the Rio Grande into Mexico, and then reimported into the United States, claiming that the tickets are exempt from duty as American manufactures returned without being advanced in value or improved in condition. The Collector at El Paso has been instructed to assume for the present that all lottery tickets if entered at that port are of foreign production, and to assess duty accordingly.

The Gorilla Captured.

Detective Frank Kellogg, of the Forepaugh show, arrested Robert Rathborn, alias Robert Roberts, who is known all over the country as the Gorilla, at Canton, Ohio. He is charged with stealing $3,000 from a Chicago bank. The theft was committed in 1886, and, after leaving the bank the Gorilla shot several men who tried to capture him. He was finally arrested and jumped a $2,500 bail bond. When arrested he attempted to draw his revolver, but the detective was too quick for him. He will be taken to Chicago.

A New Seminary.

At the session of the Evangelical Lutheran synod held at Lebanon, Pa., an offer was made to the general synod through the board of education of $150,000 to found a Lutheran seminary in Omaha, provided the church raised $150,000 in one year from July 1, 1891. The proposal was accepted amid great enthusiasm and $20,000 were subscribed by the delegates present. Mr. August Kountz, of New York, who made the generous offer, gave $10,000 additional, "in memory of his sainted parents."

Killed by a Flying Boulder.

A young daughter of Adam Zern, residing near Annville, Pa., was fatally injured near Beaver and Batdorf's limestone quarry. The girl was passing along on the public road just as a heavy dynamite blast had been discharged by means of a battery. A boulder weighing several hundred pounds was hurled through the air and struck the girl, crushing her. One of her legs was torn off near the hip, an arm was frightfully mangled and she sustained internal injuries.

Ohio Farmers Won't Go Into Politics.

After having discussed a resolution calling for a third party convention from 4 o'clock in the afternoon until almost 11 at night, the Ohio Farmers' Union, in session at Columbus, finally defeated the project. The vote by which the convention refused to endorse the third party movement was 63 yeas and 64 nays. Immediately after defeating the resolution the convention adjourned. No effort was made to secure a reconsideration of the vote and it was thus effectually killed.

Three Drowned.

A. E. Meninger, one of the leading citizens of Plattsburg, Mo., with his wife and daughter, drove out of the city to spend the day with friends in the country. Heavy rains fell during the day. In the evening the horse and carriage were found in the creek near town, but a vigorous search of several hours failed to discover the parties. It is almost certain that all three were drowned as the water was twenty feet deep and a strong current running.

Barnum's Body Will Be Cremated.

Benjamin Fish, treasurer of the Barnum and Bailey shows, and cousin of Mrs. Barnum, is quoted as saying: "I have just left Mrs. Barnum and we have decided that the best thing we can do is to have Mr. Barnum's body exhumed and cremated. That was his wish and such a disposition would have been made of the remains but for the opposition of members of the family."

Non-Partisan Judges Elected at Chicago.

Little interest was taken in the election at Chicago for eleven Judges of the Circuit Court, and a light vote was polled. The non-partisan ticket, composed of five Republicans and six Democrats, ten of whom are at present on the bench, was successful. The eleventh candidate on this ticket was Francis Adams, a Harrison Democrat, who is elected by a small plurality.

Sank in Chignik Bay.

News has been received at San Francisco by the Barkentine Katie Flickinger, which arrived from Alaska, of the wreck of the schooner Sadie F. Caller. She ran on a rock in Chignik Bay and sank. She had 200 Chinese on board, but all were saved.

The Battle Creek Sanitarium Burned.

Fire totally destroyed the Sanitarium printing office and building at Battle Creek, Mich., with a total loss of $40,000; insured for $10,000. The origin of the fire is unknown, but it is ascribed to the use of crude oil as fuel.

Judge Taft's Will.

The will of the Hon. Alphonzo Taft has been probated at Cincinnati. It is very brief, and gives his entire estate to his wife and her heirs. The wife is appointed executrix without bond.

The Midland Will Pay All Claims.

The superintendent of the Midland railroad is at Waveland, Ind., making arrangements to pay all claims against the road. It is believed that the tie-up will now be lifted.

THE MARKETS.

CHICAGO.
CATTLE—Common to prime	$3.50	@ 6.53
HOGS—Shipping grades	4.50	@ 4.70
SHEEP	5.00	@ 6.75
WHEAT—No 2 Red	1.02	@ 1.05
CORN—No. 2	.56½	@ .57½
OATS—No. 2	.47½	@ .48½
RYE—No. 2	.83	@ .84½
BUTTER—Choice Creamery	.17	@ .17½
CHEESE—Full Cream, flats	.09	@ .09½
EGGS—Fresh	.15½	@ .16
POTATOES—Western, per bu	.95	@ 1.05
INDIANAPOLIS.
CATTLE—Shipping	3.50	@ 5.75
HOGS—Choice Light	3.00	@ 4.60
SHEEP—Common to Prime	4.00	@ 4.75
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	1.03½	@ 1.04
CORN—No. 1 White	.56½	@ .57
OATS—No. 2 White	.47	@ .48½
ST. LOUIS.
CATTLE	5.10	@ 6.10
HOGS	4.45	@ 4.55
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	1.03	@ 1.04½
CORN—No. 2	.52½	@ .53
OATS—No. 2	.44	@ .45
BARLEY—Iowa	.69	@ .71
CINCINNATI.
CATTLE	3.50	@ 5.50
HOGS	3.50	@ 5.00
SHEEP	3.50	@ 5.00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	1.05½	@ 1.06
CORN—No. 2	.64	@ .65
OATS—No. 2 Mixed	.48	@ .49
DETROIT.
CATTLE	3.00	@ 5.25½
HOGS	3.00	@ 4.85
SHEEP	3.00	@ 5.25
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	1.07	@ 1.07
CORN—No. 2 Yellow	.56	@ .57½
OATS—No. 2 White	.47½	@ .48
TOLEDO.
WHEAT	1.06	@ 1.08½
CORN—Cash	.58	@ .58½
OATS—No. 1 White	.47	@ .48
CLOVER SEED	4.15	@ 4.25
EAST LIBERTY.
CATTLE—Common to Prime	4.00	@ 6.00
HOGS—Light	4.00	@ 4.90
SHEEP—Medium	4.25	@ 5.15
LAMBS	4.75	@ 6.00
MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—No. 2 Spring	1.02½	@ 1.03
CORN—No. 3	.60	@ .61
OATS—No. 2 White	.53	@ .54
RYE—No. 1	.93	@ .95
BARLEY—No. 2	.76	@ .77
PORK—Mess	1.25	@ 11.75
NEW YORK.
CATTLE	5.00	@ 6.25
HOGS	4.25	@ 5.15
SHEEP	4.00	@ 5.25
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	1.12	@ 1.12½
CORN—No. 2	.66	@ .66½
OATS—Mixed Western	.49	@ .50
BUTTER—Creamery	.18	@ .19
EGGS—Western	.18	@ .19½
PORK—New Mess	12.00	@ 12.75

HE CONQUERED GOULD.

JAMES M'HENRY, THE DEAD FINANCIER.

Ousted the Wizard from Erie's Control—Was a Second Warwick—Put Alfonso on the Throne of Spain—Princely Benefactions to His Friends.

The death of James McHenry from bronchitis, which was announced by cable from London, created profound interest in Wall street. Mr. McHenry had lived so long abroad and had promoted and financed so many foreign enterprises that most people supposed him to be an Englishman. He was, however, essentially an American; for, although born in Ireland, he was, while an infant, brought to this country by his father, a well-known physician, who settled in Philadelphia and practiced there for many years. It was in the Quaker City that young McHenry was educated and it was there that he began his business career.

At the head of the English investors in the Erie property, who owned what was satirically called a "controlling" amount of the bonds and shares, McHenry undertook to turn the plunderers out of power. The amazing condition of the judiciary of this city, as well as of the municipal and State governments, at that time is matter of history. General Daniel E. Sickles, on behalf of the owners of the Erie property, sought to regain control of it through the Legislature, and the judiciary was worked by means of suits brought by the Attorney General, the late Francis C. Barlow.

It was in vain. Backed by the treasury of the Erie Company and the power of the ring in the city and State, Gould and his associate, Fisk, seemed to be invincible. At this juncture Mr. George Crouch went to London and laid before Mr. McHenry and Mr. Bischoffsheim a plan for deposing the precious pair through a revolt of their own directors. The scheme was adopted, and after a series of exciting and nearly incredible incidents, which assumed almost the aspect of a civil war, the struggle terminated in the ejectment of the plunderers and in Mr. Gould ultimately giving back some $9,000,000 nominal value of securities, which are credited to-day on the books of the Erie Company as his "restitution fund."

In his way McHenry was a Warwick, a king-maker, for he was instrumental in putting Alfonso on the throne of Spain, and was prominent in a project for placing the hapless Prince Imperial on the throne of France. Mr. McHenry's splendid mansion, Oak Lodge, Kensington, just back of Holland Park, is well known to thousands of Americans who were entertained there with almost regal splendor.

Notwithstanding occasional reverses of fortune, he appeared to always have had in reserve the means to keep up this establishment. The house was filled with the richest furniture and the choicest works of art. It was in this mansion, with Mr. McHenry and his wife, that Isabella, the ex-Queen of Spain, with her son Alfonso, sojourned after she was deposed. It was there that the young Prince made his home while prosecuting his studies as a cadet at the Woolwich Military Academy, and it was there that McHenry and his associates perfected their plans for raising the funds which were successfully used in placing the young man on the throne of his mother.

When Napoleon and Eugenie sought refuge in England they, with their son, were the guests of Mr. McHenry, and it was at Oak Lodge that the Prince Imperial lived for years while attending Woolwich Academy, just as Alfonso had done years before, occupying the same suite of rooms. History came very near repeating itself in a singular manner, for in the same house financial arrangements were made and plans perfected for placing the Prince Imperial on the throne formerly occupied by his father, just as Alfonso had succeeded to Isabella's. These, however, were doomed to failure.

The princely style in which he used the great fortunes he accumulated furnishes many interesting anecdotes. The late S. L. M. Barlow, of New York, was Mr. McHenry's counsel in connection with Erie. On one of his visits here Mr. McHenry happened to visit with Mrs. Barlow and others an estate at Glen Cove, L. I., which was on the market. The day before he sailed for England Mr. McHenry presented Mrs. Barlow with the title deeds of the property, which was valued at several hundred thousand dollars. After the Erie victory Mr. Crouch, who had been liberally compensated for his services in that campaign, dined one evening at Oak Lodge. As he was leaving Mr. McHenry handed him an envelope with the request that he would peruse its contents at his leisure. It contained the host's personal check for £10,000.

OFF FOR BEHRING SEA.

Sealed Orders Sent to the Revenue Cutter Rush to Sail to the North.

The Secretary of the Treasury has telegraphed to the revenue cutter Rush to sail for Behring Sea. The nature of the instructions which have been given to the commander are not known. The Rush will probably endeavor to prevent illicit sealing, and the result will probably be the same that it has been in former years. The Canadian vessels will catch as many skins as they can, and will avoid capture. The sealing vessels are understood to have already left, and the Canadian poaching vessels have several days' start. The time from San Francisco to the seal islands is probably eighteen days. There is no other means of communication with them. Should a decision be reached the revenue cutters now at San Francisco cannot possibly arrive at Behring Sea in time to prevent seal poaching if a vigorous policy should be determined upon. Reports from Ottawa indicate that fifty Canadian poachers have already fitted out for a big sealing season and have set sail for passes in the Aleutian chain to await the annual migration of the seals. In any event the poachers will have at least two weeks' unrestricted seal fishing before the authorities of the United States can interfere with them. It does not seem possible at this late date for an arrangement to be effected between Great Britain and the United States providing for a close season in Behring Sea. Diplomatic red tape and the dilatory tactics adopted by Lord Salisbury have left the matter in such shape that it appears to be impossible to adjust matters on any satisfactory basis. The representatives of the North American Commercial Company are entirely satisfied with the prospect, because it does not appear possible to cancel their contract with the Treasury Department for the coming season. They had anticipated a heavy loss in the event of a closed season, of which they could only be relieved by a special act of Congress reimbursing them on the basis of their contract with the Government.

Winners and Losers on Epsom Downs.

Mrs. Langtry plunged heavily, says a cable dispatch, and is reported to have won an enormous sum on Common, whom she backed at the advice of Sportsman Baird. Some rumors place the amount of her winnings as high as £50,000. Lord Rosslyn is known to have won £5,000 on Common, and the Prince of Wales a large sum. Col. North, the nitrate magnate, was on the wrong side, and lost an uncomfortably large sum on Old Boots.

One good result of the victory for Common will be the relief it will bring, in a purely monetary way, to the Prince of Wales. The question of Wales' debts has been recently a matter of deep concern to the London public. It has been said that his royal highness has been pushed for money and that his debts are overwhelming. Not the least of these obligations were those that would be brought home to him were he to lose his bets on the great race at Epsom. Wales bet on Common freely. He had great confidence in the winner of the Two Thousand stake, and many of his wagers were at rather long odds. The result of the Derby of '91 should be certainly grateful news to the people who hold bills against the heir to the throne.

NEWFOUNDLANDERS.

BENEATH THE IRON HEEL OF OPPRESSION

From the Imperial Government—They Oppose Star-Chamber Sessions of the Colonial Legislature—The Action of the Newfoundlanders Causes a Sensation in Parliament.

The Newfoundland House of Assembly met at St. Johns for the purpose of passing a local coercion act identical with the imperial act, with the exception of a provision that it shall be enforced one year only. This provision is considered a blind, because it would be renewable unless a similar permanent act was passed.

Morine, one of the delegates, sent a protest against passing the imperial act. He arrived on the Allan steamer from England and made a long statement before both houses of the Legislature. The anti-coercion members protested against keeping the public out but, were outvoted. At the close of his speech Morine gave notice that he would introduce a coercion bill.

The rules of the Assembly having been suspended, the bill was rushed through its first and second readings and afterward passed the committee stage, Morine styling himself the leader of the opposition. He was unable to get a single member of his own party to follow him. The Government party, which a few days ago passed resolutions denouncing local coercion and repudiating delegates' unauthorized proposals, under Whiteway's threat of dissolution voted to give naval officers the right to remove persons and property of every description on the so-called French shore, where the lobster arbitration is accepted.

Great indignation prevails at the reversal of policy of the delegates. Most of the members stayed away. Only fourteen voted for and five against coercion in the Assembly of thirty-six members. The position of the people generally is that if coerceive measures are adopted, the imperial authorities should bear the expenses and assume the responsibility and odium of cutting down the halyards from the flagstaffs of the colonial building.

The Government created a sensation by discharging seven of the Fortune Bay prisoners. One of the ringleaders, Hynes, is to be tried for carrying bait to St. Pierre. Stewart, the other ringleader, is still at large.

Since the agitation commenced public indignation has never been so intense as at present. The Daily Colonist, voicing public sentiment, says that the backdown is cowardly and contemptible, Newfoundland being scourged with scorpions and by masked executioners for the purpose of making her accept confederation.

At the request of the English Liberal leaders the Assembly recommitted the local coercion bill for the purpose of enacting that it be enforced till the end of 1893, instead of one year. On division the Assembly met again with closed doors. Three Government members—Studdy, Finance Minister, Dowe and Duffy—voted with the anti-coercionists. Strong indignation and disgust are expressed at the star-chamber proceedings of the Legislature.

The action of the Newfoundlanders on the Queen's birthday caused quite a shock in the lobbies of the British Parliament. It is taken as a proof that the colony is desperate and will not submit quietly to coercion. This is regarded as astonishing by the Tories and with pain by the Liberals. It is no part of Salisbury's programme to drive the Newfoundlanders into revolt, while he is desirous of both humiliating them and of removing all cause for complaint on the part of the French. The Tories feel that the coercion of Newfoundland might be the entering wedge to sever Canada from the Crown.

Cheers in a Court-room.

The jury in the case of Pasquelena Robertello, the Italian girl who shot her lover to death in New York City because he assaulted her and refused to keep his promise of marriage, brought in a verdict of not guilty. One of the most affecting and exciting scenes ever witnessed in a New York court-room occurred on the announcement of the verdict. When the clerk asked the usual question of the foreman he almost shouted "not guilty," and, without waiting for a poll of their names, the jury shouted "Not guilty, not guilty!" The scene which followed was exciting. Men jumped up on the seats waving hats and handkerchiefs, and yelled and cheered, nor was there much effort made to restrain them.

Liquor Men Barred.

The hottest fight the Grand Lodge of Knights of Pythias has known for years occurred at Cincinnati over a resolution to admit wholesale liquor dealers and brewers and their traveling salesmen to membership in the order. The debate was heated and sharp and many amendments were introduced to confuse and mislead, but a vote was reached after many delays and resulted in a very positive majority, something like 125 in a vote of 500 against the proposition. A year ago it carried by but four majority.

Here and There.

NEW YORK'S Sherman monument fund is $54,046.

THE population of Alaska, as per corrected returns, is 30,000.

DR. LYMAN ABBOTT will revise the "Plymouth Collection of Hymns and Tunes," edited by Henry Ward Beecher in 1855.

REV. SAM JONES, in an interview, estimates the number of conversions under his preaching at 150,000 to 200,000.

THE Duke of Argyle's youngest daughter will marry a Lancashire cotton spinner named Emmott, a Quaker and wealthy.

THE cap and gown are paraphernalia usually foreign to a Yale student; but this year the graduating class will don this garb.

THE Empress of Austria is as busy as a school girl with her linguistic studies and as interested as a land reformer in her agricultural projects.

TWENTY-ONE Italian immigrants who arrived on board the steamer Massalia were debarred from landing, on the ground that they were ex-convicts.

BY a recent Colorado law a man who is caught carrying concealed weapons anywhere in the State is liable to be fined $50 or "jugged" for thirty days, and, what is more, if an officer, when notified, fails to search a person carrying such forbidden arms, the officer is liable to be fined $250, one-half of which shall go to the informant and one-half to the school fund of the district.

THE FAIRS OF THE STATE

FULL LIST OF THOSE TO BE HELD.

Together with the Time and Place of Holding the Same, and Secretaries' Addresses.

In the subjoined list all dates are inclusive, and the name of the Secretary of each association is given:

Auburn District—Auburn, DeKalb County, Sept. 7 to 11, Cal Husselman.
Acton District—Acton, Marion County, Sept. 8 to 11, T. M. Richardson.
Benton and Warren—Boswell, Sept. 7 to 11, George W. Cones.
Bridgeton Union—Bridgeton, Parke County, Aug 10 to 15, Thomas S. Nevins.
Bremen Agricultural—Bremen, Sept. 29 to Oct. 2, Henry H. Miller.
Carmel District—Carmel, Hamilton County.
Eastern Indiana Agricultural Association—Kendallville, Noble County, Sept. 28 to Oct 2, J. S. Conologue.
Fairmount Union—Fairmount, Grant County, Sept. 14 to 18, J. D. Lathan.
Fountain, Warren and Vermillion—Covington, Fountain County, Sept. 14 to 18, Wm. H. Miles.
Francisville Union—Francisville, Pulaski County.
Grand Jubilee and Agricultural Exhibition Association—Wirt Station, Jefferson county (Stony Point), Aug. 18 to 21, T. H. Watlington.
Gosport District—Gosport, Owen County.
Henry Madison, and Delaware—Middleton, Henry County, Aug. 4 to 7, P. H. Hodson.
Kentland Agricultural—Kentland, Newton County.
Knightstown District, Knightstown, Henry County.
Loogootee District Fair Company—Loogootee, Oct. 6 to 10, John Raney.
Lawrence District—Lawrence, Marion County.
Miami and Fulton—Macy, Miami County, Aug. 25 to 28, Dr. J. S. Wilson.
Montpelier Tri-County—Montpelier, Blackford County.
New Carlisle and Farmers' Union Fair—New Carlisle, St. Joseph County, Sept. 23 to 25, W. H. Deacon.
New Ross Agricultural—New Ross, Montgomery County, Aug. 10 to 14, Thomas F. Rouk.
Northeast Indiana Agricultural—Waterloo, DeKalb County, Oct. 5 to 9, M. Kiplinger.
Northern Indiana and Southern Michigan Exhibiting Association — Warsaw, Kosciusko County, Sept. 14 to 18, M. A. Wilcox.
Northern Indiana and Southern Michigan—South Bend, St. Joseph County, Sept. 14 to 18, C. G. Towle.
North Manchester Tri-County—North Manchester, Wabash County, Sept. 29 to Oct. 2, E. A. Ebinghouse.
North Salem Agricultural and Horticultural—North Salem, Hendricks County, Aug. 3 to 7, L. C. Moon.
Oakland City Agricultural and Industrial—Oakland City, Gibson County, Aug. 24 to 29, Z. T. Emerson.
Poplar Grove Agricultural, Horticultural and Mechanical—Poplar Grove, Howard County, Sept. 28 to Oct. 2, Robert T. Barbour.
Remington Fair Association—Remington, Jasper County, Aug. 25 to 28, O. M. Vickery.
Southern Indiana District—Mount Vernon, Posey County, Sept. 21 to 25, Ellwood Smith.
Switzerland and Ohio—East Enterprise, Switzerland County, Aug. 25 to 28, Wm. H. Madison.
Vermillion Joint Stock—Newport, Vermillion County, Sept. 28 to Oct. 2, Lewis Shepard.
Warren Tri-County — Warren, Huntington County, Sept. 1 to 5, Wm. F. Swaim.
Washington and Clark—Pekin, Washington County, Sept. 8 to 11, Thos. H. B. Baker.
Wayne, Henry and Randolph—Dalton, Wayne County, Sept. 8 to 11, L. H. Davis.
Wayne County Fair Association—Hagerstown, Wayne County, Aug. 18 to 22, J. M. Lontz.

County Fairs.

Allen County Driving Club—Fort Wayne, July 17 to 21, H. C. Rockhill.
Carroll County—Camden, Sept. 1 to 4, Z. A. Brown.
Clinton County—Frankfort, Aug. 24 to 28, Joe Heavilon.
Daviess county—Washington, Sept. 28 to Oct. 3, James C. Lavelle.
Dearborn county—Lawrenceburg, Aug. 18 to 22, John S. Dorman.
Decatur county—Greensburg, Aug. 25 to 28, Ed Kessing.
Delaware county—Muncie, Aug. 18 to 21, Marc S. Claypool.
Dubois county—Huntingburg, Sept. 14 to 19, F. W. Kattenhenry.
Elkhart county—Goshen, Sept. 21 to 25, Thos. A. Starr.
Fulton county, Rochester, Sept. 2 to 5, W. M. Loomis.
Gibson county—Princeton, Sept. 7 to 12, S. Vet. Strain.
Grant county—Marion, Aug. 25 to 29, J. F. Carmichael.
Green county—Linton, Aug. 31 to Sept. 5, Jas. H. Humphreys.
Green county (Central)—Bloomfield, Sept. 14 to 19, Ot. Herold.
Hamilton county—Sheridan, Aug. 31 to Sept. 4, Will J. Woods.
Hancock county—Greenfield, Aug. 18 to 21, Charles Downing.
Harrison county—Corydon, Aug. 24 to 28, T. S. Getzendanner.
Henry county—New Castle, Aug. 11 to 14, O. L. Jeffries.
Howard county—Kokomo, Sept. 14 to 18, Geo. W. Landon.
Huntington county—Huntington, Sept. 8 to 12, Leon T. Bagley.
Jay county—Portland, Sept. 29 to Oct. 2, H. J. Votaw.
Jefferson county—Madison, Aug. 11 to 14, Joseph M. Cravens.
Jennings county—North Vernon, Aug. 4 to 7, Wm. G. Norris.
Johnson county—Franklin, Sept. 15 to 19, W. S. Young.
Knox county—Vincennes, Oct. 12 to 17, Jas. W. Emmison.
Lake county—Crown Point, Sept. 29 to Oct. 2, George I. Mallett.
Laporte county—LaPorte, Sept. 29 to Oct. 2, W. A. Martin.
Lawrence county—Bedford, Oct. 6 to 10, F. M. Stalker.
Miami county—Peru, Sept. 14 to 18, Fred W. Conradt.
Monroe county—Bloomington, Sept. 14 to 18, John E. Edmondson.
Montgomery county—Crawfordsville, Sept. 8 to 12, W. W. Morgan.
Marion county—Agricultural rooms, Statehouse, second Saturday of each month, Ida F. Richardson.
Newton county—Morocco, Sept. 15 to 19, Frank Davis.
Noble county—Ligonier, Oct. 5 to 9, J. E. McDonald.
Owen county—Spencer, Aug. 17 to 21, Mat Matthews.
Parke county—Rockville, Aug. 17 to 21, W. H. Elson.
Perry county—Rome, Sept. 14 to 19, O. E. Robinson.
Pike county—Petersburg, Aug. 31 to Sept. 4, E. P. Richardson.
Posey county—New Harmony, Sept. 14 to 18, W. W. Robb.
Pulaski county—Winamac, Sept. 15 to 18, J. D. Vurpillet.
Putnam county—Bainbridge, Aug. 31 to Sept. 4, A. R. Allison.
Randolph county—Winchester, Sept. 8 to 11, B. F. Boltz.
Rush county—Rushville, Sept. 8 to 12, Charles F. Kennedy.
Shelby county—Shelbyville, Sept. 1 to 5, E. E. Stroup.
Spencer county—Rockport, Sept. 21 to 26, A. D. Garlinghouse.
Steuben county, Angola, Sept. 22 to 25, F. McCartney.
Sullivan county—Sullivan, Sept. 7 to 12, Jas. M. Lang.
Spencer county—Chrisney, Sept. 28 to Oct. 3, P. C. Jolby.
Tippecanoe county—Lafayette, Aug. 31 to Sept. 4, Mortimer Levering.
Tipton county—Tipton, Aug. 17 to 22, W. R. Ogleby.
Vermillion county—Cayuga, Aug. 17 to 21, J. S. Grondyke.
Vigo county—Terre Haute, Aug. 24 to 28, Chas. C. Oakey.
Wabash county—Sept. 22 to 25, J. M. Haas.
Washington county—Salem, Sept. 1 to 4, E. W. Menaugh.
Wayne county—Richmond, Aug. 25 to 28, Isaac Kline.

Minor State Items.

—Delaware County will build a new asylum.

—Wheat entirely destroyed by hail in some parts of Hamilton County.

—Genevive Fosdick badly injured in a runaway accident at Laporte.

—Will Shildmyer, 13, trying to board a freight train at Greencastle, instantly killed.

—Hog cholera is raging in Hamilton County. In Jackson Township seventy-five head of hogs have died.

—Mrs. John Edelman, of Valparaiso, drowned herself in Soger's Lake. She had been demented for some years.

—White Caps have notified Mary Watkins and daughter, of Paoli, "to get religion."

—Under new provisions of tax law Indiana will receive from 60 to 100 per cent. more from corporations than before.

—Denla Rezener, a little girl, was sent to draw water with a rope from a cistern in Evansville and pitched in headlong, being drowned.

—The increased tax-list of New Albany gives that city $10,000,000 taxable property, making an increase of $150,000 in the annual revenue

THESE ACTUAL FACTS

ALL FOUND WITHIN THE BORDERS OF INDIANA.

An Interesting Summary of the More Important Doings of Our Neighbors—Crimes, Casualties, Deaths, Etc.

Farmers Diversifying Their Crops.

For some time the farmers of Bartholomew County have been considering a change of crops, having in view the object of a better income from their farms. This subject was thoroughly discussed at the farmers' institutes held in that County this year, and greater diversity of crops will be the result of it. Two farmers near Jonesville have each planted twenty acres of potatoes, while several others have turned a part of their attention to the raising of broom-corn. Several others are trying a few acres of navy beans, while another will try to reap some profit from a small field of the castor bean. In the western part of the county there will be several who will embark in the tobacco-raising business. In the years of 1865 and 1886 tobacco was successfully raised in Brown County in large quantities, and one or two men who yet reside and do business in Columbus, made several thousand dollars on tobacco raised in Brown County alone. Since that time the culture of tobacco in Brown County died out and the stave business took its place, but of late this business has, on account of the scarcity of timber, become unprofitable. There are many farmers who have grown tired of raising wheat and corn, and will likely be benefitted by the change, and besides will save a great amount of labor.

Minor State Items.

—Eastern capitalists will open a $300,000 National Bank at Muncie.

—Two boys caught a catfish near the mouth of Silver Creek that measured thirteen inches across the head, weighed 150 pounds, and had the undigested hide and skeleton of a dog in its stomach.

—A large quantity of liquors and cigars found stored under a church at Columbus; stolen and concealed there by ten boys, all under 15, belonging to the "best families" of the city. No arrests.

—Walter Reeves, a colored lad, was hanging on a moving freight car at the junction near Greencastle, when his body was caught by a car on the side-track, crushing his hip and otherwise injuring him. He will die.

—During a storm lightning struck a wire fence on the farm of Norman Cohee, in Brown County, ran along a wire for a quarter of a mile, killing two horses and a cow that happened to be near it at the time. One of the horses was quite valuable.

—Robert Pogue, aged 14 years, while working with a machine at the Bowen Manufacturing Company's factory, Union City, put his right hand under a cut-off knife to clear the fragments of wood. The blade descended and severed his hand from the arm at the wrist.

—The Fort Wayne Amusement Company are making extensive arrangements for the opening of their new Base Ball and Driving Park with a grand celebration on the Fourth of July. There will be horse racing for large purses, base ball, balloon ascension with a parachute descent, fire works, etc.

—A young man near Veedersburg has made a queer contract with the father of his future wife. He is to give his note for $300, and must live with the girl at least three years. Each year he is to be credited with $100 on the note, until it is paid. At the end of the three years he will be at liberty to do as he pleases about longer living with his wife.

—The ill effects of cigarette smoking were made painfully apparent at Greencastle, when the 17-year-old son of Capt. James M. Owens was seized with a spasm on his way to school. He fell on the pavement as in a fit, but had never given the least sign of epilepsy, and the attack is attributed solely to the excessive use of cigarettes. He was carried to a physician's office near by, and soon rallied under the effect of restoratives.

—Governor Hovey has received a letter from a Kentucky Democrat congratulating him on his refusal to honor a requisition for the return of the Owensboro girl whose only crime seems to have been running away with and marrying the man she loved. The Kentuckian was so enthusiastic over the refusal that he wants an opportunity to vote for the Governor for some high office. Governor Buckner denies having issued any such requisition, and the document received at Indianapolis must therefore have been a bogus one. Governor Hovey's intentions were good, nevertheless.

—W. V. Noland, manager of the Stillwell flour mills, Laporte County, went to Laporte and surreptitiously entered a room at the Standard Hotel, where he was found dying from the effects of a dose of morphine taken with suicidal intent. There was a letter to his wife and children, saying that he had been selling flour and misappropriating the proceeds. It implicated others with him. The proprietor of the mills is at death's door from paralysis and Noland evidently feared his peculations would be found out. Noland further said that he did not want to live unless he could live an honorable and honest life.

—Alvin Peets and Sherman Tomey engaged in a quarrel at Martinsville, and, after a few words, Peets drew a razor and slashed Tomey across the left breast, making a gash about ten inches long. The wound is a dangerous one.

—Isaac Lyons, a wealthy farmer, together with his hired man and two horses, were struck by lightning while plowing in a field near Danville. The man and horses soon recovered consciousness, but Lyons was instantly killed.

—Bartholomew County wheat full of black rust.

—Mrs. Elizabeth Tyler, near Kokomo, was burned to death by falling into a fire place in her house. She was 70 years old. Her son, about 35 years old, was the only other inmate of the house, and he was in bed asleep at the time. A neighbor boy called at the house and made the discovery of the old lady's horrible death. They were very poor, and lived in a dilapidated old log cabin. It is supposed she was building the morning fire, and being old and weak, fell and was unable to save herself.

SAVED AT LAST.

AUBURN, IND., Oct. 3, 1890.

Dr. J. W. Bergen:

Dear Sir:—By this time, I presume, you will want to know how I am getting along with Bergen's Asthma Cure.

Well, you have heard of persons obtaining a new life. Now I really feel that way myself. When I began taking Bergen's Asthma Cure, I was just coming out of a long siege of it, and was reduced to 115 pounds; weak, short of breath, chills, fever, and badly demoralized generally, coughing from half an hour to an hour every night.

Since commencing, from the third night, I have not lost ten minutes' sleep all night, cough gone, gained seventeen pounds, chills gone, fever gone, shortness of breath and difficulty of breathing gone, consequently I feel a thousand per cent. better. I thank God every day that I ever saw your advertisement, and that I was induced to write to you.

This is peculiarly encouraging in my case, as I had suffered so long and was so discouraged about my case, having tried everything. I am telling the good news every day.

Push on the good work; you are on the right track.

Yours Very Gratefully,
R. McDOUGALL.

Sold by ROBINS & McCORD.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The undersigned, having been restored to health by simple means, after suffering for several years with a severe lung affection, and that dread disease, CONSUMPTION, is anxious to make known to his fellow-sufferers the means of cure. To those who desire it he will cheerfully send, free of charge, a copy of the prescription used, which they will find a sure cure for CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, CATARRH, BRONCHITIS, and all Throat and Lung Maladies. He hopes all sufferers will try this Remedy, as it is invaluable. Those desiring the prescription, which will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing, will please address, REV. EDWARD A. WILSON, Williamsburg, Kings County, New York. 1y.

NO MORE OF THIS!

Rubber Shoes unless worn uncomfortably tight, will often slip off the feet. To remedy this evil the

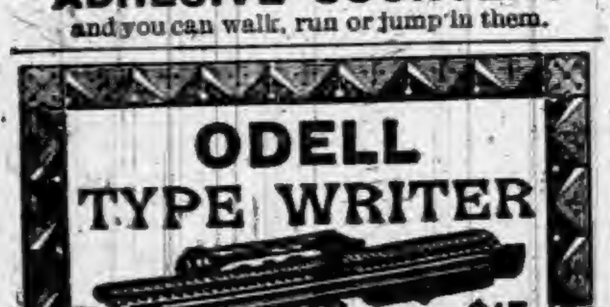
"COLCHESTER" RUBBER CO.

offer a shoe with the inside of the heel lined with rubber. This clings to the shoe and prevents the Rubber from slipping off.

Call for the "Colchester"

"ADHESIVE COUNTERS"

and you can walk, run or jump in them.



ODELL TYPE WRITER

ONLY $15.

IN 3 DAYS YOU CAN WRITE FASTER THAN WITH A PEN.

CLEAN, PERFECT WORK. Manifolds 14 Copies, METAL TYPE.

IT IS FOR EVERYBODY.

Only 35 parts; high-priced machines have $20. Shows simplicity and durability.

YOU WANT ONE.

STANDARD CYCLE CO., Buffalo, N. Y.

I CURE FITS!

When I say CURE I do not mean merely to stop them for a time, and then have them return again. I MEAN A RADICAL CURE. I have made the disease of

FITS, EPILEPSY or FALLING SICKNESS,

A life-long study. I WARRANT my remedy to CURE the worst cases. Because others have failed is no reason for not now receiving a cure. Send at once for a treatise and a FREE BOTTLE of my INFALLIBLE REMEDY. Give Express and Post Office. It costs you nothing for a trial, and it will cure you. Address

H. G. ROOT, M.C., 183 PEARL ST., NEW YORK

REMEMBER KLINCK IS THE NAME OF THAT

Wonderful Remedy

That Cures Catarrh, Hay-Fever, Cold in the Head, Sore Throat, Canker, and Bronchitis.

The testimonials to these FACTS are NUMEROUS and STRONG, similar to the following:

From the Hon. Harvey D. Colvin, Ex-Mayor of Chicago:

CHICAGO, July 24, 1890.

S. H. KLINCK—DEAR SIR: I am pleased to say that I consider your remedy the best medicine in existence, for the human afflictions you claim to cure. I suffered from catarrh with bronchitis for many years. During that time I employed physicians and faithfully tried many so-called remedies advertised to cure this disease, without any material benefit, when a friend induced me to try your remedy, claiming others had been cured by it. The first bottle gave me the most pleasing results. I have continued its use and I can not say too much for it. It found me too near the grave for comfort and restored me to health again. It adorns my toilet stand and by using it occasionally I am kept well.

I would not be without it if it cost $25 per bottle. I earnestly recommend it to all my afflicted friends.

For Sale by leading Druggists.

PINT BOTTLES • • $1.00

Klinck Catarrh & Bronchial Remedy Co., 82 JACKSON ST., CHICAGO, ILL.

THE MAIDEN'S SONG.

Dash—drip—splash—the laughing waters run,
Giving furtive tweaks to the willow's hair,
Kissing the modest bluebells on the bank,
And tripping thoughtless troubles unaware.
The mock-bird tries his best to catch the sound,
That he may weave from it a soothing lay;
But jealous breezes singing long and loud,
To fairy caverns bear the notes away.

The bay tree whispers secrets to the oak,
Filling the air with incense from his breath;
This, too, the crafty zephyrs grasp and hold—
Embalming perfume, keeping nymphs from death.
Ten! Eleven! Twelve! Peals the midday chime;
The summer sun smiles down with cheering ray;
The cows, in quiet grazing, raise their heads;
Across the field the romping horses neigh.

Upon a rustic bench, half ivy-grown,
Forgetful of the time, or place, or scene,
Reclines a vision of such loveliness
The elves might claim her as a sylvan queen.
The birds all warble when she lifts her eyes;
The waters lave her tiny finger tips;
The witching breezes, fanning her to sleep,
Breathe their sweet music on her dainty lips.

—Hearth and Hall.

CHUB.

A Romance of West Virginia.

BY DAVID LOWRY.

CHAPTER XVII.

IN THE COUNTERFEITERS' CURIOUS CABIN.

As he spoke, Hank Dawson darted forward and caught the man's arms firmly in his great hands.

"Don't! Don't! You'll break my bones," said the man as he writhed.

"I don't care if I do."

Hank lifted the man up on his feet by sheer main strength.

"There now. What does this mean, Chub?"

"You can see for yourself, dad."

Hank, still grasping the man's wrists, glanced at the man lying on the ground.

"Why, if it ain't Bash—or the man as calls himself Bash."

"I reckon he's hurt pretty bad."

Chub bent over Mr. Bash and assisted him to a sitting posture. Bash sat up, looked around like a man just aroused from slumber, and looked inquiringly at Hank Dawson.

By this time half a dozen of the men and boys who had followed Hank Dawson approached the spot, with wonder depicted on their countenances.

"What is it?"

Mr. Bash felt his head, then rose to his feet.

"Why, don't you know?" said Hank Dawson.

"It's not strange if he doesn't, dad," said Chub.

"'Pears as if he doesn't know where he is yet," said Dawson.

"This fellow," said Chub, pointing to the man she held at bay—"this Dick Treddle can tell you. If he doesn't, I'll tell."

Dick looked sullenly on the ground as Hank whipped a handkerchief out of his pocket and bound his hands behind him quickly.

"Mr. Bash and me were standing here, or just over there. We didn't suspect there was any one near us. I was telling Mr. Bash this would be a good place to make a corner where no one would find one, when I heard a shot. The coward meant for Bash—but he missed. I wheeled, saw a whiff of smoke and tried to make out who was there. It took some time, then, seeing the vines move in there, I fired.

"There wasn't a sound. I walked around right here in front of this round-topped rock, and Mr. Bash walked around the other way. Just as I got here there was another shot, and I hurried and found Mr. Bash lying on the ground, with Treddle there standing over him.

"I had my rifle on him in an instant. I kept it on him and called, and he swore awful—you heard him, I reckon, Dad?"

"Yes, I heard him."

Hank Dawson looked as though his hearing was as keen as his desire to mete out punishment to Treddle. He turned on him abruptly.

"Where's the other fellow?"

"What fellow?"

There must be two of you."

"There just ain't, then."

"No use lying, Dick Treddle."

"I ain't lying."

"You are here alone. What are you doing?"

"Find out, Hank Dawson."

"I will."

Hank and Bash, who was none the worse for the blow that stunned him—Treddle had clipped his hair with his bullet, then struck him with the butt of his gun as he fell, rendering Bash wholly unconscious for the time—immediately approached the cabin formed between the rocks, while the others stood near them.

"Hello!"

Bash's exclamation was natural.

There, just beside the entrance to the cabin, were articles with which Mr. Bash was familiar. Numerous dies, bright drops of metal sparkling on the ground, various tools were lying near.

While Bash was examining these, directing Hank Dawson's attention to them, Chub darted past them into the rear of the cabin.

The rear of the cabin was dark. But Chub was fearless.

Besides, she was firmly convinced that her affianced was near by. Something in her heart told her he was near. She was in a flush of excitement as she peered about in the back part of the cabin.

While her father and the detective were talking, pointing out this and that tool, they heard a quick, low exclamation from the rear of the cabin.

"It's Chub—she's found something."

Hank was going back when Bash said, "Well, let's strike a light."

His action was suited to the word. A light was struck, and Hank Dawson and the detective walked back to the rear of the cabin or hut.

There they beheld another opening, leading still farther back between the two rocks, through which Chub had disappeared.

"Where in the name of all that's wonderful has she gone?" demanded Hank Dawson.

"Here! let's get a better light," said the detective.

He looked about him, and at last found a lamp, which he lit. Meanwhile they could hear Chub talking to some one.

"She's found him! She's found him, Bash!" exclaimed Hank.

"There's some one. I hope it is Dan Bash."

They walked back, where Chub pressed in the darkness.

But Chub had an infallible guide—the voice of her lover.

Yes, it was indeed the voice of the missing bridegroom Chub heard as she stood in the back part of the rude hut. It was like a moan, but to Chub's acute ear it sounded like "Belle"—the name her lover called her. It was then that Chub darted back through a door she had not noticed till that low sound fell upon her eager ear.

She felt her way cautiously but quickly as she hastened to the back room, and there, reaching out a hand, guided only by a pencil of light that stole in from the rear, she felt around until her hand touched a rough ladder.

Passing both hands over this to assure herself her surmise was correct, she heard a second time that sound. It was then she exclaimed: "Oh! Dan! I'm here—coming—coming."

This was the sound that brought her father and the detective to the rear, to the ladder, down which Chub had swiftly descended.

As Hank Dawson reached the ladder he called: "Where are you, Chub?"

"Here, dad! Oh! quick—quick. Help me to get him out of here!"

"I told ye," said Hank Dawson, nodding to the detective.

He descended the ladder immediately. Bash held the lamp overhead.

"My God! It's Bash, sure enough!" the detective heard Hank say, as he held the lamp.

"Can I help you down there?"

"I reckon you can."

"No, no," said Chub, vehemently. "I'll help lift him, dad. I'll go first, holding his head."

The detective could hear a strong voice answer:

"There's no need. If you'll unbind my feet and my arms, I can manage after awhile to get up myself."

As Hank reached up the ladder for the lamp, the detective descended.

Together the three looked at Dan Bash as he struggled into a sitting posture after he was unbound.

His captors had tied his ankles firmly together, and then had tied his arms. He was lying on his side in a very painful position, when Chub found him there in the dark.

"Don't—don't touch that arm, please," he said to Hank.

"Sore?"

"It's broken."

"Broke, Dan!"

Poor Chub's tears rose unbidden. They overflowed in spite of her.

"Yes—broke in two places, I'm afraid."

He sat upright, moved his feet, and looked at them.

"Just wait until the blood circulates."

"Here! I reckon I'll help it on a mite."

Hank uncorked his pocket-flask, and, pouring out a stiff drink in the cup of the cover, handed it to him.

Dan Bash gulped it down eagerly.

"That ought to help some," said Hank.

"It does. I feel it now."

"What kind of a hole is this, anyhow?" said Hank, looking around him.

"Seems like a hole in the ground."

"That's just what it is," said the detective. "See! Here is the face of a rock. They've found a large cavity here by accident—dug a little more earth out, shaped it into this queer shape, and used it for the Lord only knows what. See! Why, there wasn't much work to be done. Here's a rock on this side and a rock on this side. We're between two rocks with straight sides, or faces."

"That's so," said Hank, examining the place curiously.

"If there were vines here it would be the place I dreamed about," said Chub.

"You dreamed I was lying here?" said the lover, quickly.

"Yes—but there was room for the sun to shine down on you."

"So there is—or ought to be. They've covered me up—kept the daylight out," said Dan, sadly.

"Feel like movin' yet?" Hank asked in a sympathizing tone.

Dan made an effort, and succeeded in mounting the ladder with the help of Hank Dawson's strong hands. He moved with difficulty. He was weak—faint with hunger and pain.

"Is that daylight out there?"

"Yes, Dan," said Chub, as she held his sound arm, and walked to the door of the cabin, followed by her father and the detective.

"Thank God!" said Dan, as he put his hands up over his eyes, which were blinded by the sudden light.

The crowd gathered near the rude hut cheered the moment they beheld him.

"It's him—Dan Bash! Hurrah!"

The cheers that were sent up from Baldy echoed from the mountain side to the road far below.

They were caught up by the searchers below and echoed again across the other mountain slope, until the sound of rejoicing was heard full five miles over the mountains.

Everybody within sound of the voices that cheered until their voices grew hoarse knew the missing bridegroom was found.

CHAPTER XVIII.

DAN BASH'S AWFUL EXPERIENCE.

"That was a mighty close call," said Hank Dawson, as he viewed the man all Pine County was interested in now.

"You look mighty bad."

"Had nothing to eat?" the detective asked.

"Once only."

"Well, this won't hurt ye a mite," said Hank, handing Dan a piece of bread and a biscuit made by Chub. He also gave him a piece of cold meat.

"That's Chub's biscuit, Dan."

Dan only smiled and whispered something to Chub that nobody could hear.

"Think you can sit on a horse, Dan? I don't see no other way to get you out of this lonesome hole. It's about the orneriest place I ever set eyes on. I didn't think there was such a mean piece of ground in the State as this is."

"I think I'll manage." But it was taxing his strength. The detective was compelled to walk on one side of him, while Hank Dawson walked on the other. And that was the way Dan Bash was brought out of the heart of Baldy.

After he was out on smooth ground the detective returned to the cabin, to collect all that could be found there that would be serviceable in the proceedings he foresaw they would necessarily figure in.

He had willing hands to help him. While Chub and her father were making their way home with Dan Bash carefully, the detective was engaged with three or four assistants in carrying off all the tools and material that were found in the cabin the counterfeiters had concealed themselves in for so many years.

That the place had been occupied for years was evident to all who were present.

I will leave the counterfeiters' tools and their caretakers, and Treddle, the captive, in the hands of the detective, and follow Chub and her lover as they journey home.

As Dan regained confidence and strength he sat up like his old self on the saddle—he was an elegant figure on a horse, was Dan Bash—and looked at Chub gratefully.

"Belle—do you know I owe my life to you."

"Why do you think so?" Chub asked, as she blushed.

"Those murderers intended either to murder me or to starve me to death.

Chub shuddered.

"Tell me all about it," said Chub.

"Yes," said Hank Dawson, who was within ear-shot; "I'm just achin' to know all about this strange business. I'll bet it'll make a big stir all over the country—this stirrin' up of a gang such as the Monks."

"Yes—I've been of some use in my way," said Dan, smiling.

"I've sent for a doctor to meet us by the time you get home—you'll need more than one, may be, before that arm's fixed. But tell us how you fell into the hands of that tarnal mean, murdering crowd."

"It's a short story. You know how much reason I had to be on the lookout for the gang."

"I do indeed, Dan," said Chub. "I thought you would surely keep a sharp lookout."

"I did. When I got ready to go to your house, instead of riding on the road, I cut off on a by-path and kept on the mountain side, where I thought I would have an opportunity to see any one who might be concealed. You know they swore there would never be any wedding."

"Yes, I know," said Chub, in a low tone.

"Well, I was riding along all right, when the strangest thing happened. A tree fell right across the path I was on. It would have pinned me to the earth had I not sprung quickly off my horse. As it was, a limb torn off in the crash—a big limb—struck my arm, knocking me to the ground and breaking my arm. It was almost the size of a tree. The manner in which I fell prevented me from twisting from under it, and it settled down on me, pressing me flat against the ground."

"Oh! That was dreadful," said Chub.

"The body of the tree struck the horse's flank. He bounded, but was caught among the branches. He made tremendous struggles. I could see him flounder, but he probably was not severely injured; but the broken, jagged branches doubtless hurt him. One small broken branch cut my head—you can see the mark."

He held up his hand.

"That explains where the blood came from," said Chub.

"What blood?"

"Your horse came galloping up to our fence long after the time you should have been there. I saw blood on the saddle—and marks on your horse."

"You must have been frightened greatly."

"It was terrible, Dan—terrible."

"It has been terrible for both of us."

"Yes, but you, you have suffered a thousand fold more than I have. But you have not told us all."

"No. Well, I lay there, held to the ground by the big broken limb, until I thought I would die. I tried to free myself. I tried to move away from under it—to slip out from under it—but every time I moved, it seemed to settle heavier upon me."

"That was enough to drive you crazy."

"I thought of you—or it might have. Then I tried to get a hand in my pocket for my knife. I thought if I could get it out, it would be possible to dig a hole in the ground large enough to let me work out from under the limb that way."

"That was awful."

"I did not know then—nor until they found me—that the limb was not broken clean off the tree. A great big sliver—a tremendous splinter—and the bark held it to the main trunk, and it settled down just as the wind shook it, or I moved under it."

"Could anything be more horrible than that," said Chub.

"I can't imagine it," said Hank Dawson. "It beats all I ever heard of."

"I got my knife out at last. I worked at the ground near my side. But it was so slow, oh, such slow work."

"Poor Dan—it was enough to turn your mind."

"I believe I might have freed myself in time, but just as it began to look as if I would be able to free myself, a loud 'hello' attracted my attention. I answered. Think how long I had been lying there!"

"How long were you under the branch, Dan?" Chub asked, fearfully.

"Until some time last night, or early this morning."

Chub uttered a cry of terror.

"What! All that time!"

"All that time—it seemed ages—ages to me!"

Hank Dawson turned to look at him.

"Out all that time! Under a big limb—pinned under a limb to the ground! I wouldn't believe any one could stand it! And with a broken arm!"

"We will nurse you into good spirits again," said Chub, in a low tone.

"I am in as good spirits now as I ever will be, Belle," said Dan Bash.

Then Chub had to tell him her dream.

As he listened, Dan Bash looked very grave.

"It's a strange story, Belle. The dream is very near the truth. See how I was held under the big limb. I was covered with the branches. I could not move—could only turn and look up through the leaves. Then, when they took me from the branch, they put me in that hole you found me in. And that, too, was like your dream. A crevice in the earth—just roofed in a little with earth and stones—and no way to work out—rocks on each side. It was very much like your dream!"

"Well, we're back to plain facts now," said Hank Dawson; "and the plain facts is, we've got the hull Monk gang by the neck and heels, and if we don't pitch them into the penitentiary, why—it won't be my fault."

"They deserve to be put there for what they've done to you," said Chub.

"Yes," said her father, in a low tone; "and with the witnesses we've got agin them we'll make 'em wish they'd never seed Dan Bash. We'll make 'em swear they'd run ten mile just to get around his shadow."

And Hank Dawson shook his head. He meant it. He was in dead earnest.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

Big War Ships.

Up to the recent launching of the British battle ship Royal Sovereign, the Italians had possessed the largest war ships, the Italia and her mates, each being credited with a displacement of 13,900 gross tons. The latest addition to the British line has a displacement estimated at 14,150 tons, thus slightly outweighing the rival craft. A radical difference exists, however, in the theory of construction, the British ship having a protective belt of armor, with steel face and iron back on the compound system, the same with a maximum thickness of eighteen inches, while the big craft of the Italian fleet have not any outside protection. At the first blush it would appear that, in point of endurance, the odds would be largely with the British ship, but first-class naval authorities are not by any means agreed that side armor is efficacious, for since even the six-inch rifle at short range can pierce the heaviest armor that can be floated, there is a likelihood that shells will break through and explode, unshipping the guns and demoralizing the crew, while in the case of unprotected sides it is likely to cut its way clear through the ship and explode harmlessly in the water.

Servantgalism.

A lady who keeps a highly respectable boarding house caught the recently hired chambermaid kissing one of the boarders, so she told the servant that would never do.

"I saw you kissing one of the boarders on the stairs. I don't want to see that again," said the indignant landlady.

"Well, mum, nobody can compil ye to kape yer eyes open if ye don't want to," was the reply.

JAPAN is a great country for poor people. The most expensive form of cremation only costs seven dollars.

HUMOR.

Arranging for a Speedy Trip.

Lecturer (to hackman)—Now you're sure your horses are in good condition?

Hackman—Oh, yes, sir! Trust me for that.

"It's only proper for you to know that when I get through my lecture I like to leave the hall in a hurry."

"What time shall I expect you, sir?"

"Um; ah—well—that will depend a good deal on the audience."—Texas Siftings.

Yankee Ingenuity.

Spindle—Why do you put such horribly perfumed stuff on your hair? It's enough to knock any one over.

Brindle—To keep from catching cold.

"Huh! What good does that stuff do?"

"It has become the style now for gentlemen to remove their hats in all sorts of draughty places when there happen to be ladies present; but when I take off mine they always beg me to put it on again, so as not to take cold."

"Hum! How much is it a bottle?"—Street & Smith's Good News.

Double Weight.

Bulfinch—I asked for a pound of dried apples.

Grocer—I know it.

Bulfinch—Well, I don't believe there's a quarter of a pound here.

Grocer—You don't seem to understand about dried apples. When you come to put those in the water you will find I have given you double weight.

Retribution.

Plumber—You're one of those chaps that are always writing smart things about the size of plumbers' bills, ain't you?

Squibbler—Why, I——

Plumber—I thought so. The bill for this job, sir, will be $324.65.

Will Be Decided Later.

Mr. Macsuitor (to the fair one's sister)—"And how old are you, Flossie?"

Flossie—"Oh, that hasn't been decided yet."

"Not decided yet?"

"No; ma says it'll be time enough when Kate has landed you."—Wave.

Too Inquisitive.

Wife—"Such a dream as I had last night, dear!"

Husband—"May I hear about it?"

"Well—yes. I dreamed that I was in a great establishment where they sold husbands. There were beauties—some in glass cases and marked at fearful prices, and others were sold at less figures. Girls were paying out fortunes and getting the handsomest men I ever saw. It was wonderful."

"Did you see any like me there, dear?"

"Yes. Just as I was leaving I saw a whole lot like you, lying on the remnant counter."—Pittsburg Bulletin.

That's Different.

Irene (taking a walk with her friend)—Laura, look! Who is that handsome gentleman on the other side of the street?

Miss Kajones (looking straight ahead)—I wouldn't turn my head on the street to see the handsomest gentleman that ever drew breath. You ought to have more dignity. (A minute or two later, having met and passed an acquaintance)—Doesn't Mollie Glizzard's cloak fit horribly in the back?

He Would Have Watered It.

"That ain't Jay Gould," said a rawboned Kentuckian the other day as he saw the magnate through the car window at a small station siding.

"'Tis, too," contended his wife.

"'Tain't nuther, I tell you," persisted the man, "caze I seen him take a drink of straight liquor."

"What's that got to do with it?" argued the woman.

"Everything. Ef't ed been Jay Gould, he'd a put water in it, shore. I've read all about the kind of a man Jay Gould is." And he strutted up and down the platform like a rooster in a stable lot.—Indianapolis Journal.

She Wasn't Particular.

An old lady in Belleville was dying of a lingering illness, and her pastor called upon her to administer religious consolation. After some general conversation the minister brought forth his Bible, and, suggesting that she might feel consoled by hearing a chapter read, asked her what part she would prefer.

"Well. I don't much care," was the reply, "but that story about Samson setting fire to the foxes' tails is about as funny as any."—Albany Argus.

Unfashionable Canines.

Mrs. De Style—Have you any fashionable dogs?

Honest dealer—I am sorry to say I sold the last about an hour ago.

Mrs. De Style—You appear to have hundreds of beautiful dogs of all sorts and kinds left. Are none of them fashionable?

Dealer—No, madam. All of these are good for something.—Street & Smith's Good News.

A Problem in Addition.

Miss Ambrosia Passee (gigglingly)—Do you know I reached my birthday to-day? Well, now, how old do you think I am?

Mr. Dillidally (gallantly)—Seventeen and a bit.

Mr. Sillibilly—About twenty-three.

Miss A. Passee—And, Mr. Haysede, what do you think?

Mr. Haysede—Wal, takin' it all t'gether I guess the gentlemen is right.

Did Not Know It Revolved.

Mrs. Hayseed—Say, Joshua, what's that light out there?

Farmer Hayseed (at Boston)—That's the Boston light.

Mrs. Hayseed—Wall, those sailors must be purty patient. I've seed it go out more'n twenty times, and they light up agin ev'ry time.

Lanced the Doctor.

Crump—Doctor, I thought you gentlemen of pills and powders had given up the practice of bleeding patients.

Dr. Senna—So we have.

Crump—I thought there must be some mistake in your bill. Of course you will correct it.

Force of Habit.

Embarrassed young man (to father of his adored)—I have come, Mr. Greement, to ask you for the hand of Miss Amy.

Mr. Greement (proprietor of collection agency)—I have no objection, George. I think it will be all right. (Absent-mindedly)—You are prepared, of course, to make the regular cash deposit of $25?

Which She Is Pretty Certain to Do.

When a woman wills, she will, and when she says she won't, she won't—unless she changes her mind.—Sommerville Journal.

PLEASURE BOATS —AND— CANOES.

Oars, rowlocks, paddles, masts, spars, sails, blocks, cleats, anchors, etc., etc., etc.

$30 A BOAT FOR —TO— $300

THE PLEASURE BOATS OF AMERICA!

DON'T BUY ELSEWHERE until you see my catalogue for 1891; send 5 cent stamp for it.

J. H. RUSHTON, Canton, N. Y.

N. Y. CITY SALESROOM,

H. C. SQUIRES, 178 BROADWAY.

The greatest improvement in Corsets during the past twenty years is the use of Coraline in the place of horn or whalebone. It is used in all of Dr. Warner's Corsets and in no others.

The advantages of Coraline over horn or whalebone are that it does not become set like whalebone, and it is more flexible and more durable.

Dr. Warner's Coraline Corsets are made in twenty-four different styles, fitting every variety of figures—thin, medium, stout, long waists and short waists.

Sold everywhere.

WARNER BROS., Mfrs., New York and Chicago.

Jackson Favorite Waist HAS STYLE SUPPORTS BACK AND SPINE. GIVES COMFORT AND EASE.

Adjustable shoulder straps, soft button fronts or ordinary clasps.

HYGIENIC, HEALTHFUL, BOON TO WOMEN.

FOR SALE BY ALL DEALERS, OR SENT POST PAID FOR $1.10

State size and if white or drab is desired. ALWAYS ADDRESS THE

Coronet Corset Co., JACKSON, MICH.

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

The only line running through solid Vestibuled Trains between Chicago and Philadelphia via Washington and Baltimore.

Time Card in Effect Jan. 25, 1891.

Stations— WEST-BOUND.
		pm	am	am
Sandusky.........lv	......	......	7 30	......	......
Wheeling..........	am *7 50	10 45	......	11 35	pm †4 30
Zanesville........	9 58	am 12 53		pm 1 50	7 12
Newark............	pm 10 40	1 37	......	2 45	8 02
Columbus.......ar	1 30	2 50	......	4 00	9 30
Columbus.......lv	am 7 20	pm 11 35	......	am 11 25	pm ‡6 50
Mansfield..........	pm 12 29	am 3 25	......	pm 5 19	10 25
Deshler............	3 10	5 53	10 50	10 25	am 1 42
Defiance...........	3 57	6 30	11 47	11 40	2 34
Auburn jc..........	4 58	7 28	pm 1 07	am 1 02	3 28
Avilla.............	......	......	......	......	......
Milford jc.........	......	......	......	......	......
Wellsboro..........	......	......	......	......	......
Chicago........ar	pm 9 30	11 40	6 40	6 50	8 25

Stations— EAST-BOUND.
Chicago.........lv	am *10 10	pm *2 55	am †7 10	pm *10 40	pm *6 25
Wellsboro..........	......	......	......	......	......
Milford jc.........	......	......	......	......	......
Avilla.............	......	......	......	......	......
Auburn jc..........	......	7 10	pm 12 43	am 3 06	10 46
Defiance...........	pm 3 00	8 00	2 12	4 26	11 40
Mansfield..........	6 14	11 20	4 56	9 42	am ‡3 06
Columbus.......lv	*6 50	am 11 35	......	pm 11 22	......
Newark............	8 07	1 00	7 05	12 40	4 50
Zanesville........	8 47	1 44	......	1 30	5 32
Wheeling.......ar	am 12 55	5 40	......	6 10	10 20
Pittsburgh.....ar	......	6 25	......	9 00	pm 6 00
Washington....ar	11 50	pm 5 00	......	am 7 10	......
Baltimore......ar	pm 12 45	5 45	......	8 30	......
Philadelphia...ar	3 22	8 10	......	11 10	......
New York.......ar	5 52	10 40	......	pm 1 40	......

*Trains run daily. †Daily except Sunday. ‡ Daily except Monday.

Sleeping and Dining Cars on all through trains. For further information call on B. & O. Ticket Agent or address L. S. ALLEN, Ass't Gen'l Pass Agent, Chicago., Ill. City Office Auburn, Ind.

C. O. SCULL, Gen'l Passenger Agent, Baltimore, Md.

J. T. ODELL, Gen. Manager Baltimore, Md.

EDW. DICKINSON, Gen. Sup't.

TIME TABLE

THE WABASH LINE

TRAINS CARRYING PASSENGERS LEAVE

AUBURN, INDIANA.

GOING EAST.

Atlantic Express........................2:38 am—Daily
Boston Express..........................5:45 am—Daily
Detroit Accom...........................2:30 pm—Ex Sun
New York Lim............................8:04 pm—Daily

GOING WEST.

Pacific Express.........................1:32 am..Daily
Logansport Accom........................7:55 am—Daily
Mail & Express..........................12:38 pm—Ex Sun
Chicago & St. Louis Lim.................5:12 pm—Daily
St. Louis...............................7:38 pm—Daily

No. 53 will only stop for Chicago passengers.

For rates, Tickets, Time Table, etc., apply to I. M. ZENT, Agent, Auburn, Ind.

T. H. SPROTT, City Ticket Agent.

CHAS. M. HAYS, Gen'l Mannager.

F. CHANDLER, Gen'l Pass and Ticket Agent

BOURKE'S HOUSEHOLD • SPECIALTIES •

COMBINATION BRUSH, MOP AND SPONGE HOLDER CARPET STRETCHER and GARDEN RAKE.

Nonpareil Window Cleaner, A MARVEL.

Galvanized iron, rubber adjustable to expose new surface as it wears, no glue or cement, lasts a life-time and more efficient than any cleaner made.

Sash Lock and FASTENER: Most Durable, Most Compact, Most Perfect

BURGLAR PROOF FASTENER MADE.

Bourke Mfg. Co., Youngstown, O.

WANTED experienced and efficient agents to sell line of desirable household articles. Terms liberal, agents make money selling them. Samples furnished prepaid: Holder, 15c., cleaner, 10-inch 15c.; Fasteners, bronze 5c., nickel, 7c. BOURKE MFG. CO., Youngstown, O.

MOST POPULAR BUGGY ON WHEELS

SINGLE CENTER SPRING.

POINTS

Body always level.
Load distributed at five points on rear axle.
Gear, best grade steel throughout.
Spring, long and elastic, makes easiest riding wagon made.
Runs easy because it always tracks.
30 pounds lighter than a side bar.
Superior first-class wagon.
Made of choicest materials.
Spring and Gear guaranteed two years.

Vehicles of every style made on this Spring.

CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION. AGENTS WANTED.

"BUSINESS MEN'S COMPANION."

Defies Competition for Rough Roads. SINGLE CENTER SPRING CO., EVANSVILLE, INDIANA.

For WEAK AND DEBILITATED MEN.

A NEW DISCOVERY! —BY— DR. ALBERT. TESTICURA EXTERNOSUM

AFTER years of experience in the leading Hospitals of the World, and as a Private Specialist in the treatment of Sexual Weakness, DR. ALBERT has finally been induced to place before the afflicted at a nominal expense, this

WONDERFUL REMEDY!

An Outward Application

TESTICURA EXTERNOSUM For the Cure of Seminal Weakness, Impotency, Nocturnal Emissions, Varicocele, and Lack of Development.

Cure by Absorption.

TESTICURA EXTERNOSUM Applied direct to the parts. No Nauseous Drugs that Ruin the Stomach. Guaranteed Cure, or Money Refunded.

No Nauseous Drugs.

A PERFECT RESTORATION GUARANTEED.

Sent to any part of the U. S., securely packed, free from observation, upon receipt of $2.00.

For full information, address enclosing 4 cents postage,

The ALBERT MEDICAL DISPENSARY, Cleveland, O.

GOING

OUT

OF

BUSINESS!

I am going out of the CLOTHING BUSINESS.

Never in the history of the Clothing trade of this city has there been such a

SLAUGHTERING OF PRICES!

as is now going on here. Our IMMENSE Stock of the newest and most desirable Clothing, Hats and Furnishing Goods, are being sacrificed regardless of cost or value in order to effect an immediate clearance. Buyers should not defer the manifest advantages of an early choice, but should COME AT ONCE.

It will pay you bigger interest than on any money you have ever before expended, to "COME NOW" and supply your present and future wants at our great Closing Out Sale.

O. J. Schwarz,

Two Doors North of Farmers Bank,

Auburn, Ind.

THE

NEW CLOTHING STORE

IS NOW -:READY:- FOR THE

SPRING BUSINESS!

With the largest stock of Men's Wearing Apparel ever shown in Auburn. Men's Spring Suits and Overcoats that are

Equal to Custom Made!

Prince Alberts, Sacks, Cutaways and Frocks, and every other style in all the newest shapes. In

GENTS' FURNISHINGS

HATS, CAPS,

Gloves, Underwear, Etc.,

Our Stock is complete. We also have a nice line of samples to select from for

CUSTOM ORDERED GARMENTS,

which, in point of fit and workmanship cannot be surpassed by any in the country. Do not fail to examine our

NEW STOCK OF STRAW HATS

that are very beautiful. We also carry a nice line of

TRUNKS AND VALISES!

THE BOSTON CLOTHING STORE.

One Price and the Truth.

AUBURN - - IND.

THE AUBURN COURIER

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY.

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post-office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY............JUNE 4, 1891.

FONSECA, president of Brazil is seriously sick.

SIR JOHN A. MCDONALD, premier of Canada, is seriously ill, and may not recover.

SCHOOLS of Bremen, in North Germany, closed on account of a disease of the eyes, brought there from Egypt.

DAVID BUTLER, first governor of Nebraska died last week. He helped to select the site of Lincoln, the present capital.

GREAT plague of caterpillars in Bavaria. Forests are being stripped of leaves. Schools are closed, so the children may help fight the pests.

RATHER queer, isn't it, to see all the republican papers kick at the new law that raises the state levy from 12 to 18 cents, when that was the very thing that they themselves demanded before election.

ENGLAND offers to help United States put a stop to killing seal in Behring Sea, except during a certain season. But it is not stated whether they agree that we have more rights in that sea than other nations. And that is just what started the quarrel.

OUR government proposes to use one of the islands in Behring Sea, for raising reindeer. They think the animals will be valuable as carriers etc., on the mainland of Alaska. Where are the camels the government raised in New Mexico a few years ago? Perhaps this is a similar speculation.

THE American Screw Company, of Providence Rhode Island, has taken steps to move their great factory over to Leeds, England. The reason for this lies in the fact that the raw materials used, are cheaper in that country, as they pay no duty. "Tally one more for McKinley", as the republican papers say.

BLAINE is receiving great praise for a small piece of work. His handling of the Italian question was undoubtedly correct. But to say it that it proved him to be "the greatest statesman of the age" is sheer nonsense. There are half a million of persons in the county, who could, and who would have settled the question just as Blaine did.

THE city of Indianapolis reported 47,000 school children last year. This year taken under better methods it showed only 33,000. For fear this was wrong, they made the city into small districts and put a teacher at work to find the number in each district. And they found it nearly 3,000 less than the regular enumeration.

THE Butler Record still argues, or thinks it argues, that the tariff is not a tax, and also that putting on a tariff does not make the article higher. Many times have we asked to have this explained by the Record, but it has not been done. But he admits sugar is cheaper since the duty was removed. Again we ask: What made the sugar cheaper as soon as the duty was taken off? That ought to settle it.

IT NOW appears that at least part of the complaint republican papers make against the new assessment law, is because it drags in their friends, the monopolists, and makes them give in their property honestly. We believe that when the new law is fairly at work, and honestly enforced, it will result in making the taxes of the common people lower, because it will force wealthy persons and corporations to return their property more honestly to the assessor.

DeKalb Co. S. S. at St. Joe.

This will be June 9 and 10, and everyone who ever went to St. Joe, on an occasion like this knows it will be a grand success. Bring along your Gospel Hymns Combined. It is advised that each Sunday school send a delegate for each 25 members, and also take up a collection to help pay the expense of the county association. They begin at 9:30 a. m., sun time. Among the speakers, are Rev. Geo. Wade Healy, Mrs. Mary Ehlers, and Rev. A. S. Wooton, of Auburn, to whom suitable subjects have been assigned. The other ministers named for work, are M. M. Marshall, of Waterloo, J. J. Fred, Spencerville, A. L. Lamport, Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Jones of Garrett, Mr. Pattee of Sedan, Mr. Stone of Butler, Mr. Harris and Mr. Stanton of St, Joe. Remember the date, or send to M. E. Olds, sec., St. Joe for program.

Smoking Tobacco.

Kessler Brothers wish to inform their customers and friends, that they now have a full stock of smoking tobacco, which they will from this time forth keep on hand. Don't forget the place, Kessler Bothers' fine room, in the Beuret Building on north Main St.

Town Lots for Sale.

Very desirable residence lots for sale at reasonable terms. Thirteen lots in the S. W. Ralston Addition south of the High school grounds. Also a fractional lot on West Seventh street, All in a good locality. Inquire of Mrs. S. W. Ralston or A. J. Ralston.

Please Call and Settle.

Frank Hoff respectfully asks all who owe him on account, to call and settle as soon as they can, as the fire compelled him to buy new goods, and to put up an expensive new building, and he will need every cent coming to him.

Commissioners' Court.

The board met early Monday, for all are workers, and at once plunged into business. They have done a good deal of ditch work, issued a lot of liquor licenses, allowed the usual number of bills, and have got a lot of other work under way. The county business for the year has been got in shape, and we believe will show that the county has run a little behind. This was expected, when we found they had to build ten new bridges at a total expense of nearly $18,000. Five were iron with stone abutments. Next year, but little need be done in this line, and there will be no election expenses. They appointed a county assessor, which we note elsewhere. The ditch notices and other matters were not in shape so we could get them this week. Yesterday there was quite a time about the children sent to the orphan's home at South Bend, Mrs. Studebaker and other ladies from there were here looking up the matter.

The New County Assessor.

A great deal of interest and something of a struggle was called out by the necessity of appointing a county assessor this week, to serve till the next election. The choice at last fell on Sylvester Kutzner, of this township, a man against whom no one can justly say a word. He brings to his new duties, experience, good judgment and good education, such qualities as will, we believe fit him for the work he has to do. The commissioners, we believe, have finished this unwelcome part of their work, as nearly to the satisfaction of all concerned, as it was possible for them to do. We believe the people, too, will be suited. The gentlemen, who were applicants for the place,—Mr. Dancer, Mr. McAnally, Mr. McMorgan and Mr. Baker, are all good men, and will, we believe acquiesce gracefully in the result. The selection was made so late we can give no extended account, and presume a simple statement of who gets it, will be all that is cared for.

Court.

Work is going on at a lively rate although the cases are the kind that take time. The case of Caroline Cool vs Beugnot, damage, goes to Whitley county. Dianna Ammon vs Peter Shaffer, damages went in favor of defendant. There were quite a number of judgments obtained for money due on notes, mortgages, etc., which we suppose the public does not care much for. The case of Walker vs Warren Webster for damages was being argued before the jury yesterday when our paper closed. At last accounts the jury was out on this case.

Shaffer & Berg.

If you want a good farm wagon call on this reliable firm in Auburn. Everything is made on honor, and only of the best material. Everyone who has used their wagons knows this and will testify to the excellent quality of their work. They have now twenty-four of these fine wagons all completed and ready to deliver, so you can be suited and get your wagon at once, without waiting. Their prices are reasonable. Custom work a specialty. Repairing done neatly and promptly. Call on them on South Main Street, Auburn.

A Good Business Chance.

We wish to secure a representative in Auburn, Ind., for our new No. 9 High-Arm Sewing Machine, and would like to hear from anyone who desires to secure a profitable occupation or a valuable adjunct to an already established business. To a responsible party, or one who can give good security, we are prepared to make liberal terms of credit. No previous experience in sewing machines is necessary, as we spend time and money in assisting our dealers to learn the business. The world is fast learning that the new "No. 9" is the only perfect sewing machine ever made. Address WHEELER & WILSON Mfg. Co., Chica go, Ill.

A Delicious Drink.

Persian Sherbet, Ginger Ale and Root Beer.

Directions to make—Disolve one package of any of the above extracts, and one pound of sugar in a gallon of water. This makes a delightful drink that is healthy, invigorating and refreshing. Wood & Co., of Madison, Ind., are the manufacturers' exclusive agents, and they will send a package of any one of the above extracts by mail, post paid for 35 cents or three for $1.00. The purity of these extracts and their extraordinary medicinal properties for general debility are acknowledged by the medical faculty; just the thing to sell at public gatherings and for confectioners.

Unclaimed Letters.

Unclaimed letters remaining in the postoffice at Auburn Ind., for the week ending May 29, 1891. Miss Lillie Repp, Miss Ida Texter, J Frederick, Adelbert Miles (2), Samuel W. Moore, William Perry.

Claimants will please call for letters in advertised list.

GEO. W. GORDON, P. M.

WATERLOO

Gustav Anderson, G. R. McDonald, Freem Wagner, Bennie Cole.

Business College.

You can secure a good paying position by attending Parson's Business College, and Normal Institute, Kalamazoo, Mich. Short Hand Established twenty-two years, 5,000 of its Students employed in all parts of the United States. Only $5 for the summer term in the Normal Department, which opens July 6. Send for catalogue.

W. F. PARSONS, Pres.

Notice to Farmers.

That a fine Yorkshire boar is now owned by Frank Stamets one-half mile south of Auburn. This hog is white and very fine. Registered No. 94 of the Espyville, Yorkshire Herd. Call at the premises. 21-23

ADDITIONAL LOCAL.

Our Smithfield friend, Jesse Myers, was a caller at the "sanctum" yesterday. He is as sound as ever.

B. C. Zeigler sold the palace meat market to Wetowski & Scott last week, the new firm will keep right up with the procession.

A. C. Wilson, the retiring school trustee, has been a faithful servant for many years, and we presume he thought he had earned a rest.

Farmers have a big meeting in Kutzner's grove, north of this city on Saturday. They always have a big time when they set out in earnest.

The Lutheran church seldom or never had a larger congregation than that that which greeted Mr. Myers last Sunday. He had reason to feel proud.

The D. S. A's of the Presbyterian church will meet at the home of Edna Davis, on Saturday evening. All are invited to be present as important business is to be discussed.

Auburn's Assessment this year looms up in great shape, the total being $1,121,220. Kiblinger heads the list. We could not give the entire list of townships this week as they are not all in.

Richard Shull and wife, were in town Tuesday. They were former Waterloo people, but for a few years have been located in the west. They were here to visit Mrs. Shull's people, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Crane, and Mrs. Charlie Schaab.

J. Wm. Wagner, of Garrett, was over here Tuesday. He informs us he has sold his saloon interests there, to a Mr. Bowerman, who will take charge at once. Mr. Wagner has plenty of other business that suits him better, and will hereafter devote his attention thereto.

W. W. Wyrick and other gentlemen from Angola, passed through here yesterday on their way to St. Joe, where is held yesterday and to-day, the quarterly convention of the N. E. Ind. Christian Missionary Association. It is for the four counties of Noble, Lagrange, Steuben and DeKalb.

We have a copy of the South Bend Daily Tribune containing the baccalaureate sermon delivered for the graduating class in that city, May 24, by Dr. Henry Johnson. It is well worthy of perusal, and reminds one forcibly of Mr. Johnson's strong and eloquent style of presenting his thoughts.

Rev. B. Ruf, of the Reformed church, made a trip to Detroit, this week, we understand to attend some church meeting. He procured tickets of Rickel & Sprott, at their office under the Farmers Bank. Our people are finding it very convenient to get their tickets at the up-town office, as it often saves much trouble.

It's all overtown! Yes, and it has even been wafted on the breeze in the quiet country!! What's all over town, and what is wafted on the rural breeze? Why, the fact that Kessler Bros., are manufacturing the finest line of cigars now on the market. For a clear quiet comfortable eye-opener, see their famous K. & B., and Bill Head brands.

Joe Standecker is getting to be a fine wood carver. We saw specimens of his art this week in the richly carved stairway, in the new part of Mr. Kiblinger's residence. The wood is of old oak and most artistically ornamented on the entire railing and the posts. The work was all done at the Auburn Church Furniture factory, but as we said the carving was done by Mr. Standecker.

Old Settlers' Meeting.

We made an error in the date when speaking of the old settlers' meeting last week. The time fixed by the society is the third Thursday of June each year. This would make the meeting for this year, June 18, or one week from next Thursday. Now let us keep our eye on the day and make arrangements to give the pioneers a good meeting.

Call for Town Orders.

Upon presentation I will pay all outstanding municipal orders up to and including number 1520, date April 19, 1889.

Also all road orders up to and including number 1715, date June 16, 1890. Interest will stop June 4th.

CHAS. H. G. JONES,
Town Treas.

IRA BRANDON,

Dealer in

GROCERIES

AND

PROVISIONS.

A complete line of

STAPLE

AND

FANCY

GROCERIES

Constantly on hand.

Goods are always fresh.

Cash or Trade

FOR

Butter, Eggs, and Lard.

Call and see me.

North Main Street,

Opposite Woolen Mills.

How's Your Liver?

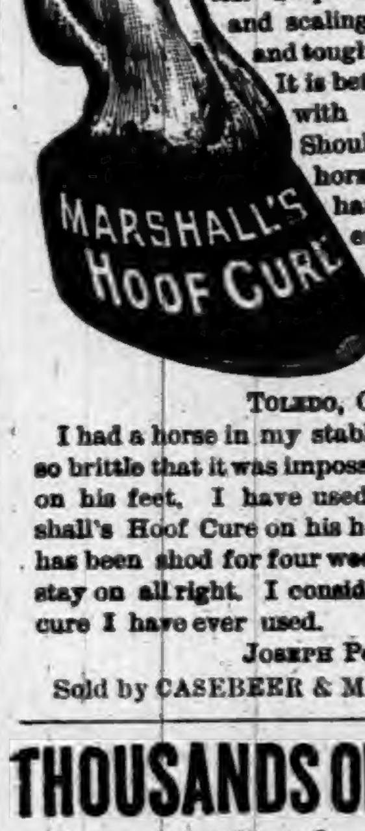
Is the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy Liver. When the Liver is torpid the Bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood; frequent headache ensues; a feeling of lassitude, despondency and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. Simmons Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy Liver than any agency known on earth. It acts with extraordinary power and efficacy.

NEVER BEEN DISAPPOINTED.

As a general family remedy for Dyspepsia, Torpid Liver, Constipation, etc., I hardly ever use anything else, and have never been disappointed in the effect produced; it seems to be almost a perfect cure for all diseases of the Stomach and Bowels.

W. J. McELROY, Macon, Ga.

MARSHALL'S HOOF CURE



cures sand and quarter cracks, split hoofs, sore and contracted feet, corns and all hoof troubles. Stops cracking, shelling and scaling hoofs. Softens and toughens brittle hoofs. It is better than soaking with oil, meal, etc. Should be used on all horses standing on hard floors or driven on hard roads. It also cures scratches, tetter, galls of all kinds, bruises, etc.

TOLEDO, O., April 6, 1891.

I had a horse in my stables that had hoofs so brittle that it was impossible to keep a shoe on his feet, I have used one can of Marshall's Hoof Cure on his hoofs and the horse has been shod for four weeks and the shoes stay on all right. I consider it the best hoof cure I have ever used.

JOSEPH POPP, Liveryman.

Sold by CASEBEER & MATHENY.

THOUSANDS OF WOMEN

Become afflicted and remain so suffering untold miseries from a sense of delicacy they cannot overcome.

BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR,

by stimulating and arousing to healthy action all her organs,

ACTS AS A SPECIFIC.

It causes health to bloom on the cheek, and joy to reign throughout the frame. It never fails to cure.

The Best Medicine ever Made for Women.

"My wife has been under treatment of leading physicians three years, without benefit. After using three bottles of BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR she can do HER OWN COOKING, MILKING AND WASHING.

N. S. BRYAN, Henderson, Ala.

BRADFIELD REGULATOR Co., Atlanta, Ga. Sold by druggists at $1.00 per bottle.

F. E. DAVENPORT,
Auburn, Ind.

McElree's Wine of Cardui

and THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT are for sale by the following merchants in DeKalb Co.:

Robbins & McCord,	Auburn,
F. E. Davenport,	"
J. D. Campbell,	Waterloo,
Willis & Co.,	"
Geo. Kehrer,	Butler,
S. G. Stone,	"
O. P. Reber,	[illegible]
W. M. Mercer,	"
J. M. Lefern,	Garrett,
Patterson Bros.,	St. Joe,
J. W. Wyatt,	Concord.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

By virtue of a certified copy of a d[illegible] directed from the Clerk of the DeK[illegible] circuit court, in a cause wherein Lewis [illegible] administrator of estate of Barbara Ann W[illegible] deceased is plaintiff, and William L. W[illegible] defendant requiring me to make the [illegible] hundred and twenty dollars, with [illegible] said decree and costs. I will expose at [illegible] sale, to the highest bidder, on between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m. and [illegible] o'clock p. m., of said day, at the door of the court house in Auburn DeKalb county Indiana, the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years, of the following real estate, to wit:

Saturday, June 6, 1891,

Commencing at the southeast corner of the northwest quarter of section thirty-four (34), in township thirty-three (33) north, of range fourteen (14) east, thence west forty [illegible] rods, thence north easterly to the northeast corner of said quarter and thence south to the place of beginning, situated in DeKalb County State of Indiana.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said decree, interest and costs, I will at the same time and place expose to public sale the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said decree, interest and costs. Said sale will be made without any relief whatever from valuation or appraisement laws.

PHIL. PLUM,
Sheriff of DeKalb county, Indiana

Auburn, May 11, 1891

DON A. GARWOOD, Att'y for plaintiff

SHERIFF'S SALE.

By virtue of a certified copy of a decree to me directed from the Clerk of the DeKalb circuit court, in a cause wherein Jacob B. Casebeer is plaintiff and Asa John and Hannah John are defendants, requiring me to make the sum of seven hundred twelve dollars and eighteen cents, with interest on said decree and costs, I will expose at Public Sale, to the highest bidder, on Saturday, June 20th, 1891,

between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m., and 4 o'clock p. m., of said day, at the door of the Court House in Auburn, DeKalb county, Indiana, the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years, of the following real estate to-wit:

The southwest quarter of the northwest quarter of section twenty (20) in township thirty-four (34) north, of range fourteen (14) east. Situated in DeKalb county, state of Indiana.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said decree, interest and costs, I will at the same time and place expose to public sale the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said decree, interest and costs. Said sale will be made without any relief whatever from valuation or appraisement laws.

PHIL. PLUM,
Sheriff of DeKalb county, Indiana.

PENFIELD & BLATTNER, Att'ys for Plaintiff.

Auburn, Ind., May 27th, 1891.

Notice to Non-Residents.

State of Indiana, } ss:
DeKalb County. }

In the DeKalb circuit court May term, 1891, James Prosser is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against him in said court, for decree authorizing plaintiff to make a deed, by Louisa A. Prosser, and that the same will be heard and determined on the 55th juridicial day of the present term of said court, which commenced May 1?, 1891.

Witness, The Clerk of said court, this 27th day of May, 1891.

GEO. A. BISHOP, Clerk.

JAMES E. ROSE, Att'y.

WE PAY SALARY

and expenses to LIVE AGENTS men or women. NO DRONES WANTED. Work steady year round and cash weekly. Good pay for part time. FINE OUTFIT FREE. Experience not needed. Send references and stamp at once. J. EUGENE WHITNEY, Rochester, New York.

☞ This firm is perfectly responsible.

ROOT & COMPANY,

FORT WAYNE, - - - - INDIANA.

It Pays To Keep Posted

AS TO

WHAT'S GOING ON IN

OUR ACTIVE STORE.

☞ Samples from any department mailed to you upon application.

BLACK COTTON FABRICS.

Grenadine Styles, Plain, Stripes and Plaids, absolutely fast black.

10c up to 50c.

BLACK SILK LACES,

all widths, Chantilly flouncings Demi flouncings and edges to match.

COINDOT DRAPERY NETS

at 90c, $1, $1.25 per yard.

WASH FABRICS,

in the new and dainty Brandenbergs, Pine Apple Tissues, Shanton Cloths, at 12½c, 15c and 20c.

The printing upon these fabrics is equal to that of the choicest China Silks.

LADIES' SHIRT WAISTS

made of Silk Madras, Flannelettes, Percales, Zephyrs, etc.

PRINTED CHINA SILKS,

in dark and light grounds,

50c, up to 88c.

DO
YOU
NEED
NEW CARPETS,
DRAPERIES,
RUGS,
SHADES?

we will send estimates. Our facilities are greatly increased — our stocks very large.

KID GLOVES

Suede and Glace — 4-button to arm-length to match shades of dress goods.

Evening shades a specialty.

LANSDOWNES,

in Black and Colors at lower prices than can be had anywhere else.

THE NEW YORK STORE.

OUR NEW SUMMER CORSET

'COLD WAVE'

AT

50C.

Is decidedly the best corset we have ever offered at the price.

OUR W. B 440
Black Summer Corset
AND
OUR W. B. 414
White Summer Corset

Are exceptionally good, and worthy of a careful examination.

HARTER

East of Court House, Auburn.

I. O. BUCHTEL,
Homeopathic
Physician and Surgeon.

Special attention given to chronic and obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.

Office and residence over Smith & Madden's marble works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, night or day.

Dr. James Adams,

VETERINARY SURGEON.

Will treat all Diseases of Domestic Animals. He has had THIRTY YEARS successful PRACTICE. Call on him at his residence No. 34, North Main street, or at ROBBINS & McCORD'S Drug Store.

Dr. David N. Fitch,

VETERINARY SURGEON and DENTIST,

Has located in Auburn, and will give his entire attention to the treatment of all DISEASES of DOMESTIC ANIMALS. Is a graduate in Veterinary Surgery and Dentistry, from the CHICAGO VETERINARY COLLEGE.

Office at the PALACE FEED BARN on West 9th St.

----AUBURN WOOLEN MILLS----

........DOES........

All kinds of CUSTOM WORK, such as Carding, Spinning, Etc.

*.ALSO.*

MANUFACTURE for the TRADE, Yarns Flannels, Skirtings, Blankets and Wool Bats.

These goods are absolutely PURE and warranted to give SATISFACTION to the Consumer.

—ENSLEY & FORKNER, Proprietors.—

Call at FACTORY North End of Main street

AUBURN, IND.

YOUNG MEN,

THE CHURCH OF GOD

Extends a cordial invitation to all who are not already attending some school, to come to our

SABBATH SCHOOL,

and spend an hour each SUNDAY, from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m., in the study of the BIBLE. You will find the church at corner of 10th and Jackson streets.

L. B. FRETZ, Supt.

LOCAL NEWS.

Dyspepsia and its attendant ills are quickly cured by Simmons Liver Regulator.

Organ for sale: A nice large one of the Story & Camp make, as good as new. Call at this office.

H. J. Mossey still keeps his stock of groceries, provisions, etc., up to the standard of competition and low prices. Farmers find him one of the men to deal with.

Miles' nerve & liver pills. Act on a new principle—regulating the liver, stomach and bowels through the nerves. A new discovery. Dr. Miles' Pills speedily cure biliousness, bad taste, torpid liver, piles, constipation. Unequaled for men, women, and children. Smallest, mildest, surest! 30 doses, 25 cts. Samples free at F. E. Davenport's.

McELREE'S WINE OF CARDUI for Weak Nerves.

Casebeer & Matheny for wall paper and paper and paints. 19tf

The largest line of wall paper in the city will be found at City Book Store.

If you want strictly pure mixed paints call at Casebeer & Matheny's drugstore.

Pianos & Organs on easy terms. Address, Davis & Husselman, Waterloo, Ind.

Dr. S. B. Johnson, dentist, will be in his office at Waterloo on Thursday of each week.

Keep your liver active and thus ward off disease. Take Simmons Liver Regulator in time.

Look at the grand business chances offered by O. J. Schwarz, the clothier, on our fourth page.

If you feel dull and stupid you are bilious and need a tonic. Take Simmons Liver Regulator.

An excellent remedy for dyspepsia—Simmons Liver Regulator.—C. Matserson, Sheriff of Bibb Co., Ga.

Baltzer Koontz, for several years in Whitley county, is now back at the old home in Spencerville. DeKalb boys always come home.

John Row, of Fairfield, interviewed the Courier Monday to the extent of the annual price of the old reliable paper. Thanks.

Steam engine and boiler for sale Engine 45 H. P., boiler 55 H. P. Engine has been rebored and refitted, boiler in good shape. Can be seen at Gavitt & Goodwin's machine shop, Waterloo, Ind. 23-25

Ira Brandon, the hustling grocer at the North Side, has added a new feature to his business. He will hereafter have fresh fish on sale Friday and Saturday of each week. Those wishing to invest their money in the finny tribe, will find his prices and goods up to the standard. 20tf

English Spavin Liniment removes all hard, soft, or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavin, curbs, splints, sweeny, ring-bone, stifles, all swollen throats, coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle, warranted. The most wonderful blemish cure known. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn. Indiana. tf

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.—"Mystic Cure" for rheumatism and neuralgia radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immdiately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. 75 cents. Sold by Robbins & McCord, druggists, Auburn.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

We notice that Chester Hodge has invested in a very fine Jersey bull. This bull is registered in the A. J. C. C. records, his number is 24,111. He is of the fawn color, and is out of a cow that made 21 pounds of butter a week. He is but 2 years old and a perfect beauty. He will be kept at the Greenhurst farm just north of Auburn. Anyone wishing to breed to a Jersey will not find anything better in the state. tf

Try BLACK-DRAUGHT tea for Dyspepsia.

Grand excursion to Warsaw, June 11.

See notice of Gavitt & Goodwin on this page.

Miss Dolly Shook, of Corunna, is visiting friends here.

A good house on Jackson street for rent. Inquire of W. H. McIntyre.

Found: A common house key. Owner can have it by calling at this office.

Strawberries are down to ten cents a quart. Mckinley bill did it, we suppose.

The long dry spell took a change Tuesday, and we had a good steady rain.

Hoff has a new stock of goods just opened up. Groceries new and fresh. See him.

A very large assortment of pantaloons can now be found at the Boston Clothing store.

"Broken Java" in glass jars for 25c at Brandon's. Examine them at once, while the stock is yet flush.

H. J. Mossey has a good supply of fine potatoes on hand which he is retailing at reasonable rates. Call early.

Call on Miss Myers next to Rainier's for the latest and nicest goods. Children's hats a special line just received.

Do you know that you can get the genuine hand made lemonade at Cora Shugers'? Well, you can and it's good too. 20tf

There will be preaching at the Baptist church next Sabbath morning and evening by Rev. B. F. Griffith, of Tiffin, Ohio.

Rev. C. M. Eberly of Montpelier, Ohio, was here Tuesday. His former home was near Waterloo, but he is now in the ministry.

David Link of near Waterloo, was over here "to mill" Tuesday. Auburn makes pretty good flour, and that is always popular.

W. H. McIntyre has two very desirable residences for sale, to some responsible parties on the installment plan, at from $8 to $12 per month. See him and stop paying rent. 20tf

"Nickel, please," is what the Lake Shore conductor say now to passengers from the Junction to the up town station, or those going the other way. No more free rides over that mile of road now.

M. M. Mitchell has been here awhile. He is helping on some of the finishing strokes on the fine residence his son Ed. has built on South Cedar street. It is going to be one of the most commodious in town.

The milk shake season has just opened up. Cora Shugers is better prepared than ever to deal out lunch, cigars, tobacco, lemonade, ginger ales, pop beers, and milk shake than ever. Remember his place on West Seventh St. 20tf

Lost: On Sunday, May 17, going south from the Rakestraw school house to Holmes Link's, or going from Holmes Link's to the Junction, a Persian shawl. Finder will confer a great favor by leaving it at this office, or sending word. 3

Rev. W. S. Tracy of the Evangelical church in Waterloo made us a friendly call Tuesday. At present he has charge not only of the church there, but that at Pleasant Hill in Fairfield, as well as the one on the county line west of Hudson.

C. P. Houser had a severe attack of some chest trouble Sunday, while on his way to church, and had to stop. He got out of the buggy at Mike Douglas' residence on South Cedar street, and remained there till he was better. He was about again on Monday.

The C. L. S. C. will meet next Saturday afternoon with Mrs. Plum. Program, Walks and talks, Mrs. Plum; Classic French course in English, Mrs. Clifton; The Intellectual Developement of the English People" Mrs. Baldwin; Life in Modern England," Mrs. Schaab.

The National Conservatory of Music of America, 126 East 17th street New York City, gives instruction free to pupils who show any aptitude for vocal or instrumental music. Examinations in September. For information send to the secretary, Charles I. Pardee at above address.

A prominent merchant says "I have sold Megrimine for over a year and guaranteed it to cure any headache without after effects, and have not found a single case it did not relieve." Sold by Robbins & McCord in Auburn. Sample free. The Dr. Whitehall Megrimine Co., South Bend, Ind.

The Greenhurst farm affords one of best registered Poland China boars now in the state. He is brought here for the purpose of improving the swine. His breeding cannot be excelled. Anyone wishing to use this fine fellow will find him at the Greenhurst farm just north of Auburn. He is owned by Chester Hodge. tf

A. C. Kœppe. who has been for over three years in charge of the schools at Spencerville was here Saturday. At present he is teaching a successful normal at St. Joe. At its conclusion, he will arrange for a similar school at Spencerville, to begin about the 6th of July. He has been very successful in his school work, and the people of that section are fortunate.

Frank Scholes who has been helping Surveyor Hook for some time. is now located here with his family, and we presume will continue in his present work. As he is an experienced and competent engineer, we have no doubt his services will be valuable in the vast amount of work the office is now doing. He and his family will be made welcome in Auburn.

T. H. Leasure, at Mt. Ayr, Iowa, is thoughtful for the printer and sent in $3 last week. He knows that the summer is a newspaper man's winter, and money comes in slow at that season. We are glad to see that our distant patrons seem to think of this. Mr. Leasure sends some good words to his old friends here, which we are pleased to bring to their notice.

Green Mountain Salve: Is unequalled as a cure for all rheumatic pains, weakness in the side, back or any other place, and is unexcelled for cuts, bruises, corns, etc. It is the uncompromising enemy of pain in whatever form, or wherever manifested, and has never been known to fail in a contest with this dreaded foe of human happiness. If you would live a peaceful and painless life, try this great remedy and you will never regret it.

Treasurer Sawvel and wife went up into Franklin township Monday to attend the wedding of a niece Sadie Sawvel, the eldest daughter of Isaac Sawvel, who was that evening united in marriage to Eli Mutzfeldt, of Butler. The immediate relatives of both were present and and the young couple received a number of useful gifts. They go to housekeeping in their own cosy home in Butler, which the groom has built and furnished from his own earnings. So it will be seen that they begin life under the most encouraging circumstances. The Courier hopes these favorable conditions may always exist for them, and sends its best wishes.

BLACK-DRAUGHT tea cures Constipation.

City Book Store has wall paper.

Smoking tobacco at Kessler Bros'.

Nicest hats for children at Miss Myers'.

M. W. Johnston is able to be at his office at Garrett.

A new line of wall paper at 10 cents a roll at City Book Store.

All designs of latest style wall paper at Casebeer & Matheny's. 19tf

Miss Eliza Finch left Tuesday for her home in Portage, Wisconsin.

Hats 15, 25 and 35 cents at Mrs. Funk's. To close out stock. tf

Miss Lottie McLain, of Butler, is visiting her sister, Mrs. J. A. McIntyre.

All new styles of wall paper at Casebeer & Matheny's. No shoddy goods.

Highest market price paid for tubwashed wool at Auburn Woolen Mills. tf

Simmons Liver Regulator cures general debility and will give you a new lease on life.

E. M. Schrock the well known inventor of wind mills, is now located at Pontiac, Ill.

Mrs. Fetters, of Butler, visited with her sister, Mrs. E. Sheets, several days last week.

Miss Myers has a bright new stock of goods including the neatest line of children's hats. Just lovely, and so cheap! Call and see.

P. P. Lochner and wife, S. S. Potter and wife and Mrs. E. J. Beaty visited Saturday and Sunday at Hicksville and Antwerp, Ohio.

Isaac Helwig, assessor of Fairfield, reports his wife very sick having had a severe attack of the measles. We hope to hear of her coming out all right.

WOOL! WOOL!! WOOL!!! We will pay the highest market price for WOOL. It will be to your interest to see us before you sell. Schaab & Bro. 19tf

Do you know that Brandon, at the North side, washes all his fish before putting them on the market? He does, and their quality is greatly improved.

Inventors who wish to obtain patents or wish to sell rights in patents should address, Chas McClellan, Solicitor of Claims, 612 F. St. N. W. Washington, D. C.

Megrimine cures any headache in 30 minutes. Sold by Robbins & McCord druggists in Auburn. Samples free. The Dr. Whitehall Megrimine Co., South Bend, Ind.

The daily papers speak of the pension granted to G. W. Weeks of this place. We hope it may be true, for we think Uncle Sam could bestow a favor on a worthy man and not miss it.

Lost, Monday. somewhere on the road between Auburn and Waterloo, a day book containing money. The finder will receive $5 by leaving at this office or returning to George McEnterffer, at Waterloo.

Two of our solid Richland friends got even with the Courier accounts Monday. The first letters of their names are J. B. Frost and J. L. Smith. The latter is the assessor over there, but both are good fellows.

Our people should know that they can get stove backs the adjustable kind, at the Junction now, at the Eagle Foundry. They have a contract to get out a vast quantity of them, and will also keep them for sale.

Read notice of the excursion to Warsaw, June 11. It goes by the way of Goshen, and gives everybody a chance to see a big scope of the finest country, in the finest state in the Union. All get ready, get up early. and go along.

Hollister has put up a fine iron stair way to the Seventh street face of his hotel building, starting in the alley, and reaching to the portico above. It will be convenient. The Foundry & Machine Works put the work up, and are doing a good deal in that line.

Plain Sewing: Mrs. L. Cone, will do plain dressmaking and sewing, and asks the ladies of Auburn to give her a share of the work, which she will do in a neat, substantial manner and at fair rates. Call on her at her rooms at T. J. Saxton's on South Jackson street.

Say farmers, if you want some of the best machinery manufactured, you should go to Ed. Weeks, south of the jail. He handles the Champion reapers and mowers, also some of the best grades of small implements. Give him a call and examine his terms. 19tf

Mr. McIntosh says there was a splendid turnout to decoration services at Waterloo, and everything passed off in the best manner possible. He speaks highly of the large hearted citizens there, also. Judging by a report we print elsewhere, it was one of the best meetings in the county.

Commencement at the State University at Bloomington is June 17, on which occasion, the president, David S. Jordon will retire, and his successor, John M. Coulter, be inaugurated. The commencement will begin June 12, but the principal address is by Senator Turpie, June 15.

Mrs. A. B. Richards and daughter Delia, and Mrs. Barns drove over to Kendallville Monday to visit the family of Mr. Lamport. They found them all well and suited with their new home, and all concerned had a pleasant visit. They also called on W. P. Myers and wife, who are both in good health.

Smith & Madden sent to Butler last week the finest monument we have seen for a long time. It was for H. S. Madden of that place, to be erected at the grave of his wife as we are told. It was in the form of a large tree trunk, elaborately carved, and draped with flowers and vines. This firm does nice work.

There was quite a turnout from our town last Sunday, to attend the decoration services at Cedar Chapel, in Butler township. The G. A. R., W. R. C., and S. of V. generally went, and had a good time. They report the crowd even greater than it was at Auburn, Saturday. The exercises were good, and all speak enthusiastically of the success of the meeting.

Some of our lively exchanges are copying bright little news items from the Courier's able correspondence without giving credit. Gentlemen, please do our corps justice, for we flatter ourself, that few county papers can show as well informed a corps of correspondents, as the Courier can, and we are as jealous of their rights as if it hit the editor-in-cheif.

A son of Frank Myers, of Franklin township, met with a serious accident Saturday. He was working for J. D. Beard, and they had cut down a tree, which in falling. became cramped between other trees so that it was held in a bent position while lying on the ground. They sawed it off, but as the saw got nearly through, the tree split in such a way that a piece sprung against young Myers, breaking his leg below the knee, and striking him in the side. The latter injury may be the worse of the two, and at last accounts, he was suffering considerably from it.

WINE OF CARDUI, a Tonic for Women.

Old Settlers' June 18.

Town lots for sale. See our notice.

Miss Myers has new goods just arrived.

County S. S. convention at St. Joe June 9th and 10th.

City Book Store has a fine line of all grades of wall paper.

A new line of wall paper just received at Casebeer & Matheny's. 19tf

Megrimine, the new cure for headache and neuralgia, at Robbins & McCord's.

There was a good crowd in town decoration day, in spite of the fact that it was good weather to work.

Jacob Lœwenstein and family of Waterloo and Mrs. Jacob Kahn of Chicago, were driving about town Sunday.

Wanted! Wanted!! Wanted!!! at the Auburn Woolen Mills, all the wool we can get. Highest market price, don't forget it. 19tf

Piano for Sale: A good square piano in good condition and on reasonable terms. Inquire of Dr. S. B. Johnston at his residence or dental office on North Main street, Auburn.

Miss Ada Myers has completed the facilities in her millinery department by securing the services of Miss Edith Metler, of Centreville, Mich., who will do trimming in all latest styles.

Mrs. Rebecca Dickinson came home last Wednesday from an extended visit with friends in Shelby county, Ohio. She came back in fair health, though she had a serious spell of sickness while there.

A carriage full of Waterloo ladies came over to attend the forenoon services at the Presbyterian church Sunday. They were; Mrs. F. W. Willis, Mrs. B. F. Kennedy, Mrs. J. S. Jackman and Mrs. Juliette Dickinson. They met a hearty welcome among friends here.

Have you tried South American Nervine—the gem of the century? The great cure for indigestion, dyspepsia and nervousness. Warranted the most wonderful stomach and nerve cure ever known. Trial bottles 15 cents. Sold by Robbins & McCord, druggists, Auburn.

Schnell & Weeks are still south of the jail with as fine a line of groceries, provisions, etc., as can be found in the city. They are great favorites with the "reciprocity" plan, that is, you will always get value received for every dollar spent for goods in their establishment.

The L. L. C. will meet this week with Mrs. Cal. Husselman north of town. The lesson is from page 167 to 175, Mrs. Houser is leader. There will be a lecture, "The Divorce Question" by Mrs. Ehlers. Conveyances will be provided. The members in the south part of town will assemble at Mrs. Ralston's, and those in the north, at the residence of Mrs. Willis.

Rev. N. J. Myers preached at the Lutheran church Sunday, both morning and evening, and was greeted kindly by his former congregation. He goes from here to his old home at Wilmot, Noble county, where some property interests will require his attention for two or three weeks, and he then goes to take charge of a congregation at Circleville, Ohio. Our people all wish him success in his new field.

If our readers want to see a new likeness of a rather famous man, they should look at the hay scales advertisement on our 7th page. "Jones of Binghampton," the man who "pays the freight," is lieutenant-governor of New York, and was colonel of the Sixth Massachusetts, when that regiment was mobbed in Baltimore while marching to Washington April 19, 1861. This was the first bloodshed of the war, and happened on the same day of the same month, with the first in the Revolution.

Geo. H. Post and family started for their new home at Fennville, Allegan county, Mich, last Saturday evening, where they will locate in the same line of business he has followed here. We regret to see them leave, for they have endeared themselves to our people, and will be greatly missed. Mr. Post has been in business here a number of years, and has always dealt honorably with our people, and all who have had business relations with him, have had uniform and courteous treatment. We hope the people at their new home will give them a hearty welcome and encouragement, for they will find them worthy citizens.

Hon. Nelson Prentiss, of Albion, called up to shake hands with an old friend, the editor of this paper, on Monday. He and his wife were on their way to visit Rev. Mr. Marshall, at Waterloo, who is a son-in-law, and who was ordained Tuesday evening. Mr. Prentiss has the highest record as a school man, of any one in the state, having been county school examiner or super intendent thirty-eight years. He has the rare distinction of being the son of revolutionary soldier, and has been a resident of Noble county fifty-six years We hope to lay before our readers in the near future an articla or two from his pen treating of early incidents in Northern Indiana.

The attendance at the Presbyterian church Sunday evening was very great, as that was the occasion of the delivery of the baccalaureate sermon for the graduating class. Mr. Healy was assisted by Mr. Wooton of the M. E. church, and both gentlemen acquitted themselves well. Mr. Wooton's prayer was to the point, and full of good for the class, and for school work in general. The sermon proper. by Mr. Healy, was able and eloquent, and followed a lead of thought, that to some at least was new. The class, and indeed, all who heard, surely profited by the good thoughts presented. The teachers were present, of course, and the parents of the class, as well as school officers, including county superintendent Merica.

The Dispatch is certainly mistaken when it says, "The Courier is not satisfied because the Dispatch discusses without fear or favor, the many public questions in which our people are interested." It is not that way. If the Dispatch would "discuss without favor" it would be different. But we expressly found fault because it never does discuss "without favor" etc. It always favors republicans only, and belittles democrats. Look at the one-sided way it always speaks of the members of the town board, and of the county officers. All the good things done by the town council are credited distinctly to "Mr. Harter and Mr. Sheffer," and if any mistakes are made, or anything that don't suit the Dispatch, happens to be done, it is laid up against the three democratic members. For our own part, we believe the five men on the board are honest, are capable, are loyal to the town and its interests, and we feel proud of the fact that no narrow guage criticisms alluding to them have been found in the Courier. But we have also criticised the Dispatch's way of volunteering its advice to every set of officers, on all sorts of subjects, in many cases where it shows its utter ignorance of things that the board understands perfectly. There are very few single individuals in this world, who will assert so openly that they know more than any five other persons. Yet this is in substance what the Dispatch is continually doing.

McElree's WINE OF CARDUI for female diseases.

Commencement to morrow evening.

Splendid rains this week. They were much needed.

The men's social last Friday was a success in every way.

Just received 1000 rolls of new wall paper at the City Book Store. tf

Gilt papers at 18 cents a roll, borders to match at City Book Store.

Mrs. G. R. Lanning has a lady friend from Reading, Mich., visiting her.

Charles E. Comesky reports a boy baby last week. Hurrah for old Jackson!

Mrs. H. B. McCord's mother and sister, of Waterloo, visited her last Saturday.

Mrs. John Hebel had a lady friend visiting here Tuesday and Wednesday.

Mrs. Ernest Sheets spent several days this week with Mrs. Frank Rose, at Garrett.

Frank Rose and wife, of Garrett, have been visiting here a few days, remaining over Sunday.

H. B. McCord went to Indianapolis on Monday as a delegate to the Grand Lodge of K. P.

Mrs. John Leasure has gone to Greensburg, this state, to remain a few weeks with her people there.

R. C. Baxter, an experienced school man, was put on the board of school trustees Monday. "Dick" will make a good officer—we know it.

The men's social at the M. E church last week was well attended and proves what we have always asserted, that men are better cooks than the ladies.

Moses Perry, of Concord was up to meet the other assessor boys Monday. He is one of the most experienced and efficient of those who hold this responsible position.

Fred. Funk has the job of laying the foundation walls for the fine residence Clerk Bishop is putting up on South Jackson street. Fred. knows how this kind of work is done.

Ab. Kelley's little daughter Bessie, spent Monday and Tuesday with her little cousin Pearl Kelley, returning to Waterloo Tuesday evening. She thinks Auburn a nice place.

Mrs. G. H. Post started for her Michigan home Tuesday evening by the way of LaOtto, and over the Grand Rapids road. Mr. Post went Saturday. Our people regret to see them go.

There will be a Gospel Temperance meeting on next Sabbath afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the Baptist church, to which all are cordially invited. Address by the Rev. Mr. Wooton and music by the Arion Quartet.

No citizen of Auburn should remain away from the commencement exercises Friday evening. The class is a worthy, hard working one, and should be encouraged by a full house. We have no doubt they will be well patronized.

Monday evening, the town board reduced their pay to $2 a session. This with their extra meeting will make the total not over $60. As Dr. Matheny proposed this plan, we wonder what the Dispatch will say about it.

John Zimmerman, who was married June 27, to Miss Callie Altenburg, has with his bride gone to housekeeping in their home on north VanBuren. They are a popular young couple and begin life with the brightest possible outlook.

R. W. Cobb has made some very noticeable improvements on his south Jackson street residence. The last, however, is the one that brings out the beauty of the whole thing. It is a pretty coat of paint, which is being applied by E. C. Foltz, one of the most tasty and artistic painters in Auburn. Many residences here owe their beautiful appearance to his skill.

Ho! for Warsaw.

The Epworth League invites you to go with them to Spring Fountain Park, Warsaw, June 11th. Train leaves Auburn at 5:47 standard time, arriving at Warsaw at 8:30 a. m. We have secured the right of way on all railroads which means no delay by switching or regular trains. Be prepared to meet our ticket committee the first of the week. You must secure your tickets through them as they will not be sold at the depot. A baggage car will be attached to accommodate those wishing to take their dinner. Full fare $1.25. Children under 12 years 65 cents. This includes admission to the Park.

Common School Commencements.

As the list now stands, we find that Grant has her exercises at Norris Chapel June 4; Jackson, at Grove Bethel, June 11; Franklin, at Memorial Chapel, June 12; Smithfield, at Barker's Chapel, June 13; Richland, at Corunna. June 18; and Fairfield, at the Center, June 19. There were a few to graduate in Concord, but it was thought best to wait till next year, and have the exercises of the two classes at one time.

Read This.

Poneto, Ind., May 19, 1891.

S. U. Tarney,

Dear Sir: With pleasure I write to let you know that I am improving grandly. My appetite is now good. I work every day, pretty hard. May God bless you for what your Positive Painless Pile Cure has done for me.

Yours truly,
L. B. Collins.

24

NEW GOODS.

ALL WOOL

PLAIN AND PLAID

Serges, Henriettas, Cashmeres, Domet and Zephyr Flannels, Criterion Ginghams, Calicos, Muslins, Tickings, To welings, Table Linens,

WHITE
—and—
BLACK

Goods, Ribbons, Buttons, Handkerchiefs, Hosiery, Gloves Underwear, Silk Umbrellas,

Call and See
New Goods.
MRS. M. JONES & SON.

If you want to save

Time and Money

GO TO

Cowan Sisters,

where you will find

A Numberless Variety

........OF........

HATS, TRIMMED.

No WAITING to Get Work Done.

Our store is full of

New Summer Goods

With prices surprisingly low. Call and see them.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A CHOICE SELECTION OF INTERESTING ITEMS.

Comments and Criticisms Based Upon the Happenings of the Day—Historical and News Notes.

A newly-elected school-teacher at Berneville, Pa., is but 13 years of age.

According to Secretary Noble's report, $3,000,000 worth of timber was stolen from the public land last year.

In digging out an old well at Murphy's, Calavears County, Cal., the other day, a skeleton with handcuffs on was found. Its history is unknown.

A convict in a South Carolina prison escaped from jail, Christmas eve, went to his home and spent Christmas and then returned to the penitentiary.

Portland has taken the Oregon export salmon trade away from Astoria, with the result that Americans, instead of Canadians, get the carrying trade.

Hannibal Hamlin is credited with having such an aversion to music he will never, if he can avoid it, go into a church until after the opening musical exercises are concluded.

Large and valuable deposits of nickel have recently been discovered in Silesia. The discovery gives great satisfaction to Germany, which hereafter will not have to look to foreign countries for its supply.

What can be the matter with our enterprising dime museums that they have not already discovered, secured and advertised the man who shot Sitting Bull? Herein is a plain, an unusual, a shocking dereliction.

Frederick Ives, the former young Napoleon of finance, is living quietly in New York, devoting his attention to acquiring another fortune. He is the same well-dressed, suave and self-confident character as he was before his fall.

Girls should be more discrete in telling their secrets to one another. When one girl of a crowd marries, she tells all the secrets of the crowd to her husband, and he tells them to all the other men. It is mean in him, but he does it.

A justice of the peace in a county in Wisconsin has had 240 appeals taken on his decisions during the last six years, and only one of them failed to be sustained. He started out to decide cases "according to common sense," but he doesn't seem to have hit it very hard.

The fanatic who scared so many San Francisco people up into the hills by predicting a tidal wave last summer was ordered to move on and made to go, and since then has soured on the whole business and even refused to predict when he would put in an honest day's work.

An English weekly paper spoke of a concert given by the "Bristol Howling Club," and was at once sued for libel. The paper protested that it meant to say bowling, and not howling, but the jury said it was an editor's business to be absolutely correct, and this one was mulcted for £200.

One of the largest hogs in America, if not, in fact, the largest in the world, was reared by a Junction City (Kas.) man. The length was eight feet and nine inches; girth of neck, six and one half feet; girth of center of body, eight feet; width across the hips, thirty inches; weight, 1,532 pounds.

A native "pilgrim" at Lapore, India, said that "a new god would appear to kill off the English," and he had scarcely uttered the words when he was locked up on charge of sedition, and two days later found himself in prison for ten years. The English didn't propose to allow any more gods in India.

One hundred million dollars is the estimated value of the cotton crop of Texas this year. A wonderful State, indeed, with resources estimated to equal the requirements, so far as cotton, grain, fruit, iron, and lumber are concerned, of all the United States, provided Texas had the population it can support.

A spoon has been operated upon by an American genius. This spoon has a spring-pressed scraper adapted to move in the spoon bowl, with means for regulating its movement, by means of which all sticky and adhesive substances may be quickly and easily removed from the bowl without the use of an additional instrument.

The country store-keeper is a great advocate of cleanliness in the dairy. Indeed everybody is who consumes butter. But the country store-keeper is just as loud in his demand for cleanliness as anybody else, and when he is through preaching cleanliness he will set a tub of butter next to the kerosene barrel.

Gen. Sherman goes out a great deal in New York, and he says he has for several years expected a policeman to hit him with his club some night as he was returning home. It hasn't come yet, but when it does he will be all ready to turn the officer's flank and leave him behind in the race.

Major Pond will make at least $75,000, possibly $100,000, out of Stanley, whom he pays $50,000 for fifty lectures. In addition to this he pays the traveling expenses of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley, so that it costs about $1,200 every time the explorer lectures. Pond never receives less than $1,600, and frequently gets $5,000 for a lecture.

A swimming glove which insures swift movement in the water, has been invented by a Spaniard. The glove has webbed fingers like the feet of a water-fowl, so that on spreading out the fingers during the propelling stroke in swimming, a comparatively large surface will be presented to the water, and consequently the propelling action will be greatly increased.

The annual statement of the pie industry in New York City shows that there are twenty establishments that bake pies exclusively. Of these one company turns out 8,500 pies a day, or 2,660,500 pies a year not counting Sundays, and another averages 7,000 a day, 2,191,000 a year. The total annual consumption of pies in that city averages fifteen for each man woman, and child.

An English magazine writer with speculative tendencies has been discussing the reason of the delicacy and purity of the beauty of American women. The magazinist is ingenious enough in hunting up causes for this fact, but with true Anglican simplicity he misses the important point that American women are pretty chiefly because they are born so.

It is not often that a lost art is recovered, but it is said that the chemists have triumphed in the matter of the ancient "Alexandrian blue." This blue, the ideal of painters and decorators, was a peculiar and remarkably durable color. The chemists are said to have achieved a successful analysis of the coloring on the Pompeian frescoes, and to have reproduced the paint, identical with the ancient coloring in every particular.

Only five States in the Union have larger populations than Massachusetts. She has more inhabitants to the square mile than any other State, more capital invested in manufacturing and more money in the savings bank in proportion to population. Such a State must supply a good market for all its farmers' produce for sale. Manufacturing centers demand large supplies of dairy products, vegetables, fruit, eggs, and meat. Study the demand and regulate the supply accordingly.

The institution of Christmas as a festival is said to have been during the reign of Antonius Pius, about 150 A. D., but the first certain traces of it are found during the reign of Commodus, 180 to 192 A. D. It was now almost universally observed, though all nations do not keep the same day. It is a day eminently fitted for gift-making; the Magi laid their precious offerings in the cradle of their Lord; but gifts should ever be accompanied by expressions of good will.

A sensible innovation has been started by a Presbyterian pastor, the Rev. Dr. Henry Van Dyke, of New York City. Instead of reading the customary church notices during the service, he has placed in the pews printed copies of all the notices in bulk, so that the congregation can take them home and read them at their leisure. This serves a two-fold purpose. It prevents any interference with the regular service, and gives the notices a more prominent character. Other churches might, with profit, carry out the same arrangement, though Dr. Van Dyke's idea is, perhaps, too elaborate for all, as it contemplates a regular church circular, in which the church services are announced and the special and regular meetings of the week, news items in connection with the church, the subjects of forthcoming sermons, and the program of the church's missionary and charitable work.

The performance of Succi, the Italian, who succeeded in living after a fast of forty-five days, can hadly be considered of any public advantage, though as a test of human endurance is not without interest. The fast of Tanner, a few years ago, only lasted forty days, and he claimed to come out of it refreshed and prepared for better work physically and mentally than before. That was an experience stimulating further trials in fasting as a means for promoting human welfare. But Succi came so near collapsing on the last day of his fast that nobody will be tempted to emulate his example. It is probably just as well. The world is never benefitted by withholding what is needful for human existence, else those who produce the world's food would not be recognized as its benefactors, as they undoubtedly are. It will never do for an agricultural journal to give its approval to an experiment as to the practicability of living without eating. Besides, speaking in all soberness, we believe that it is not intended as the way that men and women ever ought to live.

A Member of the Bar.

A story is told of a veteran member of the bar, which is one of the sort of stories that one does not hear every week or every month. The hero of the story is a very old gentleman; he has passed the fourscore, and though he has the reputation of having had a somewhat animated career, and to have scorned very few of the pleasures of life, he has yet made no motion toward carrying his case up to a higher court. Not long ago a younger lawyer, in conversing with the old gentleman, suggested that a great many changes must have taken place since he began the practice of law.

"Yes, yes," said the old gentleman, "a great many wonderful changes have taken place in my lifetime. Why, the infernal regions have cooled down a great deal since I was born."

The young lawyer, not long afterward, repeated this remark to another veteran member of the same bar, who knew the first old gentleman's peculiarities and weaknesses very well.

"Did he say that?" asked the second veteran.

"He did," said the young man.

"Well, now I understand; that's what he's been waiting for all these years!"—Boston Transcript.

Accommodating.

"That gas stove is a dandy," said the agent. "You can use it for heating purposes in the winter—make your house warm as toast—and then in summer you can cook with it."

"But it would be hot in summer," said the customer.

"Oh, no," said the agent, "it hardly gives out any heat at all."—New York Sun.

AN EXPELLED INDUSTRY

THE AMERICAN SCREW COMPANY GOES TO ENGLAND.

An Important Industry Driven Out by McKinley—The Company Must Have Free Raw Materials—McKinley's Drawback No Good—Just as Gladstone Said.

Republican organs have published with delight all the news they could get about European manufacturers who have been compelled by our high tariff to move their establishments to this country. They have crowed over these reports and claimed them as the highest possible evidence that the McKinley law is a good and wise measure for this country. They do not appear to see that the expense of moving these industries to America must be eventually borne by American consumers in higher prices paid for the goods made in these establishments.

But the transportation of industries across the ocean is not all in one direction. A case has just been reported where an industry has been forced to cross the ocean from America to Europe, and Republican journals have found no space to refer to the matter at all. The American Screw Company, of Providence, R. I., has just decided to move some of its idle machinery from Providence to Leeds, England, where it will erect a large factory covering an acre and a half of ground. It will also establish a factory in Germany.

The reason given by the President of the company, Mr. Angell, is as follows;

"All the goods we make in Canada and shall make in England and Germany could just as well be made in Rhode Island, were it not for the fiscal policy of this Government. Employment could be given to thousands of workmen here in the manufacture of goods for the foreign market, if we were not hampered by a high tariff. We make better goods, and could make them cheaper here than anywhere else in the world, in spite of the higher wages we have to pay, because our system of work is so much ahead of the European system. The American workman gets higher wages than his English brother, but he does more work in proportion." Mr. Angell states that his company will introduce the American system of work into the Leeds factory, with Americans as heads of departments, but with English factory hands.

The McKinleyites boast that the drawback of 99 per cent. in the new tariff law gives the manufacturers practical free trade for the foreign market; and, in speaking the praises of this drawback, McKinley invites the manufacturers to "go out and capture the markets of the world." But that this McKinley drawback is of no practical value to some of our manufacturers is evident from the following utterances of Mr. Angell:

"One of the principal reasons that induced us to establish the English plant is the worthlessness of the drawback clause in the McKinley bill, which makes it next to impossible for a manufacturer to take advantage of it. In order to get a drawback on exports made of imported raw material, on which a duty has been paid, a manufacturer is put to more trouble and bother than the drawback is worth. He must make a sworn declaration stating the name of the steamer in which the material was imported, together with date of importation. Then he has to have the signature of the captain or mate of the vessel in which the goods are exported and of the foreign consignee who receives them, besides divers and sundry other documents from the Customs officials. These he must take to Washington, and if they are all right, by and by he will get his drawback.

"In our case," remarked Mr. Angell, "all this is practically impossible, because we use imported raw material from different countries, and to keep track of all the different kinds, with the dates and places, would involve endless work and trouble.

"We shall send part of the machinery in our Eddy street mill to Leeds, and a part to the German manufactory to be established soon. In this way we shall give employment to labor abroad that we should be only too glad to employ at home were it not for the embarrassments which the McKinley tariff imposes upon us."

Yet it was this bill of which McKinley himself boasted in his great tariff speech in the House of Representatives a year ago: "It is an American bill; it is not a European bill."

The fact the American Screw Company must go to England where it can get free raw materials, in order that it may compete in the markets of the world, is a striking confirmation of the truth of Gladstone's recent remark: "As a rule you will find that the system of protection adopted by the United States disables that country in competing with us in the markets of the world."

Cheapness of American Labor.

Ex-Consul Schoenhof, who represented our Government at Tunstall, England, during President Cleveland's administration, has pointed out why American labor is in the long run the cheapest labor in the world, despite its larger earnings by the day or week.

"Our labor being machine labor," he says, "is generally cheaper than European labor, which is to a large extent hand labor, or inferior machine labor, or unproductive, under-fed labor, as compared with higher productive American labor. What our labor suffers from, is the high cost of taxed materials. Free raw materials and a higher technical and artistic development would result in lasting benefits to our manufacturing industries, which periodic additions to already extreme tariff rates can never do. They increase the cost of production in spite of our cheap labor, and continue the congested condition so frequently complained of by our manufacturers."

The makers of the McKinley law, Mr. Schoenhof, did their work without giving recognition to this fact.

"The legislators responsible for the act," he goes on, "did what they were expected to do. They simply delivered the goods for value received in 1888, with a tentative hint to future campaign contributions. Still, they might have shown an appreciation of the consumers' interests. They could have learned that they are entirely compatible with the true interests of the manufacturers. An inquiry into the productive methods of European countries would have shown them that these are based on vitally different principles. They would then have seen that our importations are due to only a limited extent to cheaper labor cost in Europe. They, as well as the recipients of legislative favors, should know that technical and artistic skill are elements of very great importance in manufacture. If we are deficient in the one or the other, it is only natural that our people import what they can not find equally satisfactory at home.

"They certainly ought to know that the industries of this country are based on an entirely different foundation from that of any other country. If so, they certainly ought to have asked for something quite different than that which they claimed with so much insistence. But if they lost sight of this in the scramble for higher tariff rates it need not be surprising that the legislators who are responsible for the measure did not care to examine deeply into the rates demanded or inquire into the relative industrial positions of the United States and the countries of Europe, against which the late tariff act is chiefly intended to operate, the only customers of our farmers worth speaking of."

THE COMPANY WE KEEP.

Where McKinley's Wool Duty Puts Us—Nations Which Tax Wool and Those Having Free Wool.

If anything could make us ashamed of our policy of taxing so necessary a raw material as wool it ought to be to see the company in which it puts us. All the other civilized and progressive countries recognize wool as one of the prime necessities, not only of a most important branch of manufacturing, but of the great masses of their people, in order that they may have the cheapest and best possible clothing.

The following is the list of the countries which admit wool free of duty, and the United States "is not in it:"

Austria,
New South Wales,
Chile,
The Netherlands,
British India,
France,
Portugal,
Greece,
Victoria,
Belgium,
Norway,
Denmark,
Sweden,
Canada,
Great Britain,
Germany,
Italy,
New Zealand.

And here are the countries which tax wool; also the duty per pound each levies on ordinary clothing wool:

Brazil	$0.02 and 65 per cent.
United States	.11
San Salvador	.06
Ecuador	.059
Porto Rico	.059
Mexico	.046
Peru	.041
Argentine Republic	25 per cent.
Hayti	.4
Honduras	.032
United States of Columbia	.023
Russia	.016
Korea	8 per cent.
Roumania	.01
Turkey	.0072
China	.0036
Spain	.0031
Switzerland	.0006
Siam	3 per cent.

The McKinley duty on common clothing wool not washed or scoured is 11 cents per pound, if the value is not above 30 cents a pound, and 12 cents if the value is more than 30 cents. The ad valorem equivalents of these duties run from 26 to 54 per cent. On the best scoured wool the duty is 36 cents per pound, equal to 120 per cent. ad valorem—a duty so extortionate that almost no wool of this kind is imported. Even on carpet wools, of which we produce less than 5 per cent. of what we use, it has recently been ruled by the Treasury Department that duties of 64 and 100 per cent. must be collected, if the wool has been in any way sorted or any part of the original fleece removed before packing.

This wool tariff puts us into strange company. We plume ourselves upon being the leading nation in the world, and in many respects we are such; yet in taxing wool we put ourselves along with Russia, Hayti, China, Siam, Korea—and we lead them in high duties!

A Costly Industry.

The Pittsburg Plate Glass Company has completed its immense new factory at Charleroi, Pa. Half of it is now in operation, and the other half will commence work in a short time. The factory has orders for six months ahead. This is said to be the largest and best-equipped plate glass establishment in the country, having a capacity of over 10,000 feet of glass per day.

This immense factory is of course pointed to by high-tariff journals as an evidence of what protection is doing for the country, assuming that the building of this factory is necessarily a good thing for the country at large. But a little addition and subtraction will show that the great establishment at Charleroi will be a bad thing for the consumers of plate glass, however good a thing it may be for the rich stockholders of the Pittsburg Plate Glass Company. The average price of plate glass in this country, according to the boast of the protectionists, is now "only 85 cents a foot." The Treasury reports show that the price of the small quantity imported last year was a little less than 33 cents per foot.

Here there is a little arithmetic applied to the Charleroi works:

Daily product	10,000 sq. ft
Yearly product (300 days)	3,000,000 sq. ft
Domestic price of same, at 85 cents per foot	$2,550,000
Foreign price, at 33 cents	990,000
Difference between domestic and foreign price	1,560,000

In other words, the consumers of plate-glass will be compelled to pay to the "home market" producers $1,560,000 more for 3,000,000 feet of glass than for the same quantity of foreign glass laid down in New York duty free. Is the Charleroi establishment, then, a good thing for the country? What is the use of having a domestic industry which turns out such an expensive product as compared with the foreign article? The high tariff insures to our plate-glass manufacturers every year profits of from 25 to 35 per cent; and under this unnatural stimulus the business is being rapidly enlarged. It is even boasted by protection journals that in plate glass we are rapidly passing from an importing to an exporting nation, and that we shall soon wrest some of the profitable markets of the world from the old plate-glass producing countries. Before this is done there will have to be an immense fall in prices here. Our plate-glass men, however, may adopt the policy of so many of our other manufacturers and sell their goods in foreign markets at prices far below their home-market prices. This they will be easily able to do under protection duties, equivalent to 141 per cent. in the largest sizes of glass.

In 1890 our exports of agricultural products amounted to $628,772,000, while our exports of manufactured goods were only $156,983,000. Exports of forest and mineral products brought the total up to $845,987,000. Agricultural exports were 74 per cent. of the total and manufactured exports only 18 per cent. In other words, for every dollar's worth of good that our manufacturers export, our farmers export $4 worth. Wherever, therefore, our wild McKinleyism arouses a spirit of retaliation against us in foreign countries, or forces those countries to seek trade elsewhere, our farmers have four times more to lose than our manufacturers.

The terra cotta men, who have a protective duty of 25 per cent., have recently met in Chicago and taken steps looking toward the formation of a trust. The majority of the stockholders of the International Terra Cotta Company were in favor of a plan to form a trust, taking in all the manufacturers in the United States. There is no limit to the formation of these tariff trusts. How long are the people going to tolerate the high protection which makes trusts possible and feed them with tariff spoils?

The dimensions of the farmer's foreign market for tallow and lard may be seen from our export figures for April. The exports of tallow during April reached a total of 8,869,906 pounds. In April last year the exports amounted to 7,613,092 pounds. On the other hand the exports of lard during April amounted to 32,898,846 pounds against 37,616,769 pounds during April last year, showing a decrease of 4,717,923 pounds.

Protection is always promising steady employment at good wages; yet reductions of wages in highly protected industries are still the order of the day. A late case is that of the Rohrerstown rolling mill, in Lancaster, Pa., which shut down on the 16th of May, the puddlers refusing to accept a reduction from $4 to $3.60 per ton.

The high tariffs in the United States and in Canada produce some curious results along the border between the two countries. It is said that smugglers on the Canadian border are making money just now. By smuggling $1 worth of eggs into the United States and exchanging it for sugar, they make by the transaction about $1.13, we having a tariff on eggs and Canada a tariff on sugar. It looks as if the tariff must be a tax.

THE WOOL TARIFF.

IT HAS NOT HELPED THE WOOL-GROWER.

Facts and Figures Showing the Decline of the Wool Industry—Where the Tariff Has Hurt and Not Helped—Why Foreign Wools Help Domestic Wools—Let the Wool-Grower Consider.

The table given below should prove very instructive to those wool-growers who imagine that the wool tariff is of any advantage to them. This table gives the number of sheep in Michigan and Pennsylvania every year from 1866, the year before the high wool duties were adopted, to 1889; the tariff on wool, the price of wool, and the value per head of sheep each year:

Year.	Mich. sheep.	Value.	Penna. sheep.	Value.	Tariff per cent.	Price of wool.
1866	4,028,787	$3.40	3,456,508	$4.08	25 to 30	.47
1867	3,048,191	2.70	3,422,002	3.99	60 to 60	.46
1868	3,553,371	1.87	3,045,581	2.68	60 to 60	.42
1869	2,340,000	1.93	2,850,000	2.83	60 to 60	.48
1870	3,072,800	2.23	1,702,500	3.16	60 to 60	.51
1871	3,464,900	2.86	1,674,900	3.41	45 to 65	.58
1872	3,418,000	2.80	1,601,000	3.08	45 to 65	.60
1873	3,480,300	2.47	1,674,000	3.23	45 to 55	.60
1874	3,416,500	3.06	1,674,000	3.63	45 to 55	.50
1875	3,450,000	2.65	1,643,500	3.58	45 to 55	.53
1876	2,100,000	2.72	1,607,600	3.17	45 to 55	.44
1877	1,750,000	2.53	1,617,000	3.08	45 to 55	.47
1878	1,680,000	2.30	1,666,000	2.90	45 to 55	.30
1879	1,856,400	2.53	1,640,900	3.01	45 to 53	.37
1880	1,920,668	3.16	1,632,807	3.57	45 to 50	.40
1881-2	2,390,752	3.12	1,785,451	3.80	45 to 50	.43
1883	2,430,790	3.21	1,819,836	3.64	40 to 50	.43
1884	2,412,492	3.01	1,749,236	3.19	40 to 50	.37
1885	2,304,174	2.60	1,486,851	3.10	40 to 50	.34
1886	2,209,607	2.11	1,180,481	2.68	40 to 50	.34
1887	2,113,004	2.72	984,801	2.80	40 to 50	.32
1888	2,134,184	2.61	935,646	3.08	40 to 50	.34
1889	2,340,841	3.06	945,082	3.38	40 to 50	.33

A similar decline in wool-growing has been experienced in all the States east of the Mississippi, not excepting Ohio, whose small clique of "political wool-growers" have dominated the whole country in the matter of the wool tariff for many years. Of course it is true that the number of sheep in the far West and Southwest has greatly increased since 1866, but this is to be considered, not as the effect of the tariff on wool, but as the natural result of the settlement of these parts of the country. How the tariff could increase the number of sheep at the same time that the price of wool was steadily declining is one of those contradictions which only the protection mind can believe.

The decline in the price of wool here brought out has been maintained since the passage of the McKinley tariff law, in spite of the higher duties on wool imposed by that measure. The price of Michigan and Ohio clothing wools is now from one to two cents per pound lower than last year.

Why the higher tariff on wool does not make the price of domestic wool higher may seem very puzzling, in view of the fact that the tariff is a tax, and is always given in order to help domestic interests to realize larger profits.

The reason for this decline in price is thus stated by the New York Dry Goods Economist, a highly competent authority.

"High wool duties injure the purchaser of wool in common with the grower of wool, the manufacturer of wool, the importer of wool and the wearer of woolens, all at the same time and for the same reason. For the production of the most popular wool fabrics, foreign and domestic wools are like the two halves of a pair of shears—if you can't get the one half you don't want the other. When prices of raw material decline on account of a supply beyond the volume of normal demand, it is a good thing all round except, perhaps, for the producer; and is even good for him, inasmuch as it enables him to market his surplus. When, on the other hand, prices of raw material decline because harmful legislation partially paralyzes the manufacturing industry using such raw material, it is a bad thing all round and without exception. This is precisely the result of high duties on foreign wool. The consequence of such duties is, as we have shown, the use of an undue amount of wool substitutes, the obvious injury of the home wool-grower, the degradation of the manufacturer and an outrageous fraud upon the public."

The figures and facts here given are a sufficient justification for the wool-growers of Ontario and Livingston Counties, in New York State, who some time ago denounced the wool tariff as a "delusion and a snare" and demanded that wool be placed on the free list.

Taught by an Insect.

It has been said that the operations of the spider suggested the arts of spinning and weaving to man. That may be doubtful, but it is quite certain that to a hint from an insect was due the invention of a machine instrumental in accomplishing one of the most stupendous works of modern times—the excavation of the Thames tunnel.

Mark Isambard Brunel, the great engineer, was standing one day about three-quarters of a century ago in a ship yard watching the movements of an animal known as the terredo navales—in English, the naval wood worm—when a brilliant thought suddenly occurred to him, says the New York Weekly. He saw that this creature bored its way into the piece of wood upon which it was operating by means of a very extraordinary mechanical apparatus. Looking at the animal attentively through a microscope he found that it was covered in front with a pair of valvular shells; that, with its foot as a purchase, it communicated a rotary motion and a forward impulse to the valves, which, acting upon the wood like a gimlet, penetrated its substance, and that, as the particles of wood were loosened, they passed through a fissure in the foot and thence through the body of the borer to its mouth, where they were expelled.

"Here," said Brunel, to himself, "is the sort of thing I want. Can I reproduce it in an artificial form?" He forthwith set to work, and the final result of his labors, after many failures, was the famous boring shield, with which the Thames tunnel was excavated.

This story was told by Brunel himself, and there is no reason to doubt its truth. The keen observer can draw useful lessons from the humblest of the works of God.

Moccasin snakes are said to be so numerous at night in the streets of Columbus, Ga., that there is little use for the police, since thieves and roysterers are afraid to venture abroad after dark.

A billion is, according to the French and American method of numeration, a thousand millions, or 1,000,000,000; according to the English method, a million millions, 1,000,000,000,000.

TRADE MARK
DUTCH JELLY
NONE GENUINE WITHOUT CREST AND SIGNATURE
R. van Arnheim
KEEP THE LID ON THE POT

If you want a beautiful complexion and a perfect skin, use Dutch Jelly. No tan, freckles, moth patches, pimples, black heads or wrinkles. No coarse, rough, greasy, chafed or chapped face and hands. Dutch Jelly is absolutely pure, being a vegetable compound and void of all mineral properties; contains no grease or oil, and after its application the most delicate fabric can be handled without soiling. Gentlemen use it after shaving. For eczema Dutch Jelly is a positive cure. For ulcers, pimples, itching and all eruptive skin diseases, Dutch Jelly is simply invaluable and permanently effective. For cuts, bruises, sun burn, insect bites Dutch Jelly is supreme and is absolutely odorless. Dutch Jelly is not a cosmetic, but rather a skin tonic and has the highest medical endorsement. One trial will convince the most skeptical that it will keep the roughest skin in the smoothest and whitest condition. Ask your druggist, or send 50 cents in Stamps or Postal Note for Sample Jar. Address

Dutch Jelly Co.,
50-52 Michigan Ave.,
CHICAGO, ILL.

Page CYCLE
SPRING FORK.

EASIEST RIDING
WHEEL - ON - EARTH.
HAS WITHOUT EXCEPTION THE
FINEST SPRING IN AMERICA.

Rides as gently over obstructions as a carriage and is in every sense of the word a perfect cycle

BUILT
FINEST DESIGN,
FINEST STEEL.
FINEST FINISH.
FINEST BALL BEARINGS.

Do not buy without getting our Catalogue or seeing this wheel.

PAGE STEEL WHEEL CO., TOLEDO, OHIO.

SANGOLE
ACTUALLY
PRODUCES FLESH
AND CURES
CONSUMPTION
IN INCIPIENCY.
PALATABLE, DIGESTIBLE,
NUTRITIOUS.
IMPARTS LIFE AND VIGOR TO EVERY FIBRE.

SPECIMEN TESTIMONIAL.

Gentlemen:— WHEELING, Feb. 10, 1891.

Early last fall I contracted a severe cold, which settled on my lungs. I coughed dreadfully and lost flesh rapidly until advised to try Sangole, which I did with the most gratifying result.

After taking three bottles my cough ceased and I found that I had gained six pounds in weight. I most heartily recommend it to sufferers of loss of flesh from any cause. Respectfully,
LIZZIE G. CAMPBELL.

Recommended and sold by all Druggists.
Post paid to any address on receipt of $1.00
Silver Guarantee Remedy Co.,
WHEELING, W. VA.

Manny
Lemon Juice Extractor

BEST AND MOST ECONOMICAL.

Ordinary Lemon Squeezers act upon lemon from outside, inducing a bitter oil and crushing living creatures which appear on skin as dark scales.

The "Manny" Lemon Juice Extractor operates on pulp within, and gives clear pure juice free from insects, oil or seeds.

If your dealer cannot supply you send 30 CENTS postal note or stamps for a sample post paid.

Manny Lemon Juice Extractor Co.,
202 COLUMBIA ST., ROCKFORD, ILL.
WE WANT GOOD AGENTS.

The D&C
TO MACKINAC
SUMMER TOURS
PALACE STEAMERS. LOW RATES.
Four Trips per Week Between
DETROIT, MACKINAC ISLAND
Petoskey, The Soo, Marquette, and Lake Huron Ports.
Every Evening Between
DETROIT AND CLEVELAND
Sunday Trips during June, July, August and September Only.
OUR ILLUSTRATED PAMPHLETS,
Rates and Excursion Tickets will be furnished by your Ticket Agent, or Address
A. A. SCHANTZ, Ass't G. P. A., DETROIT, MICH.,
THE DETROIT & CLEVELAND STEAM NAV. CO

DON'T WASTE MONEY
BUYING THE WRONG WAIST.
BUY THE "HAUT-TON"
WAIST.

HAUT TON WAIST.
PAT. MARCH 18 1890

It meets the popular demand for hygienic garments. Made of fine satteen in white, drab, ecru, old gold, and fast black, well stayed with cords; has no steels except in front and back, with clasp or button fronts.

Is so soft and pliable, yet produces a perfect figure.

A Perfect Waist.
Canvassers Wanted. Send for Catalogue.
Waist sent post paid on receipt $1.15
Bortree Mfg. Co., Jackson, Mich.

FARMS IN CENTRAL MICHIGAN

are positively first rate as proven by both State and United States agricultural reports. In yield and value of crops per acre, they excel Southern Michigan, Indiana and Illinois. We offer for sale at low prices and on easy terms 20,000 acres of good unimproved farming lands in Isabella County, the center county of the lower peninsular of Michigan. Write for descriptive pamphlet and sample price list.

C. M. C. Cook, Mt. Pleasant, Mich.

The Rock Island "Jewett Hay Rake and Loader."
NO FARMER CAN AFFORD TO BE WITHOUT ONE.

TAKES the hay as left by mower, rakes it CLEAN and will deliver a ton onto wagon every fifteen minutes.

Will certainly save its cost in one year, and under some circumstances in one day.

Light Draft. Fully Guaranteed.

Send for full description and testimonials.

Rock Island Plow Co.
ROCK ISLAND, ILL.
(Mention this paper).

The Electric Capsule

is a pleasant laxative and sure cure for general debility, biliousness, torpid liver, malaria, sleeplessness, loss of appetite, melancholy, costiveness, nervousness and pains in the back. It positively cures that lassitude and weariness, and want of appetite experienced by so many. Are you fatigued? The most recently discovered wonderful remedy for LOST VITALITY.

25 Cents per box.

Address ELECTRIC CAPSULE CO.
Post Office Box 3349, N. Y.
FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

ORANGE BLOSSOM
A POSITIVE CURE FOR
ALL FEMALE DISEASES.

SOME SYMPTOMS: A tired, languid feeling, low spirited and despondent, with no apparent cause. Indigestion, headache, backache, bearing down pains, pain across lower part of bowels, with great soreness in region of ovaries. Tumors, Bladder difficulty, Frequent urination, Leucorrhœa, Constipation of bowels, piles. With all these symptoms patient nervous and irritable. THE ORANGE BLOSSOM TREATMENT removes all these by a thorough process of absorption.

A LOCAL APPLICATION Perfectly harmless, which every lady can use, herself. Medicines taken internally will never relieve the many forms of female weakness. The remedy must be applied to the parts to obtain permanent relief.

A PLAIN TALK TO LADIES in our circular. Ask your druggist for one, or send two cent stamp to home office for sample box and circular.

EVERY LADY CAN TREAT HERSELF.
O. B. Pile Remedy. $1.00 FOR ONE MONTH'S TREATMENT. O. B. Stomach Powders.
O. B. Catarrh Cure. —PREPARED BY— O. B. Kidney Cones.
J. A. McGILL, M. D., & CO., 2 & 4 PANORAMA PLACE, CHICAGO, ILL.
FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
ALONZO G. FISHER, Wholesale Agent, 67 Washington St., Chicago, Ill.

THE WABASH LINE.

H-andsome equipment,
E-legant day coaches, and

W-agner palace sleeping cars
A-re in daily service
B-etween the city of St. Louis
A-nd New York and Boston.
S-pacious reclining chair cars
H-ave no equal

L-ike those run by the
I-ncomparable and only Wabash,
N-ew trains and fast time
E-very day in the year.

From East to West the sun's bright ray.
Smiles on the line that leads the way.

MAGNIFICENT VESTIBULE EXPRESS TRAINS, running free reclining chair cars and palace sleepers to St. Louis, Kansas City, and Council Bluffs. The direct route to all points in Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Texas, Indian Territory, Arkansas, Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, Washington, Montana, and California. For rates, routes, maps, etc., apply to any ticket agent or address

F. CHANDLER,
Gen. Pass. and Ticket Agent,
St. Louis, Mo.

High, but Cheap.

Chicago will soon have the largest 10-cent lodging house in the world. The building will be seven stories high, will cost $85,000, and will be heated by steam and lighted by electricity. Each of the 360 rooms will be 7 by 6 feet, provided with iron bedsteads and hot and cold water. The floors will be of tile and the wainscoting of marble.

HOW CRUEL to force children to take nasty medicines. Dr. Bull's Worm Destroyers taste like dainty candy lozenges. By mail, 25 cts. John D. Park, Cincinnati, O.

Their Eyes Were Off.

Of sixteen engineers and firemen on an Indiana railroad examined for color-blindness, four could not tell red from green, but called the color "a sort of spotted white." Providence must have sat in their cabs and helped pull their trains through.

"ONE to-day is worth ten to-morrows." A splendid rule for housekeepers to work by, especially if they use SAPOLIO. Postpone anything before cleanliness.

Different There.

In Winnipeg they ask $20 a foot less for a corner lot than for an inside one. This may strike a stranger in the summer as rather odd, but when he comes to see an eight foot snow draft piling up on the side-walk in the winter he scratches his ear and tumbles to the racket.

FOR A DISORDERED LIVER try BEECHAM'S PILLS.

A Linguistic Dog.

Fair Customer—You say you trained that dog yourself. Can he understand me if I call him in English?

Dealer—Yah. Off your whistle to him. —Street & Smith's Good News.

BRONCHITIS is cured by frequent small doses of Piso's Cure for Consumption.

THE scenter of population is the skunk.

Copyright, 1890.

Which will you have, sickness, suffering and despair, or health, strength, and spirit? You can take your choice. All chronic diseases and derangements peculiar to women are permanently cured by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It restores the female functions to healthy action. It removes the obstructions and suppressions which cause trouble and misery. For periodical pains, internal inflammation, ulceration and kindred ailments, it is a positive remedy. The system is invigorated, the blood enriched, digestion improved, melancholy and nervousness dispelled. It's a legitimate medicine, the only one that's guaranteed to give satisfaction in the cure of all "female complaints."

"German Syrup"

Martinsville, N.J., Methodist Parsonage. "My acquaintance with your remedy, Boschee's German Syrup, was made about fourteen years ago, when I contracted a Cold which resulted in a Hoarseness and a Cough which disabled me from filling my pulpit for a number of Sabbaths. After trying a Physician, without obtaining relief—I cannot say now what remedy he prescribed—I saw the advertisement of your remedy and obtained a bottle. I received such quick and permanent help from it that whenever we have had Throat or Bronchial troubles since in our family, Boschee's German Syrup has been our favorite remedy and always with favorable results. I have never hesitated to report my experience of its use to others when I have found them troubled in like manner." REV. W. H. HAGGARTY, of the Newark, New Jersey, M.E. Conference, April 25, '90.

A Safe Remedy.

G. G. GREEN, Sole Man'fr, Woodbury, N.J.

LADIES Who Value a Refined Complexion Must Use
POZZONI'S
MEDICATED
COMPLEXION
POWDER.
For Sale by Druggists & Fancy Goods Dealers Everywhere

Tutt's Pills

The dyspeptic, the debilitated, whether from excess of work of mind or body, drink or exposure in MALARIAL REGIONS,
will find Tutt's Pills the most genial restorative ever offered the suffering invalid.

A HUNDRED YEARS TO COME.

BY HIRAM LADD SPENCER.

Where, where will be the birds that sing,
A hundred years to come?
The flowers that now in beauty spring,
A hundred years to come?
The rosy cheek,
The lofty brow,
The heart that beats
So quickly now?
Where, where will be our hopes and fears,
Joy's pleasant smiles and sorrow's tears,
A hundred years to come?

Who'll press for gold this crowded street,
A hundred years to come?
Who'll tread yon aisle with willing feet,
A hundred years to come?
Pale trembling age
And fiery youth,
And childhood with
Its brow of truth;
The rich, the poor, on land and sea—
Where will the mighty millions be,
A hundred years to come?

We all within our graves will sleep,
A hundred years to come;
No living soul for us will weep,
A hundred years to come;
And others then
Our lands will till,
And other men
Our homes will fill.
And other birds will sing as gay,
And bright the sun shine as to-day,
A hundred years to come.

BURIED ALIVE.

BY GUY DE MAUPASSANT.

The guests filed slowly into the great dining-hall of the hotel and sat down at their places. The waiters began their serving quite leisurely, in order to give the belated ones time to arrive and to save themselves the trouble of bringing back the dishes; the old bathers, the habitues, with whom the season was far advanced, kept an alert watch upon the door each time it was opened, hoping for the appearance of fresh faces.

That is the chief distraction of watering-places. We go to dinner to inspect the daily arrivals, to wonder who they are, what they do, and what they think. A restless desire takes possession of us, a longing for pleasant adventures, for friendly acquaintances, for lovers, perhaps. In this elbow-to-elbow sort of life, our unknown neighbors assume extreme importance. Curiosity is aroused, sympathy is on the alert, and the social instinct is active.

We have hatreds for a week and friendships for a month; we view men with other eyes, through the special optics of a watering-place acquaintance. Suddenly, during an hour's talk after dinner, under the trees in the park, where bubbles up a healing spring, we discover men of superior intelligence and surprising merit, and, a month later, we have completely forgotten these new friends, so charming at first sight.

There also, more quickly than anywhere else, are formed grave and lasting ties. We see each other every day, know each other very soon, and in the affection that springs up is mingled something of the sweet abandon of old intimates. Later on tender recollections are cherished of the first hours of friendship, of the first communion in which the soul was brought to light, of the first looks that questioned and responded to the interrogatories and secret thoughts the lips had not yet uttered, of the first cordial confidence, and that charming sensation of opening one's heart to some one who also seems to lay bare his own to you.

Then, too, the very dullness, the monotony of days exactly alike, hourly renders more complete the unfolding of friendship's flower.

That evening, then, as every evening, we awaited the entrance of unfamiliar faces.

There came only two, but very strange ones, those of a man or a woman—father and daughter. They reminded me at once of some of Edgar Poe's characters; and yet there was an attraction about them, an unpleasant attraction; I set them down as the victims of some fatality. The gentleman was very tall and spare, slightly bent, with hair quite white, too white for his still young countenance; there was in his carriage and about his person the serious air of austerity that bespeaks the Puritan. The daughter was, perhaps, about twenty-four or twenty-five years of age. She was small and emaciated, and her exceedingly pale face wore a languid, spiritless expression. We sometimes encounter people who appear too weak for the cares and demands of life, too feeble to move, to do the things we must do every day. This girl was pretty, with the transparent beauty of an apparition; she ate with extreme slowness, as if she were almost incapable of moving her arms.

It was she undoubtedly who came for the benefit of the waters.

They happened to be opposite me, on the other side of the table; and I immediately noticed that the father had a very singular nervous affliction.

Whenever he was about to reach for anything, his hand, with a quick jerk, described a sort of fluttering zigzag before he was able to touch what he was after. In a few moments this motion annoyed me so much that I turned away my head in order not to see him.

I also observed that the young girl kept a glove on her left hand while she ate.

After dinner, I went out to take a turn in the park belonging to the water-cure establishment. It extended to the little station of Auvergne, Chatel-Guyon, hidden in a gorge at the foot of a high mountain, from which run so many bubbling springs, hot from the deep furnace of old volcanoes. Over there, beyond us, the domes, extinct craters, raised their mutilated heads above the long chain. Chatel-Guyon begins the land of "Domes."

Beyond the "Domes" are two other distinct regions, the one of needle-like peaks and the other of abrupt, precipitous mountains.

The Puy de Dome is the highest of the craters, the Pic du Sancy the most elevated of the Peaks, and the Plomb du Cantal is the greatest of the last type of mountains.

It was very warm that evening. I was walking back and forth in the shady path, listening to the music pouring forth from the casino on a mound that overlooked the park.

I perceived the father and daughter coming toward me with slow steps. I saluted them, as, in watering places, one salutes his hotel companions, the gentleman, stopping immediately, inquired of me:

"Pardon me, sir, may I ask if you can direct us to a short walk, easy and pretty if possible?"

I offered to conduct them myself to the valley through which the slender river flows—a deep, narrow gorge between two great declivities, rocky and wooded.

They accepted.

And, naturally enough, we spoke of the virtue of the mineral waters.

"Ah, yes," said he, "my daughter has a strange malady, the seat of which her physicians are unable to determine. She suffers from incomprehensible nervous symptoms. Sometimes they think her afflicted with heart disease, sometimes with liver complaint, and sometimes with spinal difficulty. At present they attribute to the stomach, which is the great motor and prime regulator of the body, this Proteus-like malady of a thousand forms, a thousand modes of attack. That is why we are here. I am myself rather of the opinion that it is her nerves. In any case it is very sad."

That reminded me immediately of the violent jerking of his hand, and I asked:

"But is that not hereditary? Are not your own nerves a little affected?"

Tranquilly he answered.

"Mine? Oh, no; I have always possessed very calm nerves."

Then suddenly, after a pause, he remarked:

"Ah, yes! You refer to the action of my hand whenever I reach for an object? That is the result of a terrible shock I once had. Imagine, sir, this child has been buried alive!"

I could find nothing to say, except "Ah!" with emotion and surprise.

He went on: "Here is the story. It is simple. Juliette had for some time seemed subject to disordered action of the heart. We were sure she suffered from some disease of this organ and expected the worst.

"One day she was brought in lifeless—dead. She had fallen dead while walking in the garden. The physician issued a certificate of death. I watched beside her for a day and two nights. I myself placed her in the coffin, which I followed to the cemetery, where she was laid in the family vault. It was in the country, in Loraine.

"I had wished that she should be buried with her jewels, bracelets, necklaces, rings, all the presents that I had given her, and her first ball dress.

"You can imagine the state of my heart on returning home. She was all I had, my wife having been dead for many years. Stunned and half mad, I shut myself alone in my room and fell into an arm-chair, almost senseless, unable to move. I was merely a wretched, breathing wreck.

"My old valet, Prosper, who had helped me place Juliette in her coffin and lay her away for her last rest, entered noiselessly and asked:

"'Monsieur, will you not eat something?' I shook my head, without speaking.

"He persisted:

"'Monsieur is wrong. This will make him ill. Would Monsieur like me to put him to bed?'

"I answered:

"'No; let me alone.'

"And he withdrew.

"How many hours may have passed, I know not. Oh! what a night! What a night! It was cold; my fire had burned out in the great fire-place; and the wind, a wintry gale, charged with icy frost, howling without and rapping at my windows with a peculiarly sinister sound.

"Long hours rolled away. I sat there, wide-awake, prostrated and overwhelmed; my eyes were open, but my body was nevertheless, dead, and my soul was engulfed in despair. Suddenly the great hall-bell rang out.

"I gave such a start that my chair creaked under me. The slow, solemn sound vibrated in the empty house. I looked to see the hour by the clock. It was 2 in the morning. Who could be coming at such an hour?

"And, abruptly, the bell rang twice again. The servants, certainly, would not dare to answer it. I took a candle and descended. I was about to demand:

"'Who is there?'

"Then, ashamed of this weakness, I slowly drew back the heavy bolts. My heart throbbed; I was afraid. I opened the door brusquely, and descried in the gloom a shape like a phantom, dressed in white.

"I recoiled, impotent with anguish, and stammered:

"'Who—who—who are you?'

"A voice answered:

"'It is I, father.'

"It was my daughter.

"Really, I thought myself mad; and I shrank away, retreating backward before the spectre as it entered, gesticulating with my hand, as if to ward off the apparition. That gesture has never left me.

"The phantom spoke again:

"'Have no fear, papa: I was not dead. Some one has stolen my rings, and has cut off my finger; the blood began to flow, and that has revived me.'

"And I observed, then, that she was covered with blood.

"I fell on my knees, gasping, sobbing hysterically.

"As soon as I had partly recovered my senses, so dazed still that I hardly comprehended the terrible happiness that had come to me, I made her go up to my room and placed her in my armchair: then I rang sharply for Prosper, that he might rekindle the fire, prepare a warm drink for her, and summon a physician.

"The man entered, gazed at my daughter, opened his mouth with a spasm of fright and horror, then fell on his back, stark dead.

"It was he who had opened the vault, who had mutilated and then abandoned my child for he could not efface the traces of his robbery; he had not even taken pains to place the coffin back in its case, certain, moreover, of not being suspected by me, who trusted him fully.

"You see, monsieur, that we are very unfortunate people."

He was silent.

Night had come on shrouding with its gloom the sad and solitary little vale, and a kind of mysterious dread seized me at finding myself alone with these uncanny beings—this corpse come to life and this father with his appalling gestures.

I could find nothing to say, but stammered:

"What a horrible thing!"

Then, after a while, I added:

"Let us return! The night has grown chill."

And we walked back toward the hotel.—Translated for the San Francisco Argonaut from the French.

No Spare Hours.

Mr. Hayseed (arriving at city hotel)—I s'pose I kin hear the gong here when it rings fer dinner, can't I?

Clerk—We have no gong. We have breakfast from 6 to 11, dinner from 12 to 6, supper from 6 to 11.

"Jehoshaphat! How am I to get time to see the city?"—New York Weekly.

Freaks of Lightning.

Lightning struck a house at Norwich, Conn., and cut half an inch off the rim of an inverted goblet on a table, leaving the goblet otherwise undisturbed. The electricity also set the hands on the clock ahead four hours without stopping the clock.

SHE—You never hear of women cashiers embezzling or running off with their employer's money. He—Not often; but when it does happen they take the employer, too.

ARTIFICIAL FOODS.

The Natural Article the Only One to Rely On.

Several years ago, when a French chemist succeeded in liquefying oxygen, speculation was rife as to the possible use to which the new substance could be put as a food. People who believed that there was such a thing as the "principle of life," thought that it could be directly reached and sustained by taking solid oxygen into the stomach, the supposition being that what could support life in one way could support it in another. If we breathe oxygen and it does us good, why should it not do us even more good when we take it in bulk, and let it reach the life principle by absorption through the tissues of the digestive apparatus? There was one fact, however, which was not taken into consideration by the people who thought that at last the true pabulum of life, of which the Rosicrucians and their successors had dreamed, had been found. In the stomach solidified oxygen would almost certainly act as a corrosive poison. Davy imagined that the principle of life must be a gas, and on this notion the theory was built up that the more gas one can get into his body the more lively he is likely to be. The doctrine that there is such a thing as the principle of life except in connection with the living and organized matter, is now generally discarded, and the man who believes that he can make an egg from which a chick can be hatched is, doubtless, a bold and original thinker, but in practice his work is likely to be of little value. Eggs come in the natural course of events, and can no more be manufactured artificially than a Frankenstein can make a real workingman. It is, of course, possible to simulate some of the products of nature, in the way in which Italians are said to make blood oranges, by injecting aniline colors under the rind of the common fruit; but oranges doctored in this way are the poorest possible of substitutes for the products of unassisted nature. In itself the blood orange is not a particularly desirable addition to a meal, and when it is made artificially it is worse even than the original article. There have been chemists who have been so utterly lost to all ideas of propriety that they have made and set before their guests gelatines and galantines extracted and compounded from old boots and shoes, but nobody except the ingenious chemists themselves have ever been known to take kindly to this variety of food. What we want to get from nature is that which she herself produces in reasonable ways. The orange must be the product of the tree, and the delicate gelatine must come from the sources to which the primitive man used to look for it when he boiled the bones and sinews of the lower animals that ranged the forests of primordial times. In short, though there are many ways in which man can manipulate for his own purposes even the refuse of nature, there is little or nothing that he can do in the way of improving natural products. The egg of the hen must come directly from the nest, and not be cunningly contrived in the laboratory. The apple and the orange have only one proper way of coming into existence, and that is the way in which they have always grown. "Special creations" of this sort are works for the production of which we must look to a higher power than that of man.—American Aanalyst.

Rubbed Out.

During the Russo-Turkish War, while Mr. Irving Montagu was in Turkey as war artist of the Illustrated London News, he was one day attracted by the strikingly characteristic features of one of his guards. Having his note-book in his hand, he jotted down a sketch of the face. Before it was finished the man looked up and saw what was going on. At once such an expression of horror and revenge passed over his countenance that Mr. Montagu was, as he says, thrilled by it.

"The fellow's manner became rapidly sullen and morose; nay more, utterly wretched," writes the correspondent. "If he supposed me possessed of the evil eye, surely he was possessed of two of the most malignant orbs which ever protruded from human cranium."

"Things went on in this mysterious way till I asked one of my comrades if he could throw any light upon the matter, when he explained that, in that superstitious country, to have one's features reproduced in any way was a sign of impending death.

"The whole thing was explained in a moment. Death, of whom I was the agent, had, to all intents and purposes, set his seal upon my unfortunate follower, a condition of affairs truly terrible to contemplate. 'Melancholy had marked him for her own.'

"However, there was no help for it; the thing was done, though his settled gloom affected us all not a little, and no explanation seemed likely to break the spell which hung over him."

The man's moroseness was becoming almost insufferable, when Mr. Montagu was suddenly "inspired with a bright idea." He called the fellow, and explained to him that he had a magic antidote to the lines of the fateful pencil. With it the man himself could blot out the pencil's work forever, and so break the fatal spell.

"The effect was marvelous; the man's face lighted up with inexpressible delight. At first he took hold of the India rubber with the tips of his fingers in the tenderest possible manner, but on realizing its miraculous qualities, he rubbed literally for dear life.

"Born and bred in a remote part of Anatolia, Suleiman had never even heard of India rubber. The picture was rubbed out. He smiled again, and so did we."

He Was the Man.

As a peddler of rugs was passing a house on Joy street a woman opened the door and called to him:

"You man, there—say."

He halted and looked at her and saw the grim determination in her eye.

"Ain't you the same young feller that sold me a rug las' spring?"

He was, but something in her voice made him forget to tell the truth.

"No'm, this is a new root for me. That mus' have been Soapy Jim. He's out of the bis'ness now."

"I reckoned it was you," persisted the woman; "think a spell. It was a red and yaller rug with a green border, and I paid for it once a week for two months. I do believe you're the same young feller."

"Never was in this part of the town afore, ma'am," vowed the man.

"Is that so? Well, if you'd a been the same man I was goin' to buy another rug for myself and one for my sister who is going to Dakoty, but I wouldn't want to deal with a stranger. Excuse me for doubtin' your word, but you do favor that young man amazingly. I see now you ain't him."

She went in and shut the door, and he knew that he had made the mistake of a lifetime.—Free Press.

Smile With Your Eyes.

There is one big "don't" which nine-tenths of womankind might with advantage hang up over their dressing tables, and it is this: "Don't smile perpetually." Is there anything more wearisome than the person who ceaselessly expands and contracts the lips over the teeth, without mirth or meaning, for that is what the continual smile eventually becomes. Let any woman stand before a mirror and attempt to produce an animated smile of welcome. She will be surprised at the witless grimace that will respond. That is what smiling is with no soul behind it. Learn to smile with the eye and keep the mouth and facial lines in repose. We speak of the pleasing gravity of the Orientals. This is the secret of it—a kindly light in the eye, with a quiet expression of the face. There is no copyright upon it. Let her and him who will imitate it.—New York Times.

For Rich People.

"What expensive things some people will buy in the jewelry line," exclaimed a traveling man for a solid silverware house. "Why I often wonder how the retailers get rid of some of the things I sell them. For instance, I have some candlesticks, fine of course, but by the time they get to the purchaser he pays $100 for the pair. And a butter dish for which I get $55 and the retailer does the best he can. Even silver-handled razors at $8 each, wholesale, and I have one set of these pieces, a brush, comb and hand mirror, which brings $40. They buy them just the same, and along before Christmas dealers wish they had laid in more."

Woe! Woe! Unutterable Woe.

Why endure it daily, nightly, we had well nigh said, hourly. They do who are tortured by chronic rheumatism. The remedy, botanic, pure, safe and prompt is at hand. Were the evidence in behalf of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters collated, it would be found to teem with well authenticated proofs that the medicine is both a preventive and a remedy in this malady of varying agonies and ever present danger. To forestall its chronic stage is the dictate of prudence. Renounce dangerous medication. Far more effective, more certain, more permanent in the beneficent consequences is the use of the Bitters. Experience indorses, the recommendation of physicians sanctions its use. Begin early, use with persistence, and expect relief. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters relieves constipation, biliousness, kidney ailments, dyspepsia and malarial trouble.

Decorating Walls.

A rich and brilliant effect, according to Furniture and Decoration, is obtained in walls intended to be decorated by mixing an equal quantity of marble dust with the lime used in making the plaster. This gives a softness of tint which cannot be obtained with ordinary plaster. In Italy it has long been the custom to give a final coating of marble dust to walls intended to be treated by the wet process.

The Bell Nuisance.

Illinois is getting rid of all her church and school bells as a public nuisance, and at a saving of much money. It has been found that people go to church just the same, and the school children are rather too early, instead of too late. Even the cow-bell has been outlawed in civilized communities.

J. C. SIMPSON, Marquess, W. Va., says: "Hall's Catarrh Cure cured me of a very bad case of catarrh." Druggists sell it, 75c.

Careless Workmen.

Statistics show that every building of six stories and over erected in the big cities calls for the death of one workman to every two stories. In ninety-seven cases out of every hundred the killed and injured have only their own carelessness to blame, and have no recourse in law.

How to Make Money.

DEAR SIR:—Having read Mr. Sargents' experience in plating with gold, silver and nickel, I am tempted to write of my success. I sent to H. K. Delno & Co., of Columbus, O., for a $5 plater. I have had more tableware and jewelry than I could plate ever since. I cleared $27 the first week and in three weeks $97. Any one can do plating and make money in any locality the year round. You can get circulars by addressing the above firm. WILLIAM GRAY.

AN Indianapolis man has discovered a new plan to eject delinquent tenants. He hires a brass band to serenade them.

IT seems appropriate enough for a whisky firm to go into liquid-ation.

Creates An Appetite

There is nothing for which we recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla with greater confidence than for loss of appetite, indigestion, sick headache and other troubles of dyspeptic nature. In the most natural way this medicine gently tones the stomach, assists digestion, and makes one feel "real hungry." Ladies in delicate health, or very dainty and particular at meals, after taking Hood's Sarsaparilla a few days, find themselves longing for and eating the plainest food with unexpected relish and satisfaction. Try it.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

SHILOH'S CONSUMPTION CURE.

The success of this Great Cough Cure is without a parallel in the history of medicine. All druggists are authorized to sell it on a positive guarantee, a test that no other cure can successfully stand. That it may become known, the Proprietors, at an enormous expense, are placing a Sample Bottle Free into every home in the United States and Canada. If you have a Cough, Sore Throat, or Bronchitis, use it, for it will cure you. If your child has the Croup, or Whooping Cough, use it promptly, and relief is sure. If you dread that insidious disease Consumption, use it. Ask your Druggist for SHILOH'S CURE, Price 10 cts., 50 cts. and $1.00. If your Lungs are sore or Back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster, Price 25 cts.

The Soap
that Cleans
Most
is Lenox.

THIS century has produced no woman who has done so much to educate her sex to a thorough and proper knowledge of themselves as Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham.

A Day's Outing.

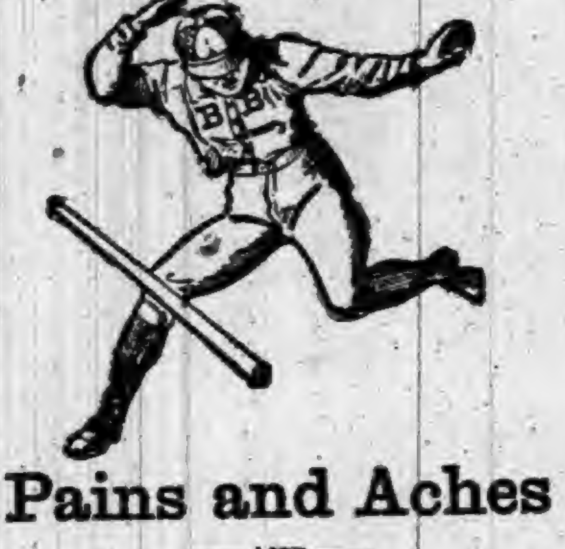
First Sportsman—See here, old boy, that fish-basket is ten times too big. We'll never catch that full in the world.

Second Sportsman—This is to carry the bottles in. I have the fish-basket in my pocket.—Street & Smith's Good News.

FITS.—All Fits stopped free by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. No Fits after first day's use. Marvellous cures. Treatise and $2.00 trial bottle free to Fit cases. Send to Dr. Kline, 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

BERNHARDT'S treasurer is a committee on Saramonies.

BASE BALL,



Pains and Aches
—AND—
THE BEST REMEDY
ARE INSEPARABLE.
FOR THE PROMPT, SURE CURE OF Sprains, Bruises, Hurts,
Cuts, Wounds, Backache,
RHEUMATISM,
ST. JACOBS OIL
HAS NO EQUAL.

SYRUP of FIGS

ONE ENJOYS

Both the method and results when Syrup of Figs is taken; it is pleasant and refreshing to the taste, and acts gently yet promptly on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels, cleanses the system effectually, dispels colds, headaches and fevers and cures habitual constipation. Syrup of Figs is the only remedy of its kind ever produced, pleasing to the taste and acceptable to the stomach, prompt in its action and truly beneficial in its effects, prepared only from the most healthy and agreeable substances, its many excellent qualities commend it to all and have made it the most popular remedy known.

Syrup of Figs is for sale in 50c and $1 bottles by all leading druggists. Any reliable druggist who may not have it on hand will procure it promptly for any one who wishes to try it. Do not accept any substitute.

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.
LOUISVILLE, KY. NEW YORK, N.Y.

"CAN I ASSIST YOU, MADAM?"

This is an every-day occurrence; she is taken with that "all-gone" or faint feeling, while calling or shopping. The cause of this feeling is some derangement, weakness, or irregularity incident to her sex. It matters little from what cause it may arise; instant relief may always be found by using

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S Vegetable Compound

It is the only Positive Cure and Legitimate Remedy for those peculiar weaknesses and ailments of our best female population. Every Druggist sells it as a standard article, or sent by mail, in form of Pills or Lozenges, on receipt of $1.00.

For the cure of Kidney Complaints, either sex, the Compound has no rival.

Send stamp for "Guide to Health and Etiquette," a beautiful illustrated book.

Mrs. Pinkham freely answers letters of inquiry. Enclose stamp for reply.

Lydia E. Pinkham Med. Co., Lynn, Mass.

The Oldest Medicine in the World is probably
DR. ISAAC THOMPSON'S
CELEBRATED EYE-WATER.
This article is a carefully prepared physician's prescription, and has been in constant use for nearly a century. There are few diseases to which mankind are subject more distressing than sore eyes, and none, perhaps, for which more remedies have been tried without success. For all external inflammation of the eyes it is an infallible remedy. If the directions are followed it will never fail. We particularly invite the attention of physicians to its merits. For sale by all druggists. JOHN L. THOMPSON, SONS & CO., TROY, N. Y. Established 1797.

FREE ILLUSTRATED PUBLICATIONS, WITH MAPS, describing Minnesota, North Dakota, Montana, Idaho, Washington and Oregon, the Free Government and Cheap NORTHERN PACIFIC R. R. LANDS

Best Agricultural, Grazing and Timber Lands now open to settlers. Mailed FREE. Address CHAS. B. LAMBORN, Land Com. N. P. R. R., St. Paul, Minn.

It PAID Me—
'Twill PAY You

Plain directions by which anybody, anywhere can make from $25 to $2,500 per year. 'Twill not interfere with, but will improve any business. Send Name, Postoffice and State, enclosing $1.00. Address, R. CONGDON, Nunda, Ill.

WALL PAPER

SAMPLES SENT FREE of spring patterns with borders and ceilings to match. One half million rolls offered at wholesale prices. White blanks, 4c to 6c; Gilts, 8c to 35c; Embossed Gilts, 10c to 50c. I will send you the most popular colorings, and guarantee to save you money. ALFRED PEATS, Wall Paper Merchant, 63-65 W. Washington-st., Chicago

HIRES
ROOT BEER
THE GREAT HEALTH DRINK.
Package makes 5 gallons. Delicious, sparkling and appetizing. Sold by all dealers. A beautiful Picture Book and Cards sent free to any one sending their address to The C. E. HIRES CO., Philad'a.

FAT FOLKS REDUCED

15 to 25 lbs. per month by harmless herbal remedies. No starving, no inconvenience and no bad effects. Strictly confidential. Send 6c. for circulars and testimonials. Address Dr. O.W.F.SNYDER, McVicker's Theatre Bldg. Chicago, Ill.

PENSION JOHN W. MORRIS, Washington, D. C.
Successfully Prosecutes Claims
Late Principal Examiner U. S. Pension Bureau. 3 yrs in last war, 15 adjudicating claims, atty since.

PATENTS Illustrated Hand Book free. J. R. CRALLE & CO., Washington, D. C.
Please mention this Paper every time you write.

PENSIONS—Due all SOLDIERS! ¾ disabled. $2 fee for increase. 25 years experience. Write for Laws. A. W. McCORMICK & SONS, WASHINGTON, D. C. & CINCINNATI, O.

LOVELL DIAMOND SAFETY $85
No Better Machine Made at Any Price.
Diamond Frame, Steel Drop Forgings, Steel Tubing, Adjustable Ball Bearings to all running Parts including Pedals. Suspension Saddle. Finest material money can buy. Finished in Enamel and Nickel.
STRICTLY HIGH GRADE IN EVERY PARTICULAR.
Bicycle Catalogue FREE.
Send six cents in stamps for our 100-page Illustrated Catalogue of Guns, Rifles, Revolvers, Sporting Goods of All Kinds, etc.
JOHN P. LOVELL ARMS CO., Mfrs., 147 Washington Street, BOSTON, MASS.

Strange indeed that

A PLAIN THING like SAPOLIO should make everything so bright, but "A needle clothes others, and is itself naked." Try it in your next house-cleaning

COPYRIGHTED

What folly it would be to cut grass with a pair of scissors! Yet people do equally silly things every day. Modern progress has grown up from the hooked sickle to the swinging scythe and thence to the lawn mower. So don't use scissors!

But do you use SAPOLIO? If you don't you are as much behind the age as if you cut grass with a dinner knife. Once there were no soaps. Then one soap served all purposes. Now the sensible folks use one soap in the toilet, another in the tub, one soap in the stables, and SAPOLIO for all scouring and house-cleaning.

DOWN WITH HIGH PRICES.

The WONDERFUL 50 CHANGES
LUBURG CHAIR.
SAFETIES
TRICYCLES, &c.
REFRIGERATORS
and ICE CHESTS.
OFFICE and
LIBRARY DESKS.
100 DESIGNS
ROLLING CHAIRS.
COMBINATION
FOLDING BEDS.

WHY not buy from the Largest Factory of its kind in the world, and SAVE Middlemen's or Dealers' profits.
Over 1,000 Articles sold direct to consumers, thereby saving 30 to 50 per cent.
Our New Automatic Brake on all Coaches, FREE.
THE WONDERFUL LUBURG CHAIR Combines a room-full of Chairs in one, besides making a Lounge, Bed, or Couch. Invalid appliances of every description. Fancy Chairs, Rockers, &c.
Write at once for Catalogue. Send stamps and mention goods wanted.
THE LUBURG MANUFACTURING CO. PHILADELPHIA, PA.
Dept. A, 101 No. 321, 323, 325 North 8th Street.

PISO'S REMEDY FOR CATARRH.—Best. Easiest to use. Cheapest. Relief is immediate. A cure is certain. For Cold in the Head it has no equal.

CATARRH

It is an Ointment, of which a small particle is applied to the nostrils. Price, 50c. Sold by druggists or sent by mail. Address, E. T. HAZELTINE, Warren, Pa.

"WOMAN, HER DISEASES AND THEIR Treatment." A valuable illustrated book of 72 pages sent free, on receipt of 10 cents, to cover cost of mailing, etc. Address P. O. Box 1654, Phila. Pa.

When Writing to Advertisers, please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

GREATEST

Announcement

Ever Heard of!

BEGINNING

April 1,

—WE WILL GIVE AWAY—

TO THE TRADE at large, a handsome PARLOR ORGAN worth in the market $85.00, to the person who buys the highest amount of goods from One Dollar and upward at one time, for CASH ONLY, at our store up to Aug. 1st.

ALSO

A fine SUIT OF CLOTHES worth in the market $18.00 with the next highest amount purchased;

A nice Saratoga Trunk, worth in the market $8,00;

A fine pair of Ladies' French Kid Shoes, worth in the market $4 00,

A nice Fine Silk Umbrella, worth in the market $3.00;

We also give with this elegant instrument a handsome Organ Stool, and Instruction Book and a guarantee from the factory for five years. This instrument was just received from the factory and is bran new. Please call and see these articles. They are now on exhibition at our store. Remember they bear inspection.

Such an opportunity is not offered very often to obtain such elegant gifts for nothing. These goods which you buy you need anyway, and unless you find the prices satisfactory don't buy; and we will sell them to you as low as the lowest and defy competition in our line.

DON'T MISS THIS

Golden

Opportunity which will never be offered to you again.

Respectfully yours,

J. LŒWENSTEIN & CO.

REVOLUTION! REVOLUTION!! REVOLUTION!!

SOMETHING NEW!

Wonderful as the Telephone!

THE

NEW PROCESS VAPOR STOVE!

IMPROVED FOR 1891.

Call and see it in operation before buying any other kind.

It has no Generator Burner, Stand Pipe, Packing, Needle Valves, Drip Cup, Pneumatic Pressure or anything to get out of order.

AND STILL HE GAZED,
AND STILL HIS WONDER GREW,
READING THAT WHICH HIM AMAZED,
BUT OTHERS ALWAYS KNEW—
THAT WE ARE THE PEOPLE
WHO MAKE THE NEW PROCESS

It is Simply Wonderful and it will pay you to Investigate. Any Child can operate it. On Exhibition during Business Hours.

A Full line of PLAIN AND RANGE STOVES in two and three burners always on hand. MURILLO the new Wall Finish, a specialty. He also handles one of the finest lines of Paints, Oils, etc., which the public will do well to inspect before purchasing elsewhere.

FOR SALE BY

J. BEURET,

Auburn, Indiana.

THREE Pozzoni's POINTS

COMPLEXION

POWDER: SAFE; CURATIVE; BEAUTIFYING. 1.2.3.

THREE White, Flesh, Brunette. POZZONI'S All Druggists Fancy Stores. TINTS

In Our Popular Brand

FINZER'S OLD HONESTY

Old Honesty

Will be found a

Combination not always to be had.

A FINE QUALITY OF

PLUG TOBACCO

AT A REASONABLE PRICE

FINZER'S LOOK FOR THIS OLD ON EACH PLUG HONESTY

IF YOU ARE LOOKING FOR AN EXTRA SWEET PIECE OF

CHEWING TOBACCO

DON'T FAIL TO GIVE

Old Honesty

A FAIR TRIAL

ASK YOUR DEALER FOR IT

DON'T TAKE ANY OTHER

JNO. FINZER & BROS., LOUISVILLE, KY.

CORRESPONDENCE

WATERLOO.

Mr. Hart of South Bend, spent Sunday here.

Last week J. D. McAnnally visited the county seat.

Monday, A. W. Pierce of Kalamazoo, was in town.

Mrs. James Robinson visited friends at Pleasant Lake last week.

Miss Blair of Newville, is spending a few days with relatives here.

Van Wagoner of Angola, has been making a visit to his brother here.

Miss Ida Blair visited Auburn last week on a shopping expedition.

Mrs. Ona Smith of Elkhart, daughter of John Brand, visited her parents last week.

The installation of Rev. Marshall occurred Tuesday evening at the Presbyterian church.

S. Barnhart is building a new addition to the north side of his residence on Franklin street.

Judge Prentice of Albion, was in Waterloo during the first of the week, returning home Wednesday.

F. W. Willis and Isaac Speer are putting down cement walks in front of their homes on Center street.

Bert Butler has a position in one of the hotels at Ft. Wayne. He left here Monday to take up his new duties.

William Dye and family are spending a portion of this week with Mrs. D.'s mother at Flint in Steuben county.

Sunday while driving rapidly, R. J. Fisk was thrown from his cart and badly injured. He was picked up insensible.

The inside and front of the brick store on Wayne street owned by Mrs. J. A. Winslow has received a new coat of paint.

Rev. S. P. Klotz preached at Pleasant Lake last Sunday night, and at the close of his service solemnized a marriage in the church.

The new marshal has taken up his duties in a commendable manner. The streets are being nicely cleaned and put into good condition.

The L. M. C. met Monday evening of this week with Mrs. Darby. The time was changed on account of the installation of Rev. Mr. Marshall Tuesday evening.

A. D. Locke and wife left Monday of this week for Indianapolis, and will return Friday. Mr. L. goes on business connected with the Building Loan Association.

Last week, Thursday, Miss Hattie Smith visited the Auburn schools, returning the evening of the same day. She was the guest of Principal and Mrs. Harrison.

William Dye and Elmer Goodwin caught, in Cedar lake last week with hook and line, a pike that measured three feet and four inches in length and weighed 15 pounds.

Prof. Chas. Kriebel, of the Butler schools preached to a good audience in the U. B. church last Sunday night. The Prof. holds the attention of his audience from beginning to end.

J. C. Boyer has improved the appearance of his home by removing his wood and coal house to the back part of the lot, and removing the fence on the two streets on which his property is located.

In delivering the diplomas to the graduating class, Prof. Keep made a very unique and well worded address, in which he wove in the title of each graduating address, at the naming of which the author arose; and so on until the whole class were on their feet, when the diplomas were presented.

It might make a curious medley were one to take notes as they pass along the main street of a village or small town, of the remarks that cannot but be heard from the lips of those assembled in groups in front of some place of business or whom one meets. A good name for it all would be street patch work, or street crazy work.

Last week Thursday Mrs. Winslow spent the day with Mrs. Barns, at Auburn, meeting there Mrs. Ralston, Mrs. Hodge and Mrs. Kline, of Warsaw, who is visiting Mrs. H. The day was fine, the company congenial, and with one of Mrs. Barns's nice dinners to enjoy, what more could be desired? A lovely boquet of pansies was laid by each plate. Time passed too quickly, and altogether this will stand out in the memory as a white day.

The commencement excercises of last week were exceedingly interesting, and thoroughly enjoyed, by the assembled multitude present. All without exception did well, and no doubt gratified pride was felt by the friends of the graduates, that it was so. Seven scholarships from different seats of learning were presented to those standing highest. Lulu Rempis took first honor, a scholarship from Earlham University, Richmond, Ind. Nellie Carpenter was second, and less than two numbers behind. She received of course second honor, a scholarship from Bloomington University. Alice Philip's honor was from DePauw University, Greencastle; Clara Snider's from Adrian, Mich. The others we cannot recall, but Grace Roby, Raymond Willis and Alfred Bartholomew were the recipients. Raymond Willis stood higher than any other boy, and received a scholarship from a college that presents now to girls. The gifts were all beautiful and in many instances costly. Little Lin Locke and Jay Broughton were dressed alike and very tasty, and distributed the floral tributes and other gifts, evidently enjoying their duty. Principal Keep has every reason to feel proud of his class of '91. The music was furnished by the school and of a quality of which to be proud. Geo. Kennedy's playing on the guitar and mouth organ at the same time was really a wonderful feat and was called for again and again. They are a fine band composed of Messrs Kennedy, Freid, Butler and Harper. Bert Butler's comic singing brought down the house. Miss Alleman's class address was fine and listened to attentively. Many persons from neighboring towns were present.

BUTLER.

Mrs. Lucina Jadwin and daughter Nettie, of Orland, visited with Butler friends last week.

Miss Ella Gregg, of Auburn, and Miss Dora Hart, of Garrett, passed through Butler last Sunday with their best fellows.

Conductor Hosmer, with Campbell and Willman, passed through Butler last Saturday with Gen. Alger's private car and the remains of the late Bishop Breckenridge, of Detroit.

An old land mark in the form of the M. F. Seeley dwelling now owned by George C. Haskins, and situated on west side of Broadway north the postoffice is about to be removed to give place to a new brick, soon to be erected on the spot. The dwelling was erected in 1862 by M. F. Seeley and occupied the ground formerly used as a hog yard by the owner of it. The house at that time was the only one south of Stiefel's store, long since removed, except a little frame on the corner, and the railroad. The writer has a very distinct recollection of these events, as he assisted in the work, and remembers that while digging a well at this house, when at the depth of seventeen feet in an aperture only forty inches wide with a brick wall taking up eight inches of the forty and a board eight inches wide, and a tub of brick almost covering the entire space, how the little daughter of Mr. Seeley's then about five years old, fell headforemost into the well passing the writer's head with a noise like a goose flying over head and the flight of an arrow she dashed head foremost into the only vacant space of about nine inches, hardly sufficient to admit her body, into the water of the well, about two feet deep. She sustained no serious injury, and was playing around as usual in a day or two. The house will be moved onto Oak street.

SPENCERVILLE.

Milton Horn returned to his home at Lake Valley, N. M. last Tuesday.

Mrs. D. M. Allen and James Boots visited friends in Maysville Sunday.

Jason Keys has gone to Huntington, to work for Mr. Kinsey in his barber shop.

Mrs. J. L. Steward has sold her stock of millinery goods to Mrs. Fitzgerald, of Leo.

Miss Anna Miller, of Toledo, is visiting her sisters, Mrs. J. W. Beams and Mrs. H. Carnes.

The festival given by the ladies of the Lutheran church Saturday evening was well patronized.

Baltzer Koontz is expected to join his family this week and again become a resident of this place.

The little daughter of John J. Steward was severely scalded Monday by falling in a pail of hot water.

The ladies missionary society of the Lutheran church will be entertained by Mrs. Henry Carnes Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. W. H. Emanuel and two sons arrived from Dakota Thursday. The doctor and his family will probably locate in this place.

Beeks Erick and J. W. Dills went to Battle Creek, Mich., Tuesday with Will Erick, who has been seriously ill for several weeks.

Decoration services were largely attended Saturday. The address of Rev. W. O. Butler and the music by the choir were excellent.

A lodge of the K. P's. was organized in this place Thursday evening with a membership of thirty-two. How is that for the dead town.

Miss Kugler, missionary from India, entertained our citizens Wednesday evening, with a graphical description of the manners and customs of that country.

P. Ashcraft, of South Whitley is canvassing this vicinity for the sale of a map of the world. He is an excellent young man and deserves a liberal patronage by all needing a map.

SUMMIT.

Mrs. M. Ketring has the grip.

Lottie Grambling has the measles.

Frank Grambling of Auburn, was on our streets Monday.

Miss Kattie Fetters, of Angola, was home a few days last week.

E. Huffman and wife visited Frank Hill and wife Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Henry Snowberger visited relatives in Waterloo a few days last week.

Chas. Shimpff and wife from west of Hudson made our town a short call last Monday.

Mrs. A. A. Forney and Mrs. Henry Forney were the guests of Mrs. Henry Lawson Tuesday.

Cora Penick, Effie Parish Bertha Coonrad were the guests Alma and Dortha Fisher last Sunday.

Dora and Dorthy Anthony, Hattie George and Mary Shultz were the guests of Theodore Duncan and wife over Sunday.

DEKALB.

Road work commenced this morning.

B. F. Myers is rejoicing over 7 pounds of boy.

Mother Hall died Thursday morning and was buried Friday, at 2 o'clock.

Geo. Weygrandt has just been made happy by the arrival of a bouncing boy which weighed eleven pounds.

Mrs. J. F. Housel, and Geo. Reeves and wife attended a birthday party at Auburn in honor of John King's 85th anniversary.

Decoration at Cedar Chapel was a success. A very large crowd of people listened to a fine oration delivered by the M. E. Pastor at Cedar Chapel. The number of people present has been variously estimated at from 1,500 2,000.

The Trial by Jury.

A fair sized but appreciative audience met at the Opera House Friday evening to listen to the music and the songs, as well as to enjoy the novelty of the opera, Trial by Jury. The curtain was rather late in rising, but it found the audience ready to enjoy every good thing presented and all was good. The first was instrumental music given by Miss Woodhull and Mrs. Garwood, and all recognized the fact that both are accomplished players, Little Aileen Garwood then sang "I'm so shy," in the sweetest manner possible and the house gave her a burst of enthusiasm, that must have pleased the little lady and she was called back, and sang a part of another little song. Master Louis VanAlstyne a young cornetist from Angola, gave a cornet solo, that was a surprise from one so young. He too, was called again, and generously applauded. Mrs. Garwood sang next, accompanied by Dr. Buchtel with the violin and Miss Woodhull with the piano. All three did finely. Dr. Buchtel then gave a violin solo, accompanied by Mrs. Garwood with the piano. It was a selection that showed the skill of both, and was one of the best things given that evening. The audience gave them an enthusiastic encore. Miss Woodhull then, sang first, an Italian song, followed by one in English. Of course she sang sweetly though people enjoyed the English better because they could understand it. Edna Davis and Reba Houser gave the last number of part first, a well executed piano duet. The curtain went down, so they could prepare for the opera. This was indeed a fine one, for the "company" had taken great pains to have it perfect. The plot of the play is that a young lady, (Mrs. Garwood) sues her former lover, (Mr. Hanna) for a breech of promise. Mr. Rogers was judge, "and a good judge, too," Dr. Coates was plaintiff, Walter Hartman was court room bailiff, and T. P. Scott foreman of the jury. The first grand move, was the coming in of the bridesmaids, who captured the jury forthwith, and the defendant coming in soon after was coldly received. Then came the plaintiff, looking every inch a queen, and that settled the case of the poor defendant. The jury all fell in love with her, as did also the counsel, and at last the judge himself. But all were all "down" on the defendant for ill treating so attractive a lady. He, poor man, was hustled about and abused, the plaintiff was petted and admired and finally the judge married her. And as the curtain went down, he sang "I'm a judge," and the chorus responded, "and a good judge, too." We can't remember the names of all the "impartial but able bodied" jury, nor of the charming bridesmaids, and ladies of the chorus, but it was all nice, and a grand success. It was given again Saturday evening, but some how the people did not comprehend what a fine entertainment it was, and so the attendance was small. But the pieces were all that could be asked by the most critical. The opera especially was better executed than on the evening before. It is a splendid thing and we are sorry more of our music loving people did not hear it.

Election of County Superintendent.

C. M. Merica, was Monday re-elected to this important and difficult position, which he has held for the past 8 years. It is a deserved compliment to a faithful and efficient public servant, and we are pleased that the sentiment in favor of retaining him was unanimous. In fact, he was chosen without any practical opposition. There had been some talk about Prof. Teeple, formerly principal of the Butler schools, but we believe no especial effort was made, though he was on the ground, and would, we presume, have accepted if chosen. A brief acquaintance with Mr. Teeple, resulted in a favorable impression and he has the reputation of being a gentleman of high attainments, excellent character, large experience, and an enthusiastic school worker. He would, no doubt, have made a successful superintendent. But he was a comparative stranger to nearly every trustee, and they evidently felt that there was no demand on them to lay aside an experienced and tried man, whose valuable work was familiar to them, and put in his place, one of whom they knew so little. Seeing the feeling tending in this direction, Mr. Teeple very wisely refrained from entering into the contest, and did not have his name announced. This generous course prevented an unseemly struggle over the office, and won him golden opinions. The trustees, too, were pleased to have the matter so pleasantly and unanimously settled, and we think they are all suited with the result. Personally, we may be pardoned, for saying a good word for Mr. Merica, though we know he does not need it. We believe he has performed the delicate and often difficult duties of the office with ability, tact and good judgment, and we certainly feel gratified at the result. Now let every school officer, and every teacher, every parent and every pupil, sustain and help him in the good work he is pushing surely on to success.

"Yes, he died a natural death. He just went from one sleep into another, till he fell into the last sleep." "What was deceased's occupation?" "He was a policeman."

FIRE!

IN THE EYE OF

WILSON

The Shoe Man.

500 PAIRS SHOES

ALL KINDS

AT ACTUAL COST.

J. N. WILSON & SON,

NORTH SIDE OF SQUARE,

AUBURN, IND.

Farmers.—Your Timber.

We want some of your timber suitable for our hub and handle factory. Such things as these:

Elm butts, 4 to 14 inches in diameter.

Hickory and ash butts, 5 inches and upward.

Timber for handles, etc. For particulars call at the Hub and Handle factory, south of Wabash station, foot of Main street, Auburn, Indiana. tf

Mrs. Margaret Craper, of the Massachusetts Gazette and News Letter, was the first American women to do newspaper work. She wrote during the years of the Revolution.

At Home.

Decatur, Ind., March 25, 1890

The Dr. Marshall Medicine Co.

Genslemen: Permit me to inform you that the medicine which I purchased of you, Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup, is the best medicine I ever used for bronchitis, asthma and coughs. I have for many years been troubled with bronchial affections and asthma, and I never found anything that so effectually removes these difficulties as Dr. Marshal's Lung Syrup. I consider it the best remedy known for bronchitis, asthma and coughs, all of which I am willing to attest by affidavit if demanded.

DAVID SHOWERS

ex-Probate judge of Adams Co.

Sold by F. E. Davenport.

Mr. Tepling, a British member of parliament who died recently, was supposed to have the largest collection of foreign stamps any man ever posessed.

Wanted, 1000 Ladies.

To call on their druggist, F. E. Davenport and ask for Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup, the best medicine to take for coughs, colds and consumption, Guaranteed to cure or money refunded. This medicine is considered by those that have used it to be the most pleasant to taste, and more effective than any other cough remedy in the market. One single bottle often curing the most severe cases of so called consumption that were really nothing more than a neglected cough, with pains in the throat and lungs. Sold by F. E. Davenport.

What has been the greatest day's run of any ocean steamship? Five hundred and fifteen miles.

Chamberlain's Immediate Relief for Diphtheria.

Wapella, Ill., Nov. 2, 1889.

I wish to state that my family, including my wife, child and hired man was cured of diphtheria by Chamberlain's Immediate Relief, while my neighbors paid large doctor's bills and then lost many members of their families.

J. S. Swearinger.

This sure cure for diphtheria is for sale by all druggists. 6

What is the longest steamship now in service in the world? The Teutonic, 565.08 feet long.

Rheumatism can be Cured.

Mrs. C. H. Howard, of Chicago, Ill., speaks thus highly of Chamberlain's Restorative Pills as a cure for rheumatism: "Please send me some of your pills. I think them invaluable for rheumatism. They always stop it on me at once." Chamberlain's Restorative Pills can be had of all druggists. 6

Peru has appropriated $25,000 to defray the expense of making its exhibit at the Exposition.

Consumption Surely Cured.

To The Editor:—Please inform your readers that I have a positive remedy for the above-named disease. By its timely use thousands of hopeless cases have been permanently cured. I shall be glad to send two bottles of my remedy FREE to any of your readers who have consumption if they will send me their Express and P. O. address. Respectfully, T. A. SLOCUM, M. C., 181 Pearl St., N. Y.

COUNTY AGENT WANTED.

The most remarkable book published during the last twenty years is "IN DARKEST AFRICA" by HENRY M. STANLEY. It is printed both in English and German, and all well informed people want it. Live agents can make more money with it than with any other book before the public. A good agent is wanted for this county, to whom very liberal terms will be given. Write for particulars.

CHAS. SCRIBNER'S SONS.

103 State St., Chicago, Ill.

"A Good Thing."

We have an excellent opening for a live energetic man. To one with small capital we can furnish permanent employment. This territory must be occupied at once. If you mean business write to,

Wood & Fuller, Oberlin, Ohio.

TO WEAK MEN

Suffering from the effects of youthful errors, early decay, wasting weakness, lost manhood, etc., I will send a valuable treatise (sealed) containing full particulars for home cure, FREE of charge. A splendid medical work; should be read by every man who is nervous and debilitated. Address, Prof. F. C. FOWLER, Moodus, Conn.

FORT WAYNE BRANCH
L. S, & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE--In Effect Nov. 30, 1890.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations—	Mail.	Exp's	Fre'gt.
Fort Wayne,...dp	11 50 am	4 40 pm	6 40 am
New Era	12 20 pm	5 16	7 20
Auburn Junc	12 31	5 27	7 45
Auburn	12 34	5 30	8 05
Waterloo	12 47	5 42	9 20
Summit	1 02	5 55	10 35
Pleasant Lake	1 12	6 07	11 20
Angola	1 20	6 18	12 01 pm
Fremont	1 35	6 34	1 35
Reading	2 04	7 04	2 35
Bankers	2 15	7 15	2 55
Hillsdale	2 37	7 30	....
Ft. Wayne Junc	2 45	7 39	3 35
Jonesville	2 47	7 41	3 40
Jackson	3 45	8 40	5 20

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations—	Freight	Exp'ss	Mail
Jackson...dp	6 45 am	11 15 am	6 30 am
Jonesville	8 50	12 10 pm	7 23
Ft. Wayne Junc	8 55	12 15	7 25
Hillsdale	....	12 45	7 40
Bankers	9 49	12 56	7 51
Reading	10 05	1 07	8 01
Fremont	11 20	1 35	8 32
Angola	12 01 pm	1 55	8 48
Pleasant Lake	1 12	2 06	8 58
Summit	1 45	2 16	9 08
Waterloo	2 40	2 40	9 20
Auburn	3 45	2 53	9 33
Auburn Junc	4 00	2 57	9 36
New Era	4 40	3 08	9 47
Fort Wayne	6 20	3 40	10 20

For rates on tickets or freight to all points, call on or address E. T. DeLAPP, Agent at Auburn. The Lake Shore via Cleveland in connection with the Erie, and P. & L. E. R. Rs. forms the quickest and most direct route to Pittsburgh.

J. A. CAMPBELL,

BUTLER, IND.,

INSURANCE,

In all the leading companies promptly placed in DeKalb and Steuben Counties.

Recorder's Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XXI. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY JUNE 11, 1891. NUMBER 24.

Rickel & Sprott

—Have—

Money

TO LOAN

IN SUMS OF

$1,000

And Up,

AT 6 PER CENT.

Apply at once, as the amount is limited. Apply to

RICKEL & SPROTT,

Real Estate and Immigration Ag'ts.

Under Farmers Bank, AUBURN, IND.

A lady who recently died in Glasgow, Scotland, bequeathed $350,000 to Gen. Booth for the salvation army.

Specimen Cases.

S H. Clifford, New Cassel, Wis., was troubled with neuralgia and rheumatism, his stomach was disordered, his liver was affected to an alarming degree, appetite fell away, and he was terribly reduced in flesh and strength. Three bottles of Electric Bitters cured him.

Edward Shephard, Harrisburg, Ill., had a running sore on his leg of eight years' standing. Used three bottles of Electric Bitters and seven boxes of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and his leg is sound and well. John Speaker, Catawba, O., had five large fever sores on his leg, doctors said he was incurable. One bottle Electric Bitters and one box Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured him entirely, Sold by Robbins & McCord 3

Samuel H. Rummph of Ft. Valley, Ga. is said to have an income of over $60,000 a year from his peach orchards.

Now Try This.

It will cost you nothing and will surely do you good, if you have a cough, cold, or any trouble with throat, chest or lungs. Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds, is guaranteed to give relief, or money will be paid back. Sufferers from La Grippe found it just the thing and under its use had a speedy and perfect recovery. Try a sample bottle at our expense and learn for yourself just how good a thing it is. Trial bottle free at Robbins & McCord's drug store. Large size 50c and $1.00. 3

Herring are said to be so plenty in the Delaware and Chesapeake canal as to be crowing each other for want of room.

A Mystery Explained.

The papers contain frequent notices of rich, pretty and educated girls eloping with negroes, tramps and coachmen. The well-known specialist, Dr. Franklin Miles, says all such girls are more or less hysterical, nervous, very impulsive, unbalanced; usually subject to headache, neuralgia, sleeplessness, immoderate crying or laughing. These show a weak nervous system for which there is no remedy equal to Restorative Nervine. Trial bottles and fine book, containing many marvelous cures, free at F. E. Davenport's who also sells and guarantees Dr. Miles' celebrated New Heart Cure, the finest of heart topics. Cures fluttering, short breath, etc. 3

The eastern headquarters of the Exposition are in the Stewart building, corner of Chambers street. Colonel A. D. Anderson is in charge.

Wanted, 1000 Ladies.

To call on their druggist, F. E. Davenport and ask for Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup, the best medicine to take for coughs, colds and consumption, Guaranteed to cure or money refunded. This medicine is considered by those that have used it to be the most pleasant to taste, and more effective than any other cough remedy in the market. One single bottle often curing the most severe cases of so-called consumption that were really nothing more than a neglected cough, with pains in the throat and lungs. Sold by F. E. Davenport.

LOUIS WOLF & CO.,

54 Calhoun St., - - FORT WAYNE, Ind.

CARPET DEPARTMENT

is stacked to the ceiling with a magnificent line of carpets.

Moquettes, that are NEW in pattern and delicate, soft tone, color almost too beautiful to walk on.

VELVETS

54 inches wide, don't cost any more proportionately than the narrow goods, because of the width you have less seams in your carpet. The pile won't sweep or pull out. New patterns in BODY BRUSSELS, and at a price a little lower than elsewhere. Magnificent line of tapestries, and all of them are private patterns to us in this market.

We show the full line of Lowell Ingrains. They are prettier this year than ever before, and the price is right. New styles of Portiers and Chenille curtains. Large line of Lace Curtains and Swiss Muslin. Mats, Rugs, Matting and Window Shades. We will send our Upholsters to your city to lay your new carpets. We employ only strictly first-class workmen.

DRESS GOODS.

Our stock of Dress Goods is complete in every detail. Prices the lowest Spring Jackets, Reefers and capes in great variety.

LOUIS WOLF & CO.,

54 Calhoun St., FORT WAYNE, Ind.

☞ Mail Orders Promptly Attended to Auburn's Commencement.

The Opera House was full, last Friday evening, just what the COURIER had asked for. Everything was arranged in holiday attire. The stage was ornamented with a beautiful class motto, "Success Crowns Diligence," a very inspiring sentence, and one, which no doubt, had often inspired the class to renewed efforts at times when the eyes were heavy and the brain weary. There was a duet sung by Mrs. Yesbera and Mabel Hartman, and an appropriate prayer by Mr. Wooten, followed by a vocal solo by Mrs. Garwood. Then came the first of the regular orations, that of Miss Nellie Buckley. It had happened, that lots had been cast for places on the program as they could not agree, and the chance resulted in a very proper arrangement, Miss Buckley being first, and the other lady, Miss Gertie Wilson, coming last. Miss Buckley's oration showed drill in the manner of delivery, as well as resolution and independence. It was apparent that she was fully in earnest, when she spoke of Indiana as the "Hub of the Nation," and she hailed the name "Hoosier" as the title of the highest American citizenship. Wilson Feagler's oration, "Hard Times" was full of sound doctrine, and should have been heard by every young man in the community. He believes much of the touble of hard times lies in our own disposition to spend money needlessly, as in bad habits, vices, luxuries and the like. A quartet, "The Auctioneer" was sung by Mrs. Yesbera, Mabel Hartman, Mr. Hastings and T. P. Scott. It was of an entirely new style and was enthusiastically received. "The Life and Opportunities of the Artisan," was Charlie Hague's oration. It was delivered in a natural, easy manner, and in a clear full voice, giving his hearers the impression that he had mastered his subject fully. "Three Ambitions of Life," was next given by Daniel Link. His manner was strong, earnest and positive, and his speech was well delivered. His three ambitions were, the orator, the soldier and the preacher. Ollie Buss' oration was, "Reason and Force." It took a scientific and scholarly turn, and was very interesting. Dr. Buchtel, at this point gave one of his choice violin solos, the accompaniment being by Mrs Garwood. They were cheered heartily and compelled to come back, and play another selection. Walter Hartman's subject, "The End Man," was rather out of the common run of subjects for such occasions, but was very applicable as he had followed it out. He is strong and natural in his manner, and illustrated his ideas aptly with examples of the various kinds of "end men," and those who might be so called. "Success Crowns Diligence," the class motto, was discussed by the last speaker, Miss Gertie Wilson. She spoke of the work of graduating classes in general, and somewhat of their individual "make up" and had many bright thoughts well told. Her manner was easy and dignified and she left a good impression. Mr. Coe, in place of Mr. Harrison, then presented the diplomas and scholarships. His speech was a scholarly effort that greatly pleased his friends in the audience and that means all present. His words to the class were full of friendly interest, mingled with good words for their consideration and guidance. The members of the class were deeply affected as well as the audience. The scholarships given, were, one from Adrian College for the one most profficient in languages. This was given to Ollie Buss, as his grades showed him best. The others were for the highest general average, which Mr. Buss' grades also gave to him, thus giving him six in all, though Miss Wilson's grades were close to his, and all stood high. The five colleges are: Bloomington, Earham, Butler, Depauw and Wabash. Finally, this class is one of the best our school has graduated, and their work at commencement showed at least equal to any we have had. There is something in the work of our present efficient corps of teachers that is solid and reliable. What higher praise can we give them? Diplomas given here mean something, and we earnestly hope the classes to follow will be able to retain each of their present members till the close of the course. As we said, before the entire work of this class, on this evening, was exceptionally good. The singing, and the instrumental music were of the highest order, and the ladies and gentlemen we mentioned above, have reason to feel gratified at the good opinions they won.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder.

A Pure Cream of Tartar Powder. Superior to every other known. Used in Millions of Homes—

40 Years the Standard.

Delicious Cake and Pastry, Light Flaky Biscuit, Griddle Cakes, Palatable and Wholesome.

No other baking powder does such work.

County Assessor.

His duties under the new assessment law, are thus set forth in an able exchange, the Huntington Democrat:

Under section 113 of the tax law the county assessor shall receive from the county auditor all returns of real and personal property made by the assessors of the several townships of the county, together with all assessment lists, schedules, statements, maps, and other books and papers filed with the auditor by said township assessors. It shall be the duty of such county assessor to make a careful examination of the tax duplicate of the county, and also of all other records and papers in the offices of the county auditor, treasurer, recorder, clerk, sheriff and surveyor, to list and assess, at its true cash value, upon the proper persons, all omitted assessable property, of every kind and nature whatsoever, including tax certificates, mortgages, debts, judgments, claims, and allowances of courts and legacies and property in the hands of administrators, executors, guardians, assignees, receivers, trustees and other fiduciaries. The valuation made on any omitted property by the county assessor shall be entered in a separate column under the head of "Valuation by County Assessor" immediately after the column containing the valuation by the township assessor in the several lists and returns of said township assessors. The county assessor shall have all the rights and powers given by law to township assessors for the examination of persons and property, and the discovery and assessment of property, and making lists and returns of the same. He shall, on or before the first Monday after the 4th day of July in each year, make returns to the county auditor of all township assessors' books, returns, lists, schedules, maps and other papers received by him from the auditor, together with such additional lists, assessments, books and papers as he has made thereto; and all assessments so made by the county assessor shall have the same force and effect as if made in the first instance by township assessor. It shall also be the duty of the county assessor, at any time during the year, to list and assess upon the proper assessor's book in the office of the county auditor any omitted property that he may discover and which should be assessed; and the same shall be placed upon the tax duplicate by the auditor and the taxes thereon extended and collected as in all other cases. The county assessor is authorized and required to advise and instruct all township assessors of his county as to their duties under the law, and for this purpose he shall visit each township assessor during the months of April or May in each year.

Parsons' Practical Book-keeping and Penmanship.

Is one of the best selling books published. Agents will make it pay well to sell in connections with Parsons' Hand-Book of Social and Business Forms. Read the following from the Kalamazoo Telegraph:

Prof. Parsons, of Parsons' Business College, is publishing a work on bookkeeping, penmanship and business forms which will be valuable to every business man, farmer or mechanic, and especially to young men and women who wish to prepare for business. Such a practical work as this should be used as a text book in every school. It is printed on the best of tint paper and handsomely bound, and presents a neat and attractive appearance. One of the important features of the book is, that it contains so many valuable forms, such as notes, drafts, bills, receipts, orders, checks, releases, account sales, invoices, bills of sale, chattel mortgages, real estate mortgages, deeds, leases, assignments, power of attorney, bonds and various forms of business letters, notes of invitation, letters of introduction and recommendation, and valuable information in relation to the law of notes, drafts, checks, etc., besides several pages devoted to the explanation of commercial terms, annual interest and short rules for computing interest, measuring lumber, marking goods, etc., corporations, bank clearing house, board of trade, survey of public lands, and everything pertaining to practical business. The beautiful copies of business and ornamental penmanship written by Professor Parsons, deserve special mention. We can cheerfully recommend it to every one.

Agents will find this a profitable work to sell, as it is what every one needs, and will sell for $1 50. Address for Territory,

W. F. PARSONS, Business College,
Kalamazoo, Mich.

Music Free.

Expense not considered, every pianist should be able to tune his own instrument for often one string out of tune gives as much trouble as though the whole scale were so and no tuner available. Our new book teaches a new method, whereby every lady or gentleman can tune for themselves. The Press, New York, says: "It teaches how to tune a piano by a new and simple process and divests the art of all mystery. It also explains how to remedy all defects in both piano and organ." The regular price of the book bound in half cloth is 75c., but in order to introduce it quickly we will send it free, with ten pieces of music and a present that sells for one dollar, to all sending nine two-cent stamps for postage, etc., and the names of five persons who play. This offer is only made for a short time by a reliable house. Great terms to composers. Address

STANDARD MUSIC CO.
25 90 Euclid-ave., Cleveland, O.

ATTENTION!

G. A. R.

We have just received a big lot of G. A. R. Suits and Hats. These suits are the genuine "Slater Blue". They are guaranteed to hold their color and give perfect satisfaction. We name the lowest prices. It will pay you to see them.

WE HANDLE THE

"Cleanfast Hosiery".

These goods have been thoroughly tested and prove to be absolutely fast color, and the prices are no higher than on hosiery which can not be guaranteed. Try a pair. If they crock in the least we will replace them or refund your money.

We are showing an immense line of Ginghams Challis, Muslin "D' Le Inde", Ceylon, Batiste, All Over Embroideries. Flouncings (both black and white), Silks, Satins, Serges and very many other fabrics, used for dresses which should be seen to be appreciated.

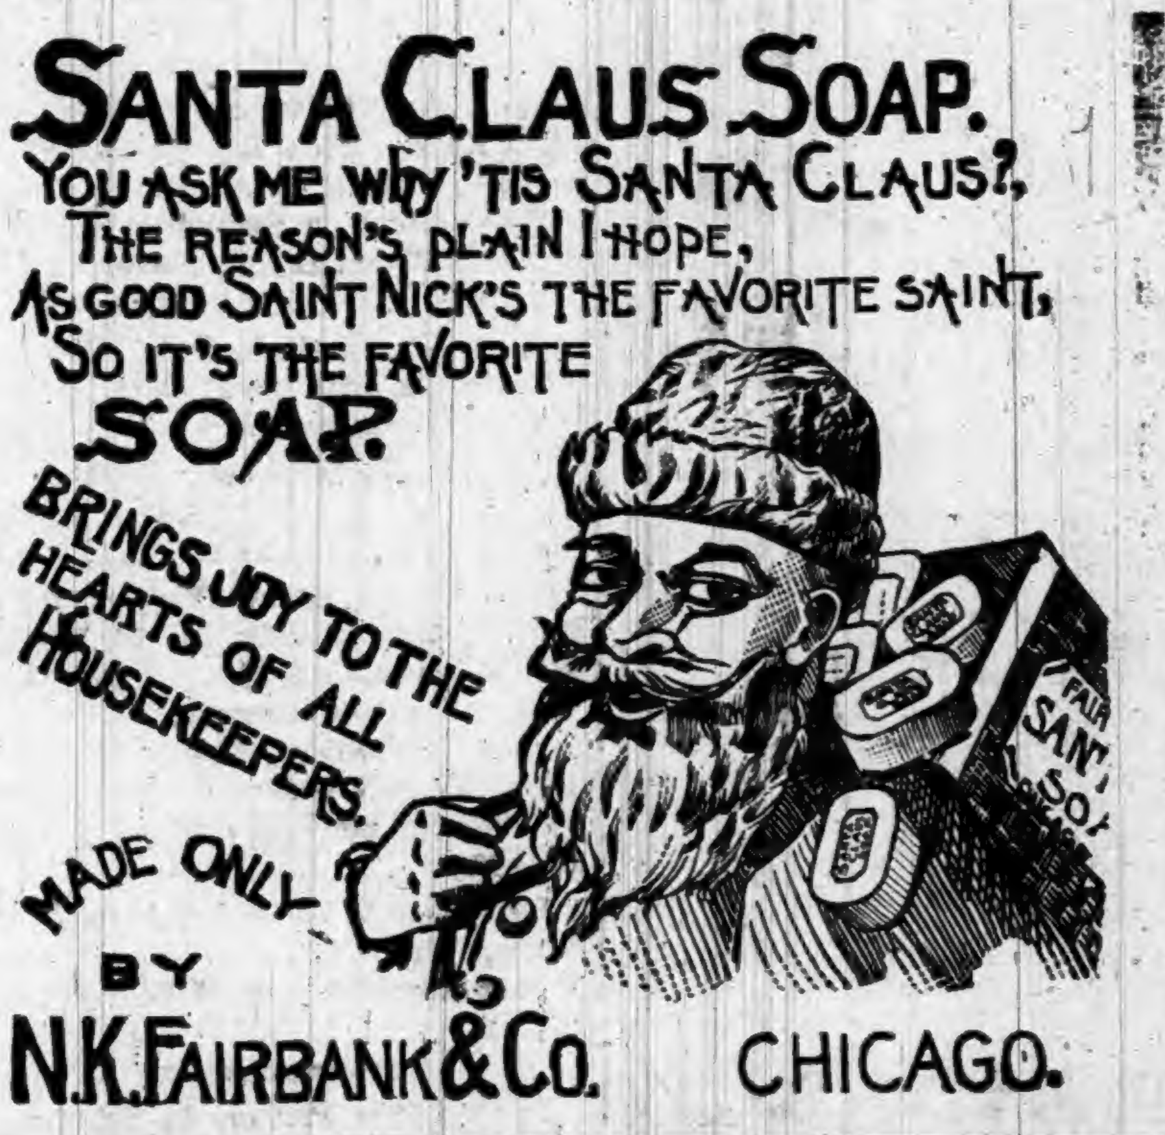
WE ARE PAYING

HIGHEST PRICES

FOR WOOL.

It will be to your interest to trade with us. Respectfully,

Schaab & Bro



SANTA CLAUS SOAP.

YOU ASK ME WHY 'TIS SANTA CLAUS?,
THE REASON'S PLAIN I HOPE,
AS GOOD SAINT NICK'S THE FAVORITE SAINT,
SO IT'S THE FAVORITE SOAP.

BRINGS JOY TO THE HEARTS OF ALL HOUSEKEEPERS.

MADE ONLY BY

N.K.FAIRBANK & CO. CHICAGO.

THREE Pozzoni's POINTS

COMPLEXION

POWDER: SAFE; CURATIVE; BEAUTIFYING. 1.2.3.

THREE White, Flesh, Brunette. POZZONI'S All Druggists AND Fancy Stores. TINTS

WHAT IS SAPOLIO?

It is a solid handsome cake of scouring soap which has no equal for all cleaning purposes except in the laundry. To use it is to value it...

What will SAPOLIO do? Why it will clean paint, make oil-cloths bright, and give the floors, tables and shelves a new appearance. It will take the grease off the dishes and off the pots and pans. You can scour the knives and forks with it, and make the tin things shine brightly. The wash-basin, the bath-tub, even the greasy kitchen sink will be as clean as a new pin if you use SAPOLIO. One cake will prove all we say. Be a clever housekeeper and try it.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS. THERE IS BUT ONE SAPOLIO.

ENOCH MORGAN'S SONS CO., NEW YORK.

AUBURN AND VICINITY.

Some Reminiscences of its Early Days and Pioneer Citizens.

1848,—Continued.

A marked feature of social life was the friendly assistance ever freely rendered in raisings, logging bees, etc., and the general and extensive neighborly visitation. Families living a dozen miles distant were recognized and visited as neighbors and only as population grew in density did the areas of neighborhoods become circumscribed.

People gave to the wayfarer, the visitor and needy of their abundance, and genuine hospitality was a fine trait in their character well deserving of recognition. Most had plain fare and few fared very sumptuously. There was, we are told, a peculiar feeling existing among settlers about game. Few if any would receive anything in payment for what was taken by his gun, but would cheerfully give you as much as you would take and would feel affronted if refusal was made or an attempt to return the compliment, except in kind.

The cranberry and the huckleberry marshes were free and the precedent then established makes it difficult for owners of such lands to restrain people from intruding.

In the fall of 1848, political feelings became strongly excited. A presidential election was to be held. The regular democratic candidate was Lewis Cass, of Michigan, the whig nominee was Gen. Zachary Taylor, of Lousiana.

Union township electors met at Auburn on Nov. 7 and cast their vote for electors. Of these, who later became prominent was Robert Dale Owen on the one ticket and Lovell H. Rousseau on the other.

The judges of this election were John D. Rockwell, Daniel Alterburg and Zenas Tanner. Timothy R. Dickinson and Joel E. Hendricks officiated as clerks, and Egbert B. Mott cast the first vote.

One hundred and forty-one votes were cast and the ballot stood 72 to 69. Martin VanBuren, a fractional candidate received no votes in Union township. DeKalb county gave Cass a majority of 230 and his majority in Indiana was about 5000.

It is a curious and remarkable fact, akin to that of the equality of sexes, that as our state has grown in population till it exceeds two millions of people, the strength of parties under new names upon fresh issues has continued relatively much the same and only by party dissention on the one hand and and personal popularity on the other, have other than democratic officers been chosen in county or county seat.

1849.

Discovery of gold in far away California drew thither by various routes streams of adventurers and DeKalb county furnished its quota some of whom after years of varying fortune, returned better off than when they departed, others suffered much and gained nothing.

Inquiring of an old time resident of Auburn, as to the condition of the village in the spring of 1849, he said that at that time there was little public spirit manifested and the growth of the place was very slow. Yet there was public spirit and it was to be made manifest in ways that make this year memorable in the humble annals of our town.

Emulation is laudable when exercised in friendly rivalry for the good of the family and the refinement and elevation of societary standard. Such emulation existed between what were then as are now the two leading religious denominations established here, viz, the Methodist Episcopal and the Presbyterian.

Rev. Samuel Lamb, the minister of the Methodist church had been assigned a circuit fully ninety miles around, and in consequence, could announce preaching at Auburn but once in four week.

Rev. James T. Bliss, the Presbyterian minister permanently located and having his home in Auburn held services on every Sabbath. Nelson Payne, prominent in all affairs of the village conducted the Presbyterian Sabbath school as its superintendent, but neither denomination having a suitable place for worship it became evident that the one which took the initiative in this direction, would score a great advantage.

Wesley Park was ambitious for the welfare of Auburn in general and for the progress of Methodism in particular and in practical response to great complaint that Methodists did not hold meetings every Sunday as did the Presbyterians, put complainants on their mettle and took decisive measures towards remedying the defect by proposing and perparing to push forward the building of a house of worship.

He deeded the east half of lot 139 for a site, took the preacher into his house and with satisfaction saw the plan for the building prepared. These preliminaries being concluded, work began. Rev. Lamb, as was his great prototype the Master, was a carpenter. He laid out the frame, logs for lumber were hauled to the mill in payment of subscription, the work of framing was donated and the construction was done by different persons. Its dimensions are 36X46 feet and 14 feet to ceiling. It has been sold to Messrs Benedict and Hollister and has been moved to grounds owned by them, south of Ninth and east of Cedar streets where it will be devoted to secular uses. Mr. Park hired Houghton as foreman, as he was a resident and convenient. Messrs Houghton and Cosper put up the cupola and cornice and did the roofing. The inside work was done by Houghton, George Brandt, Cosper and Hoffman. The seats, handmade by the foregoing were a credit to their skill being plain, strong and durable.

(To be continued next week.)

Auburn Courier.
AUBURN, INDIANA.
JAMES A. BARNS, - PUBLISHER.

FROM HILL AND DALE

AND EVERY NOOK OF EARTH THIS NEWS WAS GLEANED.

Drink Drives a Minister to Robbery—A Postmaster Assassinated—Roasted Alive—Verdict in the Famous Baccarat Case.

FORESTS AFLAME.

The Forked Fiend Raging in Canada.

Quebec special: Millions of dollars of property in this province, including hundreds of miles of valuable standing timber, are threatened with destruction by the fires that are raging on both sides of the St. Lawrence and in the Saguenay and Lake St. John districts. The loss already known amounts to hundreds of thousands of dollars. Want of rain for weeks past has dried the woods to an alarming extent, and human effort is powerless to check the spread of the flames. The ship which arrived up the St. Lawrence report forest fires all along the north shore from the mouth of the Saguenay to Escoumaines Bay, extending apparently some miles inland on the south shore. The village of Roherval, where the hotel is frequented in the fishing season by American anglers, is safe, but the woods in the back ranges of the parish are all burned. Farmers have in many instances lost their buildings and whatever hay and grain they had left. Telegraphic communication wth Lake St. John and the upper part of the Quebec and Lake St. John Railroad has been cut off. A train from lake St. John that rushed through the flames for several miles, brought the first intimation of the serious nature of the fires in this section, which have already extended from 100 to 150 miles north and south, nobody knows how far east and west, and are still spreading. One of the highest and most extensively wooded mountains along the Batiscan River, close to the line of railway, was a mass of flame as the train passed. Large fires are also raging on the line of the Quebec Central Railroad, one village near Black Lake having been completely burned out.

THE VERDICT.

The Jury's Decision in the Famous Baccarat Case.

London special: A verdict in the celebrated baccarat scandal has been returned. It is against Sir William Gordon-Cumming. The result has created tremendous excitement which is in no wise detracted from by the more than reasonable probability that such a verdict would be rendered. This probability was not so strong until after Lord Chief Justice Coleridge's charge to the jury. The jury was out but a short time. As it was expected it would be, Lord Coleridge's summing up was all against Cumming. Scenes seldom before witnessed in an English court followed the announcement of the verdict. Luckily the Prince of Wales was absent or he might have seen and heard another large installment of unpleasant and uncomplimentary things. Sentiment on the result is greatly divided. People find it hard to believe that the defendants in the case and their friends deliberately entered into a conspiracy to ruin Cumming. On the other hand nobody will hereafter regard the Prince of Wales as any better than the plaintiff in the great suit just ended.

Honolulu Holocaust.

The steamer Australia has arrived at San Francisco from Honolulu. Just before leaving that port the Government warehouse was burned. There were 40,000 cases of kerosene, and the blaze and smoke could be seen by the passengers on the Australia sixty miles at sea. All of the stock of coal oil in the city, save a few cases in the hands of the retailers, were in this warehouse, and the whole city will be short of oil until the return of the Australia.

La grippe has become an epidemic on the island, and many deaths have occurred.

Roasted Alive.

Two freight trains on the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Railroad collided at Savannah. A car of oil ignited, setting the debris of the wrecked trains on fire. John Harrison, a brakeman, was literally roasted alive. Two unknown tramps were also burned to a crisp, and every man in both crews was more or less bruised and injured, but none others fatally.

Anarchist's Vengeance.

A dynamite cartridge was exploded in front of the police station at Clichy, France. The station and other buildings in the neighborhood suffered much damage. It is supposed that the outrage was committed by anarchists in revenge for the activity of the police in suppressing the May Day demonstration.

Newspapers Suspend.

The Sunday Plaindealer, a Knights of Labor publication, and the Weekly Independent, an Alliance paper, both published at LaPorte, Ind., by H. B. Darling, have suspended publication, owing to lack of support and financial backing.

An Able Jurist Dead.

Judge Isaac G. Wilson, of Galena, Ill., Appellate Court District, one of the oldest men on the bench in that State, died at his home in Galena, of paralysis of the heart. His death was unexpected.

Drink Did It.

Rev. John S. Ray was sentenced at Wooster, Ohio, to two years in the penitentiary for burglary. He pleaded guilty. Drink caused his downfall.

Fatal Swim.

Kirby C. Jackson, Jr., was drowned while bathing in the St. Mary's River at Fort Wayne.

A Postmaster Assassinated.

B. M. Clark, Postmaster of Old Jefferson, Rutherford County, Tenn., and proprietor of a store at that place, was assassinated by some unknown person. Mr. Clark was 28 years of age, and very popular. His untimely end has caused a great deal of excitement.

A Factory Burned.

The Adrian, Mich., furniture factory was entirely destroyed by fire. The loss above insurance is estimated at $20,000. One thousand five hundred men are thrown out of work.

Pathetic Romance.

A pathetic romance has just come to light at Benton Harbor, Mich. Several days ago, Thomas Flood, a well-known and wealthy citizen of that city, dropped dead on the street. Mr. Flood formerly resided at Chicago, where he formed the acquaintance of Miss Nellie Costello, a charming young lady of high intelligence and prepossessing appearance. They became firm friends and after Mr. Flood moved to Benton Harbor kept up a correspondence. Their friendship warmed into love, and finally ended in their engagement. The will has just been admitted to probate, and it is found that Miss Costello is heir to a snug little fortune of $15,000. The young lady is almost heartbroken over the untimely death of her lover.

MANY TAKEN IN.

Citizens of Massillon Swindled Out of Considerable Money by Sharpers.

Massillon, (O.) special: A plausible fellow of good address dropped in here five weeks ago, and giving the name of A. C. Wagley, represented himself as an organizer for the Golden Harvest Society, of Chicago, the main and almost the only feature of which was that upon the payment of two dollars initiation and two dollars weekly dues each member would receive $100 at the end of four weeks. It only required a few days' time for the plausible organizer to secure about $150, some of the greedy ones putting $5 each into what was styled a reserve fund. Mr. Organizer then left to found a lodge in another town. Becoming suspicious a few days ago that there might be something wrong, L. V. Teepie, a resident lawyer, was sent to Chicago to look up the supreme office. He found three men located in one of the upper floors of a tall building on Dearborn street, opposite the postoffice. He represented himself as Mr. Davis, from Cleveland, and wanted to be an organizer. He was promptly engaged, and equipped with printed matter, given $7 for expenses, and sent to Valparaiso, Ind., with instructions to work quietly. When the embryo organizer got to Fort Wayne, Ind., on his way to Massillon, he returned his equipment by express.

A PRISONER'S ESCAPE.

Thrilling Scene in New York, in Which a Convict Gets Away.

Joseph P. Shanahan, a convict on his way to Sing Sing to serve a sixteen years' sentence, escaped from the Deputy Sheriff in the Grand Central Depot, New York. The escape was one of the best planned and boldest in execution of all that have occurred in New York for many years. Shanahan was one of a batch of eleven prisoners to be taken to Sing Sing. They were divided into three groups, and were in charge of Deputy Sheriffs Burke, Whalen and Lynch. Each group was handcuffed together. The first group had entered the cars safely, the second group, in which was Shanahan, in charge of Deputy Sheriff Burke, had just stepped on the platform of the car when Shanahan's hand shot up and the handcuff flew off. Then Shanahan made a jump straight across the platform, down on the opposite track and made for the entrance of the railroad yards. As soon as he jumped Deputy Sheriff Burke fired a shot after him and started in pursuit. He fired six more shots and was gaining on Shanahan when he tripped on the track, dislocating his shoulder and receiving other injuries. Shanahan dashed on to Forty-fifth street, where a cab was waiting for him and he jumped in and drove off.

THE ITATA.

The Charges Against Her Not Formidable so Far as the United States Is Concerned.

Washington special: Nothing is known in official circles here of the reported secreting of arms by the Itata before her surrender to Admiral McCann. It is assumed from Admiral McCann's reports to the Navy Department that the insurgents have been acting in good faith throughout, but in any event arms and ammunition will cut a smaller figure in the legal proceedings than was at first supposed, and even if some of them have been landed in Chili it is doubtful if this government has reason to complain. The libel against Itata rests entirely upon her record while in the United States waters and in the harbor of San Diego. It is charged that while in that harbor she did or was about to do certain acts in violation to the neutrality laws. According to the advices already received, the arms she carried were not taken aboard at San Diego or the United States, and therefore she might have landed them in Chili without complaint so far as the present libel is concerned.

CAME TO LIFE.

A Supposed Dead Soldier Shows Up After Thirty Years.

Capt. Porter, of the government service, stationed at Chicago, is at work on the "Newby mystery" in the interest of the War Department. At an early date there will be taken at Mills Shoals, White County, Ill., the testimony of a number of witnesses in which the strange story of Wm. Newby will be told in full, the official record of the testimony to be placed in the archives at Washington. Wm. Newby, after being counted as dead and buried on the battlefield of Shiloh for nearly thirty years, suddenly re-appeared at his old home, and was identified by his wife, children, and brothers as the "dead come to life." The cause of the investigation is that old William Newby has applied for his "honorable discharge" from the United States army, and that there is likely to arise one of the most novel questions of identity and may be of "back pay," ever known in the military history of any country.

A Grip Car Wrecked.

While a Wabash avenue grip train was crossing the Illinois Central Railroad tracks at Sixteenth street, Chicago, an Illinois Central train which had been standing a short distance from the street car tracks suddenly backed down crushing into the last car of the train and lamost completely wrecking it. The twenty passengers in the car, half of whom were women, miraculously escaped unhurt. The accident was caused through the gates at the crossing being raised before the grip train was clear of the Illinois Central train. The engineer of the Illinois Central says he got the signal to back down, but no one else seems to have seen the signal.

A Brave Man Drowned.

Capt. William Clark, superintendent of the life saving station of the port at Erie, Pa., was drowned in the surf. The propeller, "Badger State," had been driven on the beach, about a mile from the flash light, and Capt. Clark's crew went to her assistance. While endeavoring to pass a line from the propeller to the tug Erie, the life boat was capsized by a high wave and failed to right itself. The crew clambered onto its bottom, but another wave struck the captain and hurled him about thirty feet from the boat. The crew were unable to render him any assistance. The up-turned boat washed ashore with the men still clinging to her.

A Kentucky Lynching.

At Wickliffe, Ky., Evan Shelby, charged with the murder of Mrs. Sallie Moore, was taken from the jail by a mob of 100 unknown men and hung. The jailer resisted and was roughly handed. Shelby fought desperately and badly hurt several of the mob. He was practically dead before they got him out. The murder was committed in 1887 near Woodville, a village near Wickliffe, just across from Cairo, Ill. Shelby had been sentenced for life but got a new trial from the Court of Appeals. The mob said they had previously hung Mart Shelby, under indictment as accessory.

Imprisoned in a Tunnel.

San Francisco special: An immense cave-in occurred at the Waterloo mine, severely injuring two men and either crushing or imprisoning a third. Ed Moran and Tom Elster, who were in the main tunnel, first heard ominous cracking among the timbers overhead and called to James McGowan, who was wheeling ore into a chute further in. A moment more and the timbers crushed together, letting down a great mass of earth. Moran and Elster were hurled against the side of the tunnel. They managed to crawl to the outside, but nothing is known of McGowan.

Two Children Burned.

Two children of Samuel P. Myers, a prominent farmer living about two miles from Myersdale, Pa., were burned to death at their home. The children burned were Clara and Missouri, aged 9 and 12 years, respectively. It is not known how the fire originated. Mr. Myers was badly burned about the head and face. The other members of the family narrowly escaped a like fate. The young girl victims were heard to cry out for help once while they were being burned to death, but nothing could be done to save them.

May Be Trouble.

Crawfordsville (Ind.) special: The Midland Railroad strike was raised for a few hours, but when an attempt was made to take a train out of Waveland it was stopped by the strikers, who claimed that the road had not deposited enough money with the court by $300 or $400 to pay off their claims. Henry Crawford and Traffic Manager Moore were here and held a conference with Judge Snyder who ordered Sheriff McClosky to take a posse of men to Waveland and start the trains, employing force if necessary, and to arrest all strikers who attempt to interfere.

On the Gallows.

Charles Shepherd and William Furst, who murdered Carl Pulsifer, December 10, 1889, and then robbed the body of $20, were hanged at Fremont, Neb. Shepherd nearly fainted on the gallows, but Furst acted entirely unconscious. When the men were asked if they had anything else to say, Furst replied: "Nothing." But Shepherd said: "We are the men who did the deed, and therefore no one else can be accused of it." Both of the men's necks were broken in the fall. None of their relatives witnessed the execution.

Died Without a Word.

L'Original, (Ont.) special: Narcisse Larocuque was hanged for the murder of Mary and Eliza McGonagle last October. The execution was probably the most expeditious on record. Five minutes from the time the hangman pinioned his arms, Larocuque was swung into eternity. He died without a word and without the slightest sign of fear. He made no confession. Larocuque's victims were the children of James McGonagle, a farmer living a mile and a half from Cumberland, and were aged 14 and 12 years, respectively. Both had been outraged.

Shot By His Intended Victim.

James Mitchell went to the house of Marion Townsend, six miles west of Mount Vernon, Ind., and fired two loads of buckshot from a shotgun at him, nine of which took effect in legs, arms and breast. Townsend, after getting shot, stepped back into his house and got a Winchester rifle and fired two shots at Mitchell, the last of which took effect in his left breast, killing him instantly. Townsend is painfully but not dangerously injured.

Smothered in Smoke.

The mill of the Patten Paper Company at Appleton, Wis., was damaged by fire to the extent of $5,000. The fire caught in an unknown way in the rag room. Two employes, Cornelius Johnson and Henry Ryan, went up with a load of hose, and the smoke getting thick, attempted to beat a retreat. They got through the wrong door, however, and into a little room, where they smothered to death.

Indictment Quashed.

Judge Blodgett quashed the federal indictment against George J. Gibson, the ex-secretary of the whisky trust, who is held for trial on the charge of trying to bribe Government Guager De-War to blow up Shufeldt's brewery at Chicago. The judge held that the federal statutes did not cover the crime, which was one to be answered for in the State courts.

Lost his Leg.

Dr. J. H. Ford lost his right leg below the knee at Wabash, Ind., by being struck by train No. 43 on the Wabash, by catching his foot in the rail. Dr. Ford is 43 years old, and division surgeon of the Wabash and chief surgeon of the Cincinnati, Wabash and Michigan. He has a wife and two children.

Killed While Resisting Arrest.

At Stone Cliff, Fayette Co., W. Va., City Sergeant Hodge, of Radford, Va., got off a train in pursuit of a colored fellow wanted in Radford. The man saw Hodge coming and drew his gun, whereupon Hodge fired and shot him dead.

A Beautiful Girl Shoots Herself.

Miss Elfie Brownell, the handsome 22-year-old daughter of 'Squire G. W. Brownell, a wealthy farmer on Douglas Bottom, W. Va., shot herself in the left breast. It is claimed by her relatives that it was accidental.

Beheaded by a Train.

An unknown man was struck by a train on the P. & W. Railway at Pine Creek, Pa., and instantly killed. His head was served from his body. From letters found in his pockets it is supposed that he came from New Castle.

Jews Fleeing.

Jewish emigrants from Russia continue to arrive in Germany in large numbers. Hundreds of them have just arrived at Charlottenburg in a most pitiable condition. Most of them are actually starving.

THE MARKETS.

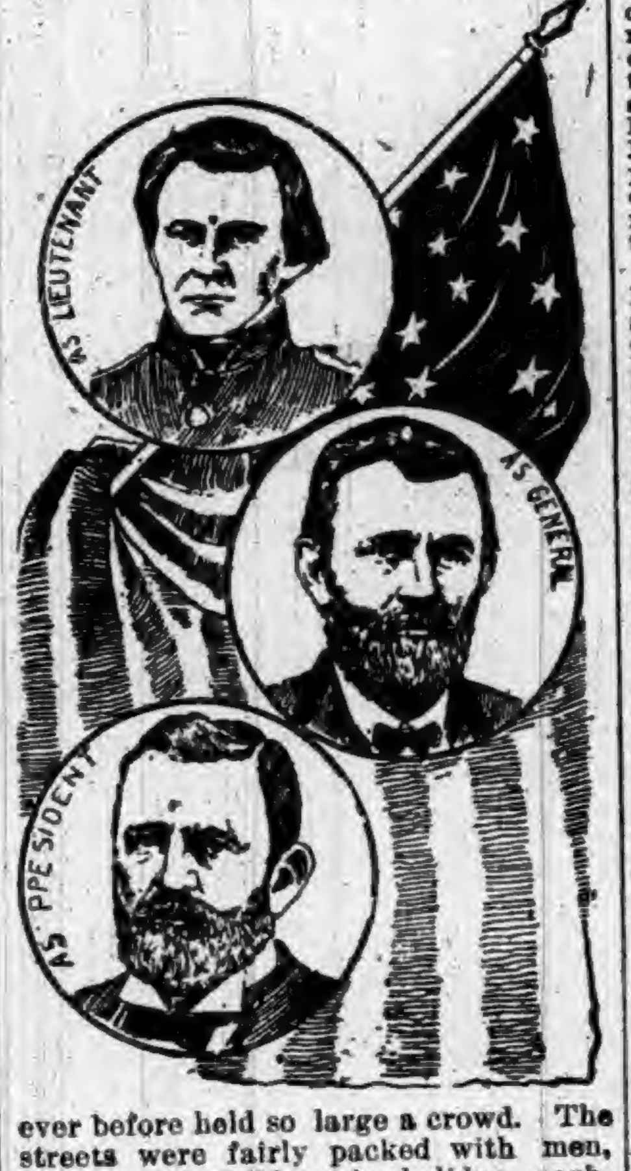
CHICAGO.
CATTLE—Common to prime	$3.50 @ 6.53
HOGS—Shipping grades	4.25 @ 4.70
SHEEP	5.00 @ 5.75
WHEAT—No 2 Red	1.01 @ 1.02
CORN—No. 2	.57 @ .57½
OATS—No. 2	.44 @ .44½
RYE—No. 2	.86 @ .87
BUTTER—Choice Creamery	.17½@ .18
CHEESE—Full Cream, flats	.08½@ .09
EGGS—Fresh	.15 @ .15½
POTATOES—Western, per bu	.95 @ 1.05
INDIANAPOLIS.
CATTLE—Shipping	3.50 @ 5.75
HOGS—Choice light	3.00 @ 4.55
SHEEP—Common to Prime	4.00 @ 4.75
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	1.01 @ 1.01½
CORN—No. 1 White	.55½@ .56¼
OATS—No. 2 White	.44 @ .44½
ST. LOUIS.
CATTLE	5.10 @ 6.15
HOGS	4.50 @ 4.60
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	1.00¾@ 1.01
CORN—No. 2	.53¼@ .53½
OATS—No. 2	.42 @ .42½
BARLEY—Iowa	.60 @ .71
CINCINNATI.
CATTLE	3.50 @ 5.50
HOGS	3.50 @ 4.85
SHEEP	3.75 @ 5.75
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	1.05 @ 1.05½
CORN—No. 2	.57½@ .58
OATS—No. 2 Mixed	.47 @ .48
DETROIT.
CATTLE	3.00 @ 5.25
HOGS	3.00 @ 4.85
SHEEP	3.00 @ 5.25
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	1.06 @ 1.06¼
CORN—No. 2 Yellow	.54 @ .55
OATS—No. 2 White	.47 @ .47½
TOLEDO.
WHEAT	1.04 @ 1.05
CORN—Cash	.57 @ .57½
OATS—No. 1 White	.45 @ .46
CLOVER SEED	4.15 @ 4.30
EAST LIBERTY.
CATTLE—Common to Prime	4.00 @ 5.00
HOGS—Light	4.00 @ 5.00
SHEEP—Medium	4.25 @ 5.25
LAMBS	4.75 @ 6.00
MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—No. 2 Spring	1.00 @ 1.01
CORN—No. 3	.59 @ .60
OATS—No. 2 White	.49 @ .50
RYE—No. 1	.87½@ .88
BARLEY—No. 2	.72 @ .73½
PORK—Mess	10.00 @11.00
NEW YORK.
CATTLE	5.00 @ 6.40
HOGS	4.25 @ 5.25
SHEEP	4.00 @ 5.75
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	1.09½@ 1.10
CORN—No. 2	.64 @ .65
OATS—Mixed Western	.46 @ .50
BUTTER—Creamery	.14 @ .19
EGGS—Western	.18 @ .19½
PORK—New Mess	12.00 @12.75

IN MEMORY OF GRANT,

THE DEAD HERO OF APPOMATTOX.

The Most Illustrious Chieftain of Modern Times, an Imposing Statue Is Unveiled—Its Site Galena, from Whence He Went Forth to Fame and Fortune.

The streets of Galena, the little Illinois city where Gen. Grant spent the years preceding his emergence from obscurity into everlasting fame, were thronged with visitors on the occasion of the unveiling of the Grant monument presented to Galena by H. H. Kohlsaat, the well-known business man of Chicago. It is doubtful if the city ever before held so large a crowd. The streets were fairly packed with men, women and children in holiday garb, each bent upon adding his quota to the great song of honor that goes forth to the dead hero of Appomattox. The generosity of a Galena boy, now grown to be a Chicago man, has reared in the former home of Gen. Grant a noble monument which is destined to mark forever the love, esteem and veneration in which Illinois holds the memory of her greatest citizen-soldier. Distinguished citizens were gathered from all points of the Union to celebrate the unveiling of the monument as it deserves. Mr. Kohlsaat's gift is a credit alike to the city of his birth, the city of his adoption, and to himself.



The die on the base of the statue had been completed in the last few days by having cut thereon the names of twelve battles in which Grant was engaged, as follows: Palo Alto, Monterey, Molino del Rey, Chapultepec, Belmont, Fort Donelson, Shiloh, Vicksburg, Chattanooga, Spottsylvania, Petersburg, and Appomattox.

Hard by the insecure old house that gave shelter to the old commander the statue stands—a noble bronze cast in heroic dimensions and mounted on a pedestal of carved and glistening red granite. Three tiers of gray granite form its base. It is in Grant Park—a six-acre plot of ground high above the river, purchased and given to the city through the instrumentality of two Chicagoans, H. H. Kohlsaat and James W. Scott, both of whom are proud of having come out of Galena. Already the park is graced by a soldiers' monument and a fountain.

Sculptor Gelert did his work faithfully and artistically. He has given to Galena a marvelous life-like statue of the General in civilian attire and in an attitude of meditation. "Grant, our Citizen," is the simple inscription on the front surface of the monument. The total cost of the statue is about $25,000.

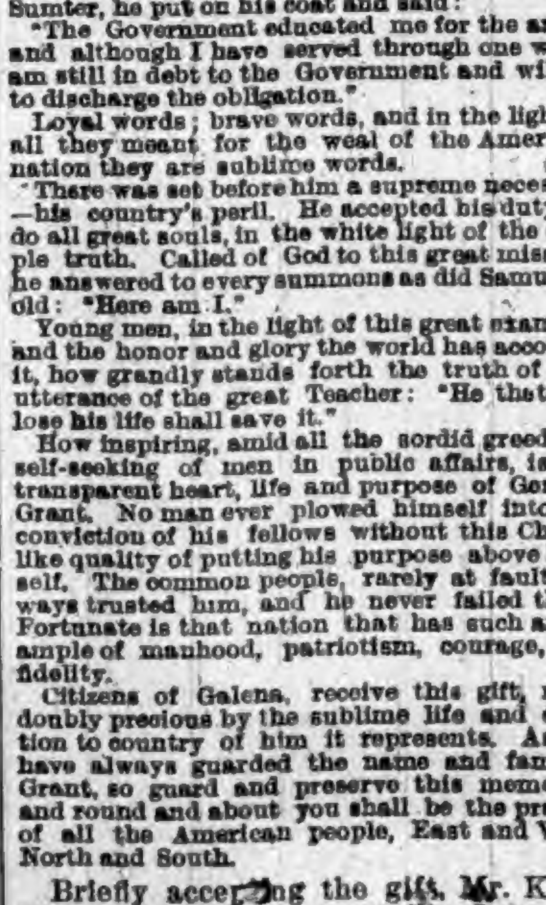
The exercises were begun by prayer by the Rev. H. W. Atchison, after which Miss Pauline Kohlsaat of Chicago pulled the cord and unveiled the statue, the band playing "Hall to the Chief" at the time.

Ex-Gov. Hoard of Wisconsin then presented the monument with the following words:

I am commissioned on behalf of one of the distinguished citizens of your State—Mr. H. H. Kohlsaat, of Chicago, "a man whose soul delighted in goodly deeds,"—to tender you this noble memorial of Gen. Grant. I need not tell you in set words of the purpose of the donor, I need not speak of the rare soul that lies behind this noble gift, of his generosity, of his patriotism, of his abiding love for his fellow-men and his country. All this is a thousand times more expressively told in the silent yet eloquent presence of yonder heroic statue. Who shall paint the rose or adequately tell of the subtle essence of its perfume? Who shall bound by descriptive phrase the love of a mother or define the devotion of a wife?

"A good and perfect gift" like this, and the creative spirit of the giver, who shall hope to bear them to your hearts on the failing wings of speech?

Instinctively now our thoughts are upon him who was ever our invincible and unconquerable pilot, the God-given Grant. Inseparably connected with the name of Grant will always stand the city of Galena. He was your own beloved citizen. Here he uttered the words that were pregnant with all the after-meaning of his career. Entering his store the morning after the dispatch came announcing the surrender of Sumter, he put on his coat and said:



EX-GOVERNOR WM. D. HOARD.

"The Government educated me for the army, and although I have served through one war I am still in debt to the Government and willing to discharge the obligation."

Loyal words; brave words, and in the light of all they meant for the weal of the American nation they are sublime words.

"There was set before him a supreme necessity—his country's peril. He accepted his duty, as do all great souls, in the white light of the simple truth. Called of God to this great mission, he answered to every summons as did Samuel of old: "Here am I."

Young men, in the light of this great example, and the honor and glory the world has accorded it, how grandly stands forth the truth of that utterance of the great Teacher: "He that will lose his life shall save it."

How inspiring, amid all the sordid greed and self-seeking of men in public affairs, is the transparent heart, life and purpose of General Grant. No man ever plowed himself into the conviction of his fellows without this Christ-like quality of putting his purpose above himself. The common people, rarely at fault, always trusted him, and he never failed them. Fortunate is that nation that has such an example of manhood, patriotism, courage, and fidelity.

Citizens of Galena, receive this gift, made doubly precious by the sublime life and devotion to country of him it represents. As you have always guarded the name and fame of Grant, so guard and preserve this memorial, and round and about you shall be the prayers of all the American people, East and West, North and South.

Briefly accepting the gift, Mr. K. H. McClellan, Chairman of the Board of Park Commissioners, introduced Mr. Depew. The famous after-dinner speaker and brilliant orator was greeted with rounds of applause. His speech was as follows:

Thirty years ago your city numbered among its citizens a man so modest that he was little known in the community; a merchant so humble that his activities were not felt in your business. Three years later his fame illumined the earth, and the calculations of every commercial venture and of every constructive enterprise in the country were based upon the success or failure of his plans. He was then supporting his family on a thousand dollars a year, and before the third anniversary of his departure from your city he was spending four millions a day for the preservation of the Union. One of the patriotic meetings, common at that time all over the North, was held here to sustain President Lincoln in his call for seventy-five thousand men to suppress the rebellion. The ardor and eloquence of John A. Rawlins so impressed an auditor whom none of the Congressmen and prominent citizens on the platform had ever met that he subsequently made the orator his chief of staff and Secretary of War. Some one discovered that Captain Grant, a graduate of West Point and a veteran of the Mexican war, lived in this city, and he was invited to preside at the formation of a military company. He was so diffident that few heard his speech of three sentences, but in that short address was condensed all the eloquence and logic of the times. "You know the object for which we are assembled. Men are needed to preserve the Union. What is your pleasure?" He organized and drilled that company and led it to the Governor at Springfield. By that march Galena lost a citizen and the republic found its savior.

Grant's career will be the paradox of history. Parallels cannot be drawn for him with the great captains of the world. Historians, by common consent, place Alexander the Great, Hannibal, Julius Cæsar and Napoleon Bonaparte in the front rank. But each of them had learned the art of war by continuous service and unequaled opportunities and displayed the most brilliant qualities at every period of their achievements. Hannibal and Cæsar had won universal fame in the '30's. Alexander died at 33, grieving because he had no more worlds to conquer, and Napoleon at 37 was master of Europe. But Grant at 40 was an obscure leather merchant in Galena. As a cadet at West Point he had risen only just above the middle of his class. As a subaltern on the frontier and in Mexico he had done no more than perform his duty with the courage and capacity of the average West-Pointer.

But the moment that the great responsibilities were thrust upon him and the fate of his country rested upon his shoulders, this indifferent farmer, business man, merchant, became the foremost figure of the century. The reserve powers of a dominant intellect, which ordinary affairs could not move, came into action. A mighty mind which God had kept for the hour of supreme danger to the republic grasped the scattered elements of strength, solidified them into a resistless force and organized victory. He divined the purposes of the enemy as well as he knew his own plans. His brain became clearer, his strategy more perfect and his confidence in himself more serene as his power increased. He could lead the assault at Donelson or the forlorn hope at Shiloh or maneuver his forces with exquisite skill and rare originality of resources at Vicksburg as the best of brigade or corps commanders, or before Richmond calmly conduct a campaign covering a continent and many armies with consummate generalship.

His plans did not contemplate defeat. The movement he always made was "advance." The order he always gave was "forward." When Buell told him that the transports at Pittsburg Landing would not carry away one-third of his force Grant said: "If that becomes necessary they will hold all there are left." His Vicksburg campaign was against all the teachings of the military schools and the unanimous opinions of his council of war. A veteran strategist cried in indignant remonstrance: "You will cut loose from your base of supplies, and that is contrary to all the rules." Grant answered: "Unless we capture Vicksburg the North will cut off our supplies." And the sorely bereaved and disheartened people were transported with joy and hope by the Fourth of July message: "Vicksburg has surrendered." The Western armies never knew their resistless power until they felt the hand of this master. No better or braver body of soldiers ever marched or fought than the Army of the Potomac. It lost battles through bad generalship and generals by camp jealousies and capital intrigues. Thousands of its heroes fell in fruitless fights, but never wavered in its superb confidence and courage. At last it found a leader worthy of itself and after scores of bloody victories ended the rebellion under Grant. We are not yet far enough from the passions of the civil strife to do full justice to the genius of the general who commanded the rebel army. England's greatest living general, Lord Wolseley, who served with him, assigns him a foremost place among the commanders of modern times. He possessed beyond most leaders the loyal and enthusiastic devotion of his people, and he was the idol of his army. In estimating the results and awarding the credit of the last campaign of the war, we must remember that Gen. Lee had defeated or baffled every opponent for three years, and that, after a contest unparalleled in desperate valor, frightful carnage and matchless strategy, he surrendered his sword to Grant.

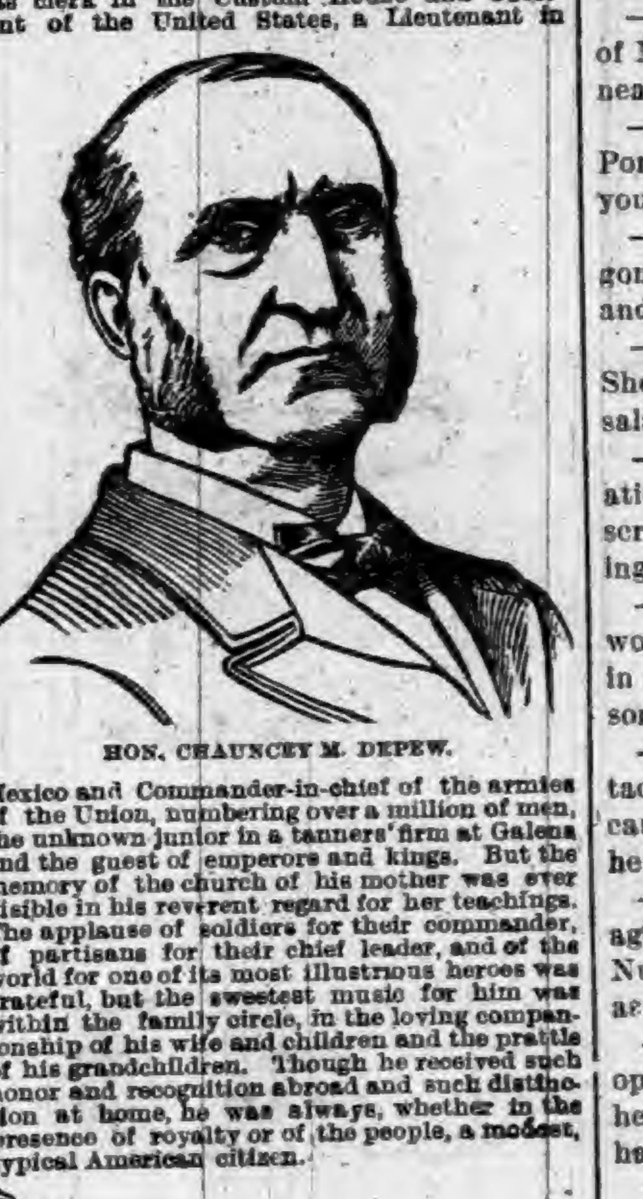
The most signal services rendered by Grant to his country were at Appomattox, and in his contest with President Johnson. The passions aroused by the civil war were most inflamed when the Confederacy collapsed. Grief and vengeance are bad counselors. One serene intellect was possessed of an intuition which was second to prophecy and was clothed with power. He saw through the vindictive suggestions of the hour that the seceded States must be admitted to the Union and their people vested with all the rights of American citizenship and all the privileges of State government, or the war had been fought in vain. He sternly repressed the expressions of joy by his troops as the vanquished enemy marched by, with his famous order, "The war is over, the rebels are our countrymen again and the best sign of rejoicing after the victory will be to abstain from all demonstrations in the field." He gave to the Confederates their horses and belongings and told them to go home, cultivate their farms and repair the ravages of war. He assured all, from Lee to the private soldier, that they would be safe and unmolested so long as they observed their paroles.

To enter Richmond, the capital of the Confederacy, whose spires had been in sight of the besiegers so long, would have been a resistless temptation for a weaker man. But his mind was not on spectacular display or triumphal marches over humiliated foes. It was bent on peace and pacification. I know of no scene in our history so dramatic as the meeting between Lincoln and Grant at the White House three days after the surrender at Appomattox. The President, who had so loyally sustained the General, and the General who had so magnificently responded to the confidence of the President, met for the last time in their lives. Grant returned with deep emotion the fraternal grasp of the only man in the country who fully understood and was in complete accord with the policy of reconciliation and repose. The work of the warrior was done and the labor of the statesman begun. Yesterday it was destruction; to-morrow it must be reconstruction. That night the bullet of the assassin ended the life of our greatest President since Washington, and postponed the settlement of sectional difficulties and the cementing of the Union for many years.

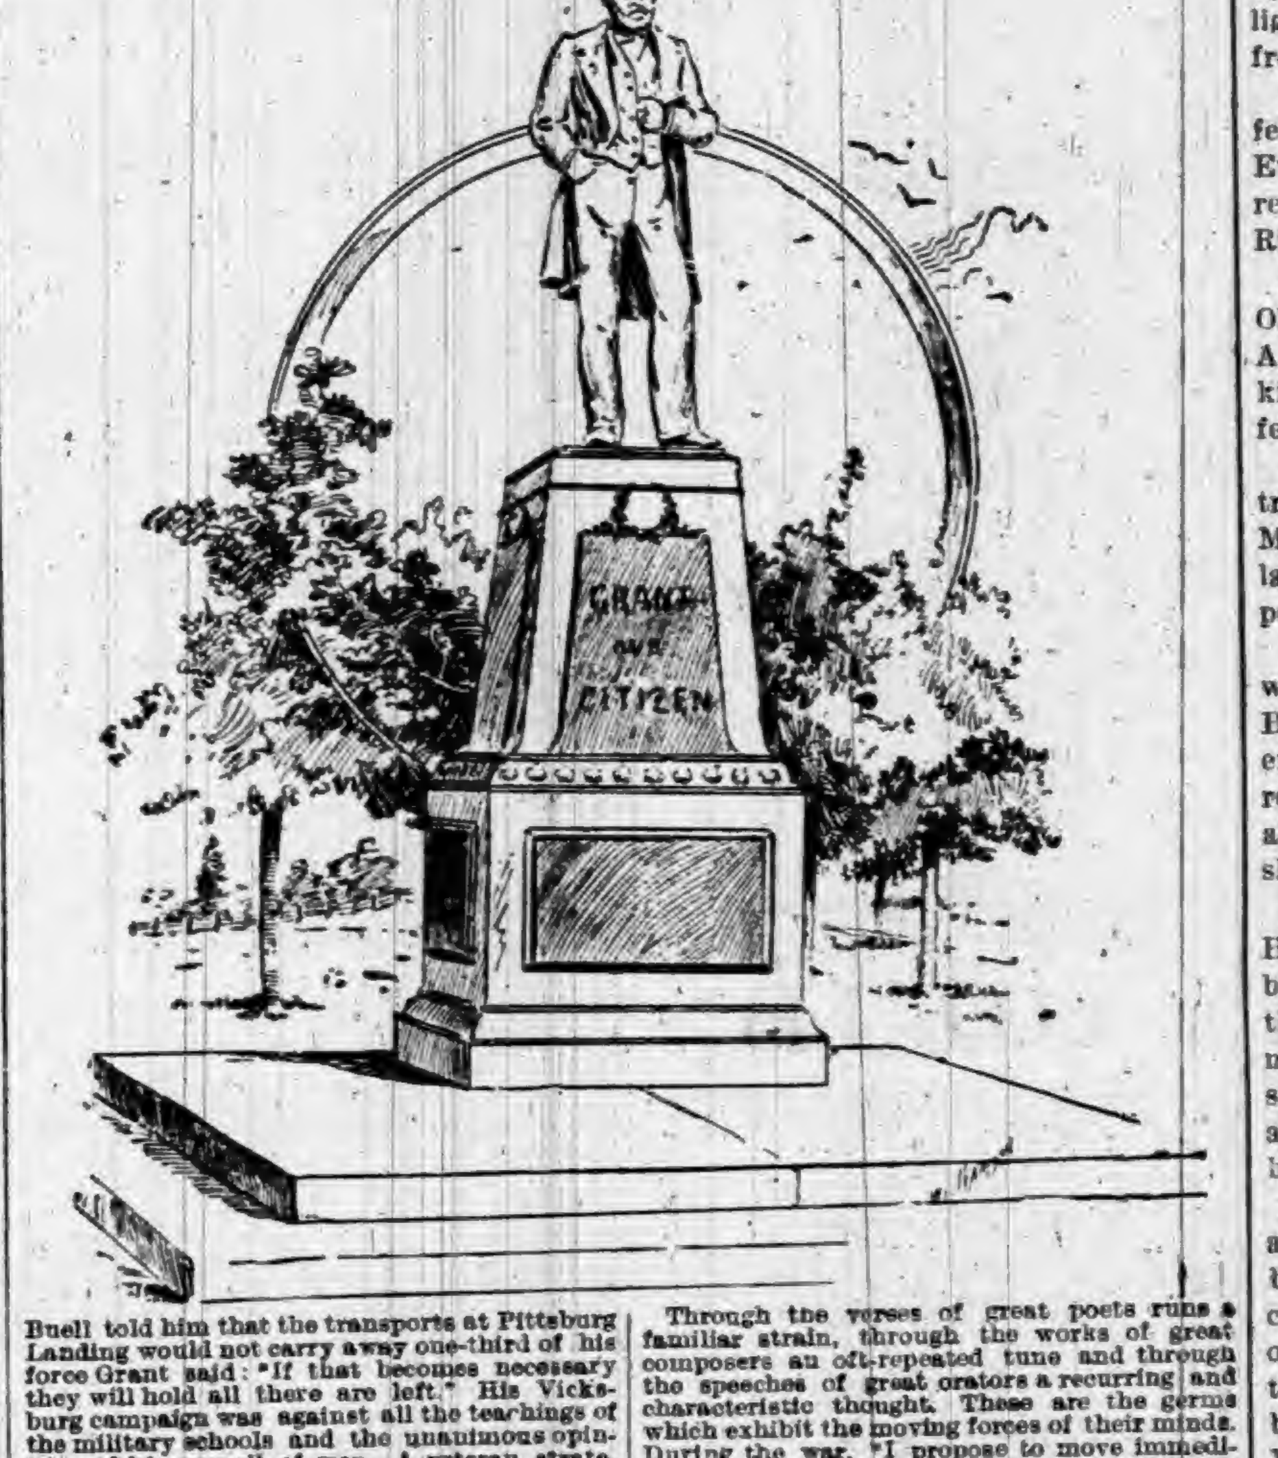
There have been many Presidents of the United States and the roll will be indefinitely extended. We have had a number of brilliant soldiers, but only one great general. The honors of civil life could add nothing to the fame of General Grant, and it has been often argued that his career in the Presidency detracted from his reputation. Such will not be the judgment of the impartial historian. He was without experience or training for public life and unfamiliar with politicians and their methods. The spoils system, from which he could not escape, nearly wrecked his first administration. His mistakes were due to a quality which is the noblest of human virtues—loyalty to friends. Even at this short distance from scenes so vivid in our memories party rancor has lost its bitterness and blindness.

On great questions affecting the honor and credit of the nation he was always sound and emphatic, and the administration of Gen. Grant will have a place in the annals of the world for inaugurating and successfully carrying out the policy of the submission of international disputes to arbitration. The Geneva conference and the judicial settlement of the Alabama claims will grow in importance and grandeur with time. As the nations of the earth disband their armaments and are governed by the laws of reason and humanity they will recur to this beneficent settlement between the United States and Great Britain and Gen. Grant's memorable words upon receiving the freedom of the city of London: "Although a soldier by education and profession, I have never felt any sort of fondness for war and I have never advocated it except as means of peace"—and they will hail him as one of the benefactors of mankind.

Gen. Grant was the product and representative of the best element of our social life. Home and its associations have been the training and inspiration of our greatest and noblest men. They have come from the class which had neither poverty nor riches, and which was compelled to work for the support of the family and the education of the children. Its members are God-fearing men and loving, self-sacrificing women. It gave us Lincoln from the farm, Garfield from the tow-path, Sherman from the crowded house of the brave and struggling widow, Sheridan from the humble cottage, and Grant from the home of the country storekeeper of the Ohio wilderness. These men never lost their sympathy with every human lot and aspiration or the homely simplicity of their early conditions and training. Grant was clerk in the Custom House and President of the United States, a Lieutenant in Mexico and Commander-in-chief of the armies of the Union, numbering over a million of men, the unknown junior in a tanners' firm at Galena and the guest of emperors and kings. But the memory of the church of his mother was ever visible in his reverent regard for her teachings. The applause of soldiers for their commander, of partisans for their chief leader, and of the world for one of its most illustrious heroes was grateful, but the sweetest music for him was within the family circle, in the loving companionship of his wife and children and the prattle of his grandchildren. Though he received such honor and recognition abroad and such distinction at home, he was always, whether in the presence of royalty or of the people, a modest, typical American citizen.



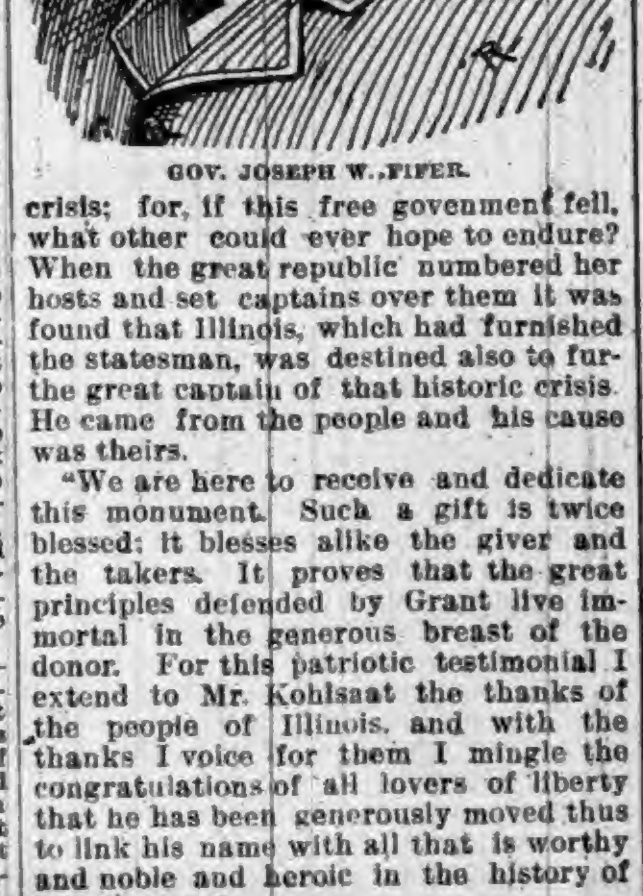
HON. CHAUNCEY M. DEPEW.



Through the verses of great poets runs a familiar strain, through the works of great composers an oft-repeated tune and through the speeches of great orators a recurring and characteristic thought. These are the germs which exhibit the moving forces of their minds. During the war, "I propose to move immediately upon your works," "Unconditional surrender, "I shall take no backward step," "I propose to fight it out on this line if it takes all summer," are the beacon lights of the plans and strategy of Grant the soldier; at Appomatox, "The war is over," "The rebels are our countrymen again;" at the threshold of the Presidency "Let us have peace"; on his bed of agony and death at Mount McGregor, when his power of speech was gone, writing to a Confederate General by his bedside, "Much as I suffer, I do it with pleasure if by that suffering can be accomplished the union of my country," are the indices of the labor, the aspirations and the prayer of Grant, the statesman and the patriot.

Gov. Fifer followed with a brief speech.

"Thirty years ago," he said, "the experiment of free popular government on this continent entered upon its great and final trial before the civilized world. American nationality, American liberty, American character and civilization, came up to the judgment bar and hour of the God of nations. It was a supreme crisis; for, if this free govenment fell, what other could ever hope to endure? When the great republic numbered her hosts and set captains over them it was found that Illinois, which had furnished the statesman, was destined also to furnish the great captain of that historic crisis. He came from the people and his cause was theirs.



GOV. JOSEPH W. FIFER.

"We are here to receive and dedicate this monument. Such a gift is twice blessed: it blesses alike the giver and the takers. It proves that the great principles defended by Grant live immortal in the generous breast of the donor. For this patriotic testimonial I extend to Mr. Kohlsaat the thanks of the people of Illinois, and with the thanks I voice for them I mingle the congratulations of all lovers of liberty that he has been generously moved thus to link his name with all that is worthy and noble and heroic in the history of his country."

It is a mistake to suppose that the weather is colder the further north one goes. The northern pole of greatest cold is only about 300 miles northeast of Yakutsk, Siberia, where the mean annual temperature is a little lower than in the highest latitudes reached by Nares and Greeley, 1,000 miles further north.

IF YOU ARE IN QUEST

OF FRESH INDIANA NEWS, PERUSE THE FOLLOWING:

Important Happenings of the Week—Crimes and Casualties — Suicides—Deaths—Weddings, Etc.

—Stone pile to be abolished at Crawfordsville.

—Indiana has more mile tracks than any State in the Union.

—Infant child of J. P. Bradfield fatally scalded at Noblesville.

—Greenbury Hughes fell from a tree at Madison, fatally injured.

—Frank Ferry thrown from a buggy in a runaway at Columbus, fatally hurt.

—Mrs. Thomas Swanger gored by a bull near Washington, will die from injuries.

—Wesley Rountree, a prominent citizen of Montgomery County, died at his home near Alamo.

—William Everson, an aged citizen of Port Fulton, died from eating too many young radishes.

—There are 11,777 children in Montgomery County between the ages of six and twenty-one years.

—Mayor Harrison, just elected at Shelbyville, refused an increase of salary, talks of resigning.

—The Young Men's Christian Association at Richmond reports $11,000 subscribed toward its proposed new building.

—Alameda Gallegher, an aged and deaf woman, was struck by a switch-engine in the P., C., C. & St. L. yards at Jeffersonville.

—White Warrell, of Owen, was attacked by an angry swarm of bees and came nearly being stung to death before he was rescued.

—A cow-bell made by hand fifty years ago is being worn by a cow of A. H. Nutter, near Martinsville. The bell is as large as a six-quart pail.

—Will Davis, a Jeffersonville telegraph operator, has received notification that he had been left $30,000 by an aunt who has just died in Pennsylvania.

—John Osborne, of Elkhart, fell dead upon the appearance of a vivid flash of lightning. The Coroner says he died from fright, not from an electric shock.

—Miss Florence Shearer, 20 years old, fell from the steamer Bluewing at Evansville and was drowned. She was returning from a pleasure trip up Green River.

—During a pleasure trip down the Ohio River, on the City of Chartiers, S. A. Culbertson, of New Albany, shot and killed a bald eagle that measured five feet from tip to tip.

—Isaac Wells, a colored horse-thief, tried to sell a stolen animal to farmer McCullough, near Jeffersonville, but the latter marched the negro to town at the point of a gun-barrel.

—James Perkins and William Kern were killed in a boiler explosion near Bedford; while George Hayden, the green engineer, and Edward Dusard cannot recover. Jas. L. Dillman, Joseph Kern, and the Dusard brothers escaped with slight injuries.

—Miss Anna Harper and Miss Denna Handchild of Indianapolis, wagered a box of gloves that they could climb to the top of the smoke-stack of the cotton mills around which the scaffolding still stood, 120 feet in height. The feat was a dangerous one, even for an athlete, but both successfully accomplished it.

—The Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis Railroad Company has brought suit at New Castle, to enjoin the county officers and the corporation officers of Knightstown from collecting the tax levied upon the road to assist in building the Cincinnati, Wabash and Michigan extension through the county. The Panhandle's share of the tax is somewhat less than $1,000.

—At Goldsmith, a small station west of Muncie, a Lake Erie and Western freight-train brakeman caused a terrific explosion on his train and came near losing his life. In the train was an oil-tank. The young man, wishing to know if it was empty, lifted the cover from the top and placed his lantern in the tank. The gas exploded, blowing him into a wheat-field fifty feet distant. He was so badly burned that it is thought he will lose his eyes. The car was wrecked.

—The Montgomery County Fair Association will start Tuesday, of fair week, for the children. In the declamation contest there will be prizes of $3 and $2 for boys and girls. For best original map of the United States, $1; second, 50 cents. Best map of Indiana, $1; second, 50 cents. Best map of montgomery County, 50 cents. Best diagram of a sentence containing not less than fifteen words, $1, second, 50 cents. Best exhibit of penmanship, $1; second, 50 cents.

—The application of Mrs. Wm. Fields, of Elkhart, for a divorce from her husband, will result in a highly interesting divorce suit. They have always lived together as husband and wife, but Fields claims they were never married, and the supposed wife will base her fight to establish a legal claim to Mr. Fields as her husband on the relation they have borne to each other for so long, and the fact that she has always been recognized as his wife. A highly interesting constitutional case is expected.

—A wealthy Daviess County farmer named Christopher Weigler, left his home, telling his wife he intended killing a hawk. Instead, he went behind his barn and blew his brains out with a musket. No cause was assigned.

—Car Inspector William F. Abbott, thirty years of age, was caught between the bumpers of two cars at the Union Station, near Indianapolis, and fatally injured. He was taken to the hospital, where his death occurred, after three hours of terrible suffering.

—Goshen Democrat says the number of divorce cases on the docket for the present term of court there is appalling.

—John Cochran, formerly principal of the Burnettsville schools, married an estimable young woman of that place a few years ago. Since his marriage he has spent most of his time in Florida, giving one excuse and another for his presence there. Travelers from Cass County have just returned from Florida, where they claim to have discovered that Cochran has a wife and family in that State. An attempt to procure his arrest was unsuccessful.

SAVED AT LAST.

AUBURN, IND., Oct. 3, 1890.

Dr. J. W. Bergen:

Dear Sir:—By this time, I presume, you will want to know how I am getting along with Bergen's Asthma Cure.

Well, you have heard of persons obtaining a new life. Now I really feel that way myself. When I began taking Bergen's Asthma Cure, I was just coming out of a long siege of it, and was reduced to 115 pounds; weak, short of breath, chills, fever, and badly demoralized generally, coughing from half an hour to an hour every night.

Since commencing, from the third night, I have not lost ten minutes' sleep all night, cough gone, gained seventeen pounds, chills gone, fever gone, shortness of breath and difficulty of breathing gone, consequently I feel a thousand per cent. better. I thank God every day that I ever saw your advertisement, and that I was induced to write to you.

This is peculiarly encouraging in my case, as I had suffered so long and was so discouraged about my case, having tried everything. I am telling the good news every day.

Push on the good work; you are on the right track.

Yours Very Gratefully,
R. McDOUGALL.

Sold by ROBINS & McCORD.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The undersigned, having been restored to health by simple means, after suffering for several years with a severe lung affection, and that dread disease, CONSUMPTION, is anxious to make known to his fellow-sufferers the means of cure. To those who desire it he will cheerfully send, free of charge, a copy of the prescription used, which they will find a sure cure for CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, CATARRH, BRONCHITIS, and all Throat and Lung Maladies. He hopes all sufferers will try this Remedy, as it is invaluable. Those desiring the prescription, which will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing, will please address, REV. EDWARD A. WILSON, Williamsburg, Kings County, New York. 1y.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK

Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD

Ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head

ACHE

Is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold by druggists everywhere, or sent by mail.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York.

SMALL PILL. SMALL DOSE. SMALL PRICE

BOURKE'S HOUSEHOLD · SPECIALTIES ·

COMBINATION BRUSH, MOP AND SPONGE HOLDER

CARPET STRETCHER and GARDEN RAKE.

Nonpareil Window Cleaner, A MARVEL.

Galvanized iron, rubber adjustable to expose new surface as it wears, no glue or cement, lasts a life-time and more efficient than any cleaner made.

Sash Lock and FASTENER.
Most Durable,
Most Compact,
Most Perfect

BURGLAR PROOF FASTENER MADE.

Bourke Mfg. Co., Youngstown, O.

REMEMBER

KLINCK

IS THE NAME OF THAT Wonderful Remedy

That Cures Catarrh, Hay-Fever, Cold in the Head, Sore Throat, Canker, and Bronchitis.

The testimonials to these FACTS are NUMEROUS and STRONG, similar to the following:

From the Hon. Harvey D. Colvin, Ex-Mayor of Chicago:

CHICAGO, July 24, 1890.

S. H. KLINCK—DEAR SIR: I am pleased to say that I consider your remedy the best medicine in existence, for the human afflictions you claim to cure. I suffered from catarrh with bronchitis for many years. During that time I employed physicians and faithfully tried many so-called remedies advertised to cure this disease, without any material benefit, when a friend induced me to try your remedy, claiming others had been cured by it. The first bottle gave me the most pleasing results. I have continued its use and I can not say too much for it. It found me too near the grave for comfort and restored me to health again. It adorns my toilet stand and by using it occasionally I am kept well.

I would not be without it if it cost $5 per bottle. I earnestly recommend it to all my afflicted friends.

For Sale by leading Druggists.

PINT BOTTLES · · $1.00

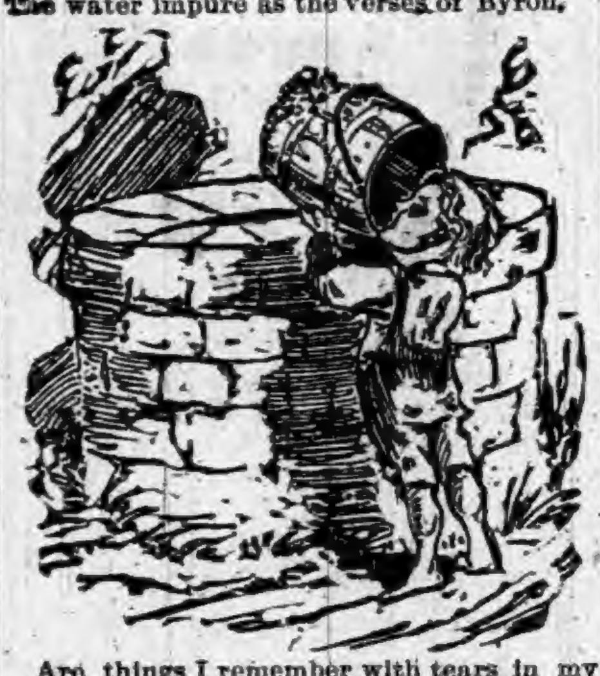
Klinck Catarrh & Bronchial Remedy Co., 82 JACKSON ST., CHICAGO, ILL.

THE OLD OAKEN BUCKET.

[Revised by a sanitarian.]

With what anguish of mind I remember my childhood,
Recalled in the light of a knowledge since gained,
The malarious farm, the wet fungus-grown wildwood,
The chills then contracted that since have remained;
The scum-covered duck-pond, the pig-sty close by it,
The ditch where the sour-smelling house-drainage fell;
The damp, shaded dwelling, the foul barn-yard nigh it—
But worse than all else was that terrible well,
And the old oaken bucket, the mold-crusted bucket,
The moss-covered busket that hung in the well.

Just think of it! Moss on the vessel that lifted
The water I drank in the days called to mind;
Ere I knew what professors and scientists gifted
In the waters of wells by analysis find;
The rotting wood fiber, the oxide of iron,
The algæ, the frog of unusual size.
The water impure as the verses of Byron,



Are things I remember with tears in my eyes.
And to tell the sad truth—though I shudder to tell it—
I considered that water uncommonly clear,
And often at noon, when I went there to drink it,
I enjoyed it as much as I now enjoy beer.
How ardent I seized it with hands that were grimy!
And quick to the mud-covered bottom it fell!
Then reeking with nitrates and nitrites, and slimy
With matter organic, it rose from the well.
Oh, had I but realized in time to avoid them—
The dangers that lurked in that pestilent draught—
I'd have tested for organic germs, and destroyed them
With potassic permanganate ere I had quaffed;
Or perchance I'd have boiled it and afterward strained it
Through filters of charcoal and gravel combined;
Or, after distilling, condensed and regained it
In potable form, with its filth left behind.
For little I knew of the dread typhoid fever
Which lurked in the water I ventured to drink;
But since I've became a devoted believer
In the teachings of science, I shudder to think.
And now, far removed from the scenes I'm describing,
The story of warning to others I tell,
As memory reverts to my youthful imbibing,
And I gag at the thought of that horrible well,
And the old oaken bucket, the fungus-grown bucket—
In fact, the slop-bucket—that hung in the well.

CHUB.

A Romance of West Virginia.

BY DAVID LOWRY.

CHAPTER XIX.

A STARTLING CHARGE.

All who had heard of the missing bridegroom were anxious to see Dan Bash.

People came to the Corners from all quarters to see the man who was held captive by the counterfeiters. They would talk to Eli Potts or his wife; if they were so fortunate as to be on speaking terms with Hank Dawson they made no delay, but rode up to his door, dismounted, entered the house, and congratulated the man who was well out of the "clutches of that gang."

Chub Dawson, now for the first time known throughout the State as Miss Belle Dawson, as the newspaper correspondents described her, was invariably sought out, complimented highly, admired, and wearied with hand-shaking.

"Such a fuss about nothing," said Chub one day, as she sat down beside her father.

"Well, yes—just what I was thinking myself."

His daughter looked at him in surprise.

"I've 'bout made up my mind, as we've found Dan here, that the weddin' may as well go on now. I'm tired seein' so many folks hitchin' up hyar, 'n never a one wanting a shoe for their horse. I'm getting out of practice. If they've made up their minds to call—well, let us give 'em all a good excuse. I guess we may as well send out word to the folks to-morrow. I can't stand three days more of this crowd. Let 'em all come together, or else spread themselves along more over the year."

There was a quizzical smile on his face as Hank Dawson said this.

Dan Bash did not speak. Chub was on the point of replying, but her father put out a hand.

"See here, Chub. I reckon I'll manage this time. You go to work and nurse Dan up to his old color. That arm o' his ain't any too comfortable—but them doctors isn't to blame. It's coming on right well considering they had to set it up that way. It won't be in the road of the dancers. And he doesn't dance with his arm anyhow."

"No," said Dan. "And I'm not likely to dance much with my feet for a few days."

"Well, I'm in dead airnest, Chub. Let's get through with all this fussin'. If we'll just give the word out that all them that was invited before are invited again, I reckon that'll be about all that's necessary."

"Oh, no, dad," said Chub.

"What else is there?"

"You'll have to send and have just the same things you got before for the supper—and the music."

"To be sure—to be sure."

"And that will require time to give them notice, and to get the things here."

"I am reckoning all that, too," said her father.

"I'd like to have the Monks in prison," said Chub.

"They're in jail. That's good enough, ain't it? They're not likely to bother any one for a spell, I reckon. Leastways, I ain't afeard of them catching hold of Dan again soon."

As Hank was in earnest, no more was said. There was really no objection to his project. The interrupted wedding, the lovers agreed, should be celebrated at the earliest day possible.

An objection was made however from an unexpected quarter. A man came up the road slowly at that moment, dismounted leisurly and approached the house.

"It's Tom Walker, the sheriff," said Hank Dawson. "What's he after now, I'd like to know."

The sheriff approached the group on the porch, and was cordially welcomed by the blacksmith.

"Mighty fine weather, Mr. Walker. Have you had your supper?"

"Thanks, yes."

The sheriff looked at Dan Bash and Chub curiously. He made a sign to the blacksmith, which Hank Dawson did not comprehend on the instant.

"How's the counterfeiting gang, sheriff. All in the same row of cells? If they are, they'll get out. 'Taint safe to trust that crowd, sheriff."

"We ain't trusting them, Mr. Dawson."

He made another sign, which Hank Dawson understood. But it did not suit his notions. He was resolved the sheriff should say what he had to say, then and there.

"Well sheriff, if you've got any particular business with me—speak out. There's nobody but ourselves here. My daughter, and Dan Bash, my son-in-law that's goin' to be as soon as we can arrange to have the wedding, just as it was before that gang and bad luck interfered."

The sheriff cleared his throat.

"It's rather a delicate matter I've come on."

"Eh? Well, now, that's unexpected. But let's have it, Sheriff. We can stand it if you can, I reckon."

"Why, the fact is, the Monks—Ned, Bill, and Pete, and Dick Treddle—all of them make a serious charge against Mr. Bash."

"Against Dan Bash?"

Hank wasn't quite sure who was meant.

"You see, there's another Bash. The man who came here to catch the gang calls himself Bash."

"They said Dan, the school-teacher."

Chub looked at the Sheriff wonderingly. She listened like one in a dream.

Was it possible anything would come between her and her lover now? What did the Sheriff mean?

"Well, what do the Monks say? Mind, before you answer, Mr. Walker, I wouldn't believe all the Monks and the Treddles back to four generations if they could bring them out of their graves—no; not if four generations of that gang could get on a stack of Bibles and swear to it, I'd not mind it more'n the wind blowing."

"That's just my way of looking at it, Hank," said the Sheriff. "But I've sworn to do my duty."

"In course. Well, go on."

"Why, they've pintedly said Dan Bash is in the same line they are in."

"What's that, Sheriff?"

It was Chub's voice.

She had risen from her seat on the end of the porch, and was now standing with her hand on Dan Bash's shoulder. She looked to the Sheriff like some one guarding him.

"Yes—I want to know," said Hank Dawson. "Them's strange words."

"If I must put it plainer, they swear or allege he deals in the queer himself."

"Deals in the queer! Queer! What's queer, Sheriff Walker?"

"Counterfeit money."

The blacksmith laughed derisively.

"Sho! Humbug. You know it's humbug, Sheriff."

"I don't believe a word of it."

"I knew it."

"But that isn't all."

"Eh?"

Hank Dawson looked half angry.

"Well, what else?"

"They do say," here the Sheriff hitched his chair uneasily, "that they can prove it. And to begin with, they say his name isn't Bash at all. His real name is something else."

"Humbug again Sheriff. Humbug. You don't believe it?"

"No."

"Of course not."

Dan Bash, who was looking calmly at the Sheriff all the while, now turned and looked up at Chub.

"Would it make any difference to you whether my name is Bash, Brown or Buff?"

"Not the least."

"It might to others," said the Sheriff.

"I'll own up it might make a heap o' difference in this case," said Hank, carelessly. "The looks of the thing, under the circumstances, might make people think maybe the Monks wasn't altogether wrong. 'Tain't usual for a man to change his name."

"Of coure they are wrong," said the Sheriff. "But why they are such fools as to pretend to be able to prove your name isn't Dan Bash, but altogether another name, which they will reveal at the right time—that's what puzzles me, unless it's to gain time and help put in time. They've sent me here on a fool's errand, of course, but duty's duty, Hank."

"Of course—of course," said Hank Dawson.

"You can prove your name is Dan Bash very easily, I suppose—can bring those who will identify you, Mr. Bash, very soon."

There was a lengthy silence. Hank Dawson stared silently at his daughter's affianced.

Chub Dawson's lips were parted. Her eyes seemed to read her lover's soul.

At last her lover turned to the Sheriff and said slowly:

"Well, suppose my name is not Bash—what then?"

"Oh, why," the Sheriff said awkwardly, "why, I don't know as it would prove anything, or go for much when the facts are all known."

"Well, then, my name is not Bash, Mr. Walker."

"Not Bash!"

"Not Bash—not Bash!" exclaimed Chub, as she caught her hands, interlacing the fingers, "You don't mean it, Dan!"

"But I do mean it," said Dan, deliberately.

"Then I'm sorry," said the Sheriff, "for my instructions were to bring you with me, and now——"

"Stop, Sheriff!"

Hank Dawson walked slowly opposite his daughter's lover, then he bent down and gazed steadily in his face.

"Let me hear that again. Is your name Bash or not?"

The lover's countenance was equally solemn, his manner grave, as he replied, slowly:

"It is not."

"That's all, Sheriff. For God's sake, take him now—now! I can't bear to see him, for he was like my own son! He was—he was—Sheriff."

And Hank Dawson bowed his head between his hands.

Chub stood spellbound several minutes. Then she rushed on her lover, caught his sound arm convulsively, and said:

"There's some dreadful mistake. I believe in you. I'll die if you are not all I think you are! Say you are what we think you are—O! Dan! Dan! Speak to father!"

The Sheriff turned aside and made some suspicious movements, like a man who was wiping his eyes.

But the blacksmith's head was still bowed in humility.

CHAPTER XX.

AN AGREEABLE SURPRISE.

Dan Bash—or the man who had been known as Dan Bash—looked at Hank Dawson strangely. He seemed to be revolving something in his mind. Then he said, very deliberately:

"Sheriff, I am ready to go with you!"

"Dan! Dan!"

Chub looked at him appealingly.

"But before I go," said Dan, quietly, "let me take you into my confidence."

"I don't want you to tell me anything. I don't want to know nothing about this miserable business," said the Sheriff. "I'd rather than fifty dollars! I would, plum sock out of my pocket, than see a young fellow as handsome and as smart and with such ways as yours——"

"Well?" said Dan, looking at him soberly.

"Get mixed up with these blamed counterfeiters. Don't you tell me nothing. If they prove it on you, they shan't do it by me—no, sir. That ain't Tom Walker's style. I'll execute the law, but blamed if I'll furnish the proof!"

"I like to hear you say so, Mr. Walker. But what I was going to say is just the opposite of what you imagine."

Hank Dawson lifted his head at that.

"The very opposite. To begin with—my name is a very good name. It is Ross. My people are very respectable people. My father is as well known as any man in the State. And he is very well known in other States, too. And in Washington."

A peculiar smile played around his mouth now as he glanced at Hank Dawson.

"Your name may be Ross, and your folks first-class, but you was going to marry my daughter as Dan Bash. How do you make that gee with respectability?"

Hank spoke sorrowfully. He could not speak harshly to the young man.

"I had not the least intention to marry your daughter under the name of Dan Bash."

"No?"

The Sheriff stared at him.

"It never once entered my mind."

"No?"

Hank Dawson began to arouse himself now. He shook his shoulders, straightened out his arms, brought his hands together again, and looking from one to the other said, slowly:

"This is getting too much mixed up for me."

"P'raps you'll make it clearer for us all," said the Sheriff, politely.

"In good time. I intended reserving a surprise until the minister was ready to marry us. Had I been permitted to reach the house in time I would have said to all the company what I am now going to say to you. I am not Dan Bash. That name was assumed—it is the name of another, who is indebted largely to my father for his position in the world. And it was assumed with the knowledge and consent of the real Dan Bash—the detective."

"I knew you were true, Dan."

Chub stole to his side and put her hand on his sound arm.

"I would have told the company that my father represented his district in Congress four terms in succession. That he has represented the nation abroad. That he is abroad now."

"What!" exclaimed the Sheriff. "You don't tell me you are a son of the Hon. Dan Ross, do you?"

"I am."

"What!"

Hank Dawson peered in Ross' face eagerly.

"You a son of Dan Ross!"

"Is there anything wonderful in that—or strange or startling?"

"Well, but coming up here in the mountains—leaving all your fine folks behind you—starting out for a school! Blamed if it ain't too much for me to grasp just at once. Give me a, little time," said Hank Dawson, in a dazed way.

"I don't ask time. I know all about it, I think."

Chub nestled closer to his side.

"My name is Dan, too. People who know me call me Dan Ross junior."

"This beats all. It's more wonderful than a play—like the novels one hears about," said Tom Walker.

"My reason for coming here under an assumed name was to avoid friends, who would, perhaps, follow me. They have a habit of hunting me up. They pop down on me in unexpected places. I had another reason, too—a powerful reason. A lady friend—the most inveterate matchmaker in the State—has resolved I shall marry some one of her young lady friends." He might have added, one niece in particular was designed for him; but his gallantry and sense of propriety would not permit Dan Ross to hint so much even to his affianced.

"I was desperate. I know stranger things have happened than marriages brought about simply to secure wagers. Finally, I was on my mettle for another reason. I argued—still hold—that a young man may go out in the world in this country without a friend, without money, and by honesty, earnestness and ability win his way first, providing he has no bad luck, such as sickness or other misfortunes."

"By George!" said the Sheriff. "And you undertook to prove it?"

"I have proved it, haven't I, Mr. Dawson?"

"Hang your mister! Call me Hank. Proved it! Well, I reckon rather—rather."

"The gang must have found out your real name some way," said Chub.

"No! They do not suspect who I am. I was too quick for that. I tell you what they did find. When I resolved to adopt the name of Bash I wrote a memorandum stating my name was not Bash. That in case anything happened to me any person addressing John Anderson—an uncle, by the way—at such a place, giving a description of my effects, and certain things in my possession, and on my person, would find out who and what I was."

"That was right sensible, too," said Hank.

"Yes; and now I begin to see through the whole thing, Mr. Dawson," said the Sheriff.

"The gang jumped to the conclusion Mr. Ross was ashamed of something—had done something he had to run for—changed his name, and was just the chicken they were looking for to help fling dust in the commonwealth's eyes when the trial comes on."

"I see—I see it now just as plain as you do, Sheriff," said Hank, eagerly.

Than grasping Dan's hand Hank said, with deep emotion: "Don't mind a durned old fool like me a mite—I didn't b'lieve it! I couldn't b'lieve it; but it kinda' obfusted me—twisted me all up, when you said you wasn't Bash. Chub! Chub! He's worth a million common men! He is, Chub!"

"Darned if I don't think you are right, Mr. Dawson," said Tom Walker.

"But now, as sheriff of Pine County, I'm in a blessed predicament, ain't I?"

"Why? It's all clear now," said Hank Dawson.

"You forget. I'm expected to arrest Mr. Ross as a confederate, or a dealer in the queer. Which is a mighty queer thing to do, if you'll allow me to make a pun on this occasion."

"No! On the contrary," said Chub, quickly; "it is the very best thing that could have happened."

Whereupon they all looked at Chub.

"Explain, Miss Dawson," said the sheriff.

"Yes, Chub, out with it. I want to know," said her father.

"I dare say Chub is perfecting a plan that will 'promote the ends of justice,' as the newspapers say, and land the Monks and all their associates in the penitentiary."

And Dan Ross looked at her proudly.

"Well, then, listen," said Chub.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

HUMOR.

An Intelligent Servant.

A certain New Yorker engaged a recently arrived gentleman and undertook to coach him in regard to certain creditors with aggravating bills.

"Now," said he to his servant, "if a man calls for me to-day, you tell him that I am not at home."

"Yis, sor," replied Pat.

Fearing a misunderstanding in some way, he again said:

"Now, Pat, what will you tell the man who calls?"

"Till him I'm not at home."

"No, no, blockhead, tell him that I, myself, am not at home."

"All right, sor."

"Now, what will you say to him?"

"I, myself, am not at home."

"Pshaw. Tell him your boss is not in. Understand that, donkey? Now, what will you say?"

"Your boss is not in. Understand that, donkey?"

"Fool! that's not right. Say to him, 'I am out.' Can you do that?"

"Yis, sor."

"Well, let's hear you."

"I am out."

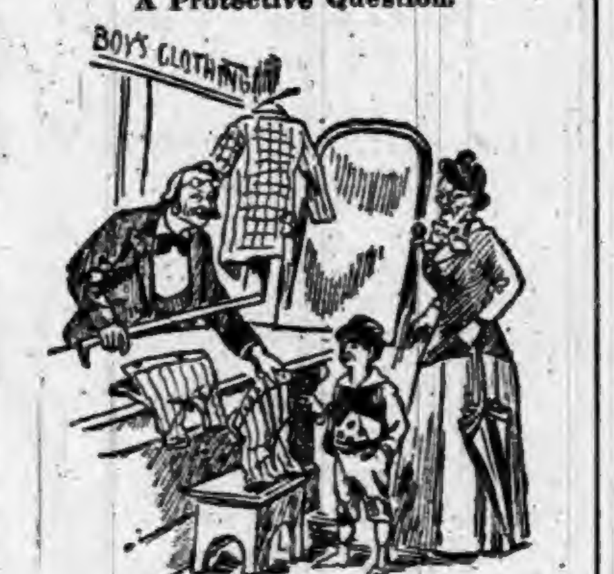
"Thunderation! Can't you understand? Tell him your master is out. Now, what will you say?"

"Your master is out."

"No, you don't say anything of the kind, you ignoramus. Tell the man that I have left the house."

"Certainly, I'll tell him I have left the house; but he won't believe me when he sees me in the house talking to him."—Texas Siftings.

A Protective Question.



Mr. R. M. Soots—Well, mum, let the boy decide which he likes best.

Smart Boy—(who has smarted under the brush)—Which is the thickest cloth?—Puck.

That Silly Child.

"Your dear little boy paid me such a pretty compliment; he said I looked real handsome," said Mrs. Hostetter to Mrs. Lydia Pinkham.

"Did he say that?"

"Indeed he did, the little angel."

"O, he is such a silly child. Sometimes I think he has not got good sense," responded the mother, and now they have quit swapping bangs when they go out shopping.

And They Could Talk Back.

Gargoyle—I should think that woman would find more congenial employment in banks than anywhere else.

Mrs. Gargoyle—Why?

Gargoyle—Because money talks.

A Business Relation.

Hunker—No, Miss Sue, I haven't a relation in the United States.

Tommy (Sue's bad little brother)—Then who is that uncle you told me had your overcoat?—Free Press.

In the Same Neighborhood.

Two wretched looking tramps were brought up before a Texas justice of the peace. Addressing the worst-looking one, the justice asked:

"Where do you live?"

"Nowhere."

"And where do you live?" asked the justice, addressing the other.

"O, I've got a room above him.—Texas Siftings.

Willing to Please.

"Oh, Marie, Marie," pleaded the precise mother, "why do you use such slang?"

"Why, mamma," explained the girl, "I can't help it. Everybody does, and I am forced to do it in self-defense."

"But, my child, you shouldn't do wrong because everybody else does. You should obey a higher and nobler principle than that."

"Well, mamma, I hadn't thought of it just in that way before. I can see now that I have been led unwittingly into a fault which neither right nor reason can sanction."

The mother's eyes filled with tears.

"And you will never use slang again?" she said, bending forward and kissing the soft white forehead of her child.

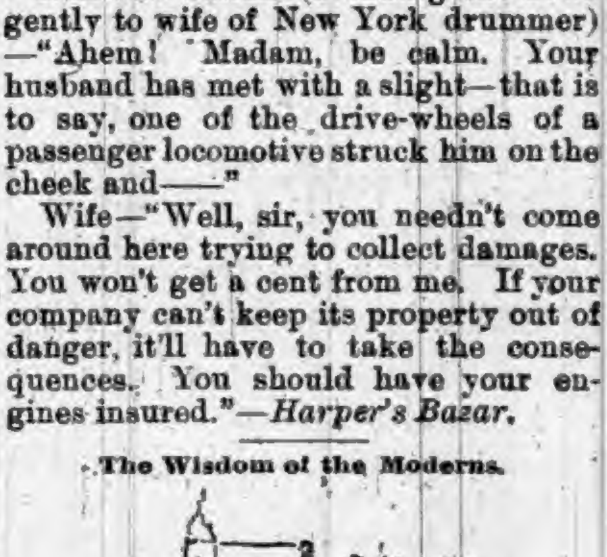
"You bet your sweet life, I won't," exclaimed the impulsive girl, and was silent.—Free Press.

Not to Be Bluffed.

Railroad official (breaking the news gently to wife of New York drummer)—"Ahem! Madam, be calm. Your husband has met with a slight—that is to say, one of the drive-wheels of a passenger locomotive struck him on the cheek and——"

Wife—"Well, sir, you needn't come around here trying to collect damages. You won't get a cent from me. If your company can't keep its property out of danger, it'll have to take the consequences. You should have your engines insured."—Harper's Bazar.

The Wisdom of the Moderns.



Olivia Oldway (a belle from Boston)—My ancestors came over in the Mayflower.

Nerissa Necomer (a belle from Chicago)—Humph! Mine wouldn't come over until they could come in a ship with the modern conveniences.—Life.

Been Out to See a Man.

Conjurer—You see, ladies and gentlemen, the dollar has vanished. We shall soon find out where it has gone. You, honest countryman over there, just put your hand in your pocket! I bet you will find the dollar.

Peasant—No; I've only got two marks and eight pfennig.

Conjurer—Impossible! You must have the dollar!

Peasant—No, I haven't! That was the dollar you put in my pocket a while ago, but I've been out to have a drink since.

Tableau!—German Joke.

PLEASURE BOATS —AND— CANOES.

Oars, rowlocks, paddles, masts, spars, sails, blocks, cleats, anchors, etc., etc., etc.

$30 A BOAT FOR —TO— $300

THE PLEASURE BOATS OF AMERICA!

DON'T BUY ELSEWHERE until you see my catalogue for 1891; send 5 cent stamp for it.

J. H. RUSHTON, Canton, N. Y.

N. Y. CITY SALESROOM,
H. C. SQUIRES, 178 BROADWAY.

The greatest improvement in Corsets during the past twenty years is the use of Coraline in the place of horn or whalebone. It is used in all of Dr. Warner's Corsets and in no others.

The advantages of Coraline over horn or whalebone are that it does not become set like whalebone, and it is more flexible and more durable.

Dr. Warner's Coraline Corsets are made in twenty-four different styles, fitting every variety of figures—thin, medium, stout, long waists and short waists.

Sold everywhere.

WARNER BROS., Mfrs.,
New York and Chicago.

WANTED experienced and efficient agents to sell line of desirable household articles. Terms liberal, agents make money selling them. Samples furnished prepaid: Holder, 15c., cleaner, 10-inch 15c.; Fasteners, bronze 5c., nickel, 7c. BOURKE MFG. CO., Youngstown, O.

I CURE FITS!

When I say CURE I do not mean merely to stop them for a time, and then have them return again. I MEAN A RADICAL CURE. I have made the disease of

FITS, EPILEPSY or FALLING SICKNESS,

A life-long study. I WARRANT my remedy to CURE the worst cases. Because others have failed is no reason for not now receiving a cure. Send at once for a treatise and a FREE BOTTLE of my INFALLIBLE REMEDY. Give Express and Post Office. It costs you nothing for a trial, and it will cure you. Address

H. G. ROOT, M. C., 183 PEARL ST., NEW YORK

Jackson Favorite Waist

HAS STYLE

SUPPORTS BACK AND SPINE,

GIVES COMFORT AND EASE.

Adjustable shoulder straps, soft button fronts or ordinary clasps.

HYGIENIC, HEALTHFUL, BOON TO WOMEN.

FOR SALE BY ALL DEALERS, OR SENT POST PAID FOR $1.10

State size and if white or drab is desired. ALWAYS ADDRESS THE

Coronet Corset Co., JACKSON, MICH.

TIME TABLE

THE WABASH LINE

TRAINS CARRYING PASSENGERS LEAVE

AUBURN, INDIANA.

GOING EAST.
Atlantic Express	2:38 am—Daily
Boston Express	5:45 am—Daily
Detroit Accom.	2:26 pm—Ex Sun
New York Lim.	8:04 pm—Daily
GOING WEST.
Pacific Express	1:32 am—Daily
Logansport Accom	7:55 am—Daily
Mail & Express	12:38 pm—Ex Sun
Chicago & St. Louis Lim.	6:12 pm—Daily
St. Louis	7:33 pm—Daily

No. 53 will only stop for Chicago passengers.

For rates, Tickets, Time Table, etc., apply to I. M. ZENT, Agent, Auburn, Ind.

T. H. SPROTT, City Ticket Agent.

CHAS. M. HAYS, Gen'l Mannager.

F. CHANDLER,
Gen'l Pass and Ticket Agent

BETHESDA

Cures Diabetes and Bright's Disease.

RECOMMENDED AND USED BY

Hon. CHAS. FOSTER, Secretary of Treasury.

Hon. J. M. RUSK, Secretary of Agriculture.

Hon. GEO. R. DAVIS, Director General World's Fair, Chicago.

DR. SHRADY, New York City.

Prof. AGASSIZ, Cambridge, Mass.

FRANKLIN MacVEAGH, Chicago.

CLEM. STUDEBAKER, South Bend, Ind.

A Pure, Refreshing, Health-Giving Water, so delicately proportioned in mineral qualities by nature as to make it agreeable and wholesome in health, and in cases of Diabetes and Bright's Disease more benefit will be derived from it in twenty-four hours than in three months from any medicine known to science.

Write for Pamphlet. BETHESDA MINERAL SPRING CO., Waukesha, Wis.

MOST POPULAR BUGGY ON WHEELS

SINGLE CENTER SPRING.

POINTS

Body always level.
Load distributed at five points on rear axle.
Gear, best grade steel throughout.
Spring, long and elastic, makes easiest riding wagon made.
Runs easy because it always tracks.
30 pounds lighter than a side bar.
Superior first-class wagon.
Made of choicest materials.
Spring and Gear guaranteed two years.

Vehicles of every style made on this Spring.

CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION. AGENTS WANTED.

"BUSINESS MEN'S COMPANION."

Defies Competition for Rough Roads. SINGLE CENTER SPRING CO., EVANSVILLE, INDIANA.

For WEAK AND DEBILITATED MEN.

A NEW DISCOVERY! —BY— DR. ALBERT. TESTICURA EXTERNOSUM

AFTER years of experience in the leading Hospitals of the World, and as a Private Specialist in the treatment of Sexual Weakness, DR. ALBERT has finally been induced to place before the afflicted at a nominal expense, this

WONDERFUL REMEDY!

An Outward Application

TESTICURA EXTERNOSUM For the Cure of Seminal Weakness, Impotency, Nocturnal Emissions, Varicocele, and Lack of Development.

Cure by Absorption.

TESTICURA EXTERNOSUM Applied direct to the parts. No Nauseous Drugs that Ruin the Stomach. Guaranteed Cure, or Money Refunded.

No Nauseous Drugs.

A PERFECT RESTORATION GUARANTEED.

Sent to any part of the U. S., securely packed, free from observation, upon receipt of $2.00.

For full information, address enclosing 4 cents postage,

The ALBERT MEDICAL DISPENSARY, Cleveland, O.

—TO—

QUIT!

BUSINESS!

The fact that we shall discontinue business here necessitates this awful sacrifice of prices and profits—cost and less than cost being all we can expect to realize in a sale of this kind. All our handsome and reliable Clothing for men and boys selling at about the average manufacturing cost of same.

MEN'S CLOTHING.

$25 Suits, Now $19.
A saving to you of $6, which will buy other necessaries.

$20 Suits, Now $15.
A saving to you of $5.

$16.50 Suits, now $13.50.
A saving to you of $3.

$15 Suits, now $12.
A saving to you of $3.

$13.50 Suits, now $10.
A saving to you of $3.50.

BOY'S CLOTHING.

$1.50	Two-piece Suits, now	$ .75
2.50	" " "	1.75
4.00	" " "	2.75
5.50	" " "	4.00
7.00	" " "	5.50

This is a genuine closing out sale to quit the clothing business. Come at once, as the best bargains will go first.

O. J. Schwarz,

Two Doors North of Farmers Bank,

Auburn, Ind.

THE

NEW CLOTHING STORE

IS NOW -:READY:- FOR THE

SPRING BUSINESS!

With the largest stock of Men's Wearing Apparel ever shown in Auburn. Men's Spring Suits and Overcoats that are

Equal to Custom Made!

Prince Alberts, Sacks, Cutaways and Frocks, and every other style in all the newest shapes. In

GENTS' FURNISHINGS

HATS, CAPS,

Gloves, Underwear, Etc.,

Our Stock is complete. We also have a nice line of samples to select from for

CUSTOM ORDERED GARMENTS,

which, in point of fit and workmanship cannot be surpassed by any in the country. Do not fail to examine our

NEW STOCK OF STRAW HATS

that are very beautiful. We also carry a nice line of

TRUNKS AND VALISES!

THE BOSTON CLOTHING STORE.

One Price and the Truth.

AUBURN - - IND.

THE AUBURN COURIER

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY.

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post-office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY............JUNE 11, 1891.

Edward P. Thompson was last week appointed postmaster at Indianapolis to succeed the late Wm. Wallace.

Congressman Owen, of this state, has been made commissioner of immigration. He was defeated for re-election last fall.

Sir John McDonald, died Saturday evening at 10:15. He was the best known and perhaps the ablest statesman in Canada.

Treasury surplus at Washington reported to be only five millions last week. Where is the fifty to a hundred millions we used to have?

Fine quality of onyx has been discovered in Missouri, a valuable material. We look to hear repulican papers say it is owning to the McKiley bill.

The school enumeration of the state has fallen off 68,000 from last year's figures. The law this year is more strict so that the present showing is likely the nearest right.

If the surplus keeps dwindling down for the next year, as it has for the past one, an income tax will be needed to keep up expenses, or a democratic admiration to keep expenses down,—or both.

Great invention by an accident, as usual. This time, in firing charges of dynamite against a block of steel, a leaf of a tree was caught next the steel, and left a beautiful impression in the metal. It will be a new feature in engraving.

The Itata, the Chilian ship that was chased away, for taking arms to the rebels down there, has reached Chili and was delivered over to the U. S. authorities there. Had she not done so, it is likely our own ships there would have seized her anyway.

The Butler Record not having answered as to what makes sugar cheaper, if the tariff is not a tax, is imprudent enough now to tell that binder twine is cheaper than it used to be, "thanks to the McKinley bill." Well now, what made binder twine come down as soon as the duty was removed?

Court.

We went to press last week while the case of Walker vs Webster was going on. It had taken some days, and then the jury failed to agree. Then came the attachment case against Mr. Willis, the lumber dealer. This has taken all the time since, and is now before the jury. There is a ditch case from Jackson township and Judge Powers, has received an anonymus letter directing him to settle the case at once. Parties should know that writing letters to a judge embarasses him seriously, and does not forward the ends of justice in the least.

Commissioners' Court.

We notice the following items as to ditches and roads:

DITCHES ESTABLISHED.

The C. P. Houser, the A. Franks, Catherine Klinkel, Joseph Wilson, Joseph Leeson, F. Beuchat, H. Schuster, Chas. Kelley. Final Reports, June 20.

DITCH PETITIONS.

Fred. Gfeller, in Smithfield. Viewers, Jacob Waldorn, L. W. Treesh, Jacob Christoffel. Meet at source June 15.

Geo. S. Kelton ditch, Troy. Viewers, Allen Shultz, John Lowe, Benj. Casey. Meet at source June 22.

John Shiffli, Smithfield. Viewers, R. N. Crooks, J. D. Beard, Henry Rohm. Meet at source, June 29.

Chas. Kelley, Grant. Viewers, R. G. Coburn, John Moody, D. W. Baker. Meet at source, June 19.

ROAD PETITIONS.

Geo. Hoodelmire, Grant. Viewers, Joseph Koch, N. Goldsmith, David Butler. Meet at office of 'Squire Beams, June 16.

Joe Whetsel, Butler. Viewers, John Grube, Wm. Smith, J. A. McClure. Meet at office of 'Squire M. L. Hoffman, June 23.

ROADS ESTABLISHED.

The Matilda Proctor, F. Schlusser, Adam Stroh, Geo. Kelham.

Silas Nodine road dimissed.

Card of Thanks.

We desire to thank our kind friends and neighbors for their assistance, during the last illness of the late Henry Wittmer, and to assure them that their kindness is appreciated.

The Family.

Chamberlain s Restorative Pills.

These pills are peculiarly adapted to all bilious affections, and as a safe pleasant and reliable purgative and alterative have no superior. For bilious fevers and all other fevers incident to this climate they are unsurpassed. Ask your druggist for them. Sold by all druggists 1

A Model Railway.

The Burlington Route, C. B. & Q. R. R., operates 7,000 miles of road, with termini in Chicago, St. Louis, St. Paul, Kansas City and Denver. For speed, safety comfort, equipment, track and efficient service it has no equal. The Burlington gains new patrons, but loses none. 38

Town Lots for Sale.

Very desirable residence lots for sale at reasonable terms. Thirteen lots in the S. W. Ralston Addition south of the High school grounds. Also a fractional lot on West Seventh street, All in a good locality. Inquire of Mrs. S. W. Ralston or A. J. Ralston.

A Skunk Farm.

J. H. Raub, north of this city is starting a "skunk farm," though it seems an odd sort of thing to do. A year or two ago, he caught some skunks, and has taken such good care of them, that he now has quite a colony of them, and expects to go into it as an industry. The skunk, or polecat, or "Mephites Americana" of the scientific world, is valuable for its fur, which has for many years been on the market, usually in disguise and taking the name of some more popular animal. For some time there has been a farm of them up in Michigan, and the enterprising owner has made quite a sum in the business. The animals themselves are often sold to those who wish to start a colony, and bring high prices, as high as $20 or $30. A natural question right here is, do they "stink?" No, there is a way of "disarming" them, so that this feature is not to be feared and they are quite harmless. Mr. Raub says that his are great pets for the children, especially a family of little ones recently added to the colony. The idea is a new one down this way, but we look to see future geographies put down Indiana as "noted for the production of innocuous skunks."

Handy Invention.

Davenport, is not only a druggist of skill and ability, but an inventor as well. He has brought out a number of handy little articles, the latest of which seems to us to be about the most useful. This is a rotary stamping rack, at least that is the nearest name for it, that occurs to us just now. It consists in a circular, rotating disk of hard wood, at the rim or edge of which several stamp heads are fixed, the face of the rubber stamps being down, so that as the disk is rotated, the faces pass over a cylindrical ink pad which in itself, rotates as the stamp passes over it. Thus, it keeps a fresh supply of ink, and each stamp is refreshed as it passes over. The paper to be stamped, as in filing papers, or canceling bank checks and the like, is placed under the rotating disk, and on a rest, and as the stamp is brought around over it, a stroke of the hand stamps the paper. Any number of different stamps may be arranged about the edge of the disk, and when any particular one is needed, it is brought over the paper, and struck. There are many features about this little affair that will render it valuable to business men, bankers and public officers. Mr. Davenport will begin at once to get them into use.

Fourth of July Celebration.

The Alliance, P. I. and other labor organizations will hold a Fourth of July celebration at Hamilton's grove about two miles northeast of St. Joe. It will be a picnic or basket dinner meeting, and there will be plenty of talented speakers, and a good time generally. All are invited, especially those in sympathy with their principles.

Read This.

Poneto, Ind., May 19, 1891.

S. U. Tarney,

Dear Sir: With pleasure I write to let you know that I am improving grandly. My appetite is now good. I work every day, pretty hard. May God bless you for what your Positive Painless Pile Cure has done for me.

Yours truly,
L. B. Collins.

24

Call for Town Orders.

Upon presentation I will pay all outstanding municipal orders up to and including number 1520, date April 19, 1889.

Also all road orders up to and including number 1715, date June 16, 1890. Interest will stop June 4th.

Chas. H. G. Jones.
Town Treas.

GARRETT'S FOURTH.

SHE WILL CELEBRATE.

—AND—

DE KALB COUNTY WILL HELP HER DO IT.

Read This!

Programme:

Industrial Parade.

Reading the Declaration, by Prof. F. M. Merica.

Oration, by Lev. A. L. Lamport, at 11, a. m.

Base Ball game, at 1, p. m.

Horse Racing, 1, p. m.

Bicycle, Sack, Foot and Wheelbarrow Races at 5 p. m.

Fireworks at 8, p. m.

The following program has been arranged for the races.

Class 1. Stake race. Free-for-all, trot or pace, open to horses owned in DeKalb Co. Entrance $3.00, association adds $20.00. Five to enter and three to start. Best 3 in 5, ½ mile heats.

Class 2. Stake race for gentlemen's drivers, open to horses that have never been tracked. Entrance $1, association adds $10. Five to enter and three to start. Best 3 in 5, two-thirds mile heats.

Class 3. Stake race for two-year-old trotters or pacers. Entrance $1, association adds $10. Five to enter and three to start. Best 2 in 3, one-third mile heats.

Class 4. Running, for branded ponies. Entrance free. Purse $5 to the winner. Best two in three, one-third mile dash.

All purses divided, first 66⅔ per cent and 33⅓ per cent, except running, which is $5 to the winner. Races called promptly at 1 p. m. and governed by the rules of the American trotting association. A horse distancing the field will only be entitled to first money. Entries close at 12 o'clock on day of races. Admission to the grounds free.

A. F. Halter, Sec'y.
J. A. Clevenger, Pres.

Business College.

You can secure a good paying posi- by attending Parson's Business College, ShortHand and Normal Institute, Kalamazoo, Mich. Established twenty-two years. 5,000 of its Students employed in all parts of the United States. Only $5 for the summer term in the Normal Department, which opens July 6. Send for catalogue.

W. F. PARSONS, Pres.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL.

Casebeer & Matheny for wall paper and paper and paints. 19.f

Try our perfumes the best in the market, Robbins & McCord.

A cold dreary rain made a disagreeable change in the weather last Saturday.

The largest line of wall paper in the city will be found at City Book Store.

Aha! Look at Harter's big ad. big store, big stock, big bargains, big trade.

If you want strictly pure mixed paints call at Casebeer & Matheny's drugstore.

Pianos & Organs on easy terms. Address, Davis & Husselman, Waterloo, Ind.

Dr. S. B. Johnson, dentist, will be in his office at Waterloo on Thursday of each week.

Health is wealth. Take Simmons Liver Regulator for all sickness caused by diseased liver.

Beautiful ingrain, tapestry, body brussels, velvet and moquette carpets retailed at wholesale prices by the Foster Furniture Co., at Ft. Wayne.

A few dollars invested in screen doors will add greatly to your comfort during the hot months of summer. J. Beuret has them, and don't you forget it. 19tf

Steam engine and boiler for sale. Engine 45 H. P., boiler 55 H. P. Engine has been rebored and refitted, boiler in good shape. Can be seen at Gavitt & Goodwin's machine shop, Waterloo, Ind. 23-25

Are you aware of the fact that Beuret is handling one of the finest lines of screen doors, window screens, etc. Well, he is, and those wishing to keep out the pesky flies and insects during the summer months, will find that he has the very screen that will keep 'em out. 19tf

Ira Brandon, the hustling grocer at the North Side, has added a new feature to his business. He will hereafter have fresh fish on sale Friday and Saturday of each week. Those wishing to invest their money in the finny tribe, will find his prices and goods up to the standard. 20tf

Sturgis Democrat: T. M. Brown is here organizing an entirely new dramatic company. Miss Agatha Singleton has been engaged, and Little Fern, who is acknowledged to be the cutest and brightest little artist of the day. Little Fern appears in skirt and fancy dances, and as Little Lord Fauntleroy. Mr. Brown has also engaged Miss Ella Francis as singing and dancing soubrette. The company as soon as organized will favor our theater goers with their initial performance.

NEW GOODS.

ALL WOOL

PLAIN AND PLAID

Serges, Henriettas, Cashmeres, Domet and Zephyr Flannels, Criterion Ginghams, Calicos, Muslins, Tickings, Towels, Table Linens,

WHITE

—and—

BLACK

Goods, Ribbons, Buttons, Handkerchiefs, Hosiery, Gloves Underwear, Silk Umbrellas.

Call and See New Goods.

MRS. M. JONES & SON.

IRA BRANDON,

—Dealer in—

GROCERIES

—AND—

PROVISIONS.

A complete line of

STAPLE

....AND....

FANCY

GROCERIES

Constantly on hand.

Goods are always fresh.

Cash or Trade

....FOR....

Butter, Eggs, and Lard.

Call and see me.

North Main Street,

Opposite Woolen Mills.

DR. SIMMONS
LIVER REGULATOR
MEDICINE
DYSPEPSIA,
RESTLESSNESS.
A STRICTLY VEGETABLE FAULTLESS FAMILY MEDICINE.
J. H. ZEILIN & CO.
MACON, GA.
AND PHILADELPHIA.
Price ONE Dollar

The majority of the ills of the human body arise from a diseased Liver. Simmons Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy Liver than any other agency on earth.

SEE THAT YOU GET THE GENUINE.

MARSHALL'S HOOF CURE

MARSHALL'S HOOF CURE

cures sand and quarter cracks, split hoofs, sore and contracted feet, corns and all hoof troubles. Stops cracking, shelling and scaling hoofs. Softens and toughens brittle hoofs. It is better than soaking with oil, meal, etc. Should be used on all horses standing on hard floors or driven on hard roads. It also cures scratches, tetter, galls of all kinds, bruises, etc.

Toledo, O., April 6, 1891.

I had a horse in my stables that had hoofs so brittle that it was impossible to keep a shoe on his feet. I have used one can of Marshall's Hoof Cure on his hoofs and the horse has been shod for four weeks and the shoes stay on all right. I consider it the best hoof cure I have ever used.

Joseph Popp, Liveryman.

Sold by CASEBEER & MATHENY.

THOUSANDS OF WOMEN

Become afflicted and remain so suffering untold miseries from a sense of delicacy they cannot overcome.

BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR,

by stimulating and arousing to healthy action all her organs,

ACTS AS A SPECIFIC.

It causes health to bloom on the cheek, and joy to reign throughout the frame. It never fails to cure.

The Best Medicine ever Made for Women.

"My wife has been under treatment of leading physicians three years, without benefit. After using three bottles of Bradfield's Female Regulator she can do her own cooking, milking and washing.

N. S. Bryan, Henderson, Ala.

Bradfield Regulator Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Sold by druggists at $1.00 per bottle.

F. E. DAVENPORT,
Auburn, Ind.

McElree's Wine of Cardui

and THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT are for sale by the following merchants in DeKalb Co:

Robbins & McCord,	Auburn,
F. E. Davenport,	"
J. D. Campbell,	Waterloo,
Willis & Co.,	"
Geo. Kehrer,	Butler,
S. G. Stone,	"
O. P. Ruber,	Corunna,
W. M. Mercer,	"
J. M. Lefern,	Garrett,
Patterson Bros.,	St. Joe,
J. W. Wyatt,	Concord.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

By virtue of a certified copy of a decree to me directed from the Clerk of the DeKalb circuit court, in a cause wherein Jacob B. [illegible] is plaintiff and Asa John and Hannah [illegible] are defendants, requiring me to make the sum of seven hundred twelve dollars and eighteen cents, with interest on said decree and costs, I will expose at Public Sale, to the highest bidder, on

Saturday, June 20th, 1891,

between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m., of said day, at the door of the Court House in Auburn, DeKalb county, Indiana, the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years, of the following real estate to-wit:

The southwest quarter of the northwest quarter of section twenty (20) in township thirty-four (34) north, of range fourteen (14) east. Situated in DeKalb county, state of Indiana.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said decree, interest and costs, I will at the same time and place expose to public sale the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said decree, interest and costs. Said sale will be made without any relief whatever from valuation or appraisement laws.

PHIL. PLUM,
Sheriff of DeKalb county, Indiana.

Penfield & Blattner, Att'ys for Plaintiff.
Auburn, Ind., May 27th, 1891.

Notice to Non-Residents.

State of Indiana, }
DeKalb County. } ss:

In the DeKalb circuit court May term, 1891, James Prosser is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against him in said court, for decree authorizing plaintiff to make a deed, by Louisa A. Prosser, and that the same will be heard and determined on the 55th juridicial day of the present term of said court, which commenced May 18, 1891.

Witness, The Clerk of said court, this 27th day of May, 1891.

Geo. A. Bishop, Clerk.

James E. Rose, Att'y.

Dissolution of Co-partnership.

Notice is hereby given that the partnership heretofore existing between the undersigned, under the name of Fluke & Kline, as printers and publishers of the Auburn Times, has been dissolved by mutual agreement, and the interest of J. F. Kline transferred to the undersigned Frank E. Fluke, who will continue the business.

All claims and demands owing to said firm are transferred and payable to said Frank E. Fluke only.

Frank E. Fluke,
J. F. Kline.

Auburn, Ind., June 8, 1891.

Notice to Contractors.

I will receive sealed bids for the construction of a brick school house in District No. 6, in Jackson Township, up to

Saturday, June 27, 1891,

at 10 o'clock a. m. Plans and specifications can be seen by calling on me at my office in District No. 2. I reserve the right to reject any and all bids.

J. J. Walter, Trustee of Jackson Tp.
June 8, 1891.

Henry Loomis Nelson, in an article on "Town and Village Government," to appear in Harper's Magazine for June, argues, from a comparison of the State constitutions, that it is in the town meeting that the essential elements of democracy are preserved, and that it is to this feature of their government that the New England States owe much of their pre-eminence and prosperity. If Mr. Nelson's conclusions are correct, it would appear that the Southern and Western States should profit by the example of New England, and return to the more primitive method by which the local affairs of each community are placed entirely under the control of the popular primary assembly.

ROOT & COMPANY,

FORT WAYNE, : : : : INDIANA.

It Pays To Keep Posted

AS TO

WHAT'S GOING ON IN

OUR ACTIVE STORE.

☞ Samples from any department mailed to you upon application.

BLACK COTTON FABRICS.

Grenadine Styles, Plain, Stripes and Plaids, absolutely fast black.

10c up to 50c.

BLACK SILK LACES,

all widths, Chantilly flouncings Demi flouncings and edges to match.

COINDOT DRAPERY NETS

at 90c, $1, $1.25 per yard.

WASH FABRICS,

in the new and dainty

Brandenbergs,

Pine Apple Tissues,

Shanton Cloths,

at 12½c, 15c and 20c.

The printing upon these fabrics is equal to that of the choicest China Silks.

LADIES' SHIRT WAISTS

made of Silk Madras, Flannelettes, Percales, Zephyrs, etc.

PRINTED

CHINA SILKS,

in dark and light grounds,

50c, up to 88c.

DO

YOU

NEED

NEW CARPETS,

DRAPERIES,

RUGS,

SHADES?

we will send estimates. Our facilities are greatly increased — our stocks very large.

KID GLOVES

Suede and Glace — 4-button to arm-length to match shades of dress goods.

Evening shades a specialty.

LANSDOWNES,

in Black and Colors at lower prices than can be had anywhere else.

THE NEW YORK STORE.

NOW IS YOUR TIME.

◆●◆

Ladies who have not as yet purchased their Summer Hats or Bonnets should attend the great

MARK DOWN SALE

—OF ALL—

TRIMMED AND UNTRIMMED HATS,

FLOWERS, ORNAMENTS, &c.,

Which we commence this week.

ALL GOODS IN OUR

MILLINERY DEPARTMENT

Must be sold, and the Low Prices will do it. We are bound not to carry over goods for next season.

HARTER

East Court House, Auburn.

I. O. BUCHTEL,
Homoeopathic
Physician and Surgeon.

Special attention given to chronic and obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.

Office and residence over Smith & Madden's marble works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, night or day.

Dr. James Adams,

VETERINARY SURGEON.

Will treat all Diseases of Domestic Animals. He has had THIRTY YEARS successful PRACTICE. Call on him at his residence No. 34, North Main street, or at ROBBINS & McCORD'S Drug Store.

Dr. David N. Fitch,

VETERINARY SURGEON
and DENTIST,

Has located in Auburn, and will give his entire attention to the treatment of all DISEASES of DOMESTIC ANIMALS. Is a graduate in Veterinary Surgery and Dentistry, from the CHICAGO VETERINARY COLLEGE.

Office at the PALACE FEED BARN on West 9th St.

----AUBURN WOOLEN MILLS----

........DOES........

All kinds of CUSTOM WORK, such as Carding, Spinning, Etc.

ALSO

MANUFACTURE for the TRADE, Yarns Flannels, Skirtings, Blankets and Wool Bats.

These goods are absolutely PURE and warranted to give SATISFACTION to the Consumer.

—ENSLEY & FORKNER, Proprietors.—
Call at FACTORY North End of Main street
AUBURN, IND.

LOCAL NEWS.

Organ for sale: A nice large one of the Story & Camp make, as good as new. Call at this office.

J. Beuret for screens that will stand the usage of more than one season. Call and see them before purchasing elsewhere. 19tf

P. J. Lockwood is back from his trip to Oregon, stopping here on his way home. He is not in love with that part of the country.

H. J. Mossey still keeps his stock of groceries, provisions, etc., up to the standard of competition and low prices. Farmers find him one of the men to deal with.

Don't forget to treat your best girl to ice cream and berries, with cake, on Old Settlers' Day. These are served on the public square by the Presbyterian church young people, who are working to raise some funds for the church. Help them.

Miles' nerve & liver pills. Act on a new principle—regulating the liver, stomach and bowels through the nerves. A new discovery. Dr. Miles' Pills speedily cure biliousness, bad taste, torpid liver, piles, constipation. Unequaled for men, women, and children. Smallest, mildest, surest! 30 doses, 25 cts. Samples free at F. E. Davenport's.

McELREE'S WINE OF CARDUI for Weak Nerves.

Our machine oil is the best on the market, Robbins & McCord.

Frank Bevier and Joe Gingerich were up to see the Courier force Thursday.

We keep the very best machine oil, lard oil, neatsfoot oil at bottom prices, Robbins & McCord.

The ladies' aid society of the Catholic church will meet Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Jules Beuref.

John Labnum was in town again over Sunday. He is traveling for the well known, Harter Medicine Co., of St. Louis.

Delays are dangerous. Take Simmons Liver Regulator in time for dyspepsia, biliousness and all diseases of the liver.

The nickel social of the Presbyterian church will meet on Friday afternoon of this week with Mrs. Francis Picker. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

The New Process Vapor stove sold by Beuret is the latest invention in household labor saving stoves. The simplest, easiest and safest. Go and see it for yourselves, at Beuret's, Auburn.

Are you prospering? We hope you are, and if you are we hope you will deal profitably with yourself in so much that you will go up and see the New Process vapor stove, which is handled by J. Beuret. tf

D. Kagey, well known here and at Ligonier as a skilled miller, has leased the flouring mill at Waterloo and will be found in charge thereafter. The people there can rest assured they will have flour equal to the best in the country.

Our friend John Ketel, who resides in the country, was in town last Thursday. He says his son John, expects to see a part of Montana and other western sections this summer. But no matter where his boys are, he sends the Courier to them.

Say young man, if you are going to get married and want to keep in the good graces of your better-half you should go to Beuret's and get her one of those New Process vapor stoves. It will add to her comfort and convenience and at the same time make you happy, because she will always be in a good humor. tf

English Spavin Liniment removes all hard, soft, or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavin, curbs, splints, sweeny, ring-bone, stifles, all swollen throats, coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle, warranted. The most wonderful blemish cure known. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Indiana. tf

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.—"Mystic Cure" for rheumatism and neuralgia radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immdiately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. 75 cents. Sold by Robbins & McCord, druggists, Auburn.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

Try BLACK-DRAUGHT tea for Dyspepsia.

A good house on Jackson street for rent. Inquire of W. H. McIntyre.

Found: A common house key. Owner can have it by calling at this office.

For bicycle sundries, oils, lamps, carriers, etc., see Walter Hartman, Auburn.

Ice cream, strawberries and cake on the public square Old Settlers' Day, the 18th.

The nickel social of the M. E. church will meet in the basement next Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

"Broken Java" in glass jars for 25c at Brandon's. Examine them at once, while the stock is yet flush.

Call on Miss Myers next to Rainier's for the latest and nicest goods. Children's hats a special line just received.

Do you know that you can get the genuine hand made lemonade at Cora Shugers'? Well, you can and it's good too. 20tf

WOOL! WOOL!! WOOL!!! We will pay the highest market price for WOOL. It will be to your interest to see us before you sell. Schaab & Bro. 19tf

Editor Campbell of the Dispatch, goes to Bloomington this week, to attend the commencement exercises. His class, that of '86, will have a reunion Saturday evening.

W. H. McIntyre has two very desirable residences for sale, to some responsible parties on the installment plan, at from $8 to $12 per month. See him and stop paying rent. 20tf

The milk shake season has just opened up. Cora Shugers is better prepared than ever to deal out lunch, cigars, tobacco, lemonade, ginger ales, pop beers, and milk shake than ever. Remember his place on West Seventh St. 20tf

Lost: On Sunday, May 17, going south from the Rakestraw school house to Holmes Link's, or going from Holmes Link's to the Junction, a Persian shawl. Finder will confer a great favor by leaving it at this office, or sending word. 3

A prominent merchant says "I have sold Megrimine for over a year and guaranteed it to cure any headache without after effects, and have not found a single case it did not relieve." Sold by Robbins & McCord in Auburn. The Dr. Whitehall Megrimine Co., South Bend, Ind.

Green Mountain Salve: Is unequalled as a cure for all rheumatic pains, weakness in the side, back or any other place, and is unexcelled for cuts, bruises, corns, etc. It is the uncompromising enemy of pain in whatever form, or wherever manifested, and has never been known to fail in a contest with this dreaded foe of human happiness. If you would live a peaceful and painless life, try this great remedy and you will never regret it.

Our young friend Joe Staudacher, who has been in the employ of the Auburn Church Furniture Co., for the past four years, has been promoted to the highly important position of foreman in the mechanical department of that large, manufacturing institution. He is a young man of extraordinary skill, honest and trustworty, and it is believed that the firm could not have a better selection from all its large corps of workmen. May success crown his efforts as he goes forth to conquer and to dare the adversities and opposition so common to high positions in life.

☞ BLACK-DRAUGHT tea cures Constipation.

City Book Store has wall paper.

Smoking tobacco at Kessler Bros'.

Nicest hats for children at Miss Myers'.

See our little ad, headed "Garrett's Fourth."

It is reported that secretary Noble will resign.

Mrs. Nill of the South End, went to Ft. Wayne, Monday.

Walter Hartman will deal squarely with you in bicycles.

Anna Teeters is at home from her year's work at Wabash.

A new line of wall paper at 10 cents a roll at City Book Store.

All designs of latest style wall paper at Casebeer & Matheny's. 19tf

Farmers—Try our machine oil 40c a gallon, Robbins & McCord. 26

Hats 15, 25 and 35 cents at Mrs. Funk's. To close out stock. tf

Pension Agent Ensley, it is reported, will pay out $2,200,000 this month.

All new styles of wall paper at Casebeer & Matheny's. No shoddy goods.

Highest market price paid for tub-washed wool at Auburn Woolen Mills. tf

Mrs. Ann Culbertson starts this week for an extended visit with friends in Ohio.

Hoff has a new stock of goods just opened up. Groceries new and fresh. See him.

James Hoffman and wife will be home from Purdue, this week for a visit with his people.

With a record like Simmons Liver Regulator none should be afraid to use it for their liver.

Do not waste your time on doctors when your liver is diseased but take Simmons Liver Regulator.

Artistic bedroom suits in ash, oak, maple, cherry and walnut at the Foster Furniture Co's, at Ft. Wayne.

The New Process Vapor stove at Beuret's has no generator. Nothing to get out of order, and begins to work at once.

Auburn Normal school begins July 20 and lasts six weeks. Read the notice. This will be an unusually attractive term.

Martin Hook our Franklin friend was in town Saturday. He was on his way to visit his son who resides near Hunter-town.

Miss Myers has a bright new stock of goods including the neatest line of children's hats. Just lovely, and so cheap! Call and see.

Rev. D. F. Kain of the Lutheran church, has located at Harlan, in Allen county, where we believe he has charge of a congregation.

Contractors and builders should read Trustee Walter's notice of the building of a new school house in the Bear Creek district in Jackson township.

Ft. Wayne papers announce that "the famous Auburn Quartet" will be there the 9th to attend a big meeting of the railway employes at the Princess rink.

Megrimine cures any headache in 30 minutes. Sold by Robbins & McCord druggists in Auburn. The Dr. Whitehall Megrimine Co., South Bend, Ind.

Inventors who wish to obtain patents or wish to sell rights in patents should address, Chas McClellan, Solicitor of Claims, 612 F. St. N. W. Washington, D. C.

Rev. Mr. Moot of the Christian church at Waterloo will preach in the Baptist church in Auburn, on Sunday June 21, at 3 p. m. All are cordially invited to attend.

John A. Schaab came over from Cecil, Ohio, Saturday, driving through and getting here soon after noon. He had good weather and roads, till he met the storm this side of Hicksville.

The very large business of the Foster Furniture and Carpet Co., at Ft. Wayne, has been built up by their low prices, by their immense stock by the quality of their goods, and by their system of fair dealing.

The contents of slender purses if invested at the store of the Foster Furniture and Carpet Co., at Ft. Wayne, will go as far as those of fat purses invested elsewhere.

We mistakenly credited the wrong man last week, when we spoke of the painting on Mr. Cobb's house. The artist was George Quince. We presume the two gentlemen named, don't care either way, but the Courier takes pride in being correct.

Plain Sewing: Mrs. L. Cone, will do plain dressmaking and sewing, and asks the ladies of Auburn to give her a share of the work, which she will do in a neat, substantial manner and at fair rates. Call on her at her rooms at T. J. Saxton's on South Jackson street.

Say farmers, if you want some of the best machinery manufactured, you should go to Ed. Weeks, south of the jail. He handles the Champion reapers and mowers, also some of the best grades of small implements. Give him a call and examine his terms. 19tf

Mr. Wooton had a large audience at the M. E. church Sunday evening, and delivered one of his excellent sermons to the acceptance of all. We are glad to see he is very popular, the members and church-going people generally being greatly pleased with him.

Did you ever think how many nickels you have spent for worthless cigars? Cigars without tobacco, wrapper or flavor? If you have not, just stop for a minute and consider how useless and inconvenient such a practice is. Quit smoking „two-fors," and buy Kessler Bros.' famous "all-tobacco" brand. You will get value received every time.

J. A. Potter and J. A. Barns, celebrated their joint birthday Sunday the 7th, at the home of the latter, in the usual way, a dinner. Both gentlemen are of age, and not too bashful to carve a chicken or turkey without coolness and grace, and their reunions are always pleasant. Mrs. Lizzie Kelley, whose birthday is on the 8th, always is counted in on these occasions and was present of course. By the way we have just learned that about half of Deputy Auditor Frank Borst's family have the same day, and we seriously think of "enlarging the table."

Hank Little, the disgraceful editor of the disgraceful Garrett Clipper, got on another big drunk last week, though he did not dare to come up town publicly. The scene of his operations seems to be narrowed down a little, but the performance is as low as ever. A friend had to assist him into the rig at Garrett, and similar good offices were needed in Auburn. But his family had to catch it, and such a scene, in which pitchforks, hoes and shovels figured as weapons, was enacted in that part of town for some hours, as should make humanity blush. We do not suppose, however, that it will bring any blush to those in this town who support and read the filthy sheet—a sheet that is as low and filthy as its filthy editor.

☞ WINE OF CARDUI, a Tonic for Women.

Old Settlers' June 18.

Read the Old Settlers' program.

Town lots for sale. See our notice.

City Book Store has a fine line of all grades of wall paper.

S. C. Swineford is in Ohio visiting at the old home in Ashland.

We lead the market on hammocks from 50c up, Robbins & McCord.

A new line of wall paper just received at Casebeer & Matheny's. 19tf

Commencement at Corunna June 18, and at Fairfield Center June 19.

Bert Robbins and wife are home again after their recent trip to Indianapolis.

Quite a number of our people attended the convention at St. Joe, this week.

Megrimine, the new cure for headache and neuralgia, at Robbins & McCord's.

The Foster Furniture Co., Ft. Wayne, is the largest dealer in baby carriages in the state.

The Auburn Lutheran church will feed the multitude bounteously on Old Settlers' day.

The Swing Washer, beats them all for ease of working and the thoroughness with which it does its work.

Dr. Swartz is at Indianapolis attending the meeting of the state medical society. This is its 48th annual meeting.

Three thousand rolls of new wall paper opened this week at Davenport's. Prices anywhere from ten cents to $1.50.

Wanted! Wanted!! Wanted!!! at the Auburn Woolen Mills, all the wool we can get. Highest market price, don't forget it. 19tf

Big celebration in grand style at Garrett, July 4. There will be trotting, speaking, base ball, bicycle, sack and foot races, and a big parade.

If you are thinking of buying a high or medium grade bicycle of any kind, you will find it to your interest to consult, Walter Hartman, dealer, Auburn.

Mr. and Mrs. Shaffer of Decatur, Ind., were here over Sunday, the guests of Mrs. Dr. Cowan and her daughters, Mrs. Leas and Mrs. H. D. Weaver, who are relatives.

Piano for Sale: A good square piano in good condition and on reasonable terms. Inquire of Dr. S. B. Johnston at his residence or dental office on North Main street, Auburn.

T. R. Marshall, of Columbia City, was here Tuesday, to see about some cases, he and Mr. McNagny have in our court. The cases have come here on change of venue and are important ones.

Miss Ada Myers has completed the facilities in her millinery department by securing the services of Miss Edith Metler, of Centreville, Mich., who will do trimming in all latest styles.

Mr. Meese is putting up fifty more of his Swing Washers, to supply the immediate demand. This is proving the best washer ever made. He will show you testimonials from some of our best known people.

The L. L. C. will meet this week at the Swineford House, by special invitation of Mrs. Swineford. The lesson will be from page 175 to 186. Leader, Mrs. Lewis. "A Letter," by Mrs. Schaab. Popular Quotations, Club.

"Marion Willis and wife, a boy, born Thursday; W. D. Rickel and wife, a girl, born Friday," is about the way the bulletin board read last week. The two happy fathers are doing well——So were the others at last accounts.

The ladies of the Lutheran church will give a dinner on Old Settler's day, in the Ashley room west of Farmers Bank. A splendid dinner for all who come. Remember this, and get a good square meal when you come to town that day.

Three of our Newville friends, M. E. Chapman, J. M. Milliman and Eleazer Headley, were in town Saturday and called in to talk over old times. They are gentlemen who keep well posted on the events of the day, and take an active interest in them.

Have you tried South American Nervine—the gem of the century? The great cure for indigestion, dyspepsia and nervousness. Warranted the most wonderful stomach and nerve cure ever known. Trial bottles 15 cents. Sold by Robbins & McCord, druggists, Auburn.

Schnell & Weeks are still south of the jail with as fine a line of groceries, provisions, etc., as can be found in the city. They are great favorites with the "reciprocity" plan, that is, you will always get value received for every dollar spent for goods in their establishment.

Tom Hallam and W. H. Rakestraw entertained a big family of strangers Monday and Tuesday. They were from Michigan, and wanted to go west on the Wabash, but had to wait for financial aid. In the meantime, Hallam kept them over night and gave them dinner and supper, and Rakestraw chipped in for their breakfast.

Our friend J. A. Potter was quietly married Monday evening, June 8, to a Mrs. Mary E. Holden, of Grand Bay, Wis. Mr. Potter went to Ft. Wayne on the afternoon train met the lady, and returned on the next train, going over to Garrett where they were married by the rector of the Episcopal church at that place. They then came on to Auburn, and are now "at home" in Mr. Potter's Jackson street residence. We heartily wish them a happy future.

James McClellan ran a very narrow risk of getting into a serious scrape about a week ago. He was driving a very spirited young horse, coming into town near the Ober stave factory, when he ran into a swarm of bees some one was trying to get into a hive. It was too late to retreat and urging the horse they went through. Mr. McClellan did not notice even a flinch from the horse, but next morning it was covered with lumps where the bees had got in their angry work. Only the good sense of the horse, and Mr. McClellan's coolness, saved both from serious danger.

The gypsies that were hanging about here last week, had a lively time Thursday evening. Three of the men got on a spree and finally had a racket in a Ninth street saloon. They were put out and the two least to blame jumped into their buggy standing out side and started to go off, and so avoid Marshal Pfefferl, who was coming in sight. But the sudden start jerked the buggy apart, and the two came down into the street, and into the marshal's arms. Night watch Baker, and others helped to take them to the calaboose. In the meantime, the real culprit had gone out of the back door, and went over to where the camp was and began beating his wife. In a great rage she came over and got Mr. Moody to fix up a warrant, and her husband was put into jail. The other two, were set free, as soon as their innocence was established. Next day the the woman did not wish to testify against her husband, but 'Squire Walborn kindly requested a small addition to the common school fund, which with costs was cashed, and the entire outfit left town that afternoon, going in the direction of the north star.

McElree's WINE OF CARDUI for female diseases.

Meese's new Washing Machine.

Public square never looked nicer.

Base ball on Old Settler's Day, June 18th.

W. H. McIntosh has the loveliest roses in town.

Garrett celebrates the Fourth. Let us all go.

Children's day at the Presbyterian church June 21.

Brick work began on the Hoff building began Saturday.

Just received 1000 rolls of new wall paper at the City Book Store. tf

Gilt papers at 18 cents a roll, borders to match at City Book Store.

The frame of Howard McCord's new residence is up. It will be one of the finest on North Main street.

Mrs. Yates of Reading, Mich., has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Geo. Lanning.

Ropes, ropes, a good stock for sale at Beuret's in Auburn. Call when you need a rope.

An excellently well assorted stock of men's wear can always be found at the Boston clothing store.

Your money will buy a better and larger hammock at Robbins & McCord's than any place in the city. 26

Alex. Baltz of Butler township, was up here again Monday. He has been sick about five months, beginning with an abscess of the liver, and finally the grip and then some rheumatic trouble. But we are pleased to note he is slowly improving.

N. W. Blackburn of Garrett, has been appointed justice of the peace, by the commissioners, in place of Baker, resigned. The "Squire" has gone to work like a judge and his court will be open now every day in the week, "Sundays excepted."

The C. L. S. C. will meet next Saturday afternoon with Mrs. Gibson. Program, Walks and talks, Mrs. Plum; Classic French course in English, Mrs. Clifton; "Practical Talks on Writing English," Mrs. Penfield; "Hungary's Progress and Position," Mrs. Moss.

In our table of "June draw" of trustees last week, we forgot to say that a large part of the road fund had been worked out, so that but little cash was drawn in that fund. Thus Concord's total, is several hundred greater than it should be. Same of other townships.

Miss Flora Hoffman was home over Sunday. She will graduate at the conservatory of music June 25. There are four in he class and their ability is shown by the fact that the class song is original, Miss Hoffman composing the music and another lady of the class, the verses.

The L. L. C. had a splendid time out at Cal. Husselman's last Saturday in spite of the steady rain. They went out in 'buses from Trout's barn, and "Cal. he paid the freight." And with fine literary exercises, a big supper, and plenty of fun they almost sang, "We won't go home till morning."

C. C. Shaffer began clearing up the ground Tuesday, for a new brick block to occupy the double lot he bought of Mr. Finke not long ago. This will fill the gap between the Farmer's bank and the brick block north, and is another great step toward making Auburn a solid brick city. Let the good work go on.

Complaints of chicken stealing came up from Jackson township. They say parties with a pony team go about nights taking all the yellow legged chickens to be reached, greatly to the disgust of the owners, and the preacher. They also take old iron and any little thing they can make use of. Watch these fellows.

Program for The 14th Annual Old Settlers' Meeting, To be Held in Auburn, Ind., Thursday, June 18, 1891.

1 Assemble on the Court House lawn at 10 o'clock a. m.
2 Music, by Auburn Cornet Band.
3 Meeting called to order by president.
4 Song, by double quartet.
5 Prayer, by Rev. A. S. Wooton.
6 Report of the Biographer.
7 Registering of Old Settlers.
8 Miscellaneous business.

ADJOURNMENT.

1 1:30. Music by band.
2 Solo, by J. M. Widney.
3 Address, by Hon. A. W. Hendry.
4 Song, by Double Quartet
5 Address, Rev. N. Crary, of Hicksville.
6 Solo, by S. D. Hanna.
7 Bicycle race; prizes, $4, 2, 2 and 1.
8 Sack race; prizes, $2, 1 and 50 cts.
9 Slow mule race; prizes, $3, 2 and 1.
10 Music, by band.
11 Song, by audience.

ADJOURNMENT.

See our change of time cards on 8th page.

Steele & Cass are doing a nice job on the Kiblinger residence.

Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Hull have relatives from Ohio, visiting them.

See those pretty afghans for baby carriages at Robbins & McCord's.

Much matter was crowded out this week, but hope soon to catch up.

Dr. Henry Johnson of South Bend, was in town on Tuesday of this week.

Dinner in the Ashley room on Old Settlers' day, June 18. Don't forget.

Home grown strawberries are now in the market. They beat the foreign article.

Mrs. Dr. Adams spent several days visiting her son Douglas Kelley in Smithfield.

Mrs. O. J. Schwarz and Mrs. Collar, have a sister from Ligonier, Miss Kitson, visiting them.

To enjoy life stimulate digestion and regulate the bowels. Take Simmons Liver Regulator.

Don't forget us on baby carriages. We are bound to save you money, Robbins & McCord.

Dr. M. W. Johnston is so far recovered from his recent illness, as to be able to attend his business in Garrett.

Read the article on the duties of the new assessor. It will be seen this is an important part of our assessment plan.

Two most excellent bargains in second hand binders at Brown & Culbertson's. Come in quick if you want them. 25

The place to buy twine cheap is at Brown & Culbertson's. Tariff all off and most of the profit. Full stock of repairs for the McCormick, Esterly, Empire and other machines. 27

Mr. Potter, of Cleveland, was a guest of J. E. Rose over Sunday. His wife, formerly Miss Coates, a teacher in our schools, has been at Butler some time. They may locate there.

Great tumble in Thomas rakes and tedders of which Brown & Culbertson have a car load. Go and see them or their agents at Auburn or their sub agents at Butler, St Joe or Hudson. 26

The ladies of the Catholic church will give a rose social in the Ashley block on Seventh street, Saturday eve. Supper from 5 to 7. Ice cream and cake till 10. All come and have a good supper for 15 cents.

The young people of the Presbyterian church have made arrangements for holding an ice cream and strawberry festival on the court house lawn, June 18, Old Settlers' day. Ice cream 10 cents; strawberries, 10 cents; cake, 5cts.

If you want to save

Time and Money

GO TO

Cowan Sisters,

where you will find

A Numberless Variety

........OF........

HATS, TRIMMED.

No WAITING to Get Work Done.

Our store is full of

New Summer Goods

With prices surprisingly low. Call and see them.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A CHOICE SELECTION OF INTERESTING ITEMS.

Comments and Criticisms Based Upon the Happenings of the Day—Historical and News Notes.

A Toronto paper figures out that the drunkards of that city lost $191,682 in wages last year.

The Indian boys and girls at the Indian school have $11,000 on deposit in Carlisle, Pa., banks.

A man recently arrested at Williamsport, Pa., for larceny gave his occupation as that of a dude.

Norway is wealthier in nickel ores than any other European country but only two mines are now working.

The academy is the only French institution which has come down unchanged from the times before the Revolution.

A Shreveport, La., beet of the blood-red variety weighs forty-six pounds. It grew on Silver Lake soil.

A flowing well from which a strong current of cold air constantly gushes is the latest curiosity near Greensburg, La.

It has been noticed that when a man dresses up in new clothes, he will walk just as far to show them as a woman would.

There are now 19,373 newspapers of different classes in the United States and Canada, a net gain of 1,613 over last year's record.

An expert electrician insists that an electric train, making 125 miles an hour, would require 7,000 feet in which to come to a standstill.

A lady naturalist has demonstrated that moles are not entirely carniverous by starving one until it ate oatmeal, on which diet it afterward subsisted.

An Indianapolis man swore in court the other day that he did not know his wife's first name, though they had lived happily together for thirteen years.

A full-grown wild boy, aged about sixteen years, has been captured at Enoch's Point, Australia. His body is said to be covered with hair four inches long.

The voting lists recently made up at Chicago show that 88,000 foreign born and 84,000 native born males are entitled to exercise the right of suffrage in that city.

Recent explorations in Greenland have developed the fact that north of the 75th degree the land in the valleys is covered with ice 5,000 to 6,000 feet in thickness.

Restaurants should put screens in front of their doors. A man looks as ridiculous when he bows to a lady with a piece of pie in his mouth, as he looks stretched out at a barber shop.

There is a large lake near Hutchinson County, S. D., well filled with corn-fed fish (bull-heads). They got away with seven acres of corn which was left in the field, shocked but not husked.

England is importing butter from New Zealand. The butter is found to keep perfectly sweet if packed in quantities of fifty-six pounds and upward and kept at a temperature not greater than 45 degrees.

The father of shoemaking in this country is said to have been one Abraham Lovering, who came over in the Mayflower, bringing with him a number of pelts to be worked into footwear for the colonists.

The four most common causes of boiler explosions are external corrosion, overheating, overpressure and weakness of flue. The four least common causes are absence of safety valve, bad material, weak manhole and deposit.

The telephone was called into requisition in Quincy, Ill., the other day, for the marriage of a couple. The girl at "central" must have been side tracked during the ceremony or she would have captured the bridegroom herself.

The following advertisement appears in a German newspaper: "Wanted by a lady of quality, for adequate remuneration a few well-behaved and respectable-dressed children to amuse a cat in delicate health two or three hours a day."

The Western town which showed a growth within the last ten years exceeding 1,000 per cent. are in order, Spokane Falls, Tacoma, Seattle and Kansas City, Kan. The first three places mentioned are in the new State of Washington.

Boys in Germany begin to study Latin when they are 19 years old and continue the study for nine years. They learn a great deal of Greek, too, and of mathematics. But the general information they acquire at school does not compare with the American student.

The notion that ice purifies itself by the process of freezing is not based on any trustworthy observation. On the contrary it is utterly wrong in principal to take ice from any pond for consumption, the water of which is so foul as to be unfit for drinking purposes.

Dr. Raphael Martinez, the Mexican surgeon who says he can transplant a heart from one man's breast to another's, should bear in mind the wise old Indian recipe for cooking a hare. In these days of increasing wealth and deepening poverty the learned doctor will first have to find the heart.

The chaplain at Wandsworth Prison has come to the conclusion that crime and offenses rise and fall with the thermometer. A rise in the temperature, he says, has a tendency to diminish human recitude. Even the conduct of children, we are told, is affected by a high temperature.

An intoxicated Atlanta, Ga., negro went to church, and because the preacher did not happen to suit him, threw him down and sat on him. The negro was arrested and held, not on a charge of assault, but on a charge of having brought liquor into a house of worship, though all the liquor about him was in his stomach.

The Rev. Robert McIntyre says that "profanity is peculiarly an American sin." In all that goes to make a great and glorious nation we have been for sometime plunging ahead of all contemporaries, and now that we have snatched first place from the gifted and versatile army in Flanders it is safe to say our place in history is assured.

It is commonly believed in England that a good way to get rid of cockroaches is to address to them a written letter, saying: "Oh, roaches, you have troubled me long enough; go now and worry my neighbors." The letter must be put where they most swarm, properly sealed. It should be written legibly and properly punctuated.

Vandals broke into the Big Four saloon in Anderson, Ind., and turned the faucets to a number of whisky, wine, and brandy casks, allowing about three hundred gallons of the liquor to run out. Near the saloon is a well about forty feet deep, and the contents of the casks have found their way into the well. Water pumped from it is quite intoxicating.

The area of London at present is somewhat indefinitely marked. The police have jurisdiction over about 720 square miles; the postal districts cover 322 square miles. The present population is not far from 5,000,000; 2,000,000 of whom are foreigners from every quarter of the globe. There are about 8,000 miles of streets in the city proper. There are said to be more Jews in London than in all Palestine, and more Roman Catholics than there is in Rome.

In Germany it is found the average age of professional and tradesmen are as follows: Speculative sciences, 71 years; beautiful sciences, 70.9 years; abstruse sciences, 70.2 years; public affairs, 68.18 years; natural sciences, 68.7 years; fine arts, 67.6 years; school teachers, gardeners and butchers, 56 years; tradesmen, 56 years; lawyers and financiers, 54 years; doctors 52 years; bakers, 51 years; shoemakers, 47 years; smithies, 46 years; tailors, 45 years; stone breakers, printers, etc., 40 years.

A blacksmith near Philadelphia, says The Inquirer of that city, has a Dominique hen that makes its nest in the soft coal at one end of his forge. Every day about 10 o'clock the hen walks into the shop, mounts the forge and scratches a hollow place in the coal six inches from the fire. No matter how hard he blows the fire, the hen will not move until she has laid her egg. Several times her feathers were scorched, but she held her place.

The secret of the most successful barber in New York is that he shows his customers how they should wear their beards and mustaches in order to suit the outlines of their faces. A pointed beard lengthens a round face, and a round one takes the gaunt look from a long and thin visage. Men who value beauty go to greater trouble for good barbering, and even haunt the wharf where the French steamers tie up in order to get service that is as fresh from Paris as possible.

The commander of the St. Petersburg police force has issued an order that all Jewish stores and business houses should have signs with the names, patronymics, and families of the proprietors written in large, showy letters. The cause of this new order, which is the nearest approach to medieval regulation by which the Jews were compelled to wear yellow patches on their garments, is that merchants of the Hebrew faith do not write their names plainly on their signs, in order to avoid the too frequent intrusion of official extortionists and the prejudice of the unreasonable masses.

A dentist of Moscow is reported to have discovered a method of supplying the human mouth with false teeth which will grow into the gums as firmly as natural ones. Dr. Znamensky has performed several successful operations on dogs as well as human beings. The teeth are made of gutta percha, porcelain or metal. Holes are made at the root of the false tooth and also upward into the jaw. The tooth is then placed into the cavity. In a short time a soft granulated growth finds its way from the patient's jaw into the holes in the tooth; this growth gradually hardens and holds the tooth in position.

Eyes of Wild Animals.

A curious communication has been made to the "Academie de Medicine" by M. Motais, of Angers, whose works on the various diseases of the eye are highly esteemed, says Murray's Magazine. He has closely examined the effect of captivity on the sight of wild beasts, such as lions, tigers, etc., and asserts that all animals in a savage state are far-sighted. The same remark applies to a man in an uncivilized state, and even to those who, though civilized, follow avocations which oblige them to remain constantly in the open air, such as sailors or farm laborers.

The same faculty exists in caged animals when they have been taken after the age of six or eight months; but when born in captivity, or kept in cages when very young, they become near-sighted, which M. Motais attributes to the narrow space in which they are confined, and the training which obliges them to follow the eye of the keeper or tamer to obey his will. The near-sightedness of school children may, in his opinion, be ascribed to the same cause—the habit of concentrating the sight on one point, and the fact that the power of the visual organ becomes modified according to the requirements to which it is subjecten.

FOR A FOREIGN MARKET

VIEWS OF A LARGE EXPORTING MERCHANT.

American Resources and American Commerce Ready to Contest the Foreign Market—Protection an Obstruction—Export Trade Hurt by the Tariff.

Mr. Ulysses D. Eddy, a member of one of the largest exporting firms of New York City, shows in The Forum that the prophecy of Richard Cobden, the merchant statesman of England, is about to be fulfilled. Cobden warned his countrymen more than fifty years ago that a nation was growing up on the North American continent which, through the unequaled natural resources of its land and the intense energy of its people, would supplant England in the primacy of the world's commerce.

Our exports of manufactured products are as yet far behind those of England. Last year our total exports amounted to nearly 900,000,000, of which only somewhat over 150,000,000 were manufactures. On the other hand, the exports of Great Britain amounted to more than 1,500,000,000, of which more than 1,000,000,000 were manufactured goods, the product of British factories.

There are signs, however, that our country is awakening to the fact that there are possibilities of an enormous commerce with the 1,300,000,000 outside of their own boundaries. Americans are turning their attention to the markets of these vast populations, more than 1,000,000 of whom are not actively engaged in manufacturing. There are signs that we are about to enter upon a friendly warfare for the possession of those vast markets, and there are elements of strength in the American character that will make victory probable.

The vividly energetic character of the people, educated in activity by a commerce unobstructed over a continental area, gives promise of a momentum hard to resist. The American celerity of thought and tendency to prompt action, the spontaneous ingenuity in adapting means to ends, in seizing every new discovery and elaborating it for the uses of man with bewildering swiftness, all make for continuous and rapid progress.

The present great development of our commerce and its extension in foreign countries are not looked upon by Mr. Eddy as the outcome of protection. On the contrary, in stating the disadvantages under which we have hitherto labored, he says:

"For many years we have not only failed to fight for foreign trade, but we have defended ourselves behind tariff fortifications against the attacks of other nations." This view of a shrewd, practical merchant, who has minutely studied the markets of the entire world and has sold goods in them for years, effectually disposes of the absurd pretension of Senator Aldrich that protection promotes foreign trade.

Mr. Eddy indorses reciprocity, but only as a temporary step; "in beginning the campaign for the world's trade, we first throw up outworks around neutral markets in the shape of reciprocity treaties." There will come, however, a great advance upon the timid policy of reciprocity. "After operating for a time in the shelter of the reciprocity breastworks, our people may discover that these breastworks hamper rather than help them in a further advance. They will learn how much the enemy fears them, and, gathering courage, will move out into the open field of the neutral markets. The struggle there will be a severe one, but it is difficult to see how, with our resources, we can fail of ultimate success."

There are great and promising markets awaiting us in foreign countries, if we will but cast off our tariff shackles. "The new commonwealth of Australia, the greatest consuming nation in the world in proportion to population, has always preferred quality to cheapness, and is one of our best customers. Whenever our people are ready to admit her wool duty free, we can rest assured that she will grant a generous trade equivalent. British South Africa has long bought many goods from the United States, but asks free entry for her wool before she will grant us favors. Her ports are the gateways to the great African gold fields and diamond mines. Her railways are pushing for the heart of Africa, and already reach long distances from the coast."

Such are the views of a man who is selling American manufactures all over the world, who knows the wants of those markets, and what Americans can sell in them.

Hon. William J. Coombs, M. C., who is the head of the great exporting firm of which Mr. Eddy is a member, has pointed out how our exporting trade is crippled by the tariff in making it difficult for ships which take away our manufactures and farm products to get return cargoes in foreign lands. In an address before the New York Reform Club, of which he is a leading member, Mr. Coombs said, nearly two years ago: "In order to run ships, either sail or steam, at a profit, there are two things that are certainly necessary, viz., outward cargoes and return cargoes. * * The owner of a vessel who charters it for a voyage to Buenos Ayres or the Cape colonies does so with no expectation of getting a return cargo to this port, but calculates upon taking one from there to Europe. If he wishes to return to this country he must, except under unusual circumstances, come back in ballast. His rate of charter is fixed upon this basis. * * Our house has repeatedly within the present year chartered vessels in foreign ports to come to this country in ballast in order to take away merchandise for which we had orders. At the present moment we have six such charters pending. This not only involves long delays but enormously increases cost, and for both reasons puts us at a great disadvantage in comparison with our European rivals."

The Price of Beef.

Some extremely silly McKinleyites have pretended to see in the increased price of beef another of the many "beneficiencies" of the McKinley tariff law. But men who seek for facts rather than political illusions know that the poor yield of food crops last year is the cause of the higher price. A confirmation of this fact is pointed out by the Rural New-Yorker as follows: "A good illustration of the shortage of cattle foods in the country is given in the prices paid for by the products of rice manufacturing. A year ago rice polish sold at $12 to $14 per ton with rice-bran at $7 to $8. The polish now sells at $22 and the bran at $17 in the New Orleans market."

Farmers who bought corn last winter to feed their cattle will not be deceived by this "I-told-you-so" of the protectionists, when they say the McKinley law has raised the price of beef.

By the way, the McKinley law was not going to raise the price, we are told, of a single necessary of life. And by the way again, the McKinleyites always tell the farmer that the high duties on manufactured products always lower prices, and thus help the farmer; then they face about and tell him that the higher duties on farm products raise the prices of these and thus help the farmer again.

When the McKinleyites are guilty of such absurdities, blowing hot and cold with the same breath, need they wonder that the farmer is losing faith in their sincerity, and is coming more and more to look upon protection as the cheap humbug that it is? If protection reduces the price of nails and axes, the farmer cannot be brought to believe that it raises the price of beef and corn.

How Many Are Protected?

In 1886 the Secretary of the Treasury, the late Daniel Manning, in preparing his annual report applied to three of the most skillful and expert statisticians in the Government service for an estimate of the number of people in the United States engaged in gainful occupations, grouping separately those subject to foreign competition and those who are not. These three specialists were Worthington C. Ford, Chief of the Bureau of Statistics of the State Department; E. B. Elliott, United States Government Actuary; and Prof. Simon Newcomb, Superintendent of the Nautical Almanac, published by the Navy Department.

The result of their calculations, separately conducted, was that the number of persons in any way subject to foreign competition, were stated as follows, with their percentage to the entire number engaged in gainful occupations:

	Number.	Per Cent.
By Ford	827,184	4.70
By Elliott	825,000	4.75
By Newcomb	905,000	5.20
Averages	852,390	4.88

The percentages given are, each based upon a slightly different estimate of the the total number of workers.

Stating the result in the rough, then, we may say that about 850,000 of our people are directly interested in protection, and that 95 per cent., or nineteen out of twenty, have no interest whatever in it. Whenever the protectionists try, therefore, to persuade these nineteen men that they will be ruined, unless they tax themselves for the benefit of the twentieth man, they are guilty of an absurdity which ought to move an owl to mirth.

These figures, given forth with the authority of the men best fitted to speak on the subject, should give the farmer some light on the venerable "home market theory." If nineteen farmers were asked by some twentieth man to tax themselves for his good, and he in return would buy all his corn, flour, vegetables and meat from them, they would laugh him out of the country. They would say at once that a one-man-power home market was far too small to be of any value to nineteen thrifty farmers, and certainly such a market was not worth taxing themselves for—they would even give it up entirely rather than tax themselves.

Yet it is on precisely such a flimsy basis as this that the protectionists rest their case. They ask the nineteen to pay higher prices for what the one makes and then he will return the favor by buying from them—but of course at current market rates.

A New-Fangled Protection Theory.

The protectionists profess to hate theories and theorists, but they are now so badly rattled that they have become great theorists themselves, and some of their new theories are amusing enough. One of their latest is that we must put a high tariff on foreign goods, not in order to keep those goods out of the country, but in order that we may buy all the more of them. Senator Aldrich put forth this theory at the great protection banquet in New York, and already the high tariff organs are taking to it as a restful variation upon the old familiar theory of keeping up a high tariff in order to shut out foreign goods.

The Boston Boot and Shoe Recorder has so much confidence in the new theory that it even ventures to apply it to Mexico, as follows:

"We know from our own experience that just in proportion as our industries develop we have the means for buying more foreign goods, and we find that our imports are greater per capita after thirty years protection than they were previous to 1861 with a low tariff. The same will be true of Mexico. They have a tariff that is excessively high on many articles, but it is operating to develop industries there, and in addition to this is the steadily growing demand from this country for the tropical products which Mexico has in such abundance. The Mexican people must therefore gain rapidly in wealth, and their imports from other countries will increase in proportion."

This means that Mexico must keep up a high tariff in order to become rich enough to buy our goods, and yet the Recorder wants reciprocity with that country—i. e., wants Mexico to lower its duties on our goods, in order that we may sell more there. What a base jewel of inconsistency!

Against this new-fangled theory the great and only McKinley himself must be quoted. In his speech introducing his high-tariff bill he said:

"There is not a member of the Committee of Ways and Means, there is not a member of the minority of that committee, there is not a member of the House on either side, who does not know that the very instant that you have increased the duties to a fair protective point, putting them above the highest revenue point, that very instant you diminish importations, and to that extent diminish the revenue. Nobody can well dispute this proposition."

Certainly not; you are right for once!

Who Gets Protection's Plums?

Robert P. Porter, our Superintendent of the Census, who ought to have some knowledge of statistics, has assured the farmers that they get more benefit from protection than any other class. How any man could make such a statement in view of the enormous fortunes accumulated in protected industries, cannot be explained except upon the the theory of willful and wanton purpose to deceive.

Farmers themselves know very well that they have not been made prosperous by protection. National Lecturer Willitts, who was the Alliance candidate for Governor of Kansas last year, has recently shown that he is under no delusion as to the condition of the farming class. He cites the following figures to show how the farmers have fallen behind in the struggle for existence:

"Our last census shows that the farm mortgaged indebtedness of Kansas is $199,000,000, and of Michigan $130,000,000. To pay the interest on the mortgaged indebtedness in the wheat-growing State of Michigan requires 450,554 bushels more wheat than the State produces. Iowa has $199,000,000 mortgaged indebtedness—a sum equal to $104 for every man, woman and child in the State.

"In the last year the farmers in Kansas have lost their homes at the rate of 500 per week, and all the desirable public land is now in the hands of railroads or of aliens.

"In 1850 the farmers owned 70 per cent. of the wealth of this country; in 1860 they owned 50 per cent.; in 1880 they owned 33 per cent.: in 1890 they own less than 25 per cent."

Don't Want Our Eggs.

The protection comedy is becoming highly amusing. Last year McKinley put a duty of 5 cents a dozen on eggs—a duty aimed mainly at the pauper-laid eggs of Canada; and now it is announced that Canadian farmers want a duty on American eggs. During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1890, Canada imported 659,051 dozen of eggs, valued at $91,773. Of these eggs the United States supplied 625,166 dozen, valued at $89,444.

It would add greatly to the mirth of the melancholy to get the Canadian farmers to give their reasons for wanting a duty on our eggs, get similar 'reasons' from McKinley for his 5-cent duty on Canada's eggs, and then print these side by side.

TIN PLATE PROMISES.

THE INFANT INDUSTRY OF THE M'KINLEYITES.

Brilliant Promises and How They Have Been Kept—Four Tin Plate Mills—What the Tin Plate Tax Will Cost—Figures and Facts to Consider.

The large and brilliant promises of the McKinleyites last year as to the rapid development of our infant tin-plate industry have not been realized. What those promises were may be seen by the following extract from the speech of Congressman Bunting, a prominent canner of New York State, at the recent meeting of the National Canned Goods Packers' Association at Chicago. In speaking of the canners' hearing before McKinley's committee in March, 1890, Mr. Bunting said:

"Our unanswerable arguments were offset by the most flattering predictions and promises concerning the future of domestic tin plate. The Chairman of the committee [Mr. McKinley] ventured the assertion that before the law went into effect, July 1, 1891, American tin plate could be bought cheaper than the foreign plate was then selling, and that in the interim the consumers of plate could buy the foreign article as cheaply as ever. Mr. Bayne, a member of the committee, professed himself entirely willing to take orders for future delivery on that basis. Mr. Bayne lost his temper in an effort to show that within thirty days after the passage of the bill, forty factories on a basis of millions each in capitalization would be undermining the Welshman at his favorite pursuit of making tin plate. The prediction of Senator Allison that thirty reputable firms engaged in the iron industry would within thirty days put up tinning stacks and manufacture tin plate was flung at us for our composure."

Now, how have these fine promises been kept? The Metal Worker, a prominent trade journal, entirely in sympathy with the effort to build up the infant tin-plate industry by the high McKinley duty, has just collected all the information available as to the new tin-plate works; and all it can find, which are actually engaged in making plates, are just four, with four others in course of erection. Of one of the most pretentious concerns now making tin-plates—that of Norton Brothers, in Chicago,—the Metal Worker says: "It will take considerable time for them to develop their tin-plate plant to a sufficient extent to meet their own requirements."

It is learned from a different source that another of the four mills, ex-Congressman Niedringhaus' St. Louis Stamping Company, does not offer any plates for sale, the entire output being used by Niedringhaus in his own establishment and in sending specimens around to Republican banquets and conventions and to the offices of high tariff newspapers.

Meantime, what is all this tin plate noise costing the country? Our entire imports last year were 674,000,000 pounds, valued at $20,746,000, or 3 1-10 cents per pound, and paying a duty of $6,746,000. The McKinley duty on the same quantity next year will amount to $14,822,000. But our imports this year will be considerably above 800,000,000 pounds, and the McKinley duty on an equal quantity imported after July 1 will amount to $17,600,000.

A high tariff paper, the Boston Commercial Bulletin, calculates that it will require 280 mills, with a capital of from $4,500,000 to $5,000,000, to make all our tin plates. The consumers are therefore to be compelled to tax themselves $17,000,000 a year in order that a few capitalists may find a place to invest $5,000,000.

Are we not going to pay too much for our tin whistle?

Soap-Bark for Cleaning.

There are very few women who understand how to use soap-bark. It is the very best cleaning material in use. Nothing else cleans a black silk or black woolen dress so satisfactorily. Five cents' worth will clean an entire dress. It may be purchased at any druggist's in the city or country, being commonly used by all tailors in cleaning gentlemen's clothes. It may be used to clean almost any dark cloth, but it possesses color enough in itself to be liable to stain a delicate color. To prepare soap-bark for cleaning, pour about a quart of boiling water over 5 cents' worth of the bark. Let it boil gently for two hours and at the end of the time strain it through a piece of cheese cloth. Put the liquor in a clean pail. Have ready a smooth board of suitable size, and have the dress to be cleaned already ripped, shaken and brushed free from dust. Lay each piece of cloth one after another on the board, and sponge it thoroughly on both sides, rubbing carefully any specially soiled spots. After all the cloth is sponged, fill a large tub full of cold water, and rinse each piece of the goods up and down in it, one at a time, so as to remove thoroughly the soap-bark. Wring the pieces through the wringer, lay them in a heavy, clean clothes-basket, and when all are rinsed and wrung out, begin pressing the first that were rolled up. Iron them on the wrong side, if woolen cloth, till they are dry or nearly so; then hang them on a clothes-horse to air for at least twelve hours. The cloth should hang in a place free from dust, and when it is put away it will look like new. If the dress to be cleaned is silk, after thoroughly sponging it in the soap-bark, lay it on a clean board and sponge it off with clear, cold water on both sides. Wipe off all the excess of moisture you can. Pin the smaller pieces of silk on a sheet, and hang the sheet outdoors in a shady place, where no sun can reach it, or throw the sheet over the clothes-horse. It will need a slight pressing on the wrong side when it is made up to make it perfectly smooth.—New York Tribune.

Getting Neptune Down Fine.

An apparatus for measuring the mean level of the sea has lately been invented at Marseilles. It is based on the principle that when a liquid wave traverses a capillary tube or a porous partition its amplitude diminishes, and it is retarded in its phases without the mean level of the wave changing.

It consists of a glass tube, the lower end of which communicates by a flexible pipe with a plunger which is lowered beneath the lowest water level. There are two cells in the plunger, the lower being filled with sand and open to the sea, the result being that the column of water in the tube rises and falls very little with the tides, and the mean sea can be read from a graduated scale.

A Pennsylvania farmer tells in the Rural New Yorker his experience of higher prices under the McKinley law. He gives the following case: "Before the McKinley bill was a law, I had some spouting put up at eight cents per foot, complete. Now, under the McKinley protection I had a similar job done, and was compelled to pay ten cents per foot, besides the wages of an extra hand. This shows plainly that for every cent of tariff the manufacturer adds ten cents for profits, and the laborer gets nothing."

If it be true that protection lowers prices, why do the manufacturers always shout so lustily for "more?"

Men like to be coaxed, and women know how to coax. What profiteth a woman to scold.

TRADE MARK
DUTCH JELLY
NONE GENUINE WITHOUT CREST AND SIGNATURE
K. van Amheu
KEEP THE LID ON THE POT

If you want a beautiful complexion and a perfect skin, use Dutch Jelly. No tan, freckles, moth patches, pimples, black heads or wrinkles. No coarse, rough, greasy, chafed or chapped face and hands. Dutch Jelly is absolutely pure, being a vegetable compound and void of all mineral properties; contains no grease or oil, and after its application the most delicate fabric can be handled without soiling. Gentlemen use it after shaving. For eczema Dutch Jelly is a positive cure. For ulcers pimples, itching and all eruptive skin diseases, Dutch Jelly is simply invaluable and permanently effective. For cuts, bruises, sun burn, insect bites Dutch Jelly is supreme and is absolutely odorless. Dutch Jelly is not a cosmetic, but rather a skin tonic and has the highest medical endorsement. One trial will convince the most skeptical that it will keep the roughest skin in the smoothest and whitest condition. Ask your druggist, or send 50 cents in Stamps or Postal Note for Sample Jar. Address

Dutch Jelly Co.,
50-52 Michigan Ave.,
CHICAGO, ILL.

SANGOLE
ACTUALLY
PRODUCES FLESH
AND CURES
CONSUMPTION
IN INCIPIENCY.
PALATABLE, DIGESTIBLE,
NUTRITIOUS.
IMPARTS LIFE AND VIGOR TO EVERY FIBRE.
SPECIMEN TESTIMONIAL.

Gentlemen:— Wheeling, Feb. 10, 1891.
Early last fall I contracted a severe cold, which settled on my lungs. I coughed dreadfully and lost flesh rapidly until advised to try Sangole, which I did with the most gratifying result.
After taking three bottles my cough ceased and I found that I had gained six pounds in weight. I most heartily recommend it to sufferers of loss of flesh from any cause.
Respectfully,
LIZZIE G. CAMPBELL.

Recommended and sold by all Druggists.
Post paid to any address on receipt of $1.00
Silver Guarantee Remedy Co.,
WHEELING, W. VA.

The D&C
TO MACKINAC
SUMMER TOURS
PALACE STEAMERS. LOW RATES.
Four Trips per Week Between
DETROIT, MACKINAC ISLAND
Petoskey, The Soo, Marquette, and Lake Huron Ports.
Every Evening Between
DETROIT AND CLEVELAND
Sunday Trips during June, July, August and September Only.
OUR ILLUSTRATED PAMPHLETS,
Rates and Excursion Tickets will be furnished by your Ticket Agent, or Address
A. A. SCHANTZ, Ass't G. P. A., Detroit, Mich.,
THE DETROIT & CLEVELAND STEAM NAV. CO

FARMS IN CENTRAL MICHIGAN
are positively first rate as proven by both State and United States agricultural reports. In yield and value of crops per acre, they excell Southern Michigan, Indiana and Illinois. We offer for sale at low prices and on easy terms 20,000 acres of good unimproved farming lands in Isabella County, the center county of the lower peninsular of Michigan. Write for descriptive pamphlet and sample price list.
C. M. C. Cook, Mt. Pleasant, Mich.

Page CYCLE
SPRING FORK.

EASIEST RIDING
WHEEL - ON - EARTH.
HAS WITHOUT EXCEPTION THE
FINEST SPRING IN AMERICA.
Rides as gently over obstructions as a carriage and is in every sense of the word a perfect cycle
BUILT
FINEST DESIGN.
FINEST STEEL.
FINEST FINISH.
FINEST BALL BEARINGS.
Do not buy without getting our Catalogue or seeing this wheel.
PAGE STEEL WHEEL CO., TOLEDO, OHIO.

Manny
Lemon Juice Extractor
BEST AND MOST ECONOMICAL.

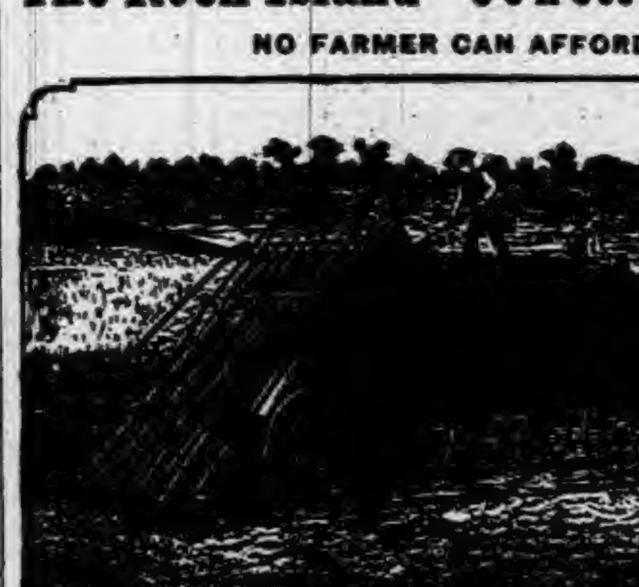
Ordinary Lemon Squeezers act upon lemon from outside, inducing a bitter oil and crushing living creatures which appear on skin as dark scales.
The "Manny" Lemon Juice Extractor operates on pulp within, and gives clear pure juice free from insects, oil or seeds.
If your dealer cannot supply you send 30 CENTS postal note or stamps for a sample post paid.
Manny Lemon Juice Extractor Co.,
202 COLUMBIA ST., ROCKFORD, ILL.
WE WANT GOOD AGENTS.

DON'T WASTE MONEY
BUYING THE WRONG WAIST.
BUY THE "HAUT-TON" WAIST.

HAUT-TON WAIST.
PAT. MARCH 18 1890

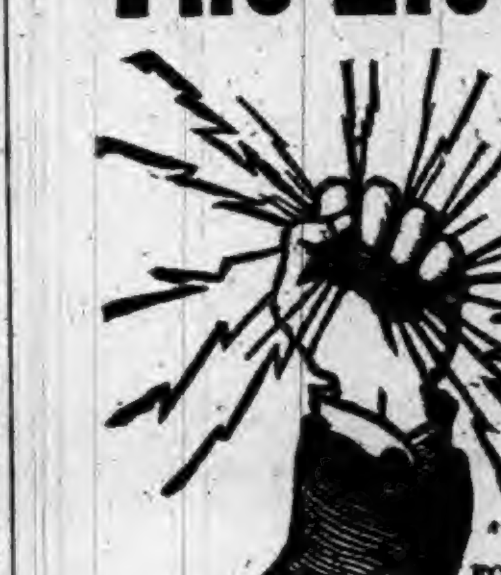
It meets the popular demand for hygienic garments. Made of fine satteen in white, drab, ecru, old gold, and fast black, well stayed with cords; has no steels except in front and back, with clasp or button fronts.
Is so soft and pliable, yet produces a perfect figure.
A Perfect Waist.
Canvassers Wanted. Send for Catalogue.
Waist sent post paid on receipt $1.15
Bortree Mfg. Co., Jackson, Mich.

The Rock Island "Jewett Hay Rake and Loader."
NO FARMER CAN AFFORD TO BE WITHOUT ONE.



Takes the hay as left by mower, rakes it CLEAN and will deliver a ton onto wagon every fifteen minutes.
Will certainly save its cost in one year, and under some circumstances in one day.
Light Draft. Fully Guaranteed.
Send for full description and testimonials.
Rock Island Plow Co.
ROCK ISLAND, ILL.
(Mention this paper).

The Electric Capsule



is a pleasant laxative and sure cure for general debility, billiousness, torpid liver, malaria, sleeplessness, loss of appetite, melancholy, costiveness, nervousness and pains in the back. It positively cures that lassitude and weariness, and want of appetite experienced by so many. Are you fatigued? The most recently discovered wonderful remedy for LOST VITALITY.
25 Cents per box.
Address ELECTRIC CAPSULE CO.
Post Office Box 3349, N. Y.
FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

ORANGE BLOSSOM
A POSITIVE CURE FOR
ALL FEMALE DISEASES.
SOME SYMPTOMS: A tired, languid feeling, low spirited and despondent, with no apparent cause. Indigestion, headache, backache, bearing down pains, pain across lower part of bowels, with great soreness in region of ovaries. Tumors, Bladder difficulty, Frequent urination, Leucorrhœa, Constipation of bowels, piles. With all these symptoms patient nervous and irritable. THE ORANGE BLOSSOM TREATMENT removes all these by a thorough process of absorption.
A LOCAL APPLICATION Perfectly harmless, which every lady can use, herself. Medicines taken internally will never relieve the many forms of female weakness. The remedy must be applied to the parts to obtain permanent relief.
A PLAIN TALK TO LADIES in our circular. Ask your druggist for one, or send two cent stamp to home office for sample box and circular.
EVERY LADY CAN TREAT HERSELF.
O. B. Pile Remedy. $1.00 FOR ONE MONTH'S TREATMENT. O. B. Stomach Powders.
O. B. Catarrh Cure. —PREPARED BY— O. B. Kidney Cones.
J. A. McGILL, M. D., & CO., 2 & 4 PANORAMA PLACE, CHICAGO, ILL.
FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
ALONZO G. FISHER, Wholesale Agent, 67 Washington St., Chicago, Ill.

Children Enjoy

The pleasant flavor, gentle action and soothing effects of Syrup of Figs, when in need of a laxative, and if the father or mother be costive or bilious the most gratifying results follow its use, so that it is the best family remedy known and every family should have a bottle.

Luck and Ill-Luck.

Minks—My stars! The worst has happened. I cannot pay ten cents on the dollar.

Winks—You are luckier than I am. When I failed I had so much property left that I had to pay fifty cents on the dollar.—Street & Smith's Good News.

THE WABASH LINE.

H-andsome equipment,
E-legant day coaches, and
W-agner palace sleeping cars
A-re in daily service
B-etween the city of St. Louis
A-nd New York and Boston.
S-pacious reclining chair cars
H-ave no equal
L-ike those run by the
I-ncomparable and only Wabash.
N-ew trains and fast time
E-very day in the year.

From East to West the sun's bright ray,
Smiles on the line that leads the way.

MAGNIFICENT VESTIBULE EXPRESS TRAINS, running free reclining chair cars and palace sleepers to St. Louis, Kansas City, and Council Bluffs. The direct route to all points in Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Texas, Indian Territory, Arkansas, Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, Washington, Montana, and California. For rates, routes, maps, etc., apply to any ticket agent or address

F. CHANDLER,
Gen. Pass. and Ticket Agent,
St. Louis, Mo.

MONEY on call may be easy, but the collector who has to call for it forty or fifty times doesn't find it so.

THE best cough medicine is Piso's Cure for Consumption. Sold everywhere. 25c.

WOMAN may never be elected to Congress, but she will ever maintain the position of Speaker of the House.

FITS.—All Fits stopped free by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. No Fits after first day's use. Marvellous cures. Treatise and $2.00 trial bottle free to Fit cases. Send to Dr. Kline, 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

IT is as easy for some men to be witty as it is difficult for some to be otherwise than dull.

Pretty strong reasons for trying Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. In the first place, it cures your catarrh—no matter how bad your case, or of how long standing. It doesn't simply palliate—it cures. If you believe it, so much the better. There's nothing more to be said. You get it for 50 cents, from all druggists.

But perhaps you won't believe it. Then there's another reason for trying it. Show that you can't be cured, and you'll get $500. It's a plain business offer. The makers of Dr. Sage's Remedy will pay you that amount if they can't cure you. They know that they can—you think that they can't. If they're wrong, you get the cash. If you're wrong, you're rid of catarrh.

SHILOH'S CONSUMPTION CURE.

The success of this Great Cough Cure is without a parallel in the history of medicine. All druggists are authorized to sell it on a positive guarantee, a test that no other cure can successfully stand. That it may become known, the Proprietors, at an enormous expense, are placing a Sample Bottle Free into every home in the United States and Canada. If you have a Cough, Sore Throat, or Bronchitis, use it, for it will cure you. If your child has the Croup, or Whooping Cough, use it promptly, and relief is sure. If you dread that insidious disease Consumption, use it. Ask your Druggist for SHILOH'S CURE, Price 10 cts., 50 cts. and $1.00. If your Lungs are sore or Back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster, Price 25 cts.

DONALD KENNEDY
Of Roxbury, Mass., says

Kennedy's Medical Discovery cures Horrid Old Sores, Deep Seated Ulcers of 40 years' standing, Inward Tumors, and every disease of the skin, except Thunder Humor, and Cancer that has taken root. Price $1.50. Sold by every Druggist in the U. S. and Canada.

The Soap that Cleans Most is Lenox.

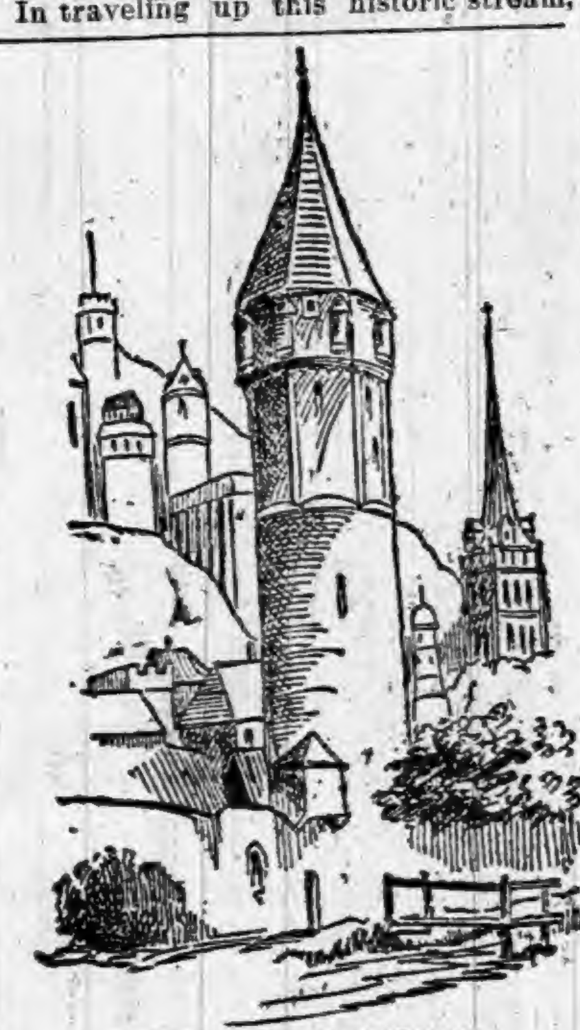
SCENES UP THE MAIN.

AN UNFREQUENTED PATH FOR TOURISTS.

Tourists Are Like Sheep, They Follow a Beaten Path and Thereby Miss Some of the Best Sights—A Once Important, Now Neglected, River—In the Heart of Germany.

TRAVELERS, like sheep, follow a beaten route. Tourists who undertake to make the circuit of Europe generally follow such lines as are indicated by the men who lay down "routes," and these, for the convenience of the tourist agencies, are along the best understood lines of railway and river communication. Hence, it is in a measure difficult for a traveler to see anything outside of the ruts, and he must not only be independent, but enterprising, who undertakes to see Europe for himself, to get into the nooks and corners, to ascertain what manner of people live in the village and country districts, away from the lines beaten by the tourist foot.

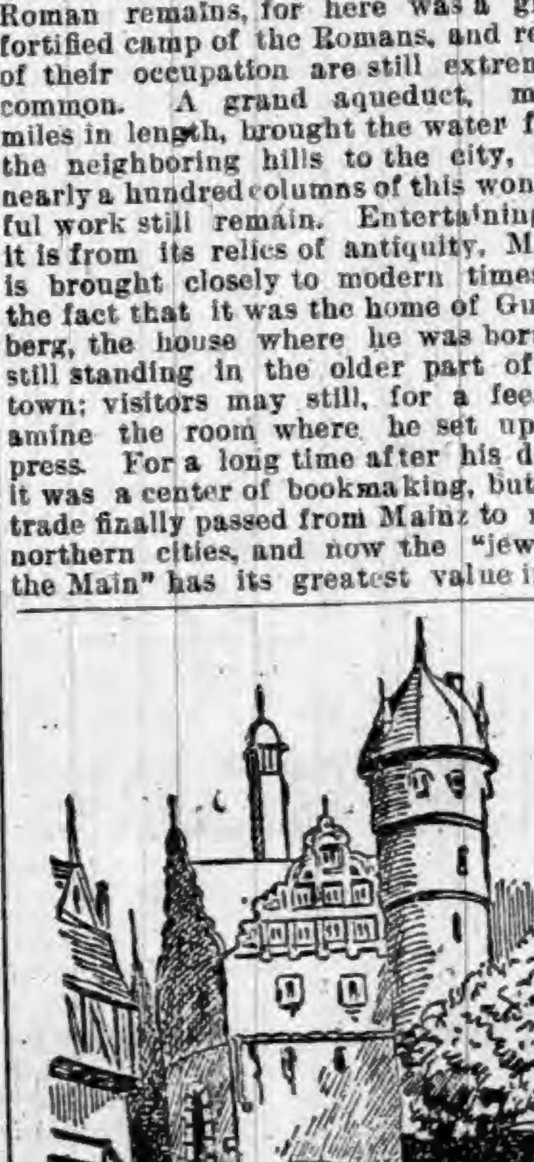
For instance, the Rhine is well known; everybody "does" the Rhine; but not so familiar are its principal tributaries—the Main, the Mosel, and a dozen others. Yet no rivers in Central Europe are more interesting than the Main or the Mosel, the former in particular, for whether to the traveler interested in history, to him who is an amateur antiquarian, or to the wonder-gazer, it flows through a country famous since the time of Cæsar. Along the Main were lines of fortifications which kept the barbarians from the borders of the empire; the Main was a disputed river throughout the middle ages, and even down to modern times this interesting stream has been a cause of international disputes. Rising on the confines of Switzerland and the Austrian Tyrol, it traverses a country famous in story and in song; its banks abound with romance with tradition, with bits of history extending from the time of Drusus to that of Napoleon.



WATCH TOWER NEAR HANAU.

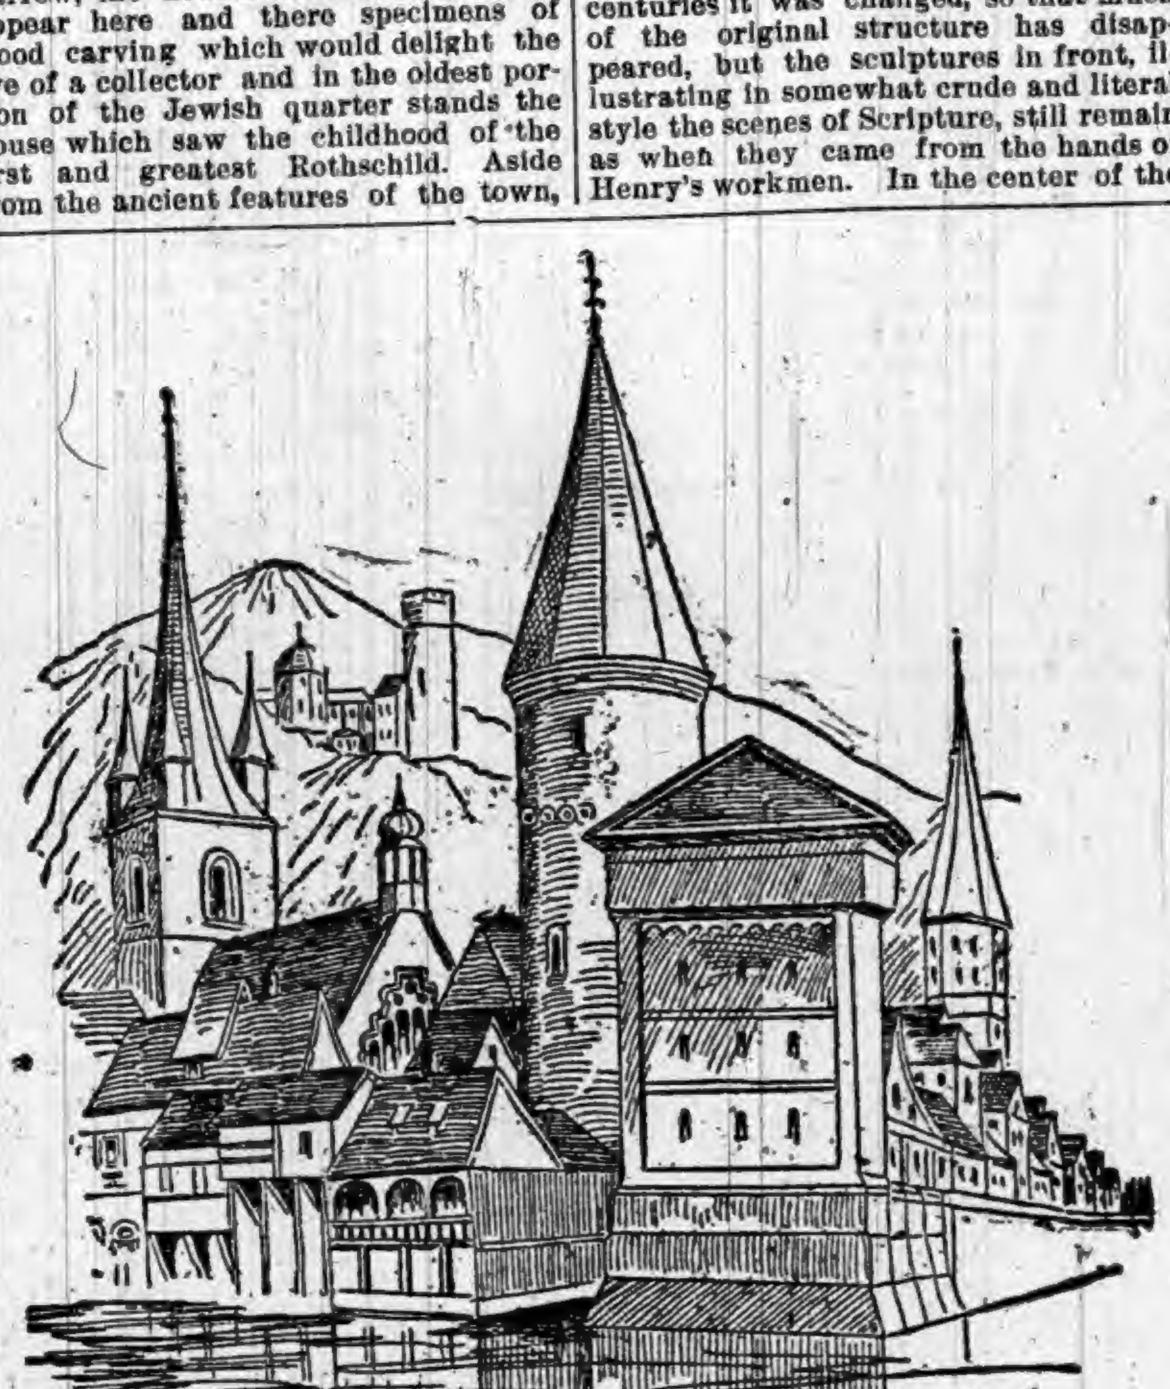
In traveling up this historic stream, says a writer in the Globe-Democrat, the traveler enters its broad, sluggish current where its waters mingle with those of the Rhine at Mainz, now the chief border fortress of the German Empire. Few cities are more favored in position, and fewer still better adapted to the purpose of a border fort, than this once famous metropolis. So well understood was its importance that before the Austrian-Prussian war of 1866, it was garrisoned by a force composed in equal parts of Austrians, Prussians and Russians. At the beginning of the war the Austrians and Prussians withdrew; on the signal defeat of the Austrian armies the Prussians returned to Mainz, which then became a fortress of Germany, and is now an imperial city. Having a population of 50,000, the permanent garrison consists of 8,000 men, sufficient under any circumstances to hold its extensive lines against surprise or sudden attack until relief could be brought.

The city is now being modernized. Old houses are giving place to new; its picturesque bridge of boats across the Rhine will doubtless in time give place to a permanent bridge, as the former bridge of boats across the Main has given way to a railroad bridge. A hundred years ago Mainz was a great literary center, but during the French wars all the literary and art treasures of the Cathedral and the churches were dispersed. The invaders did not spare even the costly shrines of the churches, but took away alike shrines and reliquaries, pictures, statues, books. Among the attractions it still retains, however, is a museum of Roman remains, for here was a great fortified camp of the Romans, and relics of their occupation are still extremely common. A grand aqueduct, many miles in length, brought the water from the neighboring hills to the city, and nearly a hundred columns of this wonderful work still remain. Entertaining as it is from its relics of antiquity, Mainz is brought closely to modern times by the fact that it was the home of Gutenberg, the house where he was born is still standing in the older part of the town; visitors may still, for a fee, examine the room where he set up his press. For a long time after his death it was a center of bookmaking, but the trade finally passed from Mainz to more northern cities, and now the "jewel of the Main" has its greatest value in its forts and their long rows of frowning guns.



VILLAGE NEAR BAMBERG.

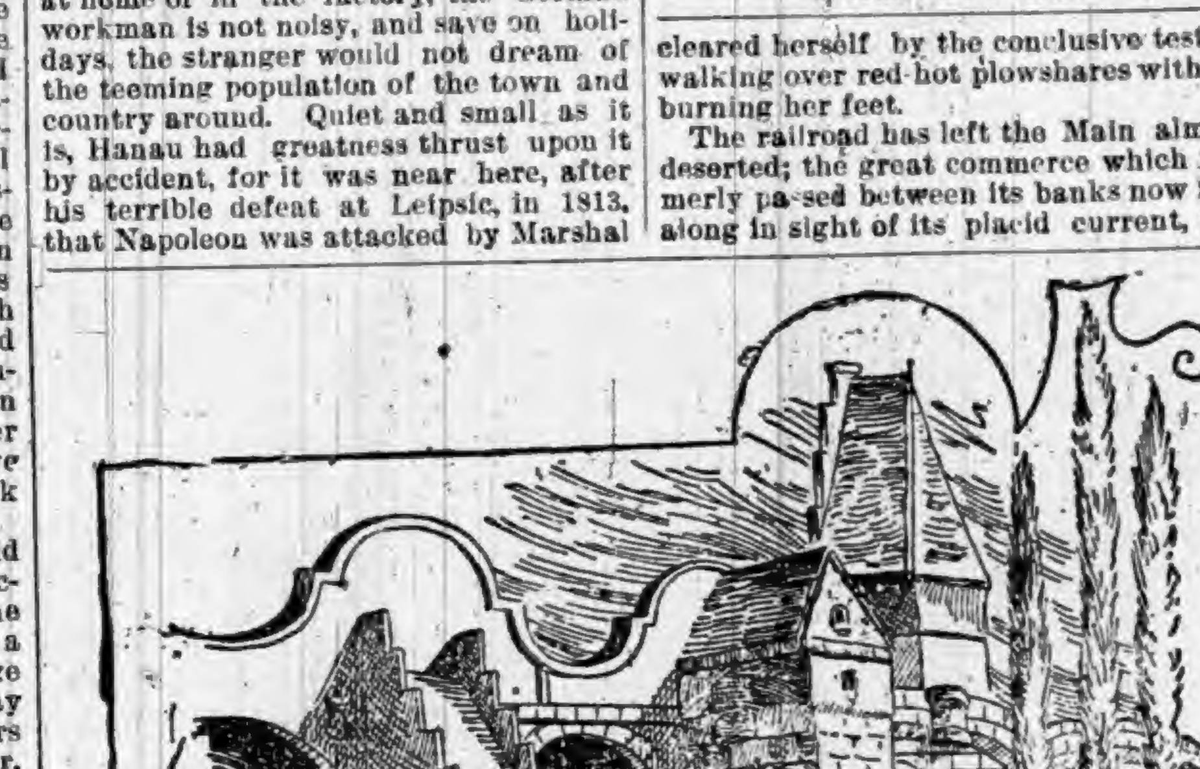
Passing up the Main, the flat banks soon give way to vine-covered hills; for the whole region is a vineyard, and some of the choicest wines placed on German tables are drawn along the elevations overlooking the river. A short stretch of travel brings the tourist within sight of the spires of Frankfort, one of the most flourishing cities of the German Empire. Its character is utterly different from that of Mainz; the large garrison in the latter city gives tone to the place; it is military in character, while Frankfort, on the contrary, is commercial. It is a great market for American goods and securities; its streets teem with traders from every part of Europe; but, nevertheless, it has not lost those features of antiquity which make it interesting to travelers from a new world. In the older part of the town the streets are narrow, the houses overhanging; there appear here and there specimens of wood carving which would delight the eye of a collector and in the oldest portion of the Jewish quarter stands the house which saw the childhood of the first and greatest Rothschild. Aside from the ancient features of the town, it is one of the most pleasant cities in Germany in which to spend a few weeks, and no city of its size in Central Europe is better provided with public parks and promenades. To the tourist the Council House will furnish no end of entertainment, for here the Emperors of Germany were once elected, and on its balcony after election they showed themselves to the people in the public square of Romerberg, below, where were enacted those gorgeous ceremonies which it was Goethe's delight to describe.



A CORNER OF BAMBERG.

Continuing up the Main, the traveler next passes the bustling little town of Offenbach, with its big castle and little streets, through many of which a cart would find it difficult, if not impossible, to pass. Small as the town is, its streets morning and evening are filled with people in a hurry to get to their work, for Offenbach manufactures carriages and cotton and playing cards. The denizens of Offenbach, however, do not devote all their time to their work, for here as elsewhere in Germany the beer houses are well patronized. The German operative takes life easily; he is not well paid, and much hard work is required to make a living; but he does not worry over the fact, but smokes his pipe and drinks his beer, talks politics with his neighbors, goes to church on Sunday, grows old in the same house in which his father lived, dies, and is buried, if not in the same grave, at least in one very near it.

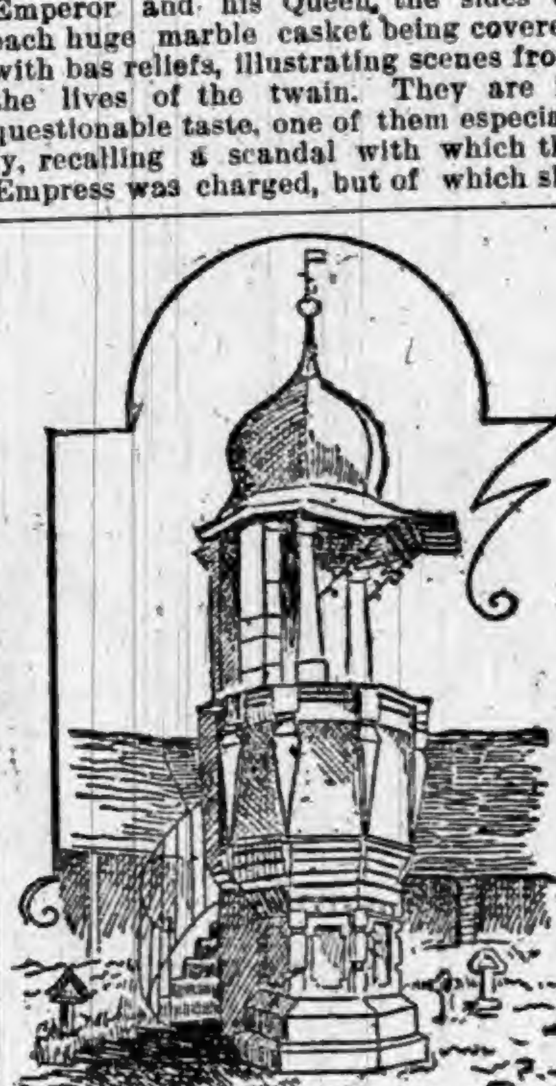
Hanau, a little further up the river, is also a manufacturing town, where much is done and little said. The streets are quiet at all hours of the day, for, whether at home or in the factory, the German workman is not noisy, and save on holidays, the stranger would not dream of the teeming population of the town and country around. Quiet and small as it is, Hanau had greatness thrust upon it by accident, for it was near here, after his terrible defeat at Leipsic, in 1813, that Napoleon was attacked by Marshal Wrede, who thought to make short work of the shattered forces of the Emperor, but soon learned that it was dangerous to tamper with a dying lion, for Napoleon turned upon him and send his battalions flying across the country in the utmost confusion. The place of the battle is still pointed out by the guides, who show where the opposing forces were drawn up on the eventful day when Wrede attempted to check the course of the desperate Emperor. Not far away is the field of Dettingen, where little George II. flourished his rapier like a fencing master, and where his horse ran off and nearly succeeded in carrying him into the enemy's lines.



THE FRANKFORT BRIDGE.

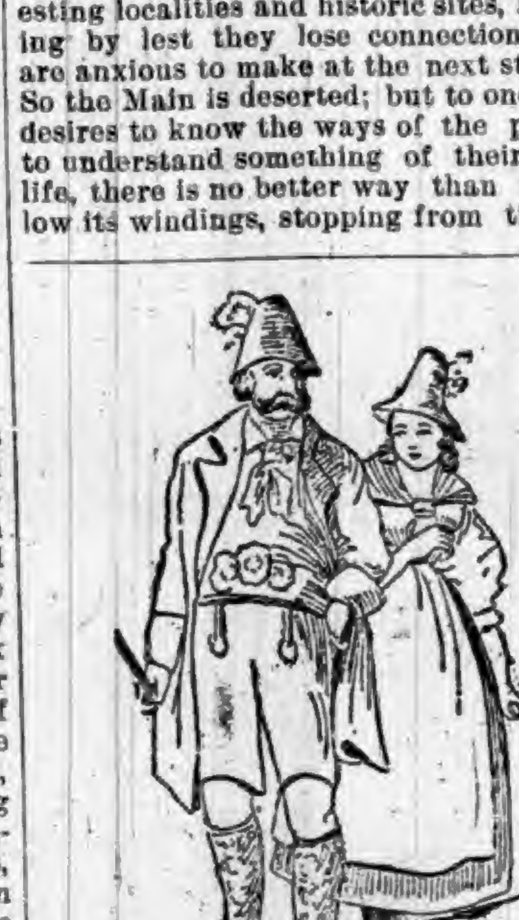
Above Hanau the main valley broadens, and other things are raised besides grapes, the broad fields appear covered with waving grain, lines of forest separate the acres of one land owner from those of his neighbor; well-trimmed hedges and neat stone walls divide the fields. But the vineyards do not entirely disappear; here and there their dark green leaves act as a foil to the brighter hues of pasture land or the acres of golden grain. The next considerable town is Ashoffenburg, whose great castle, with its four immense towers, was long ago converted into a library and art collection. Many thousand rare books, prints, and pictures are gathered within the gray walls which once withstood the shock of battering rams, and even the thunder of artillery. The queer little town is quite off the beaten lines of travel, and in its quaint, old-fashioned chapels one may find tombstones and monuments bearing names famous in the annals of their country. It is best visited on a market day, when the peasants come in from the surrounding country in costumes a century old, and speaking a language not much younger, for in Bavaria dialect is slow to change.

In the valley of the Main, but on a tributary, the Regnitz, and four miles from the point where it joins the Main River, stands Bamberg, one of the best built towns in Bavaria. It covers several hills, which rise on each side of the Regnitz, and is divided by that stream into nearly equal parts. Picturesque bridges cross the stream at various points of convenience in the city, and the streets appearing suddenly from among the overhanging houses, run across the bridges and dive under and between the houses again, as if the bright German sunlight were a thing to be avoided. Bamberg is full of interest, but the traveler will not fail on the first day to visit the cathedral, a structure which dates from the reign of Henry II., 1004. In the twelfth and thirteenth centuries it was changed, so that much of the original structure has disappeared, but the sculptures in front, illustrating in somewhat crude and literal style the scenes of Scripture, still remain as when they came from the hands of Henry's workmen. In the center of the nave stands the sarcophagus of the great Emperor and his Queen, the sides of each huge marble casket being covered with bas reliefs, illustrating scenes from the lives of the twain. They are in questionable taste, one of them especially, recalling a scandal with which the Empress was charged, but of which she cleared herself by the conclusive test of walking over red-hot plowshares without burning her feet.



A CEMETERY PULPIT.

The railroad has left the Main almost deserted; the great commerce which formerly passed between its banks now flies along in sight of its placid current, and the travelers who were once laboriously rowed up, or with little labor sailed down between its vine-covered shores, now pass rapidly along in sight of interesting localities and historic sites, hurrying by lest they lose connections they are anxious to make at the next station. So the Main is deserted; but to one who desires to know the ways of the people, to understand something of their daily life, there is no better way than to follow its windings, stopping from time to time at points where he deems a stay advisable, to inform himself by actual intercourse of the condition of a country population which has changed little in the last five centuries.



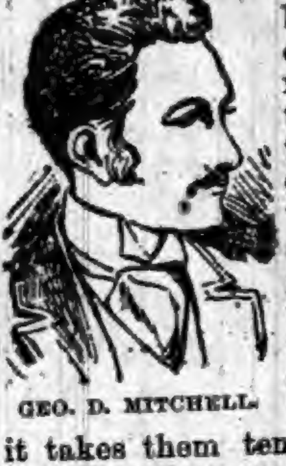
SEEN ON THE BANK.

A CITIZEN of Cedar Bluffs, Neb., had the novel experience, the other morning, of shooting a wolf in his dooryard before breakfast.

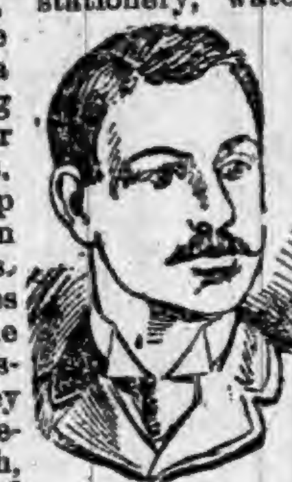
GLOBE GIRDLING ON BICYCLES.

Two Washington Men on Their Way Around the World on Wheels.

Two young Washington lawyers, Mitchell and Stevens, are to encircle the globe on their bicycles. They claim that theirs is not a "relief expedition," but an effort to locate the Garden of Eden. They will travel without a particle of baggage and will pedal their way into all the curious corners of foreign lands. They do not care if it takes them ten years to complete their long journey, nor how many hairbreadths escapes they may experience. No attempts will be made to break records—the two venturesome young men caring only to inspect the world from the saddle of their "bikes." They have already traveled through Western Europe on their wheels and are enthusiastic over their present tour. With them they will carry a kodak, revolvers, knives, guide books, maps, a compass, stationery, water colors, one change of underclothing, a folding drinking cup, a canteen (for water), medicines, mending kit, soap and towels, all in two bicycle kits. The two bicycles are awaiting the travelers at Queenstown, whence they wheel across Ireland to the north, through Dublin and Belfast, thence from the Scottish Highlands down to London. Then they go straight through France, over the Alps and down the Danube, turning southward along the Grecian coast. Through Palestine and the far East they will take their time. After India they traverse Japan and Australia, thence to San Francisco and across the continent home. The two young men have passports and letters from a high official at Washington. Mr. Mitchell is a son of ex-Senator Mitchell, of Pensylvania, and Mr. Stevens comes of an old Virginia family. Both are twenty-five years of age, in perfect health and members of the International Cyclists' Touring Club, having a membership of 25,000.



GEO. D. MITCHELL.

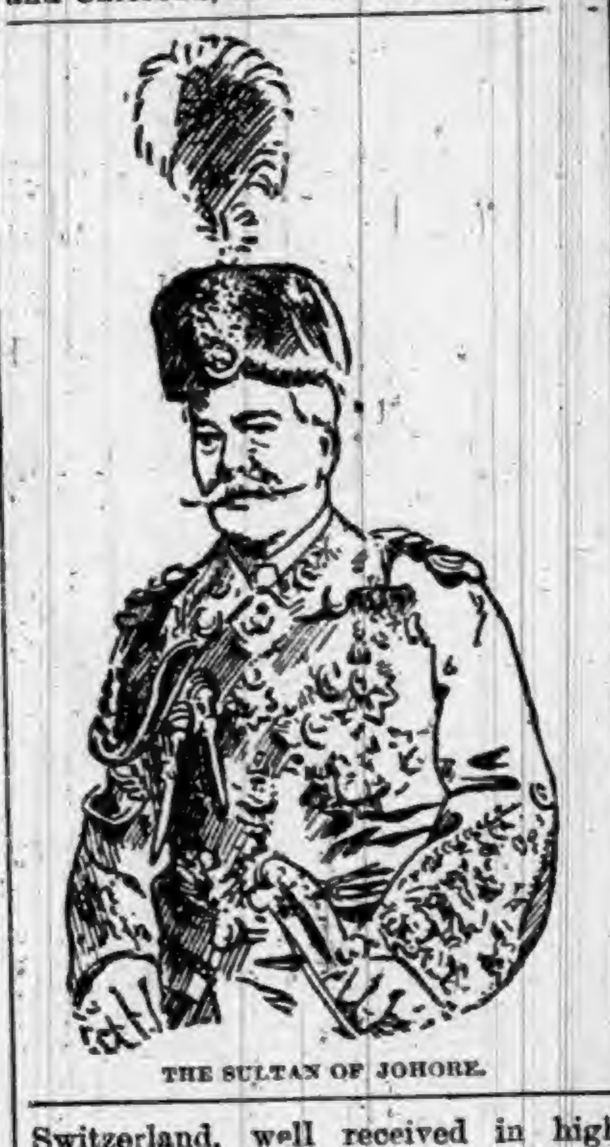


EUGENE E. STEVENS.

THE SULTAN OF JOHORE.

A Distinguished Asiatic Prince Who Is Now Visiting in London.

This Eastern Asiatic Prince, who is now visiting London, and who has been sojourning more than a twelvemonth in different parts of the continent of Europe, mostly at Frankfort and Carlsbad, in South Germany, and Switzerland, well received in high society, has his home, the capital of a small Malay independent State, thirty-five miles to the east of Singapore.



THE SULTAN OF JOHORE.

Johore as well as the adjacent states in the southern part of the Malay Peninsula is under a British Protectorate; and one purpose of the Sultan's visit is to confer with Her Majesty's Government upon an arrangement for securing the succesion of his son to the throne.

The Sultan, who is a Mahometan, has about 115,000 subjects, Malays and Chinese, and lives on most amicable terms with the English of Singapore and other Europeans. He has shown much hospitality to distinguished travelers from England, including the late Duke of Sutherland and Lady Brassy, who were courteously entertained by him as guests of the Palace at Johore.

Girls Were Scarce.

There is a young bride, fresh from the South, who lives up in Mount Vernon. She was quite ignorant of our Northern social conditions until recently. She is better informed now.

It chanced that she needed a servant, and, as she had always been used to colored girls, set out to find one. It also chanced that she met a middle-aged colored woman in the street, and, after the custom of the South, said to her:

"Auntie, I want to get a bright young colored girl to work for me. Are there any in your family out of a place, or do you know of any?"

"Auntie" looked at the bride with cold and crushing hauteur, and then replied:

"No, I know of no such a girl, madam. I am looking for a white girl myself."—New York Herald.

Petrified Walls of Houses.

A gentleman who has just returned from a visit to the mountains in the vicinity of Crawfish Springs, now Chickamauga, and who has devoted considerable time to the study of archæology, has much to say of the wonders and beauties of that section.

"Few are aware," says he, "that high up on Pigeon Mountain, which joins Lookout in making McLemore's Cove, there is a strange and beautiful formation of stone and rock, strikingly resembling ancient buildings in process of decay. Many perfect petrifications are found on the mountains, and one can readily imagine that these stony, rigid remains, which the credulous mountaineers call the Rock City, are the petrified walls of houses which once echoed to the voice and tread of of man—the simulacher of a ruined city."—Atlanta Constitution.

Escape of Prisoners.

The report that prisoners have been and are constantly escaping from that malignant gaoler, liver complaint, is fully corroborated by the self-liberated captives. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters are, they say, the means by which they get rid of their fetters. Few altogether avoid the bondage of this ailment, and few are unacquainted with its signs, viz., pain through the right side and shoulder blade, furred tongue, yellowness of the eyeballs and skin, sour breath, sick headache, dyspepsia and constipation. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters puts a prompt period to these, and brings them to a full stop in short order. Whether the trouble is chronic or temporary, this medicine is equally effective, regulating the liver and bowels thoroughly. It is likewise a sovereign remedy for rheumatism, kidney complaint, malaria, heartburn and nervousness.

Where a Fat Man May Reduce His Weight.

On Jupiter, which is a much larger and heavier body than the earth, a man would weigh about 484 pounds whose weight on the earth would be 200 pounds. This man would weigh 218 pounds on Saturn. Coming to the smaller bodies we find that he would weigh less than on the earth. His 200 pounds would shrink to 174 on Venus, to 92 on Mercury, to 60 on Mars and to 30 on the moon, while on the little asteroids, or telescopic planets revolving between Mars and Jupiter, his weight would be from two to four pounds only. The matter depends on the mass and attractive force of the planet.

We will give $100 reward for any case of catarrh that cannot be cured with Hall's Catarrh Cure. Taken internally.
F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O.

For Spot Cash.

If you have $5,000 in cold cash you can manage to have your wife, your mother, father, uncle or aunt sent to a private insane asylum, whether sane or insane. The conveniences invented for the present generation are almost without number, and this is one of them.

MANY so-called "Bitters" are not medicines, but simply liquors so disguised as to evade the law in prohibition sections. This is not the case with the celebrated Prickly Ash Bitters. It is purely a medicine, acting on the liver and blood, and by reason of its cathartic effects cannot be used as a beverage. It should be in every household.

A Good Town.

At Tecumseh, Kan., boys or girls under 16 years of age found on the streets after 9 o'clock are arrested, unless accompanied by a parent or a guardian.

DO NOT send your daughter away for change of air till you understand her ailment. Send two 2c. stamps for "Guide to Health," to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

Information for Young Housekeepers.

Young housekeeper wants to know how to keep spring lamb. Buy it on the hoof and don't kill it.—New York Continent.

"TAKE time while time is, for time will away." Many people have a set time for house-cleaning because of its great difficulty. It becomes easy at all times with SAPOLIO.

MARRIAGE may be a civil contract, but many behave in a very uncivil manner after entering into it.

BEECHAM'S PILLS cure Billious and Nervous Ills.

A MISSOURI policeman is named Golightly. Goslowly would be an appropriate name for many in New York.

It Makes Pure Blood

And by so doing Hood's Sarsaparilla cures scrofula, salt rheum, and all other blood diseases, aids proper digestion, gives strength to every organ of the body, and prevents attacks of that tired feeling or more serious disease. If you will take Hood's Sarsaparilla now it will put you in the best condition to bear the hot days of summer.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

I LIKE MY WIFE TO USE POZZONI'S MEDICATED COMPLEXION POWDER.

Because it Improves Her Looks and is as Fragrant as Violets.
SOLD EVERYWHERE.

ADVICE TO THE AGED.

Age brings infirmities, such as sluggish bowels, weak kidneys and torpid liver.

Tutt's Pills

have a specific effect on these organs, stimulating the bowels, gives natural discharges, and imparts vigor to the whole system.

LEWIS' 98 % LYE
Powdered and Perfumed.
(PATENTED.)

The strongest and purest Lye made. Will make the best perfumed Hard Soap in 20 minutes without boiling. It is the Best for softening water, cleansing waste-pipes, disinfecting sinks, closets, washing bottles, paints, trees, etc.

TRADE MARK

PENNA. SALT M'F'G CO.,
Gen. Agts., Phila., Pa.

LOVELY WOMAN. Freckles, Pimples, Blackheads, Oily Skin, all Skin Diseases cured at once by DR. AMMETT'S FRENCH ARSENIC WAFERS, perfectly harmless. $1.00 per box by mail, sample package, 10c. Middleton Drug Co., 74 East Cortlandt Street, New York.

"WOMAN, HER DISEASES AND THEIR Treatment." A valuable illustrated book of 72 pages sent free, on receipt of 10 cents, to cover cost of mailing, etc. Address P. O. Box 1068. Phila. Pa.

"August Flower"

"I inherit some tendency to Dyspepsia from my mother. I suffered two years in this way; consulted a number of doctors. They did me no good. I then used your August Flower and it was just two days when I felt great relief. I soon got so that I could sleep and eat, and I felt that I was well. That was three years ago, and I am still first-class. I am never without a bottle, and if I feel constipated the least particle a dose or two of August Flower does the work. The beauty of the medicine is, that you can stop the use of it without any bad effects on the system. While I was sick I felt everything it seemed to me a man could feel. I was of all men most miserable. I can say, in conclusion, that I believe August Flower will cure anyone of indigestion, if taken with judgment. A. M. Weed, 229 Bellefontaine St., Indianapolis, Ind."

Relieved In Two Days.
Constipation
Life of Misery

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS

One of the most important organs of the human body is the LIVER. When it fails to properly perform its functions the entire system becomes deranged. The BRAIN, KIDNEYS, STOMACH, BOWELS, all refuse to perform their work. DYSPEPSIA, CONSTIPATION, RHEUMATISM, KIDNEY DISEASE, etc., are the results, unless something is done to assist Nature in throwing off the impurities caused by the inaction of a TORPID LIVER. This assistance so necessary will be found in

Prickly Ash Bitters!

It acts directly on the LIVER, STOMACH and KIDNEYS, and by its mild and cathartic effect and general tonic qualities restores these organs to a sound, healthy condition, and cures all diseases arising from these causes. It PURIFIES THE BLOOD, tones up the system, and restores perfect health. If your druggist does not keep it ask him to order it for you. Send 2c stamp for copy of "THE HORSE TRAINER," published by us.

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS CO.,
Sole Proprietors. ST. LOUIS, MO.

DROPSY
TREATED FREE.
Positively Cured with Vegetable Remedies

Have cured many thousand cases. Cure patients pronounced hopeless by the best physicians. From first dose symptoms rapidly disappear, and in ten days at least two-thirds of all symptoms are removed. Send for free book of testimonials of miraculous cures. Ten days treatment furnished free by mail. If you order trial, send 10 cents in stamps to pay postage.
DR. H. H. GREEN & SONS, Atlanta, Ga.

PENN MUTUAL LIFE You can here get more life insurance, of a better quality, on easier terms, at less cost than elsewhere.
Address
921-3-5 Chestnut St., Philad'a.

JONES' SCALES
— THE BEST —
FULLY WARRANTED
5 TON SCALES $60 FREIGHT PAID
Address JONES of BINGHAMTON, N.Y.

It PAID Me—'Twill PAY You

Plain directions by which anybody, anywhere can make from $25 to $2,500 per year. 'Twill not interfere with, but will improve any business. Send Name, Postoffice and State, enclosing $1.00. Address, R. CONGDON, Nunda, Ill.

THE DEAF HEAR

WHEN THE DEAFNESS IS CAUSED BY SCARLET FEVER, COLDS, MEASLES, CATARRH, &C. BY THE USE OF THE INVISIBLE SOUND DISC which is guaranteed to help a larger per cent. of cases than all similar devices combined. The same to the Ears as glasses are to the eyes. Positively invisible. Worn months without removal. H. C. WALES, Bridgeport, Conn.

HIRES ROOT BEER THE GREAT HEALTH DRINK.

Package makes 5 gallons. Delicious, sparkling and appetizing. Sold by all dealers. A beautiful Picture Book and Cards sent free to any one sending their address to The C. E. HIRES CO., Philad'a.

RHEUMATISM CURED

I guarantee to cure 95 per cent. of the worst cases of RHEUMATISM with my SPECIFIC BLOOD TREATMENT, and will refund all money paid if I fail to accomplish just what I advertise. Patients at a distance treated by mail. For circulars and testimonials address DR. G. W. WOLGAMOTT, 70 State St., Chicago, Ill.

MOTHERS Dr. Snyder's Kidney Balsam cures Enuresis (BEDWETTING.)

For circulars and testimonials address, with stamps Dr. O. W. F. SNYDER, McVicker's Theatre, Chicago, Ill.
For sale by all Druggists. Price $1.00.

N. U., F. W..........................No. 24—91.

When Writing to Advertisers, please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

BEECHAM'S PILLS
PAINLESS. EFFECTUAL.
WORTH A GUINEA A BOX.
For BILIOUS & NERVOUS DISORDERS

Such as Wind and Pain in the Stomach, Fullness and Swelling after Meals, Dizziness, and Drowsiness, Cold Chills, Flushings of Heat, Loss of Appetite, Shortness of Breath, Costiveness, Scurvy, Blotches on the Skin, Disturbed Sleep, Frightful Dreams, and all Nervous and Trembling Sensations, &c.

THE FIRST DOSE WILL GIVE RELIEF IN TWENTY MINUTES.
BEECHAM'S PILLS TAKEN AS DIRECTED RESTORE FEMALES TO COMPLETE HEALTH.

For Sick Headache, Weak Stomach, Impaired Digestion, Constipation, Disordered Liver, etc.,

they ACT LIKE MAGIC, Strengthening the muscular System, restoring long-lost Complexion, bringing back the keen edge of appetite, and arousing with the ROSEBUD OF HEALTH the whole physical energy of the human frame. One of the best guarantees to the Nervous and Debilitated is that BEECHAM'S PILLS HAVE THE LARGEST SALE OF ANY PROPRIETARY MEDICINE IN THE WORLD.

Prepared only by THOS. BEECHAM, St. Helens, Lancashire, England. Sold by Druggists generally. B. F. ALLEN CO., 365 and 367 Canal St., New York, Sole Agents for the United States, who (if your druggist does not keep them) WILL MAIL BEECHAM'S PILLS on RECEIPT of PRICE, 25cts. A BOX. (MENTION THIS PAPER.)

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

25 CTS

Best Cough Medicine. Recommended by Physicians. Cures where all else fails. Pleasant and agreeable to the taste. Children take it without objection. By druggists.

25 CTS

CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH, RED CROSS PENNYROYAL DIAMOND BRAND PILLS

THE ORIGINAL AND GENUINE. The only Safe, Sure, and reliable Pill for sale. Ladies, ask Druggist for Chichester's English Diamond Brand in Red and Gold metallic boxes sealed with blue ribbon. Take no other kind. Refuse Substitutions and Imitations. All pills in pasteboard boxes, pink wrappers, are dangerous counterfeits. At Druggists, or send us 4c. in stamps for particulars, testimonials, and "Relief for Ladies," in letter, by return Mail. 10,000 Testimonials. Name Paper. CHICHESTER CHEMICAL CO., Madison Square, PHILADELPHIA, PA.
Sold by all Local Druggists.

GREATEST

Announcement

Ever Heard of!

BEGINNING

April 1,

—WE WILL GIVE AWAY—

TO THE TRADE at large, a handsome PARLOR ORGAN worth in the market $85.00, to the person who buys the highest amount of goods from One Dollar and upward at one time, for CASH ONLY, at our store up to Aug. 1st.

ALSO

A fine SUIT OF CLOTHES worth in the market $18.00 with the next highest amount purchased;

A nice Saratoga Trunk, worth in the market $8.00;

A fine pair of Ladies' French Kid Shoes, worth in the market $4 00,

A nice Fine Silk Umbrella, worth in the market $3.00;

We also give with this elegant instrument a handsome Organ Stool, and Instruction Book and a guarantee from the factory for five years. This instrument was just received from the factory and is bran new. Please call and see these articles. They are now on exhibition at our store. Remember they bear inspection.

Such an opportunity is not offered very often to obtain such elegant gifts for nothing. These goods which you buy you need anyway, and unless you find the prices satisfactory don't buy; and we will sell them to you as low as the lowest and defy competition in our line.

DON'T MISS THIS

Golden

Opportunity which will never be offered to you again.

Respectfully yours,

J. LŒWENSTEIN & CO.

"IRON IS KING"

Brown's *

IRON AND QUININE Bitters

IS THE

KING OF TONICS!

IRON QUININE GENTION FOR THE BLOOD. NERVES. STOMACH.

BLOOD MAKER AND NERVE STRENGTHENER.

BEST BITTERS ever offered the public and a thoroughly reliable tonic and health restorer and cannot fail to give tone and vigor to the whole system by purifying the blood, strengthening the bones, muscles and nerves, and restoring in a wonderful degree the health and vigor of youth.

EVERY BOTTLE WARRANTED.

PRICE $1.00.

N. K. Brown & Co.,

BURLINGTON, VT.

COUNTY AGENT WANTED.

The most remarkable book published during the last twenty years is "IN DARKEST AFRICA" by HENRY M. STANLEY. It is printed both in English and German, and all well informed people want it. Live agents can make more money with it than with any other book before the public. A good agent is wanted for this county, to whom very liberal terms will be given. Write for particulars.

CHAS. SCRIBNER'S SONS.

103 State St., Chicago, Ill.

Farmers.—Your Timber.

We want some of your timber suitable for our hub and handle factory. Such things as these:

Elm butts, 4 to 14 inches in diameter.

Hickory and ash butts, 5 inches and upward.

Timber for handles, etc. For particulars call at the Hub and Handle factory, south of Wabash station, foot of Main street, Auburn, Indiana. tf

J. A. CAMPBELL,

BUTLER, IND.,

INSURANCE,

In all the leading companies promptly placed in DeKalb and Steuben Counties.

AGENTS WANTED by an old reliable firm; large profits, quick sales, SAMPLE FREE. A rare opportunity. Geo. A. Scott, 842 Broadway, N. Y.

Demorest's Magazine.

"Can the character be read from the handwriting?" Most assuredly it can. Everone can remember being influenced favorably or unfavorably by the penmanship of some unknown person, and has been astonished to find how true the conclusions were; and some of the world's foremost thinkers have maintained that the handwriting furnishes a more exact key to the character than the head, face or form. Character reading from handwriting is a fascinating study; and if you wish to learn all about it you must read the excellent and profusely illustrated article, "How to Read Character by Handwriting," by Prof. Nelson Thorpe, published in the July number of Demorest's Family Magazine, and you will be still more interested in the subject. In the same number is a splendid article on "Chili," which is particularly apropos at present; "Foes Afield: Plants Poisonous to the Stomach," is quite as seasonable, and everyone can recognize the plants from the accurate illustrations; in "Summer Outdoor Games: Lawn Tennis, Badminton, Colors," they are so clearly described and illustrated that the veriest novice can learn how to play them without other instuction; and the amateur china-painter may rival the professional by following the directions given in "The Use of Matt Colors." Besides, there are stories and poems, and over 200 illustrations, including a superb water-color, a French costume study under the empire, and the numerous departments are full to overflowing with valuable matter. Briefly, this number fully maintains the justly earned prestige of being the Model Family Magazine, and it is published for $2 per year by W. JENNINGS DEMOREST, 15 East 14th St., New York.

Look After your Grapevines.

The LaPorte Argus says that "a careful examination of the young grapes under a magnifying glass shows in most cases that they are being destroyed by small worms. They are dark-colored to the naked eye and their work looks like mildew. The investigation made by the government, show the remedy is to spray the vines well with a solution composed of one pound of copperas dissolved in twenty-two gallons of water and mixed with six pounds of lime. It should be strained, stirred and sprayed with a force pump. A gentleman of this city has tried this remedy and finds it works all right. When the worms are seen under a microscope they resemble the ordinary tomato worm."

Consumption Surely Cured.

To The Editor:—Please inform your readers that I have a positive remedy for the above-named disease. By its timely use thousands of hopeless cases have been permanently cured. I shall be glad to send two bottles of my remedy FREE to any of your readers who have consumption if they will send me their Express and P. O. address. Respectfully, T. A. SLOCUM, M. C., 181 Pearl St., N. Y.

Be HONEST and Chew

FINZER'S

OLD HONESTY

CHEWING TOBACCO

A Pleasant Chew. Sweet Chew. Lasting Chew. Good quality

OLD HONESTY is on the market in only one shape- 3x12 - full 16 oz plug, the most convenient to cut for pocket or to carry whole.

Insist on having the GENUINE with the red H tin tag, made only by,

John Finzer & Bros, Louisville, Ky

CORRESPONDENCE

WATERLOO.

Mrs. Phil. Morel was at Ft. Wayne last week visiting friends.

Last week Rose Wenrich spent some days with friends in Auburn.

The treasurer of the Illinois Building and Loan Association, was here Tuesday.

The revival meetings at the M. E. church still continue and are well attended.

New trains have been placed upon the the L. S. & M. S. road, and time of others changed.

Saturday last Mr. Perry was here in the interests of the Studebaker firm of South Bend.

The L. M. C. held their regular session at the home of Mrs. Keep, Tuesday evening of this week.

Our marshal has been presented by his sister of Ft. Wayne, with a new star, whistle, and billy.

F. P. Blair and son Harold, of Laporte, made a flying visit to his father's people here last Sunday.

The Waterloo brass band is taking a course of lessons from a professor of music from Cincinnatti.

Richard Shull and wife have returned from the west and are visiting relatives in Auburn and Waterloo.

Jacob Beck is pushing his new building, and from present appearances it will soon by ready for occupancy.

The decoration services of the Odd Fellows' Tuesday, were very fine, and there was a general attendance.

Alfred Bartholomew has returned home from Ligionier, where he has been visiting the family of Rev. Ackman.

The Sunday schools of the Presbyterian and Methodist churches, perhaps others, have sent delegates to the S. S. convention at St. Joe, this week.

The immense evergreen trees J. C. Boyer has cut down on the west side of his house, improves the appearance greatly. There is still enough shade to be healthy.

Mr. Jackman and his sister have returned home. They have been in Nebraska for over a year, where they have been teaching.

Last Sunday evening the members of the U. B. church (radicals) gave a very interesting concert, in their church. The announcement was not general or many would have attended, who knew nothing of it in time.

Joe Crossoff was bitten on the hand last week by a snake. His hand soon became badly swolen and finally extended over his whole body. He has been on the streets now for a day or two, so has recovered from the effects.

Your correspondent wishes to make amends for an omission last week in writing up the commencement exercises. Lizzie Fisher received the scholarship from Butler University. The error occurred, because not only the writer, but two of the lady graduates understood Prof. Keep to say he had seven scholarships to bestow, while as we learn later it was eight.

One night last week J. A. Denison's store was entered by breaking the glass in the window in front. D. Till's saloon was also burglarized the same night. At both places tobacco and cigars were taken, as usual. The thieves have commenced their summer work, Our new marshal may have an opportunity of making a reputation for himself by apprehending some of these characters, and putting a stop to this kind of business.

The services last week Tuesday evening at the Presbyterian church were exceedingly interesting; the occasion being the installation of Rev. Marshall. The sermon was preached by Dr. Leeper pastor of the Second Presbyterian church of Ft. Wayne, and was most excellent in every respect, and held the close attention of the hearers. Dr. Townsend of Elkhart, gave the charge to the pastor, Rev. Marshall. Rev. Geo. Wade Healy of Auburn, gave the charge to the people. The music was very fine. In the opinion of your correspondent, the sermon, the charge to the pastor, and also the charge to the members could not be well improved, almost perfect in themselves, and so exactly suited for the occasion, if profited by and lived up to by those addressed, they must be a power for good throughout our town. It was a surprise to one, at least, that the building was not too small for those desiring to be present, and cannot create a favorable impression upon strangers.

BUTLER.

J. A. Campbell and wife spent Sunday with friends near Angola.

H. S Madden has just completed and erected one of the largest and finest monuments in our new cemetery.

Romani C. Campbell, one of the recent graduates of our high school attended the commencement at Auburn last Friday evening.

John Mock is laying the foundation for a large boarding house between his residence and the Sheffer property he recently purchased.

Mrs. D. W. Tombow died suddenly last week. She left a husband and two small children. Her remains were taken to Massillon, Ohio, her former home for interment.

The Tomlinson block approaches completion. It will be the most attractive block in town and it is hoped there will be some good and useful business may occupy it and so improve the saloon end of Butler.

Mrs Z. L. Kindig died last week, after a lingering illness of many weeks of consumption. She was an excellent lady, and will be missed from her circle of friends. She was a sister of Rev. Simpson, ex-elder of the M. E. church. She leaves a husband and two small children. Her funeral took place from her residence on Depot street, Rev. Stone officiating.

Another saloon has entered the field, strewn with the wrecks and old hulks of former and more recent years, to fight for the crums of food among the poor and better to do children and wives of the men about town and vicinity. May saloon decency take a firm stand behind its bars and may the man that don't drink, and the man that gets drunk be forcibly ejected from the inside of it, and the boys be forbidden its vistibule, and may cards, games and their curses find no abiding place therein. Would it be a saloon if these conditions were observed?

CORUNNA.

LAST WEEK.

C. H. Knapp left Monday for Indianapolis.

Addie Calkin spent Saturday at Kendallville.

Mrs. Emma Deetz, of Fairfield Center, spent Sunday in town.

Mrs. J. Stonebraker was shopping in Kendallville Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Hammond returned from Chicago Thursday.

The Christian social Saturday evening was a success financially.

Wm. Franks and wife, of Garrett, were in town a short time Friday.

Mrs. Wm. Daily and children, of Auburn, were Sunday visitors in town.

Emory Shook and wife were the guests of Mrs. H. Little, at Auburn Saturday.

Miss Della Orr returned home Saturday, after a several weeks stay at Auburn.

Harvey Knauer and sister Mrs. Jennie Adams drove over to Auburn Thursday.

E. Knauer and family spent Sunday with the family of P. Draggoo, at Avilla.

George Knauer and wife, of Garrett, and P. Draggoo, of Avilla, were in town Thursday.

Several of our young people took dinner with George Keen and family south town Sunday.

Miss Nellie Britton, of the Garrett schools returned home Friday for her summer vacation.

Mrs. Chas. Knapp and children are visiting in the country this week with her mother, Mrs. H. Harms.

Kurtz Miller, of Mendon, Mich., has been visiting his parents, Rev. J. W. Miller and wife several days.

K. A. Johnson, J. Stonebraker and Rev. Pattee went to Spencerville Thursday to help institute a K. of P. lodge there.

Flora and Ida Husselman, Bessie Stonebraker, Mr. Trumble and Heber Fried attended the commencement at Waterloo last week.

Mrs. Bell Cochran drove over from Auburn Wednesday. Her sister, Miss Dollie Shook returned with her and will visit several days.

CONCORD.

Frank Barney, the jew, is out buying wool.

Wayne Scott's have guests from Auburn.

Mrs. Nettie Culbertson is reported some better.

C. W. Draggoo and daugter were at St. Joe Monday.

J. B. Draggoo has purchased a new two-seated carriage.

Ollie Morr and Hattie Draggoo were baptized last Sunday.

A goodly number attended the S. S. convention at St. Joe.

J. C. George's little boy who has been very ill, is convalescent.

Mrs. Henry Horner will return to her home in Kansas Tuesday.

The children's exercises will be observed in the evening June 21.

G. W. Draggoo, C. H. Brown and wife were at Spencerville Thursday.

Brent Phillips and wife were the guests of Mrs. Eva Dove, of Spencerville, last Friday.

Minnie Hornberger is now located in Garrett, at dressmaking. We wish her success.

Little Laura Baker is quite a sufferer from a large abscess on the muscle of her left limb.

Will Smurr is kept busy putting up his patent fence. The farmers term it the old reliable.

The Farmers Alliance picnic is June 13 and will be held in John D. Smith's grove one mile east of Concord.

Hank Baker has moved his shop on the south east corner of his lot and will convert it in to a horse stable.

The farmers have long faces when they apprehend a frost in catching their beautiful fields of wheat that now look so flourishing.

James Johnson and James Ricketts have formed a partnership in the threshing machine and are now ready to solicit orders occasionally.

Remember the Farmers' Alliance picnic June 17. Good speakers will be in attendance and address the people. There will also be good band music. All are invited to attend.

SPENCERVILLE.

C. Emanuel returned to Michigan last Thusday.

Alexander Bannet moved his family to Ft. Wayne Thursday.

Mrs. Esther Taylor, of Kansas, is visiting friends in this vicinity.

Children's day services will be held in M. E. church Saturday evening.

Mrs. D. M. Allen and Miss Louie Rummell went to Ft. Wayne Friday.

While John Shilling was wrestling with Joe Tindal Friday evening he broke his leg.

Israel Horn has secured the contract, for carrying the mail between this place and St. Joe.

A number of the masonic fraternity of this place attended the funeral of Mr. Shiraly, at Scipio, Tuesday.

I. N. Hursh, Milton Hursh, C. Hursh and A. Vanzile were at Hamilton last week on a fishing excursion.

We are pleased to learn that our young friend Will Erick, is rapidly improving since he went to Battle Creek.

Rev. J J. Fred and Prof. Kœppe, attended the commencement exercises at Norris Chapel Thursday evening.

The Woman's missionary society of the M. E. church will be entertained at the residence of Mrs. D. C. Butler Saturday afternoon.

The persons who removed the flags from the front of the drugstore on the evening of decoration day, may save trouble by returning them to the owner.

Quarterly meeting will be held at this place July 4 and 5, Elder A. E. Mahan is expected to be present at which time the ordinance of baptism will be administered.

One would judge from the ringing of the church bells, that we have a devoted christian community, but a short residence with ears open you would soon be undeceived.

SUMMIT.

A. Sweigart's little girl has the measles.

Mrs. Wesley Jackman is slowly improving.

Relatives of S. A. Harmon from near Angola visited them over Sunday.

Geo Erwin and wife were guests of Henry Lawson and wife last Sunday.

Mrs. Arvilla Griffith, of Stark Co, Ohio, is here visiting her daughter, Mrs. Forney.

Mrs. Geo. Strong and Miss Isa Roop, of Hudson, made our town a short call last Saturday.

Thos. Baxter and wife, of Cedar Creek are here visitidg Mrs. B.'s parents, Mr. Jackman and wife.

Mrs. Geo. Erwin's sister, who has been with her the past two months, started for her home at Roanoke last week.

Good Words for a Former Auburnite.

We gladly clip the following good words of a former Auburn man, which we find in the Churubusco Truth, and which is as follows:

DR. JAMES SQUIRES.

"The doctor of whom I speak came to this town nine years ago and during the first five years, (to use the doctor's own language) found hard sledding, owing to the opposition of older doctors, whose practice was long since established, but through his fair and honorable dealing, his unflagging courage and perseverance, his willingness and ability to combat disease and relieve suffering humanity, he has steadily wended his way the top. And he stands to-day without a peer in this part of the country in the medical profession. He has just returned from a nine weeks' course in the Emergency Hospital, at Detroit, Michigan, where he has had extensive clinical advantages, which, better than ever prepares him for practice. He may be found in his office over Citizens Bank, or at his house, except when professionally engaged, ready to wait upon all who may apply, be they old or young, rich or poor."

Dr. Squires is well kown here, having been raised among us till he reached manhood. For some years, he taught in the public schools of this county, while the editor of this paper was county superintendent, and we feel free to say his work was always well, and conscientiously done, and he stood deservedly high. Later, he studied medicine and then went into active practice, locating at Churubusco. There he has remained, building up a practice, that must have proved profitable. As seen by the above extract, he has for the past year, been striving to go up still higher in his profession. While at Detroit, he not only stood high in the classes attending these advanced lectures, but was often called on to teach in some special branch. He also had the advantage of a great deal of hospital practice, which is always valuable to a physician. Seeing the above extract, we could not omit saying as we usually do an extra good word for a former citizen of this county. DeKalb people are to be found on front seats.

Obituary.

The subject of this, Henry Wittmer was born October 10, 1810, in Eppingen in Baden, Germany, and died at the home of his son Geo. F. Wittmer in Auburn, June 4, 1891, his age being 80 years, 7 months and 24 days. He came to America in 1853, and settled at Sandusky City, Ohio. From there he came to Auburn, Ind., in 1867 where he has since resided. Mr. and Mrs. Wittmer were the parents of eight children five of whom, three sons and two daughters, with his aged wife, remain to mourn for him. The funeral was at the home of George Wittmer, Sunday, June 7, at 2:30 p. m. Sermon in English by Rev. Geo. Wade Healy of the Presbyterian church, and in German by Rev. B. Ruf, of the Reformed church. He was laid to rest in Woodlawn.

To Colorado via BURLINGTON ROUTE

Only One Night on the Road.

Leave Chicago at 1:00 p. m., or St. Louis at 8:25 a. m., and arrive Denver 6:15 p. m. the next day. Through sleepers, chair cars and dining cars. All railways from the east connect with these trains and with similar trains via Burlington Route to Denver, leaving Chicago at 6:10 p. m., St. Louis at 8:15 p. m., and Peoria at 3:20 p. m., and 8:00 p. m. All trains daily. Tourists tickets are now on sale, and can be had of ticket agents of all roads and at Burlington Route depots in Chicago, Peoria and St. Louis. There is no better place than Colorado for those seeking rest and pleasure. 38

FIRE!

IN THE EYE OF

WILSON

The Shoe Man.

500 PAIRS SHOES

ALL KINDS

AT ACTUAL COST.

J. N. WILSON & SON,

NORTH SIDE OF SQUARE,

AUBURN, IND.

It is reported that the people of New Mexico intend to raise $75,000 to add to the state's World's Fair appropriation of $25,000.

At Home.

Decatur, Ind., March 25, 1890

The Dr. Marshall Medicine Co.

Genslemen: Permit me to inform you that the medicine which I purchased of you, Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup, is the best medicine I ever used for bronchitis, asthma and coughs. I have for many years been troubled with bronchial affections and asthma, and I never found anything that so effectually removes these difficulties as Dr. Marshal's Lung Syrup. I consider it the best remedy known for bronchitis, asthma and coughs, all of which I am willing to attest by affidavit if demanded.

DAVID SHOWERS

ex-Probate judge of Adams Co.

Sold by F. E. Davenport.

One of the interesting objects which will be exhibited at the World's Fair is a table, made from the timber of the house in Funchal, Maderia, in which Columbus lived for a time before he began his voyages of discovery.

Height of Cruelty.

Nervous women seldom receive the sympathy they deserve. While often the pictures of health, they are constantly ailing. To withhold sympathy from these unfortunates is the height of cruelty. They have a weak heart, causing shortness of breath, fluttering, pain in side, weak and hungry spells, and finally swelling of ankles, oppresions, choking, smothering and dropsy. Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure is just the thing for them. For their nervousness, headache, weakness, etc., his Restorative Nervine is unequaled. Fine treatise on "Heart and Nervous Diseases" and marvelous testimonials free. Sold and guarranteed by F. E. Davenport. 3

The only woman on record who was the mother of a governor, the wife of a governor, the sister of a governor, and the aunt of a governor was Mrs. Richard Manning of South Carolina.

Says the Southern Medical World:

"Mother's Friend" is growing in favor throughout the south and is highly recommended by physicians. We consider it indispensible to those who know they must pass through the ordeal of childbirth. Write Bradfield Reg. Co., Atlanta, Ga., for particulars. Sold by F. E. Davenport and all druggists.

Virginia is becoming interested in the World's Fair. It is proposed to make Virginia state fair in 1892, a much grander affair than usual, and then to take the best of the exhibits to Chicago in 1893.

James T. Gott, Carmi, Ill., Says:

He paid thirty-one dollars doctor's bill for his wife in one year, and one bottle of Bradfield's Female Regulator did her more good than all the medicine taken before. H. DALE, Druggist. Carmi, Ill.

Write Bradfield Regl. Co., Atlanta, Ga., for particulars. Sold by F. E. Davenport and all druggists.

An extensive display of postage stamps may be expected at the World's Fair. The American Philatelic Association and the Philatelic Society of New York have both appointed committees to work to that end.

Chamberlain's Immediate Relief

Is a certain cure for bowel and stomach sickness, colds, sore throat, diptheria, cuts, sprains, itches, bites of poisonous insects, catarrh if taken in time, also a great tonic and nervine, a perfect substitute for all intoxicating drinks, also a cure for colic, galls and lameness in horses, chicken and hog cholera. For sale by all druggists.

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

The only line running through solid Vestibuled Trains between Chicago and Philadelphia via Washington and Baltimore.

Time Card in Effect May 10, 1891.

Stations—	WEST-BOUND.
Bellaire......lv	a m * 7.28	p m *10.13	......	a m * 9.53	p m * 3.52
Zanesville......	9.58	a m 12.41	a m † 6.40	p m 12.46	6.20
Newark.......ar	10.40	1.20	7.25	1.40	6.58
Columbus ....ar	p m 1.30	2.50	8.35	2.50	9.20
Mansfield lv	12.29	3.05	10 38	4 05	9.08
Deshler........	3.10	5.30	10 21	10.25	a m 12.13
Defiance	3 57	6.10	11 15	11.35	1.05
Auburn Jc......	4.58	7.10	p m 12.30	a m 1 02	2.14
Chicago.......ar	9.30	11.25	6.10	8.55	7.00
Stations—	EAST-BOUND.
Chicago lv	a m *10.10	p m * 2.55	a m † 6.30	p m * 6.55	p m *10.25
Auburn Jc	.....	7.10	p m 12.07	11.20	a m 3.06
Defiance	p m 3.02	8.00	1.20	a m 12.18	4.23
Deshler	3.38	8.42	2 25	1.00	5.30
Mansfield	6.15	11.20	4.56	3.50	9.45
Newark ..... ar	7.50	a m 12.55	7.00	5.25	p m 12.01
Columbus	9.20	2.50	......	......	1.30
Zanesville.....lv	8.51	1.44	......	6.12	1.22
Bellaire ......ar (EASTERN TIME.)	11.20	4.12	.....	9.20	4.20
Wheeling.....ar	a m 12.55	5.40	......	11.00	6.00
Pittsburg	......	8.25	......	p m 4.40	8.50
Washington D.C	11.40	p m 4.45	......	......	a m 7.10
Baltimore.......	p m 1.00	5.50	......	......	8.30
Philadelphia ...	3.22	8.15	......	......	11.10
New York	5 52	10.35	......	......	p m 1.40

*Trains run daily. †Daily except Sunday. Sleeping and dining cars on all through trains. For further information call on B. & O. Ticket Agent or address L. S. Allen, As't G. P. Ag't, Chicago. City Office, Auburn, Ind.

FORT WAYNE BRANCH

L. S, & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE--In Effect June 7, 1891.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations—	Mail.	Exp'ss	Fre'gt.
Fort Wayne,....dp	11 50 am	4 40 pm	6 40 am
New Era	12 20 pm	5 22	7 29
Auburn Junc.....	12 31	5 33	7 45
Auburn..........	12 34	5 36	8 06
Waterloo.........	12 46	5 47	9 20
Summit...........	12 55	5 57	10 00
Pleasant Lake....	1 05	6 07	10 20
Angola...........	1 13	6 18	10 45
Fremont..........	1 27	6 34	11 20
Reading..........	1 53	7 04	1 07 pm
Bankers..........	2 00	7 15	1 45
Hillsdale.........	2 12	7 30	....
Ft. Wayne Junc..	2 23	7 39	2 45
Jonesville.......	2 25	7 41	2 50
Jackson..........	3 30	8 40	5 10

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations—	Freight	Exp'ss	Mail
Jackson.........dp	6 45 am	11 15 am	6 30 am
Jonesville........	8 50	12 10 pm	7 23
Ft. Wayne Junc...	8 55	12 15	7 25
Hillsdale	....	12 45	7 40
Bankers...........	9 40	12.56	7 51
Reading...........	10 05	1 07	8 01
Fremont...........	11 20	1 50	8 32
Angola	12 01 pm	2 10	8 48
Pleasant Lake.....	12 30	2 22	8 58
Summit............	12 55	2 35	9 08
Waterloo	2 00	2 50	9 20
Auburn............	2 55	3 10	9 33
Auburn Junc......	3 13	3 13	9 36
New Era...........	3 50	3 23	9 47
Fort Wayne........	5 30	3 55	10 20

For rates on tickets or freight to all points, call on or address E. T. DeLAPP, Agent at Auburn. The Lake Shore via Cleveland in connection with the Erie, and P. & L. E. R. Rs. forms the quickest and most direct route to Pittsburgh.

TO WEAK MEN

Suffering from the effects of youthful errors, early decay, wasting weakness, lost manhood, etc., I will send a valuable treatise (sealed) containing full particulars for home cure, FREE of charge. A splendid medical work; should be read by every man who is nervous and debilitated. Address,

Prof. F. C. FOWLER, Moodus, Conn.

Recorder's Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XXI. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY JUNE 18, 1891. NUMBER 25.

Rickel & Sprott

—Have—

Money

TO LOAN

IN SUMS OF

$1,000

And Up,

AT 6 PER CENT.

Apply at once, as the amount is limited. Apply to

RICKEL & SPROTT,

Real Estate AND Immigration Ag'ts,

Under Farmers Bank, AUBURN, IND.

While our great (?) statesmen are quarreling over tin plate and home markets, free trade England is nabbing tens of millions of American gold.

Guaranteed Cure for LaGrippe.

We authorize our advertised druggist to sell you Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds, upon this condition. If you are afflicted with la grippe and will use this remedy according to directions, giving it a fair trial, and experience no benefit, you may return the bottle and have your money refunded. We make this offer, because of the wonderful success of Dr. King's New Discovery during last season's epidemic. Have heard of no case in which it failed. Try it. Trial bottles free at Robbins & McCord's drugstore. Large size 50cts., and $1.00. 4

Mr. Blaine's feet are too large for his shoes, and Mr. Harrison's head is too small for his hat. The odds are with Blaine.

A National Event.

That holding of the world's Fair in a city scarcely fifty years old will really benefit this nation as much as the discovery of the Restorative Nervine by Dr. Franklin Miles is doubtful. This is just what the American people need to cure their excessive nervousness, dyspepsia, headache, dizziness, sleeplessness neuralgia, nervous debility, dullness, confusion of mind, etc. It acts like a charm. Trial bottles and fine book on "Nervous and Heart Diseases," with unexualed testimonials, free at F. E. Davenport's. It is warranted to contain no opium, morphine or dangerous drugs. 4

A humorous Canadian describes Canada as a country connected to the United States by a suspension bridge and separated from it by the McKinley bill.

Remarkable Facts.

Heart disease is usually supposed to be incurable, but when properly treated a large proportion of cases can be cured. Thus Mrs. Elmira Hatch, of Elkhart, Ind., and Mrs. L. Baker, of Ovid, Mich., were cured after suffering 20 years. S. C. Limburger, druggist at San Jose, Ill., says that Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, which caused the former, "worked wonders for his wife." Levi Logan, of Buchanan, Mich., who had heart disease for thirty years, says two bottles made him "feel like a new man.„ Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure is sold and guarranteed by F. E. Davenport. Book of wonderful testimonials free. 4

Secretary Blaine is usually attacked with the gout when Salisbury drives him in a close corner on the seal fisheries question.

Good Looks.

Good looks are more than skin deep, depending upon a healthy condition of all the vital organs. If the liver be inactive, you have a bilious look, if your stomach be disordered you have a dyspeptic look and if your kidneys be affected you have a pinched look. Secure good health and you will have good looks. Electric Bitters is the great alternative and tonic acts directly on these vital organs. Cures pimples, blotches boils and gives a good complexion Sold at Robbins & McCords drugstore 50c. per bottle, 4

LOUIS WOLF & CO.,

54 Calhoun St., - - FORT WAYNE, Ind.

CARPET DEPARTMENT

is stacked to the ceiling with a magnificent line of carpets.

Moquettes, that are NEW in pattern and delicate, soft tone, color almost too beautiful to walk on.

VELVETS

54 inches wide, don't cost any more proportionately than the narrow goods, because of the width you have less seams in your carpet. The pile won't sweep or pull out. New patterns in BODY BRUSSELS, and at a price a little lower than elsewhere. Magnificent line of tapestries, and all of them are private patterns to us in this market.

We show the full line of Lowell Ingrains. They are prettier this year than ever before, and the price is right. New styles of Portiers and Chenille curtains. Large line of Lace Curtains and Swiss Muslin. Mats, Rugs, Matting and Window Shades. We will send our Upholsters to your city to lay your new carpets. We employ only strictly first class workmen.

DRESS GOODS.

Our stock of Dress Goods is complete in every detail. Prices the lowest Spring Jackets, Reefers and capes in great variety.

LOUIS WOLF & CO.,

54 Calhoun St., FORT WAYNE, Ind.

☞ Mail Orders Promptly Attended to

AUBURN AND VICINITY.

Some Reminiscences of its Early Days and Pioneer Citizens.

1849,—Continued.

The building was slowly carried forward, and was not completed until 1850. An elder from Ft Wayne, named Robinson performed the dedicatory services before a good audience and it was from then on in regular use, although prior to dedication, meetings had been held in the church. James R Cosper, to whom we are indebted for much of these details, recalls a personal incident of attendance at a meeting. He sat in a pew and looking up, saw as he thought that the joists just entered the gains enough to hold, and he began to fear lest the weight of the congregation on the timbers would cause them to spring and let the joists fall out and under, thought of the consequence and could scarcely refrain from crying out and making an alarm.

The result of building was all that Mr. Park had hoped for and the Methodists took the lead which they have since maintained in numbers.

People came from ten miles and more around to large meetings. Many with ox-teams from Newville, Orangeville, Big Run, from the Robert Work's neighborhood and from Hamilton, where a class has been formed and religious interest was pronounced.

At an early meeting, probably in 1849 or '50, the first Sunday school convention in DeKalb county was held in a grove some point south of the center of the village. Exercises were held in which children bore part. Mrs. Mary Mott was present and prompted her children, Sheridan and Grenville in speaking their pieces. They were the main speakers of Auburn school.

By contrast, while then, children with banners and music went in wagons to the convention and participated in a parade, exercises and public dinner, now only teachers, Sunday school workers, ministers and superintendents attend conventions and do the speaking.

Committal of scripture was a marked feature of the early Sunday school. Premiums were offerd to those learning the most verses and Mrs. A. Z. McIntosh committed 300 verses for one Sunday at Union Chapel and won a prize of a book.

Public improvement on a minor scale was made by the letting to Wm. McGinnis of a contract to build a bridge over Cedar Creek at a point near the southeast corner of the village plat. S. W. Ralston was appointed by the commissioners, superintendent to oversee the construction of the work.

At the spring election held the first Monday of last May, the electors of Auburn had presented for their opinion, the question of changing from a town to that of a city government.

It was not that population stimulated ambition, for Auburn has but 3000 people, but the consideration of advantages to be derived from a larger scope of authority and alleged non-increase of expense. The resulting vote showed the majority unprepared for the change.

Nearly 42 years ago, the question of changing from a mere county seat village to an incorporated town was discussed and the unmistakable advantages of so doing were brought before the voters of that day.

One difficulty hitherto opposed to the welfare of the place had been the bad condition of its streets and the inability to make much needed improvements and to secure authority to supervise and labor to fill mud holes and otherwise make the streets passable; the leading men moved to take legal steps for incorporation.

There does not seem to have been any opposition and the time had evidently come when Auburn was to be promoted to the dignity of an incorporated town, and acting in accordance with the statutes of Indiana for the year 1843, chapter 25, article 1, sections 1 to 34, a petition was circulated and signed by a satisfactory number of the legal voters of the village and duly presented to the board of commissioners of DeKalb county at their September session.

The board at once authorized and directed the county Auditor Miles Waterman, to give ten days' notice of an election to be held on Sept. 22, 1849, to elect five trustees for the said to be incorporated town.

Notices were duly posted, one copy in the post office kept by T. R Dickinson, one in the the store of Nelson Payne and one on the door of the court house.

In pursuance of this notice, the qualified voters of the village met at the court house and elected Alonzo Watkins, chairman and John Morris, clerk who were duly sworn to properly discharge their duty. The village was then divided into five wards as follows:

The first ward to consist of that part of the village north of Fourth street.

The second ward to include what lay between Fourth and Eighth streets.

The third ward to embrace so much of the village as lay between Eighth and Twelfth streets.

The fourth ward to include the portion lying between Twelfth and Green street and the fifth ward the remaining part of the village, south of Green street.

(To be continued next week.)

PIONEER WEDDINGS.

1849.

(Samuel W. Sprott Clerk.)

Jan. 1, John Clark to Dehla Plotz; by Geo. Beard, J. P. Jan. 4.

Jan. 8, Phillip Fluke to Ruth Ford; by Samuel Lamb, minister, Jan. 8.

Jan. 17, Benj. F. Moody to Margaret Feagler; by Isaac G. Clark, J. P. Jan. 18.

Feb. 2, Wm. R. Coburn to Cynthia L. Gee; by Jas. Hadsell evangelist, Feb. 4.

Feb. 2, Harman Gee to Elizabeth G. Flint; by James Hadsell, evangelist.

Feb. 5, Isaac Livergood to Mary Emmons; by John McCurdy, licensed preacher of M. E. conference, Feb. 8.

Feb. 12, Thomas C. Rude to Mary Abbott; by John C. Wade, probate judge Feb. 12.

Feb. 13, Ramson Owen to Sarah Webster; by John Bates, J. P. Feb. 15.

Feb, 15, Abraham Bail to Elizabeth Arthur; by Rev. Henry Eitermann, Feb. 15.

Feb. 19, Geo. Miller to Elnora Melton; by James Hadsell, evangelist, Feb. 22.

Feb. 21, Henry Baartz to Rachel Kuster, by John Cary, J. P. Feb. 22.

March 2, James Culbertson to Rachel Tanner; by James Hadsell, evangelist, March 15.

March 3, Theodore Sparks to Hannah Ross; by Jesse Sparks, March 4.

March 10, Adam Jackson to Armena Hall; by John Cary, J. P. March. 11.

March 16, Wm. Noragon to Mary Anne Higes; by John McCurdy, L. P. of M. E. church, March 18.

March 23, Henry Huk to Rika Miller; by B. F. Deamer, March 30.

April 2, John Greer to Catherine Macenes; by Thomas Heekernell, V. D. M. April 3.

April 3, Wm. McEnterfer to Elizabeth Ryerson; by John McCurdy, L. P. of M. E. church. April 5.

April 12, Charles Stimely to Margaret Shoug; by James T. Bliss, minister of the gospel, April 12.

April 13, Peter Lozier to Sarah Headley; by N. S. Thomas, L. P. April 15.

April 3, Moses L. Pierson to Mary Tomlinson; by James Cather, minister of gospel, April 15.

April 25, Geo. W. Draggoo to Samantha Blair; by N. S. Thomas, L. P. April 26.

May 12, Daniel Nelson to Matilda Samor; by John McCurdy, L. P. of M. E. church, May 17.

June 6, Alexander Williams to Susan Porterfield; by Geo. Beard, J, P., June 7.

April 30; Geo. Oliver to Jane Laman; by Geo. Barney, J. P. May 3.

June 9, Andrew Kniss to Martha McCrory; by Job. C. Smith, J. P. June 10.

June 19, Geo. Swartz to Susannah McEnterfer; by J. T. Bliss minister of gospel June 24.

June 21, Stephen Morris to Rosey Ann Catlin; by J. T. Bliss, M. of G., June 28.

July 2, Hiram W. Hatch to Laura Brace; by John Bates, J. P. July 4.

July 9, Loudon Echelberger to Catherine Gingerich; by Jeremiah Hemstreet, J. P., July 15.

July 9, Martin Keelz to Josephine Allba; by A. S. Casebeer, J. P., July 12.

July 10, Henry Ford to Fanny Bail; by Samuel Lamb, minister, July 10.

July 11, Simon Rohm to Mary Harsh; by A. S. Bissell, M. G., July 14.

August 6, Harrison Jones to Rebecca Somers; by J. T. Bliss, minister, Aug. 7.

August 7, Henry Beck to Amanda Rohrabaugh; by Geo. Beard, J. P. Aug. 7.

August 7, James McCosh to Abigail Duck; by John McCurdy, Aug. 12.

August 9, Philetus A. Swift to Caroline E. Cutts; by J. T. Bliss, Aug. 12

August 11, David Trowbridge to Lydia Hicks; by David McDannel, J. P. Aug. 12, August 25, Henry Miller to Mary Taylor; by John McCury, Sept. 6.

August 27. Wm. A. Dorsey to Martha Tanner; by James Hadsell, Aug. 28.

Sept. 1, Wm. McClellan to Milla Osbun; by Henry Brown, J. P. Sept. 2.

Sept. 14, John Staley to Sarah Moorehead; by John McCurdy, Sept. 20.

Sept. 17, Cyrus Jackman to Sarah Taylor; by John McCurdy, Sept. 20.

Sept. 18, Ezra Weeks to Margaret Carvin; by James Hadsell, Sept. 18.

Sept 21, John L. Cary to Elizabeth Evins. (No return on this.)

Oct. 1, True Meserve to Mary Ann Stearns; by Joseph Byron, Elder B. C. Oct. 16.

Oct. 1, Leander Smith to Harriet Hopkins; by Geo. Beard, Oct. 3.

Oct. 13, Isaac King to Nancy Newcomer; by James Cather, Oct. 18.

Oct. 18, George Hossler to Mary Watt; by John C. Wade, Judge, Oct. 18.

Fov. 7, Elkanah Davis to Sarah McCauley; by J. T. Bliss, Nov. 8.

Nov. 8, Wm. B. Dancer to Julia Ann Paag; by J. T. Bliss, Nov. 8.

Nov. 20, John C. Draggoo to Rebecca Ann Boren; by James Draggoo, J. P. Nov. 22.

Nov. 24, Joseph Gardner to Catharine Beikler; by J. Wid Ranz, Nov. 24.

Nov. 26, Ephraim E. Enzor to Cynthia Bower: by Samuel Learned, J. P. Nov. 28.

Dec. 5, Henry Cramer to Nancy Ross; by W. R. McAnally, J. P. Dec. 16.

Dec. 5. John Coy to Mary Fiandt; by Henry Brown, J. P. Dec. 6.

Dec. 7, Rudolph Bair to Jane Wilson; by J. T. Bliss, Dec. 13.

Dec. 10, Daniel Krum to Martha Jones; by Rev. N. W. Delano, Dec. 20.

Dec. 11, Daniel Dewitt to Elizabeth Whetsel; by Robert Work, Judge, Dec. 16.

Dec. 13, Wm. Brooks to Susan L. Robbins; by Job C. Smith, J. P. Dec. 16.

Dec. 15, Joseph Favorite to Mary Myers; by Geo. Beard, Dec. 25.

Dec. 15, James Weeks to Mary Hay; by James Draggoo, J. P. Dec. 18.

Dec. 20, Anthony McEnterfer to Margaret Sanos; by A. S. Bissell, Dec. 23.

Dec. 26, Isaac Smith to Sophania Holmes; by Geo. Beard, J. P. Jan. 1, '50.

Dec. 26, Horatio Blake to Lucy Ann Ingraham; by A. S. Bissel, Dec. 30.

Dec. 27, Phillip Laffer to Catharine Williams; by Phillip B. Nimmons, J. P. Jan. 3, 1850.

Dec. 28, Michael Snyder to Martha Brown; by John McCurdy, Jan. 10, 1850.

Dec. 29, Charles Rohrobaugh to Sarah Ann Enterlynd; by Wm. King, J. P. Jan. 1, 1850.

Dec. 31, Elijah Thompson to Lucy Strong; by John Bates, Dec. 31.

SCHAAB & BRO.

DRY GOODS,

CLOTHING,

CARPETS.

Scorching hot weather—just what we have been expecting; therefore we are prepared to show you a line of wash dress goods, summer coats and vests, light underwear, mitts, fans, parasols, straw hats, &c., much larger than we have ever shown before, all at popular prices.

You should see our stock of Pongee Cloths at 15c. They are going fast.

Challies at 8, 10 AND 20c

Choice Patterns and Elegant Materials.

Summer Coats and Vests for men and boys, all styles and prices. We are sure to please you here.

Underwear for everybody. We have what you want and the price will suit you. Give us your patronage and we will try hard to please you. Yours, respectfully,

Schaab& Bro

"A HOME RUN"
N.K.FAIRBANK & CO.'S SOAP CHAMPIONS, CHICAGO.
SANTA CLAUS SOAP.

THREE Pozzoni's POINTS

COMPLEXION

POWDER: SAFE; CURATIVE; BEAUTIFYING. 1.2.3.

THREE White, Flesh, Brunette. POZZONI'S All Druggists AND Fancy Stores. TINTS

WELL BRED SOON WED.
SAPOLIO
COPYRIGHT

Girls who use SAPOLIO are QUICKLY MARRIED.

SAPOLIO is one of the best known city luxuries and each time a cake is used an hour is saved. On floors, tables and painted work it acts like a charm. For scouring pots, pans and metals it has no equal. If your store-keeper does not keep it you should insist upon his doing so, as it always gives satisfaction and its immense sale all over the United States makes it an almost necessary article to any well supplied store. Everything shines after its use, and even the children delight in using it in their attempts to help around the house.

The Dying Pioneer.

Step softly, disturb not the old man's slumber, for he sleeps his last, long sleep mingled with his dreams of the scenes of forty years ago. He dreams of his youth, when yet in his strength, he looked with pride on the new made field, or counted the stumps that bore the marks of his sturdy strokes. See! He raises his gray head, as if in fancy he hears the scream of the hawk as it soars above the dense forest and looks down on the pioneer's home. A wreath of joy spreads o'er his fevered brow as he sees his wife in all her youthful beauty, clasping her helpless babe to her bosom, while she seems absorbed in a deep reverie, broken only by the restless and noisy clang of the cow bell as it nears the cabin door. Now, more glassy grows his wandering eye, and lighter beats his noble heart. He calls for his daughter, he caresses her and speaks to her witn the same degree of tenderness as he did when she was a babe forty years ago. He clasps his hands across his breast; his breath comes short and weak, but still he hears the wild bird's evening hymn, as it rings through the dark forest, or sees the deer as it bounds through the shallow brook and hides itself in the thick underbrush. But all this is visionary; its reality is no more, as time has bid these happy scenes farewell forever. Now, the railroad cuts its course diagonally across his mortgaged farm, and the shrill whistle of the ponderous engines as they bear a nation's traffic to the rolling sea, is caught up and wafted on the breeze, where only a few short years ago a mighty forest stood, while his death bed trembles as the heavy trains go rumbling by. This no longer disturbs his musings, for his life work is done. The great oak has fallen and he has lived to till the soil that laid beneath its branching roots. But hark! One— two—'tis the church bell! Ah, it numbers the years of the dead pioneer as its solemn tones peal forth from the lofty spire that points to his new home, where he will receive the reward for his noble work. Oh, that his praise may not end at death! Let every American youth remember and honor his honest toil. Next to the soldier, give the pioneer praise. The soldier could only save what the pioneer had made.

C. F. WINGARD.

A few of its Victims.

Below are a few of the diseases that will succumb at once to Chamberlain's Immediate Relief.. Cholera morbus, dysentery, colic, diarrhea, sore throat, catarrh, diptheria, fever and ague, rheumatism, coughs, colds, headache, neuralgia, sprains, cuts, bruises, etc. To enumerate them all would require too much space. There will be something interesting on this subject in next week's issue. Sold by all druggists. 2

Fourth of July Celebration.

The Alliance, P. I., and other labor organizations will hold a Fourth of July celebration at Hamilton's grove about two miles northeast of St. Joe. It will be a picnic or basket dinner meeting, and there will be plenty of talented speakers, and a good time generally. All are invited, especially those in sympathy with their principles.

Ohio School Book Law.

Ohio follows Indiana very closely in its endeavors to shake off the old school book monopolies. As with us, they will make books cheaper, and they will be uniform all over the state. They will have an entire new series, called the "Ohio" readers, arithmetics, grammars, etc., and will either have the books selected and adopted, or will hire men of ability to make a new set for the state. The handling of the books in the several counties, is given to the county auditor, as they have no county superintendent. This would add a great burden to auditors in our state. The new books are to be fully examined and criticised by a competent board, before they are finally put into the schools. The law, though lacking some of the better features of the Indiana law, is in the main a good one, and like our law, will result in saving many thousands for their people.

A Model Railway.

The Burlington Route, C. B. & Q. R. R., operates 7,000 miles of road, with termini in Chicago, St. Louis, St. Paul, Kansas City and Denver. For speed, safety comfort, equipment, track and efficient service it has no equal. The Burlington gains new patrons, but loses none. 88

A Good Business Chance.

We wish to secure a representative in Auburn, Ind., for our new No. 9 High-Arm Sewing Machine, and would like to hear from anyone who desires to secure a profitable occupation or a valuable adjunct to an already established business. To a responsible party, or one who can give good security, we are prepared to make liberal terms of credit. No previous experience in sewing machines is necessary, as we spend time and money in assisting our dealers to learn the business. The world is fast learning that the new "No. 9" is the only perfect sewing machine ever made. Address WHEELER & WILSON Mfg. Co., Chicago, Ill.

Business College.

You can secure a good paying position by attending Parson's Business College, and Normal Institute, Kalamazoo, Mich.

Short Hand

Established twenty two years. 5,000 of its Students employed in all parts of the United States. Only $5 for the summer term in the Normal Department, which opens July 6. Send for catalogue.

W. F. PARSONS, Pres.

Auburn Courier.
AUBURN, INDIANA.
JAMES A. BARNS, - PUBLISHER.

EVENTS OF THE WEEK.

THE SLAVIN-KILRAIN PRIZE FIGHT UNDECIDED.

Killed by Lightning—The A. O. U. W.—Wrong Word Used in a Judge's Charge—The Indian Outbreak in the Northwest.

The Slavin-Kilrain Fight.

New York special: The glove contest for a purse of $10,000, of which $2,500 goes to the loser, between Frank P. Slavin, of Australia, and Jake Kilrain of Baltimore, ended in the ninth round, Jere Dunn, the referee, refusing to give a decision. An electric "time" gong, similar to that used in the Corbett-Jackson fight, in San Francisco, had been put in position. At the beginning of the contest the referee told the men that they were to be governed solely by the ringing of the gong, and were to pay no attention to what any person said. In the ninth round Slavin struck Kilrain a savage blow in the jaw that sent him down. John Kelly, timekeeper, lost his head and yelled that ten seconds had expired before Kilrain got up. When he rang the gong Kilrain was on his feet. Kelly said that fourteen seconds had then elapsed, and Charley Mitchell on behalf of Slavin, claimed the fight. Dunn refused to render a decision until he can get the testimony of the managers of the club and the newspaper men present as to whether Kilrain was on his feet when the gong sounded. If a preponderance of the testimony is in favor of Kilrain, the fight will be called a draw, but general opinion is that Kilrain was on his feet when the gong sounded. Slavin had decidedly the best of the fight after the second round, and it was evident that Kilrain could not last much longer.

The A. O. U. W.

The nineteenth stated meeting of the Supreme Lodge of the A. O. U. W. is in session at Detroit. From the Supreme Recorder's report it was learned that on January 1, 1891, there were 4,054 lodges, a net increase for the year, of 196, only two lodges having ceased to exist during the year. The average membership of the lodges was fifty-seven, and total 251,862; the initiations for the year were 38,831, the suspensions 15,278, and the deaths 2,496; net increase, 20,507.

The receiver's report shows the receipts of the order for the year to have been $5,117,385.92, of which $4,744,226 was from assessments, and $373,159.92 from dues. The expenditures were $5,127,830.91, of which $4,762,159.09 was to pay death losses, and $365,672.82 for general expenses.

The Indian Outbreak.

J. B. Pointer, an Indian storekeeper on the outskirts of the Fond du Lac Chippewa Reservation, is in St. Paul. He looks on the outbreak against the Duluth and Winnipeg Railroad and the lumber firm of White & McDevitt as a serious matter. The hostiles, he says, are reservation Indians and will have to be dealt with by the Government. They have been carrying rifles for a month. The dam had overflowed much land, hurting the hay and other crops. By the letting out of the water 8,000,000 feet of logs are left high and dry. The Indians threaten to shoot any one who tries to repair the dam.

A Constitutional Question.

State Controller Colgan has announced that he will refuse to sign warrants granting $300,000 to the California World's Fair Commission for the State Exhibit. He bases his action on the provision of the State Constitution which says that no money shall be appropriated for the benefit of any association or institution not under exclusive control of the State. He claims that the Columbian World's Fair Commission is not exclusively under the State control but looks to the National Commission for authority. The case will be taken into the courts.

Wrong Word Used in a Judge's Charge.

At Terre Haute, Ind., Judge Taylor granted Harry Trogdon a new trial because of the misuse of a word in his instructions to the jury, which gave him three years for the murder of Hayes Sanders. The Judge said to the jury: "You should consider also the statement he makes," etc. when the Supreme Court has decided that the word "may" should be used instead of "should." This will be the third trial, the jury disagreeing on the first trial.

A Pleasant Sensation.

Recently Calvin Schofield purchased, and with his family, moved in a house on Providence street, Hyde Park, Mass. For several days the family were annoyed by a stench about the premises and investigation led to the discovery of the bodies of half a dozen partially dissected infants in the cellar and secreted in other parts of the house. The former occupant of the house was a medical student, but it cannot be learned where he procured his subjects. The authorities are investigating.

Army Desertions.

Secretary Proctor has prepared a statement showing that the desertions from the United States Army are less now than at any time since the war closed. The percentages for the past three years are: 1889, 11 per cent.; 1890, 94.10 per cent.; 1891, 6 per cent. The average per cent. of desertions since the war is 4.33.

Wreck on the Rail.

Three freight cars were wrecked at Clud Station, Ky., on the Knoxville, Cumberland Gap and Louisville Road, and one Daniels was killed and two other men fatally hurt.

Business Blocks Burned.

Fire at Mondovi, Buffalo County, Wis., destroyed seven buildings. Loss, about $35,000.

Killed by Lightning.

A heavy thunderstorm passed over Clarion, Pa., recently. A young man named Taylor was struck by lightning and instantly killed. David Lawson's barn was struck and burned to the ground. The National Bank building and the residence of John Brown were also struck and considerably damaged.

Bitten by a Rabid Horse.

John Clark, a member of the State Board of Health, was badly bitten and bruised by a rabid horse at Waldo, Ark. It is feared he will not recover.

Jewish Persecution.

The Jewish persecution is spreading to all foreigners in Russia. A secret order has been signed by Prince Kurohatkin, Governor General of Trans-Caspia, expelling nearly all the Poles employed in the building and working of the Central Association Railway. This will affect from 60 to 80 per cent. of the best workmen on the road. More Jews who have rendered honorable military service to the empire, are among those expelled from Moscow. In Moscow Christian employers have determined to no longer employ Jews. An imperial ukase empowers Grand Duke Sergius to relegate the whole of his administrative powers to the head of the police, a fact which indicates even more rigorous measures against the Jews in the near future.

PRINCE OF WALES.

He Is a Co-Respondent in a Divorce Suit by Lady Brooke's Husband.

London special: There is a rumor that Lord Brooke, son of the Earl of Warwick, has filed a petition for divorce from his wife on the ground of adultry, the Prince of Wales being charged as co-respondent. It is a matter of common knowledge that heretofore both the Prince and Lord and Lady Brooke have maintained that the intimacy between the Prince and Lady Brooke was platonic.

In his statement Secretary of War Stanhope said in the House of Commons: "The army regulations in question had undoubtedly never been specially brought to the notice of the Prince of Wales, but when they had been, and looking back at all the circumstances of the case, the Prince of Wales saw his error of judgment in not requiring Sir William Gordon-Cummin to make an immediate report to his commanding officer. In his view I concur, but I should like to express my personal opinion that, had anyone else suddenly heard that a friend who had greatly distinguished himself in the service, had been accused of such an offense, he would certainly hesitate before at once adopting a course that would bring an immediate and irretrievable blight on his whole future."

A Strange Incident.

Dayton (O.) special: A very strange incident in the effort to identify the woman who committed suicide in Latin's drug store recently was the claiming of the body by two men, each one believing her to be his own wife, and each one backed up by the opinions of mourning relatives. David M. Cunningham called at the morgue with his son, stating to the coroner that the remains were those of Mrs. Cunningham from whom they had lived separate for some time because of her opium habit, and were proceeding to arrange the body in a coffin for proper burial, when Sergeant John Chandler, of the National Military Asylum, convinced the coroner that the body was that of his wife. He described her jewelry and watch, and then told the coroner marks and scars that would be found on her body, and as this proved to be correct, the Cunninghams gave up all claims and Sergeant Chandler took his wife's body away. Cunningham and his son and daughter then instituted search for Mrs. Cunningham and found her in good health, and ignorant of the reports of her supposed suicide.

The Typos.

The International Typographical Union, in session at Boston, elected W. H. Prescott, of Toronto, President, over Marcien Johnson, of Fort Worth, Tex., and S. L. Freeman, of Birmingham, Ala. First Vice-President, J. H. McKenna, New York; Second Vice-President, J. H. Von Hittner, Chattanooga, Tenn.; Third Vice-President, D. J. Weldon, Chicago; Secretary and Treasurer W. S. McClevy, Indianapolis. Organizers—First District, Edward Beardsley, Brooklyn, N. Y. Second District, J. F. Klunk, Kansas City, Mo.; Third District, Samuel R. Freeman, Birmingham, Ala.; Fourth District, Victor B. Williams, Chicago; Fifth District, J. W. Patterson, Ottawa, Ont.; Sixth District, J. R. Winer, San Francisco, Cal.; Seventh District, Chas. Abernathy. Delegates to the American Federation of Labor. W. F. Shields, of Washington, W. C. Boyer, of Omaha, Neb., C. A. Williams, Pittsburgh, and F. A. Kidd, of Chicago.

La Grippe in China.

W. A. Thompson, an American who is in the Chinese customs service at Whampoa, China, is now in Chicago. He says that the grip swept over the Chinese Empire in February last, and hundreds of thousands of the natives died of the disease. It prevailed during a period of thirty days, and the death rate increased frightfully. The Chinese physicians were unable to say what the disease was, and the result was a panic. The Mongolians imagined the evil spirit was sending a plague among them, and they went through the streets of all the cities beating drums to drum the evil spirit out of the country. During one week in Canton fully 10,000 people were buried.

Two Children Perish in the Flames.

At Fostoria, Ohio, fire destroyed two barns in the rear of the residences occupied by Wm. Stewart and John Glascow. The two children of Stewart and Glascow were burned to death. It appears that they were playing with matches, and the barn floor, being covered with straw, soon ignited, and the little ones, not knowing enough to escape, remained and were burned almost to a crisp. The limbs of the Stewart child were burned almost entirely off, while the arms, body and face were beyond recognition. Glascow's child, when removed from the burning building, presented a most horrible sight. The mothers of the children are panic stricken and the most intense excitement prevails.

Strikers and Police Fight.

Grand Rapids (Mich.) special: A premeditated attack on the property of the street railroad company by the strikers, who have now been out a month, resulted in a fierce battle in the street and the wounding of several men. Detective Joseph W. Smith was hit over the head with a club and seriously injured. Another officer received a bullet through his helmet. John Highstetter, one of the mob, was fatally injured, another of the mob was wounded in the arm, and thirteen of the rioters are under arrest charged with felony. It was the most exciting disturbance in the history of the strike, and it gave rise to the first pitched battle the police of the city have ever had.

A Slanderer Killed.

Paris (Ill.) special: For some time a feud has existed between Thomas Benson and Elmer Farris, two young farmers who reside near Edgar, in Edgar County. Farris came to this city and was united in marriage to Miss Ella Jones, a reputable young lady, who resided with her parents north of this city. Next day the two enemies met at a barn in their neighborhood, when Benson, it is alleged, made some disreputable remark about Farris' wife. Farris resented the insult and Benson attacked him with a club. Farris then drew a knife and stabbed Benson to the heart, killing him instantly.

Scaled the Walls of Joliet.

John Kaiser, a convict from Jo Daviess County, Illinois, under a three years' sentence for burglary, made his escape from the Joliet Penitentiary, scaling the wall near the west gate by means of a long piece of hooked gas-pipe. He was employed as night fireman in the boiler-house, and took advantage of the guard relief for midnight supper. He is a man 27 years of age, 5 feet 9½ inches high, of fair complexion, light sandy hair and hazel murky-blue eyes; has a prominent nose, pointing downward, small mole on right side of neck and several small scars on left hand.

Trouble Ahead.

Columbus special: The situation at the ore docks at Ashtabula among the strikers is becoming a serious matter. Adjutant General Dill has been requested to call out the militia to quell the anticipated trouble. The communication to the Adjutant General numbers the strikers at 600, of which two-thirds are willing to resume work, but are compelled to lay idle by the others, who are becoming violent. In case work is resumed the rioters threaten to interfere, and both the Mayor and Sheriff feel powerless to quell such disturbance that seems imminent.

Fatal Collision.

A disastrous collison occurred between the Los Angeles express and a freight train at Port Costs, Cal. The locomotives of both trains were badly smashed and the mail and express cars of the passenger were telescoped. Brakeman Lorden, of the freight train, was killed, and Engineers Moore and Abbott and both firemen were hurt. It is reported that a large number of passengers were hurt. C. H. Spurgeon, mail clerk, son of Mayor Spurgeon, of Santa Ana, was killed and six other mail clerks were seriously hurt. Several passengers were injured but none fatally.

A Well Explosion.

Natural gas leaked from the mains into an old well on the premises adjoining Schieffer's drug store, Fort Wayne, and rendered the water so impure that the well was abandoned. A colored lad lit a cigarette and threw the lighted match into the well. An explosion that shook the earth followed. The old-fashioned windlass was sent skyward in numerous sections, and one of the boards from the same struck Mrs. Anna Summers, who sat on a doorstep in the next yard, she received serious injury. The little darkey, who was frozen to the spot with terror, escaped harm.

No Truth in It.

Paris special: M. Roche, Minister of the colonies, has received a dispatch from M. DeBrasseua, the well-known French explorer in Africa, which indicates that there is no truth in the recently published report that the members of the expedition from Loangounder that M. Paul Crampell had been massacred, roasted, and devoured by the Matonga natives. The latest news received direct from the mission by the Minister of the colonies was to the effect that the expedition was within fifty days' march of its destination, Lake Tohad, and that all was then well.

The Red River Flood.

Gainesville (Tex.) special: A gentleman in the city from Belcher, on Red River, in Montague County, forty miles west of Gainesville, regarding the flood disaster of last week in the Red River bottoms, in the locality of Belcher, says in most instances the damage has been underestimated. The bodies of thousands of dead cattle, horses, hogs and other animals are scattered along the river banks. Beds, chairs, tables and all sorts of furniture are found in the bottoms since the water went down.

A Shocking Death.

John Kohe, a wealthy contractor, of New York, met a shocking death in an excavation on the corner of Dey and Church streets. The water main in the center of Church street burst and blew in the only remaining brick wall standing upon the foundation of an old building which formerly occupied the site. The heavy mass fell directly on the unfortunate young man, crushing him to death. Several other workmen were injured by flying debris, but none seriously.

Illegal Juries.

Legal circles throughout West Virginia are considerably disturbed over the discovery that a large number of juries drawn during the last six months were illegal. The Legislature at its last session made some changes in the jury laws, which, it seems, have been generally disregarded. The result will be that a great many trials will be vitiated and the loss to the State will be very heavy.

A Doubtful Honor.

London special: Mrs. McKee lunched with Commander Emery, the naval attache of the American legation, and afterwards visited the Naval Exhibition. She will attend the State Concert at Buckingham Palace and will there be presented to the Prince of Wales. Both Mrs. KcKee and Mrs. Harrison are favorably impressed with their visit.

Killed in Indian Territory.

A special from Guthrie, O. T., says: Indian scouts from the Sac and Fox country have arrived here with the intelligence of a triple killing in the Indian country, east of here. The three killed were white men and bad characters, and had been peddling whisky to the Indians for some months. Their names are unknown.

Railroad Wreck.

Passenger train, No. 3, on the Milwaukee & Northern road left the track about six miles south of Chilton, Wis. The wreck was caused by heat expanding the rails and throwing the track out of gauge. The baggage car and two coaches jumped the track. Several persons were injured.

Killed by Lightning.

At Elgin, Ill., during a storm a number of men employed on a new building took refuge in a barn, which, soon after their entrance, was struck by lightning. One of the men, Theodore Shults, was instantly killed and another, John Bartels, received such injuries that he will probably die.

A Legislator on Trial.

The trial of Solomon Von Praag, a member of the State Legislature, charged with having suborned two men to swear falsely in order to procure naturalization papers, is in progress in the United States Court at Chicago.

Sunk to Rise No More.

(Ora Randall, a most promising young school teacher of Boone County, Indiana, was drowned at Terre Haute while bathing in the Wabash River.

THE MARKETS.

CHICAGO.
CATTLE—Common to prime.....	$3.50	@ 6.50
HOGS—Shipping grades	4.00	@ 4.75
SHEEP	3.50	@ 5.50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.97	@ .98
CORN—No. 2	.57½	@ .58½
OATS—No. 2	.40	@ .42
RYE—No. 2	.81	@ .83
BUTTER—Choice Creamery	.16	@ .18
CHEESE—Full Cream, flats	.08½	@ .09¼
EGGS—Fresh	.14½	@ .15½
POTATOES—Choice, per bu	1.20	@ 1.40
INDIANAPOLIS.
CATTLE—Shipping	3.50	@ 5.75
HOGS—Choice light	3.00	@ 4.50
SHEEP—Common to prime	4.00	@ 4.75
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.97	@ .97½
CORN—No. 1 White	.63½	@ .64½
OATS—No. 2 White	.47½	@ .48
ST. LOUIS.
CATTLE	4.00	@ 6.00
HOGS	4.00	@ 4.50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.98½	@ .99½
CORN—No. 2	.51	@ .55
OATS—No. 2	.47	@ .48
RYE—No. 2	.78	@ .75
CINCINNATI.
CATTLE	3.50	@ 5.50
HOGS	3.50	@ 4.75
SHEEP	3.75	@ 5.25
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	1.01½	@ 1.02½
CORN—No. 2	.62	@ .64
OATS—No. 2 Mixed	.47	@ .49
DETROIT.
CATTLE	3.00	@ 5.25
HOGS	3.00	@ 4.50
SHEEP	3.00	@ 4.75
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	1.02	@ 1.03
CORN—No. 2 Yellow	.60	@ .61
OATS—No. 2 White	.48	@ .50
TOLEDO.
WHEAT	1.01	@ 1.02
CORN—Cash	.59	@ .59½
OATS—No. 1 White	.48	@ .50
CLOVER SEED	4.15	@ 4.25
EAST LIBERTY.
CATTLE—Common to Prime....	4.00	@ 6.00
HOGS—Light	4.00	@ 5.00
SHEEP—Medium	4.25	@ 5.00
LAMBS	4.75	@ 6.00
MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—No. 2 Spring	.96	@ .97
CORN—No. 3	.56	@ .58
OATS—No. 2 White	.43	@ .45
RYE—No. 1	.86	@ .87
BARLEY—No. 2	.72	@ .74
PORK—Mess	10.00	@ 10.25
NEW YORK.
CATTLE	4.50	@ 6.25
HOGS	4.25	@ 5.25
SHEEP	4.50	@ 5.50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	1.09	@ 1.10
CORN—No. 2	.66	@ .68
OATS—Mixed Western	.44	@ .49
BUTTER—Creamery	.15	@ .18
EGGS—Western	.16	@ .17
PORK—New Mess	12.00	@ 12.50

PIG IRON PRODUCTION.

IS ENGLAND'S LOSS TO OUR GAIN?

Foolish Protectionist Claim—A Great Falling Off in Our Pig Iron Production—Figures Which Do Not Lie—Another Case Where Labor Gets Left.

"England's loss is our gain" is one of those cheap and ignorant cries with which the protectionists attempt to defend their scheme of high-tariff taxation for the American people.

The shallowness of this statement may be seen from a recent "tariff picture" in Robert P. Porter's New York Press in regard to pig-iron foundries. This high-tariff organ prints in heavy black letters at the head of its editorial column the following bit of protectionist wisdom:

"TARIFF PICTURES.

"We are making an increased percentage every year of the pig iron we use. We imported from England 32,564 tons of pig iron in the first four months of 1890, and only 12,341 tons in the first four months of 1891."

That is to say, we have increased our pig iron production by 20,221 tons in these four months, although the McKinley law leaves the duty at $6.72 a ton, the same that it has been since 1883. But the high tariff organ could very easily have found out that the production of pig iron shows a tremendous falling off in the first four months of this year. The fact that a very large number of furnaces have been shut down since January is well known to everybody who has kept himself at all informed as to industrial news.

A recent number of the Iron Age, the leading journal of the iron industry in the United States, gave some of the statistics of the decrease of our iron production from January to May 1. The furnaces in blast the first week in each month since Dec. 1, 1890, are stated as follows:

	Furnaces in blast.	Weekly capacity in gross tons.
December 1, 1890	340	183,846
January 1, 1891	302	167,599
February 1	294	146,050
March 1	257	134,526
April 1	228	113,483
May 1	227	115,590

From these figures it will be seen that the falling off in production for the first week in each month has been as follows:

	Gross tons.
January	16,245
February	37,796
March	49,320
April	70,363
May	68,256

Any one who is curious to know just what the total falling off was from Jan. 1 to the end of April can easily reach the total from the figures here given. It will be found that the decrease in production was considerably above 800,000 tons. These figures may appear large, but that they are not excessive may be seen from other figures compiled by the American Manufacturer, an extremely high-tariff trade paper, published at Pittsburg, Pa. Early in April this paper published a table showing that the number of active blast furnaces in the country on the 1st of April was 231, with a weekly capacity of 113,816 tons, while the idle furnaces numbered 302, with a capacity of 137,213 tons per week.

The shutting down of more than half the furnaces of the country necessarily throws out of employment thousands of laborers to whom protection has been promising, all these years, good wages and steady employment.

So much for the silly claim of the Press that our production of pig iron increased 20,000 tons from Jan. 1 to April 30, since our imports from England fell off by that amount. By the same cheap method the Press has shown that many other American industries are turning out more goods than last year. The falling off in the imports of women and children's dress goods from England is made to show to a dollar just how much more of those goods the domestic manufacturers are producing this year; and so with worsted and woolen goods for men's wear.

The Press does not seem to have caught the famous words of Jay Gould last fall when the McKinley bill passed: "I cannot see that the new tariff of itself will be a disadvantage to the country. If it increases the cost of some articles people will simply use less of them. Take wool, for instance. If the tariff on wool makes clothing cost more, a person will get along with one suit where he would otherwise have two."

A Free-Trade Manufacturer.

Some time ago Col. Albert Clarke, Secretary of the well-known Home Market Club of Boston, saw a statement in a newspaper to the effect that Mr. A. B. Farquhar, of the Pennsylvania Agricultural Works at York, Pa., had admitted that his firm sold agricultural implements in foreign countries at prices 5 to 10 per cent. lower than in the home market.

This statement troubled the Home Market Secretary, and he wrote to Mr. Farquhar to make inquiry as to its truth. In his reply this gentleman said: "I have to acknowledge it is quite true that our firm sells implements and machinery through Mexico, South America and Africa at prices from 5 to 10 per cent. less than they are sold for in this country." Mr. Farquhar also admitted that he had said that "the manufacturer who is able to export his goods can have no use for protection," except to enable him to extort more money from home purchasers than he is able to get from those abroad."

In his letter, Col. Clarke had asked: "Do you believe that American manufacturers generally would be able to sell many more goods abroad than now if they had free raw materials, and if so, about what percentage more than now?"

To this question Mr. Farquhar answered: "I do believe that American manufacturers generally would be able to sell many more goods abroad than now if they had free raw material. The importation of this material would of itself stimulate a demand for American products abroad: * * * I should expect an increase of at last 25 per cent."

Another question of the Home Market Secretary was still more pointed: "Would you favor a reduction or repeal of the duty on manufactured goods as well as on raw materials?" Mr. Farquhar's answer to this question leaves no doubt as to where he stands on the tariff question: "I would unhesitatingly favor a repeal of the duty on all the manufactured goods we make. Since we can and do export, the duty can be of no possible service; and, since it tends to provoke retaliation, we find it a serious obstacle."

Still further to enforce the necessity for free raw materials Mr. Farquhar said the reason he did not get as good prices abroad as at home was, "that we have to compete with countries having the great advantage of free raw material in their manufactures and the further advantage of better transportation facilities."

McKinleyism on the Dinner Table.

A most striking illustration of the extravagance of McKinleyism is found in common white chinaware. Our manufacturers of pottery have been in the habit of claiming that they asked for no higher duties than would equalize the difference in wages between this country and England. How much truth there is in this claim may be seen from the following case:

An assortment of china, commonly known as graniteware, consisting of twenty-two dozen pieces (flat and deep plates, bakers, bowls, dishes, teas, coffees, etc.), pays a duty of $10.51; while the labor cost for making the entire assortment in the great potteries of Trenton, N. J., is only $5.36, not including the firing, which could hardly add more than a dollar or two to the labor cost. Thus the entire labor cost in Trenton is $3 or $4 less than the duty which was to cover only the difference between wages in this country and England.

That our potteries reap the full benefit of this extravagant protection is shown from the fact that this assortment costs $32.01 in New York, and only $19.12 in England. Is it any wonder that enormous fortunes have been made in the Trenton potteries? One of the manufacturers, it is stated, who began business there not many years ago as a poor man is now a millionaire. Under McKinley's high duties our pottery industry is an expensive luxury.

CHEERFUL FOR FARMERS.

Bad Crops in Europe—Large Exports of Farm Products Expected—Wheat Will Bring Back Our Gold.

The foreign demand this year for the wheat and other products of our farms promises to be unusually large. The gloomy outlook in Europe makes it certain that if we produce large crops our exports of farm produce will be greater than in any year since 1880, when we sent $211,000,000 worth of wheat and flour alone to foreign countries.

A recent dispatch from London says: "For ten days the weather throughout the British islands and over a great part of the continent has been very unseasonable. Snow, hail, disagreeable cold rain have in turns been the prevailing order. The agricultural outlook was decidedly unfavorable before this recent bad weather. The spring was very backward, the only good weather being that of the latter part of April. The crops generally will be a failure. In France the recent rains have greatly injured the growing wheat, and the Minister of Agriculture states that a large shortage is inevitable, and if more favorable weather is not experienced soon it will be well-nigh a total failure. In England it is decidedly worse than in France.

"The American farmers may therefore take it for granted," the dispatch goes on, "that there will be a market for all their surplus wheat in Europe, and at good prices. The persons who are distressed at the large shipments of gold hitherward may dismiss their fears. It is being bought and shipped here and to the continent at a considerable loss to the importers. It will all have to be shipped back this fall to pay for breadstuffs. The Daily Telegraph, in its money market article yesterday, said:

"'The export of gold from the States is expected to soon diminish or entirely cease, and in the autumn a large portion of the £8,000,000 that has been received here and abroad since Jan. 1 last will, according to the views of practical authorities, be taken back against consignments of wheat to Europe.'"

For thirty years the protectionists have been deluding the farmer to support our high tariff system, on the ground that it would build up a home market which would consume all his products "right at his doors;" yet at this late day it is our exports of wheat that are looked to for bringing back the immense stream of gold which has been going out of the country for several months. Nearly $60,000,000 in gold has been exported to Europe since the beginning of the year, notwithstanding that other humbug promise of the protectionists that a high tariff will prevent our gold from flowing out of the country. Protection fails to build its home market for the farmer, fails to keep the gold in the country, and then has to fall back upon the farmer to bring it back.

Is not protection a rather multifarious sort of humbug, anyway?

The Oil-Cloth Trust.

It is rumored that the oil-cloth trust has broken up, owing to the fact that some of the large jobbers had been selling table oil-cloths at prices lower than those fixed by the combination.

It is said by the New York Carpet and Upholstery Trade Review that this combination has been in existence for six years and has proved "exceptionally satisfactory." The Review says further: "Its record places it among the most successful trade combinations ever organized, and it is anticipated that it will only be a very short time before the manufacturers will get together again."

McKinley did all he could for this tariff trust in the way of raising duties. The old duty was 40 per cent., and the McKinley compound duties—according to the figures worked out by a United States Treasury expert for the use of the Senate—are equal to 66 per cent. While the duty on oil-cloth worth 25 cents a yard or less was left at 40 per cent., the duty on cloth above 25 cents was made 15 cents a yard and 30 per cent. At this rate a yard worth 31 cents, which was the average price of the small quantity imported last year, would pay a duty of 80 per cent.—exactly double the old duty.

There was no excuse whatever for raising the duty. The importations for 1889, on which the McKinley bill was framed, amounted to only 662,000 yards, worth $273,000; while it was stated before the McKinley Committee that the domestic manufacturers produce about 10,000,000 or 12,000,000 yards per annum.

About seven-eighths of the oil-cloth consumed in this country goes into the homes of the poorer classes as table covers and carpets. Does it strike these consumers as a very decent thing for McKinley to increase the duty on an article so necessary to them, in order that the sixteen manufacturers may keep up trust prices on it?

It is said that only about 1,000 laborers are employed by the trust; and there can be little question of protecting where the supposed interests of so small a number are involved, as against the interests of millions of other laborers. But these 1,000 laborers do not get anything great out of their so-called "protection to labor," their wages running only from 75 cents to $1.50 per day. Great is the protection humbug!

Tin Plate Figures.

Our imports of tin plate for the two years 1889 and 1890, with the duties on the same, were as follows:

Imports in 1889, pounds	727,945,927
Value of the same	$21,002,209
Duties paid	$7,279,459
Imports in 1890, pounds	674,664,458
Values of the same	$20,746,427
Duties paid	$6,746,644

Imports for the first nine months of the present fical year—i. e. from July 1, 1890, to March 31, 1891—were as follows:

Imports, nine months, pounds	624,919,264
Value of the same	$20,906,663
Duties paid	6,249,192

If the McKinley duty of 2.2 cents per pound had been calculated upon the above quantities for two years and nine months, the total duties collected during this time would have been $43,627,000, instead of $20,275,000, the duties actually paid.

From the above figures any one can calculate the price of tin plate per pound without the duty. For 1889 and 1890 the price averaged 3 cents; for the nine months ended March 31, it was 3.34—caused by the mere prospect of the McKinley duty.

These prices are below the price of sheet-iron in the United States. How then can we make tin plate as cheap as the Welsh?

IT IS PREMIER ABBOTT.

HE WILL UNDERTAKE TO FORM A CANADIAN MINISTRY.

The Tory Leaders Tender Him Their Hearty Support—The French Consider His Selection an Affront to Them—Sir John Thompson Declined the Place.

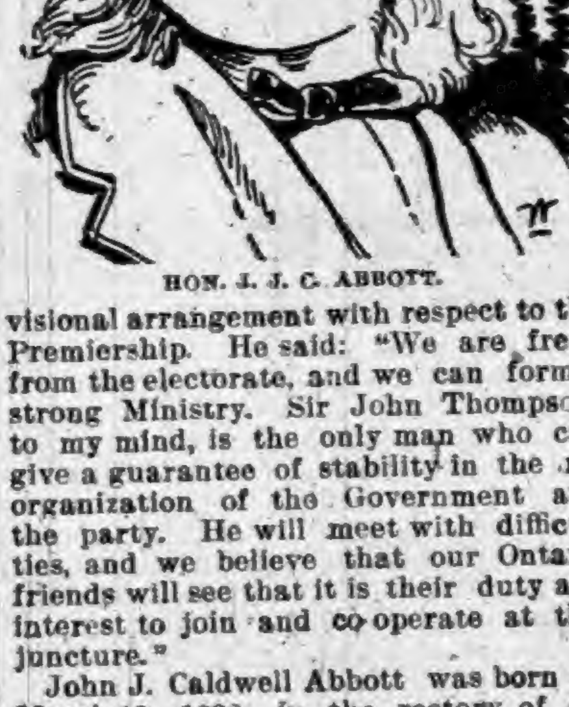
The Hon. J. J. C. Abbott has been called upon to form a Canadian Ministry, and has undertaken the task.

Under the circumstances, Lord Stanley, in calling upon Senator Abbott to frame a government, has done the only thing that appeared feasible to enable the Tory party to hold control of the treasury benches at Ottawa.

Sir John Thompson was first called, but he soon discovered when he undertook the formation of a cabinet that it was a task he was unable to carry to a successful issue. He discovered that the ultra-Protestant province of Ontario, which gave Sir John Macdonald's Government a support of forty-eight members, would not accept him as Prime Minister, he having at one time turned from Protestant to Catholic. Sir Charles Tupper's attempt to wreck the Grand Trunk Railway, the second largest corporation in the country, put him out of the race, so that Senator Abbott was the only one whom it was possible for the Governor General to call upon, lest he took up Sir Hector Langevin, who certainly, by right of senority, should have been called. In passing over Sir Hector, Lord Stanley has ignored the French Canadian race.

In advocating the candidature of Sir Charles Tupper, the Citizen, the Government organ at Ottawa, said a provisional Ministry will be a public proclamation of weakness, a flag of truce never yet displayed by Conservatives.

Mr. Chapleau was quite certain that Sir John Thompson would be Premier. He protested strongly against any provisional arrangement with respect to the Premiership. He said: "We are fresh from the electorate, and we can form a strong Ministry. Sir John Thompson, to my mind, is the only man who can give a guarantee of stability in the reorganization of the Government and the party. He will meet with difficulties, and we believe that our Ontario friends will see that it is their duty and interest to join and co-operate at this juncture."



HON. J. J. C. ABBOTT.

John J. Caldwell Abbott was born on March 12, 1828, in the rectory of St. Andrew's Parish, County of Argenequil, Quebec. His father was the Rev. Joseph Abbott, M. A., who in 1818 came from England and settled at St. Andrew as the first Anglican incumbent. Mr. Abbott graduated from McGill College, Montreal, and at once entered upon the study of law. At the age of 27 years he was called to the bar of Lower Canada. It was not until 1859 that he entered political life as member for his native county in the Assembly of Canada. From that time onward he took an active part in the transactions of the House, notably in reference to commercial matters. He was made a Q. C. in 1862 and for a short time was member of the Sandfield-Macdonald Ministry as Solicitor General. In 1864 he introduced and fought through the House the "insolvent act," probably his chief work as a legislator. In 1867, upon confederation, Mr. Abbott was elected to the House of Commons. In the negotiations of the syndicate, of which Sir Hugh Allan was chief, for the Pacific Railway charter, Mr. Abbott acted as counsel, and through his confidential clerk's treachery the famous private correspondence which caused the Pacific scandal saw the light. In the defeat of the Government at that time Mr. Abbott shared, and remained in private life until 1880. He was elected in that year and sat through Parliament until 1887, when he retired. He was subsequently elevated to the Senate, of which he has of late been the Government leader. Next to the insolvency act, the measure by which his reputation has been most enhanced is the jury law consolidation act for lower Canada.

FOR HIS MOTHER.

A Talented Actor Suicides Through Grief for Her Death.

At Chicago, Actor Jas. L. Edwards suicided, while despondent over the death of his mother a few weeks ago. He was leading man with H. R. Jacobs' company.

There is a remarkable coincidence in the death of Edwards with the death of Actor Henry Aveling, a few weeks ago, in New York. When Edwards left the Paul Kauvar Company his place was taken by Aveling, an English actor of considerable prominence. One morning he was found dead in his room in a New York hotel. It was a deliberate case of self-murder. He left letters which gave directions for the care of his body. Aveling also died from morphine. But the strange part of it all was that Edwards was engaged to play the leading role in "Paul Kauver" next season. He was a member of the Actors' Order of Friendship. His wife, who is a professional woman, lives at 331 West Thirty-fourth street, New York. She contemplated joining the company of which her husband was a member. The remains were shipped East to be placed at the side of his mother, whom he loved so dearly.

ON FIRE AT SEA.

The Steamer City of Richmond Threatened with Destruction but Is Saved.

The steamship Servia, at Queenstown from New York, reports that she sighted the Richmond flying signals of distress. On making inquiries it was learned that, the cargo of the City of Richmond was on fire. The Servia steamed slowly alongside the City of Richmond until Browhead was sighted. The fire had been discovered two days before, when a cabin passenger noticed that the floor of his state-room was hot. He at once gave an alarm and the crew was promptly aroused. On examination smoke was found to be issuing from the forehold. The smell indicated that cotton was burning. Steam and water were injected into the hold in hope of putting the fire out.

Don'ts for the Table.

DON'T find fault and pick about your food.

DON'T talk with your mouth filled with food.

DON'T soil the table-cloth with bones, parings, etc.

DON'T laugh loudly, or talk boisterously, at the table.

THE WAY THINGS RUN

IN THE GREATEST OF GREAT STATES, INDIANA.

Things Which Have Lately Happened Within Its Borders—Some Pleasant and Some Sad Reading.

Northern Indiana Editorial Association.

The annual session of the Northern Indiana Editorial Association was held at South Bend. The following officers were elected: Ed. A. Jernegan, of the Mishawaka Enterprise, president; W. A. Beane, of the Goshen Democrat, first vice-president; J. C. Hewitt, of the Lagrange Register, second vice-president; C. C. Musselman, of the Stark County Ledger, treasurer; E. G. Thompson of the Ligonier Leader, secretary; Louis McDonald, of the Plymouth Democrat, corresponding secretary. The following delegates and alternates to the National Convention were chosen: Delegates—Thos. A. Starr, Goshen Daily News; R. H. Rerick, Lagrange Standard; Charles D. Tillo, Fort Wayne Newspaper Union, and C. H. Chase, Elkhart Review. Alternates—William A. Beane, Goshen Democrat; Frank W. Willis, Waterloo Press; G. H. Hamilton, Thornton Argus, and J. E. Sutton, Logansport Daily Reporter. The Convention adjourned to meet at Plymouth, on the second Thursday in June, 1892.

Minor State Items.

—The New Providence Courier has suspended publication.

—John Dettgen, a German carpenter, of Madison, fell two stories and was killed.

—The Circuit Court at Columbus is forced to hold night sessions from rush of business.

—Prof. J. C. Eagle has been elected the fifth time as Superintendent of the Shelbyville schools.

—Knightstown's keeping right up with the procession—going to have electric lights very shortly.

—Richard Stoddard was fatally injured by falling slate at the Brazil Block-coal Company's mine.

—The wheat crop around Martinsville has been attacked by the "midge," but farmers are not apprehensive.

—James Floyd, of Portland, obtained a verdict for $500 against Dr. W. C. Horn, of Camden, for malpractice.

—A gang of convicts, digging in a sewer trench at Jeffersonville, came nearly being smothered during a cave-in.

—Over $10,000 has been spent in a row over the naming of a new postoffice, recently established in Bartholomew County.

—Dick Walsh, of Goshen, was tried, convicted and taken to the Penitentiary within thirty-six hours after committing a burglary.

—County Treasurer Ramsey, of Montgomery County, has notified the Midland Railroad Company that $1,788 of taxes must be paid at once.

—The Montgomery County Board of Assessors finds that many farmers are putting their land in at $10 per acre less valuation than it is really worth.

—The Petersburg News says: "With this issue vol. 8 commences. The News has no apologies nor promises to make. If you don't like it, don't take it."

—Jacob Freed, who has been refused a lscense to sell liquor at New Market, has fitted up a room in elegant style, and says he will sell on a Government license.

—A smooth young man with an alleged headache was given a room in a Jeffersonville hotel during the day-time, and managed to escape with a quantity of jewelry and other valuables belonging to absent boarders.

—John Douglass, aged 18, was instantly killed at Logansport, by the accidental discharge of a target gun, which he held by the muzzle while seated in Hardy's oil-mill. The ball, a 22-caliber, passed through his heart. It is supposed that the trigger caught in the step on which he was seated.

—A most distressing accident occurred seven miles north of Vincennes. A little son of A. J. Flock climbed upon the wheel of W. F. Toop's peddling wagon, which was stopped in front of the residence of the child's parents. When the wagon started the child was thrown to the ground. The wheel passed over it, crushing it to death.

—Vardiman Byrd, the oldest and wealthiest resident of Johnson Township, Brown County, was crushed to death recently. He was out with a wagon and two horses, and a heavy rain coming up, he drove into the large barn of Mr. Letzer, a neighbor, for shelter. The horses became fractious in the barn, and in attempting to get away dragged Mr. Byrd under a cross beam, crushing him to death. He was 74 years old.

—At Montpelier, Joseph Jellison, bartender for W. W. Bonge, went into the cellar to change faucets in beer kegs. He lighted a match and opened the refrigerator door, when the gas that had been leaking exploded with terrific force, throwing him fifteen feet against the cellar wall, setting his clothes on fire and burning the hair from his head. His hands and face were burned in a frightful manner. The explosion demolished the refrigerator, breaking the glass front, cracking the brick wall and otherwise injuring the building.

—Mrs. Minerva Lewis, New Albany, claims to have been damaged $2,000 worth by being put off a Pennsylvania Company's train, and sues for that amount.

—The Jeffersonville Council was a tie on the question of standard or solar time for that metropolis, and the reform Mayor said: "If the sun's good enough to see by, its good enough for me to go to bed and get up by." Accordingly he voted for solar time, and now everybody will have to reset clocks again.

—New Albany has a "mute" darky who drinks liquor and terrorizes an entire ward with his dissonant yells.

—A heavy-weight dinner party took place in the eastern part of Bartholomew County recently. Four farmers' wives concluded to spend the day together, and accordingly prepared a feast for the occasion. Mrs Harriet Wilson weighed 235 pounds; Mrs. L. W. Moore, 230; Mrs. Charles Wright, 217, and Mrs. Clara Moore, 200. The weight of Mr. L. W. Moore, who was master of ceremonies, was 240 pounds. They all reside within a few miles of one another.

SAVED AT LAST.

AUBURN, IND., Oct. 3, 1890.

Dr. J. W. Bergen:

Dear Sir:—By this time, I presume, you will want to know how I am getting along with Bergen's Asthma Cure.

Well, you have heard of persons obtaining a new life. Now I really feel that way myself. When I began taking Bergen's Asthma Cure, I was just coming out of a long siege of it, and was reduced to 115 pounds; weak, short of breath, chills, fever, and badly demoralized generally, coughing from half an hour to an hour every night.

Since commencing, from the third night, I have not lost ten minutes' sleep all night, cough gone, gained seventeen pounds, chills gone, fever gone, shortness of breath and difficulty of breathing gone, consequently I feel a thousand per cent. better. I thank God every day that I ever saw your advertisement, and that I was induced to write to you.

This is peculiarly encouraging in my case, as I had suffered so long and was so discouraged about my case, having tried everything. I am telling the good news every day.

Push on the good work; you are on the right track.

Yours Very Gratefully,
R. McDOUGALL.

Sold by ROBINS & McCORD.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The undersigned, having been restored to health by simple means, after suffering for several years with a severe lung affection, and that dread disease, CONSUMPTION, is anxious to make known to his fellow-sufferers the means of cure. To those who desire it he will cheerfully send, free of charge, a copy of the prescription used, which they will find a sure cure for CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, CATARRH, BRONCHITIS, and all Throat and Lung Maladies. He hopes all sufferers will try this Remedy, as it is invaluable. Those desiring the prescription, which will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing, will please address, REV. EDWARD A. WILSON, Williamsburg, Kings County, New York. 1y.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK

Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD

Ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head

ACHE

Is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold by druggists everywhere, or sent by mail.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York.

SMALL PILL. SMALL DOSE. SMALL PRICE

BOURKE'S HOUSEHOLD
• SPECIALTIES •

COMBINATION BRUSH, MOP AND SPONGE HOLDER

CARPET STRETCHER and GARDEN RAKE.

Nonpareil Window Cleaner,
A MARVEL.

Galvanized iron, rubber adjustable to expose new surface as it wears, no glue or cement, lasts a life-time and more efficient than any cleaner made.

Sash Lock and FASTENER.
Most Durable,
Most Compact,
Most Perfect

BURGLAR PROOF
FASTENER MADE.

Bourke Mfg. Co., Youngstown, O.

REMEMBER
KLINCK
IS THE NAME OF THAT
Wonderful Remedy

That Cures Catarrh, Hay-Fever, Cold in the Head, Sore Throat, Canker, and Bronchitis.

The testimonials to these FACTS are NUMEROUS and STRONG, similar to the following:
From the Hon. Harvey D. Colvin, Ex-Mayor of Chicago:

CHICAGO, July 24, 1890.

S. H. KLINCK—DEAR SIR: I am pleased to say that I consider your remedy the best medicine in existence, for the human afflictions you claim to cure. I suffered from catarrh with bronchitis for many years. During that time I employed physicians and faithfully tried many so-called remedies advertised to cure this disease, without any material benefit, when a friend induced me to try your remedy, claiming others had been cured by it. The first bottle gave me the most pleasing results. I have continued its use and I can not say too much for it. It found me too near the grave for comfort and restored me to health again. It adorns my toilet stand and by using it occasionally I am kept well.

I would not be without it if it cost $25 per bottle. I earnestly recommend it to all my afflicted friends.

For Sale by leading Druggists.

PINT BOTTLES - - $1.00

Klinck Catarrh & Bronchial Remedy Co.,
82 JACKSON ST., CHICAGO, ILL.

CHUB.

A Romance of West Virginia.

BY DAVID LOWRY.

CHAPTER XXI.

CHUB'S LITTLE RUSE.

"It is plain the Monks have been misled by the paper they found on Dan's person. They think he has committed an offense or compromised himself in some manner."

"That's likely," said the sheriff.

"Now, to say he was trading with counterfeiters would mislead."

"Precisely, Miss. That was what they did it for."

"But it can be proved by a dozen witnesses that this same gang tried to kill him at the Corners when he came here first, or shortly after he had come here."

"You're knowing to the facts, I suppose," said the Sheriff.

Chub blushed.

"I happened there just in time to see them after they had rushed on him—four or five on one man."

"Sheriff," said Dan, shortly, "I wouldn't be alive now if it was not for the prompt interference of Belle, here. She came on us when they were trying to murder me. She brought the crowd to time with her rifle."

"I've heard tell of Chub Dawson's rifle" said the sheriff, glancing admiringly at Chub.

"It's a pretty sure rifle in Chub's hands," said her father, proudly.

"There's Eli Potts and his wife will swear they wanted to kill him. I'll swear it, too—and a good many more will swear it."

"That's important."

"I can prove it by one of their own gang—he has already confessed it in the presence of scores, that he was one of a party that waylaid Mr. Ross to kill him."

"Ah, you can swear it, too."

"Why, she saved my life that time, too, sheriff. It was the same day they attacked me at the Corners," said Dan.

"So that it will not be so difficult to prove they are lying, if it is necessary to do so."

"I reckon it will be, Miss."

"Now, here is my plan," said Chub. "You take Dan to prison; take him at least where they can see him in custody a little while. Half an hour or so. Then take him out of prison, to examine him, as it were.

"Then let them discover accidentally—by keepers or attendants whispering to each other—that everybody is surprised because Dan has confessed he had dealt in counterfeit money—but not in or near Pine County."

"I'm listening," said the sheriff.

"Have somebody near each Monk; close enough to hear all they say to each other. Give them opportunity to communicate with each other. Let them think Dan's transactions were with a member of their gang who is either out of the country, in prison serving his term, or dead."

"You have a wonderful head, Miss."

"They will put all the guilt on the missing or dead man, until——"

"We put it on one of themselves," said the sheriff.

"Exactly. I see you catch my meaning," said Chub. "You must surprise them a few hours later by telling them plainly one of the party in prison has made a complete breast of it."

"Then it'll be pull Dick, pull devil, for which can shirk the most of it."

"In that way, they will reveal all you want to know, and they will very soon acquit Dan of all complicity, while tangling themselves up in a snarl that will land them all in prison."

"That's a splendid plan. I'll follow your instructions to the letter, Miss Dawson."

"Do," said Chub.

"Make their own silly lie twist 'em off their feet," said Hank.

"That will be poetic justice," said Dan.

"That crowd's going to get justice, or else there aint any justice on tap in Pine County," said the sheriff, "but I reether think there is, and the Monks' get their full sheer."

The sheriff laughed softly now, and seemed in great good humor. "You'll be a willing prisoner now."

"I'll do anything to help place the scoundrels where they will not molest honest people," said Dan Ross.

"Yes, jest so—jest so. That's me, every time. Give us your hand, Mr. Ross. I'm proud to make your acquaintance."

So it was planned as Chub's keen wit suggested.

The Sheriff gave out, as he took Dan with him, that he was charged by the Monks with being in the same business they were said to be in.

To keep up the illusion, Hank Dawson and his daughter drove to the town in another and roundabout direction. Before nightfall it was known all through the district that something very mysterious was afloat. Dan Bash was arrested for dealing in counterfeit money, and the Monks were ready to prove he did, because he wanted to get some from them, but the little he had was not obtained from them, for they had none.

The news seemed to spread to the jail on the wind. Ten minutes after Dan was placed in jail, the Monk gang were discussing the story, giving details of his dealings with counterfeiters.

Everything proved the wisdom of Chub. The removal of Dan from the jail, after he was in it half an hour, had the desired effect.

When they learned that he had confessed his guilt, they were surprised at first, then they pretended it was just what they anticipated all along.

Just here I will remark, what was greatly to their credit, that the moment Si Sloan and Hi Perkins, the school directors, heard the Sheriff had arrested Dan, they hastened into town, and made a great ado. They were ready to fight for Dan, and were exceeding wroth with the jailer, the attendants, and especially with the Sheriff for not immediately setting Dan at large when they were prepared to go on Dan's bond.

The Sheriff kept the farce up finely. He was the devoted instrument—the arm and embodiment of law.

Si Sloan hinted that he could sling the Sheriff half way to the moon in a wrestling match.

Hi Perkins said he could jump over all the Walkers they could put in a line in Pine County.

The Sheriff solemnly rebuked them.

He did more.

By giving them admission to the jail, their frothing and fault-finding informed the Monk gang of every step in the plot to mislead them.

In fine, Chub's plot worked to a charm. When the Monks were informed—by sundry winks and whispers, and the grumbling that Sloan and Perkins kept up—that Squatty had told all—and more—that he knew, and that one other, whose name was not mentioned at first until the anger of the leaders was excited, had made a clean breast of the doings of the grang for years, then the Monks breathed fire and vengeance, alternated with statements that were instantly taken down in shorthand to be used against them.

Suffice it to say, the criminations and recriminations were so lavish that little more was left for the lawyers to do when they were placed on trial than to prove out of their own mouths the things that warranted their imprisonment. Their own confession, the tools found in their cabin beside the big rock, and the testimony of one or two victims, such as Eli Potts, was all that was required to satisfy the jury.

Their trial came off a few days after the supposed arrest of Dan Ross for complicity in their crimes.

They were one and all sentenced to the State's prison for twenty years.

Two counts were considered by the judge in imposing the sentence.

Should any of the gang outlive the term for which they have been imprisoned, they are liable to imprisonment on other counts.

When the trial was progressing, Si Sloan and Hi Perkins were told the truth by the sheriff, who laughed at them immoderately. As the story was told in the presence of Dan Ross and his father-in-law that would soon be, the directors turned to them for confirmation.

"If Chub was here she'd explain it all better than I can," said Hank Dawson.

"Then it's true, what the Sheriff says?"

Si Sloan was disgusted.

"I've a notion to go out and kick myself," he said. "Perkins, you and me's made jackasses of ourselves, and all the country'll be laughing at us."

"They've a right to," said Perkins. "Same time, Si, I'll ras'll any man as says it."

"Ill jump on the first man that throws it up to me," said Si.

"O, there's not many knows, or is likely ever to know the truth," said the Sheriff.

"Does—say, now, Sheriff—does Tom Biggers know it?" Sloan asked earnestly.

"Yes, Tom Walker, let us know the worst at once. Does Tom Biggers know the ins and outs of it? He's been here at the trial three hull days—from the beginning."

"No," said the Sheriff solemnly.

"Sheriff, we have lost confidence in you. You'll never catch us again."

Sloan turned to Dan Ross and Perkins to Hank Dawson.

"Nobody knows it but the lawyers and us three—Chub, Dan and me," said Hank Dawson.

"That's a relief, Si," said Perkins.

"Yes; if Tom Biggers knew it, it would be the death of us two, Hiram," said Si Sloan.

Then, as the trial was almost ended, the directors adjourned to refresh their inner man, and congratulate themselves upon the fact that Tom Biggers "didn't know what darned coots they'd been all along."

CHAPTER XXII.

A NOTEWORTHY EVENT.

When the trial that consumed three days was concluded, and Dan Ross, one of the most prominent if not the chief figure in the court-room, where his testimony was listened to breathlessly, returned to Hank Dawson's to "be on hand for the wedding this time," as Tom Biggers and the school directors laughingly said, Pine County had but one subject to talk about.

The events of the past week were published throughout the length and breadth of the land.

The newspapers were filled with the sayings and doings of the Monks. Their nefarious practices, long suspected but never fully understood by the people of the counties where they operated, were fully exposed—their method of making and circulating the counterfeit money laid bare to the public gaze.

Very naturally, the Government detective, Dan Bash, figured in all the accounts. His shrewdness and decision, his tact and courage, were the theme of the hour.

The peculiar characteristics of Hank Dawson were described at length, until Hank asked Eli Potts in confidence "if he wasn't enough of a public character now to run for President?"

Eli Potts said he thought they sometimes got worse material on Presidential tickets.

But the public gaze turned with tenfold more curiosity upon the young man whose extraordinary experiences and adventures made him the romantic figure in the trial. Dan Ross—his athletic exhibitions at the plowing match, his endurance when lying alone on the mountain side, his courage when in the hands of the ruffians who had decreed his death—these were the things that the public talked of unceasingly.

And beside this figure of a brave, accomplished, highly educated young man demonstrating his strength and energy, the public placed another—Chub, the rich blacksmith's daughter.

The men could not find words strong enough to voice their admiration of Belle Dawson; the women were enthusiastic when they spoke of the bearing of Dan Ross, "The Missing Bridegroom," who lived to turn the tables upon his cowardly captors and to enjoy the surprise he gave his most intimate friends when they discovered in Dan Bash, the missing bridegroom and schoolmaster, who became the object of the wrath of a gang of counterfeiters, their old schoolfellow, Dan Ross, who was the most accomplished athlete among five hundred students.

The citizens of Pine County deemed it incumbent upon them to demonstrate their gratitude to Chub Dawson and to the schoolmaster, who had been largely instrumental in bringing a gang of ruffians to justice.

This was the drift of public sentiment when the blacksmith of the Corners issued anew the invitations to his daughter's wedding, and prepared to celebrate the event in a manner unparalleled in that part of the State.

"Most people only get married once," said Hank Dawson. "I'm able to afford it, and just because Dan Ross was caught under a tree, and then fell into that gang's hands, and the marriage couldn't take place, that's just the reason I'm going to make it more enjoyable, and try to give everybody a chance to have a bigger time."

The enormous quantity of things that came to the Corners in boxes, barrels and sacks seemed to the wondering eyes of the people who frequented the Corners sufficient to stock a large grocery. The notes of preparation for the marriage echoed over three counties.

But now, when the truth was known to Dan Ross' relatives and friends, the occasion was to be graced by the presence of his mother and sisters and two younger brothers, who, with several of Dan's college mates, repaired to Pine County in due season.

When the afternoon arrived that was to see Belle Dawson married to Dan Ross, the Corners wore an appearance similar to that presented by a lively village on a gala day. The crowd that gathered there, and at the house, and on the grounds around Hank Dawson's farm house, was one of the jolliest gatherings that could be conceived.

State, county and township officials and their better halves were present. The wealth, intelligence and brawn of Pine County was there—and the beauty.

There were none there, however, that did not accord the palm to Belle, otherwise known to all her friends as Chub Dawson. The light-footed, quick-handed, roguish mountain beauty in her wedding dress was royal in her ease and beauty.

"Dan," said his sisters to the bridegroom, "you're fortunate. Belle will make a decided sensation at Newport. We never would have dreamed such a beauty could be found here."

"What did you think of my judgment then?" Dan whispered. "Did you think I had lost my appreciation of the finest things in the world? Wait, girls, when she drops her mountain 'chaff' and talks of the things she has read—and the things she likes—then you'll discover why I was attracted by 'Chub' Dawson. Her rare good sense—her accomplishments—charmed me fully as much as her splendid beauty."

"The music we had up to Chub Dawson's wedding was a leetle—just a leetle-mite ahead of anything I ever heard, and I've been to operas and theayters, too," said Tom Walker, the sheriff of Pine county, to a crowd of listeners, when he returned to the county town.

"There were sixteen musicians—half played at one time. When they tired the others began. Everybody was there. Upwards of four hundred, by actual count. We began dancing at 1 o'clock, kept it up till 5; then the preacher got up, married them in short order—didn't take more than ten minutes—then we sat down to a leetle the best dinner ever spread out of doors; the preacher cut the grace short, and when we got up, there was a beautiful concert—instrumental music with it, lots of cigars, oceans to drink, and about half past 7 the dancing began in earnest. Lord! The county treasurer danced every set and round dance—everything till plum 4 o'clock the next morning. I danced a few myself. Feel like as if I can't catch up again for a week. And there never was a jollier, happier man, in my opinion, than just Hank Dawson. Hanged if he didn't appear to be as happy as CHUB, OR THE MISSING BRIDEGROOM."

[THE END.]

Good Fruit Prospects.

After such a famine year for fruit as it was the lot of this country to suffer under last year, it is comforting to get these hopeful words from the Minneapolis Northwest Trade: Reports from fruit growing centers this spring are much more favorable to a large crop than last year at this time. Indeed, California, Southern Illinois, Michigan, New York, Maryland and the Peninsula give fairly flattering indications of a pretty good harvest unless climatic conditions should change in an unexpected and unusual way.

In Delaware especially the farmers and fruit growers who have recently visited Philadelphia are reported by the Record of that town to say that they have prospects of 7,000,000 baskets of peaches this year. In all the orchards the trees are loaded with buds, in a good healthy condition, and not too far advanced to be injured by any ordinary frost. The buds cling closely to the branches, and it takes considerable energy to knock them off. Old peach growers like ex-Gov. Biggs, the Cummins, John P. R. Polk, and Col. Wm. H. Burnite, look for one of the largest crops, from present appearances, that there has been on the Peninsula for years.

In any event it now seems quite improbable that there could be such a dearth of fruit as in the season of 1890.

Perfectly en Rapport with Nature.

My friend Comstock is a phrenologist, and the other day at the museum he drew my attention to a lady who was intently examining a case of beetles.

"Bones, do you see that woman? Note how intently she is examining the beetles in the case. So interested is she that she scarcely moves. She is evidently a student. Undoubtedly hers is a character perfectly en rapport with nature.

"Now, for instance, take the contour of that lady's head. The intellectual lobe, including both the reflective and perceptive groups, is of large size. Language is large, and I will wager the supper I can approach her and obtain a dissertation on the life and times of that skeleton mastodon. What do you think of that?"

"I'll take your wager," said I, seriously.

With a slight cough and the whispered command, "Watch me!" he drew near the object of his experiment and touched her on the shoulder.

"Madame," he began.

No answer.

"Excuse me, madame, but could you—"

At this point one of the museum employes called out:

"Say, don't handle them 'ere wax figures. You can talk to 'eal 1 you wants to, but don't touch 'em."—Chicago Figaro.

Small Waists.

English and American physicians, years ago, made tight-lacing unfashionable. But the mania for small waists is now so violent as to provoke the London Times to protest against the barbarous fashion:

"Ah! you go in for waists, I for figures," said a lady of truly artistic taste to a friend who tight-laced. When will the ladies learn that small waists have in them no beauty? The number of deformed-looking girls and women is a sorrowful sight for the artist or the doctor.

The odious custom appears to be more prevalent than ever; and what is gained by cruel torture and the loss of health? Certainly not beauty. Some of these silly barbarians are young enough to be under the authority of parents.

Surely parents who care for their children's lives should peremptorily forbid tight-lacing. The corset is in itself a perfectly needless article of apparel for straight and strong girls. You might as well brace a young poplar in a coat of mail.

The Word She Knew.

The other day as a joke-loving young woman was being escorted through the Barge Office by Col. Weber she insisted on conversing with every one of the immigrants of whatever nationality. This was somewhat of a tax on the gallant Colonel's linguistic powers. At last they came to a great, hulking girl, to whom the lady wished to talk.

"But this is a Russian girl," said Col. Weber. "I can't talk to her."

"Oh, I know one Russian word," said the young woman. "Just say 'Dushenka' to her."

So the obliging Colonel leaned over and said "Dushenka."

The girl flushed scarlet, put one finger in her mouth and laughed—a foolish, sheepish laugh.

"What does that word mean?" asked the Colonel suspiciously.

"It means 'darling,'" coolly replied his companion.—New York Recorder.

Seven Millions on a Square Mile.

A statistician says: "Few are aware of the vast number of people that can be placed on a small tract of ground. When we speak of millions of men we are apt to picture to ourselves an almost boundless mass of humanity; yet a million of people, standing closely together, each not occupying more than four square feet, could be placed on a patch but little more than a third of a mile square. A square mile will accommodate 7,965,000. At that rate the whole population of the United States would hardly cover nine miles square, and the whole population of the world could stand on two townships."

The Crow Must Go.

Several counties in Michigan have voted a bounty this spring on every crow which the farmer's boy can kill. Let them consult Audubon, and they will discover that every crow benefits the farmer $25 worth where he takes one for his keep. A crowless country has always been noted by land-lookers as a poor district for agriculture.

HUMOR.

He Wasn't.

"I suppose," said she, glancing at the clock, "that like other boys you fought many battles at school, and that when you were once in a fight you stayed in it till you won."

"No," said he, candidly, "I used to get out of fights as quickly as possible."

"Well, now," she observed, with another glance at the clock, "I should think you would have been a stayer."

"No, I wasn't."

And to show that he wasn't a stayer he took his hat and went.—Cape Cod Item.

The Man from Romulus.

"I left Romulus at 10 o'clock this morning," he began to say to the policeman on the corner.

"Where's Remus?" interrupted the facetious cop, who was also somewhat of a classic.

"Remus? There ain't no Remus," he said, with a puzzled look.

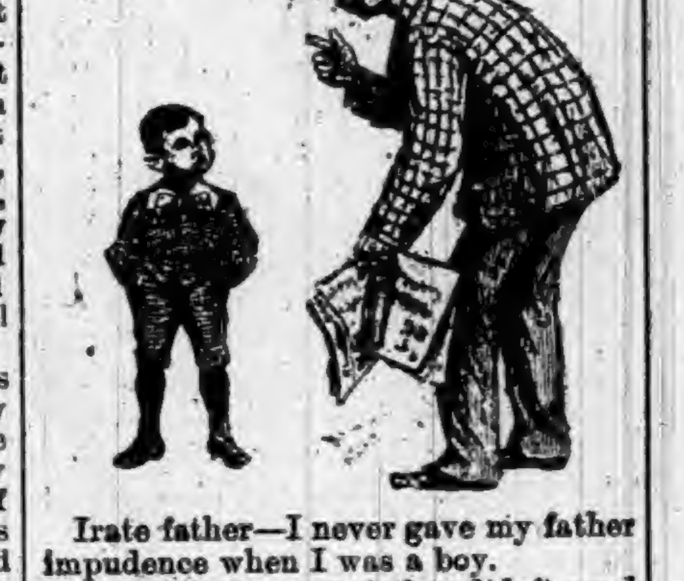
"Yes, there is, too. Didn't you ever hear of Romulus and Remus?"

"Never heerd of Remus. No."

"What, never heard of the twins the she wolf suckled?"

"Twins nothin'," he exclaimed. "You don't know what you are talking about. There ain't no Remus, and Romulus is the town out here on the railroad where I live. You'd better study up on your jography, before you try to learn strangers anything." And he left the policeman paralyzed.—Free Press.

Didn't Need It.



Irate father—I never gave my father impudence when I was a boy.

Son—Maybe your father didn't need it.—Life.

A Neighborly Neighborhood.

Mr. Goodheart (a suburban resident)—"Good morning! What can I do for you this bright and beautiful spring morning?"

First Neighbor—"I noticed you hadn't begun making garden yet, and I thought I'd just step over and borrow your spade."

Mr. Goodheart—"Certainly—certainly. Here it is. Good-day."

Second neighbor—"How do, Mr. Goodheart! Will you let me have your hoe for a few minutes?"

Mr. Goodheart—"Y-e-s. Certainly."

Third Neighbor—"Good-morning. I see Mr. Spinks has your spade and Mr. Pinks has just passed me with your hoe, and as you can't do anything with a rake without a spade and hoe to break the ground, I concluded I might just as well drop in and borrow your rake. Thanks."

Fourth Neighbor—"I see you are not making any use of your wheelbarrow, and——"

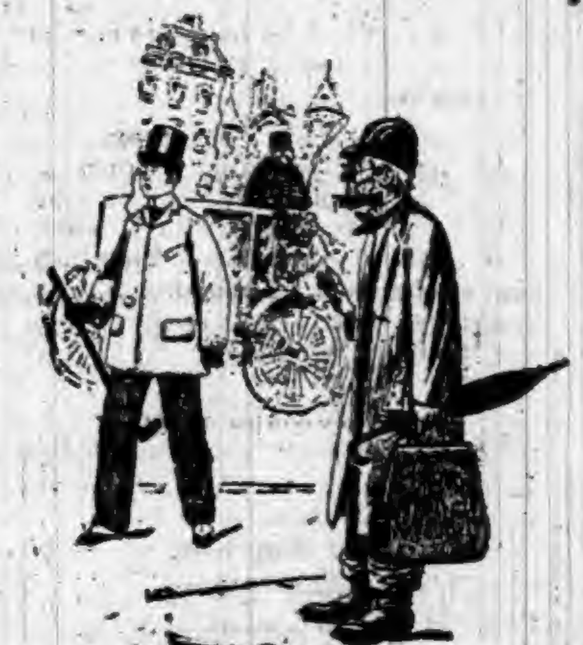
Mr. Goodheart—"I will need the wheelbarrow the moment I begin making garden."

Neighbor—"Oh, yes, of course. But you can't make garden without a spade and hoe and rake, you know, and I'll rush back with the wheelbarrow quick as I see the spade coming back. Thanks."

Mr. Goodheart—"Now, don't forget that I'll need this wheelbarrow just as soon as Mr. Spinks comes back with my spade."

Fourth Neighbor—"Oh, I'll have plenty of time to get through with the barrow. Spinks told me he'd be busy with your spade for a month."—New York Weekly.

On Fifth Avenue.



Uncle Hiram—Well, begosh, if he ain't the most absent-minded man I've ever seen! Just see where he has put his cuffs! Around his ankles! Phew!—Puck.

A Very Pitiful Case.

Young Nicely—Oh, I am feeling desperately ill.

Bulfinch—Why, what is the matter with you?

Nicely—Well, I went to the Nogoods' dinner to-night, and they did not have enough oyster forks to go around; and I had to eat mine with a common fork.

Men Behind Dress Goods Counters.

If you have done much shopping you must have noticed that more men than women are employed at the dress goods counters. It occurred to the writer to ask if there was any reason for this. The manager replied, just as if he had been expecting some one to ask the question, "There are several reasons for it. Women do not like to take the say-so of their own sex on dress goods; men have better ideas of combination than women; men are more diplomatic in dealing with women than saleswomen are. A saleswoman can accomplish more at some other counter than men. But at the dress goods counter men make the best employes. You would naturally think that a woman could grab up a piece of goods and show it to advantage. I never saw one that could do it. Few women are good judges of combinations of colors on the counter. A modiste is, of course, but a woman cannot always have a modiste with her when she goes shopping. Men who are in the business take to a thing like combining colors as naturally as ducks take to water. They seem to know as soon as they see a woman what will become her in the way of dress goods. There are many articles in such a store as this which women prefer to buy of their own sex, but when it comes to dress goods they prefer to deal with men."—Chicago Tribune.

PLEASURE BOATS
—AND—
CANOES.

Oars, rowlocks, paddles, masts, spars, sails, blocks, cleats, anchors, etc., etc., etc.

$30 A BOAT FOR —TO— $300

THE PLEASURE BOATS OF AMERICA!

DON'T BUY ELSEWHERE until you see my catalogue for 1891; send 5-cent stamp for it.

J. H. RUSHTON, Canton, N. Y.
N. Y. CITY SALESROOM,
H. C. SQUIRES, 178 BROADWAY.

The greatest improvement in Corsets during the past twenty years is the use of Coraline in the place of horn or whalebone. It is used in all of Dr. Warner's Corsets and in no others.

The Advantages of Coraline over horn or whalebone are that it does not become set like whalebone, and it is more flexible and more durable.

Dr. Warner's Coraline Corsets are made in twenty-four different styles, fitting every variety of figures—thin, medium, stout, long waists and short waists.

Sold everywhere.

WARNER BROS., Mfrs.,
New York and Chicago.

WANTED experienced and efficient agents to sell line of desirable household articles. Terms liberal, agents make money selling them. Samples furnished prepaid: Holder, 15c., cleaner, 10-inch 15c.; Fasteners, bronze 5c., nickel, 7c. BOURKE MFG. CO., Youngstown, O.

I CURE FITS!

When I say CURE I do not mean merely to stop them for a time, and then have them return again. I MEAN A RADICAL CURE. I have made the disease of

FITS, EPILEPSY or FALLING SICKNESS,

A life-long study. I WARRANT my remedy to CURE the worst cases. Because others have failed is no reason for not now receiving a cure. Send at once for a treatise and a FREE BOTTLE of my INFALLIBLE REMEDY. Give Express and Post Office. It costs you nothing for a trial, and it will cure you. Address

H. G. ROOT, M.C., 183 PEARL ST., NEW YORK

Jackson
Favorite Waist

HAS STYLE
SUPPORTS BACK AND SPINE.
GIVES COMFORT AND EASE.

Adjustable shoulder straps, soft button fronts or ordinary clasps.

HYGIENIC, HEALTHFUL, BOON TO WOMEN.

FOR SALE BY ALL DEALERS, OR SENT POST PAID FOR $1.10
State size and if white or drab is desired. ALWAYS ADDRESS THE

Coronet Corset Co., JACKSON, MICH.

"IRON IS KING"

Brown's
IRON AND QUININE Bitters

IS THE
KING OF TONICS!

IRON QUININE GENTION FOR THE BLOOD NERVES STOMACH.

BLOOD MAKER AND NERVE STRENGTHENER.

BEST BITTERS ever offered the public and a thoroughly reliable tonic and health restorer and cannot fail to give tone and vigor to the whole system by purifying the blood, strengthening the bones, muscles and nerves, and restoring in a wonderful degree the health and vigor of youth.

EVERY BOTTLE WARRANTED.
PRICE $1.00.
N. K. Brown & Co.,
BURLINGTON, VT.

BETHESDA

Cures Diabetes and Bright's Disease.

RECOMMENDED AND USED BY

Hon. CHAS. FOSTER, Secretary of Treasury.
Hon. J. M. RUSK, Secretary of Agriculture.
Hon. GEO. R. DAVIS, Director General World's Fair, Chicago.
DR. SHRADY, New York City.
Prof. AGASSIZ, Cambridge, Mass.
FRANKLIN MacVEACH, Chicago.
CLEM. STUDEBAKER, South Bend, Ind.

A Pure, Refreshing, Health-Giving Water, so delicately proportioned in mineral qualities by nature as to make it agreeable and wholesome in health, and in cases of Diabetes and Bright's Disease more benefit will be derived from it in twenty-four hours than in three months from any medicine known to science.

Write for Pamphlet. BETHESDA MINERAL SPRING CO., Waukesha, Wis.

MOST POPULAR BUGGY ON WHEELS

SINGLE CENTER SPRING.

POINTS

- Body always level.
- Load distributed at five points on rear axle.
- Gear, best grade steel throughout.
- Spring, long and elastic, makes easiest riding wagon made.
- Runs easy because it always tracks.
- 30 pounds lighter than a side bar.
- Superior first-class wagon.
- Made of choicest materials.
- Spring and Gear guaranteed two years.

Vehicles of every style made on this Spring.

BUSINESS MEN'S COMPANION."

CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION. AGENTS WANTED.

Defies Competition for Rough Roads. SINGLE CENTER SPRING CO., EVANSVILLE, INDIANA.

For WEAK AND DEBILITATED MEN.

A NEW DISCOVERY! —BY— DR. ALBERT. TESTICURA EXTERNOSUM

AFTER years of experience in the leading Hospitals of the World, and as a Private Specialist in the treatment of Sexual Weakness, DR. ALBERT has finally been induced to place before the afflicted at a nominal expense, this

WONDERFUL REMEDY!

An Outward Application

TESTICURA EXTERNOSUM For the Cure of Seminal Weakness, Impotency, Nocturnal Emissions, Varicocele, and Lack of Development.

Cure by Absorption.

TESTICURA EXTERNOSUM Applied direct to the parts. No Nauseous Drugs that Ruin the Stomach. Guaranteed Cure, or Money Refunded.

No Nauseous Drugs.

A PERFECT RESTORATION GUARANTEED.

Sent to any part of the U. S., securely packed, free from observation, upon receipt of $2.00.

For full information, address enclosing 4 cents postage,
The ALBERT MEDICAL DISPENSARY, Cleveland, O.

AUDITOR'S ANNUAL REPORT

—OF—

Receipts and Expenditures

—FOR THE—

Year Ending May 31, 1891.

To the Honorable the Board of Commissioners of DeKalb County, Indiana.

GENTLEMEN:—I herewith present you my annual report of the receipts and expenditures and the financial condition of DeKalb County, Indiana, for the fiscal year, ending May 31, 1891, to-wit:

COUNTY REVENUE.

Balance in treasury June 1 1890	$ 6 483.82
Received from tax duplicate of 1889	27 512.00
Received from tax duplicate of 1890	33 476.21
Received from ditch tax	4 270.10
Received from all other sources	3 612.27
		$75 354.40
Orders redeemed during the year	$71 279.01
Balance in treasury June 1, 1891	4 075.39
		$75 354.40

FINANCIAL CONDITION OF THE COUNTY.

Orders outstanding June 1, 1890		$49 904.40
During the year ending May 31, 1891, warrants were drawn on treasury, viz:
For fees and salaries	$ 7 246.91
For court	6 141.45
For miscellaneous	3 053.56
For poor	7 180.74
For insane	492.87
For criminals	1 220.25
For public buildings	2 227.42
For inquests	185.20
For roads and bridges	17 729.89
For books, stationery and printing	2 955.12
For assessing	1 813.35
For elections	2 382.50
For interest on county orders	4 376.57
For benevolent institutions	227.26
For ditches	15 015.67	$ 72 248.85
		$122 153.25
Of which there has been redeemed during the year		71 279.01
Orders now outstanding		$ 50 874.24
Cash now in treasury		4 075.39
Net indebtedness of county May 31, 1891		$ 46 798.85

COUNTY REVENUE.

Total amount of orders drawn during the year	$ 72 248 85
Total amount of receipts for year as shown above	68 870 58
Expense in excess of receipts		$ 3 378 27

BALANCE SHEET.

Balance June 1, 1890	Total R'cts including balance.	FUNDS.	Disbursed.	Balance.
	$ 9 885 85	State	$ 9 885.85
	13 005.16	State School	13 005.16
	348.48	State University	348.48
$ 6 483.82	75 354.40	County	71 279.01	$ 4 075.39
	7 455.20	Township	7 455.20
	15 208.95	Tuition	15 208.95
	18 223.96	Special School	18 223.96
	11 001.01	Road	11 001.01
	4 235.83	Special Road	4 235.83
	3 009.84	Additional Special School	3 009.84
	783.23	Bond Sinking Fund	783 23
	2 982.41	Corporation	2 982.41
	691.82	Street Lighting	691.82
	834.38	Refunded School Debt	834.38
	78.02	Special Dog	78.02
	1 308.71	Dog	1 308.71
		MISCELLANEOUS & TRUST FUNDS.
50.50	1 130.96	Cong. School Fund Principal	1 130.00	.96
42.83	5 349.44	Com. School Fund Principal	5 345.00	4.44
803.90	2 999.05	Cong. School Fund Interest	2 725.05	274.00
2 521.10	6 338.91	Com. School Fund Interest	6 106.07	232.84
5.40	18 740.27	State School Revenue	18 740.27
2.34	147.90	Redemption of Land	97.50	50.40
1 976.52	5 176.52	Liquor License	3 200.00	1 976.52
89.08	144.88	County Dog Fund	132.20	12.68
	30.00	Agricultural Fund	30.00
$11 925.49	$ 204 465.18		$ 197 837.95	$ 6 627.23

Respectfully submitted this 5th day of June, 1861.

H. N. COFFINBERRY, Auditor DeKalb County, Indiana.

By F. A. BORST, Deputy.

Examined and approved this 6th day of June, 1891.

JOHN HOFFELDER,
JAMES M. HENDERSON, Commissioners.
G. I. PATTERSON,

THE NEW CLOTHING STORE IS NOW -:READY:- FOR THE SPRING BUSINESS!

With the largest stock of Men's Wearing Apparel ever shown in Auburn. Men's Spring Suits and Overcoats that are

Equal to Custom Made!

Prince Alberts, Sacks, Cutaways and Frocks, and every other style in all the newest shapes. In

GENTS' FURNISHINGS HATS, CAPS, Gloves, Underwear, Etc.,

Our Stock is complete. We also have a nice line of samples to select from for

CUSTOM ORDERED GARMENTS,

which, in point of fit and workmanship cannot be surpassed by any in the country. Do not fail to examine our NEW STOCK OF STRAW HATS that are very beautiful. We also carry a nice line of

TRUNKS AND VALISES!

THE BOSTON CLOTHING STORE.

One Price and the Truth.

AUBURN - - IND.

THE AUBURN COURIER

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY.

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post-office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY............JUNE 18, 1891.

QUITE a boom is starting for Gen. Alger, of Michigan, for republican candidate for president.

GOODS smuggled in at San Francisco, have been traced to officers on two of our National ships.

THE majority of the new county superintendents are democrats. This is as it should be, as our splendid school system is in the main, the result of democratic legislation.

ANTI-HARRISON republican leaders from several states met at Indianapolis, last week. It is believed they are working for either Blaine or Gresham—any-one to beat Harrison.

NATIONAL Educational Association meets at Toronto, Canada, this year, July 14 to 17. Railroads will give low rates. Write to H. J. Hill, at Toronto, for information.

Annual Financial Report.

The auditor's annual report which we publish this week, shows as we predicted a week or two ago, that there would be an increase of the county debt. It was evident this would be the case, as soon as it was found last summer, that the commissioners had to build so many bridges. They have built ten during the year, five of iron, two combination of wood and iron and three wooden bridges. The iron bridges all had stone abutments, and one combination bridge had the same. These, while they will last for ages, are very expensive. The iron bridges have a span respectively of 112 feet, 100, 75, 55, and 50 feet. One combination bridge is 80 feet and the other 44 feet. The wooden bridges are 100, 50 and 40 feet respectively. Then there have been several other bridges repaired during the year. The total bridge expense for the year foots up $17,729.89 as against $10,481.46 the year before. The prospects are that this expense for the coming year will be small. Another item in last year's account was the expense of the election; the coming year there will be no election. Under the old law, the election expense was paid by the township; and now it is paid by the county. The next election will not be as expensive, as the booths, ballot boxes, etc., are now all paid for. But looking back at the work of last year, and estimating the probable expense of the coming year, we believe we shall be able to pay quite a handsome sum on the county debt by the time of the next annual settlement say $6,000 to $10,000.

Communion at Cedar Lake.

The regular communion services of the German Baptist church were held last week Thursday June 11, at the church north of Commissioner Patterson's in Richland township. The meeting had been appointed for sometime and a general invitation extended, and it proved a most fraternal and enjoyable meeting. There were present ten elders and ministers from adjoining districts, and a large congregation. Three able sermons were preached during the day. They partook of the Lord's supper according to the gospel, as the brethren practise it. There were present about 130 communicants, and of those who partook of the usual hospitalities of the brethren, there were not less than 250. The tables had been arranged for 128, and they were set three times. These meetings are seasons of spiritual refreshment, and are like showers that revive, refresh and strengthen the vegetation of our fields in seasons of summer heat. The meeting will remain a pleasant spot in the memory of the brethren and all who met there with them.

Got Left.

And the buggy was left also. Frank Eckhart and George McKay, started out Tuesday morning to deliver a buggy for the Eckhart factory to Uncle Anthony Zonker up in Fairfield. They were in a covered carriage and the new buggy was tied on behind. They passed leisurely through town talking, but forgot to look back. Just after they had left Seventh street and started north on Main, the new buggy by some means came loose and stopped and took a rest. The forward buggy with the two young men kept right on in utter obliviousness of the admiring crowd that had noticed the occurrence, and whose eyes were following them up the street, and out and far away into the country. The deserted buggy was tenderly cared for by friendly hands, and the crowd settled down to the steady business of watching for the return of the wanderers. In the meantime the two young men were having a nice visit as they drove along the smooth roads and past shady trees till Mr. Zonker's beautiful farm house was reached. "Here, come out Uncle Anthony," shouted the young men in chorus, "come out and look at your buggy, the nicest in the state." Mr. Zonker came down to the road deliberately, shading his eyes with his hand, for the sun was very hot. "Glad to see you boys, but I don't see no buggy," was Mr. Zonker's greeting. "What's the matter with you, now," said the boys, "that you can't see a buggy hitched right on be—. They didn't say "hitched on behind," for they cast a look backward—away down the road—for there was nothing to prevent them from seeing clear to Auburn. About ten a. m. "two solitary horsemen might be seen wending their way" into Auburn, as novelists say. They went over to the great factory east of town. There they were told that they had really started out with one of the best of the excellent carriages made there and must account for it or perish. Then back to town they came, and the buggy was rescued for them, from the yard back of Sommer's saloon, to which point it had "wandered," in the long hours it had to wait with nothing to do. The COURIER being a "moral paper" ought to be able to discover the "moral" to this story; but so far it has not, unless it be, "eternal vigilance is a great thing in the buggy business."

ADDITIONAL LOCAL.

Old Mrs. Jerry Plum is very sick.

Mrs. Wm. Crane is visiting friends in Toledo.

Casebeer & Matheny for wall paper and paper and paints. 19tf

Try our perfumes the best in the market, Robbins & McCord.

Mrs. Com. Urie was here over Sunday visiting her sister, Mrs. Cuppy.

The largest line of wall paper in the city will be found at City Book Store.

If you want strictly pure mixed paints call at Casebeer & Matheny's drugstore.

PIANOS & ORGANS on easy terms. Address, Davis & Husselman, Waterloo, Ind.

The L. L. C. meets this week with Mabel Hartman, Lesson from page 181 to 191.

Dr. S. B. Johnson, dentist, will be in his office at Waterloo on Thursday of each week.

Write Prof. Harrison or Coe in regard to the Auburn Normal, or if you can, call and see them.

Miss Neva Bell, of Detroit, made a flying visit here over Sunday with Mr. and Mrs G. H. Yesbera.

Dr. W. E. Newton of Ligonier was here this week in consultation with Dr. Buchtel, in some difficult cases.

Commissioners' meet in special session next Monday the 22nd to accept final reports on ditches and for similar work.

The members of Rebekah Lodge are requested to be present at the hall Wednesday evening June 24, on special business.

Mrs. W. H. Dirrim has been ill for a long time but is slowly improving. She is at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Picker.

Ruth, the year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Davenport died yesterday forenoon of brain fever. The funeral is this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

A few dollars invested in screen doors will add greatly to your comfort during the hot months of summer. J. Beuret has them, and don't you forget it. 19tf

Frank Blattner is back from Seattle, Washington, arriving here Monday. We understand he will be here only long enough to settle up some business matters.

Josiah Teeters and James Hoffman and wife, came home from Lafayette last week for the summer vacation. Mr. Teeters thinks of going to Princeton, N. J., next year.

The place to buy twine cheap is at Brown & Culbertson's. Tariff all off and most of the profit. Full stock of repairs for the McCormick, Esterly, Empire and other machines. 27

St. Joe News: "Maud Williams and Grace Zimmerman, two bright Auburn misses, attended the convention this week, and remained a day or two to visit with friends."

C. P. Houser is marketing some of the very finest strawberries we have seen. They are chiefly of the variety known as the "Bubach" very large, well shaped and delicious.

Children's day will be observed next Sunday at the Presbyterian church by an appropriate sermon in the forenoon and the usual children's entertainment in the evening.

Kindergarten work will be a special feature of Mr. Kriebel's normal school at Butler, and those who feel the need of training in this valuable method, should correspond with him as to terms, etc.

Steam engine and boiler for sale. Engine 45 H. P., boiler 55 H. P. Engine has been rebored and refitted, boiler in good shape. Can be seen at Gavitt & Goodwin's machine shop, Waterloo, Ind. 23-25

Great tumble in Thomas rakes and tedders of which Brown & Culbertson have a car load. Go and see them or their agents at Auburn or their sub agents at Butler, St Joe or Hudson. 26

The C. L. S. C. will meet next Saturday afternoon with Mrs. Henry. Program; Walks and talks, Mrs. Plum; Classic French course in English, Mrs. Clifton; The Irishman at home, Mrs. McKay; England in the Islands of the Sea, Mrs. Raut.

Rev. J. N. Wilson was here this week. He is located at Fayette, Ohio, pastor of the Christian church. He and his family like the place. He says the Bevier sisters are doing well, Libbie teaching in the graded schools, and Annie in charge of the millinery business.

Are you aware of the fact that Beuret is handling one of the finest lines of screen doors, window screens, etc. Well, he is, and those wishing to keep out the pesky flies and insects during the summer months, will find that he has the very screen that will keep 'em out. 19tf

Ira Brandon, the hustling grocer at the North Side, has added a new feature to his business. He will hereafter have fresh fish on sale Friday and Saturday of each week. Those wishing to invest their money in the finny tribe, will find his prices and goods up to the standard. 20tf

D. Z. Hoffman had all his children at home over Sunday, the first full family meeting in ten years. James Hoffman and wife, were home from Purdue, Irvin, back from the south, and the "Squire," M. L. Hoffman, came up from Butler township—these, with Flora and Oscar already at home, made a pleasant meeting. Possibly, one of them repeated, "We are all—all here." It would have been appropriate and appreciated.

Auburn pioneers and in fact, many others, will read our pioneer chapter this week, with increased interest. And all will find familiar names in our list of licenses and weddings for 1849. The first five on the list are especially well known. As our notes show these records are in the handwriting of Major Sprott, as county clerk. It should be noted that "L. P." attached to some of the ministers' names, means "licensed preacher," "M. of G." is the way they signed "minister of the gospel," and "V. D. M." as some of them signed, we suppose was the old form for nearly the same thing (Verbi Dei Minister, Latin for minister of the world of God.) "B. C." appears to mean "Baptist church.

We are now located in our new room south of the jail on Ninth street and cordially invite all to come and see us. Especially those who desire to buy a first-class threshing outfit or reversible road grader and leveler, or heavy machinery of any kind. We handle nothing but the best of machinery and guarantee satisfaction in every respect. We handle the celebrated goods of J. I. Case threshing machine company, the best engine and thresher on earth. Also the celebrated sawmill and heavy engines. Also the Western reversible road grader and leveler, the champion of the world. Will do more work and better work than any other road grader made, and we invite competition. Come and see us and be convinced. Heberling & Caruth 27t3 Auburn, Ind.

Auburn fair begins Sept. 7.

See business notice of J. Wm. Wagner, Garrett.

The Rebekah girls went to Hamilton yesterday.

Mrs. Clint Potter has been visiting her father Geo. Maxwell at Corunna.

Alvin Baker has sold his neat residence to Mrs. Bolender's daughter from north of Garrett.

Anise Leas was at Ann Arbor over Sunday, returning yesterday. She visited Mrs. A. S. Leas and family.

Flora Jones and Zadie Wallace of Columbia City, came over yesterday and are guests of the COURIER folks.

County Assessor Kutzner has appointed R. N Crooks assistant. A good choice. They have begun work.

Prof. Sanders of Warsaw, formerly at Butler, has been elected president of Otterbein University, at Westerville, O

Mrs. John Sheffer died at her home near town yesterday, after a long illness. Funeral here at M. E. church at 2 p. m. to-day.

Will Kessler and wife, are to be congratulated on the birth of a little boy Monday evening. Will's cigars will be more popular than ever.

The work in the classes to be formed by Miss Hoffman and Miss Hartman will be valuable. We hope to see many take advantage of this chance.

Hats! Hats! Hats! Great reduction sale at Cowan Sisters' Thursday June 18. You will find us ready to give the very bottom prices in everything in our line.

Alvin Baker and wife, residing on East Ninth street report the arrival of a strange little boy Tuesday morning. On second thought they have concluded to let him stay. They are bound to keep even with Will Kessler.

The COURIER was a little rattled last week on the baby question. Mr. Rickel's case came off Wednesday, Marion Willis' Friday, and not as we had it. We back down this time, but they must come to our terms next time.

Mabel Hartman will use in her physical culture, the Delsarte system of gymnastics. And for strength and physical training, dumb bells, Indian clubs, etc. Special attention will be given to class work, with a thorough study of Julius Cæsar and pantomimic action.

The L. L. C. had a pleasant meeting at the Swineford House last Saturday, ending with a fine supper. Among the enjoyable feature, was the reading of a letter from Mrs. Ensley, who had written from Indianapolis. Mrs. Davenport was able to attend the first time in a year.

Miss Millie Hurni was married Tuesday evening at her parents' residence in Auburn, to Mr John Marker, Rev. A. S. Wooton, of the M. E. church officiating. The young couple are very worthy people, and have our heartiest good wishes. The groom is in the employ of Kessler Brothers, at the cigar factory. The bridal party sat down to a fine supper at Salyer's popular restaurant after the ceremony was over.

Children's Day, at 1st M. E. Church, Sunday Morning, June 21.

MORNING.

1 Anthem.
2 Hymn by Congregation.
3 Scripture and Prayer, by W. L. Meese.
4 Hymn, by Congregation.
5 Address, "Trained Christian Workers the Demand our Times," Prof. C. M. Merica.
6 Anthem
7 Address, "The Opportunities of Higher Education for Christian Youth," Prof. H. E. Coe.
8 Hymn
9 Address, by the Pastor.

EVENING.

At night the exercises will be in charge of the Sunday school. The school will present "The Pearl of Gatherers" No pains will be spared to make the exercises pleasant and profitable. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

"The Fair".

J. W. Wagner, of Garrett, having disposed of his other business respectfully announces that he will give his entire time and attention to his extensive variety and novelty store, and cordially invites everybody to call and see his bargains in glass, china and tinware, wooden and willow-ware, choice baby carriages, hammocks, bird cages, pocket knives, table and teaspoons, knives and forks, handkerchiefs, towels, tablecloths, lamps, brushes,—in short, an endless variety of household necessities and novelties at prices at least twenty per cent less than at any retail store in Chicago. When you go to Garrett do not fail to call at "THE FAIR,"
Opera House Block.

Date of County Institute.

The date of the county institute at the May meeting of the County Board of Education was fixed for August 31. Supt. Merica finding it very difficult to secure suitable workers for that date and being urged by several of the trustees to postponed the institute to a later date, He has conferred with all that the change would seriously affect, but finds the change very unsatisfactory. Waterloo favors the change, while the other three towns strenuously object. The township trustees are less decided, but the majority favor the early date. The institute then, if suitable instructors can be engaged, will be held August 31, to Sept 4, inclusive.

Court.

In the Willis lumber case that was on last week the jury after 22 hours gave a verdict of $755 against Willis. The case of Crays vs Vogtman, Crays got $85 damage. This was for arresting him at the fair while he was running a hack. He had taken out license with the fair and the town wanted another license fee and arrested him. He sued for lost time and money. Adjourned till Friday.

Notice to Those Interested in Lumber.

I want it understood, that I do not belong to the Indiana Lumberman's Association or combination to keep up prices and will sell lumber witout regard to what the prices fixed by that combination may be.

E. KUHLMAN,
Near Wabash Depot, Auburn, Ind.

Town Lots for Sale.

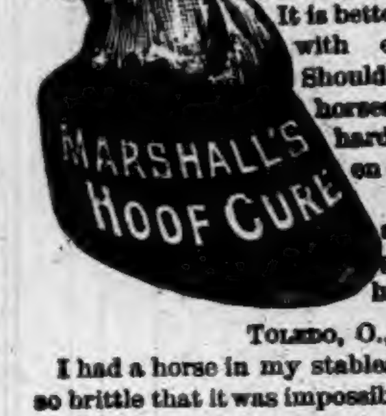
Very desirable residence lots for sale at reasonable terms. Thirteen lots in the S. W. Ralston Addition south of the High school grounds. Also a fractional lot on West Seventh street, All in a good locality. Inquire of Mrs. S. W. Ralston or A. J. Ralston.

ALAS!

How wretched is the man who has fallen a victim to Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, or diseased Liver, with all the horrible attendants. Look upon the picture. Poor man, being tired of dragging out a miserable existence, he is the picture of despondency; altogether, he is rather a forlorn specimen. Do we pity him? Of course; but at the same time feel assured that in a measure he is to blame for the bad state into which he has fallen. A sure, safe, speedy and easy cure can be found in Simmons Liver Regulator—Nature's own remedy. No mercury or deleterious drugs, not unpleasant to the taste, and always reliable—just such a remedy as you can pin your faith to without a shadow of disappointment. Read the testimonial, don't take our word for it:

"I have been subject to severe spells of Congestion of the Liver, and have been in the habit of taking from 15 to 20 grains of calomel, which generally laid me up for three or four days. Lately I have been taking Simmons Liver Regulator which gave me relief, without any interruption to business." J. HUGG, Middleport, Ohio.

J. H. ZEILIN & CO.,
Sole Proprietors, PHILADELPHIA, PA.
PRICE, $1.00.



MARSHALL'S HOOF CURE cures sand and quarter cracks, split hoofs, sore and contracted feet, corns and all hoof troubles. Stops cracking, shelling and scaling hoofs. Softens and toughens brittle hoofs. It is better than soaking with oil, meal, etc. Should be used on all horses standing on hard floors or driven on hard roads. It also cures scratches, tetter, galls of all kinds, bruises, etc.

TOLEDO, O., April 6, 1891.

I had a horse in my stables that had hoofs so brittle that it was impossible to keep a shoe on his feet. I have used one can of Marshall's Hoof Cure on his hoofs and the horse has been shod for four weeks and the shoes stay on all right. I consider it the best hoof cure I have ever used.

JOSEPH POPP, Liveryman.

Sold by CASEBEER & MATHENY.

THOUSANDS OF WOMEN

Become afflicted and remain so suffering untold miseries from a sense of delicacy they cannot overcome.

BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR,

by stimulating and arousing to healthy action all her organs,

ACTS AS A SPECIFIC.

It causes health to bloom on the cheek, and joy to reign throughout the frame. It never fails to cure.

The Best Medicine ever Made for Women.

"My wife has been under treatment of leading physicians three years, without benefit. After using three bottles of BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR she can do HER OWN COOKING, MILKING AND WASHING.

N. S. BRYAN, Henderson, Ala.

BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., Atlanta, Ga. Sold by druggists at $1.00 per bottle.

F. E. DAVENPORT,
Auburn, Ind.

NEW GOODS.

ALL WOOL

PLAIN AND PLAID

Serges, Henriettas, Cashmeres, Domet and Zephyr Flannels, Criterion Ginghams, Calicos, Muslins, Tickings, Toweling, Table Linens,

WHITE —and— BLACK

Goods, Ribbons, Buttons Handkerchiefs, Hosiery, Gloves Underwear, Silk Umbrellas.

Call and See

New Goods.

MRS. M. JONES & SON.

McElree's Wine of Cardui and THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT are for sale by the following merchants in DeKalb Co.:

Robbins & McCord,	Auburn,
F. E. Davenport,	"
J. D. Campbell,	Waterloo,
Willis & Co.,	"
Geo. Kehrer,	Butler,
S. G. Stone,	"
O. P. Raber,	Corunna,
W. M. Mercer,	"
J. M. Lefern,	Garrett,
Patterson Bros.,	St. Joe,
J. W. Wyatt,	Concord.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

By virtue of a certified copy of a decree to me directed from the Clerk of the DeKalb circuit court, in a cause wherein Jacob B. Casebeer is plaintiff and Asa John and Hannah John are defendants, requiring me to make the sum of seven hundred twelve dollars and eighteen cents, with interest on said decree and costs, I will expose at Public Sale, to the highest bidder, on Saturday, June 20th, 1891,

between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m., and 4 o'clock p. m., of said day, at the door of the Court House in Auburn, DeKalb county, Indiana, the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years, of the following real estate to-wit:

The southwest quarter of the northwest quarter of section twenty (20) in township thirty-four (34) north, of range fourteen (14) east. Situated in DeKalb county, state of Indiana.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said decree, interest and costs, I will at the same time and place expose to public sale the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said decree, interest and costs. Said sale will be made without any relief whatever from valuation or appraisement laws.

PHIL. PLUM,
Sheriff of DeKalb county, Indiana.
PENFIELD & BLATTNER, Att'ys for Plaintiff.
Auburn, Ind., May 27th, 1891.

ROOT & COMPANY,

FORT WAYNE, - - - - INDIANA.

It Pays To Keep Posted

AS TO

WHAT'S GOING ON IN OUR ACTIVE STORE.

☞ Samples from any department mailed to you upon application.

BLACK COTTON FABRICS.

Grenadine Styles, Plain, Stripes and Plaids, absolutely fast black.

10c up to 50c.

BLACK SILK LACES,

all widths, Chantilly flouncings Demi flouncings and edges to match.

COINDOT DRAPERY NETS

at 90c, $1, $1.25 per yard.

WASH FABRICS,

in the new and dainty Brandenberge, Pine Apple Tissues, Shanton Cloths, at 12½c, 15c and 20c.

The printing upon these fabrics is equal to that of the choicest China Silks.

LADIES' SHIRT WAISTS

made of Silk Madras, Flannelettes, Percales, Zephyrs, etc.

PRINTED CHINA SILKS,

in dark and light grounds,

50c, up to 88c.

DO YOU NEED NEW CARPETS, DRAPERIES, RUGS, SHADES?

we will send estimates. Our facilities are greatly increased — our stocks very large.

KID GLOVES

Suede and Glace — 4-button to arm-length to match shades of dress goods.

Evening shades a specialty.

LANSDOWNES,

in Black and Colors at lower prices than can be had anywhere else.

THE NEW YORK STORE.

NEW THIS WEEK

◆

10 PIECES

SOUDAN SUITINGS

Five Cents Per Yard;

20 PIECES

LIGHT CHENILLES

Five Cents Per Yard.

We Keep Right on Selling All

MILLINERY GOODS

at greatly Reduced Prices--as we carry over no goods for next season.

HARTER

I. O. BUCHTEL,
Homœopathic
Physician and Surgeon.

Special attention given to chronic and obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.

Office and residence over Smith & Madden's marble works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, night or day.

Dr. James Adams,

VETERINARY SURGEON.

Will treat all Diseases of Domestic Animals. He has had THIRTY YEARS successful PRACTICE. Call on him at his residence No. 34, North Main street, or at ROBBINS & McCORD'S Drug Store.

Dr. David N. Fitch,

VETERINARY SURGEON and DENTIST,

Has located in Auburn, and will give his entire attention to the treatment of all DISEASES of DOMESTIC ANIMALS. Is a graduate in Veterinary Surgery and Dentistry, from the CHICAGO VETERINARY COLLEGE.

Office at the PALACE FEED BARN on West 9th St.

---AUBURN WOOLEN MILLS---

........DOES........

All kinds of CUSTOM WORK, such as Carding, Spinning, Etc.

ALSO

MANUFACTURE for the TRADE, Yarns Flannels, Skirtings, Blankets and Wool Bats.

These goods are absolutely PURE and warranted to give SATISFACTION to the Consumer.

—ENSLEY & FORKNER, Proprietors.—
Call at FACTORY North End of Main street
AUBURN, IND.

LOCAL NEWS.

Fruit jars at Beuret's. Don't forget it.

To counteract the desire for strong drink take Simmons Liver Regulator.

ORGAN FOR SALE: A nice large one of the Story & Camp make, as good as new. Call at this office.

J. Beuret for screens that will stand the usage of more than one season. Call and see them before purchasing elsewhere. 19tf

H. J. Mossey still keeps his stock of groceries, provisions, etc., up to the standard of competition and low prices. Farmers find him one of the men to deal with.

Prof. Chas. Kriebel of Butler was here this week. He is working in the interest of his normal school which begins at that place July 7. Mr. Kriebel is an educator of more than ordinary ability and thoroughly interested in his work. We hope to see him succeed in getting a large class.

MILES' NERVE & LIVER PILLS. Act on a new principle—regulating the liver, stomach and bowels through the nerves. A new discovery. Dr. Miles' Pills speedily cure biliousness, bad taste, torpid liver, piles, constipation. Unequaled for men, women, and children. Smallest, mildest, surest! 30 doses, 25 cts. Samples free at F. E. Davenport's.

McELREE'S WINE OF CARDUI for Weak Nerves.

Our machine oil is the best on the market, Robbins & McCord.

Mrs. B. M. Hastings went to her home in Ohio this week on a visit.

Nobody can be troubled with constipation if they take Simmons Liver Regulator.

We keep the very best machine oil, lard oil, neatsfoot oil at bottom prices, Robbins & McCord.

Commissioner Patterson reports three heavy showers up in Richland Monday so heavy as to stop corn plowing till the middle of next forenoon. We had but a slight sprinkle in Auburn.

The New Process Vapor stove sold by Beuret is the latest invention in household labor saving stoves. The simplest, easiest and safest. Go and see it for yourselves, at Beuret's, Auburn.

Are you prospering? We hope you are, and if you are we hope you will deal profitably with yourself in so much that you will go up and see the New Process vapor stove, which is handled by J. Beuret. tf

The Catholic social in the Ashley block Saturday evening was well patronized and was a success in every way. The ladies set a good table with plenty of everything and made their guests pleasantly welcome.

A. P. Foltz of Garrett was in town Saturday visiting his brother E. C. Foltz and the friends generally. He was a soldier in the late "unpleasantness," and is just now coming into the pension that Uncle Sam is giving his boys.

Say young man, if you are going to get married and want to keep in the good graces of your better half you shomld go to Beuret's and get herone of those New Process vapor stoves. It will add to her comfort and convenience and at the same time make you happy, because she will always be in a good humor. tf

English Spavin Liniment removes all hard, soft, or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavin, curbs, splints, sweeny, ring-bone, stifles, all swollen throats, coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle, warranted. The most wonderful blemish cure known. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn. Indiana. tf

RHEUMATISM CURED IN A DAY.—"Mystic Cure" for rheumatism and neuralgia radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immdiately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. 75 cents. Sold by Robbins & McCord, druggists, Auburn.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

We have received the annual catalogue of Bloomington University, showing a very fine condition for the past year. There are several familiar DeKalb names including, Horace Hoffman, Greek professor; Wm. W. Spangler, secretary and librarian; Chas. J. Sembower of Garrett, among the juniors; Stella M. Hague, Auburn, in the sophomore class, and John O. Snyder, Waterloo, in the freshman class.

Try BLACK-DRAUGHT tea for Dyspepsia.

All go to the social Tuesday.

Nobody can have dyspepsia if they take Simmons Liver Regulator.

A good house on Jackson street for rent. Inquire of W. H. McIntyre.

Nobody will suffer from liver disease if they take Simmons Liver Regulator.

For bicycle sundries, oils, lamps, carriers, etc., see Walter Hartman, Auburn.

"Broken Java" in glass jars for 25c at Brandon's. Examine them at once, while the stock is yet flush.

Call on Miss Myers next to Rainier's for the latest and nicest goods. Children's hats a special line just received.

Do you know that you can get the genuine hand made lemonade at Cora Shugers'? Well, you can and it's good too. 20tf

WOOL! WOOL!! WOOL!!! We will pay the highest market price for WOOL. It will be to your interest to see us before you sell. Schaab & Bro. 19tf

W. H. McIntyre has two very desirable residences for sale, to some responsible parties on the installment plan, at from $8 to $12 per month. See him and stop paying rent. 20tf

The milk shake season has just opened up. Cora Shugers is better prepared than ever to deal out lunch, cigars, tobacco, lemonade, ginger ales, pop beers, and milk shake than ever. Remember his place on West Seventh St. 20tf

LOST: On Sunday, May 17, going south from the Rakestraw school house to Holmes Link's, or going from Holmes Link's to the Junction, a Persian shawl. Finder will confer a great favor by leaving it at this office, or sending word. 3

A prominent merchant says "I have sold Megrimine for over a year and guaranteed it to cure any headache without after effects, and have not found a single case it did not relieve." Sold by Robbins & McCord in Auburn. The Dr. Whitehall Megrimine Co., South Bend, Ind.

GREEN MOUNTAIN SALVE: Is unequalled as a cure for all rheumatic pains, weakness in the side, back or any other place, and is unexcelled for cuts, bruises, corns, etc. It is the uncompromising enemy of pain in whatever form, or wherever manifested, and has never been known to fail in a contest with this dreaded foe of human happiness. If you would live a peaceful and painless life, try this great remedy and you will never regret it.

Our young friend, F. A. Shull, who lives north of town, is now representing McConvill & Co., of Chicago, in a very complete line of notions, dry goods, fancy articles, etc. He is equipped so that he can bring his stock and samples right to the door of his patrons, and he is a worthy young man and we trust that the people will assist in making this enterprise a success by reserving him an order for such goods as they may need, when he calls.

Our friend Shelby Hine, knows our weakness for big straw-berries, and brought in some of his choicest last week. They were splendid specimens of the kind called "Haviland," a new variety, we believe. We should not be surprised if they became a leading berry in the market. Mr. Hine brought his first berries to market last week, Wednesday morning, and reports he will have a fair crop. He is looking for a good crop of raspberries and blackberries, also.

BLACK-DRAUGHT tea cures Constipation.

City Book Store has wall paper.

Auburn Normal school, July 20.

Smoking tobacco at Kessler Bros'.

Nicest hats for children at Miss Myers'.

See our little ad, headed "Garrett's Fourth."

Walter Hartman will deal squarely with you in bicycles.

A new line of wall paper at 10 cents a roll at City Book Store.

All designs of latest style wall paper at Casebeer & Matheny's. 19tf

Farmers—Try our machine oil 40c a gallon, Robbins & McCord. 26

Hats 15, 25 and 35 cents at Mrs. Funk's. To close out stock. tf

All new styles of wall paper at Casebeer & Matheny's. No shoddy goods.

Free ride and a grand supper at Miss Della Shugers' Tuesday. All go.

Highest market price paid for tubwashed wool at Auburn Woolen Mills. tf

Hoff has a new stock of goods just opened up. Groceries new and fresh. See him.

Nobody need suffer from languor and melancholy if they take Simmons Liver Regulator.

The New Process Vapor stove at Beuret's has no generator. Nothing to get out of order, and begins to work at once.

Miss Myers has a bright new stock of goods including the neatest line of children's hats. Just lovely, and so cheap! Call and see.

Megrimine cures any headache in 30 minutes. Sold by Robbins & McCord druggists in Auburn. The Dr. Whitehall Megrimine Co., South Bend, Ind.

Annie Teeters and Walter Hartman sang in the Presbyterian choir Sunday, in place of Mr. and Mrs. Yesbera. It is convenient to have two or three sets of of good singers.

The election of county superintendent in Knox county, was settled on the 500th ballot, Peter Phillipi succeeding. The defeated candidate, Mr. Johnson, is a nephew of C. C. Shaffer of this place.

The State Board of Charities has sent out a circular asking trustees to be more careful about giving aid to tramps and other people who ask. They think if less is given there will be fewer tramps.

John Rohrabaugh at Fairbury, Nebraska, sends in his subscription and adds "Send the COURIER right along." He will see some items of interest in this week's "early marriages," and similar subjects.

Veterans who wish to obtain pensions, bounty etc., or who wish information concerning claims already filed, should write to Chas. McClellan Solicitor of Claims, 612 F St. N. W. Washington, D. C.

A letter from Samuel McEntarfer, Russel, Kansas, will be read with interest. Our distant subscribers are doing us a good turn by sending in their subscription, as he does, during the dull summer months when it is much needed. It helps greatly.

Mr. Rudolph Fromm returned last week from his trip over the sea, looking all the better for a long pull at the salt breezes He left here in February, and has spent the time traveling over several different countries. But he thinks our own country beats all of them.

PLAIN SEWING: Mrs. L. Cone, will do plain dressmaking and sewing, and asks the ladies of Auburn to give her a share of the work, which she will do in a neat, substantial manner and at fair rates. Call on her at her rooms at T. J. Saxton's on South Jackson street.

Say farmers, if you want some of the best machinery manufactured, you should go to Ed. Weeks, south of the jail. He handles the Champion reapers and mowers, also some of the best grades of small implements. Give him a call and examine his terms. 19tf

The commissioners last week appointed L. J. Gengler, attorney at Garrett, for Drainage Commissioner. This office is required by the act on drainage and is one of considerable importance in case of extensive ditches that have to be put through court. Mr. Gengler, we feel certain will make an efficient officer for the place.

The itinerant happened to stroll out to Woodlawn cemetery, a few days ago, and found J. F. Aber busily engaged in cutting off the grass and getting things into good shape, generally. He took the time, however, to show many of the pretty features about the premises. The South Circle, is at present, one beautiful mass of the richest colored pansies imaginable, which shows distinctly that "John" has considerable taste as a florist.

Frank Davenport went to Chicago this week, where he has a position in the great drug store establishment of Lord, Bowen & Co., the largest and one of the oldest establishment of the kind in Chicago. Mr. Davenport himself, traveled for this firm over twenty-five years ago. Frank has mastered the mysteries of the drug business, and, is well equipped to occupy the place, is a steady, reliable and intelligent young man and we regret to lose him. Yet an ambitious young man is not to be blamed for an honest effort to rise in his profession. An abundance of good wishes follow him.

The dusky redskins, who traversed the almost pathless wilderness in the days when our forefathers came to this country, smoked rude pipes and strong natural leaf tobacco. They perhaps thought the pipe and tobacco a luxury, but as the Indians have sought greater freedom than could be afforded in the East, their peculiar habits and customs have disappeared with them. Now-a-days, it is very unfashionable to smoke a pipe, and people have learned to take delight in consuming the nicotiana tabacum after the style of fragrant cigar. If you want to smoke the finest cigars cigarros on the market, you will find Kessler Bros.' popular brands up to the standard.

There is located at LaFayette, Ind., an institution founded especially for the benefit of the farmers of Indiana. This is at Purdue University, the farmers' college. Here are extensive barns, experimental fields and laboratories, where experiments are conducted designed to assist the farmer. Animals are fed different foods and under unlike conditions; field crops, fruits and vegetables, are cultivated in various ways, fertilized with manures of different character; animal and plant diseases studied and means sought by which they may be prevented or cured. At least four times a year the station publishes pamphlets containing information of value on these agricultural topics, that are free for all who wish to apply for them. If you are a farmer, or are interested in farming, and will write to the station to have your name placed on its mailing list, in future you will receive its publications. Remember they are free, and are printed for the special benefit of the farming class. Send your name and address, with county plainly written, to the Agricultural Experiment Station, LaFayette, Ind.

WINE OF CARDUI, a Tonic for Women.

Town lots for sale. See our notice.

City Book Store has a fine line of all grades of wall paper.

We lead the market on hammocks from 50c up, Robbins & McCord.

A new line of wall paper just received at Casebeer & Matheny's. 19tf

We publish several statements this week, that will be of interest to all.

Megrimine, the new cure for headache and neuralgia, at Robbins & McCord's.

J. I. Chany, we learn, is conducting a very successful singing school at Rakestraw's school house.

The Swing Washer, beats them all for ease of working and the thoroughness with which it does its work.

S. M. Knott, of Cedar Creek, was here Monday. He is still in poor health, though we believe somewhat improved.

Sam. Buss is now putting up D. S. Ober's fine residence on North Main street. It will be one of the tastiest in town.

Wanted! Wanted!! Wanted!!! at the Auburn Woolen Mills, all the wool we can get. Highest market price, don't forget it. 19tf

Wm. Weicht, of Wilmington township, is delivering fine strawberries both in Auburn and in Butler. He reports a good crop.

The old sidewalk in front of the new M. E. church was torn out last Thursday, and preparations made to put down a new one of cement.

More wool has been marketed here than usual, we understand. Our buyers are giving people to understand that Auburn is a good market.

Big celebration in grand style at Garrett, July 4. There will be trotting, speaking, base ball, bicycle, sack and foot races, and a big parade.

If you are thinking of buying a high or medium grade bicycle of any kind, you will find it to your interest to consult, Walter Hartman, dealer, Auburn.

PIANO FOR SALE: A good square piano in good condition and on reasonable terms. Inquire of Dr. S. B. Johnston at his residence or dental office on North Main street, Auburn.

Mr. Meese is putting up fifty more of his Swing Washers, to supply the immediate demand. This is proving the best washer ever made. He will show you testimonials from some of our best known people.

The Eagle Iron Works, at the Junction, are building an extensive addition to their already large foundry and machine shop. This will give much needed capacity for the rapidly increased trade in their line of business.

The Wabash road will take you to National Editorial Association at Toronto, July 14 to 17 at a reduced rate. There will be a grand gathering of educators, and much sight seeing. Excursions will be run various directions to famous places.

Have you tried South American Nervine—the gem of the century? The great cure for indigestion, dyspepsia and nervousness. Warranted the most wonderful stomach and nerve cure ever known. Trial bottles 15 cents. Sold by Robbins & McCord, druggists, Auburn.

Schnell & Weeks are still south of the jail with as fine a line of groceries, provisions, etc., as can be found in the city. They are great favorites with the "reciprocity" plan, that is, you will always get value received for every dollar spent for goods in their establishment.

C. V. Inks and wife, of Ligonier, stopped off here awhile on Saturday and made a brief call on old friends including Dr. Buchtel and the COURIER folks. They are the parents of the now celebrated Will and Bert Inks, base ball players, and were going to Ft. Wayne to see the game the boys were in that day.

Now, that the time of year is fast approaching, when fruits, berries jellies, jams, etc., are to be canned up and set away for winter use, people may begin to wonder where and at what price they are going to get the necessary jars. If, while in town, you go to Beuret's, you will find fruit jars in abundance, with prices to suit the times.

The Presbyterian church "rejoices" in new steps at the main entrance. This has been long needed. They will also put in electric lights this week, as the gas apparatus had got out of order. This home made gas is too uncertain in this age of electricity. A new and expensive organ will put into the church this week. Other improvements are to follow.

Irvin Hoffman came home last Wednesday after an absence of many years in the far west and south. He spent several years on the Pacific coast, and for the past three years has been in the south. We believe he has been for some time at Augusta, Georgia. Of course he has changed greatly from the school boy we used to know, but he still has a warm heart for Auburn, and finds many friends to welcome his visit home

The excursion to Warsaw last Thursday was quite successful and some money was cleared for the church. Over 200 tickets were sold from this place, about seventy-five from Waterloo, and a number from Corunna and Kendallville. There were also some from the Junction, and a few from Garrett. The extra train from Garrett to the Junction cost $20, which was about half loss, and had to be made up. The weather proved fine and all enjoyed themselves. They seemed to think Spring Fountain Park is one of the nicest resorts they ever visited.

Miss Ella Powell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Powell was married last week, at their present home in Lexington, Mo. She will be well remembered by our society people, especially in Garrett, where they resided several years, and Mr. Powell published the Herald. The fortunate gentleman was Mr. J. B. Mountjoy of Lexington, a man we are told, who is every way worthy of the young lady, and is besides in good circumstances. The ceremony was by the Episcopalian minister, Rev. Mr. Dubac of Christ church, June 10, as we see by an announcement just received. The COURIER joins with many friends in this county, in good wishes for them.

Say, farmers, are you aware of the fact that there are carloads of building material, of the best grades, being hauled away from A. Lewis & Co.'s lumber yard? You haven't heard about it, eh? Well, it's pretty near a dead certainty that he is taking the lead in this part of the brush, in the lumber business, because when you go to his properly equipped institution you can get just what you ask and pay for. Then, too, many years' experience in the business is worth something to those who purpose building, this year. "Prove all things and hold fast to that which is good," was proverbially spoken in days of old, and it is believed the same rule is appliable in buying lumber. Mr. Lewis has been doing business in Auburn, nigh on to a score of years, and has proven himself worthy the confidence of the people. He is here to stay and will save you money.

McElree's WINE OF CARDUI for female diseases.

Meese's new Washing Machine.

Just received 1000 rolls of new wall paper at the City Book Store. tf

Gilt papers at 18 cents a roll, borders to match at City Book Store.

Ropes, ropes, a good stock for sale at Beuret's in Auburn. Call when you need a rope.

Your money will buy a better and larger hammock at Robbins & McCord's than any place in the city. 26

John Johnson, of the electric light works, went up to Chicago Sunday night returning next day. He went for supplies for the company.

Mrs. Geo. Stamets has been up at Waterloo a week or so visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. McAnally, and in the meantime George is a "widow man."

Wm. Ensley was in town Saturday. He is a full fledged farmer now having a good farm about two miles from Garrett, though still retaining the home in Auburn. We hope the soil will "yield her fruits abundantly" for him.

Frederick Funk, our jolly and good natured stone mason, is now putting the finishing touches on the foundation of Clerk Bishop's magnificent residence. It presents a high grade of workmanship and speaks glowingly of friend Fred's ability as a mason.

Trustee Joe. Walter and his two little boys wanted to see the "wheels go 'round," in the print shop, but it was the "off day," and they will have to come Wednesday afternoons. Always pleased to meet our little friends, and help them out in their investigations.

Trustee W. H. Fair of Butler township reports a freak of nature among his sheep this spring, a lamb having two perfect heads, for its one stomach, It did not live, however, and he now is sorry he did bring it to town and have G. S. McCord stuff it. It would have been a great curiosity.

I. M. Zent of the Wabash road returned last week looking in better health than when he left. He had put in the time working on his father's farm, and thinks the fresh air, sunshine and exercise did him more good, than treatment at any health resort. We hope the improvement may be permanent.

Young men, while you are in the city, go to the Reading Room and see what a fine line of confectionery is in stock there. You can get almost anything you may desire in the way of fine candies from the large, new supply that has just been brought in. Call while the quantity is great and quality first-class.

Frank McClellan had a serious accident caused by wrestling about three weeks ago. He fell "under" and with the weight of his opponent, his left shoulder was badly strained, and two ribs broken. It will still be some time before he is sound, although it is now getting along well.

We publish this week, by order of the Board of Commissioners, the call for the meeting of the board of equalization, on Monday July 6, as required by the new law. This is an important meeting, as its work is to hear and determine all grievances in regard to the recent assessment of property, both real and personal.

The Children's Day exercises at the Church of God, Sunday evening, were very interesting. The program, was well arranged, and the little folks deported themselves admirably. The solo, by Little Iva Wilcox, was exceptionally fine and its rendition would have done credit to a professional. She has a sweet, well trained voice for a child of her age. The house was crowded to its utmost capacity; in fact about half as many were on the outside as were inside. This entertainment marks another epoch in the history of the success of this Sabbath School.

Social and Free Ride.

The social to be given by the young people of the Presbyterian church, on the court house lawn, June 18, has been postponed. The D. S. A.'s will give a lawn fete at the home of Miss Della Shugers, one mile south of town, on Tuesday, June 23. A fine supper will be served from five to eight (5 to 8) also ice cream, cake and strawberries. Music and other features will add to the pleasure of the evening. Supper 15 cts.; ice cream and cake 10 cents. Free hacks will run to and from Shugers', starting from Swineford House, to accommodate those who have no conveyance.

Music and Elocution.

After June 29th we will be prepared to give lessons in music and elocution, at our rooms on Main St., over Cowan Sisters'. Lessons in music will include piano, harmony and organ (cottage or pedal.) Elocution—lessons in voice work, physical training, reading and expression. Private and public recitals will be given. Piano, harmony and organ lessons 50 cent. each; pedal organ 75 cents; class lessons, 25 cts. Elocution private lessons, 40 cents; class lessons 20 cents. Private pupils will be admitted to class lessons free. For particulars call on

FLORA HOFFMAN
MABEL HARTMAN

Children's day at the Presbyterian church next Sunday.

See those pretty afghans for baby carriages at Robbins & McCord's.

Free conveyances to the social at Mr. Shugers' next Tuesday evening June 23.

Mrs. Coffinberry has had a friend from Chicago, Mrs. Ditton visiting her for the past week.

Don't forget us on baby carriages. We are bound to save you money, Robbins & McCord.

Miss Jennie Stutz was the fortunate lady who got the quilt at the Catholic social Saturday evening.

Two most excellent bargains in second hand binders at Brown & Culbertson's. Come in quick if you want them. 25

They always have a pleasant time at John Shugers'. Remember the D. S. A's social out there next Tuesday evening. A good supper, and ice cream, strawberries and cake. Free transportation, and a good time.

Kendallville has summer races this year, June 24, 25, and 26, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week. The 2:40 and 3-year-old classes are on the first day; 3 minute, 2:30 and running class, on the second day; the 2:22, the 2:20 and a running race, on the last day. They promise a good time.

Perhaps there are no better teachers than Mr. Harrison and Mr. Coe, who are to conduct the Normal school, here in Auburn, beginning July 20, and ending August 28. Those who desire to review, or to perfect themselves in any branch can be accommodated, and make the school as valuable as a term of regular school. It would be well to see Mr. Coe or Mr. Harrison or write for information.

We have a letter from A. B. Imus now at DeSmet, So. Dakota, in which he says the crop prospects are good, as they have had more rain and cold weather than usual. Dakota has abundance of splendid farming land, but it is often too dry. This no doubt will improve as greater areas are cultivated. Mr. Imus we are pleased to state is cashier of the First National Bank of that place. The DeKalb boy, with fair education and business tact, is pretty sure to be found, as we often say, on the front seat.

If you want to save

Time and Money

GO TO

Cowan Sisters,

where you will find

A Numberless Variety

OF

HATS, TRIMMED.

No WAITING to Get Work Done.

Our store is full of

New Summer Goods

With prices surprisingly low. Call and see them.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A CHOICE SELECTION OF INTERESTING ITEMS.

Comments and Criticisms Based Upon the Happenings of the Day—Historical and News Notes.

A LIMOGES, France, firm of porcelain makers have substituted petroleum for wood in firing their wares, and not only find that it produces better results but cheapens the cost.

THE effect of the awful sight of the wreck of the Utopia at Gibralter was most extraordinary. One man on the British warship, when the Utopia first sank, got so excited that he cried out: "Oh, I can't stand this," and jumped overboard.

HERE is a decidedly queer advertisement which appeared in a Liverpool newspaper: "Wanted, immediately, in country, a Christian home (clergyman or doctor preferred) for a lady (protestant) baby and child. Lady of intemperate habits. Address, stating terms (moderate,) C 106."

A FLORIDA paper that ought to know says that there are over thirty-three varieties of sweet oranges, not to mention the "natural stock," which is a larger and handsomer fruit than the sweet orange, and it is excellent for orangeade and marmalade, but, being very sour, is seldom shipped North.

AN official weekly in Germany calculates how an invalid workingman can live for 300 days in the year from the $76 allowed him by the old age and invalid insurance fund: First breakfast, $11,15 annually; second breakfast, $7.50; dinner, $18.75; afternoon coffee, $7.50; supper, $15; rent, $11.25; clothing, $4.75.

NEAR Leavenworth, Kan., a farmer had his entire farm gradually washed away by the Missouri River some years ago. Soon after the river began to deposit rich soil along the banks where the farm once was, and recently the owner went to County Clerk and had his farm, which was much larger than before, replaced on the tax record.

A REMARKABLE family of centenarians is extinguished by the death of Charles King, of Salem, Mass., at the age of 110 years. One of his brothers, it is said, lived to be 107, and another 104, while a fourth died at the comparatively youthful age of 89. The family appears to be no less remarkable for fertility than for longevity; for his five children are reported to have 15, 12, 17, 14, and 17 children respectively, while most of the grandchildrhn are equally prolific.

SOME rare metals, possessing special qualities, are required for certain work, Thus palladium is used in making some parts of time-pieces, and irridium for the points of gold pens. Lithium is the lightest of metals. Rhodium is extremely hard, and brittle and is only fusible at a very high temperature, and irridium is the heaviest substance hitherto discovered. The uninitiated have no idea of the value of these scarce products, which are, most of them, far more precious than gold or silver.

THE death of a young man in Lyon County, Kansas, by a stroke of lightning from an almost cloudless sky was certainly remarkable, but a case of the same kind occurred in 1860 on the prairie midway between Clinton and Bloomington, in the same State. A young man was riding on a gallop, when a bolt was seen by residents near by to dart straight downward from a cloudless sky. The horse with his rider were found very shortly after with a small, round hole passing through the head and body of the man, and thence through the horse into the ground,

ALMOST all the wrecks of vessels that go ashore or burn up or sink in collisions along the Atlantic seaboard are bought by one man. He has mastered the secret of disposing of all the parts of such vessels to the best advantage to himself. He has store houses at various points for the keeping of tackle and tools, and has made himself as formidable as a modern trust. He cannot sell as readily as he buys, however. He must wait until some one wants just the curious things he happens to have, and very often an engine or a pair of anchors or a set of masts lie long upon his hands.

A. C. THOMAS, who lives in Gadsden County, Florida, and is only 35 years old, is reported to be the father of thirty-two children, all of whom are alive. His wife is three years younger than himself and they were married only fifteen years ago. Twenty months after marriage they found themselves the parents of four bright and beautiful children. With almost unvarying regularity ever since the family has been increased by the addition of sometimes twins, sometimes of triplets, until the number has reached thirty-two. So relates a correspondent of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

MR. THOMAS A. EDISON'S home, "Glenmont," as he calls it, at Lewellyn Park, N. J., is a luxurious abode. The house is built of wood and brick, somewhat "Queen Anne" as to architecture. There is a wide and hospitable porch at the front entrance, large enough to hold a settle piled high with soft cushions. There are benches and several chairs—hospitality beginning even before you step over the threshold. The large square hall is a room in itself, as the modern hall is designed to be. To see Mr. Edison's house in all its glory one must visit it at night, when it glitters like a fairy palace with its innumerable electric lights.

A REMARKABLE decision is reported from Klukiang, in China. A gambler forged a large number of notes for a thousand each on his brother's bank and put them into circulation. When these notes were presented at the bank the forgery was discovered and payment was refused, whereupon the enraged holders, storming the building, dragged the manager before the magistrate. The latter held that, since the writing and marks of the false notes were so like those of the regular bank notes that ordinary people could not distinguish between them, the bank would have to honor them, and he accordingly made out an order to this effect. As a result of this decision the bank has been forced to suspend payment, while the author of the mischief escapes punishment.

PARIS' most popular bunko game just now is played thus: A well-dressed stranger with a handbag hurries into a hotel restaurant near a railway station, eats a fine dinner and engages the landlord in conversation. He praises the cooking, and, after paying his bill, promises to make the hotel his headquarters during his frequent visits to the city. As he opens the door to leave he calls back for the landlord's name. When the landlord gives it the stranger remarks: "Curious, that is my name too," asks the landlord to care for letters or packages to his address and leaves. Letters come for the stranger and are called for by "his valet." Finally a package comes and is also carried off. That is all. The trick is up, and the landlord and the tradesman who sent around the package may settle the loss as best they can.

THE new commonwealth of Australia is composed of seven States, New South Wales, Victoria, Queensland, South Australia, Tasmania, Western Australia and New Zealand. The constitution provides for a Senate and House of Representatives elected by the several States, eight Senators from each State, elected for six years. Representatives are elected for three years, on the basis of one for every 30,000 inhabitants, giving the number of Representatives to begin with about one hundred and twenty. The chief executive is the Governor General, representing the British Empire with a cabinet of seven Ministers. The Federal Supreme Court consists of a Chief Justice and four Associates. The constitution embodies some of the best features of the English and the American forms of government, and we predict a bright future for this "self-sown England beyond the sea."

TOO MUCH dumb-bell exercise is a weariness to the flesh, and matutinal swinging of the Indian club becomes, sooner or later, irksome. The idea of relieving the tedium of daily exercise while increasing its benefits is a good one, and it is now placed at the service of the public in a practical form. A polished wooden box contains the appliances incidental to the ordinary exercising machine, and is equipped, in addition, with a magneto-electro apparatus capable of transmitting an electric current to ten or more persons at the same time, or being graduated to the endurance or pleasure of one person; so that, while the various forms of exercise are being gone through, an electric current of any required strength can be imparted. It is claimed that electricity can thus be applied under improved and more pleasant conditions than formerly in many cases where its use has been proved to be most beneficial. Attention is called to the fact that telegraph operators, accountants, typewriters, pianists, and all whose work is apt to cause muscular pains and stiffness in the hand and arm, can by the use of this exercising machine reap a twofold advantage. The machine has a bath attachment. This is placed in the bath, and when the foot is placed upon it an electric shock of graduated strength is imparted to the bather. The machine can be used either with or without the current, and has no battery, and its electric activity is guaranteed for a year.

A Long Walk.

Issac Beels, formerly of South Dakota, has arrived in Laramie direct from Alaska. He told a reporter that he left the mining region away to the north of Sitka last October, traveling some 1,600 miles, he says, on horseback and on foot. This was a long and wonderfully hazardous journey alone and occupied a long time. His horse gave out during the trip and he was obliged to continue on foot and take refuge among the Indians. He induced some of the natives to pilot him to the nearest white settlement. Reaching this point he was still 160 miles north of Sitka, but worked his way into Sitka alone. From Sitka he came down to Vancouver, British Columbia; from thence to the United States, continuing his journey on foot, covering most of the distance to Laramie that way. He expects to remain in this city for some time, if not permanently.

Many times during the long trip Beels was harassed by wild animals, the mountain wolves and bear being particularly bold. The mountain bison, the moose and other animals were quite plentiful. He is enthusiastic over the mining resources of Alaska. His 1,600-mile journey was over the great mountain ranges and through the desolate valleys of that great region. The Indians treated him very kindly. He could not exchange a word with them, but they realized that he was in distress and aided him.—Laramie Boomerang.

Chinese and Japanese in Harvard.

The Harvard faculty has voted to grant the petition of a Japanese student who asked to be allowed to substitute Chinese and Japanese for Latin and Greek at the entrance examinations. We don't know whether Charles Francis Adams will regard this as a triumph for the modern languages or not, but subfreshmen who have little Latin and less Greek can try their luck with Chinese and Japanese if they choose. The substitution is not in the direction of encouraging short-cuts to a degree, at any rate. The claim of the Chinese that they are the oldest nation in the world finds strong support in their language. It is a language calculated to make anybody who studies it as old as Methuselah.—Boston Herald.

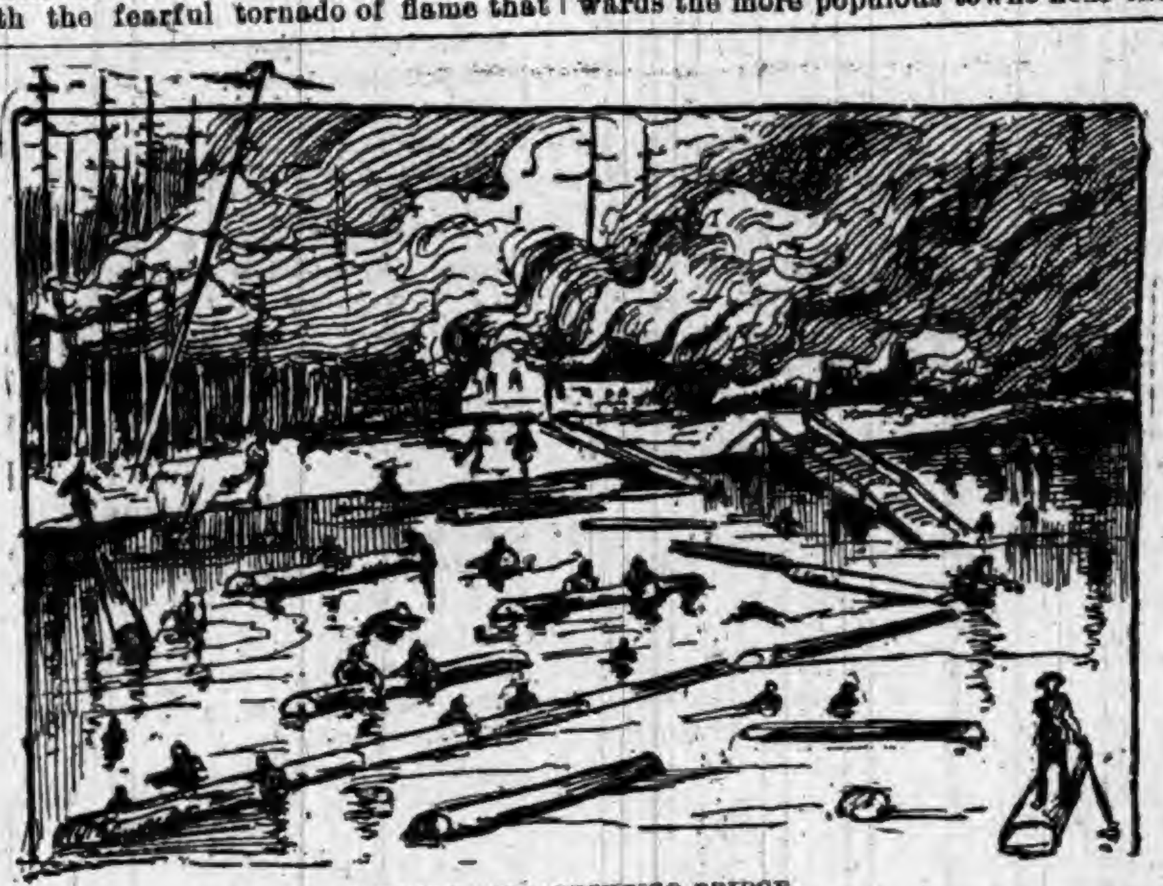
TEACHER—You think sin is an adjective, do you? How would you compare it? Smart Boy—Positive, sin; comparative, sinner; superlative, cynic.

THE YEAR OF FLAME.

AWFUL DESTRUCTION BY FOREST FIRES.

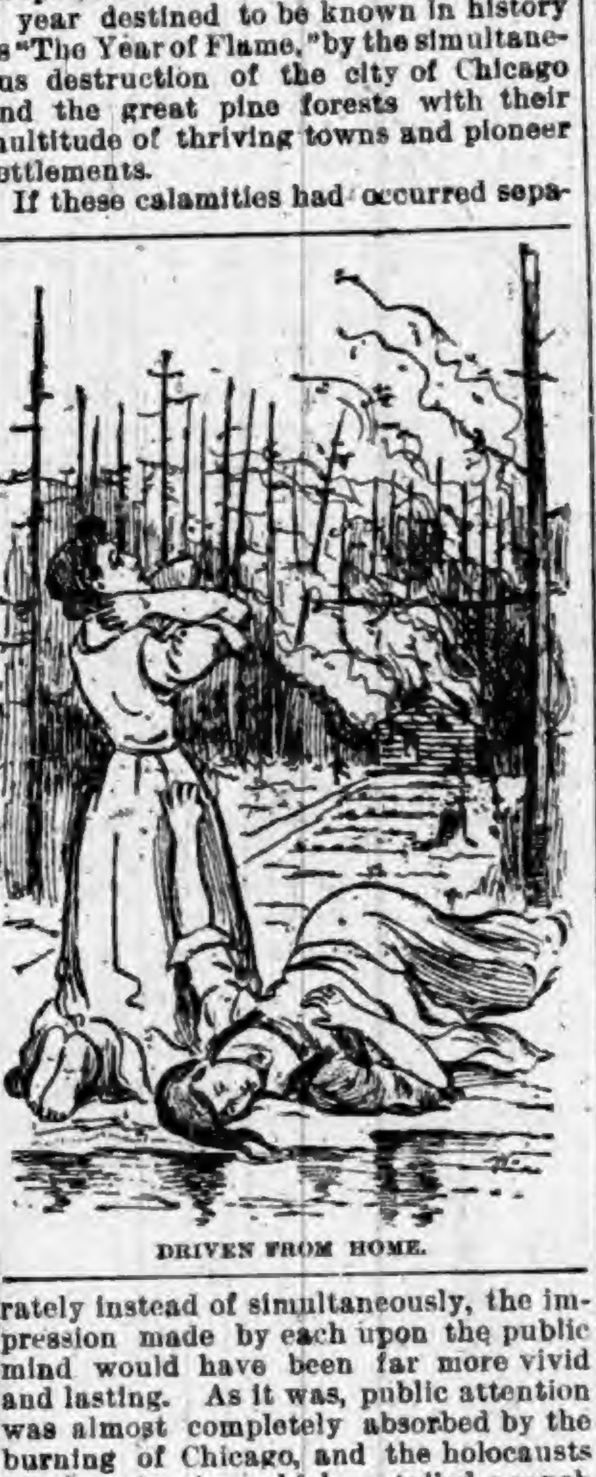
The Fires of the Present Year Recall the Devastation of 1871—The Terrible Fate that Befel Peshtigo, Wis.—Vivid Description of the Scenes.

Although the forest fires of the present year in New Jersey, Michigan and Pennsylvania have doubtless destroyed nearly four million dollars' worth of property, and swept two or three hundred poor families into the last ditch of destitution, besides costing several scores of lives, yet these fires do not compare in disastrous results and horrible details with the fearful tornado of flame that swept both shores of Green Bay in 1871, a year destined to be known in history as "The Year of Flame," by the simultaneous destruction of the city of Chicago and the great pine forests with their multitude of thriving towns and pioneer settlements.

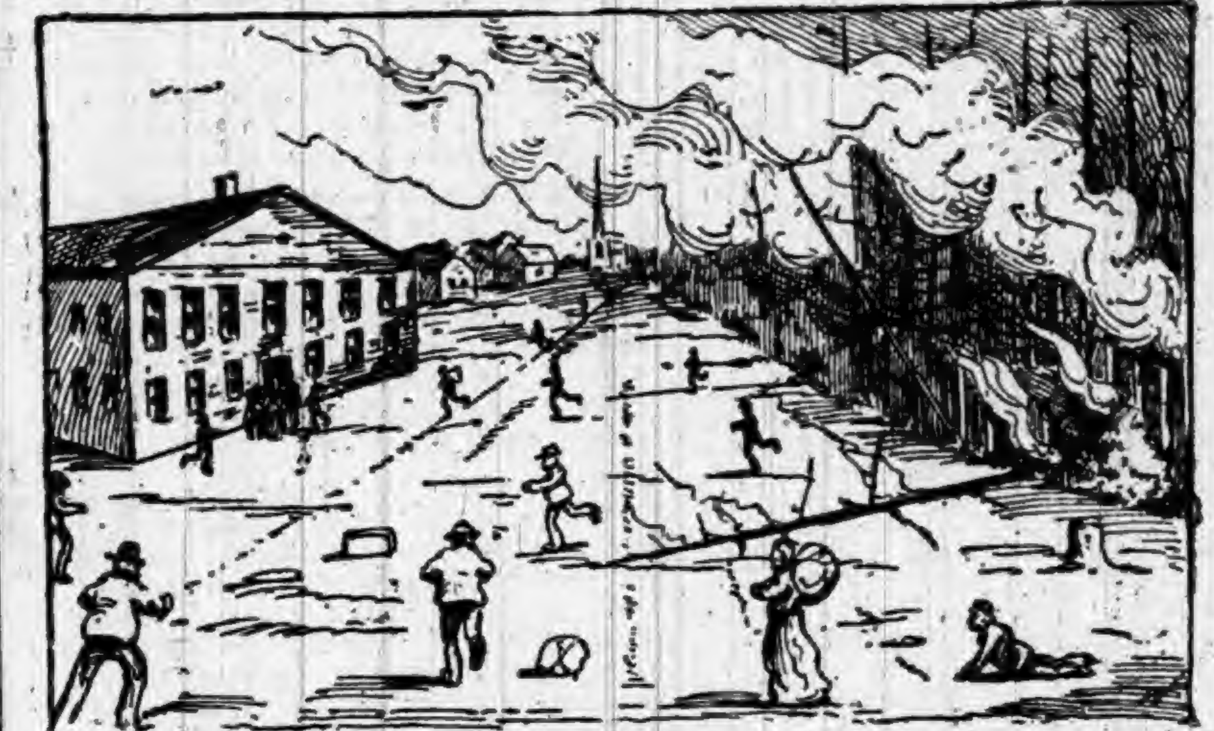


SCENE AT THE PESHTIGO BRIDGE.

If these calamities had occurred separately instead of simultaneously, the impression made by each upon the public mind would have been far more vivid and lasting. As it was, public attention was almost completely absorbed by the burning of Chicago, and the holocausts of the pineries, which entailed a much greater loss of life, were passed by with a tithe of the attention that they would have attracted had not the public eye been dazed by the mighty conflagration in the commercial capital of the West. When, also, it was true that the great Chicago dailies were then homeless vagrants, so to speak, and unable to find half space enough in their columns to voice their own woes, it is small wonder that only meager accounts, entirely disproportioned in extent to the enormity of the disaster, are on record, concerning the Wisconsin and Michigan fires.

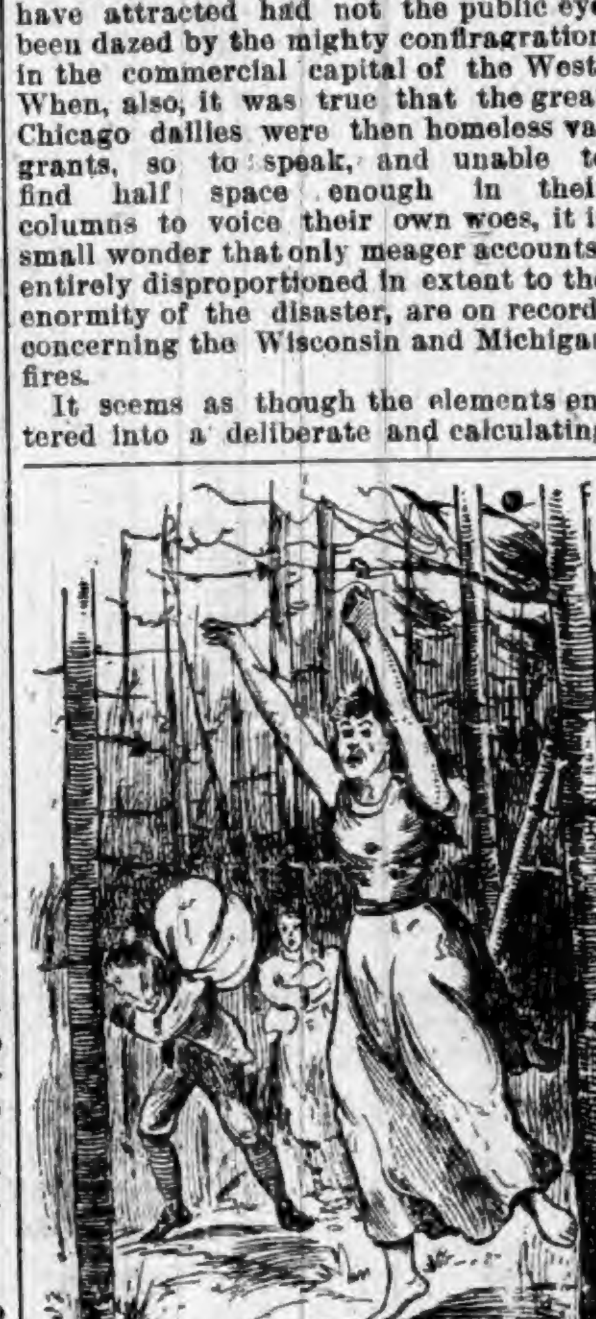


DRIVEN FROM HOME.



TAKING REFUGE IN THE FACTORY.

It seems as though the elements entered into a deliberate and calculating conspiracy to prepare for a great conflagration.



HURRIED TO INSTANT FLIGHT.

From April until autumn the sun poured down upon this Northwestern country a fierce and steady flood of scorching rays, with hardly a single shower or passing cloud to dim its awful intensity. Not only were the crops withered and the forests parched but the very soil was baked to a crust more like peat fuel than fertile earth. Prudent men, who observed the times and seasons, felt a sense of impending danger and took every precaution to provide for their own safety and that of their fellows, by avoiding the starting of any fire out of doors. But a few heedless persons did not observe this necessary caution and occasional clouds of smoke became visible over the great pine woods, from the decks of the vessels plying up and down the bay. It was an ill-omen and those who saw it shook their heads in sad apprehension.

Gradually the volume of smoke increased and toward the latter part of September, the fires became general, and assumed formidable proportions, threatening many little inland settlements with destruction.

But their hardy inhabitants were used to "fighting fire," and, once awakened to the fearful odds against them, doubled their diligence and for a time succeeded in averting destruction. But it was only a temporary victory. From the remote backwoods where it had its birth, the fire steadily and stealthily crept on towards the more populous towns near the coast. Among these was the prosperous little village of Peshtigo, on the Peshtigo River, where William B. Ogden of Chicago, had built the largest manufactury of "wooden ware" in this country, if not in the world, at that time. It contained two thousand inhabitants. On the 24th of September, according to contemporaneous accounts, the people of Peshtigo were called upon to make a stand against the flames that appeared in the surrounding timber. They made a heroic fight for hours, sometimes almost despairing, but again catching hope, as, one after another the columns of flame were beaten back. Victory finally rewarded their efforts and they returned to their homes to rest their weary bodies, thankful that the long strain of anticipating danger was over; that they had met the enemy and conquered. How little they dreamed of the veritable baptism of fire that awaited them. Although a pall of smoke still hung over the woods on all sides of them, as the days worn on into October, the feeling of security in their hard-earned victory seemed to increase. One thoughtful man is said to have made a circuit of the town, carefully investigating all its surrounding ground, and pronounced the town safe. Every foot of the ground between the village and the timber seemed to be clear of anything that could convey combustion.

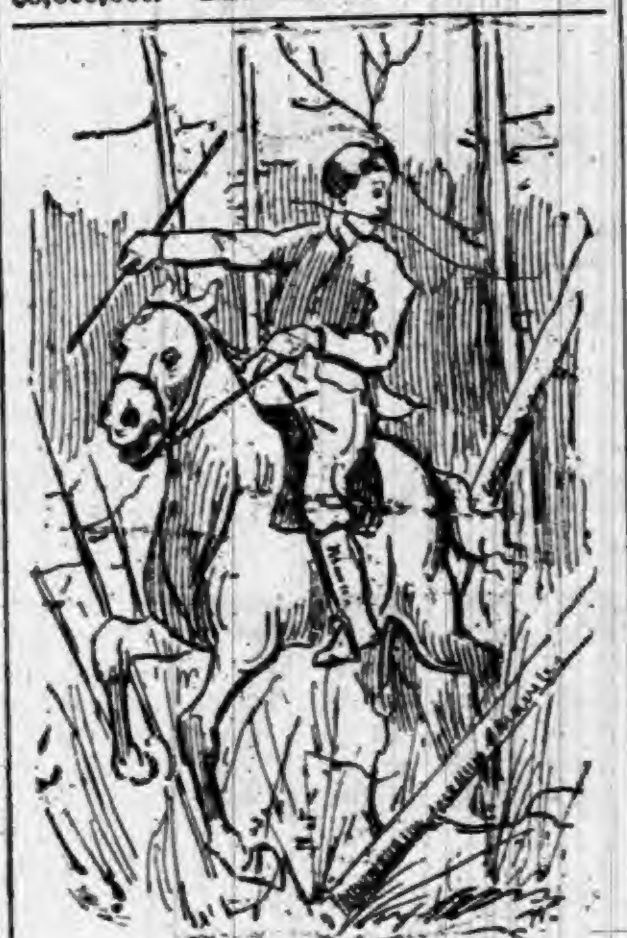
On Sunday evening, at the close of services in the churches, the sky, to the south, had an ominous brilliancy, and soon a distant roar became audible. Then a strong, hot wind, like the breath of a blast furnace, swept the town. This was the forerunner of the tornado of fire that was bearing down upon them with incredible speed and a power that uprooted trees.

So brief was the warning of the oncoming disaster that only a few of the inhabitants were aware of the doom that was enveloping them before it was fairly upon them. All printed accounts state that there was but one version of the spectacle of the approaching fire given by survivors. They described it as a veritable tornado of fire, accompanied by a fearful roar. Dense clouds emitted metors of flame, and these fireballs seemed to be hurled at the buildings and people, as directly as though from the mouths of beseiging cannon. This made the awful work of destruction very short, setting every building in the town ablaze almost as instantaneously as though ignited by an electric current. Many declared that points of flame seemed to strike out at the panic-stricken people as they rushed from their dwellings and fled to the river. Only those fortunate enough to reach the river at the very onslaught escaped with their lives, and even a large portion of those perished. Some who reached the banks in time to have saved themselves had they immediately plunged into the water, thought to escape by crossing the bridge to the opposite side. The bridge was in flames almost as soon as the dwellings, and as the crowd of crazed human beings attempted to surge across it the planking gave way and dropped them all into the river below, showering a volley of burning timbers upon them. Some seventy people, mostly women and children, took refuge in the large brick quarters of the Peshtigo Company. They were all cremated as thoroughly as if treated by the most modern method known to the art. It is estimated that about three hundred succeeded in reaching the river, wedging themselves in between the logs of the timber boom that occupied the stream. The situation of even the most fortunate was terrible beyond conception. The water in which their bodies were immersed was bitterly cold, while a maelstrom of scorching wind, burning fagots and bursting bricks beat down upon the surface of the stream.

The logs of the boom of course ignited, and many of those who clung to them were compelled to release their grasp and sink for the last time—too much exhausted to secure another float. The terrors of the situation were greatly increased by the fact that the cattle and horses in the place instinctively rushed into the water, dislodging scores of helpless people from their floats, crowding and trampling them down into the current.

One family, it is said, made no attempt to escape to the river, but quietly awaited death in their own home, fully believing that the judgment day was at hand. Others, in whom the commercial spirit was strong even in the midst of such a holocaust, attempted to carry bundles of goods to the water and were afterwards found, where they had fallen upon their faces with their packs upon their backs. Many plunged into wells, where they were roasted, like barbecued beeves, after the water in the wells had passed off into steam.

The saddest incidents of that awful hour were the births and suicides. Several women, under the terror of the moment, were called upon to endure the added agonies of childbirth, while suicides were numerous. One father quickly cut the throats of his three children and then took his own life. At least eight hundred people perished in Peshtigo, and three hundred in the Peshtigo sugar-bush district, a community of about eight hundred inhabitants. The surfaces of the streams were spotted with dead fish, while their beds were heaped with the remains of deer, cattle, horses, and men. Near one stream was found a mother with her two children in her arms. One sugar-bush family, consisting of father, mother, and son, escaped by descending into their well and each dashing water upon the others. At Williamson's Mill, a little settlement of eighty inhabitants, the "barn boss," from an eminence saw the fire-cloud coming, descended and tried to induce others to flee with him to the hardwood grove near by. They refused, and he mounted his horse and dashed through the oncoming flood of flame and reached the hardwood timber in safety, while fifty-seven out of eighty of those behind perished. Forty-five charred bodies were found in the center of a large potato patch. Mrs. Williamson saved herself and son by the use of wet blankets. When she removed the wet covering from her face she found the burned head of a dead woman resting on the edge of her blanket. One mother, with her fingers, scooped a small trench in the earth and placed her little child in it and then laid down above it, to shield the child with her own body. Both perished. A rough backwoodsman attempted to carry a sick friend to a stream, they died together. In less than five hours the fire swept a tract of country along Green Bay, forty miles in length and ten in breadth, causing a total direct loss of $5,000,000. The incidents of Peshtigo and Williamson's Mills were duplicated in scores of hamlets of Michigan and other portions of Wisconsin, and are most vividly brought to recollection by the widespread and disastrous fires of 1891, in New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota.



SAW THE FIRE CLOUD COMING.

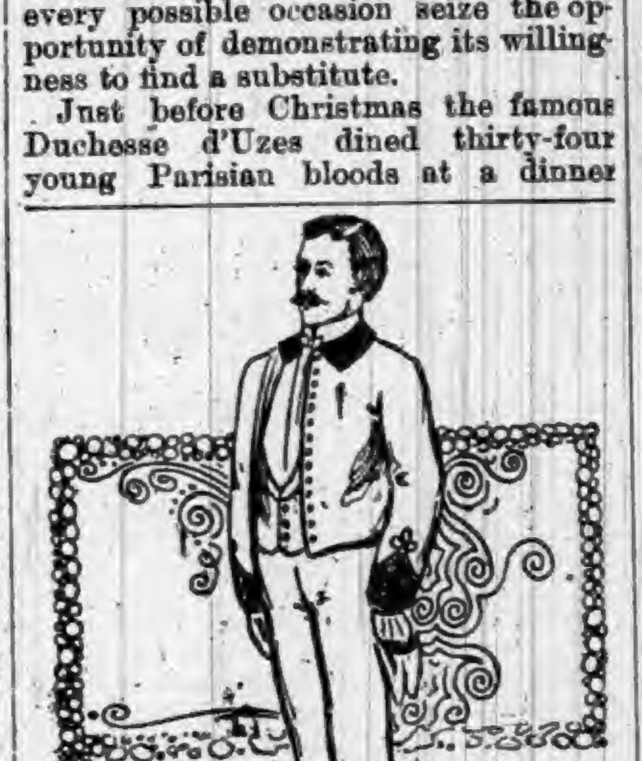
A NEW ENGLISH DRESS COAT.

Black Cloth, Military Cut, Velvet Collar and Gold Buttons.

A London Sunday paper published the other day: "A quartet of young Londoners have recently been seen in a new and novel evening dress which they are trying to introduce with an energy worthy of a better cause. The dress is the ordinary black trousers, white waistcoat cut low and white bow tie. The only innovation upon the old style is a coat made of black material, cut in the style of the military jacket. The collar is of velvet, a row of interminable gold buttons shoots down the front, the sleeves have the perennial army worm, and the general appearance of the wearer is that of a military man who in his great hurry has forgotten to change his undress jacket for the conventional clawhammer. The idea is ingenious, but it won't work.

I send herewith a sketch from the original cut, writes the London correspondent of the Clothier and Furnisher. Society will probably never desert the good old swallowtail dress coat, but it seems that it will never cease to fling reproach at it, and on every possible occasion seize the opportunity of demonstrating its willingness to find a substitute.

Just before Christmas the famous Duchesse d'Uzes dined thirty-four young Parisian bloods at a dinner preceding theatricals. Thirty-four scarlet dress coats flung their glaring defiance at the modest black swallowtails of the garcons.



THE NEW ENGLISH DRESS SUIT.

How a Canary Cared for a Linnet.

A California lady tells the following story on bird benevolence. She domiciled at one time in a large country house, and in some of the unoccupied rooms linnets built their nests. Owing to the slats of the shutters becoming closed by the wind four of five little birds, deprived of their mother's care, died in their nest in one room. The survivor was placed in the cage of a pet canary and the latter devoted itself to the care of the little foundling. When the cage was hung outside a male linnet used to assist in the work of caring for the orphan, and in this way the little fledgeling was successfully reared.

IN the Silvester-basilica of Rome have been discovered the tombs of six popes, among them that of Silvester, who succeeded in converting Constantine to Christianity, and who lived at the time of the Council of Nice.

TRADE MARK
DUTCH JELLY
NONE GEUNUINE WITHOUT CREST AND SIGNATURE
K. van Amhein
KEEP THE LID ON THE POT

If you want a beautiful complexion and a perfect skin, use Dutch Jelly. No tan, freckles, moth patches, pimples, black heads or wrinkles. No coarse, rough, greasy, chafed or chapped face and hands. Dutch Jelly is absolutely pure, being a vegetable compound and void of all mineral properties; contains no grease or oil, and after its application the most delicate fabric can be handled without soiling. Gentlemen use it after shaving. For eczema Dutch Jelly is a positive cure. For ulcers pimples, itching and all eruptive skin diseases, Dutch Jelly is simply invaluable and permanently effective. For cuts, bruises, sun burn, insect bites Dutch Jelly is supreme and is absolutely odorless. Dutch Jelly is not a cosmetic, but rather a skin tonic and has the highest medical endorsement. One trial will convince the most skeptical that it will keep the roughest skin in the smoothest and whitest condition. Ask your druggist, or send 50 cents in Stamps or Postal Note for Sample Jar. Address

Dutch Jelly Co.,
50-52 Michigan Ave.,
CHICAGO, ILL.

Page CYCLE
SPRING FORK.

EASIEST RIDING
WHEEL - ON - EARTH.
HAS WITHOUT EXCEPTION THE
FINEST SPRING IN AMERICA.

Rides as gently over obstructions as a carriage and is in every sense of the word a perfect cycle

BUILT
FINEST DESIGN.
FINEST STEEL.
FINEST FINISH.
FINEST BALL BEARINGS.

Do not buy without getting our Catalogue or seeing this wheel.

PAGE STEEL WHEEL CO., TOLEDO, OHIO.

SANGOLE
ACTUALLY
PRODUCES FLESH
AND CURES
CONSUMPTION
IN INCIPIENCY.
PALATABLE, DIGESTIBLE,
NUTRITIOUS.
IMPARTS LIFE AND VIGOR TO EVERY FIBRE.

SPECIMEN TESTIMONIAL.

Gentlemen:— WHEELING, Feb. 10, 1891.

Early last fall I contracted a severe cold, which settled on my lungs. I coughed dreadfully and lost flesh rapidly until advised to try Sangole, which I did with the most gratifying result.

After taking three bottles my cough ceased and I found that I had gained six pounds in weight. I most heartily recommend it to sufferers of loss of flesh from any cause. Respectfully,

LIZZIE G. CAMPBELL.

Recommended and sold by all Druggists.

Post paid to any address on receipt of $1.00

Silver Guarantee Remedy Co.,
WHEELING, W. VA.

Manny
Lemon Juice Extractor
BEST AND MOST ECONOMICAL.

ORDINARY Lemon Squeezers act upon lemon from outside, inducing a bitter oil and crushing living creatures which appear on skin as dark scales.

THE "MANNY" Lemon Juice Extractor operates on pulp within, and gives clear pure juice free from insects, oil or seeds.

IF your dealer cannot supply you send 30 CENTS postal note or stamps for a sample post paid.

Manny Lemon Juice Extractor Co.,
202 COLUMBIA ST., ROCKFORD, ILL.
WE WANT GOOD AGENTS.

The D&C
TO MACKINAC
SUMMER TOURS
PALACE STEAMERS. LOW RATES.
Four Trips per Week Between
DETROIT, MACKINAC ISLAND
Petoskey, The Soo, Marquette, and Lake Huron Ports.
Every Evening Between
DETROIT AND CLEVELAND
Sunday Trips during June, July, August and September Only.
OUR ILLUSTRATED PAMPHLETS,
Rates and Excursion Tickets will be furnished by your Ticket Agent, or Address
A. A. SCHANTZ, ASS'T G. P. A., DETROIT, MICH.,
THE DETROIT & CLEVELAND STEAM NAV. CO

DON'T WASTE MONEY
BUYING THE WRONG WAIST.
BUY THE "HAUT-TON" WAIST.
HAUT TON WAIST.
PAT. MARCH 18 1890

IT meets the popular demand for hygienic garments. Made of fine satteen in white, drab, ecru, old gold, and fast black, well stayed with cords; has no steels except in front and back, with clasp or button fronts.

Is so soft and pliable, yet produces a perfect figure.

A Perfect Waist.
Canvassers Wanted. Send for Catalogue.
Waist sent post paid on receipt $1.15

Bortree Mfg. Co., Jackson, Mich.

FARMS IN CENTRAL MICHIGAN

are positively first rate as proven by both State and United States agricultural preports. In yield and value of crops per acre, they excell Southern Michigan, Indiana and Illinois. We offer for sale at low prices and on easy terms 20,000 acres of good unimproved farming lands in Isabella County, the center county of the lower peninsular of Michigan. Write for descriptive pamphlet and sample price list.

C. M. C. Cook, Mt. Pleasant. Mich.

The Rock Island "Jewett Hay Rake and Loader."
NO FARMER CAN AFFORD TO BE WITHOUT ONE.

TAKES the hay as left by mower, rakes it CLEAN and will deliver a ton onto wagon every fifteen minutes.

Will certainly save its cost in one year, and under some circumstances in one day.

Light Draft. Fully Guaranteed.

Send for full description and testimonials.

Rock Island Plow Co.
ROCK ISLAND, ILL.
(Mention this paper).

The Electric Capsule

is a pleasant laxative and sure cure for general debility, biliousness, torpid liver, malaria, sleeplessness, loss of appetite, melancholy, costiveness, nervousness and pains in the back. It positively cures that lassitude and weariness, and want of appetite experienced by so many. Are you fatigued? The most recently discovered wonderful remedy for LOST VITALITY.

25 Cents per box.

Address ELECTRIC CAPSULE CO.
Post Off[illegible] Box 3349, N. Y.
FOR SALE BY ALL DRUG[illegible]TS.

ORANGE BLOSSOM
A POSITIVE CURE FOR
ALL FEMALE DISEASES.

SOME SYMPTOMS: A tired, languid feeling, low spirited and despondent, with no apparent cause. Indigestion, headache, backache, bearing down pains, pain across lower part of bowels, with great soreness in region of ovaries. Tumors, Bladder difficulty, Frequent urination, Leucorrhœa, Constipation of bowels, piles. With all these symptoms patient nervous and irritable. THE ORANGE BLOSSOM TREATMENT removes all these by a thorough process of absorption.

A LOCAL APPLICATION Perfectly harmless, which every lady can use, herself. Medicines taken internally will never relieve the many forms of female weakness. The remedy must be applied to the parts to obtain permanent relief.

A PLAIN TALK TO LADIES in our circular. Ask your druggist for one, or send two cent stamp to home office for sample box and circular.

EVERY LADY CAN TREAT HERSELF.

O. B. Pile Remedy. $1.00 FOR ONE MONTH'S TREATMENT. O. B. Stomach Powders.
O. B. Catarrh Cure. —PREPARED BY— O. B. Kidney Cones.

J. A. McGILL, M. D., & CO., 2 & 4 PANORAMA PLACE, CHICAGO, ILL.
FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
ALONZO O. FISHER, Wholesale Agent, 67 Washington St., Chicago, Ill.

THE WABASH LINE.
H-andsome equipment,
E-legant day coaches, and
W-agner palace sleeping cars
A-re in daily service
B-etween the city of St. Louis
A-nd New York and Boston.
S-pacious reclining chair cars
H-ave no equal
L-ike those run by the
I-ncomparable and only Wabash.
N-ew trains and fast time
E-very day in the year.

From East to West the sun's bright ray,
Smiles on the line that leads the way.

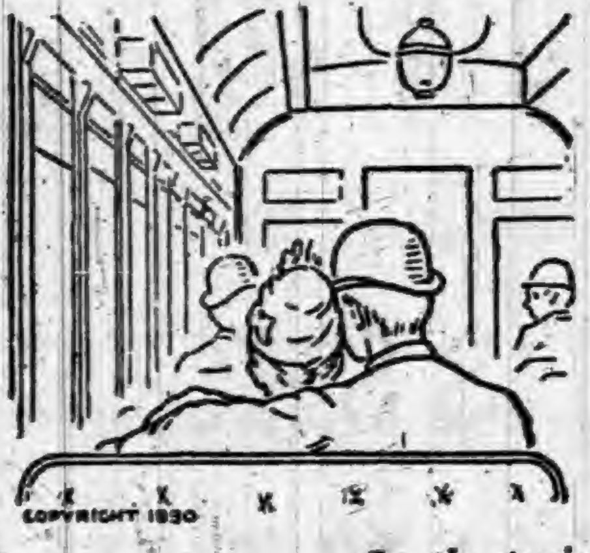
MAGNIFICENT VESTIBULE EXPRESS TRAINS, running free reclining chair cars and palace sleepers to St. Louis, Kansas City, and Council Bluffs. The direct route to all points in Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Texas, Indian Territory, Arkansas, Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, Washington, Montana, and California. For rates, routes, maps, etc., apply to any ticket agent or address F. CHANDLER, Gen. Pass. and Ticket Agent, St. Louis, Mo.

Poor Shooting.

No record of the work of the big guns on the big ironclads of Europe is allowed to be published, but the gunners admit that the big cannon are so unwieldy that an enemy a mile away might be fired at twenty times before being hit by accident. The best of gunners further declare that the mania for big guns has been run to foolishness.

"ALL is not at hand that helps." In other words we cannot foresee whence help may come to us, but every sensible housekeeper should know that every grocer sells SAPOLIO.

MARRIAGE may be a civil contract, but many behave in a very uncivil manner after entering into it.



In the train of diseases that follow a torpid liver and impure blood, nothing can take the place of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Nothing will, after you have seen what it does. It prevents and cures by removing the cause. It invigorates the liver, purifies and enriches the blood, sharpens the appetite, improves digestion, and builds up both strength and flesh, when reduced below the standard of health. For Dyspepsia, "Liver Complaint," Scrofula, or any blood-taint it's a positive remedy. It acts as no other medicine does. For that reason, it's sold as no other medicine is. It's guaranteed to benefit or cure, or the money is refunded.

"German Syrup"

A Farmer at Edom, Texas, Says:

"We are six in family. We live in a place where we are subject to violent Colds and Lung Troubles. I have used German Syrup for six years successfully for Sore Throat, Cough, Cold, Hoarseness, Pains in the Chest and Lungs, and spitting-up of Blood. I have tried many different kinds of cough Syrups in my time, but let me say to anyone wanting such a medicine—German Syrup is the best. That has been my experience. If you use it once, you will go back to it whenever you need it. It gives total relief and is a quick cure. My advice to everyone suffering with Lung Troubles is—Try it. You will soon be convinced. In all the families where your German Syrup is used we have no trouble with the Lungs at all. It is the medicine for this country. John Franklin Jones.

G. G. GREEN, Sole Man'fr, Woodbury, N.J.

SYRUP of FIGS

ONE ENJOYS

Both the method and results when Syrup of Figs is taken; it is pleasant and refreshing to the taste, and acts gently yet promptly on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels, cleanses the system effectually, dispels colds, headaches and fevers and cures habitual constipation. Syrup of Figs is the only remedy of its kind ever produced, pleasing to the taste and acceptable to the stomach, prompt in its action and truly beneficial in its effects, prepared only from the most healthy and agreeable substances, its many excellent qualities commend it to all and have made it the most popular remedy known.

Syrup of Figs is for sale in 50c and $1 bottles by all leading druggists. Any reliable druggist who may not have it on hand will procure it promptly for any one who wishes to try it. Do not accept any substitute.

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.
LOUISVILLE, KY. NEW YORK, N.Y.

A BIRTHDAY WISH.

BY LILIAN WHITING.

I.

What can I wish for thee, O friend of mine!
In all the bloom and beauty of the May?
Thou, whose fair life the poet's word portray,
Wearing the white flower with its breath divine.

II.

Wealth, power, and honor do I ask for thee;
Yet not the wealth that's counted but in gold;
The riches of right doing—purpose told
In deeds that stamp thy life with majesty.

III.

Power, not to use but for thyself alone,
But power to strengthen hands that else were weak,
And power to bring high thought to them that seek
And lead from all that's known to the Unknown.

IV.

The honor that must come from being true
Unto the Heavenly Vision—which shall shine
Ever upon your way—its light divine
Transfiguring all old meanings into new.

V.

This do I ask for thee in these May days,
That dawn with bloom and light and sweetness rife;
Wearing the white flower of a blameless life,
Your footsteps set in his appointed ways.

MARRIED AND PARTED.

"I wonder why she never married. She is a beautiful woman still. What must she have been when she was young? That chestnut hair of hers is more than tinged with gray, but the blue eyes are still bright and beautiful, and that pretty color of hers still comes and goes like a girl's. And how well she dresses! There's poetry and grace in every movement. If I didn't know she was an actress, I should take her for some great lady; she walks like one, she talks like one, and she looks like one."

"And you wouldn't be so very far out, Nibbs, after all."

Thus said Sir John Protocol, K. C. B., formerly of the diplomatic service, to Nibbs, the hack writer. Both of them were elderly men; they had been schoolfellows, and Nibbs had married Sir John's sister when that gentleman was a boy at Eaton, and, being brothers-in-law and having known each other all their lives, strange to say, they were still friends and cronies.

"Oh," said Mr. Nibbs, "she's a woman with a history, then?" and the old man's eyes began to sparkle till he looked like a dissipated vulture. "You'll have to tell the story, Jack, my boy. You couldn't have a better place to tell it in than this," said Mr. Nibbs, with a smile at the ceiling of the smoking-room of the Sarcophagus club.

"Well, if you want it," said Sir John, "I suppose you must have it. It was common property thirty years ago. It was in 1856 that I first saw her—the year after the prince imperial was born, and Napoleon was at the zenith of his power. We all went to the Odeon from patriotic motives, for there was an English debutante who was about to make her first appearance that night, and Pugsley, the chancellor, had told us that she was desperately good looking. Her name was Sylvia Seton then, and she's Sylvia Seton now. It's a wonderful thing, isn't it, Nibbs, that she an't married?" And then Sir John chuckle:

"We'd none of us seen her. When I say 'we,' I mean the fellows at the embassy, from the second secretary down to me, and I was junior unpaid attache at the time. 'She came into the chancellerie,' said Pugsley, 'herself and she left a dozen programs of her debut with me. That slip of a girl walked into the office as though she were a queen. And so she was,' he added, 'in the matter of beauty.' And then he began to rave about her eyes, and her hair, and her little pouting lips that were ruddier than the cherry, and the two little dimples that came into her cheeks when she smiled. 'And she is as good as gold, you know,' said Pugsley, 'for she wore darned gloves, and when a girl wears darned gloves you may swear that she's as good as gold.'

"We all went to the Odeon, partly from patriotic motives, because Sylvia Seton was an English girl, but principally on account of the enthusiasm of Pugsley, who was a judge of beauty, and we were all amateurs of that article in those days," said Sir John Protocol with a sigh. "I can't for the life of me remember the piece," he continued, "but it was something pastoral, poetical, and pretty; the debutante was charming, sir—she was a dream of loveliness, was Sylvia Seton; and the little English girl scored in the great, gloomy house that they call the second Theatre Francais; and she signed a six months' engagement that very night with Botibol, the manager of the Porte St. Martin. But she never played at Porte St. Martin, and the next thing we heard of Sylvia Seton was that she had married the Prince of Roxanbloxanfels. Now the Prince of Roxanbloxanfels was a serene highness, and when his father died he, being the eldest son, would become a grand transparancy, a reigning monarch, and an elector of the German Empire. But the Prince of Roxanbloxanfels was a brute—an ill-mannered, boorish oaf, who, if he had ever had any mind at all, had had it drilled out of him. He was a big man—a sort of a tailor's lay figure of a man. He was perfectly miserable in the society of respectable women, and he was engaged to be married to the only daughter of the Prince of Roulettenburg. He was a fair man, with cold, cruel, blue eyes and a retreating chin, and if anybody in Parisian society at that time had been asked to name the most disappated man in the French capital he would undoubtedly have selected Conrad, Prince of Roxanbloxanfels.

"The way that fellow persecuted poor little Sylvia Seton was monstrous. He sent her bouquets, he sent her diamonds, but his diamonds came back, and every night he used to turn up at the Odeon to glore like a hungry tiger at the charming little English ingenue. Sylvia Seton wouldn't have anything to do with the Prince. Then he tried to abduct her, and of course the matter was hushed up—equally of course it got into all the papers, and everybody knew perfectly well who Prince X. was, and how Mlle. Z., as they called poor little Sylvia, had boxed his ears in indignation.

"That would have been enough to have choked off any ordinary man, but it didn't choke off Prince Conrad, and one day, to our intense astonishment, we heard that he had married her; and the pair appeared everywhere, and none of us were surprised to see that she looked very miserable, indeed. But everybody said that she played her cards wonderfully well; and the women all envied her diamonds, and the men all envied the Prince of Roxanbloxanfels. For my own part, being young and romantic at the time, I pitied the poor little English girl, for I knew that her husband was a drunken brute, a cruel, heartless ruffian, who would be sure to treat her badly sooner or later.

"Within three months the Prince, her husband, left her, and he left her without a penny in the world. She didn't go back to the stage. She waited on in obscurity, living with her mother, and she made no sign until the approaching marriage of Prince Conrad, her husband, with Princess Amelia, of Roulettenburg, was formally announced. And then she came to ask for advice at the legation. She told Pugsley, our Chancellor, that a Catholic priest had married them in her mother's lodgings; she didn't know the name of the priest; she had no certificate of marriage. Pugley gave her good advice.

"My dear young lady," said Pugsley, "you are either legally married to Prince Conrad or your marriage to his serene highness was a mere sham; in which case, as I am strongly inclined to suspect, the Prince will have brought himself within the French criminal law. Should your marriage have been a legal one, Prince Conrad would not be so foolish as to go through an empty form of marriage with the Princess of Roulettenburg. The best thing you can do is to bide your time. Should this marriage take place you can set the criminal law in motion, and as a British subject you would have every assistance from the embassy here."

"And then if I succeed in proving my marriage, sir, I should ruin the life of the unhappy lady whom Prince Conrad is about to lead to the altar. Diplomacy is a machine that it takes a long time to set in motion, Mr. Pugley, and I shall go to Roxanbloxanfels to complain."

"'They'll probably have to buy you off in the end, mademoiselle?'

"'Perhaps I have failed to make myself understood, Mr. Pugsley,' said the lady. 'You are speaking, sir, to the wife of Prince Conrad of Roxanbloxanfels.'

"'Quite so,' said Pugsley, angry at being snubbed—the lady whose husband is about to be united to the Princess of Roulettenburg. Even princes,' he went on, 'don't, as a rule, commit bigamy in this nineteenth century, Mme. la Princesse.'

"I could have kicked that brute Pugsley. But she never noticed the insult.

"'Mr. Protocol,' she said, 'will you take me to my carriage?' And, as she said the words, whether she was a serene highness or only a little English player-girl, she looked a very queen—not a queen of the footlights, mind you, but the genuine article.

"Then she favored Pugsley, who looked very foolish, with a condescending bow, and I gave her my arm and took her out to her carriage, which was a common hack cab. She evidently believed she was married to that triple brute, the Prince Conrad.

"'Have you any further commands, Princess?' I asked. 'All of us here, with the exception of Pugsley—who, between ourselves, is an ass—are your devoted slaves. There's nothing we wouldn't do for you, and if you are in any difficulty or trouble we hope you will make use of us, for, Princess, we all love you for your talent, for your beauty, and for your pluck, and above all things, madam, because you are our countrywoman.'

"She thanked me and her lovely eyes looked all the brighter for the tears that stood in them as she did so.

"That night Sylvia Seton and her mother left Paris for Roxanbloxanfels.

"Now, the reigning monarch of Roxanbloxanfels was the father of his people. He was a tremendously virtuous monarch, and at the time I am speaking virtuous monarchs upon the continent of Europe were very rare. Every Sunday morning it was the custom of the reigning Prince of Roxanbloxanfels to appear publicly on the broad walk that ran in front of the palace, and the Roxanbloxanfelsers, his loyal subjects, and the English tourists who were stopping at the neighboring baths at Klein Kohlwasser would come to see the sight. Nobody ever spoke to the reigning Prince as he headed the procession, the Princess upon his arm, or the royal family of Roxanbloxanfels. Behind him, two and two, came the sixteen members of the royal family, eight Princes and eight Princesses, and all of them were virtuous—all except Conrad, the affianced husband of Princess Amalia of Roulettenburg, who, as you know, was a very bad one indeed.

"Now, Albrecht, reigning Prince of Roxanbloxanfels, was ambling along the center of the great gravel walk—his consort, the Princess Wilhelmine, who was fat, fair, and fifty, upon his arm.

"'The dear Conrad is feeling ill,' said the Princess Wilhelmine to her august spouse; and certainly the dear Conrad looked exceedinly unwell, for he had suddenly turned very red, then he had grown very pale, and, still remaining white as a ghost, he looked, if possible, more foolish than usual.

"The monarch turned to his son, the procession stopped, and Prince Albrecht was about to inquire after his son's health, when Sylvia Seton stepped out from the crowd, made Prince Albrecht a low courtesy, and placed a paper in his hand.

"'Permit me to introduce myself, Your Majesty, as the wife of your son, Prince Conrad,' she said. Thereupon the reigning Princess Wilhelmine fainted in the arms of her august husband, and gave a gentle scream; and the eight princesses, as one girl, each gave a little squeal and fainted in the arms of their eight princely brothers.

"'Bocksbeutel! Where is Baron Bocksbeutel?' shouted his serene transparency, the Prince Albrecht.

"A little old man in a cocked hat, looking like the pictures of Baron Munchausen and covered with orders, stepped forward, saluted, and stood at attention.

"'Present, Majesty!' cried Baron Bocksbeutel, chief of the secret police of Roxanbloxanfels.

"'Bocksbeutel,' said His Majesty with a melodramatic gesture, indicating Sylvia Seton, 'I commit this unfortunate lady to your charge. Poor thing, she is as mad as a hatter,' said His Majesty in a loud voice for the benefit of the bystanders.

"By this time the Princess Wilhelmine and her daughters had come to, and then His Majesty gave the word of command. 'Vorwarts,' he cried, and the royal party moved on. When they reached the royal apartments Prince Conrad was placed under provisional arrest, and after he had dined (they always dined at 1 at Roxanbloxanfels, because they were so virtuous) His Majesty Prince Albrecht sent for the crestfallen Conrad.

"'Conrad,' said his majesty in a terrible voice, 'is it true that the eldest of my sixteen august children has disgraced himself?'

"'Aas si bete,' answered Prince Conrad, who was very proud of his french; 'we were married—ma loi, it was but a comedy, little father. The priest who performed the ceremony was my confidential valet,' and the prince chuckled and smiled, and tugged at his great straw colored mustache.

"For a whole minute his serene transparency the Prince Albrecht was lost in deep thought.

"'You deceived this young girl, then,' he said. 'Son Conrad,' said the monarch, firmly, 'I am known as the most moral sovereign in Europe; that title is very dear to me. Mirerable boy, you must be married at once.'

"The luckless Prince Conrad fell upon his knees. He begged, he prayed; he vowed that the Princess Amalia of Roulettenburg was dearer to him than life. But his majesty was not to be moved, and he rang the bell for the court chaplain. The prime minister was sent for, and the British envoy resident at the court of Roxanbloxanfels was hurriedly summoned. Within half an hour Sylvia Seton was married to Prince Conrad in the private chapel of the palace of Roxanbloxanfels.

"Bride and bridegroom parted forever at the altar rails. Sylvia Seton was now a serene highness, but she declined to have anything more to do with Prince Conrad. She refused the handsome provision offered her by her royal father-in-law. She left for Paris the same night. Within the week Prince Conrad committed suicide. I was going to say he blew his brains out, but that was impossible; but he did shoot himself through the head. The thing was a nine days' wonder.

"As for Sylvia Seton, she is Sylvia Seton still. That's her story. Her sad dream of love and ambition was over, and from that day to this, Nibbs, that woman worked like a slave. She might have married well half a dozen times had she pleased, but she will remain Sylvia Seton to the end of the chapter. Her story has been forgotten long ago."

"You're not asleep, Nibbs?" asked Sir John Protocol a little anxiously.

"Asleep, Jack, my boy!" answered that gentleman. "Your story was most interesting and absolutely new to me. I know most of your stories, Jack," he added with a little yawn. "By the way, is their a word of truth in it?"

"Look in the 'Almanach de Gotha,'" said Sir John dryly.

"Let's have a brandy and soda," said Mr. Nibbs, "and drink her health."

And so they did.—St. James' Budget.

How He Broke the News.

You say that I'm pale and flustered, and shivering in my shoes; I'll be hanged if you wouldn't shiver if you had to "break the news." I suppose you have heard how Quimby is stretched on a bunk down there, with a pint or more of his own blue blood mixed up with his auburn hair? Well, they made me a joint committee to go to his house and tell his wife all about the scrimmage and what to her man befel. I went to the house up yonder, not mashed on the job, you bet, and my classic and blue-veined forehead was bathed in a quart of sweat. The woman was in the kitching, a-singing a plaintive song, but she dried up when she saw me, for she knew there was something wrong. Then I coughed and I hemmed and stammered, and "madam," said I, "be brave! your husband is now a-lying—" Oh, Lord! what a shriek she gave! And she walked up and down a-moaning and wringing her furrowed hands, and her hair fell down like sea-weed adrift by the ocean sands. "Oh Heaven," she cried, "my husband! They've taken my love from me," and the way that she reeled and staggered was a sight for a man to see; "so brave, so kind and so noble! So loving, so grand and strong, and now must I wait his coming in vain all the dark day long? And his children will wail in sorrow, and never again in glee troop down in the misty twilight and cluster about his knee." And so she went on raving; her screams for a block were heard; and I like a graven image stood there, without saying a word. It seemed like my tongue was frozen or glued to my pearly teeth, and hardly a breath came upward from the paralyzed lungs beneath. But I braced up all of a sudden, and "madam," said I again, "I am sorry—I'm deuced sorry—to have caused you this needless pain; let up on your frenzied screaming; you don't need to weep and wail; your old man ain't dead by a long shot; he's only locked up in jail." She glared at me for a minute—for a minute or two, and then she said: "So the darned old loafer is down there in jail again?" Then she picked up a tub and smashed it all over my princely head, and I saw she was getting ready to paint the whole landscape red. So I skipped through the gate and moseyed so fast that I tore my shoes; and they don't make me a committee in the future to break the news.—Lincoln Journal.

A Dead Cat Mine.

It was the man on whose land natural gas was first struck in the Findlay (O.) district, says the New York Sun, and he was telling some of us about it as we waited in the depot at Columbus:

"Wall, you know," he began, "my son Bill was a great hand to read. One day he laid away a book he had been reading and says to me:

"'Dad, I've been reading up on minerals and I'm going to find sunthin' right here on our farm.'

"'Shoo, Bill,' says I, 'but you won't strike nothing outside of the coblestones and worms.'

"But he went at it, and begun to dig, and bore, and fool around and leave me to hoe the corn, and one day he struck sunthin'. There came sich an infernal smell that both of us was drove to the house, and then the smell got so bad that we was drove to a neighbor's, and we had to let the hogs out of the pen or they would have keeled over.

"'Bill,' I says, when I got where I could breathe again, 'you said you'd strike sunthin' and you have. You've wasted three months' time gittin' down to whar Christopher Columbus buried about a thousand tom cats and we've all bin driv off the farm in consekence. It's my turn now to strike sunthin' and you kin get ready for the all-firedest lickin' a boy ever got.'

"I give it to him, gentlemen, and then I went spookin' around to find somebody who'd buy the farm at about the cost of the barn. A feller who seemed to have catarrh and didn't mind the smell closed up a deal with me, and I had to grin as I walked off with his money under my arm. I kept on grinnin' fur about a week, but then I heard some news that stopped me, and I guess it's three years since I've opened my mouth sideways. Them dead cats was worth $100,000 to me, and I sold 'em for $800 and walked around patting myself on the back fur bein' so all-fired cute."

OFFICE BOY (with high literary and oratorical ambition)—Mr. Dragg, may I ask you to maintain your eye on my lunch basket a few moments? Old Employe—Certainly. Office Boy—Thanks. I will retaliate.

"SITTING on ice" is a theatrical phrase for a house that does not applaud.

Boarding-House Portraits.

This vision of female loveliness is the landlady's daughter. The picture represents her in the act of telling an eligible boarder to "step this way into the parlor, sir," where she will play a tune for him on the upright piano, and sing a song which begins and ends with the line, "Meet me where the flowerets droop." After an eligible gentleman boarder has listened to the mocking bird sing once or twice, so to speak, the landlady asks for a private consultation. She tells him that under ordinary circumstances, owing to her aristocratic birth and associations, she would have to refuse him the hand of her daughter, but that she is a mother, and what mother will not sacrice her feelings, her pride, her everything, rather than blast her daughter's happiness for life? The eligible young man is surprised, and endeavors to explain, but, with a winning smile, she says she, too, has once been young, and she will not keep him from the side of his inamorata (she invariably drops into foreign languages when she is confidential). There is a tableau, of course, but next day, and forever afterward, the place that knew that eligible young man knows him no more. He has skipped.

This is the picture of a widow who lives at our boarding-house. She, according to her account, has seen better days. She tells how different things were with her before the war, how many negroes her husband owned, and what a dreadful thing she would have considered it in those days to have had to live in a boarding-house, and how painful to her it would have been to have been compelled, as she is now, to dine at the very unfashionable hour of 1 o'clock. She and our landlady exchange reminiscenses of the past, and of the pedigrees of their ancestors, at the table, when strangers are present, and the very forward young man who sits at the foot of the table says that they often go off together into a closet and weep over the landlady's plate.

This is the boarder, but he is timid, poor, and although ineligible, is deeply in love with the landlady's daughter, notwithstanding his affection is not reciprocated by either. He is never asked into the parlor to listen to the vocal music. If he sends up his cup for more coffee the landlady scowls, and rattles the silver spoons in the tray. He is never asked if he will not please take another piece of the breast of the chicken, or another piece of pie. He is as willing a little creature as ever lived, but he is never asked to fix a day for the nuptials, though he occasionally screws his courage nearly up to the sticking point. He believes all the landlady says about her aristocratic antecedents, and respects her accordingly. He has not a particle of doubt but that the silverware is really solid. He also believes that the curls and teeth of the landlady are genuine. He is the most profitable boarder she has, for the reason that, being in love, he does not eat much, while he pays up promptly, and even makes advances, not only to the daughter, but also to the mother, the advances to the latter being of a pecuniary character, and yet he is treated like a dog.—Texas Siftings.

"Dinner for Two. Appetite for One!"

Said a dyspeptic to the waiter, ordering for self and friend. And, suppose he had had an appetite, it would have agonized him, subsequently, to gratify it. O! the abominable pangs that even a little meal causes the confirmed victim of indigestion. Purgatory on earth—no less. Altogether unnecessary, though. Begin at once, systematically, a course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, ye unfortunates with refractory stomachs. In saying this we merely echo the recorded experience of thousands who have used the great stomachic to their lasting benefit. For the inaction of a sluggish liver, and for tardy or irregular action of the bowels, both very apt to accompany dyspepsia, this fine regulator is equally efficient. Malarial complaints, kidney trouble, rheumatism, and neuralgia depart when a resort is had to the Bitters.

A Formidable Cradle.

Perhaps the most formidable cradle in Europe is that in which the German Emperor, his brothers and sisters, and all his Hohenzollern ancestors since 1722 have been successfully rocked, or at least enthroned during the court procession which adds splendor to each royal christening. This ancient couch is a clumsy structure of old oak, richly carved; and round its four sides is cut, in large Roman characters, the text, "He hath given His angels charge over thee, that they keep thee in all thy ways."

Four of a Family Buried Together.

Four members of the family of Adam H. Sconce, living about fifteen miles from Salem, Ore., were buried side by side Sunday, all having died of la grippe. A young daughter died at 12 o'clock Friday night; at 1:20 her mother followed. The next night at 11 o'clock the father died, and at 1:20 o'clock his mother passed away.—San Francisco Bulletin.

A. M. PRIEST, Druggist, Shelbyville, Ind., says: "Hall's Catarrh Cure give the best of satisfaction. Can get plenty of testimonials, as it cures every one who takes it." Druggists sell it, 75c.

Music.

In the class in physiology, a bright boy was being questioned to bring out his general knowledge of the subject.

"What is the nose?" asked the teacher.

"The nose," said the boy, "is an organ."

"What is an organ?"

"An organ is an instrument of music."

"Ha! And what leads you to suppose that the nose is an instrument of music?"

"When Mr. Dash snores, in meetin', sir!"

BEST, easiest to use and cheapest. Piso's Remedy for Catarrh. By druggists. 50c.

Wardrobe for Two.

Wife—I can't go with you. The girl has gone out.

Husband—We can lock up. You are not obliged to stay at home because the girl goes out.

Wife—N—o, but she's borrowed all my street clothes.—Street & Smith's Good News

IF afflicted with Sore Eyes, use Dr. Isaac Thompson's Eye Water. Druggists sell it. 25c.

No Use for Eyes.

She (at the theater)—That blind man in the next row seems to be enjoying the playing as well as the rest of us.

He (seated behind a high hat)—Y-e-s, just about, just about.—Street & Smith's Good News.

A Good Appetite

There is nothing for which we recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla with greater confidence than for loss of appetite, indigestion, sick headache and other troubles of dyspeptic nature. In the most natural way this medicine gently tones the stomach, and makes one feel "real hungry."

Ladies in Delicate Health, or very dainty and particular at meals, after taking Hood's Sarsaparilla a few days, find themselves longing for and eating the plainest food with unexpected relish and satisfaction. Try it.

Hood's Sarsaparilla
Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.
100 Doses One Dollar

PATENTS Illustrated Hand Book free. J. B. CRALLE & CO., Washington, D. C.
Please mention this Paper every time you write.

How to Make Home Happy.

A wife, whose husband has a bulging brain and a homely face, used to try to make things pleasant at home by expressing her admiration of his talents and giving him the pet name of "Brains." Her delicate flattery did not seem to have much influence upon him, though she kept it up for a whole year after their marriage. One time, not long ago, when she was in a happy frame or melting mood or meditative state, she expressed her admiration of his comely countenance and at last went so far as to say she would give him the pet name of "Beauty." He smiled as she repeated the word with a full consciousness that she had touched his weak point. And now, whatever be his mood or mind or the vississitudes of life, that word dispels all other thought and the twain are happy.—N. Y. Sun

Distinguished Humbugs.

There is a good deal of humbug in the loudly expressed aversion of many distinguished men to the attention of the public. They say they want to be let alone, but I do not believe that is what they want at all. They want the bores to let them alone, but they would be very sorry if they received no attention at all from the public. The trouble is that there is no way of regulating this attention. Naturally enough, it is disagreeable to know that a crowd of tourists is peeping at you over your garden wall, or taking "snap shots" at you with a kodak at the most inopportune moments, but you deed not tell me that your pride is not gratified by the plaudits of the judicious.—Critic.

A Companion.

A little girl who is just learning to read short words, and, consequently, takes great interest in the big letters she sees in the newspapers. The other evening, after she had kept her mamma busy reading the advertisements in the newspapers to her, she knelt down to say her prayers. "Dear Lord," she lisped, "make me pure," then she hesitated, and went on, with added ferver, a moment later, "make me absolutely pure, like baking powder."—Jackson Mich., Courier.

THOUSANDS of cases of female disease have been treated by Mrs. Pinkham, and every fact recorded. Those records are available to suffering women, private correspondence solicited.

Accepted, or Hustled for It.

It sounds very easy and graceful to say that a man has accepted a position in some establishment. How much more truthful it would be if it were said instead, that after hard work, and waiting, and fighting with about fifty other applicants, he had finally secured a job.

The Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton Railroad will sell excursion tickets at greatly reduced rates to Middlesborough, Ky., that marvelous city, illustrative of Southern progress. The tickets are good going June 17 and returning till June 22. On sale at all C. H. & D. ticket offices. For pamphlets and full information address, E. O. McCormick, General Passenger and Ticket Agent, Cincinnati.

That's the Way.

"The way to get rapid transit in a town is to get it," says a Buffalo paper. That's correct, except that we don't know what they do with their old hearses and worn out rails, unless they send 'em to Detroit.—Free Press.

BEECHAM'S PILLS cure Sick-Headache.

Building a House.

A man who sets out to build a $3,000 house, after he gets through with it usually begins to wonder and figure how in Texas he had to pay out $4,500, and bills coming in yet.

FITS.—All Fits stopped free by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. No Fits after first day's use. Marvellous cures. Treatise and $2.00 trial bottle free to Fit cases. Send to Dr. Kline, 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

MONEY on call may be easy, but the collector who has to call for it forty or fifty times doesn't find it so.

Rheumatism —IS— PROMPTLY CURED BY St. Jacobs Oil

Cures Also: Neuralgia, Lumbago, Sciatica, Sprains, Bruises, Burns, Wounds, Swellings, Soreness, Frost-bites, Stiffness, All Aches.

THE Chas. A. Vogeler Co., Baltimore, Md.

A WOMAN BEST UNDERSTANDS A WOMAN'S ILLS.

The experiments of Lydia E. Pinkham that years ago gave to the world that blessing, the Vegetable Compound, were made through a feeling of sympathy for the afflicted of her sex. She discovered that nearly all the diseases of woman have a common origin, and therefore may have a common cure. That cure is known in all parts of the civilized world, and an average of 100 letters per day are received from grateful women.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S Vegetable Compound is sold by all Druggists as a standard article, or sent by mail, in form of Pills or Lozenges, on receipt of $1.00.

Send stamp for "Guide to Health and Etiquette," a beautiful illustrated book.

Lydia E. Pinkham Med. Co., Lynn, Mass.

The Soap that Cleans Most is Lenox.

The Soft Glow of The TEA ROSE Is Acquired by Ladies Who Use POZZONI'S MEDICATED COMPLEXION POWDER. TRY IT. SOLD EVERYWHERE.

Tutt's Pills enable the dyspeptic to eat whatever he wishes. They cause the food to assimilate and nourish the body, give appetite, and DEVELOP FLESH. Office, 39 & 41 Park Place, New York.

It PAID Me— 'Twill PAY You

Plain directions by which anybody, anywhere can make from $25 to $2,500 per year. 'Twill not interfere with, but will improve any business. Send Name, Postoffice and State, enclosing $1.00. Address, R. CONGDON, Nunda, Ill.

FREE ILLUSTRATED PUBLICATIONS, WITH MAPS, describing Minnesota, North Dakota, Montana, Idaho, Washington and Oregon, the Free Government and Cheap NORTHERN PACIFIC R. R. LANDS

Best Agricultural, Grazing and Timber Lands now open to settlers. Mailed FREE. Address CHAS. B. LAMBORN, Land Com. N. P. R. R., St. Paul, Minn.

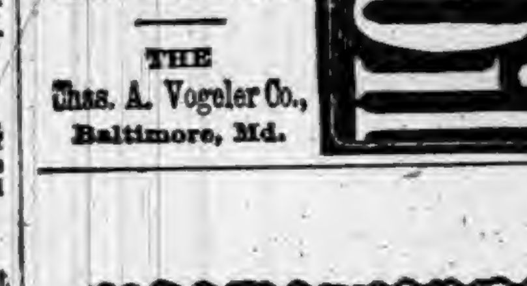
HIRES ROOT BEER THE GREAT HEALTH DRINK.

Package makes 5 gallons. Delicious, sparkling and appetizing. Sold by all dealers. A beautiful Picture Book and Cards sent free to any one sending their address to The C. E. HIRES CO., Phila., Pa.

FAT FOLKS REDUCED 15 to 25 lbs. per month by harmless herbal remedies. No starving, no inconvenience and no bad effects. Strictly confidential. Send 6c. for circulars and testimonials. Address Dr. O. W. F. SNYDER, McVicker's Theatre Bldg. Chicago, Ill.

PENSION JOHN W. MORRIS, Washington, D. C. Successfully Prosecutes Claims. Late Principal Examiner U. S. Pension Bureau. 3 yrs in last war, 15 adjudicating claims, atty since.

PENSIONS—Due all SOLDIERS! ½ disabled. $2 fee for increase. 25 years experience. Write for Laws. A. W. McCORMICK & SONS, WASHINGTON, D. C. & CINCINNATI, O.



LOVELL DIAMOND SAFETY $85 No Better Machine Made at Any Price.

Diamond Frame, Steel Drop Forgings, Steel Tubing, Adjustable Ball Bearings to all running Parts, including Pedals. Suspension Saddle. Finest material money can buy. Finished in Enamel and Nickel.

STRICTLY HIGH GRADE IN EVERY PARTICULAR.

Bicycle Catalogue FREE. Send six cents in stamps for our 100-page Illustrated Catalogue of Guns, Rifles, Revolvers, Sporting Goods of All Kinds, etc.

JOHN P. LOVELL ARMS CO., Mfrs., 147 Washington Street, BOSTON, MASS.

"PUNCH" says "Ought to be done?—Ought stands for nothing. The house ought to be cleaned—with Sapolio. Try a cake in your next house-cleaning and be convinced.

"IGNORANCE of the law excuses no man," and ignorance is no excuse for a dirty house or greasy kitchen. Better clean them in the old way than not at all; but the modern and sensible way is to use SAPOLIO on paint, on floors, on windows, on pots and pans, and even on statuary. To be ignorant of the uses of SAPOLIO is to be behind the age.

PISO'S REMEDY FOR CATARRH.—Best. Easiest to use. Cheapest. Relief is immediate. A cure is certain. For Cold in the Head it has no equal.

CATARRH

It is an Ointment, of which a small particle is applied to the nostrils. Price, 50c. Sold by druggists or sent by mail. Address, E. T. HAZELTINE, Warren, Pa.

"WOMAN, HER DISEASES AND THEIR Treatment." A valuable illustrated book of 72 pages sent free, on receipt of 10 cents, to cover cost of mailing, etc. Address P. O. Box 1091, Phila, Pa.

When Writing to Advertisers, please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

GREATEST Announcement Ever Heard of!

BEGINNING April 1,

WE WILL GIVE AWAY

TO THE TRADE at large, a handsome PARLOR ORGAN worth in the market $85.00, to the person who buys the highest amount of goods from One Dollar and upward at one time, for CASH ONLY, at our store up to Aug. 1st.

ALSO

A fine SUIT OF CLOTHES worth in the market $18.00 with the next highest amount purchased;

A nice Saratoga Trunk, worth in the market $8,00;

A fine pair of Ladies' French Kid Shoes, worth in the market $4 00,

A nice Fine Silk Umbrella, worth in the market $3.00;

We also give with this elegant instrument a handsome Organ Stool, and Instruction Book and a guarantee from the factory for five years. This instrument was just received from the factory and is bran new. Please call and see these articles. They are now on exhibition at our store. Remember they bear inspection.

Such an opportunity is not offered very often to obtain such elegant gifts for nothing. These goods which you buy you need anyway, and unless you find the prices satisfactory don't buy; and we will sell them to you as low as the lowest and defy competition in our line.

DON'T MISS THIS

Golden

Opportunity which will never be offered to you again.
Respectfully yours,

J. LŒWENSTEIN & CO.

IRA BRANDON,

Dealer in

GROCERIES

AND

PROVISIONS.

A complete line of

STAPLE

....AND....

FANCY

GROCERIES

Constantly on hand.

Goods are always fresh.

Cash or Trade

....FOR....

Butter, Eggs, and Lard.

Call and see me.

North Main Street,

Opposite Woolen Mills.

GARRETT'S FOURTH.

SHE WILL CELEBRATE.

—AND—

DE KALB COUNTY WILL HELP HER DO IT.

Read This!

Programme:

Industrial Parade.

Reading the Declaration, by Prof. F. M. Merica.

Oration, by Lev. A. L. Lamport, at 11, a. m.

Base Ball game, at 1, p. m.

Horse Racing, 1, p. m.

Bicycle, Sack, Foot and Wheelbarrow Races at 5 p. m.

Fireworks at 8, p. m.

The following program has been arranged for the races.

CLASS 1. Stake race. Free-for-all, trot or pace, open to horses owned in DeKalb Co. Entrance $3 00, association adds $20.00 Five to enter and three to start. Best 3 in 5, ⅔ mile heats.

CLASS 2. Stake race for gentlemen's drivers, open to horses that have never been tracked. Entrance $1, association adds $10. Five to enter and three to start. Best 3 in 5, two-thirds mile heats.

CLASS 3. Stake race for two-year-old trotters or pacers. Entrance $1, association adds $10. Five to enter and three to start. Best 2 in 3, one-third mile heats.

CLASS 4. Running, for branded ponies. Entrance free. Purse $5 to the winner. Best two in three, one-third mile dash.

All purses divided, first 66⅔ per cent and 33⅓ per cent, except running, which is $5 to the winner. Races called promptly at 1 p. m. and governed by the rules of the American trotting association. A horse distancing the field will only be entitled to first money. Entries close at 12 o'clock on day of races. Admission to the grounds free.

A. F. HALTER, Sec'y.
J. A. CLEVENGER, Pres.

The construction department of the Exposition is authority for the statement that by the Fourth of July 15,000 men will be at work on the World's Fair buildings in Jackson Park, and that a month lates the number will be not less than 30,000.

To Colorado via BURLINGTON ROUTE

Only One Night on the Road.

Leave Chicago at 1:00 p. m., or St. Louis at 8:25 a. m., and arrive Denver 6:15 p. m. the next day. Through sleepers, chair cars and dining cars. All railways from the east connect with these trains and with similar trains via Burlington Route to Denver, leaving Chicago at 6:10 p. m., St. Louis at 8:15 p. m., and Peoria at 3:20 p. m., and 8:00 p. m. All trains daily. Tourists tickets are now on sale, and can be had of ticket agents of all roads and at Burlington Route depots in Chicago, Peoria and St. Louis. There is no better place than Colorado for those seeking rest and pleasure. 38

AGENTS WANTED by an old reliable firm; large profits, quick sales, SAMPLE FREE. A rare opportunity. Geo. A. Scott, 842 Broadway, N. Y.

Dissolution of Co-partnership.

Notice is hereby given that the partnership heretofore existing between the undersigned, under the name of Fluke & Kline, as printers and publishers of the Auburn Times, has been dissolved by mutual agreement, and the interest of J. F. Kline transferred to the undersigned Frank E. Fluke, who will continue the business.

All claims and demands owing to said firm are transferred and payable to said Frank E. Fluke only.

FRANK E. FLUKE,
J. F. KLINE.

Auburn, Ind., June 8, 1891.

Notice to Contractors.

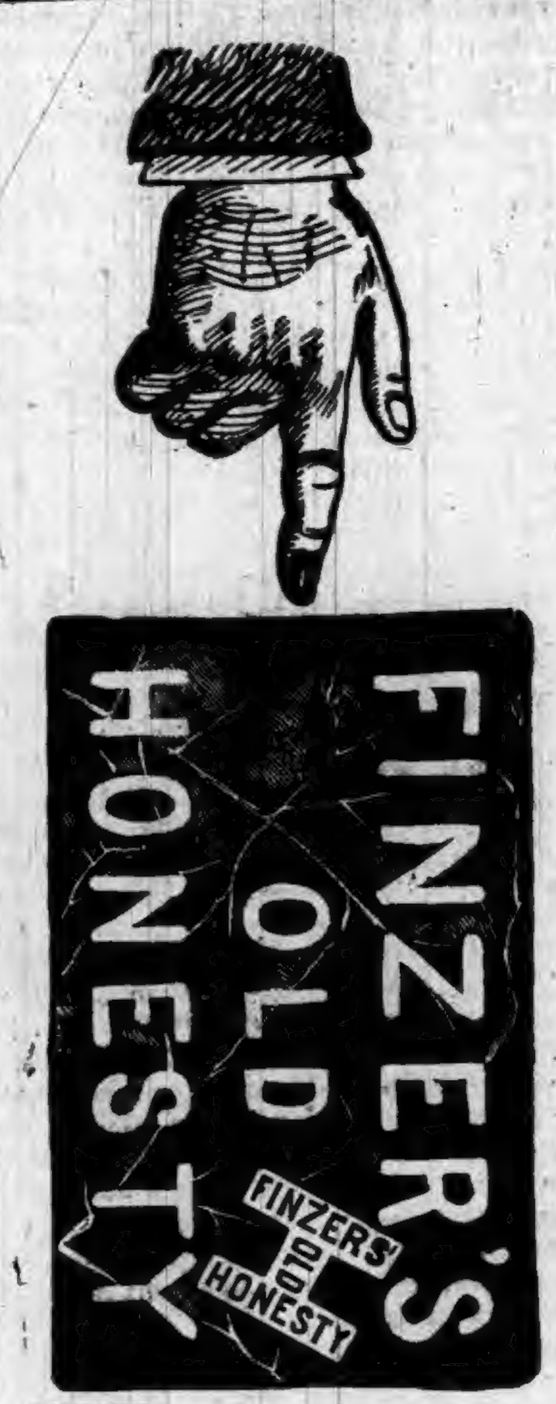
I will receive sealed bids for the construction of a brick school house in District No. 6, in Jackson Township, up to

Saturday, June 27, 1891,

at 10 o'clock a. m. Plans and specifications can be seen by calling on me at my office in District No. 2. I reserve the right to reject any and all bids.

J. J. WALTER, Trustee of Jackson Tp.

June 8, 1891.



THE CHEWERS OF

OLD HONESTY TOBACCO

WILL SOON FIND THAT IT LASTS LONGER, TASTES SWEETER THAN OTHER TOBACCOS, AND WILL PLEASE YOU. ASK YOUR DEALER FOR IT, AND INSIST ON GETTING IT. EVERY PLUG STAMPED LIKE ABOVE CUT.

JNO. FINZER & BROS., Louisville, Ky.

CORRESPONDENCE

WATERLOO.

Mrs. William Francis has hay fever.

Tuesday there was a picnic at Hamilton.

I. J. Fitzgerald went to Auburn last Thursday.

John Sinclair and wife are the parents of a new boy.

Rev. W. H. Mygrantz and son Marion, are still here.

Miss Veva Walker is visiting friends in Ft. Wayne.

Mrs. Keller is visiting her married daughter at Goshen.

Wednesday Frank Davenport of Auburn, visited Waterloo.

Mrs. Archibald Sinclair who has been ill for some time is better.

Kapp and S. P. Strow will run a meat market on the north side.

Richard Lock has finished his college course and is now at home.

Flora Speer returned from Otterbein University on last Saturday.

Capt. Edge is doing a flourishing business in the hotel lately opened.

A number of Waterloo people went on the excursion to Warsaw Thursday.

We regret to hear Jacob Beck has rented his new building for a saloon.

Mrs. Goodwin expects to occupy her new home on Maple street in a few days.

Mrs. B. F. Blair and son, of Newville, visited the family of Gen. Blair Tuesday.

The L. M. C. held their regular session Tuesday of this week at the home of Mrs. Mary Morell.

Editor Willis and wife attended the editorial meeting at South Bend, and say they had a fine meeting.

Mrs, Kramer of Striker, Ohio, who has been visiting friends here for a few days returned home Thursday.

Richard Shull and wife lately returned from the west were the guests of J. G. Johnson and wife Tuesday.

Among the victims to measles, have been Mrs. Florence Waterman and daughter Ethel, and Alpha Carpenter.

The youngest son of J. R. Duncan had three fingers sawn from his left hand while working in the buggy body factory last week.

John Meeks and wife have gone to Hamilton for the summer, to keep an eating house, sell beer and perhaps something stronger.

Mr. Howenstein and family, who have been visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Willis, have returned to their home at Bellfontaine, Ohio.

Prof. T. J. Sanders, formerly of the Butler schools was elected last week president of Otterbein University located at Westerville, Ohio.

The new marshall has the grit to even stop young ladies from misbehaving, as he did at the children's meeting at the U. B. church on last Sunday night.

Mrs. Barns and Mrs. Richards from Auburn drove over here Tuesday the ninth, and attended the preliminary services, and the decoration of the Odd Fellows' graves.

Charles Bassett is visiting his father and family here. It looks quite natural to see him at work with his father. His home is at Anderson where his family are at this time.

A young man by the name of Coffrin had a leg broken over at Robinson's livery stable last Thursday either by being thrown from his horse or being kicked by it. He says the former, others the latter.

William Kapp has bought out the interest young Goodwin owned in the meat market business, and sold an interest in the same to Simon Strow. The business is removed to Mr. Strow's building. It has been on wheels lately.

Quite a number of ladies from Waterloo went over to Auburn a few days ago. Some went in carriages, others on horse back. They called themselves a "brigade" and as most if not all were Methodists, we may call them a "Methodist brigade."

Little Harriet Dickinson standing in the buggy in front of her father holding the lines with a very grave face as if a heavy responsibility was resting on her shoulders, made a pretty picture and an original one, that should have been photographed.

Ollie Lehman has gone to Ft. Wayne for three months to take charge of the children and house, while her sister and and husband, Dr. Marks now in California. Dr. Tony Lehman is also there, and takes the practice of Dr. Marks in his absence.

A son of Mr. Greenwood who formerly resided near Hamilton had his leg broken just above the knee, by a vicious horse which he was attending, rearing and falling on him. He is now at Edge's hotel under the treatment of Surgeon Chamberlain.

Last Tuesday evening after ten o'clock a crowd of men and women were gathered infront of George Derthick's. Soon two of the women after a war of words, commenced using their fists upon each other. The marshal was on hand and arrested both. After a vain effort to escape from him and upon learning the intention was to put them in the calaboose, they plead, and made all sorts of promises of good behavior, if allowed to go home. They were set free for this time, and quietly went their way. Such scenes are becoming quite too common.

The children's meeting in the U. B. church last Sunday night was one of the best and largest ever held there. Wm. Dye is superintendent of the school. The singing was led by W. H. Bachtel, while Miss Mattie Maxson presided at the organ. A large arch was placed on the rostrum in which were swinging two gates, called the "gates of childhood." These were profusely decorated with evergreens and flowers, The house was densely packed, and some say, enough were turned away to fill another house. The exercises were of a high order, and appropriate for such an occasion. Rev. S. P. Klotz led the devotional. The intense heat of the evening militated somewhat against the exercises.

BUTLER.

E. A. Campbell and wife, of Toledo, O., are visiting with J. A. Campbell.

The town dads are putting in some substantial crossings on Broadway and North streets.

Our streets have been quite lively the past week with wool and grain. Prices have ruled quite favorable.

Butler was fairly well represented at the Sunday school convention at St. Joe last week. It was a success in point of interest and numbers, but the statistical reports from township presidents and superintendents were painfully deficient in their most essential parts.

Hamilton lake is putting on new attractions. A steamer seventy feet long and twenty-four feet wide has been constructed by the Houlton brothers, and will be ready to make round trips to the different points on the lake, with brief stops to allow the thirsty passengers time to imbibe a glass of lager or something stronger at a saloon that is being stuck up in the woods at that point.

CONCORD.

Otho Seberts will soon leave for Iowa.

Mrs. F. Buchanan and son Harry were at Auburn last Friday.

Hattie Ricketts has relatives visiting her from Hicksville, Ohio.

Remember children's exercises at Concord in the evening June 21.

Miss Rose Jones of Edgerton, Ohio, is here visiting her sister Mrs. B. Fetters.

The children's exercises at Fairview last Sabbath evening was largely attended.

Last Saturday was all could be desired. The farmers began wheeling in at the early hour of seven o'clock with single and double carrages and even their large farm wagons loaded with provisions. At ten o'clock the speaker arrived and the crowd was ably addressed by Mr Hamm, of Frankfort, and Cal Husselman, of Auburn. At 12 o'clock they all sat down to a bountiful dinner. The entire day was enlivened by the fine music furnished by the St. Joe band, also the glee club. But hark the grand old martial music stirred them all to a high degree. The Alliance was on a tony perch, they killed the fatted calf furnished by J. B. Sechler, served warm dinner, strawberries, ice cream, lemonade, cigars, etc. To say the least the occasion was an enjoyable one. They made the neat little sum of $75.

A New Lake Shore Station.

President John Newell of the Lake Shore road was here last week, looking over things at the station, with a view to building a new passenger house. Mr. DeLapp showed him the grounds of the company, and he was surprised to see how much they had. The chances are, a new building will soon be erected, and that it will be located on the railroad land between Phillip Fluke's residence and the track and stand on the south side of Seventh street. But of course if a majority of the citizens should ask to have a different location, it could be settled that way. After the new passenger room is occupied, the old one, will be given up to freight wholly. Mr. DeLapp says much more room is needed, as the great increase of business, would in general demand more, but the growing manufacture of buggies requires an extraordinary amount more of storage. He says that during the time he has been in charge of the roads business here it has more than doubled in every way.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder.

A Pure Cream of Tartar Powder. Superior to every other known. Used in Millions of Homes—40 Years the Standard.

Delicious Cake and Pastry, Light Flaky Biscuit, Griddle Cakes, Palatable and Wholesome.

No other baking powder does such work.

Commissioners' Allowance.

POOR.
Wyatt & Flint	$ 46 19
John Steckley	16 50
J D Leighty	27 00
A J & G M Ralston	2 12
Joseph Crays	40 00
Grueter Bros	10 23
J Beck & Son	4 28
H C Shull	1 80
M E Reynolds	15 16
A B Kelley	3 12
T J Carpenter	1 75
R T Duncan	18 89
Speer & Co	7 97
J W Hughes	1 00
H W Bowman	15 50
D W Jenner	75
A S Farrington	5 00
Bevard & Kenyon	11 86
C C Shaffer	34 25
N J Shook	61 25
Hebel Bros	84 35
Barry & Seely	5 00
H W Bowman	19 00
M E Garrett	4 00
V C Bronson	32 50
F A Hoff	21 37
B S Sheffer	37 25
H J Mossey	3 00
Casebeer & Matheny	14 75
Knisely Dry Goods Co	3 75
Wm Curie	3 55
D T McNabb	20 50
J W Tyson	5 00
Beams Bros	12 00
J J Walter	8 70
Knisely Bros	2 00
A S Farrington	14 00
D A Sebring	5 50
H J Mossey	25 04
S W Otis	12 00
A B Darby	29 75
M M Bowen	3 50
R S S Reed	13 00
J S Barrett	10 00
Jacob Showalter	2 00
W H Oberlin	2 00
W H Nusbaum	25 00
Anna Clouse	27 00
Frank Boren	54 05
C P Glazier	214 00
Ida Richards	15 50
Hebel Bros	16 45
J N Myers	3 10
W P Harter & Co	26 70
Wm Sheffer	3 15
Wm Crane	8 00
W H Nusbaum	31 75
"	19 70
Joe Rainier	5 26
W H Fair	35
W H Kiblinger	3 25
J Beuret	3 00
M Jones & Son	24 78
J L Davis	12 40
Schaab Bros	16 05
J A Potter	6 80
F Jones Sr	1 00
H J Mossey	11 40
Schaab & Murphy	3 90
A J & G M Ralston	28 04
F E Davenport	9 45
S L Campbell	13 79
J B White	22 46
Schnell & Weeks	6 65
F A Hoff	13 50
J R Steves	10 00
J N Wilson & Son	9 05
D J Swarts	4 50
M E Garrett	2 00
Abel & Flint	27 11
B A Woodcox	16 00
J Miller	8 00
E Grindle	6 00
W R Coburn	30 00
J V Lewis	10 00
M M Bowen	12 15
Mrs P Plum	9 75
Robbins & McCord	5 40
Jacob Brechbill	10 00
PUBLIC BUILDINGS.
G W McKay	15 45
Phil Plum	71 66
Auburn Mining Co	39 17
" " "	87 50
J Beuret	1 50
W H Kiblinger	87 75
Geo Wagner	6 00
J H Baker	28 88
Auburn Mining Co	3 00
T H Tomlinson	4 00
ROADS AND DITCHES.
D W Baker	6 50
F R Dills	1 20
Phil Plum	76 90
Wm Ervin	50 00
H N Coffinberry	156 50
J M Hook	232 00
INQUESTS.
L D Miser	1 50
C E Emanuel	6 00
L D Miser	19 10
Chas Emanuel	4 00
D A Garwood	7 00
John Pipes	80
Hattie E Britton	80
Anna J McIntosh	80
B G Watson	80
W H Nusbaum	80
J B Casebeer	80
D J Swarts	80
P P Sanborn	2 00
I O Buchtel	80
CRIMINALS.
Phil Plum	137 58
FEES AND SALARY.
H J Shaffer	25 00
Reuben Sawvel	200 00
C M Merica	308 00
F Broughton	6 25
H N Coffinberry	593 24
" "	55 47
G A Bishop	23 00
PRINTING & STATIONERY.
W B Burford	616 28
Garrett Clipper	9 50
Auburn Dispatch	6 00
Auburn Times	2 00
" "	8 00
J A Barns	30 05
Robbins & McCord	10 90
Jacob M Hook	4 36
J A Barns	79 30
BENEVOLENT INSTITUTIONS.
R Sawvel	225 62
Children's Aid Society	128 73
BRIDGES.
Eagle Iron works	69
ROAD EXPENSES.
H J Crooks	337 37
ASSESSMENT EXPENSES.
H N Coffinberry	129 10
MISCELLANEOUS.
Geo M Crane, postage	3 60
C M Merica, postage	11 30
J L Davis	12 35
R Sawvel	31 15
F E Davenport	39 31

Music Free.

Expense not considered, every pianist should be able to tune his own instrument for often one string out of tune gives as much trouble as though the whole scale were so and no tuner available. Our new book teaches a new method, whereby every lady or gentleman can tune for themselves. The Press, New York, says: "It teaches how to tune a piano by a new and simple process and divests the art of all mystery, It also explains how to remedy all defects in both piano and organ." The regular price of the book bound in half cloth is 75c., but in order to introduce it quickly we will send it free, with ten pieces of music and a present that sells for one dollar, to all sending nine two-cent stamps for postage, etc., and the names of five persons who play. This offer is only made for a short time by a reliable house. Great terms to composers. Address

STANDARD MUSIC CO.,
25 90 Euclid-ave., Cleveland, O.

FIRE!

IN THE EYE OF

WILSON The Shoe Man.

500 PAIRS SHOES

ALL KINDS

AT ACTUAL COST.

J. N. WILSON & SON,

NORTH SIDE OF SQUARE,

AUBURN, IND.

"There is plenty of room at the top,"
So the well-known saying ran,
And the summer thermometer hotly said:
"I will get there if I can."

At Home.

Decatur, Ind., March 25, 1890

The Dr. Marshall Medicine Co.

Genslemen: Permit me to inform you that the medicine which I purchased of you, Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup, is the best medicine I ever used for bronchitis, asthma and coughs. I have for many years been troubled with bronchial affections and asthma, and I never found anything that so effectually removes these difficulties as Dr. Marshal's Lung Syrup. I consider it the best remedy known for bronchitis, asthma and coughs, all of which I am willing to attest by affidavit if demanded.

DAVID SHOWERS
ex-Probate judge of Adams Co.

Sold by F. E. Davenport.

There are many different ways of emptying a public treasury, but the republican ring politicians are masters of them all.

Wanted, 1000 Ladies.

To call on their druggist, F. E. Davenport and ask for Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup, the best medicine to take for coughs, colds and consumption, Guaranteed to cure or money refunded. This medicine is considered by those that have used it to be the most pleasant to taste, and more effective than any other cough remedy in the market. One single bottle often curing the most severe cases of so called consumption that were really nothing more than a neglected cough, with pains in the throat and lungs. Sold by F. E. Davenport.

The military band should not play "Where did you get that hat," at the White House receptions.

Cure Many Diseases.

Chamberlain's Restorative Pills will be found just the thing to use in cases of dyspepsia, heartburn, sick headache, giddiness, colic, want of appetite, palpitation, rush of blood to the extremities, etc. Remember this medicine has been tried and found to be perfect. Sold by all druggists. 2

"Old man" Raum still holds on to the Commissionership of Pensions. His posterior calosity must be case-hardened.

Says the Southern Medical World:

"Mother's Friend" is growing in favor throughout the south and is highly recommended by physicians. We consider it indispensible to those who know they must pass through the ordeal of childbirth. Write Bradfield Reg. Co., Atlanta, Ga., for particulars, Sold by F. E. Davenport and all druggists.

The hole in the treasury where the surplus used to be is now about the size of grandfather's hat.

James T. Gott, Carmi, Ill., Says:

He paid thirty-one dollars doctor's bill for his wife in one year, and one bottle of Bradfield's Female Regulator did her more good than all the medicine taken before. H. DALE, Druggist. Carmi, Ill.

Write Bradfield Regl. Co., Atlanta, Ga., for particulars. Sold by F. E. Davenport and all druggists.

The democratic papers of Indiana are all talking about Gov. Gray for the presidency in 1892.

Consumption Surely Cured.

TO THE EDITOR:—Please inform your readers that I have a positive remedy for the above-named disease. By its timely use thousands of hopeless cases have been permanently cured. I shall be glad to send two bottles of my remedy FREE to any of your readers who have consumption if they will send me their Express and P. O. address. Respectfully, T. A. SLOCUM, M. C., 181 Pearl St., N. Y.

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

The only line running through solid Vestibuled Trains between Chicago and Philadelphia via Washington and Baltimore.

Time Card in Effect May 10, 1891.

Stations— WEST-BOUND.
Bellaire lv	am * 7.28	pm *10.13	......	am * 9.53	pm * 3.52
Zanesville	9.56	am 12.41	am † 6.40	pm 12.46	6.20
Newark ....ar	10.40	1.20	7.25	1.40	6.58
Columbus ......ar	pm 1.30	2.50	8.35	2.50	9.20
Mansfield lv	12.29	3.05	10.38	4.05	9.08
Deshler	3.10	5.30	10.21	10.25	am 12.13
Defiance	3.57	6.10	11.15	11.35	1.05
Auburn Jc	4.58	7.10	pm 12.30	am 1.02	2.14
Chicago ....ar	9.30	11.25	6.10	8.55	7.00
Stations— EAST-BOUND.
Chicago lv	am *10.10	pm * 2.55	am † 6.30	pm * 6.55	pm *10.25
Auburn Jc	....	7.10	pm 12.07	11.20	am 3.06
Defiance	pm 3.02	8.00	1.29	am 12.18	4.23
Deshler	3.38	8.42	2.25	1.00	5.30
Mansfield	6.15	11.20	4.56	3.50	9.45
Newark ......ar	7.50	am 12.55	7.00	5.25	pm 12.01
Columbus	9.20	2.50	......	......	1.30
Zanesville......lv	8.51	1.44	......	6.12	1.22
Bellaire ......ar	11.20	4.12	......	9.20	4.20
(EASTERN TIME.) Wheeling ......ar	am 12.55	5.40	......	11.00	6.00
Pittsburg	......	8.25	......	pm 4.40	8.50
Washington D.C	11.46	pm 4.45	......	...	am 7.10
Baltimore	pm 1.00	5.50	......	......	8.30
Philadelphia ...	3.32	8.15	......	......	11.10
New York	5.52	10.35	......	......	pm 1.40

*Trains run daily. †Daily except Sunday. Sleeping and dining cars on all through trains. For further information call on B. & O. Ticket Agent or address L. S. Allen, As't G. P. Ag't, Chicago. City Office, Auburn, Ind.

FORT WAYNE BRANCH

L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—In Effect June 7, 1891.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations—	Mail.	Exp'ss	Fre'gt.
Fort Wayne, ...dp	11 50 am	4 40 pm	6 40 am
New Era	12 20 pm	5 22	7 29
Auburn Junc	12 31	5 33	7 45
Auburn	12 34	5 36	8 06
Waterloo	12 46	5 47	8 20
Summit	12 55	5 57	10 00
Pleasant Lake	1 05	6 07	10 20
Angola	1 13	6 18	10 45
Fremont	1 27	6 34	11 20
Reading	1 53	7 04	1 07 pm
Bankers	2 00	7 15	1 45
Hillsdale	2 12	7 30	......
Ft. Wayne Junc ..	2 28	7 39	2 45
Jonesville	2 25	7 41	2 50
Jackson	3 30	8 40	5 10

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations—	Freight	Exp'ss	Mail
Jackson ....dp	6 45 am	11 15 am	6 30 am
Jonesville	8 50	12 10 pm	7 23
Ft. Wayne Junc ...	8 55	12 15	7 25
Hillsdale	......	12 45	7 40
Bankers	9 40	12 56	7 51
Reading	10 05	1 07	8 01
Fremont	11 20	1 50	8 32
Angola	12 01 pm	2 10	8 48
Pleasant Lake	12 30	2 22	8 58
Summit	12 55	2 35	9 08
Waterloo	2 00	2 50	9 20
Auburn	2 55	3 10	9 33
Auburn Junc	3 13	3 13	9 36
New Era	3 50	3 23	9 47
Fort Wayne	5 30	3 55	10 20

For rates on tickets or freight to all points, call on or address E. T. DELAPP, Agent at Auburn. The Lake Shore via Cleveland in connection with the Erie, and P. & L. E. R. R., forms the quickest and most direct route to Pittsburgh.

TO WEAK MEN

Suffering from the effects of youthful errors, early decay, wasting weakness, lost manhood, etc., I will send a valuable treatise (sealed) containing full particulars for home cure, FREE of charge. A splendid medical work; should be read by every man who is nervous and debilitated. Address,

Prof. F. C. FOWLER, Moodus, Conn.

Recorder's Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XXI. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY JUNE 25, 1891. NUMBER 26.

Rickel & Sprott

—Have—

Money

TO LOAN

IN SUMS OF

$1,000

And Up,

AT 6 PER CENT.

Apply at once, as the amount is limited. Apply to

RICKEL & SPROTT,

Real Estate and Immigration Ag'ts,

Under Farmers Bank, AUBURN, IND.

The National Lithographers' Association has decided to make an extensive exhibit of lithography at the Exposition.

A Fatal Mistake.

Physicians make no more fatal mistake than when they inform patients that nervous heart troubles come from the stomach, and are of little consequence. Dr. Franklin Miles, the noted Indiana specialist, has proven the contrary, in his new book on "Heart Disease," which may be had free at F. E. Davenport's, who guarantees and recommends Dr. Miles' unequaled New Heart Cure, which has the largest sale of any heart remedy in the world. It cures nervous and organic heart disease, short breath, fluttering, pain or tenderness in the side, arm or shoulders, irregular pulse, fainting, smothering, dropsy, etc. His restorative nervine cures headache, fits, etc. 5

Thomas Nast, the artist, is being feted and made much of by distinguished people in London.

Wanted, 1000 Ladies.

To call on their druggist, F. E. Davenport and ask for Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup, the best medicine to take for coughs, colds and consumption, Guaranteed to cure or money refunded. This medicine is considered by those that have used it to be the most pleasant to taste, and more effective than any other cough remedy in the market. One single bottle often curing the most severe cases of so called consumption that were really nothing more than a neglected cough, with pains in the throat and lungs. Sold by F. E. Davenport.

Chauncey M. Depew has been asked by Director General Davis to visit Europe as a commissioner of the World's fair.

A Wonder Worker.

Mr. Frank Huffman, a young man of Burlington, Ohio, states that he had been under the care of two prominent physicians, and used their treatment until he was not able to get around. They pronounced his case to be consumption and incurable. He was persuaded to try Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds and at that time was not able to walk across the street without resting. He found before he had used half of a dollar bottle, that he was much better; he continued to use it and is to-day enjoying good health. If you have any throat, lung or chest trouble try it. We guarantee satisfaction. Trial bottle free at Robbins & McCord's 5

The young king of Servia is said to have inherited many of his father's characteristics, which is the worst thing that could have happened to him.

Says the Southern Medical World:

"Mother's Friend" is growing in favor throughout the south and is highly recommended by physicians. We consider it indispensible to those who know they must pass through the ordeal of childbirth. Write Bradfield Reg. Co., Atlanta, Ga., for particulars, Sold by F. E. Davenport and all druggists.

Four St. Bernard dogs, each valued at $4,000, arrived at New York Monday.

LOUIS WOLF & CO.,

54 Calhoun St., - - FORT WAYNE, Ind.

CARPET DEPARTMENT

is stacked to the ceiling with a magnificent line of carpets.

Moquettes, that are NEW in pattern and delicate, soft tone, color almost too beautiful to walk on.

VELVETS

54 inches wide, don't cost any more proportionately than the narrow goods, because of the width you have less seams in your carpet. The pile won't sweep or pull out. New patterns in BODY BRUSSELS, and at a price a little lower than elsewhere. Magnificent line of tapestries, and all of them are private patterns to us in this market.

We show the full line of Lowell Ingrains, They are prettier this year than ever before, and the price is right. New styles of Portiers and Chenille curtains. Large line of Lace Curtains and Swiss Muslin. Mats, Rugs, Matting and Window Shades. We will send our Upholsters to your city to lay your new carpets. We employ only strictly first-class workmen.

DRESS GOODS.

Our stock of Dress Goods is complete in every detail. Prices the lowest Spring Jackets, Reefers and capes in great variety.

LOUIS WOLF & CO.,

54 Calhoun St., FORT WAYNE, Ind.

☞ Mail Orders Promptly Attended to

AUBURN AND VICINITY.

Some Reminiscences of its Early Days and Pioneer Citizens.

1849,—Continued.

This plan of the division of the village into wards was then presented to the voters present and meeting their concurrence, names were presented for trustees of the respective wards and a ballot had with the following result: First ward, O. A. Parsons received 20 votes, A. Watkins 3 votes, and D. Stroh 5 votes. Second ward, Wesley Park received 22 votes and Phillip Fluke 7; third ward, Nelson Payne received 26 votes and M. Waterman 3; fourth ward, James T. Bliss received 11 votes T. J. Bliss 9, Charles Stimely 7 and John Morris 1. Joel E. Hendricks received 28 votes for trustee of the fifth ward and met no opposition.

Thereupon, O. A. Parsons, Wesley Park, Nelson Payne, James T. Bliss and Joel E. Hendricks were declared duly elected trustees for their respective wards and so became the first board of trustees of the incorporated town of Auburn.

We know from previous history, the names of a number of voters who were not present at this the first town election but it is a matter of public interest to learn who composed the thirty electors who showed interest in Auburn's progress in its advance from village to town, and hence the roll is here given as follows:

T. R. Dickinson, O. A. Parsons, J. T. Bliss, E. B. Mott, F. Jones, A. Watkins, John Morris, Isaac Jones, Wm. B. Dancer, Wm. Abright, J. H. Ford, Daniel Stroh, Z, Tanner, Daniel Hartrough, S. W. Ralston, John Bolinger, George Wagoner, Stephen Latson, Phillip Fluke, C. Stimely. A. Plum, M. Waterman, W. Park, John Johnston, Lewis Weaver, Harrison Jones, E. Wetsel, E. R. Woodbury, Henry Curtis and George Webb.

Of the above named men who organized town government for Auburn some yet live but they are few in number. Death has been relentless and here in the town sharing its depressions and its prosperity, there have been those who made it their home all the intervening years to the present. The old resident has been respected not simply because of long residence but that he has had sterling traits of character which commanded esteem.

There are those who could narrate much concerning these men, their ability, their success, their business or professional qualities, much that the writer cannot know so that, at most he can only make of them individually brief mention.

Of Messrs. Dickinson, Bliss, Mott, Ralston, Morris, Ford, Fluke, Wagoner and Waterman, we have spoken.

Messrs. Parsons, Watkins and Woodbury removed to Ohio, near Cleveland and there died. Franklin Jones lives near Wagoner in the northwest vicinity to Auburn. Isaac and Harrison Jones went west, one died in Arkansas, the other in a state farther west.

Daniel Stroh lives in the Stroh settlement and C. Stimely just west of town. John Bolinger moved to Illinois and died there. Stephen Latson, brother of James Latson, ex-coroner of the county, died in Auburn about 1863. John Johnston, also died while a resident of Auburn. Henry Curtis moved to Ohio, and George Webb is dead. Possibly ten of the thirty survive and wherever they are, each may refer with pardonable pride to the 22nd of Sept. 1849, when their suffrage made Auburn a town.

The first meeting of the newly chosen trustees of the town of Auburn, was held on Sept. 26th in the office of the county treasurer and, as required by statute, a copy of proceedings was filed in the office of the DeKalb circuit court.

The trustees having qualified, elected Joel E. Hendricks, president of the board, T. R. Dickinson was appointed clerk of the town of Auburn, Egbert B. Mott, treasurer and Wm. B. Dancer, assessor. The last named was ordered to make an assessment of the value of town lots and their improvements from a list to be furnished by the town clerk.

Nelson Payne supplied a book for record of proceedings, and Messrs. Hendricks, Dickinson and Mott were appointed a committee to draft by-laws for town government and to report at the next meeting.

Section 6 of the by-laws reported and approved, enacted a tax of 50 cents on each $100 valuation, and provided for working out this tax on the streets under direction of trustees of respective wards, allowing 75cts. for a day's labor.

On Dec. 6, E. B. Mott filed his bond as treasurer in the sum of $500 with John Morris and Alonzo Watkins as sureties and the machinery of government being established, it was ordered that no meetings be held in the first two months of 1850.

There were no public school, for the school law was not yet in existence. Select schools were meanwhile carried on by more or less qualified school masters and those who valued education sent their children to school and paid for their tuition and those who were indifferent or had no children were not concerned.

Although the former class were in the minority in some localities it does not appear that those founders of Auburn as a town were backward in regard to school interest.

(To be continued next week.)

Cure for Headache.

Headache can be most surely and effectually cured by removing the cause of it. This result can be best obtained by the use of Chamberlain's Restorative Gelatine Coated Pills. For sale by all druggists. 3

Old Settlers' Day in Auburn.

The day, though cloudy, was pleasant, but it is likely the heavy roads from the recent hard rains. kept many away. Still a fair number was present. As the thick grove in the public square was too damp the meeting was held in the beautiful and roomy Opera House. The meeting was called to order by the president, W. L. Blair, and of the other officers, there were present on the stage, the secretary, D. Z. Hoffman; the biographer, E. D. Hartman; J. E. Rose, R. G. Daniels, Rev. S. B. Ward and Rev. A. S. Wooton, of the M. E. church, who offered up an eloquent and powerful prayer. The president then called on Mr. Hartman, who read all the biographies he had been able to secure, of those who had died the past year. The names read, were: Ellen Wyant, Hannah Robinson, Thomas D. Daily, Dr. Jonas Emanuel, Geo. Firestone, W. H. Dills, Mrs. Mary Rhodes, John Surfus, Isabel Means, Catherine Comesky, S. W. Ralston, Mrs. Ervin, W. P. Wiley, Daniel Haller, Wm. Shutt, John Kester, Willard Childs, D. C. Headley, Elizabeth Hall, Sebastian Eckert, and Rebecca Swihart. Some of the obituary notices, were the full ones, taken from the county papers, and only the essential parts could be given. The biographer spoke of the carelessness of people in furnishing these death notices. He said most of them, were not sent to him directly by the relatives but were obtained from the papers. It is certain that a number of old settlers have departed during the year, of whom no notice whatever, has been received. He urges that more pains be taken, and that obituaries, no matter if they are brief, should be furnished. After the reading, Mr. Rose made a motion that the chair appoint a committee to select officers for the coming year, and report at the afternoon session. He selected R. G. Daniels, Isaac Hague, A. F. Pinchin, J. M. Brumbeck and Robert Culbertson. The program for the afternoon was then read, when they adjourned to 1:30 p. m. At the afternoon session, the ground now being dry, the pioneers met in the public square. They were called together by the band. Then came a song by Morris Widney, for the pioneers like good music, and another by the quartet. The committee to select officers reported: President, J. E. Rose; vice-president, R. G. Daniels; secretary, D. Z. Hoffman; biographer, E. D. Hartman; treasurer, Jessie Brumbeck. The executive committee are: Butler township, Phillip Noel; Jackson, Wm. Carr; Concord, Wm. Henderson and R. G. Coburn; Newville, N. T. Fuller; Stafford, Stewart Wartenbe; Wilmington, W. L. Blair; Union, J. W. McKay; Richland, Gilbert Showers; Fairfield, Albert Buchanan; Smithfield, E. R. Shoemaker; Franklin, F. D. Oberlin; Troy, W. R. Emerson; Keyser, O. C. Clark; Grant, R. N. Crooks. A. W. Hendry, of Angola made an able speech. He had been in Auburn, in 1843, when the shade trees were not only plenty, but filled the streets. He spoke feelingly of the old county officers he used to meet, including Maj. Sprott, S. W. Ralston, Wesley Park and others. At the hotel that night they discussed as to the best place for a young man to settle, in the then new town of Chicago, or in Auburn. Decided Chicago would not do—too much ague and mosquitoes. There was an alder swamp across the street from the hotel, and frogs furnished the music. He illustrated the plain way of doing things in those days, when juries often decided accoring to their general view of justice, though not always strict law. A man had traded for a worthless horse, a yoke of good steers. Then he wanted to get the steers back. Jury admitted the steers were worth $35, but only gave him $25, saying they took off $10 as a punishment for his general meanness. He spoke of troubles with horse thieves, and the confusion caused by living close to the Ohio line, especially as there was a quarrel then about the location of the state line. He was followed by another song from the quartet. Rev. N. J. Crary, of Hicksville, spoke next. He and Hon. A. P. Edgerton, used to play ball in the site of the present town of Hicksville, so thinks he must be a pioneer. Said Mr. Gunsenhouser, now present, made the first broadcloth coat he ever wore, and it made my best girl say I steppe as high as a blind cow in a cornfield. I believe the young people enjoyed themselves as well as we do now, but they often went long distances to meetings, spelling and singing schools,—sometimes with ox teams. We came from Canada to Defiance, in 1836, driving our cows, etc., through the "Black Swamp" and the almost unbroken forest. Saw here first western dent corn, as had seen only the 8-rowed flint corn in Canada. A man gave me four ears, which we planted. We were acquainted to great distances in those days. Spoke of going with his best girl riding on the old horse, with a big blanket for a saddle. He spoke of the religious sentiment of those days, and the strictness of family rule, as well as at school, and thought a little thereof would be good now. He also spoke of the efforts recently made at Hicksville, that had taken out all the saloons, but the loss of business some had feared, did not result from it. He closed with a fine selection of poetry. A. F. Pinchin here arose and offered a resolution of respect to the memory of the late W. H. Dills, who had been their secretary from the date of organization till the last annual meeting, when he had declined to serve longer. It was unanimously adopted. Stewart Wartenbe, of Webster's Mills, was then called out, and made an excellent off-hand speech, full of pioneer incidents, Indian stories and memories of the past, for he had been in this or Defiance county, from an early date. He was followed by S. D. Hanna, with a humorous solo, and the regular exercises were over. It was a most successful meeting.

SCHAAB & BRO.

DRY GOODS,

CLOTHING,

CARPETS.

Scorching hot weather—just what we have been expecting; therefore we are prepared to show you a line of wash dress goods, summer coats and vests, light underwear, mitts, fans, parasols, straw hats, &c., much larger than we have ever shown before, all at popular prices.

You should see our stock of Pongee Cloths at 15c. They are going fast.

Challies at 8, 10 and 20c

Choice Patterns and Elegant Materials.

Summer Coats and Vests for men and boys, all styles and prices. We are sure to please you here.

Underwear for everybody. We have what you want and the price will suit you. Give us your patronage and we will try hard to please you. Yours, respectfully,

Schaab & Bro

I Am Pretty

well satisfied that

SANTA CLAUS SOAP

Is the BEST LAUNDRY SOAP in the World and I use it in all my Washing and cleaning. Any sensible Woman.

MADE ONLY BY N. K. FAIRBANK & Co. Chicago

ALL GROCERS KEEP IT.

THREE POINTS

Pozzoni's

COMPLEXION

POWDER: SAFE; CURATIVE; BEAUTIFYING. 1. 2. 3.

THREE White, Flesh, Brunette TINTS

POZZONI'S All Druggists and Fancy Stores.

THERE ARE MANY USES FOR SAPOLIO.

To clean tombstones. To renew oil-cloth. To renovate paint. To brighten metals.
To polish knives. To scrub floors. To wash out sinks. To scour bath-tubs.
To clean dishes. To whiten marble. To remove rust. To scour kettles.

EVERYBODY USES IT.

Dentists to clean false teeth. Engineers to clean parts of machines. Housemaids to scrub marble floors.
Surgeons to polish their instruments. Ministers to renovate old chapels. Chemists to remove some stains.
Confectioners to scour their pans. Sextons to clean the tombstones. Carvers to sharpen their knives.
Mechanics to brighten their tools. Hostlers on brasses and white horses. Shrewd ones to scour old straw hats.
Cooks to clean the kitchen sink. Artists to clean their palettes. Soldiers to brighten their arms.
Painters to clean off surfaces. Wheelmen to clean bicycles. Renovators to clean carpets.

EVERY ONE FINDS A NEW USE.

Kansas Letter.

RUSSELL, KAN., June 8, 1891.

EDITOR COURIER:—

For a long time I have thought that I would write a letter for your paper, for the benefit of friends. I promised a great many of my old acquaintances, when I left Indiana, last October, that I would write to them. The fulfillment of that promise, did I write individual letters, would prove a great task, so I have chosen this means of reaching them. As I have so many friends and relatives, who take the dear, old COURIER, I consider it a golden opportunity to speak to them through its columns. I don't know as I shall write much, but I will endeavor to make the few lines I do write, of general interest to all. We are having a very favorable season so far. Our wheat, rye, oats and barley, are presenting prospects for a good crop. There will be more wheat raised in this county, than ever before, as nearly all the ground under cultivation is in wheat. The latest sown is the best, and I think harvest will begin about the 20th or 25th of this month. I just wish some of the eastern people could come out west and see the way we harvest. I am certain it would be quite a sight to observe the workings of those machines called Headers, with the tongue at the back end of the machine, and drawn by six horses. One man guides it, and as the grain is cut it is elevated to a large box, and from there it is taken and put in a stack, ready for the threshing machine. Of course, we have to let the grain get pretty ripe so as to keep it from spoiling. Corn is a little backward this spring, as the weather has been rather cool all along. There has been but one or two days that might be called warm weather, but there is plenty of time yet. Wheat is worth 75 cents a bushel; corn is worth 60 cents. Grazing is excellent for stock. Cattle are doing fine. There were splendid rains during the past week, which brightened things up generally. It is a little too wet to work old ground, but it is splendid for breaking prairie, and people have been doing a great deal of that work this season. Some are planting sod corn. What I mean by sod corn, is the corn that is planted on newly broken sod. I have seen some very good corn raised on sod in this country. Of course it does not yield as well as it does on old and well cultivated ground, but it does very well some seasons. I have a piece of sod planted and I think I have never seen a better stand of corn anywhere. I will now say something about the fruit. The prospects for a good crop in that line are very encouraging, where there are any trees to bear. People have been somewhat negligent in tring to raise fruit. Father will have considerable fruit of all kinds. His peach trees are heavily loaded. There will be an abundance of cherries and mulberries. Plums and apples will be plenty. Well, as I can think of nothing of special importance, I will close for this time.

Yours respectfully,

SAMUEL S. McENTARFER.

A Surprise.

On the 6th, occurred the expiration of Mrs. Michael Overs' fifty-fourth year of life, therefore her friends plotted to give her a surprise. Early in the morning her family sent her to St. Joe, upon an errand and in her absence, not withstanding it rained all day, thirty nine of her friends came in while she was absent. On her return being confronted by so many, we will say she was surprised. But however, she gave them a warm welcome and was soon at ease. It had been the intention of spreading their dinner in the little grove that surrounds their home, but as it rained, dinner was prepared in the house, and, all partook of it bountifully, after which T. S. Krise made a speech in which he presented her with the numerous presents they had brought. Among them was a fine upholstered chair presented by her family. As a token of love and esteem her friends made her a present of a purse, with which to purchase anything she desired. Among those from a distance was their daughter and husband, and son, Jacob Overs and wife who drove from Hicksville. The afternoon was spent very pleasantly, Minnie Overs furnishing some very nice music. Mr. Overs thanked the friends for this pleasant surprise calling up many touching neighborhood occurences. All enjoyed themselves and will always remember this happy day.

ONE WHO WAS THERE.

Obituary.

Martha J. McClellan Sheffer, died at her home near Auburn, early on Monday, morning, June 17, 1891. Death came to her in the midst of her years. She was 52 yrs. and 6 days of age. She was not surprised nor discomfited She was a woman who waited for the Lord, ready to receive Him even at the hour of midnight. She was born in Chester, Wayne county, Ohio, June 11, 1839. In 1863, she [illegible] to Huntington county, Indiana, and A[illegible] 5, 1864, she was united in marriage to John Sheffer, and has lived in this state since, coming to DeKalb county, in 1866. They lived south of Auburn, till 1882, when they moved to her late home. She was a true wife in every respect, being eminent for her faithfulness, kindness, intelligence and charity. During the years of her married life it could have been consistently declared of her in the language of Solomon: "She stretcheth out her hand to the poor; yea she reacheth forth her hand to the needy. She openeth her mouth with wisdom and in her tongue is the law of kindness. She looketh well to the ways of her household and eateth not of the bread of idleness. Give her of the fruit of her hands, and let her own works praise her in the gates."—Prov. xxxi

Mrs. Sheffer was not only a faithful wife, but she was a loving and wise mother. God gave her six children. Two of these welcomed her to the home over there. There remain two sons and two daughters, who with their father, ministered to her in her long affliction by every means that love could suggest.

As a christian woman the church justly took great pride in Mrs. Sheffer. She had been a member of the church for 26 years and had by faithfulness made her christian associations desirable. Her friend sorrowed deeply because of her long afflictions, and the church prayed for her recovery, but evidently the Lord wanted her in a higher field of usefulness, and transferred her to heaven.

Afflictions made glorious revelations in her character. They revealed the fact that in the time of her greatest weakness she had the greatest strength.

A year ago she became seriously afflicted. From that time on to the day of her death she was never out of the furnace of trial. But the fire did not consume her, for there walked One with her "who was like unto the Son of Man." The test was severe indeed, but it served to disclose to herself and to the world the fact that she possessed the gold that could be tried in the fire, and the virtues that could not be destroyed.

As the time of her departure drew near her confidence in God and faith in His Word grew and cast out all fear. To her, death did not mean the dark valley, the awful silence of the grave, or a terrible launch on a heaving sea. Death was to her transit on into the presence of God and the whole fellowship of the skies. She regarded death as true exaltation and promotion, and as entering upon the final inheritance.

In the presence of hundreds of mourning friends the services were held in the M. E. chuch, June 18.

A. S. WOOTON.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - PUBLISHER.

PLEASURE AND PROFIT

WILL BE FOUND IN READING OUR NEWS SUMMARY.

Mrs. Logan About to Wed—An Indian Outbreak in Arizona Expected—Tired of Her Brave—A Doctor Horsewhipped.

FREE-FOR-ALL

Fight in a Michigan Synagogue Between Opposing Factions.

Traverse City (Mich.) special: Ever since the Jewish synagogue was built here, over two years ago, there has been a continual rivalry among the adherents. One faction claimed that the rabbi in charge mingled more freely with one class and procured another rabbi for their faction. This embittered the other faction, and trouble has been brewing ever since. The other night while one party had possession of the synagogue and was attending to its devotions the rival faction marched in, and a free-for-all fight ensued. Axes, chairs, clubs, and chandeliers were freely used and many heads were battered and cut, some seriously. The officers arrived on the scene as quickly as possible, and after a hard struggle quiet was restored. The following were seriously hurt:

A. Cohn, deep scalp wound, condition critical.

C. Cohn, scalp wound.

Louis Steinberg, cut about face.

S. Yalomstein, scalp wound.

Many others were less severely hurt. A number of the participants in the row have been arrested and warrants are out for the arrest of fifteen others.

WILL SHE WED?

'Tis So Reported of Mrs. Logan.

Washington special: Rumors are again rife that Mrs. John A. Logan is soon going to marry George E. Lemon, the millionaire pension agent. When Mrs. Logan sailed for Europe some weeks ago she is said to have given a hint of her purpose to a few friends. And now Lemon himself has gone to Europe and before sailing has made no secret of his intention to join Mrs. Logan's party and travel about the continent with them. The names of Mrs. Logan and Capt. Lemon were linked for matrimony some months ago, and idle tongues can now see only a marriage abroad in their presence across the Atlantic this summer. At the time of the report both entered a strong denial. But now there are a great many who believe the report to true.

The Notorious Kansan Killed by a Desperado.

A dispatch from Hugaton, Kas., states that Colonel S. M. Wood, the notorious Stevens County leader, was shot dead at that place by Jas. Brennen, the Morton County desperado. The killing was the result of the Stevens County troubles. Wood was an old citizen of Kansas, formerly an editor of Topeka. He founded Woodsdale, Stevens County, and tried to make it the county seat. During the war in which Sheriff Cross and four others were killed, Wood discreetly kept out of the way. Last year Wood was a leader in the Alliance movement, and was the great power behind the terone in the Legislature. He it was who caused the impeachment of Judge Botkin.

An Indian Outbreak in Arizona Expected.

The Assistant Adjutant General at Los Angeles, Cal., has received the following dispatch from Lieutenant Brett, commanding a detachment in Kern's Canyon, Arizona, dated at Areiba village: "Came to Areiba to arrest several Areibas who had destroyed the surveyors' marks and threatened to destroy the schools. When we entered this village we were confronted by about 500 hostiles, who were armed and stationed behind a barricade. They openly declared hostility to the Government and a fight was barely averted. A strong force should be sent here with Hotchkiss guns, as I anticipate serious trouble, if the hostiles are not summarily dealt with."

Conflicting Reports.

A Santiago de Chili dispatch from Balmaceda's government says that the rebels have lost all their moral force and that resistance on their part in the south has come to an end. On the other hand, the same dispatch states that President Balmaceda is increasing the strength of the army and that his war vessels are attacking rebel ports, while the rebel squadron avoids fighting. Nineteen provinces are stated to be under the control of the Balmaceda Government.

A Doctor Horsewhipped.

Etta Dumphy, of 24 North Peoria street Chicago., called on Dr. T. H. Jamieson at his office, 240 West Indiana street and thrashed him with a big horse whip. The girl's mother died a while ago and Etta believed it was because Dr. Jamieson didn't understand his business. He sent in his bill for services and Etta called with the bill in her pocket and whip in her hand. There will be no prosecution, although the doctor received some cruel blows.

Blown Up by Dynamite.

A terrible explosion of dynamite has occurred at Leiper's quarries, Pa. Peter McLaughlin and J. Polker, the latter a naturalized Italian, were working on a large rock. McLaughlin put in a quantity of dynamite and was tamping it, when the stuff exploded. McLaughlin was hurled high into the air in a cloud of smoke, dust, and flying stones. He died in an hour. Polker will live.

Must Teach German.

The Indiana Supreme Court decided in favor of the teaching of the German language in the schools, holding that the law is compulsory and the language must be taught wherever the requisite number of patrons shall petition for same. Judges Olds and McBride dissent in a long opinion.

Tired of Her Brave.

Chamberlain, (S. D.) special: Steamboatmen who arrived here bring the report from up the river that Mrs. Cora Belle Fellows-Chaska will apply for a divorce from her husband, Sam Chaska. The marriage of Miss Fellows to the Indian Chaska caused a great sensation. The couple have one child.

An Oil Refinery Burned.

Fire destroyed the Beaver Company's oil refinery, near Washington, Pa., entailing a loss of $60,000. The fire is supposed to have started from the explosion of a boiler.

The Black Leg.

The peculiar disease which has broken out among the Hungarians of the Pennsylvania coke region, is not abating, but increasing. The Greensburg poor board, at a meeting, decided to fit up a pest house and remove all the Hungarians to it until all danger is past. One of the directors in conversation with a sick Hungarian learned from him that the disease is known in Hungary as "black leg," and this is the first instance in which it has appeared in this country. The Hungarians throughout the region and greatly alarmed lest it become epidemic. As soon as it is known that one of their countrymen is affected with it, he is at once sent to the county home to prevent others from taking it. The inmates of the home are greatly alarmed over it.

CATHOLICS EXCOMMUNICATED.

Bishop Chatard Deals Heroically With New Albany Knights.

Indianapolis special: A dispatch from New Albany says that thirty eight members of the New Albany Division Roman Knights of St. Edward have been excommunicated by Bishop Chatard for giving a Sunday excursion, selling beer and dancing. Dishop Chatard is out of the city, but Father Garish, of St. Johns, to whom this dispatch was shown, said: "This is true. The society named, which is a Catholic organization, had arranged to give a Sunday excursion and picnic, at which beer was to be sold. The pastor of the church notified the members of the organization that their intended action was a violation of the laws of the church, which is opposed to Sunday excursions, and especially to selling beer on Sunday and dancing. Notwithstanding this warning from the pastor the excursion was given. When the bishop was informed of the facts he excommunicated the society as a society. It will no longer be recognized as a Catholic society and is suspended from the national organization. The members of the society are not individually excommunicated from the church.

GREEN-EYED MONSTER

Causes a Terrible Tragedy Down in Pennsylvania.

Pittsburgh special: Jealously is the cause of another probably double murder. The affair took place at Oakdale, Pa., on the Pan Handle Railroad. A negro named Saunders went to the residence of Mrs. Harris at Oakdale and called young Harris out. Harris and Saunders have been going to see the same married woman, and it was over Harris' being favored that caused the shooting. As soon as Harris made his appearance, Saunders pulled out a pistol and said he intended to kill him. Mrs. Harris, who heard the remark, ran to the assistance of her son, and ran between him and Saunders, who pulled the trigger and the mother received the bullet that was intended for her son. Harris rushed at Saunders when he again fired four shots in quick succession, all of which took effect in the body of young Harris. Both victims will die. Saunders is still at large. Harris is 25 years of age and his assailant somewhat older.

Death of Ex-Senator McDonald.

Indianapolis special: Ex-Senator Joseph E. McDonald, after a valiant struggle against consuming disease, yielded the victory, meeting death with the resignation of one who had lived an honored and noble life. He was one of Indiana's most worthy sons, and his years were full of honors. At an advanced age he could look back on a life well spent, and with the satisfaction that none more than he enjoyed the esteem and reverent love of the people. He was one of the few remaining types of a past generation, whose convictions were those of rugged honesty, and whose fidelity in every relation was as true as divinity itself. He was an eminent Democrat in politics and eminently democratic in all the ways of life. His admirers delighted to call him "Old Saddle-bags," for it typified the simplicity of the man. He attained the highest eminence in the legal profession, and when Hendricks died the mantle fell upon him as the idolized Democrat of the Hoosier State. His death puts a great State in mourning, and the loss is one that falls upon all.

Gets a Settlement.

Indianapolis special: Gen. Herman Sturm, of this city, has succeeded in getting a settlement in full of his claim of $259,361 against the Mexican government for expenses incurred as supply agent in purchasing munitions of war. Wm. Henderson, also of this city, supplied Sturm with money with which to prosecute his claim. It was agreed that when the claim was allowed he should receive 5 per cent. of all the money received, over $40,000. Mr. Henderson says that General Sturm claims he can not pay the 5 per cent. on the full amount, because he had to give $100,000 of it to members of the Mexican Congress and other Mexican officials for their influence in getting the claim allowed. Mr. Henderson says he has addressed letters to the Mexican Government calling attention to the serious charge made by General Sturm.

Indian Soldiers on a Drunk.

A special from Paul's Valley, I. T., says the sixty Chickasaw militia who left there recently in charge of Gov. Byrd and United States Agent Bennett to meet the United States troops and eject 6,000 United States citizens living in the country without permits, all got drunk twenty-five miles west of that place. An eye witness says they have a barrel in the commissary wagon and gallon jugs on each saddle. Some of them went into a farmer's yard, shot down a horse and killed a goose. They halted a white farmer and threatened to shoot him because he was white. This much whisky, mixed with sixty Indians who are clothed with some authority, is liable to cause the loss of several lives, as when the bucks are drunk their only desire is to shoot and kill.

Bad Smash-Up on the Fort Wayne Road.

Upper Sandusky, special: When north bound freight train 63, on the Columbus, Hocking Valley and Toledo Railway, was nearing this city, the engineer saw that the track was crossed by a Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago freight. He reversed his engine and whistled for brakes. No brakes were put on and the engine dashed into the Fort Wayne train, doing immense damage. It plunged itself clear through the train, completely demolishing a car filled with coke in so doing, and wrecked the depot platform. The Depot Hotel escaped being demolished by but a few inches. The tracks of both roads are strewn with debris, and the damage will foot up in the thousands. Nobody was injured.

An Oat Meal Trust Formed.

The organization of the oat meal trust was perfected at Akron, Ohio. The American Cereal Company has been organized by the owners of several of the largest mills in the country for the purpose of developing the business of making flour, oat meal, barley, hominy and all other cereal products. The following officers were elected: President, F. Schumacher; Vice President, H. P. Crowell. The company is organized under the laws of Ohio, with a capital stock of $3,400,000, the most of which will be issued at once. The principal office of the company will be at Akron, and will have a Chicago branch.

A Professor's Predicament.

At Youngstown, Ohio, Prof. Howard, with Cooper's Circus, attempted to make a balloon ascension and parachute jump. The balloon, not being sufficiently inflated, fell on the power-house of the Electric Street Railroad, throwing Howard on a mass of electric and power wires, where he hung until rescued by an aerial ladder of the Fire Department. Though badly cut and bruised, he will recover.

With Beer Bottles.

Jack Kehoe, a saloon-keeper of Manistee, Mich., murdered his mother-in-law, Mrs. Ann McCormick, aged 55, by pounding her to death with a beer bottle. He attempted to kill his wife, but failed. She received internal injuries, besides a fracture of the skull and nose, but will recover. The family quarreled over property matters. Kehoe gave himself up.

Dashed to Death.

A cablegram from St. Petersburg, says: While a large balloon belonging to Count Apraxina was being inflated with gas it escaped from the attendants who were holding it to the ground and carried upward four workmen who were in the car when the balloon broke away. After it had ascended to a great height the onlookers were horrified to see the balloon burst and the bodies of the unfortunate workmen dashed to the earth, where they were smashed almost beyond recognition.

A Dude's Revenge.

For two months past the show window of Ross & Roseberg, merchant tailors, of Indianapolis, has been ornamented by a notice printed in large letters of a judgment against Samuel Pearson, a well-known society young man, for $80, the same representing an unpaid tailor bill. Pearson has brought suit for damages against the firm, charging that the posting of the notice has done him great injury and that the firm designed it to injure his social standing. He wants $5,000 damages.

More Cherokee Boomers.

A dispatch from Arkansas City, Kas., says: It is stated here on good authority that a thoroughly orgnaized and pledged body of boomers and home-seekers will shortly enter the Cherokee Strip, cut all the fences and burn the grass, thus forcing the cattlemen off the land. Cattlemen who are on the strip with authority of the law, have been warned by Secretary Ross, of the Cherokee Nation, that all cattle found tresspassing would be seized.

A Horrible Crime.

Another horrible murder has been discovered in Whitefield street, Tottenham Road, London. A foreign woman, named Mme. Ashton, was found dead and her head schockingly disfigured. The last visitor observed by the neighbors was evidently a Frenchman, and he is suspected of being the murderer. Enormous crowds are blocking the streets in the vicinity, and tremendous excitement prevails, as the crime is laid by many at the door of "Jack the Ripper."

A Fiendish Boy.

At Parkersburg, W. Va., Clarence Neal, a boy 18 years of age, who killed his father when only 14 years old, killed Charles Skidmore, a boy of 15, at Riverside, the other day. Neal had a quarrel with a boy named Ditson, and after they had separated a short time, Neal started out to find Ditson, with the intention of killing him. He mistook Skidmore for Ditson, and slipping up behind him, crushed his skull with a loaded whip. Neal has fled.

New Immigration Station.

Assistant Secretary Nettleton says that the new immigration station on Ellis Island, will be opened August 1st, and that thereafter all immigrants will be landed there. A regular government ferry will be established between the depot and the barge office in New York and all immigrants destined for that city, and neighboring places will be landed there after having undergone the inspection on the island.

What's the Scheme?

The Indiana Natural Gas and Oil syndicate has turned over its leases held upon 462 farms in Madison, Grant, Howard, Delaware, Hamilton, Blackford, and Jay counties to the Columbus Construction Company, a corporation organized under the laws of New Jersey. Just what the transfer means is the source of a good deal of speculation.

Want the Sullivan-Slavin Fight.

The Kansas City Times publishes a special from Pittsburgh, Kan., giving the guarantee of the Commercial Club, of that city, for $40,000 if Sullivan and Slavin will fight there. The club also offers protection from the police. Pittsburgh has 20,000 people, and is a smelting center. It is a good place for the fight.

Cherry-Feaster Shot.

At Springfield, Ohio, Jasper Portiss and two companions were enjoying a feast of cherries in the top of Louis Huffman's tree. The proprietor surprised them and fired five shots from a 32-caliber revolver at the boys as they retreated down an alley. One of the bullets penetrated Portiss' left thigh, inflicting serious injury.

Entitled to the Office.

The Supreme Court of Indiana has decided that Nelson J. Hyde, the Democratic defendant, was entitled to the office of State Oil Inspector, and that John Worrell, Republican contestant for the office of State Statistician, was entitled to salary, and the Auditor of State was ordered to pay it.

Three Boys Drowned.

John McKeown, aged 10, Harry Shoullis, aged 10, and Walter Jones, aged 14, fell from a raft and were drowned in the Doaks Park pond at Washington, Pa. John McKeown was a son of the late oil king, McKeown, and the Shoullis boys were his grandsons.

A Fatal Swim.

Frank W. Powell, of Rapidan, Minn., an attache of Downie & Gallagher's show, was drowned in the St. Marys River, at Fort Wayne, Ind., while bathing.

Killed by an Explosion.

Peter Haskins, aged 35, colored, was killed by the explosion of a boiler in Adams' brick yard, near Indianapolis.

THE MARKETS.

CHICAGO.
Cattle—Common to prime	$3.50 @ 6.50
Hogs—Shipping grades	4.00 @ 4.75
Sheep	3.50 @ 5.50
Wheat—No. 2 Red	.97 @ .98
Corn—No. 2	.57½ @ .58½
Oats—No. 2	.40 @ .42
Rye—No. 2	.81 @ .83
Butter—Choice Creamery	.16 @ .18
Cheese—Full Cream, flats	.08½ @ .09¼
Eggs—Fresh	.14½ @ .15½
Potatoes—Choice, per bu	1.30 @ 1.40
INDIANAPOLIS.
Cattle—Shipping	3.50 @ 5.75
Hogs—Choice light	3.00 @ 4.50
Sheep—Common to prime	4.00 @ 4.75
Wheat—No. 2 Red	.97 @ .97½
Corn—No. 1 White	.63½ @ .64½
Oats—No. 2 White	.47½ @ .48
ST. LOUIS.
Cattle	4.00 @ 6.00
Hogs	4.00 @ 4.50
Wheat—No. 2 Red	.98½ @ .99½
Corn—No. 2	.54 @ .55
Oats—No. 2	.47 @ .48
Rye—No. 2	.73 @ .75
CINCINNATI.
Cattle	3.50 @ 5.50
Hogs	3.50 @ 4.75
Sheep	3.75 @ 5.25
Wheat—No. 2 Red	1.01½ @ 1.02½
Corn—No. 2	.62 @ .64
Oats—No. 2 Mixed	.47 @ .49
DETROIT.
Cattle	3.00 @ 5.25
Hogs	3.00 @ 4.50
Sheep	3.00 @ 4.75
Wheat—No. 2 Red	1.02 @ 1.03
Corn—No. 2 Yellow	.60 @ .61
Oats—No. 2 White	.48 @ .50
TOLEDO.
Wheat	1.01 @ 1.02
Corn—Cash	.59 @ .59½
Oats—No. 1 White	.48 @ .50
Clover Seed	4.15 @ 4.25
EAST LIBERTY.
Cattle—Common to Prime	4.00 @ 6.00
Hogs—Light	4.00 @ 5.00
Sheep—Medium	4.25 @ 5.00
Lambs	4.75 @ 6.00
MILWAUKEE.
Wheat—No. 2 Spring	.96 @ .97
Corn—No. 3	.56 @ .58
Oats—No. 2 White	.43 @ .45
Rye—No. 1	.86 @ .87
Barley—No. 2	.72 @ .74
Pork—Mess	10.00 @ 10.25
NEW YORK.
Cattle	4.56 @ 6.25
Hogs	4.25 @ 5.25
Sheep	4.50 @ 5.50
Wheat—No. 2 Red	1.09 @ 1.10
Corn—No. 2	.66 @ .68
Oats—Mixed Western	.44 @ .49
Butter—Creamery	.15 @ .18
Eggs—Western	.16 @ .17
Pork—New Mess	12.00 @ 12.50

OHIO REPUBLICANS.

FULL PROCEEDINGS OF THEIR STATE CONVENTION.

Maj. William McKinley Nominated by Acclamation for Governor Amid Wild Enthusiasm—Full Text of the Platform Adopted.

The first day's session of the Ohio Republican State Convention, held at Columbus, was occupied in the appointment of the several committees. Col. Robert Nevin was chosen temporary chairman, and delivered an interesting address.

The second day's proceedings were opened by prayer, after which the report of the committee on credentials was presented and adopted. The committee on permanent organization reported, amid applause, the name of Gen. Asa S. Bushnell, of Clark County, for permanent chairman of the convention, and E. J. Kessinger, of Athens, for permanent secretary. Chairman Bushnell's address was brief.

Nominations were declared in order, and ex-Gov. Foraker arose to present the name of William McKinley for Governor. The ex-Governor was was wildly received, and his remarks received frequent interruptions by the cheering audience. Col. Robert Harlan, the colored orator of Cincinnati, seconded Maj. McKinley's nomination "on behalf of the colored voters of Ohio." With one wild, hilarious cheer of affirmation the convention declared Maj. McKinley nominated Governor by acclamation, and a committee was appointed to apprise him of his nomination and escort him to the hall. His appearance was the signal for another outburst of enthusiasm. Mr. McKinley spoke at considerable length on the issues of the day, and was followed by Senator Sherman. A speech by Secretary Foster, who is detained at Washington, was read. It was devoted mainly to defending the appropriations of the last Congress.

Short work was made of the other nominations, which are as follows:

For Lieutenant Governor—O. L. Harris, of Preble County.

For Auditor—E. W. Poe, of Wood County.

For Attorney General—J. K. Richards, of Scioto County.

For Supreme Court Judge—M. J. Williams, of Fayette County.

For member of the Board of Public Works—Charles E. Grace, of Pickaway County.

For School Commissioner—O. T. Carson, of Guernsey County.

For Treasurer—W. T. Coop, of Columbiana County.

For Food Commissioner—F. H. McNeal, of Miami County.

The following platform was adopted:

The Republicans of Ohio in convention assembled, reaffirm and express their adhesion to the principles which have guided them heretofore in promoting the prosperity and happiness of the American people.

1. We reaffirm our devotion to the patriotic doctrine of protection and recognize the McKinley bill as the ablest expression of that principle enacted in fulfillment of Republican promises, and we pledge ourselves to its support, always having in view its improvement as changed conditions or experience may require.

2. We favor such legislation by Congress and in this State, as will in every practicable mode, encourage, protect and promote the interests of agriculture in all its departments. Protection of labor and Knights of Labor such as will grant to toil its full and just rewards, is among the first obligations of the Government.

3. We demand protection for the wool industry, equal to that accorded to the most favored manufacturer of wool, so that in due time American wool growers will supply all wool of every kind required for consumption in the United States.

4. Thoroughly believing that gold and silver should form the basis of all circulating medium, we endorse the amended Coinage Act of the last Republican Congress, by which the entire production of the silver mines of the United States is added to the currency of the people.

5. We demand, and will continue to demand until finally and absolutely secured, the free exercise by every citizen of the supreme and sovereign right to cast one ballot at lawful elections, and have it honestly counted.

6. While inviting to our shores the worthy poor or oppressed of other nations, we demand the enactment of laws that will protect our country and our people against the influx of the vicious and criminal classes of foreign nations and the importation of laborers under contract to compete with our own citizens; and earnestly approve the rigid enforcement of existing laws by the present National administration.

7. We favor economy in the administration of National and State affairs; prompt and effective restraint of combinations of capitalists for purposes unlawful or at variance with sound public policy; ample educational facilities for the whole people; the reservation of the public lands of the United States for homesteads for American citizens and the restoration of the public domain of annulled railroad grants. And we contemplate with pride the progress of Republican legislation and administration in all of the districts named.

8. The Republican party, ever mindful of the services of those who saved the Nation, favor liberal pensions to sailors and soldiers of the Republic and a generous care of their widows and orphans.

9. The patriotism, wisdom and ability of the administration of President Harrison command our cordial approbation and support, and we especially commend the policy of reciprocity by which our trading will be vastly increased by commercial treaties with other Nations and we also commend the vigorous foreign policy of the administration, which has commanded the respect of foreign Nations for the flag of our country.

10. We commend the patriotic services of our distinguished fellow citizen, Senator Sherman, and his Republican colleages in the Fifty-first Congress.

11. We commend President Harrison and the country upon its selection of Hon. Chas. Foster as the Secretary of the Treasury, assuring as it does an able and efficient administration of that great department of the Government.

12. We denounce the so-called "ripper Legislature" of Ohio as the most corrupt and incompetent and the administration of James E. Campbell as the most partisan in the history of our State. We denounce the present Government of Ohio for having converted benevolent institutions into political machines, making political merchandise of suffering calamities of the helpless wards of the State, and we point with pride to the more patriotic and wise management of State affairs under the administration of Gov. J. B. Foraker.

We denounce Gov. Campbell and the Sixty-ninth General Assembly for violating their party pledges and the rights of local self-government by the legislative reorganization of numerous towns and cities for solely partisan purposes. We denounce the late ripper Legislature for having sanctioned and encouraged the increase of local taxation and for increasing the expenditures of the State more than a half million of dollars in excess of the appropriations of any preceding two years, thus bringing the State to the verge of bankruptcy in spite of the generous appropriation made by a Republican Congress in the act of refunding the direct tax. We denounce the late "ripper" Senate of Ohio for unseating the legally elected Lieutenant Governor, thus robbing the people of their right under the constitution to select an important public officer and we appeal to all intelligent and patriotic people of Ohio to unite with us in the recovery of the State from the hands of the party that for two years past has disgraced it.

In compliance with the recently enacted ballot reform law, the convention adopted a device to be printed at the head of the Republican ticket, this device to be the American eagle. The convention then adjourned sine die.

The following gentlemen were chosen as State Central Committeemen:

First—Charles T. Hayman, Hamilton.

Second—L. M. Hadden, Hamilton.

Third—Ira Crawford, Montgomery.

Fourth—S. M. Taylor, Champaign.

Fifth—N. E. Matthews, Putnam.

Sixth—George Russell, Henry.

Seventh—A. D. Fassett, Lucas.

Eighth—H. P. Crouse, Hancock.

Ninth—F. W. Herbst, Franklin.

Tenth—H. M. Daugherty, Fayette.

Eleventh—George W. Temple, Clermont.

Twelfth—Jerry L. Carpenter, Meigs.

Thirteenth—F. S. Pursell, Hocking.

Fourteenth—I. L. McAlvaine, Tuscarawas.

Fifteenth—W. S. Cappeler, Richland.

Sixteenth—Charles D. Neill, Medina.

Seventeenth—I. R. Rose, Washington.

Eighteenth—James R. Barr, Guernsey.

Nineteenth—L. W. King, Mahoning.

Twentieth—E. R. Harper, Summit.

Twenty-first—W. E. Cubben, Cuyahoga.

TORRENTS OF WATER

DELUGE THE ENTIRE ILLINOIS RIVER VALLEY.

The Floods Were Caused by Cloudbursts, and Were Unparalleled in Their Suddenness—Enormous Destruction of Property—Three Children Drowned in Sight of Their Mother.

The village of Utica, Ill., was the scene of a cloud-burst that is almost without parallel.

A few minutes before noon an ominous-looking cloud was observed hanging over the village and with a peculiar rolling motion shifting first east, then northward, and then apparently rolling back upon its path until it came directly over the town.

The darkness that attended the gathering storm was like that of night. The people were terror-stricken and looked at one another in speechless suspense.

Suddenly the floodgates of the heavens were opened and at one awful burst a torrent poured itself upon the village, and almost instantly the streets were buried under water that rose over lawns, porches, and then into the houses, driving the people from their homes and their places of business to seek safety on the highest points available.

The excitement and anguish of the fleeing panic-stricken villagers was terrible in the extreme. Many of them believed their last hour had come. Mothers hugged their children to their breasts and prayed for deliverance.

Others, not entirely paralyzed with fear, devoted themselves to saving their property from ruin.

Within a few moments of the cloud-burst the water was fully six feet deep in the streets. When it began receding the great damage to property could be discerned. Sidewalks, fences, and bridges were washed away; dwellings and places of business were partially ruined, and household goods on the lower floors were rendered worthless.

The Rock Island's new double-track iron railroad bridge over the Peguin Soggin creek was washed away, and four cars on a siding at the new cement works were carried down the stream.

The canal bank broke in several places, which increased the volume of water, and lock No. 13, just west of Utica, was torn out.

Large gangs of men were immediately at work removing the great beds of sand which washed upon the track from the Utica pits, while others were replacing the broken bridge. The loss is hard to approximate, but $150,000 is a conservative figure.

In Hilton, a small town across the river from Peoria, numerous houses were washed from their foundations and the people fled in their night-clothes to the railroad grade and the hills. The water in houses at Farmdale rose to a depth of three feet, and the people narrowly escaped drowning. Herds of cattle, horses, hogs, and chickens were swept away, and the crops of farmers for a large tract of land in the valley were utterly ruined. The only fatality reported was in the Copperas Creek valley, just across the line in Fulton County. A family named Gray had a cabin in the valley, and when the flood left the banks of Copperas Creek and rushed down the valley the inmates grew alarmed. The father took his three boys and started to the hills, while the mother refused to leave the house. When half-way across the valley a floating log struck Gray and stunned him. The rushing water drowned the boys (aged 12, 8, and 5), and he narrowly escaped by clinging to the log. His wife got on the roof of the house and was rescued.

A water spout deluged the country north and east of Canton, and did great damage to property. At Farmington 300 yards of the Central Iowa Railway was washed out.

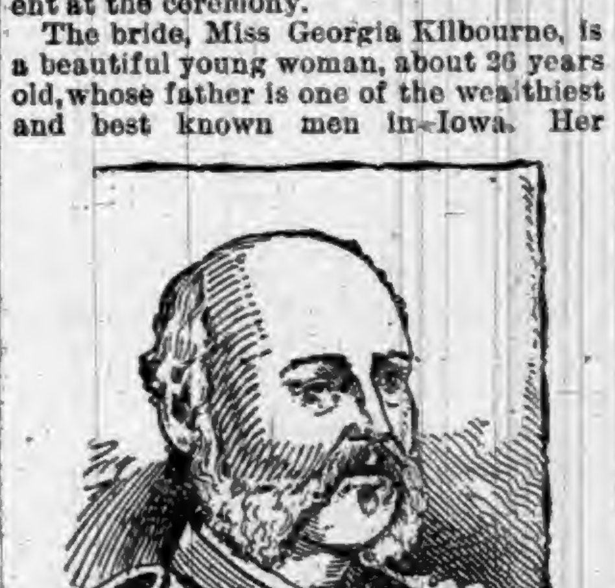
Three bridges of the Lake Erie and Western Road between Crandall and Farmdale were destroyed by a cloud-burst which flooded Farm Creek Valley. Five other bridges were crippled. Several trains had narrow escapes and all were delayed. The storm was local and confined to a small area.

SCHOFIELD-KILBOURNE.

Celebration of Their Nuptials at the Home of the Bride.

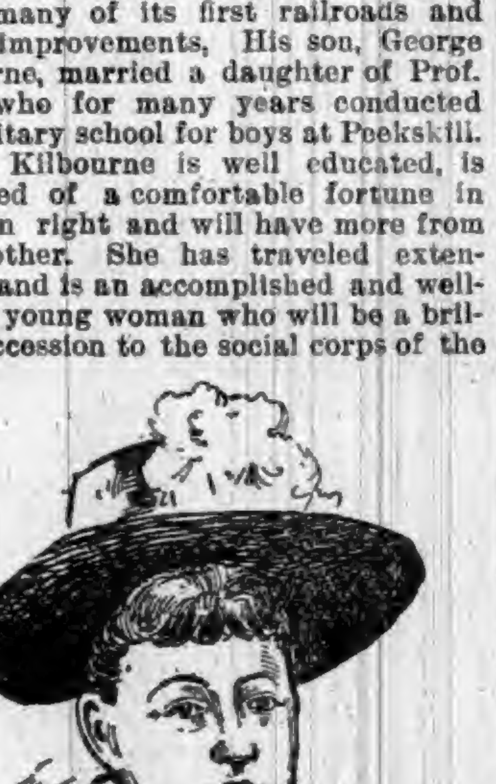
Gen. John M. Schofield, commander-in-chief of the United States army, has capitulated. His marriage to Miss Georgia Kilbourne, of Keokuk, Iowa, was solemnized at the bride's home, and scores of the gallant soldier's friends were present at the ceremony.

The bride, Miss Georgia Kilbourne, is a beautiful young woman, about 26 years old, whose father is one of the wealthiest and best known men in Iowa. Her grandfather was David Kilbourne, a capitalist and contractor, who moved from New York to the State west of the Mississippi almost in its infancy. He projected many of its first railroads and public improvements. His son, George Kilbourne, married a daughter of Prof. Wells, who for many years conducted the military school for boys at Peekskill.



GEN. JOHN M. SCHOFIELD.

Miss Kilbourne is well educated, is possessed of a comfortable fortune in her own right and will have more from her mother. She has traveled extensively and is an accomplished and well-poised young woman who will be a brilliant accession to the social corps of the army. She is especially winsome in conversation, inheriting from both her parents uncommon gifts of wit, versatility and fluency. She has a petite figure, symmetrical and graceful, and understands perfectly the art of dressing becomingly. General Schofield is 60 years of age.



MISS GEORGIA N. KILBOURNE.

FAST DISAPPEARING.

THE TIMBER WEALTH OF THE GREAT PINE TRINITY.

Mill Products Increase 30 Per Cent. in Quantity, 76 Per Cent. in Value—Only Enough Held by Private Parties for Five Years' Supply.

The Census Office has prepared for distribution an interesting bulletin on lumber production and allied industries of Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan, which comprise what is known as the "white pine group." The aggregate increase of mill products as compared with the census reports of 1880 is 29.66 per cent. in quantity and 75.92 per cent. in value; the increase in the number of hands employed is 138.49 per cent. and the increase in the total amount of wages paid is 141.26 per cent. According to the tenth census (1880) the amount of capital invested in the milling industry in Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota was $65,855,632. The capital shown to have been invested at the eleventh census (1890) is $223,388,607, an increase of $157,530,975.

According to the census of 1880 the proportion of capital employed to the value of manufactured products was reported to be $0.8468 to $1. In 1890 the proportion is stated to be $1.52 to $1. The latter proportion if applied to the amount of products reported at the tenth census would produce the sum of $118,207,836 as the actual capital employed at that period, and the increase computed on this basis is found to be 88.98 per cent.

The results obtained respecting the principal subjects are summarized in the following exhibit for the group of States:

Value of forest products not manufactured at mill	$30,426,194
Value of mill products	115,699,004
Value of manufactures	21,112,618
Aggregate value of products	$167,237,816

The production of this value required the employment of $270,152,012 invested capital; the employment in the forest of 76,652 men, 99 women, and 10 children, and also the labor of 32,491 animals; the labor in the mills of 87,939 men, 646 women, and 653 children; the operation of machinery and mechanical appliances valued at $23,559,334; the removal of 1,262,151,180 cubic feet of merchantable timber from natural growth; the investment of $7,890,254 in vessels, railways, and waterways, specially used and owned by this industry for the transportation of its material and product, and the expenditure of $99,688,256 for wages, subsistence, supplies, and miscellaneous expenses.

The value of forest products not manufactured at mill, by States, is as follows:

Michigan	$14,116,964
Wisconsin	10,978,601
Minnesota	5,321,629
Total	$30,426,194

The value of the mill products by States is as follows:

Michigan	$63,782,983
Wisconsin	38,109,671
Minnesota	13,806,350
Total	$115,699,004

The value of manufactures by States is as follows:

Michigan	$4,358,206
Wisconsin	11,437,739
Minnesota	5,315,673
Total	$21,112,618

The percentage of increase in the value of mill production and manufactures from the value reported in 1880 is as follows: Michigan, 29.92 per cent.; Wisconsin, 175.99 per cent.; Minnesota, 159.61 per cent.

In some localities in Michigan, the supply of all kinds of timber has become practically exhausted, and the decreased production is noted, while in others, where the pine has been denuded, other varieties of timber are now utilized into a greater variety of products. The fact is cited in explanation of the increase shown in remanufactures.

According to the census of 1880, the six principal lumber producing cities in this group were, in order, as follows:

1. Bay City, Mich., output	$3,607,298
2. Muskegon, Mich., output	3,199,250
3. Minneapolis, Minn., output	2,740,848
4. Saginaw, Mich., output	2,085,6.6
5. Manistee, Mich., output	1,867,500
6. Menominee, Mich., output	1,2.4,834

At the present census this order of relative rank has materially changed, Saginaw, and Manistee, Mich., having been outclassed from the six principal cities, the order of which is now as follows:

1. Minneapolis, Minn., output	$6,584,456
2. Menominee, Mich., output	4,208,680
3. Muskegon, Mich., output	4,016,094
4. Bay City, Mich., output	4,006,214
5. Oskosh, Wis., output	3,819,250
6. La Crosse, Wis., output	3,202 636

The production of white pine lumber was carried to its highest point in 1880 at the mouth of Saginaw River, Michigan, and that point still holds first rank in this respect.

The aggregate value of production reported for Bay City, West Bay City, Saginaw, Essexville and Zilwaukee, constituting the principal productive points on the Saginaw River, was $8,520,943 in 1880 and $9,927,405 in 1890. The aggregate quantity of material consumed during the census year 1890 was about 650,000,000 feet board measure, and the quantity of standing timber now owned by establishments in the places named is reported to be about 2,500,000,000 feet.

The city of Menominee, at the mouth of the Menominee River, in Michigan, shows the greatest increase of production during the decade. In 1880 it ranked sixth in the nine principal lumber-producing points in the United States, and is now found to be second.

The aggregate quantity of material consumed at those points during the census year 1890 was about 450,000,000 feet, board measure, and the quantity of standing timber now owned by establishments in the places named is reported to be more than 4,000,000,000, indicating a sufficient supply at the present rate of consumption for another decade.

The principal material used by this industry consists of standing timber, and but for the fact of the inability of the officials of the Federal Government to furnish data or approximate estimate showing the area of timbered lands in Michigan, Wisconsin, and Minnesota owned by the Government it would be possible to approximate the gross average of timbered lands owned by both the Government and private parties. It is shown from returns of individual manufacturers that their present holdings of standing timber in this group of States are only sufficient to supply them for about five years at the present rate of consumption. The quantity in reserve is believed to be principally comprehended by what is standing on lands owned by Federal and State Governments. This quantity, however, is unknown. The Federal Government supplies no information on this subject, but the holdings of public lands reported by State Governments indicate that no considerable area of timbered lands is owned by the State of Michigan.

The total area of land held by the State of Wisconsin Sept. 30, 1890, is reported at 671,633 acres. Most of this land is located in the northern counties and about one-half is said to be timbered. The State of Minnesota reports ownership of 13,000,000 acres of timbered land, containing 20,000,000,000 feet of standing timber, mostly pine, valued at $60,000,000.

The total capital invested in timbered lands and standing timber by the establishments reporting in the respective States is as follows:

Michigan	$45,556,478
Wisconsin	34,003,044
Minnesota	5,791,924
Total	$85,351,446

Of the foregoing, the amounts invested in lands located outside the group of States are as follows:

Michigan	$4,967,155
Wisconsin	2,639,434
Minnesota	509,480
Total	$8,116,069

A VISITOR to the fur exhibition in London says: "A curious bundle was shown to me as 'freaks of nature'—a skunk skin of a fawn color, with an arrow-shaped mark in white; black and white skunk skins, like a badger's, and a curious admixture of gray and black. These no money could duplicate. There are a couple of water buffalo heads, which are almost priceless now, and many noble antlers dear to the heart of the sportsman, for the exhibition appeals to the naturalist and sportsman as well as to the woman of fashion."

FROM LAKE TO RIVER.

A BIG BATCH OF INTERESTING INDIANA NEWS.

Fresh Intelligence from Every Part of the State—Nothing of Interest to Our Readers Left Out.

—George Bogart, of Marshall County, had his head cut open and leg torn off by a buzz saw.

—The eastern exursion of Indiana newspaper men will start from Frankfort the last of July.

—The Western Association of Writers will hold its sixth annual convention at Warsaw July 9 and 10.

—Mrs. Anna Thomas, aged 81, and mother of Wilson Thomas, of Muncie, died at her home, in Granville.

—James Mulhaney, aged 97 years, died suddenly of cramp colic at his home near Eckerty, Crawford County.

—Robert McBride, of Jeffersonville, who was appointed to a cadetship at West Point, has declined the honor.

—The County Commissioners of Tipton County have raised the County Treasurer's bond from $100,000 to $250,000.

—Mary, the 12-year-old daughter of John Miller, fell from a swing at Cedar Beach and broke her neck, resulting in instant death.

—Mrs. Susan Wood Coats, a wealthy lady living at Shelbyville, fell, injuring her hip so badly that she will remain a cripple for life.

—Farmer James Armstrong, near Noblesville, carried a gun for rabbits, while mowing grass, and was killed by an accidental discharge.

—William Coughlin, a brakeman on the Evansville and Richmond Railroad, was caught while making a coupling in the yards at Seymour, and his hip badly mashed.

—At Desota on the Lake Erie and Western Railway, Henry Jones, aged 20, fell from a moving box-car and had both legs mashed off at the abdomen. He died shortly after.

—To protect themselves from petty pilfering the farmers residing near Silver Grove have organized themselves into a neighborhood police force and patrol the country roads nightly.

—Mrs. Ida Merrill, of Fortville, while endeavoring to milk a vicious cow, was attacked by the animal and severely and perhaps fatally injured by receiving a broken shoulder-blade and several fractured ribs before she could be rescued.

—Martin Yocum, a farmer living near Charlestown, narrowly escaped being killed by the explosion of a can of powder. He was carrying the can under his arm and a spark from the pipe he was smoking fell in the can. An explosion followed and Yocum was painfully injured.

—The big land deal being organized by the Pennsylvania Railroad officials at Dunkirk has been consummated, and engineers have commenced platting the ground. A boom is expected. Wood & Co., have begun work on a 30-250-foot iron building for manufacturing purposes.

—George Shannon, who stole half of a hog from a widow in Clinton Township, Vermillion County, last winter, was tried in the Circuit Court recently. The jury, after being out all night, brought in a verdict of guilty, and fined him $25, sentenced him to one year in the Penitentiary, and disfranchised him for two years.

—J. E. Townsend, of Harveysburg Warren County, Ohio, was instantly killed by the early south-bound passenger train on the C. W. & M. Railroad, a half mile south of Milford. He was crossing the track in his buggy when the team was struck by the engine. From papers on his person it was learned that the man was a physician and was deaf and dumb. The buggy was broken in pieces, but the horse escaped without being hurt.

—William S. Bickel, of Elkhart, one of the oldest and most popular passenger engineers on the Chicago and West Michigan Railway, was killed at Benton Harbor, Mich. He fell from the tender of his engine, his shoulder and head extending across the rail. The wheels struck him on the shoulder, dragging his body along, and rolled upon his neck, crushing one side of it and severing the jugular vein. Death was instantaneous. His father was killed at Elkhart on the Lake Shore coal docks several years ago. Also, a brother was killed at Waterloo, while breaking on a train. Mr. Bickel leaves a wife and two children.

—While the cell room at the northern Indiana penitentiary has a capacity of some sixteen hundred, every other department is crowded to its utmost capacity, says the Michigan City Dispatch. In the dining-room Warden French is so pressed for room that he is compelled to seat a portion of the convicts in the kitchen. Heretofore the largest number of inmates at the Northern Prison was 783. Now the count shows 808, the largest number confined in the institution at any one time since its construction. Warden French anticipates that the prison will contain over a thousand convicts before the present appropriation is expended. While the increase is enormous, the appropriation remains at the same figures when it was made to take care of 700 convicts.

—Tipton is to have a brick street. All the material is now on the ground and work has commenced, and when completed will be the first of the kind in central Indiana.

—As a man was driving across a field near Crawfordsville, a blacksnake over five feet in length suddenly coiled around one of the horse's legs. The animal ran a mile before he could be stopped, when the man got out and killed the snake which was still hanging on and showing a disposition to fight.

—George Feaster, a convict employed in the brush-and-wire-works at Jeffersonville, laid his hand on a saw for the purpose of disabling himself so that he would not need to work. He lost three fingers by the operation.

—Work has been resumed on the pipe line through which it is proposed to conduct natural gas from the Indiana field to Chicago. Some months ago work was stopped, and it was given out that the project had been abandoned. This is now supposed to have been only a ruse for the purpose of securing rights of way on better terms.

SAVED AT LAST.

AUBURN, IND., Oct. 3, 1890.

Dr. J. W. Bergen:

Dear Sir:—By this time, I presume, you will want to know how I am getting along with Bergen's Asthma Cure.

Well, you have heard of persons obtaining a new life. Now I really feel that way myself. When I began taking Bergen's Asthma Cure, I was just coming out of a long siege of it, and was reduced to 115 pounds; weak, short of breath, chills, fever, and badly demoralized generally, coughing from half an hour to an hour every night.

Since commencing, from the third night, I have not lost ten minutes' sleep all night, cough gone, gained seventeen pounds, chills gone, fever gone, shortness of breath and difficulty of breathing gone, consequently I feel a thousand per cent. better. I thank God every day that I ever saw your advertisement, and that I was induced to write to you.

This is peculiarly encouraging in my case, as I had suffered so long and was so discouraged about my case, having tried everything. I am telling the good news every day.

Push on the good work; you are on the right track.

Yours Very Gratefully,
R. McDOUGALL.

Sold by ROBINS & McCORD.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The undersigned, having been restored to health by simple means, after suffering for several years with a severe lung affection, and that dread disease, CONSUMPTION, is anxious to make known to his fellow-sufferers the means of cure. To those who desire it he will cheerfully send, free of charge, a copy of the prescription used, which they will find a sure cure for CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, CATARRH, BRONCHITIS, and all Throat and Lung Maladies. He hopes all sufferers will try this Remedy, as it is invaluable. Those desiring the prescription, which will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing, will please address, REV. EDWARD A. WILSON, Williamsburg, Kings County, New York. 1y.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK

Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD

Ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head

ACHE

Is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold by druggists everywhere, or sent by mail.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York.

SMALL PILL. SMALL DOSE. SMALL PRICE

BOURKE'S HOUSEHOLD SPECIALTIES

COMBINATION BRUSH, MOP AND SPONGE HOLDER

CARPET STRETCHER and GARDEN RAKE.

Nonpareil Window Cleaner, A MARVEL.

Galvanized iron, rubber adjustable to expose new surface as it wears, no glue or cement, lasts a life-time and more efficient than any cleaner made.

Sash Lock and FASTENER.
Most Durable,
Most Compact,
Most Perfect

BURGLAR PROOF FASTENER MADE.

Bourke Mfg. Co., Youngstown, O.

REMEMBER KLINCK IS THE NAME OF THAT Wonderful Remedy

That Cures Catarrh, Hay-Fever, Cold in the Head, Sore Throat, Canker, and Bronchitis.

The testimonials to these FACTS are NUMEROUS and STRONG, similar to the following:

From the Hon. Harvey D. Colvin, Ex-Mayor of Chicago:

CHICAGO, July 24, 1890.

S. H. KLINCK—DEAR SIR: I am pleased to say that I consider your remedy the best medicine in existence, for the human afflictions you claim to cure. I suffered from catarrh with bronchitis for many years. During that time I employed physicians and faithfully tried many so-called remedies advertised to cure this disease, without any material benefit, when a friend induced me to try your remedy, claiming others had been cured by it. The first bottle gave me the most pleasing results. I have continued its use and I can not say too much for it. It found me too near the grave for comfort and restored me to health again. It adorns my toilet stand and by using it occasionally I am kept well.

I would not be without it if it cost $25 per bottle. I earnestly recommend it to all my afflicted friends.

For Sale by leading Druggists.

PINT BOTTLES - - $1.00

Klinck Catarrh & Bronchial Remedy Co., 62 JACKSON ST., CHICAGO, ILL.

DOUBLE DICK AND JOE;

OR

The Poorhouse Waifs.

BY DAVID LOWRY.

CHAPTER I.

BARNESVILLE POORHOUSE.

"Whoa, whoa, thar, you tarnal critters! Whoa! Lord, ef this is Barnesville poorhouse, an' the inside ain't more invitin' than the outside, all I've got to say is it's the steppin' stun to——"

"Sir?"

"Oh, excuse me! I didn't see you. I just drove up."

The speaker stepped leisurely out of his wagon, a lumbering affair, but it had two spirited horses, and they seemed to be, as their driver said, "a-feelin' ov their oats." The driver looked keenly at the man who was frowning upon him.

"This is the poorhouse, ain't it?"

"Yes."

The word was snapped out. The man who was leaning on the end of the wagon smiled knowingly.

"Well, now—say. D'you belong 'round hyar?" The speaker indicated the building and grounds with a shake of his head.

"Suppose I do—what then?

"Oh, nothin', nothin'. Only I'm hyar on a little business. Ef you're one of the folks, p'raps you'll be so kind and obleegin' as for to tell the superintendent, Mr. Jake—no, Mr. Zeke, I guess it is—Mr. Zeke Caper—I want to see him."

"That's my name, sir."

"Gosh! Be it?"

"I said so, sir."

"Of course—of course. No offense. Well, I'm glad I've found you, Mr. Caper. I've brought you a note from Mr. Israel Heber."

The man fumbled in his pocket and produced an envelope that was deeply wrinkled. The Superintendent of the Poorhouse opened the note quickly, then, as he ran his eye over the short piece of paper, glanced at the bearer.

"This note tells me that you are Mr. Job Wonder."

"That's me all the time."

"Mr. Heber says you are entirely trustworthy."

"Well, I've ben livin', boy an' man, sixty years in this county, an' I reckon ther aint no man dare say a heuter agin me to my face—'less I knock him into the next township for it 'fore I stop."

"I've no doubt of your honesty, Mr.——"

"Wonder—Job Wonder. He'd ought to put it plain in the letter, so's you'd mind it."

"So, Mr. Wonder. My friend says you are ready, on account of old acquaintance, to serve him."

"Egzackly so. That's what I said. Sez he to me, 'Job, I want a favor.' 'Spit it right out,' sez I. Then he told me he'd be obleeged if I drive round this way—you see, it's two mile out o' my road, or more—so here I be. Gosh! what an all-fired big place you have got hyar, to be sure."

"Come in, Mr. Wonder—step in."

"To be sure—I'm right along with you! Where's all the critters—all the the blasted poor-people? Oh, there they be! Sunnin' of themselves—phew! If there ain't a old woman for all the world so'thin' like a mud-turtle on a log! Them's the no-account ones, I guess!"

"Yes, that's the truth, Mr. Wonder. Will you have a 'snack?'"

"I don't keer ef I do take a bite. It'll be late 'fore I git home."

"Just step inside here. This is my own room—my sitting-room."

The Superintendent stepped outside, while Mr. Job Wonder, true to his name, eyed everything in the room in pure wonder. It was unlike any room he had ever been in.

"It's the dod-darnedest place I ever sot eyes on! I wouldn't live hyar—no, I wouldn't hang out in Barnesville Poorhouse ef they give me $2 a day an' board. I wouldn't sit on this infernal yaller-clay bank, where the flies are thicker'n tar-bugs in June, for—hello! I say! Where'd you come from?"

"Where did you come from?"

"Ha, ha! That's good, now! Where'd I come from? From Wonder's Mill. Now, then, tell me where you hail from—or, mebbe, you just lit down?"

"I belong here."

"You do! Well, you look just like it. Lord—what a git-up!"

"What's that?"

"I said what a git-up."

"You think I ain't nice. I can play the banjo, and dance, and sing—that's more than you can do."

"Hello! Hello-o-o! Why, you don't look to be more'n two feet high. How old be you?"

"I don' know."

"You don't know how old you be?"

"I told you I don' know. How old are you?"

Job Wonder covered his face with his hat, and the Superintendent entered at that moment, with an angry expression on his face.

"Sorry to detain you, Mr. Wonder. The things will be here in a minute. I am looking for a girl I want to show you. Here are the victuals."

A thinly clad man brought in a tray with cold chicken, pies, and milk, and placing the tray on a table withdrew silently.

"Just help yourself—eat hearty, Mr. Wonder. Perhaps you will take a little ——"

The Superintendent looked knowingly at Job, and Job looked knowingly at the Superintendent.

"Well, I don't keer if I do, bein' as you've axed me."

The Superintendent of Barnesville Poorhouse proceeded to the closet he was looking at, brought out a black bottle, took the cork out of it, and handing him a tumbler, said

"Help yourself!"

Job Wonder smelled the bottle—poured out a "pretty good snifter," to use his own words, drank it, smacked his lips, and said, "That's pretty good licker, Squire."

The Superintendent took a drink, and as he replaced the bottle replied, "Yes—you'll not get any better in Acorn County. Now, help yourself, while I look for the girl I spoke of."

He went out, Job Wonder seated himself, and was disposing rapidly of the chicken and pie when the Superintendent entered with the girl Job had met, and who had disappeared in a mysterious manner.

"I've brought this girl for you to look at, Mr. Wonder. Isn't she a beauty."

"Well, I've seen wus—a great deal wus lookin' girls than that," said Job, looking at the girl as if he had not beheld her until that minute.

The girl's face grew red—fiery red—then pale. In that moment she intuitively recognized a friend in Job Wonder. She stepped back from the Superintendent, however, with a lowering face.

"Hold your head up! Hold it up, I say!"

"Don't scold her," said Job.

"Scold her? She's used to it. Mr. Wonder, this girl is—is—well, she gives me more trouble than all the rest put together, and I want you to do me a favor. I'm going to bind her out—that's the rule in Acorn County, you know. I'm going to bind her out, with the approval of the Commissioners, of course, and I want you to do me the favor to take her with you over to Bill Stubbs."

"To Bill Stubbs' place?"

"Yes. Bill will keep her until somebody takes her for good or bad—bad, I reckon," the Superintendent added, under his breath.

"Why, yes—that's if you want me to."

But the girl had some ideas on the subject. She shook her hair—it was in a tangle—evidently no comb had penetrated that tangle in days.

"I don't want to be bound out. I want to stay here."

"Hush up. How dare you speak that way?"

"Don't you be rough on her—she don't mean it," said Job Wonder.

"O, yes she does. I've walloped her for it often enough to cure her of it, too."

"Walloped that little mite," said Job Wonder under his breath. "What a shame!"

"Yes, you'll be bound out—where you'll be held in check. If Bill Stubbs takes you off the county's hands, he'll bring you to time. Now, don't you snivel—shut up."

The girl had her skirt—a dirty, colorless skirt it was—to her eyes.

"Be you in earnest 'bout Bill Stubbs?" asked Job Wonder.

"Dead earnest."

"Well—now, see hyar. I don't know as I want a girl. Fact is, my folks has lots o' time as 'tis. My wife fusses an' fusses an' my sister fusses, but between them they don't do a mite. 'Cos why—we've got two girls now. But I'll tell you what I'll do. Ef, as you say, you're goin' to give her to Bill Stubbs, suppose I take her. What do you say?"

"Why, I would be glad of the chance. Take her and welcome."

"O, do—do! Don't let Stubbs have me!" implored the girl, turning to Job. Her cheeks were wet with tears. Job's eyes looked moist as he put his hand out and patted her head.

"I'll take you. I don't keer if my ole woman does scold me for bringin' a girl from Barnesville Poorhouse. I've never had no girls. I reckon a man can pick one girl up in a life-time if he wants to. Leastways, I've made my mind up. See hyar, Squire, you know me. I'll make it all right. You fix up the papers, same as you was goin' to do for Stubbs, an' I'll come over and sign 'em in a day or two, an' give bond, regular, everything shipshape. That's my style. I guess my word's as good as my bond."

"Quite—quite, Mr. Wonder. If you will take her I'll have the papers prepared by Saturday."

"That'll just suit me," said Wonder.

"Go and get your things—your hat and dress—and put on your shoes and stockings. Mr. Wonder will give you ten minutes."

"It'll take that long for her to comb her hair!" said Job. "I'm not in such a pesky hurry—say, Mr. Caper, what'll I call her?"

"Joe," answered the girl.

"Joe? That's a boy's name."

"Short for Josephine."

"Oh!"

"I don't like Josephine."

"Go get your things," ordered the Superintendent, pushing her out of the room. She was absent seemingly only a few minutes. When she returned she carried in one hand a little bundle, and a banjo in the other.

"Put that banjo down—leave it here," commanded Mr. Caper.

"I won't—I mean, I want to——"

"Put it down, I say; Mr. Wonder don't want you taking that thing along. He would be distracted with your noise."

"I won't leave it. It's my own! Mine, and I'll keep it."

The girl was ready to cry again. Job interposed once more.

"To be sure she kin bring her banjo, Mr. Caper—to be sure."

"Well, it's your affair now, Mr. Wonder."

"She won't do no harm—tain't like as ef she was a player, you know. She can fetch it along. Well, is this the hull bilin' o' clothes? Ef 'tis, 'twon't swell our wash much."

They were out on the road now. The Superintendent stood smiling as the farmer helped the girl into the wagon. But Joe did not need or want a helping hand. She suddenly put the farmer's hand aside and sprang into the wagon and seated herself. She seemed eager to be away. She did not deign to glance at the Superintendent. Mr. Caper did not seem to be thinking of his charge. All his attention was given to Mr. Wonder.

"You'll come for to sign the papers Saturday."

"Sure pop; sure's my name's Job Wonder," assured the farmer. "Gee up! G'lang! You Alexander; you Napoleon, git! Good-by, Mr. Caper, good-by."

But there was no good-by from Joe. She was sitting with compressed lips and a strange, new light in her eyes.

"I'm in luck again," said Zeke Caper, as he scowled upon the wagon. "I was mighty lucky to get her off so soon. Now let them come as soon as they please. Thanks to my friend Israel, they won't find a hair of her in Barnesville poorhouse. And nobody will ever be any the wiser, and I'll be a pile of money ahead, or Israel will hear from me!"

The Superintendent shaded his eyes and looked down the road. "Here they come now—lickity-split, I'll bet a year's salary. Well—let 'em come."

And the Superintendent of Barnesville poorhouse re-entered the building that served as a shell—a very thin shell—for the misery thrown upon the tender mercies of Acorn County.

CHAPTER II.

DICK.

When Mr. Caper entered the door of the poorhouse his eye fell on a lad crouching back of a door. The boy had a thin—a very thin—pinched face. It was the face of a starveling. His cheeks were pinched and white; his eyes were large, hungry—very hungry eyes. His clothes flapped about him.

"What are you doing here, curse you!" exclaimed Mr. Caper, in a harsh voice, as he grasped the boy.

"I was—was just going back into the dining-room," the boy replied.

"You lie!"

The Superintendent brought from his coat pocket a heavy strap, and struck the boy across the hands—across the knees—across his back.

"There! Take that (strap), and that (strap) and that" (strap). And then the blows fell so fast the Superintendent's tongue could not keep pace with them.

The boy never made a move—made no sign—did not cry out. He looked straight at the Superintendent with his great hungry, hollow eyes until the latter paused, fairly out of breath.

"Why don't you howl? Howl, I tell you, howl!"

The boy looked at his tormentor steadily.

"Not for you."

"You won't! you won't! You won't howl for me (strap). You think I can't make you howl (strap)! Eh (strap)! I can't make you (strap) howl!"

"No."

Mr. Caper was now breathless and speechless with rage. He could only glare at the boy.

"If you kill me, Mr. Caper, you can't make me cry again. I've shed my last tear here."

"You have?"

"Yes; you can beat me now; if you don't kill me, as sure as I live and grow bigger, I'll pay you back. Go ahead, now—beat me."

Mr. Caper leaned on his chair amazed. He tried to speak, but could not. He put out a hand, grasped the boy, pulled him to him with a jerk that lifted the boy off his feet, and whispered hoarsely in his ear:

"You—you threaten me?"

"I do."

The boy stood motionless. Then he said, in a low, concentrated tone:

"You are a coward—a cowardly brute. Don't you touch me again. I've friends here. They've been watching you, Mr. Caper. If you hurt me—if you kill me, there's people in Barnesville will turn you out, and then maybe you'll have to hook it."

"You—you young devil! What does all this mean?"

"It means this: Joe's gone now. You've got rid of her, and I've took my last licking. I don't need to be licked any more. I've saved her years; that's all I let you lick me for—to keep you off poor Joe."

"Oh! That was it, was it?"

"Yes. Now, you hit me once more—only once—and if I can kill you I'll do it. I've warned you. I may as well be dead as be under you, anyhow. I'll get even with you, Mr. Caper, if it's in my power. You've been a brute to all of us. You whipped poor Joe every day, until I managed to make you mad at me."

"Oh! You made me mad. You're not making me mad now. We'll see if I can't choke you into obedience."

He rushed at the boy, flung him on the floor, knelt on his breast.

"Ask my pardon—ask my forgiveness! Say you're sorry. Beg pardon."

"Never! You'll choke me—and hang for it."

"Ask my pardon!"

"Never."

The Superintendent's eye blazed with malevolence. His fingers clutched the boys' windpipe. Another minute and it would have been over with the poor boy, when a sound of wheels reminded the Superintendent of the position he was in.

He bounded to his feet, freed the boy, who rose slowly, and with great difficulty, and walked away, as two gentlemen entered the main entrance.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

WHAT GIRLS TALK ABOUT.

Two Subjects That Always Present Interesting Points.

"What do girls talk about," I asked one of them, "at their luncheons and during calls upon each other?"

"Well," she replied, "there are usually two subjects of conversation at gatherings of girls, and they are about equally prolific. One of them is the men and the other is the girls who don't happen to be present. We discuss the men of our acquaintance from every possible point of view, exchange confidences that have been made to us, criticise them with unrestricted freedom, and wonder which of them want to marry and what styles of girls they prefer. Sometimes we are rather sharp in our criticisms, but on the whole the men get out rather easily. But when it comes to other girls—my!"

"What do you mean by that?"

"I mean that no mercy is shown. For example, we take up some poor unfortunate who isn't with us and go through the pleasant operation known as picking her to pieces. We discuss her costumes, her complexion, her manners, her sayings, her tastes, and by the time we have got through with her the Creator wouldn't recognize his work. Then we start in on some other girl."

"But have you many enemies of this sort?"

"Enemies? Bless your innocent soul, I haven't an enemy in the world. I love my neighbor as myself."

"You surely don't intend to convey the impression to my mind that these girls whose characters you discuss in this cannibalistic way are friends of yours?"

"Why, certainly. For instance, on the South Side the other day we were all taking 5 o'clock tea and having a simply beautiful time picking Maria Jones to pieces. Just in the middle of it all Maria came in. Was she greeted coldly? Well, hardly. We all embraced her, gave her a seat near the fire and changed the subject of conversation to Annie Smith. And how Maria did go for her, to be sure!"—Chicago Post.

City Populations.

The census of 1890 shows that 18,235,670 persons out of a total of 62,622,250 reside in cities having a population of 8,000 and over. But this one-third of our people by no means represents our entire urban population. When we take the suburban villages and the population of towns below 8,000 we shall have enough to state with certainty that one-half our country's population is essentially urban in character. The accelerating tendency of our population to city and village life may be seen in the following table:

CENSUS YEARS.	Population of United States.	Population of cities of 8,000 and over.	City population of each 100 of total pop'lat'n
1790	3,929,214	131,472	3.35
1800	5,308,483	210,873	3.97
1810	7,239,881	356,920	4.93
1820	9,633,822	475,135	4.93
1830	12,866,020	864,509	6.72
1840	17,069,453	1,453,994	8.52
1850	23,191,876	2,897,586	12.49
1860	31,433,321	5,072,256	16.13
1870	38,558,371	8,071,875	20.93
1880	50,155,783	11,318,547	22.57
1890	62,622,250	18,235,670	29.12

There are now 443 cities in this country having a population of 8,000 and over. The present population of New York is 1,515,301, of Chicago 1,099,850, of Philadelphia 1,046,964, of Brooklyn, 806,343, of St. Louis 451,770, of Boston 448,477, of Baltimore 434,439, of San Francisco 298,997, of Cincinnati 296,908, of Cleveland 261,353, of Buffalo 255,664, of New Orleans 242,039, of Pittsburg, 238,617, of Washington, D. C., 230,392. Mechanical industry and the rapid expansion of manufacturing have had very much to do with this increasing urban population. Improved agricultural machinery has liberated hundreds of thousands from the fields and farms to engage in other activities; the order of society has radically changed. The machinery and engines in this country are doing work that would require the hand labor of 1,000,000,000 men, or three times the adult male population of the world. Every member of civil society is profited by this work, and all society enormously benefited by it. This mechanical work means better homes and conditions for all, and the best conditions for highest life can only be found in cities; they do not exist in barnyards. Cities must continue to grow with increasing rapidity during the next ten years.

Sweep, Oh! Sweep.

Henry Carter, a Colorado millionaire, was walking about in Philadelphia, and saw a servant girl sweeping off the front steps of a house. "Just the gal I want for a wife!" whispered Henry. And in three weeks he had her on his arm and was westward hoing. Thirty-two thousand five hundred and eighty-six Philadelphia servant girls now hustle to sweep.

PASSENGER | "Porter, how long will it be before we get into Chicago?" Porter—"About a quarter of a dollar, sah."

HUMOR.

She Was Dar.

Mrs. Yerger, of Austin, having been absent for several days, returned to her home. She was met at the gate by her colored servant, Matilda Snowball.

"Has anything happened while I was gone?" asked Mrs. Yerger.

"De Lor', I should say sumfin' happened! We came mighty nigh habin' de biggest kind ob a fire," replied Matilda, rolling her eyes around.

"Where?"

"In your bedroom. You orter be mighty glad I was dar when de fire started. Ef it warn't for me bein' dar de hull house would hab been burned down before now."

"So you put out the fire?"

"Yes, mum; I drapped de lamp and hit cotched de curtain, but as luck would hab it I was dar. Ef I hadn't been dar when I drapped de lamp, whopee! dar's no tellin' what mout hab happened."—Texas Siftings.

Applying the Remedy.

Amy—Do you know, Mr. Goslin, I am troubled with insomnia?

Goslin—Now I wead in the papah today that the way to go to sleep pwomptly is to think of nothing, doncher know.

Amy—That's very simple. I'll try it this very night, and think of you.

The Reason Is Clear.

Gazzam—It is a wonder that love letters written by girls don't all go to the Dead Letter Office.

Mrs. Gazzam—I'd like to know why.

Gazzam—Because they are miss directed.

It Suited.

McCorkle—I don't see why you always refer to William Jaysmith as Urgent Deficiency Bill.

McCrackle—Then you don't know him well enough for him to try to borrow money from you.

An Unpleasant Subject.

Mrs. Brickrow—I met Mr. Intrade yesterday, and was disgusted at the way he talked——

Mrs. Brownstone—Horrors! You do not associate with such people, do you? They always talk shop.

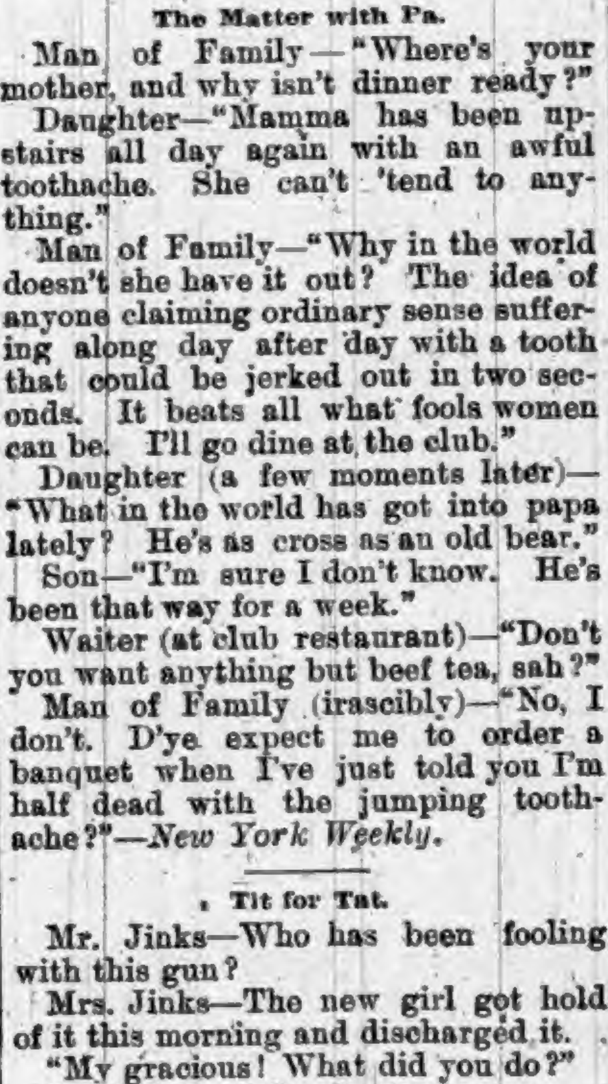
Mrs. Brickrow—Yes. As I was saying, I was disgusted at his talk. The idea of his saying you'd been owing him money for five years and he never expected to get a cent of it.

A Strong Combination.

Bliffers—I have a friend who is the most peculiar man you ever saw. He has a regular South of Ireland name, but he looks like a born German, and yet he is really an Italian.

Cliffers—By jove, he ought to go into politics.

The Stereotype Sign of a Dentist.



"Teeth drawn without pain."—To be sure, not a bit does it pain the big dentist who is drawing it.

The Matter with Pa.

Man of Family—"Where's your mother, and why isn't dinner ready?"

Daughter—"Mamma has been upstairs all day again with an awful toothache. She can't 'tend to anything."

Man of Family—"Why in the world doesn't she have it out? The idea of anyone claiming ordinary sense suffering along day after day with a tooth that could be jerked out in two seconds. It beats all what fools women can be. I'll go dine at the club."

Daughter (a few moments later)—"What in the world has got into papa lately? He's as cross as an old bear."

Son—"I'm sure I don't know. He's been that way for a week."

Waiter (at club restaurant)—"Don't you want anything but beef tea, sah?"

Man of Family (irascibly)—"No, I don't. D'ye expect me to order a banquet when I've just told you I'm half dead with the jumping toothache?"—New York Weekly.

Tit for Tat.

Mr. Jinks—Who has been fooling with this gun?

Mrs. Jinks—The new girl got hold of it this morning and discharged it.

"My gracious! What did you do?"

"I discharged her."

Made Some Difference.

"Yes," she murmured, "I loved him. He was not worthy of me, but I felt I could not give him up. So my parents took me across the ocean.

"Did that make any difference in your feelings?"

"Yes. The second day out I felt as if I could give up everything."

And she changed the subject.

The Care of a Meerschaum Pipe.

A meerschaum pipe, if properly cared for, requires as much attention as a baby. You must not smoke it too much or you will burn the wax out of it and so spoil it; nor too little for fear it may not color at all. If you keep it in a case it becomes overheated and covered with splotches; if you take it out of the case it will be soiled by every touch of the fingers, and so ruined in that way; if you lay it down on a mantel to cool off after smoking, it is cracked by the unequal contraction while cooling; if you carry it in your pocket, it does not cool fast enough and so becomes stained. It is always on your mind, and you are never satisfied that something is not happening to it.

A NOVEL experiment has been devised for the entertainment of dinner guests, the serving of salad grown under the eyes of the guests who partake of it. The secret of performing this magic feat is in soaking good germinating lettuce seed in alcohol for about six hours, and sowing it in an equal mixture of unslacked lime and rich soil. After the soup has been served sprinkle the seeds with lukewarm water and they will sprout immediately, the lettuce growing to about the size of hazel nuts before the time for serving the salad arrives.

PLEASURE BOATS —AND— CANOES.

Oars, rowlocks, paddles, masts, spars, sails, blocks, cleats, anchors, etc., etc., etc.

$30 A BOAT FOR —TO— $300

THE PLEASURE BOATS OF AMERICA!

DON'T BUY ELSEWHERE until you see my catalogue for 1891; send 5 cent stamp for it.

J. H. RUSHTON, Canton, N. Y.

N. Y. CITY SALESROOM,
H. C. SQUIRES, 178 BROADWAY.

I CURE FITS!

When I say CURE I do not mean merely to stop them for a time, and then have them return again. I MEAN A RADICAL CURE. I have made the disease of

FITS, EPILEPSY or FALLING SICKNESS,

A life-long study. I WARRANT my remedy to CURE the worst cases. Because others have failed is no reason for not now receiving a cure. Send at once for a treatise and a FREE BOTTLE of my INFALLIBLE REMEDY. Give Express and Post Office. It costs you nothing for a trial, and it will cure you. Address H. G. ROOT, M.C., 183 PEARL ST., NEW YORK

The greatest improvement in Corsets during the past twenty years is the use of Coraline in the place of horn or whalebone. It is used in all of Dr. Warner's Corsets and in no others.

The advantages of Coraline over horn or whalebone are that it does not become set like whalebone, and it is more flexible and more durable.

Dr. Warner's Coraline Corsets are made in twenty-four different styles, fitting every variety of figures—thin, medium, stout, long waists and short waists.

Sold everywhere.

WARNER BROS., Mfrs.,
New York and Chicago.

Jackson Favorite Waist

HAS STYLE — SUPPORTS BACK AND SPINE. GIVES COMFORT AND EASE.

Adjustable shoulder straps, soft button fronts or ordinary clasps.

HYGIENIC, HEALTHFUL, BOON TO WOMEN.

FOR SALE BY ALL DEALERS, OR SENT POST PAID FOR $1.10 State size and if white or drab is desired. ALWAYS ADDRESS THE

Coronet Corset Co., JACKSON, MICH.

WANTED experienced and efficient agents to sell line of desirable household articles. Terms liberal, agents make money selling them. Samples furnished prepaid: Holder, 15c., cleaner, 10-inch 15c.; Fasteners, bronze 5c., nickel, 7c. BOURKE MFG. CO., Youngstown, O.

"IRON IS KING"

Brown's IRON AND QUININE Bitters IS THE KING OF TONICS!

IRON QUININE GENTION FOR THE BLOOD, NERVES, STOMACH.

BLOOD MAKER AND NERVE STRENGTHENER.

BEST BITTERS ever offered the public and a thoroughly reliable tonic and health restorer and cannot fail to give tone and vigor to the whole system by purifying the blood, strengthening the bones, muscles and nerves, and restoring in a wonderful degree the health and vigor of youth.

EVERY BOTTLE WARRANTED.

PRICE $1.00.

N. K. Brown & Co., BURLINGTON, VT.

BETHESDA

Cures Diabetes and Bright's Disease.

RECOMMENDED AND USED BY

Hon. CHAS. FOSTER, Secretary of Treasury.
Hon. J. M. RUSK, Secretary of Agriculture.
Hon. GEO. R. DAVIS, Director General World's Fair, Chicago.
DR. SHRADY, New York City.
Prof. ACASSIZ, Cambridge, Mass.
FRANKLIN MacVEACH, Chicago.
CLEM. STUDEBAKER, South Bend, Ind.

A Pure, Refreshing, Health-Giving Water, so delicately proportioned in mineral qualities by nature as to make it agreeable and wholesome in health, and in cases of Diabetes and Bright's Disease more benefit will be derived from it in twenty-four hours than in three months from any medicine known to science.

Write for Pamphlet. BETHESDA MINERAL SPRING CO., Waukesha, Wis.

MOST POPULAR BUGGY ON WHEELS

SINGLE CENTER SPRING.

Body always level. Load distributed at five points on rear axle. Gear, best grade steel throughout. Spring, long and easy, makes easiest riding wagon made. Runs easy because it always tracks. 20 pounds lighter than a side bar. Superior first-class wagon. Made of choicest materials. Spring and Gear guaranteed two years.

5 POINTS

BUSINESS MEN'S COMPANION.

Vehicles of every style made on this Spring.

Defies Competition for Rough Roads. SINGLE CENTER SPRING CO., EVANSVILLE, INDIANA.

For WEAK AND DEBILITATED MEN.

A NEW DISCOVERY! —BY— DR. ALBERT. TESTICURA EXTERNOSUM

AFTER years of experience in the leading Hospitals of the World, and as a Private Specialist in the treatment of Sexual Weakness, DR. ALBERT has been induced to place before the afflicted at a nominal expense, this

WONDERFUL REMEDY!

An Outward Application

TESTICURA EXTERNOSUM For the Cure of Seminal Weakness, Impotency, Nocturnal Emissions, Varicocele, and Lack of Development.

Cure by Absorption.

TESTICURA EXTERNOSUM Applied direct to the parts. No Nauseous Drugs that Ruin the Stomach. Guaranteed Cure, or Money Refunded.

No Nauseous Drugs.

A PERFECT RESTORATION GUARANTEED.

Sent to any part of the U. S., securely packed, free from observation, upon receipt of $2.00.

For full information, address enclosing 4 cents postage, The ALBERT MEDICAL DISPENSARY, Cleveland, O.

Rattan Rockers and Chairs.

These chairs grow in popularity every day. They are cool, light, comfortable and pretty and are equally desirable in the parlor, library, sitting room or bed room. They harmonize with all woods and furnishings. Some of the new styles are exceedingly novel and handsome. The Foster Furniture Co., at Ft. Wayne have the most elegant line of these chairs ever shown in the state.

Business Notice.

Notice is hereby given to any and all parties having, or claiming to have any claim, account or note against me, to present the same and have it adjusted, as I do not wish to have any accounts standing against me unsettled.

ANTHONY ZONKER.

Card of Thanks.

Permit me through the columns of the COURIER to thank my friends and neighbors for their unceasing acts of kindness during the last sickness of my beloved wife. Words cannot express my gratitude, but I trust you may all be rewarded as your christian acts deserve.

JOHN SHEFFER.

For Sale.

Residence property on VanBuren st., just south new Lutheran church, recently furnished throughout. Will sell cheap and on liberal terms if taken within the next few days. Inquire at W. L. Penfield's law office.

THE DAY WE CELEBRATE.

JULY 4th,

COME TO FORT WAYNE AND SEE

THE OPENING OF THE NEW B. B. AND DRIVING PARK

July 4

DON'T STAY AT HOME.

A ROUND TRIP TICKET WILL COST YOU ONLY 65c.

The grandest celebration in the state. Horse Races, Base Ball, Balloon ascension, Prof. Baldwin's Parachute drop, $1,000.00 Fire Works.

CLOSING OUT!

At Cost and Less Than Cost.

As we are going to discontinue business at Auburn, and in order to reduce our big stock of fine Clothing, Hats, Caps and Furnishing Goods, we shall sell all goods at cost and less than first cost. We are only going to be here a few weeks longer, so come early and secure some of our big bargains, for we shall positively save you the profits on all goods you buy, which means a big saving to you. This is a chance no one can afford to miss. Come early and secure the best.

O. J. Schwarz,

Auburn, Ind.

We Do Not Propose to Wait

TILL THE SEASON IS OVER

TO MAKE OUR

REDUCTION SALE!

-But Now-

The time when the people of this city are buying their Summer Clothing, we propose to put the knife deep into prices and make our sale

THE GREATEST EVENT IN THE

Clothing trade ever seen in Auburn. Our former low prices knocked still lower. Your chance to own fine,

TAILOR MADE CLOTHING!

never so good as now, for you can buy the finest of suits at what, possibly, cheap and medium grades sold for. Do not wait until the assortment is broken, but come early, so as

TO SECURE GOOD SELECTIONS.

THE BOSTON CLOTHING STORE.

One Price and the Truth.

AUBURN - - IND.

NORTH OF PUBLIC SQUARE.

THE AUBURN COURIER

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY.

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post-office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY............JUNE 25, 1891.

Ex-Senator McDonald Dead.

Joseph E. McDonald died at Indianapolis Sunday night at 11:35. He was born in Ohio in 1819. Studied at Wabash College, Crawfordsville and at Asbury, now DePauw, at Greencastle, was attorney general in 1856, and later a member of congress. He was candidate for governor in '64 but was defeated by Morton, became U. S. senator in 1875 and was succeeded by Benj. Harrison in '81. He had learned the harness and saddle trade at LaFayette and in this way we suppose, got the name of "Old Saddlebags." He was one of the leading lawyers of the country, and a strong democrat, and the party loses in his death one of its ablest counselors.

GEN. J. M. SCHOFIELD, commander-in-chief of the army, was married last week to Miss Georgia Kilbourn, of Keokuk, Iowa.

MCKINLEY the high tariff prophet was last week nominated as candidate for governor by the Ohio republicans. Democrats have not met as yet.

The young lady friends of Myrtle Dills surprised her somewhat on her seventeenth birthday, which was last Wednesday. A few of them were in the secret with her mother, who had arranged with Salyer for a nice supper for the girls. As a means of getting her there, her mother told her to come home that way, from Harter's store where she is employed, and bring a quart of ice cream. But she got off earlier than her mother expected and when she reached Salyer's, the party had not arrived. Of course she got the ice cream, but later, meeting her young friends, she was persuaded on some pretext to go back to Salyer's with them, and she was somewhat astonished to see a fine supper uncovered for their benefit. They passed away the evening pleasantly. Among the guests were Flora Jones and Zadie Wallace of Columbia City.

THERE is a great hue and cry by the unthinking republican editors in regard to American made tin plate. What has there ever been to prevent us from making tin plate in this country? Nothing. Block tin has been free for nearly fifty years, and Americans could have bought it, brought it here, made their thin plates of iron, cleansed them, then by dipping each sheet into a kettle of melted tin, and rubbing the sheet till it was bright, the work was done. Who could not do this? Was there not talent enough in America to do this plain labor, till republicans raised the tariff on tin plates still higher than before? Do they think people will believe the establishing of this industry in America was brought about by the tariff? And of how much benefit will it be to labor, for probably the makers of tin, if we make tin ever, will import cheap workmen from Wales, and not an American be employed. But all the nation will pay higher for the tin, in order that half a dozen wealthy men may get rich. Grand idea!

Court.

Judge Powers married a couple Tuesday, in court. They were Louis Loebe and Minnie Idel Champion. The Judge prides himself on his popularity and skill in this line. R. M. Lockhart obtained judgment of $612 against Crew. The case of Lawhead vs Hook, the allotments were allowed to stand as made by surveyor. Baltz vs Collett, account, went for defendant; E. Snyder vs Farner, against defendant for $90; Ida Sherlock was divorced from James. A great deal of general work has been done and time well put in.

Why Can't Auburn have a Park?

Auburn with its 3000 inhabitants is one of Indiana's model towns. In beauty it is unsurpassed and in number of fine business houses, beautiful residences large churches, and extensive manufactures it ranks among the first in the state. The foliage is elegant and a person looking up Main, Jackson, VanBuren or a look on Seventh street, will have an idea of the shade which Auburn derives from its numberless shade trees. Auburn has about 200 men in business with more than 800 laboring men. How many days out of each week do these men have for rest or recreation? Only one, Sunday! And what a pleasure it would be to take a walk or drive through a beautiful park and enjoy a ride on a lake which is certainly the pride of any park. A person seeing the beauty of Spring Fountain park at Warsaw and knowing the amount of pleasure obtained from a trip to such a place would certainly be willing to help in making Auburn a resort of pleasure and recreation. What business man, lawyer, store keeper, doctor or employer would refuse to give from $10 to $50 and what laboring man would refuse giving $5 or $10 for a share in such an institution. Auburn has nearly 300 young men who would give from $1 to $5 to help such a cause along. Our beautiful court yard with all its shade and grandeur would be nothing compared with a large park with fountains, flower beds, grassy walks, a fine artficial lake a large music and exhibition hall, race track, swings, hammocks, grand stands, croquet grounds, waterfalls, beautiful drive ways, rustic seats, bath houses, pagodas, ice cream stands, and everything to make it a pleasure resort for all Sunday school picnics, excursions, public gatherings and all who enjoy a day of pleasure. Some will say how will the park be supported after it has been completed? We will answer by saying there are few who would not pay 10 or 25 cents for a whole day's recreation. And from this source money will be made to pay men for taking care of the park and making it more beautiful. Again some will say it is impossible to make an artificial lake large enough for pleasure riding. To this we will say that a lake of 2 or 3 acres will afford as much pleasure as a lake a mile long. As to the ground for such a park we will say Auburn has more advantages for having a park than any town in the county. So let the men of Auburn and vicinity think upon the subject and have a public meeting and see what can be done with this grandest institution of Auburn.

June 19, 1891. * *

Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the Board of Review of DeKalb county, Indiana, will meet at the room of the County Commissioners, in the Court House, in the town of Auburn, on for the purpose of assessment, review and equalization of the valuation of real and personal property in said county. Also to hear all complaints that may properly come before them.

Monday, July 6, 1891,

H. N. COFFINBERRY,
Auditor, DeKalb county, Ind.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL.

Read O. J. Schwarz' new ad. It speaks for itself.

Frank Blattner and wife are visiting in Waterloo.

Casebeer & Matheny for wall paper and paper and paints. 19tf

Try our perfumes the best in the market, Robbins & McCord.

Assembly at Spring Fountain Park, near Warsaw, begins July 15.

The next county Sunday school convention will be held at Corunna.

Mrs. O. J. Schwarz went to Ligonier on Monday to visit her people.

Miss Libbie Bevier, now residing at Fayette, Ohio, was in town yesterday.

Mrs. Charlie Hoff got home this week, after several weeks' stay in the west.

If you want strictly pure mixed paints call at Casebeer & Matheny's drugstore.

PIANOS & ORGANS on easy terms. Address, Davis & Husselman, Waterloo, Ind.

See those new hammocks at Robbins & McCord's. All prices from 50c to $5.00. 26 28

Dr. S. B. Johnson, dentist, will be in his office at Waterloo on Thursday of each week.

A report of a pleasant picnic at Boot's grove was received too late, but will be in next week.

Mrs. Hare has returned from South Bend, bringing Dr. Johnson's two older children with her.

George Grund and Frank Rush with their wives spent several days this week at Orland fishing.

Mrs. Mary Nusbaum returned home last Friday from a visit with the Doctor's people at Goshen.

Mrs. Wils. McClellan had a sister and her husband, from Storm Lake, Iowa, visiting her a few days.

The maple tree pests with their little white cotton-like nests have appeared on many of our shade trees.

A sister of Mrs. Chas. Picker, Mrs. Lugar who resides in Nevada, is in town the guest of the former.

E. Snyder and family of Antwerp, O. and Jennie Freeman, of Peoria, Ill, are the guests of Mrs. S. Potter.

Claude Benedict went to Lakeside with Mr. Cobb, and we believe will assist him there this season.

G. C. Ralston carried home the first watermelon we saw this year. Garrett, the grocer got on a lot of them.

For fans, fireworks, flags of all sizes, and other decoration goods at lowest prices, go to The Fair, Garrett, Ind.

The DeKalb county band played delightfully at the old settlers' meeting, and made up their full share of the day's enjoyment.

Dave Hodge, Frank Eckhart, Dr. Coats and Geo. McKay started yesterday to Hogback lake to camp out and fish for a week.

The Lutheran church at Sedan will give a strawberry and ice cream social on this, Thursday evening, to which all are invited.

Mr. Brent, of Butte, Mont., has been here a few days. He is a son-in-law of the late Wm. Shutt, and is interested in mining stocks.

Rev. Geo. Lee, of Montpelier, Ohio, will preach at the Lutheran church next Sunday morning and evening. All are invited to come and hear him.

Sam Buss, our hustling builder, has been carrying his hand in a sling, result of trying to put up so many houses as soon as the owners wanted them.

The place to buy twine cheap is at Brown & Culbertson's. Tariff all off and most of the profit. Full stock of repairs for the McCormick, Esterly, Empire and other machines. 27

Come and see the display of silver-plated knives, forks, table spoons, tea spoons, sugar shells, butter knives, etc., sold so cheap at The Fair, Opera House Block, Garrett, Ind.

John Treesh has the job of putting down the cement walks at the M. E. church. He will give them honest work. A part will be laid this week, but high water delayed getting the gravel.

The Fair, at Garrett, is the place to buy cheap tinware, glassware, queensware and all kinds of household necessities. Call and see our 5 and 10 cent counters. J. Wm. Wagoner, Pro.

All those wishing to take lessons in elecution or music will please call at our rooms over Cowan Sister's on Wednesday p. m., July 1st. Remember date. Mabel Hartman and Flora Hoffman.

Great tumble in Thomas rakes and tedders of which Brown & Culbertson have a car load. Go and see them or their agents at Auburn or their sub agents at Butler, St Joe or Hudson. 26

Dr. S. B. Johnston, goes next Tuesday June 30, to attend the annual session of the State Dental Association at Indianapolis. Those who expected to call on him for professional services will please take notice.

The C. L. S. C. will meet next Saturday afternoon with Mrs. Henry. Program, Walks and talks, Mrs. Plum; Classic French course in English, Mrs. Clifton; The Irishman at home, Mrs. McKay; England in the Islands of the Sea, Mrs. Rant.

Mrs. McQuiston had a tumor removed Sunday morning. It had been troubling her for some time. The operation was performed by Drs. D. J. and Vesta M. Swarts, and Dr. Porter, of Ft. Wayne, and was quite successful, as she is getting along nicely.

Are you aware of the fact that Beuret is handling one of the finest lines of screen doors, window screens, etc. Well, he is, and those wishing to keep out the pesky flies and insects during the summer months, will find that he has the very screen that will keep 'em out. 19tf

M. B. Masters had quite a mishap yesterday. Coming into town the harness gave way on the Coy hill and the wagon was wrecked and two wheels broken, the horse some injured, but Mr. M. himself got out all right. It might have been worse, and will be a warning to all to keep good harness.

We are now located in our new room south of the jail on Ninth street and cordially invite all to come and see us. Especially those who desire to buy a first-class threshing outfit or reversible road grader and leveler, or heavy machinery of any kind. We handle nothing but the best of machinery and guarantee satisfaction in every respect. We handle the celebrated goods of J. I. Case threshing machine company, the best engine and thresher on earth. Also the celebrated sawmill and heavy engines. Also the Western reversible road grader and leveler, the champion of the world. Will do more work and better work than any other road grader made, and we invite competition. Come and see us and be convinced. Heberling & Caruth
2713 Auburn, Ind.

Base Ball at the park to-day.

We keep the best and all the cheapest at the Boston Clothing Store.

The "Fair" at Garrett. Most popular emporium of the cheap, beautiful and useful.

Little Braddie Ralston has been sick for a week or more, quite seriously, but is now improving.

The work in the classes to be formed by Miss Hoffman and Miss Hartman will be valuable. We hope to see many take advantage of this chance.

Barton Sthair is nursing a sore finger. He was pumping some water the other day when his finger caught in the pump in such a way, as to tear the nail completely off.

Shelley Hine brought 400 quarts of strawberries to Hebel Bros. Tuesday morning, and in two hours all were sold. They were nice and fresh, and that with the price, 17 quarts for $1.00, did the business.

Isaac Speer of Waterloo, came over here Monday to bring a friend who wanted to take the east bound B. & O. train. Wrong information made them miss the train, though in ample time had the right time been given.

Mabel Hartman will use in her physical culture, the Delsarte system of gymnastics. And for strength and physical training, dumb bells, Indian clubs, etc. Special attention will be given to class work, with a thorough study of Julius Cæsar and pantomimic action.

There will be a business meeting at the Presbyterian church next Monday evening for the purpose of electing three new trustees and transacting other business. Every member of the church and congregation is earnestly requested to come and assist. Remember the date June 29.

C. P. Houser's family entertained Flora Jones of Columbia City and her cousin Nellie Barns, on Monday. It was a case of strawberry shortcake, a visit with the young people and a good time generally. Mr. H. will need to increase the area of his berry patch if this thing is often repeated.

Children's Day.

At the Presbyterian church all was bright and fragrant with flowers, the windows were full of them and banks of roses were filled up near the pulpit. The big new organ, and bright electric lights added interest to the scene, and everything took on renewed interest. After Sunday school closed, and the regular service began, a number of children were baptized. They were the little boy and girl of Dr. Nusbaum, Surveyor Hook's little son and little Ward Yesbera. After this impressive ceremony, came the regular services, Mr. Healy preaching one of his best discourses to a crowded house. Each window was to have been decorated for some class in the Sunday School, though two or three failed. One was the "Mary Lyons." another the "Williams," the "Buds of Promise," "Rosebuds" had the letters in rosebuds, "Pansy" had the letters in pansies, the name of Mrs. Plum's class is "Florence Nightingale," across the window in large letters. Then there was the "Mary Hartman" class, the "Gen. Gibson" the "Robert Raikes," the "Elizabeth." All showed taste and skill. The children gave the work that evening, and it was excellent, the best ever done by them. The crowded state of the house prevented our hearing all the good things or telling which took the best, but of the work done singly, we think the solo singing by Ina Rose, and the declamation by Pearl Kelley among the best. Miss Wilson's little Pansies were cute, each holding a bunch of pansies, while singing. Dr. Sebring's little boy convulsed the house, by his cute recitation. Little Bessie Keeran spoke sweetly and Aileen Garwood sang a bright little song. There was a song by the "Rose Buds", Lila Baker's class recited, Lydia Teeters' class recited and sang, and Mrs. Plum's class gave a recitation in which each pupil represented a character shown by the printed name she carried. They also assisted Ina Rose in her singing, they keeping time with her as she sang. Gertie Caruth and Eddie Little spoke pieces and did well, as did all the classes. The choir also helped with excellent singing which was made more effective by the new organ skillfully played by Flora Hoffman.

At the M. E. church the work was partly given in the morning. There were excellent papers by Mr. Merica and Mr. Coe, an address suitable to the occasion by Mr. Wooton, and a recitation by little Rossie Baxter. In the evening there was presented a fine dialogue written for such occasions, in which Mrs. Stevens and various members of the Sunday school took part. It was in all regards a gratifying success, and our people feel that Auburn has had no more successful or pleasant "Children's Day."

"The Fair".

J. W. Wagner, of Garrett, having disposed of his other business respectfully announces that he will give his entire time and attention to his extensive variety and novelty store, and cordially invites everybody to call and see his bargains in glass, china and tinware, wooden and willow-ware, choice baby carriages, hammocks, bird cages, pocket knives, table and teaspoons, knives and forks, handkerchiefs, towels, tablecloths, lamps, brushes,—in short, an endless variety of household necessities and novelties at prices at least twenty per cent less than at any retail store in Chicago. When you go to Garrett do not fail to call at "THE FAIR,"
Opera House Block.

A Model Railway.

The Burlington Route, C. B. & Q. R. R., operates 7,000 miles of road, with termini in Chicago, St. Louis, St. Paul, Kansas City and Denver. For speed, safety comfort, equipment, track and efficient service it has no equal. The Burlington gains new patrons, but loses none. 38

Notice to Those Interested in Lumber.

I want it understood that I do not belong to the Indiana Lumberman's Association or combination to keep up prices and will sell lumber witout regard to what the prices fixed by that combination may be.

E. KUHLMAN,
Near Wabash Depot, Auburn, Ind.

Resolutions of Respect.

We the comittee appointed for that purpose, beg leave to submit the following resolutions in behalf of Hoosier Alliance No. 203.

RESOLVED 1st. That as it has pleased God in his infinite wisdom to remove from our midst our beloved sister, Mrs. John Sheffer. That our bereaved brother has the sincere sympathy of the Lodge in the loss of a kind and affectionate wife.

RESOLVED 2nd. That we, the Lodge, have lost a faithful and earnest worker; yet we feel that our loss is her eternal gain, and she has passed from this vale of darkness into the grandeur of eternal day.

RESOLVED 3rd. That a copy of these resolutions be sent to each of the county papers for publication, and a written copy be presented to each member of the family.

MRS. JESSIE DAWSON,
MRS. JENNIE THOMAS, Com.
MISS EDNA GRAHAM,

Butter and Cheese Factory.

For some time our business men and farmers have expressed their opinion that we ought to have a butter and cheese factory in Auburn, as such an industry would be a great benefit. Sometime ago Messrs Davis & Rankin, of Chicago, builders of combined butter and cheese factories made inquiry as to the future prospects of the business at this place, and the favorable report received has induced this firm to send their representative, C. D. Jones, to Auburn to further investigate matters. The firm proposes if the stock is subscribed by our business men and farmers, to put up a complete building supplied with all the late machinery for manufacturing both butter and cheese, they also agree to furnish one experienced butter and cheese maker as long as his services may be needed and to have the factory completed and in running order within 90 days from the time the amount is subscribed, nothing to be paid until completed and accepted.

A factory of this kind located at Auburn will pay out from thirty to fifty thousand dollars a year for a dairy product that is now practically going to waste, and benefit the community in many other ways, and will supply our farmers and business men with an influx of cash every month in the year. With the dairy business like all other branches of of trade the improved and systematic method of dairying is the business that is always making the big money. Reports from other sections of Indiana and adjoining states where these improved factories are running, the farmer is raising from $40 to $60 annually for the milk of his cow, and we are reliable informed that there is a demand for a first-class article of butter and cheese in this country, at prices nearly double those obtained by our farmers for their home-made butter with all the trouble and labor added. The late Improved Centrifugal Cream Separator is a machine that will separate the cream from 1,200 to 1,600 pounds of milk per hour, getting from 10 to 20 per cent more cream from the milk than is possible for the farmer to with the best of appliance.

WHY THE SEPARATOR SYSTEM MAKES DAIRY BUSINESS PAY.

Simply by making nearly twice as many pounds of butter which brings nearly twice as much per pound, from the same quantity of milk, By the Separator system all the cream is extracted from the milk, as it can be evenly ripened at the factory, churned at the proper time, all the butter is obtained from the cream, so that 4½ to 5 pounds of butter is obtained from one hundred pounds of milk instead of 3½ to 4 pounds, which the farmer averages.

Again, the Separator expels from the cream all the impurities which may be in the milk, thus enabling the farmer to produce gilt edge butter. The butter being produced in large quantities, is uniform in color, salting, flavor and grain, always commanding a ready sale for cash at the very highest price.

Assessment Expenses.

The allowances made by the Commissioners for assessors' pay in the different townships are as follows:

Butler township	$148
Jackson "	126
Concord "	330
Newville "	135
Stafford "	160
Wilmington "	506
Union "	391
Richland "	186
Fairfield "	210
Smithfield "	206
Franklin "	318
Troy "	100
Keyser "	452
Grant "	288

Town Lots for Sale.

Very desirable residence lots for sale at reasonable terms. Thirteen lots in the S. W. Ralston Addition south of the High school grounds. Also a fractional lot on West Seventh street, All in a good locality. Inquire of Mrs. S. W. Ralston or A. J. Ralston.

SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

SYMPTOMS OF LIVER DISEASE:
Loss of appetite; bad breath; bad taste in the mouth; tongue coated; pain under the shoulder-blade; in the back or side—often mistaken for rheumatism; sour stomach with flatulency and water-brash; indigestion; bowels lax and costive by turns; headache, with dull, heavy sensation; restlessness, with sensation of having left something undone which ought to have been done; fullness after eating; bad temper; blues; tired feeling; yellow appearance of skin and eyes; dizziness, etc. Not all, but always some of these indicate want of action of the Liver. For

A Safe, Reliable Remedy

that can do no harm and has never been known to fail to do good

Take Simmons Liver Regulator

—AN EFFECTUAL SPECIFIC FOR—
Malaria, Bowel Complaints,
Dyspepsia, Sick Headache,
Constipation, Biliousness,
Kidney Affections, Jaundice,
Mental Depression, Colic.

A PHYSICIAN'S OPINION.
"I have been practicing medicine for twenty years and have never been able to put up a vegetable compound that would, like Simmons Liver Regulator, promptly and effectually move the Liver to action, and at the same time aid (instead of weakening) the digestive and assimilative powers of the system."
L. M. HINTON, M.D., Washington, Ark.

ONLY GENUINE
Has our Z Stamp in red on front of wrapper.

J. H. Zeilin & Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

Save your Fruit.

Berries and fruit of all kinds bid fair to be something of a crop this year, if the insects, bugs, etc., can be kept away. Each kind seems to have its special enemy. It has been proved that the easiest, most certain and effectual way to get rid of these pests and save the fruit, is by "spraying." This method applies the remedy direct to the trees and to the insects themselves. Poison is put into water, and the mixture then sprayed into the bushes, vines or trees, so as to act directly where it will do the most good. The best and cheapest sprayer we have seen is that invented by J. D. McAnally of Waterloo. It is strong, simple, durable and easy to work. In fact it is a sort of strong large squirt gun, so made that the water leaves the gun in form of a spray, though it can be thrown into the highest apple or pear trees. The mixture he uses, is similar to that recommended by the government agricultural reports. Get 5 or 10 cents worth each of London Purple and Paris Green, and mix dry; then put one teaspoonful into a pail of water and mix thoroughly. The sprayer is good to help do the mixing in water. Then spray this onto the bushes or trees as needed. It will kill all it reaches. For currants, gooseberries and cabbage, add lime water, but this must be very weak for cabbage. To stop rot in grapes, add a little sulphate of copper, which will also make them grow more vigorously. Mr. McAnally had a few of his sprayers here on old settlers' day, and those he did not dispose of are left at this office, where they can be had by those who wish. There is no question but they are a valuable article, and one well worth the $2 he asks for them.

4th of July, Reduced Rates.

The Lake Shore & Michigan Southern railway will sell reduced rate tickets July 3rd and 4th, 1890. Apply to ticket agents for full particulars. 27

To Our Patrons.

The time for our regular annual settlements has arrived and we kindly request all our patrons to call and make settlements. Please do so without further urging, and oblige

Yours Respectfully,
29 CASEBEER & MATHENY.

ROOT & COMPANY,

FORT WAYNE, INDIANA.

It Pays To Keep Posted

AS TO

WHAT'S GOING ON IN

OUR ACTIVE STORE.

☞ Samples from any department mailed to you upon application.

BLACK COTTON FABRICS.

Grenadine Styles, Plain, Stripes and Plaids, absolutely fast black.

10c up to 50c.

BLACK SILK LACES,

all widths, Chantilly flouncings Demi flouncings and edges to match.

COINDOT DRAPERY NETS

at 90c, $1, $1.25 per yard.

WASH FABRICS,

in the new and dainty

Brandenbergs,

Pine Apple Tissues,

Shanton Cloths,

at 12½c, 15c and 20c.

The printing upon these fabrics is equal to that of the choicest China Silks.

LADIES' SHIRT WAISTS

made of Silk Madras, Flannelettes, Percales, Zephyrs, etc.

PRINTED

CHINA SILKS,

in dark and light grounds,

50c, up to 88c.

DO
YOU
NEED
NEW CARPETS,
DRAPERIES,
RUGS,
SHADES?

we will send estimates. Our facilities are greatly increased — our stocks very large.

KID GLOVES

Suede and Glace — 4-button to arm-length to match shades of dress goods.

Evening shades a specialty.

LANSDOWNES,

in Black and Colors at lower prices than can be had anywhere else.

THE NEW YORK STORE.

NEW THIS WEEK

◆

10 PIECES

SOUDAN SUITINGS

Five Cents Per Yard;

20 PIECES

LIGHT CHENILLES

Five Cents Per Yard.

We Keep Right on Selling All

MILLINERY GOODS

at greatly Reduced Prices--as we carry over no goods for next season.

HARTER

I. O. BUCHTEL,
Homœopathic
Physician and Surgeon.

Special attention given to chronic and obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.

Office and residence over Smith & Madden's marble works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, night or day.

Dr. James Adams,

VETERINARY SURGEON.

Will treat all Diseases of Domestic Animals. He has had THIRTY YEARS successful PRACTICE. Call on him at ~~his residence~~ No. 34, North Main street, or at ROBBINS & McCORD'S Drug Store.

Dr. David N. Fitch,

VETERINARY SURGEON and DENTIST,

Has located in Auburn, and will give his entire attention to the treatment of all DISEASES of DOMESTIC ANIMALS. Is a graduate in Veterinary Surgery and Dentistry, from the CHICAGO VETERINARY COLLEGE.

Office at the PALACE FEED BARN on West 9th St.

---AUBURN WOOLEN MILLS---

.........DOES.........

All kinds of CUSTOM WORK, such as Carding, Spinning, Etc.

ALSO

MANUFACTURE for the TRADE, Yarns Flannels, Skirtings, Blankets and Wool Bats.

These goods are absolutely PURE and warranted to give SATISFACTION to the Consumer.

—ENSLEY & FORKNER, Proprietors.—
Call at FACTORY North End of Main street
AUBURN, IND.

LOCAL NEWS.

Fruit jars at Mossey's.

Try a Bill Head for a change.

Fruit jars at Beuret's. Don't forget it.

Golden Rule is pure quill. Kessler Bros.

ORGAN FOR SALE: A nice large one of the Story & Camp make, as good as new. Call at this office.

J. Beuret for screens that will stand the usage of more than one season. Call and see them before purchasing elsewhere. 19tf

Mart Hener, the jovial "Biz" of the Ft. Wayne Journal, was in town Tuesday, working up the celebration in that city for July 4.

H. J. Mossey still keeps his stock of groceries, provisions, etc., up to the standard of competition and low prices. Farmers find him one of the men to deal with.

MILES' NERVE & LIVER PILLS. Act on a new principle—regulating the liver, [illegible] and bowels through the nerves. [illegible] new discovery. Dr. Miles' Pills [illegible] cure biliousness, bad taste, tor[illegible], piles, constipation. Unequaled [illegible] women and children. Smallest, [illegible] [illegible]! 30 doses, 25 cts. Sam[illegible] F. E. Davenport's.

McELREE'S WINE OF CARDUI for Weak Nerves.

Young America will delight. Kessler Bros.

Our machine oil is the best on the market, Robbins & McCord.

For anything in the line of lunch or soft drinks, call on Cora Shugers, No. 10 W. 7th St.

We keep the very best machine oil, lard oil, neatsfoot oil at bottom prices, Robbins & McCord.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Culbertson have had relatives from New Carlisle visiting them for the past week.

HOUSE TO RENT: A good, new house in pleasant part of town, on reasonable terms. Inquire of Wm. J. Walsworth east of Auburn. 28

A few dollars invested in screen doors will add greatly to your comfort during the hot months of summer. J. Beuret has them, and don't you forget it. 19tf

The New Process Vapor stove sold by Beuret is the latest invention in household labor saving stoves. The simplest, easiest and safest. Go and see it for yourselves, at Beuret's, Auburn.

Are you prospering? We hope you are, and if you are we hope you will deal profitably with yourself in so much that you will go up and see the New Process vapor stove, which is handled by J. Beuret. tf

Say young man, if you are going to get married and want to keep in the good graces of your better-half you shomld go to Beuret's and get herone of those New Process vapor stoves. It will add to her comfort and convenience and at the same time make you happy, because she will always be in a good humor. tf

English Spavin Liniment removes all hard, soft, or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavin, curbs, splints, sweeny, ring-bone, stifles, all swollen throats, coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle, warranted. The most wonderful blemish cure known. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn. Indiana. tf

RHEUMATISM CURED IN A DAY.—"Mystic Cure" for rheumatism and neuralgia radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immdiately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. 75 cents. Sold by Robbins & McCord, druggists, Auburn.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

Are you in the habit of smoking poor brands of cigars, because they cost you less money on the box than the better grades? You should awaken at once to the fact that the quality of goods is more often the evidence of their cheapness than the price paid for them. You cannot get a good cigar for a little price, because tobacco has a standard value the same as gold or any other precious metal. Good gold is worth just as much today as it ever was. A first-class cigar is also worth all that is charged for it. Smokers should use the standard brands of cigars, which are manufactured by Kessler Bros. You will get value on the investment every time.

Try BLACK-DRAUGHT tea for Dyspepsia.

FOUND: A small key. Owner should call at this office.

A good house on Jackson street for rent. Inquire of W. H. McIntyre.

For bicycle sundries, oils, lamps, carriers, etc., see Walter Hartman, Auburn.

Mrs. Marvin, of Findlay, Ohio, with her children has been visiting the family of Dr. Adams in this place.

Call on Miss Myers next to Rainier's for the latest and nicest goods. Children's hats a special line just received.

Thomas Kelley, now of Wilmington township, was here last Friday. Mr. K. was an old neighbor at Waterloo, and we like to meet him.

WOOL! WOOL!! WOOL!!! We will pay the highest market price for WOOL. It will be to your interest to see us before you sell. Schaab & Bro. 19tf

Are you going to put up fruits, berries, jams and jellies? If you are you will probably be benefited if you come and see H. J. Mossey's line of glass fruit jars.

W. H. McIntyre has two very desirable residences for sale, to some responsible parties on the installment plan, at from $8 to $12 per month. See him and stop paying rent. 20tf

Make your selections of furniture where you can have an immense stock to select from, The Foster Furniture Co., of Ft. Wayne, have nearly one acre of floor surface in the newest of every thing in the furniture line.

A prominent merchant says "I have sold Megrimine for over a year and guaranteed it to cure any headache without after effects, and have not found a single case it did not relieve." Sold by Robbins & McCord in Auburn. The Dr. Whitehall Megrimine Co., South Bend, Ind.

Supt. Merica is at Indianapolis this week attending the annual meeting of the county superintendents. He has been very busy for a month or so, in the extra work caused by many graduating exercises over the county, and the other regular work, but hopes the busiest part of the season is about over.

Wm. A. Goodrich of Morenci, Mich., and P. J. Rhinehart of Fairfield, gave this office a pleasant call Monday. Mr. Goodrich formerly lived in Fairfield and when he moved to Michigan he told his friends he was going to help make that state democratic. He can now point with pride to last year's election, for he helped to do it.

The New Castle Courier comes out June 12, with a superb semi-centenial edition of 5000 copies printed on fine calendered paper. It was founded June 10, 1841, by Henry W. Grubb, who is still alive and who writes for this "Souvenir number" a historical article, about the paper he first gave to the world a half century ago. We think it about the finest edition of a county paper, we ever saw.

GREEN MOUNTAIN SALVE: Is unequalled as a cure for all rheumatic pains, weakness in the side, back or any other place, and is unexcelled for cuts, bruises, corns, etc. It is the uncompromising enemy of pain in whatever form, or wherever manifested, and has never been known to fail in a contest with this dreaded foe of human happiness. If you would live a peaceful and painless life, try this great remedy and you will never regret it.

BLACK-DRAUGHT tea cures Constipation.

Auburn Normal school, July 20.

Smoking tobacco at Kessler Bros'.

Nicest hats for children at Miss Myers'.

See our little ad, headed "Garrett's Fourth."

The K. B. cigar is still at the front. Kessler Bros.

The carpenters are enclosing Howard McCord's residence.

Walter Hartman will deal squarely with you in bicycles.

All designs of latest style wall paper at Casebeer & Matheny's. 19tf

Farmers—Try our machine oil 40c a gallon, Robbins & McCord. 26

Hats 15, 25 and 35 cents at Mrs. Funk's. To close out stock. tf

All new styles of wall paper at Casebeer & Matheny's. No shoddy goods.

Highest market price paid for tub-washed wool at Auburn Woolen Mills. tf

Hoff has a new stock of goods just opened up. Groceries new and fresh. See him.

Still they come in and go out like hot cakes—those baby carriages at Robbins & McCord's. 26-28

The Fifth corn palace festival will be held in Sioux City, October 1st to 17th, 1891, inclusive.

Waterloo sold 80 tickets to Auburn last Thursday, old settlers' day. That is generous and neighborly.

The New Process Vapor stove at Beuret's has no generator. Nothing to get out of order, and begins to work at once.

Two of our good Fairfield friends H. H. Slaybaugh and W. H. McGiffin drop in to see us Saturday while on business here.

Miss Myers has a bright new stock of goods including the neatest line of children's hats. Just lovely, and so cheap! Call and see.

J. B. White administrator of the estate of the late John Jenkins, was here in town last Tuesday on matters connected therewith.

Megrimine cures any headache in 30 minutes. Sold by Robbins & McCord druggists in Auburn. The Dr. Whitehall Megrimine Co., South Bend, Ind.

Our old friend Aathony Zonker was here Saturday, and so was Charlie Rugman, but whether they talked over that Indianapolis incident or not, we can't say.

Inventors who wish to obtain patents or wish to sell rights in patents should address, Chas McClellan, Solicitor of Claims, 612 F. St. N. W. Washington, D. C.

Carpets and furniture should be selected with a view to the one harmonizing with the others. You can purchase both of the Foster Furniture Co., Fort Wayne, Ind.

David Thomas went to Chicago last week where his wife has been for a week or two. They may possibly remain there. The COURIER and the friends here wish them prosperity.

Geo. W. McIntosh, brother of W. H. McIntosh came down from Chicago last Friday to visit a few days. He is a skilled machinist and has been in that business there a number of years.

Master Johnny Richards and his little sister Nellie, went to Kendallville last week to remain a few days, with Mr. Lamport's family, and be present at the birthday of their little friend Addie Lamport.

Nelson Scholes, W. B. Rohm, L. D. Husselman, Daniel Gingerich, Daniel Gonser and Fred. Becher are old settlers, of the genuine stripe, for they settled up with the COURIER on old settlers' day. We hope to see them many years on this occasion.

PLAIN SEWING: Mrs. L. Cone, will do plain dressmaking and sewing, and asks the ladies of Auburn to give her a share of the work, which she will do in a neat, substantial manner and at fair rates. Call on her at her rooms at T. J. Saxton's on South Jackson street.

Say farmers, if you want some of the best machinery manufactured, you should go to Ed. Weeks, south of the jail. He handles the Champion reapers and mowers, also some of the best grades of small implements. Give him a call and examine his terms. 19tf

Frank Jones, north of town, brought us some strawberries last Thursday that beat all so far. They are "California Seedlings," and have the fine flavor of wild strawberries, though soft and sweet. One measured seven inches around. He is raising large quantities for market.

S. P. Imhoff, is getting up a big business in the oil and gasolene trade. He delivers regularly with a wagon, and people, especially those at a distance from the central parts of town find it very convenient to have it brought to their doors. We can assure them also that he is a thoroughly reliable man to deal with.

We made one incorrect statement in speaking of the excursion to Warsaw. The train from Garrett did not cost $20, although one who was supposed to know had told us so. The Garrett people who came over, merely paid the regular fare and that was all there was of it. We presume it makes no difference to anyone but the COURIER, which aims always to make correct statements.

Mrs. W. H. McIntosh sent us last week a sample of a queer freak in one of her rose bushes. It habitually has a part at least, of its blossoms, with a green stem growing in the center of the double flower, and on this stem will be found one or more small, but partially abortive roses. What causes this freak we cannot say, though it may be the result of that high cultivation, which has changed all these flowers from the single ones, which they were when in a state of nature, to the present heavy, double forms.

The subscribers of the Union National Savings and Loan Company, of Indianapolis met at the office of E. D. Hartman Saturday evening and effected a local organization by electing G. W. Gordon, president; J. E. Ensley, vice-president; W. B. Brown, secretary; Albert Robbins, treasurer; E. D. Hartman, attorney; H. R. Culbertson, agent, and B. C. Robbins, insurance agent. The company is strong and has already begun to place loans. Many of the men who compose this company are well known here, including its secretary, Hon. Nicholas Ensley. It seems to be better fitted for business, and more easily understood, than most of the companies, and there is a disposition on the part of our people to take shares, and secure loans and so secure the building of a number of comfortable new homes this year. Other companies may be good enough, but we believe it would be policy to drop all companies but one, and go in and make that one strong enough to do the town some good. A dozen companies with a few members in each, will scatter our energies and means, and will not accomplish as much as one strong one.

WINE OF CARDUI, a Tonic for Women.

Town lots for sale. See our notice.

See those high grade hammocks at Robbins & McCord's. 26 28

Work is progressing at a rapid rate on D. S. Ober's residence.

Dr. Fruth's visits at the Swineford, July 6. Remember the date.

We lead the market on hammocks from 50c up, Robbins & McCord.

A new line of wall paper just received at Casebeer & Matheny's. 19tf

Megrimine, the new cure for headache and neuralgia, at Robbins & McCord's.

Elza Shaffer, of Albion, spent Thursday last with his parents, C. C. Shaffer.

Angola Herald: Mrs. A. A. Rowland of Auburn, is visiting friends in Angola this week.

Henry Fulks of this township gave the COURIER office a little visit Monday, to talk over the old times.

A. M. A. Miller and family came over from Hicksville last week and attended the old settlers meeting.

The Swing Washer, beats them all for ease of working and the thoroughness with which it does its work.

Mrs. Elza Shaffer, of Albion has been at this place, Waterloo and Angola, visiting the relatives during the past week or two.

W. N. Shatto, Daniel and Allen Deetz, of Fairfield called up stairs awhile to talk business in the COURIER room Saturday.

Wanted! Wanted!! Wanted!!! at the Auburn Woolen Mills, all the wool we can get. Highest market price, don't forget it. 19tf

Big celebration in grand style at Garrett, July 4. There will be trotting, speaking, base ball, bicycle, sack and foot races, and a big parade.

Levi Jackson and Mrs. Glazier of our South DeKalb friends remembered us last week. And we should thank Supt. C. P. Glazier also, while about it.

If you are thinking of buying a high or medium grade bicycle of any kind, you will find it to your interest to consult, Walter Hartman, dealer, Auburn.

PIANO FOR SALE: A good square piano in good condition and on reasonable terms. Inquire of Dr. S. B. Johnston at his residence or dental office on North Main street, Auburn.

The large bank barn of Ex-Commissioner Joseph Sewell in Franklin township, was burned last Thursday about midnight. It is supposed it was struck by lightning. Very little was saved.

Mr. Meese is putting up fifty more of his Swing Washers, to supply the immediate demand. This is proving the best washer ever made. He will show you testimonials from some of our best known people.

Rev. Mr. Moot of the Christian church at Waterloo delivered an excellent sermon at the Baptist church Sunday afternoon. He is a young minister of promise and our people were glad to make his acquaintance.

Anyone wishing to purchase a first-class roadster or draft horse, or both, can gain information concerning the same by calling at this office. Team will be sold for a reasonable cash price. Investigate at once, as this notice may not appear again.

Have you tried South American Nervine—the gem of the century? The great cure for indigestion, dyspepsia and nervousness. Warranted the most wonderful stomach and nerve cure ever known. Trial bottles 15 cents. Sold by Robbins & McCord, druggists, Auburn.

Schnell & Weeks are still south of the jail with as fine a line of groceries, provisions, etc., as can be found in the city. They are great favorites with the "reciprocity" plan, that is, you will always get value received for every dollar spent for goods in their establishment.

Wm. Thomas, formerly proprietor of the Union bakery, went to Ft. Wayne, Monday, where he takes charge of the bread department in Geller's large establishment, until his room in the Leasure building is completed, when he will return and resume his business here.

Capt. A. L. Kuhlman of the Samuel Ford Camp No. No. 114, Division of Indiana Sons of Veterans, started Monday evening for Lafayette, where the state encampment is in session this week. He will view many places of note around that historical city before he returns.

Now, that the time of year is fast approaching, when fruits, berries jellies, jams, etc., are to be canned up and set away for winter use, people may begin to wonder where and at what price they are going to get the necessary jars. If, while in town, you go to Beuret's, you will find fruit jars in abundance, with prices to suit the times.

The L. L. C. will meet this week with Mrs. Zimmerman. There will be election of officers. Gossip about Henry M. Stanley, Mrs. Rose: vocal music, Miss Hartman: newspaper items, the club. Mrs. A. E. Tanberg was last Saturday elected a member. The club now takes a vacation till first Saturday in September.

Of all the "writeups" of last week's editorial convention at South Bend, that of Bro. Weamer of the Bristol Banner, is entitled to both the red and the blue ribbon. It is in rhyme, (perhaps we ought to say poetry,) and fills a column or two, and it is interesting to see the struggle for rhyming words, but with the exception of knocking the ribs and spinal column out of "Maxinkuckee" the man of pencils comes out triumphant.

Summer millinery at greatly reduced prices. We will sell everything in the millinery line way below value to close out, as we do not wish to carry any goods over. We still have a choice variety of hats, bonnets and children's caps from the cheapest to the finest. Nicely trimmed hats for $1.00 and upward. All in need of anything in this line should call and see them.

Miss F. A. Husselman
Corunna, Ind.

We received last week a copy of Vol. 1, No. 1, of the Weekly Rays of Light, published at North Manchester, Wabash county. It is a bright newsy sheet and gives evidence that the people of that vicinity will get value received on the investment of a year's subscription to that paper. Heretofore J. J. Martin & Son published a monthly devoted to poultry and bees and from pure business motives they now will supply their patrons with two first-class periodicals. Success to your efforts Bro. Martin.

On Saturday evening a gay company of young people assembled at the home of Bertha Blaney, to assist her in the complete celebration of her 14th birthday. All seemed imbued with the spirit of joyful amusement and a pleasant time was had until supper was announced. This fact caused a lull in the games, but the slight interruption was amply compensated for by the bounteous repast, to which all did justice. At the proper hour the festivities were brought to a close, and the parting scene perhaps will live long in the memories of those present.

McElree's WINE OF CARDUI for female diseases.

Meese's new Washing Machine.

Levi Rice and wife happy—a little girl Monday.

Big time for the P. I. folks July 4, at Hamilton's grove near St. Joe.

Ropes, ropes, a good stock for sale at Beuret's in Auburn. Call when you need a rope.

Wanted: All the Ginseng we can buy. Will pay highest market prices Robbins & McCord. 26-28

Your money will buy a better and larger hammock at Robbins & McCord's than any place in the city. 26

Don't forget the nickel social in the basement of the M. E. church, next Friday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, for there is important business to transact.

The old machine for generating gas at Presbyterian church has been failing for some time, and electric lights have been put in their place. It is a great improvement.

R. W. Cobb goes this week to Lakeside, Ohio, where will again spend the summer, at that popular resort. Mrs. Cobb, will, we believe join him a few weeks later.

Miss Alda Barclay, who has been sick so long, was out a short time Tuesday. Mrs. Charlie Schaab was taking her about in a carriage. She is still feeble, and but the shadow of her former self.

See the notice of Ft. Wayne's big celebration in to-day's paper. It is under the "Ft. Wayne Amusement Co." and on that day they open their new driving grounds and base ball park. A big time is what they promise.

Dr. Buchtel and wife drove through to Ligonier Saturday and on Tuesday, Rev. Mr. Healy received a letter from him, stating that his horse had taken sick and died, and that his wife had been sick. He was excepted home yesterday.

Prof. T. J. Bassett of DePauw University, will probably be one of the workers at the county institute this year. He will be remembered as the instructor that gave such valuable aid here last year. Mr. Merica will be fortunate to get him again.

The Presbyterian church has on trial an organ of a new kind, a "vocalion," that is a great improvement over the old instrument. Flora Hoffman, who has taken a course of instruction on the pipe organ plays it with skill and we think it will be popular. It is in the main, the same as a pipe organ.

County Assessor Kutzner gives an important notice this week, in which he sets a day for hearing complaints or requests for changes or revision in the assessment of the several townships and towns. A day is set for each township or town, except in case of the smaller ones, two of which are called in one day. The board meets as seen by another notice by the auditor, on the sixth day of July. On that day, Mr. Kutzner asks those in Stafford and Troy to come in and so on through the list. Those interested should keep this copy.

The Presbyterian social at Mr. Shugers' Tuesday evening was a fine one, and in everyway successful, the only possible drawback, being the difficulty of getting conveyances enough to get there. The supper was splendid, the weather all that could be asked, and the people went there to enjoy themselves, and they did. Mr. Shugers and family made everyone feel heartily welcome, and their pleasant farm home was itself an enjoyment to the visitors. Mr. Shugers' father made his home there in the woods, fifty years ago, and no doubt in all these years there have been many pleasant gatherings there as well as this one. The young ladies of the D. S. A. society were untiring in their efforts to wait on their guests and succeeded nicely. Thanks should be given to Mrs. Shugers and Mrs. Mart Sheets, who furnished the entire supper, except the cake, ice cream and strawberries.

Music and Elocution.

After June 29th we will be prepared to give lessons in music and elocution, at our rooms on Main St., over Cowan Sisters'. Lessons in music will include piano, harmony and organ (cottage or pedal.) Elocution—lessons in voice work, physical training, reading and expression. Privates and public recitals will be given. Piano, harmony and organ lessons 50 cent each; pedal organ 75 cents; class lessons, 25 cts. Elocution private lessons, 40 cents; class lessons 20 cents. Private pupils will be admitted to class lessons free. For particulars call on

FLORA HOFFMAN
MABEL HARTMAN

Wm. Clark is reported dying at 5 p. m. Wednesday.

See those pretty afghans for baby carriages at Robbins & McCord's.

Brickwork done on the new Hoff-Leasure block, and carpenter work going right on.

Our Kansas letter and some other articles were crowded out last week, but appear now.

Don't forget us on baby carriages We are bound to save you money, Robbins & McCord.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Catholic church will meet Thursday afternoon, with Mrs. Alice Stutz. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

The M. E. Parsonage has a new veranda enclosed in lattice work added to the northeast corner so as to cover well, cistern, etc. A great convenience.

Capt. Baughn had a slight stroke of paralysis or something of the sort about a week ago. It has affected his speech some, but he is about the streets as usual.

Perry Long and John Weaver are finishing up the gables on the Rice dwelling in neat style. The work is in shingles, etc., as seen in buildings of the latest style.

Miss Mary Young and James Eldridge were at Avilla, Monday evening, to assist in an entertainment given there that evening. Both are excellent musicians, and they could almost make up a musical entertainment themselves.

Ira Brandon, the North Side grocer, sent the COURIER force a liberal supply of big oranges this week. They were highly appreciated, and a feast in his honor followed their reception, for they were not only large, but fresh and nice.

The nickel social of the Presbyterian church meets with Mrs. Ed. Baker, Friday afternoon from 2 to 5. It is earnestly requested that subscribers to the dollar fund who have not paid, would bring in their subscription or send it that day if possible.

Among the Butler attorneys we noticed this week, C. J. Coats and W. E. Rose, who were here working in some cases. Mr. Coats informs us that his sister Letitia, now Mrs. Potter, has with her husband, located in Butler. They have bought a good home and improved it, and expect to remain there. The COURIER will certainly unite with the Butler people in extending to them a welcome.

WELL, WE ARE STILL ON DECK WITH
one of the largest and most carefully selected stocks of confectionery, cigars, tobaccos, bananas, oranges and lemons, to be found in any like-sized business room in the city. Our LUNCH Counter cannot be excelled; Sandwiches, Pies, Cakes, etc. Also carry a COMPLETE LINE of SOFT DRINKS, such as, pop beer, ginger ale, orange cider, milk shake and lemonade. When hungry or thirsty, ALLEVIATE the cravings of your natural APPETITE at CORA SHUGERS',
NO. 10 W. 7TH STREET.

Hats! Hats!

HATS!

GREAT REDUCTION SALE!

AT

Cowan Sisters'

You will find us

READY TO GIVE

THE VERY

BOTTOM PRICES

IN

EVERYTHIMG IN OUR LINE.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Choice Selection of Interesting Items.

A YOUNG Philadelphian advertised for a wife, and his sister answered. Evidently matrimony was a family want.

THE new game of whist with living cards is liable to precipitate trouble. Some night the irascible ace will get mad and lick the partner's trump.

HE is a mighty mean man who gets himself to look the other way while he puts a plugged dime into his own pocket savings bank and then chuckles over it.

IF Marion Manola keeps on getting married and unmarried at the rate she has recently established, she will soon have to hire a private secretary and stenographer to keep track of what her name is.

WHAT'S in a name? Thomas Lawless is in a St. Louis hospital on account of a battering he got while trying to save a young girl from insult by a couple of rowdies, and James Thoroughgood has been sentenced to death in Delaware for felony.

A FEW days ago a Minnesota man stole a saw-mill, and now comes the story of a North Dakota man stealing a barn. It is lucky there are no very high peaks in these States. Somebody might climb up and steal the firmament right out from under the angel's feet.

MISS MOLLIE E. CHURCH, a colored graduate of Oberlin, and now a teacher in the public schools of Washington, has been tendered the position of registrar of her alma mater. It is said that if she accepts she will be the first colored graduate of any leading college to become a member of its faculty.

ONE Col. H. J. Irby, of Alabama, claims to have solved the problem of perpetual motion. This comes at a good time. The country is fairly pining for some sort of excitement. Now let us have a race between Col. Irby's machine and Mr. Keely's motor to see which can stand still the longer.

UNITED STATES cents exhibited in connection with a meeting of the American Numismatic and Archæological Society show that the earlier productions of those coins are much superior in their designs to others more recently issued. The most prized coins on account of their rarity are the issues of 1799, 1793, and 1814.

WHITSUN-WEEK is the great English holiday season, but the cable reports lead one to understand that the thousands of pleasure-seeking excursionists who usually make this their festive season will be more apt to find comfort in top coats, sealskins, and warm wraps than in bathing in the sea or picknicking in the mountains.

IN the cold, unsympathetic days of winter it may be all right to talk about "emancipated women," but when the soft, velvety zephyrs of spring begin to woo the nodding daisies and the sun-kissed heather blushes red with blooming roses it seems to be time for woman to lock arms, not horns, with man and, shoulder to shoulder with him, set out in search of an ice-cream parlor.

UNDER the Dakota statutes a man who robs a stage can be sent to prison for life. If he attacks but fails to get any plunder, he can be sentenced to half a lifetime. In a case where a judge figured that fifteen years was half a life, the Supreme Court has upset the sentence, figuring that nineteen years, seven months, and four days is the correct figure.

MRS. LELAND STANFORD has decided to turn the Lathrop memorial in Albany over to the trustees of the local orphan asylum and endow it with $5,000 a year, so as to secure relief from personal attention to this charity which she founded in memory of her parents several years ago. New cares in connection with the Leland Stanford University will prevent her visiting Albany as frequently as hitherto.

IN Ledyarn, Conn., the other day, a boy discovered a woodchuck in a heap of leaves in an old tree and pulled him out. He was curled up like a "woolly bear," with both forepaws pressed closely over his eyes. When his paws were pulled off his eyes he did not open them, but yawned and gasped, as a heavy sleeper might be expected to do. The animal could not be aroused from his dormant condition until he had been in a warm room several hours.

PARISIAN ladies have introduced a new social wrinkle, which is that of dining with their husbands and brothers at the clubs. The dinners take place in private parlors attached to the main sitting rooms, and are the most select and desirable little feasts imaginable. At one of them, given recently in the famous Rue Royal, the table was decked over with a canopy of tube roses and the cloth concealed by a flood of Russian violets, which filled the room with very intoxicating perfume.

THE wonderful progress of the South in the last ten years is thus set forth by Superintendent Porter, of the last census, in the Manufacturers' Record of a recent date. "The South is to-day producing as much iron ore, coal, and pig-iron as the entire United States produced in 1870." "This development of the mineral resources of the South has not been at the expense of its other industries. * * * In 1880 the amount of cotton consumed in the South was 180,000 bales; while in 1890 it used 479,000 bales, an increase of 175 per cent.

ON the dead walls in the cities in all parts of England one sees staring signs, legible enough, but unintelligible to the stranger. "F. P. 23" or "F. P. 8" they read, and the passerby who sees them for the first time wonders why F. P. is 23 at one time and only 8 at another. F. P. stands for "fire plug," or hydrant, and the figures following the letters show the distance in feet of the hydrant from the letters. The fire plug is never more than fifty feet away from the sign. It is sunk level with the sidewalk.

AN official at Albany Ga., who has had much experience with criminals, both black and white, says that to lock a negro up establishes a feeling of kindness and friendship in his breast for the officer that arrests him that makes him ever afterward the officer's friend. As a rule there is less of the spirit of vindictiveness and spite in the negro's composition than in any other race. If you arrest a white man, he will, however fair-minded he may be, entertain a spiteful feeling against you, but a negro becomes more respectful and polite than ever.

THE Imperial Bank of Germany (Reichsbank) has the right to issue paper to the extent of $75,000,000, and as much more as it has gold and silver on hand as security for, and practically to any extent beyond this; but on the excess they must pay 5 per cent. interest per annum to the government. The bank has not of late availed itself of this privilege, possibly because it would not pay, and has confined its issue of bank notes of the regular $75,000,000 and the amount of gold and silver on hand, or say $225,000,000 in all.

IN the best schools of New York city the teachers seize the cigarette pictures which they see stuffing the tiny pockets of the school-boys. This is not because the boys get the pictures with the cigarettes, for they do not, but it is because the young shavers have invented gambling games to be played with these picture cards. The most taking of the games is one wherein the trick is to throw the cards so that they fall face upward. All which fall that way are won by him who throws them; the rest are lost. Seven hundred of these cards were confiscated in one primary school the other day.

ATTENTION is called by the New York Herald to the fact that throughout all the President's journey around the circle of 10,000 miles, his train pursued its pre-arranged schedule, passing from one line of railroad to another, and from State to State, without so much as five minutes delay from any cause whatever. It met with no accident, and over all the long route the Presidential party were enabled to enjoy their habitual routine of life, sleeping, eating, bathing, reading, writing and talking with as little discomfort as if they had been seated in the White House, with the added comfort of not being annoyed by office-seekers. This feature of the journey is a remarkable tribute to American railway management. It could not be repeated in any other country in the world.

"THE average negro," says Chief of Police Speers, of Kansas City, "makes a far better witness than the average white person, except in cases where a fellow man of color is on trial for stealing from a white man. The negro believes that a crime of this kind is no crime at all. The white man he considers his lawful prey. But let a serious crime be committed—a murder, a daring robbery or an outrage—and the negro who learns anything of it imparts his knowledge to the authorities with alacrity. And in an event of this kind, even though the criminal be his dearest friend, or even a relative, he will not be spared. In fact, a negro will testify against one of his own race, if he be guilty of murder or outrage, with more freedom than would a white man under similar circumstances. So true is this that we frequently get most of our knowledge about the most serious crimes that are committed through negroes calling at the station and telling us what they know about them."

JUST before the Roman cohorts marched from their dressing-rooms into the Madison Square Garden in New York at the performance of "Nero" the other night, a much-frightened gray cat that had strayed in from somewhere scampered across the floor. The noise of the band and the fierce appearance of the oncoming warriors drove the cat into a panic, and it danced around in a most amusing manner. All the spectators at once lost interest in "Nero" and gave their attention to the cat. The occupants of the boxes leaned out to see what it was going to do, and the multitude in the galleries and in the reserved seats stood up and shouted. For about two minutes the noise of the band and the tramp of the soldiers was drowned in the roar of laughter and the shouts of the audience. Then pussy desperately leaped into one of the boxes, causing no little panic there, and scampered through and around the seats until it found shelter in some hidden nook.

Afraid of the Results.

"Now," mamma, I——"

Thus the child began, and was stopped short by her mother.

"Lottie, how many times I've told you not to begin with 'Now.' It is 'Now, mamma,' 'Now, I can't,' 'Now, I will,' 'Now, something or other,' continually. Don't say it again! The very first time you do I will send you to stand fifteen minutes in the corner."

Little Lottie knew full well the terrors of that punishment. What an eternity it seemed to her to stand that length of time with her face to the wall, not allowed to turn around or speak, till told that the time was out; for always after about three minutes she felt sure the fifteen minutes must be passed, and that she, forgotten, must stand there always! So cautious Lottie retreated with her doll out of mamma's hearing, and it being already late in the day, escaped condemnation.

When the little nightgown had been donned, and mamma said tenderly: "Now, darling, say your little prayer," Lottie failed to notice how the catcher had been caught on the "now," but answered:

"I can't—I mustn't."

"Lottie! Why not?"

"'Cause if I say my '—— I lay me,' I must stand in the corner."—Housekeepers' Weekly.

UNMASKING A HUMBUG.

THE HOME MARKET CLUB ON THE WOOL DUTY.

The Great Protectionist Club Puts Its Foot in It—Says that Wool Prices Are Lower Under Protection—The Argument to the Farmer and to the Manufacturer—A Fast and Loose Game.

The great Home Market Club, of Boston, has just struck a deadly blow at the duty on wool. This club was organized for the special purpose of propagating the notion that the agricultural classes of the country are benefited as much by protection as the manufacturers themselves, since protection creates a home market, in which the farmer can sell his produce—never mentioning the fact, of course, that this same home market will not pay one penny more for such produce than the despised foreigner will pay.

Recent developments in the woolen industry have brought before the lords of the Home Market Club the greatest problem which they have yet had to face. Many of the best woolen manufacturers in New England have joined in an organized effort to secure the removal of the wool duties; and the Home Market Club has recently published a pamphlet to convert these manufacturers from their error. This pamphlet is entitled, "Protection of Wool—From the Standpoint of the Manufacturer."

Every farmer who grows wool ought to send to the Home Market Club for a copy of this pamphlet in order to see the style of argument used upon the manufacturer, and to compare this with the arguments made to the farmer. The protectionists are loud and earnest in their defense of the wool duty before farmers, since, as they claim, it increases the prices of American wool.

Last fall when McKinley was running for Congress his backers went all over his district offering to make contracts to buy up all the sheep in it at $5 a head in case McKinley should be elected. This meant high wool duties, high wool prices.

But the great Home Market Club takes exactly the opposite line of argument. It defends the wool duty on the expressed ground that it keeps the price of American wool lower than it would be under free wool. This protectionist club seeks to prove to the manufacturers that the price of wool in this country for the past ten years has been from one cent to nine cents per pound lower than it has ever been abroad, and that the American farmer could have sold his wool from one cent to nine cents higher in Liverpool or London than he could sell it on his farm.

Here are its words, which are printed in its pamphlet in large type, as the final argument and last appeal to the wool manufacturer:

"It is a mistaken idea with many manufacturers that foreign prices of wool are necessarily lower than home prices under protection. They average higher. They would be much higher but for a large and certain domestic supply. The following table is instructive."

Here is the table it gives:

	Foreign average price of all wools at port of exportation without duty. Cts., lb.	Average price of all American wools at the farm. Cts., lb.
1881	31 1-5	31
1882	31 9-10	30
1883	34 2-5	29
1884	29 1-10	26
1885	32 1-10	23
1886	32 1-5	24
1887	29 1-10	24

Here the wool grower may see what a fast and loose game the protectionists have been playing with him. They have been carrying water on both shoulders, telling the farmer that the wool tariff makes the prices high, and then facing about and drawing tables of figures to show to the manufacturer that it makes prices lower.

In this connection it may be of interest to the farmer to note the difference in domestic wool prices now and last year. Here are the quotations from the Boston wool market for some of the best-known wools last August and for the current month:

	Aug. 7, 1890. Cents.	June 11, 1891. Cents.
Ohio and Pa. XX and above	33@34	31½@32
Ohio X and above	32@32½	30 @31
Ohio No. 1	37@37½	35 @36
Michigan X	28@29½	28 @20
Michigan No. 1	36@36½	34 @35
Michigan unmerchantable	22@33	21 @22

Is it not time that farmers open their eyes to simple and indisputable proofs like this that a high wool duty does not raise the price of his wool? However deeply set the Republican wool-grower may be in the notion that the wool duty helps him, ought he not to listen and be convinced when the greatest protectionist club in the land agrees that the duty keeps prices down? Let such a wool-grower send to the Home Market Club for its wool pamphlet and see for himself. It is doubtful, however, whether he can get the pamphlet for love or money, if he makes it known that he is a grower of wool.

The Tax on Gloves.

The glove paragraphs of the McKinley law show how much more heavily that measure bears upon the poor than upon the rich.

On silk gloves the old duty was 50 per cent., and this was increased by the McKinleyites to 60 per cent., which is an increase of 20 per cent. upon the old rate. Upon cotton gloves, however, the old tariff rate of 35 per cent. was changed to 50 per cent., or an increase of 43 per cent. upon the old rate.

The same inequality is seen in the case of leather gloves. Under the old tariff the duty on all kinds of leather gloves was 50 per cent. ad valorem; the McKinleyites changed the duty to an ad valorem rate, claiming that the new specific rates were equivalent to the old rate. But this is not the case. The duties are so arranged that they run far above 50 per cent. on the cheaper kinds. On men's plain gloves, for example, the present duty is one dollar a dozen and 50 per cent. ad valorem. On gloves worth $3 per dozen, therefore, the present duty is equivalent to 83 per cent., while on gloves worth $6 the duty is only 66 per cent.

The same thing is found in the duties on women's kid gloves. Some time after the new law went into effect the New York Dry Goods Economist pointed out its effects upon these goods by saying: "In women's gloves the cheapest kid will be forced out of the American market, for the duty imposed on them is all out of proportion with the value of the goods, which are those patronized by the poorer classes, who are supposed to be assisted by the new duty."

Woolen gloves, which are worn mainly by the poorer people, come in for an enormous advance. Under the old law these were taxed at from 10 to 35 cents per pound and 35 to 40 per cent. ad valorem—making single duties ranging from 63 to 73 per cent. Under the McKinley law all woolen gloves are taxed as "wearing apparel" at 49½ cents a pound and 60 per cent. ad valorem. This of course lays the heaviest burden on the cheapest goods.

Protection by False Pretenses.

One of the most frequent arguments before the Ways and Means Committee, at Washington, from people who want new duties imposed or new ones increased, is that such duties will develop home competition, that this will force prices down, and the consumer will be benefited. None of these applicants for Government aid will confess that the protection asked for will keep prices up.

On the contrary, we see the singular spectacle of hundreds of men paying the expenses of a trip to Washington to ask for duties on their goods, on the ground that these duties will bring prices down. Before the committee these men have much to say about promoting competition; they seem, in fact, to have overcome the law upon which every business man proceeds—the law that the less competition there is the greater profits will be. Every business man dislikes competition; but a deputation to Washington on behalf of any industry always appears to be willing to have as much home competition as any consumer could possibly wish. When, however, competition or other causes have reduced prices competition becomes unpopular, and the result is the formation of a trust to defeat the very competition which the manufacturers profess to be so anxious to promote.

Are we to believe that the manufacturers are so superpatriotic that they wish more competition and lower prices, and all this for the good of the dear people? The numerous trusts and combines to prevent competition and raise prices are a sufficient answer to this question. Are we to believe that they want protection in order to raise wages? The great number of wage reductions since the McKinley law was enacted is satisfactory proof to the contrary.

The truth is that manufacturers, like everybody else, want to put as much money into their own pockets as possible. The difference is that they run to Congress with false and hypocritical pleas to get laws which will enable them to feather their nests at public expense, while the great masses of consumers and 95 per cent. of all the producers of the country are trying, by hard labor and small savings, to gather about them a modest portion of this world's goods.

THE AGRICULTURAL MINNOW.

Why He Cannot Be Pin-Hooked—Protection Helps Him Not—Europe's Demand for Wheat.

Minnows will bite readily at an unbaited pin-hook to the great delight of the small boy. A similar unbaited pin-hook was thrown into the agricultural pool by the McKinleyites in the shape of increased duties on wheat and corn, but the agricultural minnow will not bite. Although the price of corn is double what it was a year ago, and the price of wheat is very much higher, too, no farmer has yet been found who is silly enough to say that McKinley's increased duties have had the effect of raising prices by even a fraction of a cent. Not even the wildest or most rabid McKinleyite organ, either, has ventured to claim the increased prices as among the "benificences" of the new tariff law.

"Why is this thusness?" The farmer is too well informed to believe that McKinley's wheat and corn duties can be worth a tin whistle to him, since he is selling millions of dollars' worth of these very products in foreign markets; and the McKinleyites are too well aware of this to try to force the naked pin-hook into his mouth. They know too well that the farmer will "shy off" under such treatment.

The main factor in raising the prices of wheat and corn, aside from our own shortness of crops last year, is the large demand certain to come from Europe for this year's crops, owing to an unusually bad wheat crop this summer. Already it is reported from New York that freight engagements are being made with the great steamship lines far out into the fall months for transportation of grain to Europe; and it is already predicted that Europe will take more of our wheat and corn this year than ever before.

That is a pin hook with a fat bait on it, and no deception about it. McKinley tries to belittle the foreign market, asking "what particular sanctity hangs about it." At any rate, the foreign market is a mighty good place to sell wheat and corn; and McKinley's agricultural minnows, though they refused utterly to bite at his naked pin-hook duties, are quite intelligent enough to see that the more freely we buy Europe's products the more largely will Europe buy of us. And the farmer is quite willing to pay for those foreign goods on a basis of what James G. Blaine calls "friendly barter." We ship away our surplus which we do not need and ship back Europe's surplus, and both parties are richer by the operation. The agricultural minnow knows this, and hence the "reciprocity" bid for his vote.

Our Thriving Shoddy Business.

Last year, when the McKinley bill was before Congress, and many woolen manufacturers were opposing its increased duties on wool, it was said by the New York Dry Goods Economist that, "Manufacturers of goods from wool substitutes applaud the measure before Congress and are championing its proponents and abettors."

The shoddy men were right in their forecast of the effect of the bill on their industry. They judged that by putting heavy duties on foreign wool, the new law would increase the use of shoddy and give the shoddy business a great boom. Well, the boom has come, in fact, it has been here ever since the McKinley law was passed.

The following table, giving the prices of different kinds of shoddy in the Boston market last August and at the present time, will show that the confidence of the shoddy men in the McKinley law was not misplaced:

Articles.	Prices. Aug. 7, '90. Cents.	June 11, '91. Cents.
New clips—
Fine merchant tailors	11 @13	13 @15
Good mixed	10 @12	11 @13
Fine dark	11 @13	13 @14
Good light clips	17 @18	18 @20
Fine blues	17 @19	19 @20
Black merinos, unseam'd	10 @11	12 @12½
Clear hoods	9½@10½	12 @12½
Cut cloth, dark	3¾@ 4	4 @ 4½
Cut cloth, blue	7½@ 8	9½@10
New pure indigo—
Blue shoddy	28 @30	30 @33
New black shoddy, extra fine	23 @24	23 @26
Light yarn shoddy, extra fine	31 @33	35 @....
Extracts—
Medium light	16 @18	18 @20
Light	24 @25	25 @28
Fine light merinos	25 @26	28 @....
Fine black merinos	23 @25	24 @28
Ordinary mixed	13 @16	18 @20

As an index to the present situation of the shoddy business the following from the latest number of the Dry Goods Economist will prove instructive: "During the past six months the building of now shoddy mills and the extension of old ones have been of frequent report. * * * The most curious feature in this connection is that the largest manufacturer of all-wool shoddies is in Ohio, the home of the finest flocks. Another mill in that State is making such additions that by running double time, which it is reported it will do as soon as it begins operations, it will rank as the second concern of the kind in the country."

The same paper estimates the shoddy consumption of the country at 80,000,000 pounds, "or a quantity that equals one-fourth the wool clip of the country." The shoddy and other wastes consumed in 1880 was 52,000,000 pounds. Are we not rapidly becoming a shoddy nation under the wool tariff?

Difference in Gold.

"Most people suppose," says an assayer, "that all gold is alike when refined, but this is not the case. An experienced man can tell at a glance from what part of the world a gold piece comes, and in some cases from what part of a particular gold district the metal was obtained. The Australian gold, for instance, is distinctly redder than the Californian, and this difference in color is always perceptible, even when the gold is one thousand fine. Again, the gold obtained from the placers is yellower than that which is taken directly from quartz. Why this should be the case is one of the mysteries of metallurgy, for the placer gold comes from the veins. The Ural gold is the reddest found anywhere. Few people know the real color of gold, as it is seldom seen unless heavily alloyed, which renders it redder than when pure. The purest coins ever made were the $50 pieces that used to be made in California. Their coinage was abandoned for two reasons: first, because the loss by abrasion was so great, and, secondly, because the interior would be bored out and lead substituted, the difference in weight being too small to be readily noticed in so large a piece. These octagonal coins were the most valuable ever struck.

THE STARCH TRUST.

HISTORY OF A SPECIMEN TARIFF COMBINE.

Dividing the Spoils for Six Months—A Case of High Protection Where None Is Needed—A Prosperous Industry Exporting Its Product—How Home Market Prices Have Advanced.

A few years ago the manufacturers of corn starch were loudly complaining that there was no money in their business; but a little more than a year ago they formed a large trust composed of practically all the manufacturers of starch in the country, and now they are happier. Before the trust was formed the price of corn starch at the factories was as low as 2¼ cents a pound, but as soon as the trust was formed in March, 1890, prices at once took an upward jump, and now range from 3¼ to 3½ cents.

The trust having gotten in its work of raising prices, the business is now announced by a responsible trade paper to be very profitable. As an evidence of this it is stated that the National Starch Manufacturing Company, or starch trust, just declared a semi-annual dividend of 6 per cent on the second preferred stock. What the first preferred stockholders received is not stated.

Last year, about the time that the trust was formed, a careful estimate was made by a prominent starch dealer showing that a starch factory could easily earn 38 per cent. clear profit on its capital. This estimate was said to be made on actual facts, the factory in question having a capital of $100,000, grinding about 1,500 bushels of corn per day, and running 300 working days in a year. Corn could then be had at 30 cents a bushel; but, though the price is now more than twice that figure, this difference is more than counterbalanced by the higher prices for starch exacted by the trust.

The McKinley duty on corn starch is 2 cents a pound, the same as under the new law. Notwithstanding the valiant talk of sundry Republican statesmen about reducing duties, in cases where a domestic industry is controlled by a trust, no effort was made by the McKinleyites to lower the starch duty. This duty was equivalent at the time when the trust was formed, to 88 per cent. of the factory price of American starch.

If there is any industry in the whole country which needs absolutely no protection, that industry is the starch business. Why so? Because our starch manufacturers have demonstrated their ability to compete in the markets of the world against the starch made by the so-called "pauper labor" of every country. They sold nearly 20,000,000 pounds in foreign countries during the two fiscal years 1889 and 1890—the greater part of this being, of course, corn starch. Of the exports last year, 2,000,000 pounds went to England and 4,600,000 to the Netherlands.

If our manufacturers are able to send so much starch to foreign countries, why is it necessary to protect them at home against those same countries? Could anything more absurd be imagined? The only purpose this starch tariff can serve, is to enable our precious home-market starch trust to put up prices to the domestic consumer, while perhaps selling at lesser prices abroad.

The Second of Its Kind.

There was unveiled in Decatur County, Ind., twenty miles east of Columbus, a monument to mark the "center of the population of the United States." Ten thousand people were present. This is the second time in the history of the United States that the center of population has been ceremoniously marked with a monument. The first time was in 1810, and the place was several miles northwest of Washington, D. C., where yet remains a small stone on which is engraved "Centre of Population." The center of the population has traveled westward each decade about forty-five miles, and has varied from a straight line west from Baltimore as the population increased in the North and South. The only time when the exact center could not be accurately fixed was from 1860 to 1870, when a perfect census could not be taken in that part of the United States where the civil war occurred. The following is the location of these centers each decade since 1790, when it was twenty-three miles east of Baltimore:

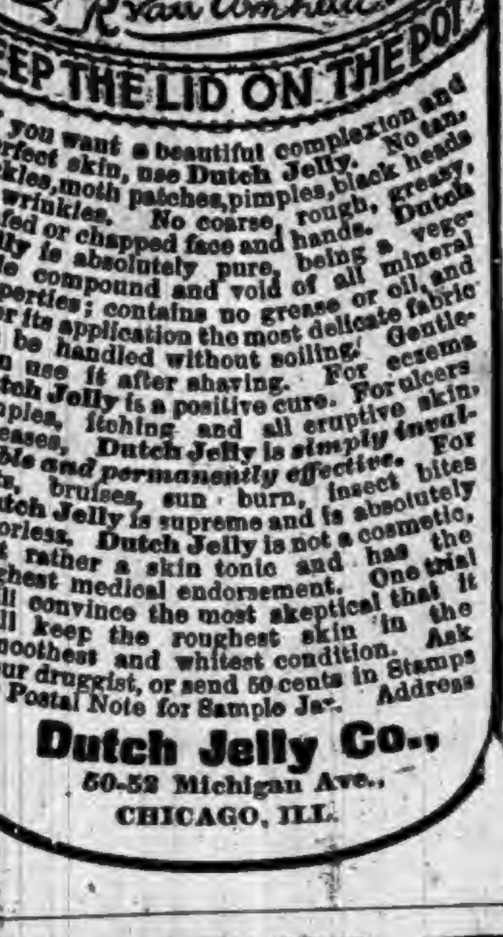
In 1800, 18 miles west of Baltimore; in 1810, 45 miles northwest by west of Washington; in 1820, 16 miles north of Woodstock, Va.; in 1830, 19 miles west by southwest of Moorefield, W. Va.; in 1840, 10 miles south of Clarksburg, W. Va.; in 1850, 23 miles southeast of Petersburg, W. Va.; in 1860, 20 miles south of Chillicothe, O.; in 1870, 48 miles east by north of Cincinnati, O.; in 1880, 8 miles west by south of Cincinnati, O.; in 1890, 20 miles east of Columbus, Ind.

A PROTECTIONIST organ rejoices that the tariff reduced the price of galvanized iron sheets from 7¾ cents a pound in 1880 to 4¼ cents in 1889. This is used as an argument to show that the tin-plate duty will have a similar effect, since "tin plate is only sheet iron dipped in tin." But the average price of foreign tin plates for that same year (1889) was 2 8-10 cents per pound. How can we beat that when our galvanized iron is itself 4¼ cents?

THE Mosque of St. Sophia in Constantinople is always fragrant with the odor of musk, and has been so for hundreds of years, ever since it was rebuilt in the ninth century, the curious part of it being that nothing is done to keep it perfumed. The solution to the seeming mystery lies in the fact that when it was built, over 1,000 years ago, the stones and bricks were laid in mortar mixed with a solution of musk.

THE first iron-plate furnaces in this country were built in Virginia between 1714 and 1730, under the old Colonial Governor Spotswood. Yet in the year of grace 1891 we are still protecting pig iron as an "infant industy." A hoary infant that!

A NEW YORK man, who had been kicked by a horse, and but slightly injured, sued the owner of the animal for $50,000 and recovered a verdict of $6,500 recently.



TRADE MARK
DUTCH JELLY
NONE GENUINE WITHOUT CREST AND SIGNATURE
K. Van Amhuu
KEEP THE LID ON THE POT

If you want a beautiful complexion and a perfect skin, use Dutch Jelly. No tan, freckles, moth patches, pimples, black heads or wrinkles. No coarse, rough, greasy, chafed or chapped face and hands. Dutch Jelly is absolutely pure, being a vegetable compound and void of all mineral properties; contains no grease or oil, and after its application the most delicate fabric can be handled without soiling. Gentlemen use it after shaving. For eczema Dutch Jelly is a positive cure. For ulcers, pimples, itching and all eruptive skin diseases, Dutch Jelly is simply invaluable and permanently effective. For cuts, bruises, sun burn, insect bites Dutch Jelly is supreme and is absolutely odorless. Dutch Jelly is not a cosmetic, but rather a skin tonic and has the highest medical endorsement. One trial will convince the most skeptical that it will keep the roughest skin in the smoothest and whitest condition. Ask your druggist, or send 50 cents in Stamps or Postal Note for Sample Jar. Address

Dutch Jelly Co.,
50-52 Michigan Ave.,
CHICAGO, ILL.

Page CYCLE
SPRING FORK.

EASIEST RIDING
WHEEL - ON - EARTH.
HAS WITHOUT EXCEPTION THE
FINEST SPRING IN AMERICA.

Rides as gently over obstructions as a carriage and is in every sense of the word a perfect cycle

BUILT
FINEST DESIGN.
FINEST STEEL.
FINEST FINISH.
FINEST BALL BEARINGS.

Do not buy without getting our Catalogue or seeing this wheel.

PAGE STEEL WHEEL CO., TOLEDO, OHIO.

SANGOLE
ACTUALLY
PRODUCES FLESH
AND CURES
CONSUMPTION
IN INCIPIENCY.
PALATABLE, DIGESTIBLE, NUTRITIOUS.
IMPARTS LIFE AND VIGOR TO EVERY FIBRE.
SPECIMEN TESTIMONIAL.

Gentlemen:— WHEELING, Feb. 10, 1891.

Early last fall I contracted a severe cold, which settled on my lungs. I coughed dreadfully and lost flesh rapidly until advised to try Sangole, which I did with the most gratifying result.

After taking three bottles my cough ceased and I found that I had gained six pounds in weight. I most heartily recommend it to sufferers of loss of flesh from any cause.

Respectfully,
LIZZIE C. CAMPBELL.

Recommended and sold by all Druggists.
Post paid to any address on receipt of $1.00
Silver Guarantee Remedy Co.,
WHEELING, W. VA.

Manny Lemon Juice Extractor
BEST AND MOST ECONOMICAL.

ORDINARY Lemon Squeezers act upon lemon from outside, inducing a bitter oil and crushing living creatures which appear on skin as dark scales.

THE "MANNY" Lemon Juice Extractor operates on pulp within, and gives clear pure juice free from insects, oil or seeds.

IF your dealer cannot supply you send 30 CENTS postal note or stamps for a sample post paid.

Manny Lemon Juice Extractor Co.,
202 COLUMBIA ST., ROCKFORD, ILL.
WE WANT GOOD AGENTS.

The D&C
TO MACKINAC
SUMMER TOURS
PALACE STEAMERS. LOW RATES.
Four Trips per Week Between
DETROIT, MACKINAC ISLAND
Petoskey, The Soo, Marquette, and Lake Huron Ports.
Every Evening Between
DETROIT AND CLEVELAND
Sunday Trips during June, July, August and September Only.
OUR ILLUSTRATED PAMPHLETS,
Rates and Excursion Tickets will be furnished by your Ticket Agent, or Address
A. A. SCHANTZ, ASS'T G. P. A., DETROIT, MICH.,
THE DETROIT & CLEVELAND STEAM NAV. CO

DON'T WASTE MONEY
BUYING THE WRONG WAIST.
BUY THE "HAUT-TON" WAIST.

HAUT-TON WAIST.
PAT. MARCH 18 1890

IT meets the popular demand for hygienic garments. Made of fine satteen in white, drab, ecru, old gold, and fast black, well stayed with cords; has no steels except in front and back, with clasp or button fronts.

Is so soft and pliable, yet produces a perfect figure.

A Perfect Waist.
Canvassers Wanted. Send for Catalogue.
Waist sent post paid on receipt $1.15
Bortree Mfg. Co., Jackson, Mich.

FARMS IN CENTRAL MICHIGAN
are positively first rate as proven by both State and United States agricultural reports. In yield and value of crops per acre, they excell Southern Michigan, Indiana and Illinois. We offer for sale at low prices and on easy terms 20,000 acres of good unimproved farming lands in Isabella County, the center county of the lower peninsular of Michigan. Write for descriptive pamphlet and sample price list.
C. M. C. Cook, Mt. Pleasant, Mich.

The Rock Island "Jewett Hay Rake and Loader."
NO FARMER CAN AFFORD TO BE WITHOUT ONE.

TAKES the hay as left by mower, rakes it CLEAN and will deliver a ton onto wagon every fifteen minutes.

Will certainly save its cost in one year, and under some circumstances in one day.

Light Draft. Fully Guaranteed.

Send for full description and testimonials.

Rock Island Plow Co.
ROCK ISLAND, ILL.
(Mention this paper).

The Electric Capsule

is a pleasant laxative and sure cure for general debility, biliousness, torpid liver, malaria, sleeplessness, loss of appetite, melancholy, costiveness, nervousness and pains in the back. It positively cures that lassitude and weariness, and want of appetite experienced by so many. Are you fatigued? The most recently discovered wonderful remedy for LOST VITALITY.

25 Cents per box.

Address ELECTRIC CAPSULE CO.
Post Office Box 3349, N. Y.
FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

ORANGE BLOSSOM
A POSITIVE CURE FOR
ALL FEMALE DISEASES.

SOME SYMPTOMS: A tired, languid feeling, low spirited and despondent, with no apparent cause. Indigestion, headache, backache, bearing down pains, pain across lower part of bowels, with great soreness in region of ovaries. Tumors, Bladder difficulty, Frequent urination, Leucorrhœa, Constipation of bowels, piles. With all these symptoms patient nervous and irritable. THE ORANGE BLOSSOM TREATMENT removes all these by a thorough process of absorption.

A LOCAL APPLICATION Perfectly harmless, which every lady can use, herself. Medicines taken internally will never relieve the many forms of female weakness. The remedy must be applied to the parts to obtain permanent relief.

A PLAIN TALK TO LADIES in our circular. Ask your druggist for one, or send two cent stamp to home office for sample box and circular.

EVERY LADY CAN TREAT HERSELF.
O. B. Pile Remedy. $1.00 FOR ONE MONTH'S TREATMENT. O. B. Stomach Powders.
O. B. Catarrh Cure. —PREPARED BY— O. B. Kidney Cones.
J. A. McGILL, M. D., & CO., 2 & 4 PANORAMA PLACE, CHICAGO, ILL
FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
ALONZO G. FISHER, Wholesale Agent, 67 Washington St., Chicago.

Children Enjoy

The pleasant flavor, gentle action and soothing effects of Syrup of Figs, when in need of a laxative, and if the father or mother be costive or bilious the most gratifying results follow its use, so that it is the best family remedy known and every family should have a bottle.

Taking No Chances.

"You are a pharmacist, are you?"

"I am."

"Been in the business a number of years?"

"I have."

"Registered?"

"Yes, sir."

"That is your diploma hanging over there?"

"It is."

"Well, you can give me a pound of borax."—Brooklyn Life.

Important Trade Name Decision.

Judge Thayer of the United States Circuit Court at St. Louis, has recently handed down an opinion and granted a perpetual injunction against the defendants in the case of The Hostetter Co., against the Bruggeman Reinert Distilling Co., alias "Gold Spring Distilling Co." prohibiting the advertising, manufacturing or selling of any article of stomach bitters either in bulk, by the gallon or otherwise, or in any way making use of the name "Hostetter" except in connection with the sale of the genuine bitters, which are always sold in bottles securely sealed, and also prohibiting the sale of any bitters in bulk, though the name "Hostetter" be not used, but the suggestion made to the purchaser that he can put them in the empty Hostetter bottles and purchasers would not discover the difference. His decision supports the Hostetter company in the extensive use of the name "Hostetter" in connection with either the manufacture or sale of stomach bitters in any manner or form whatsoever, and firmly established its ownership in the same as a "TRADE NAME."

A Poor Showing.

The liar who lies about the size of hailstones has had a very poor show this spring, as hailstones have been few and far between. The biggest lie yet only shows hailstones large enough to beat the planks off a highway bridge in Tennessee, and of course those can be easily replaced.

THE WABASH LINE.

H-andsome equipment,
E-legant day coaches, and
W-agner palace sleeping cars
A-re in daily service
B-etween the city of St. Louis
A-nd New York and Boston.
S-pacious reclining chair cars
H-ave no equal

L-ike those run by the
I-ncomparable and only Wabash.
N-ew trains and fast time
E-very day in the year.

From East to West the sun's bright ray,
Smiles on the line that leads the way.

MAGNIFICENT VESTIBULE EXPRESS TRAINS, running free reclining chair cars and palace sleepers to St. Louis, Kansas City, and Council Bluffs. The direct route to all points in Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Texas, Indian Territory, Arkansas, Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, Washington, Montana, and California. For rates, routes, maps, etc., apply to any ticket agent or address F. CHANDLER,
Gen. Pass. and Ticket Agent,
St. Louis, Mo.

Break it Gently.

A citizen of Augusta, Me., heard that a widow in that town had been left a fortune of $25, and he ran to the house with the news. The good tidings were blurted out in a blunt way, and over she fell in a faint and swallowed four brass pins she was holding in her mouth.

MANY so-called "Bitters" are not medicines, but simply liquors so disguised as to evade the law in prohibition sections. This is not the case with the celebrated Prickly Ash Bitters. It is purely a medicine, acting on the liver and blood, and by reason of its cathartic effects cannot be used as a beverage. It should be in every household.

The Tennis Elbow.

Mistah Ebony—How is youah good health dis mo'nin', Mistah Black?

Mistah Black—I's all hunkadory 'cept my right a'm, Mistah Ebony. I's sufferin' from de tennis elbow.

"Wot you been doin'?"

"Beatin' ca'pet."—New York Weekly.

FITS.—All Fits stopped free by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. No Fits after first day's use. Marvellous cures. Treatise and $2.00 trial bottle free to Fit cases. Send to Dr. Kline, 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

THE man who makes his own God has one who is merciless.

The hand of time deals lightly with a woman in perfect health. But all functional derangements and disorders peculiar to women leave their mark. You needn't have them. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription comes to your rescue as no other medicine can. It cures them. For periodical pains, prolapsus and other displacements, bearing-down sensations, and all "female complaints" and weaknesses, it is a positive remedy. It is a powerful, restorative tonic and nervine, imparting strength to the whole system in general, and to the uterine organs and appendages in particular. It keeps years from your face and figure—but adds years to your life. It's guaranteed to give satisfaction in every case. If it doesn't, your money is returned.

The Soap that Cleans Most is Lenox.

WHEN DAY WAS DONE.

BY LOUISE CHANDLER MOULTON.

The clouds that watched in the West have fled;
The sun has set and the moon is high;
And nothing is left of the day that is dead,
Save a fair white ghost in the Eastern sky.

When the day was dying we knelt and yearned,
And hoped and prayed till its last breath died;
But since to a radiant ghost it has turned,
Shall we rest with that white grace satisfied?

The fair ghost smiles with a pale, cold smile,
As mocking as life and as hopeless as death—
Shall passionless beauty like this beguile?
Who loves a ghost without feeling or breath?

I remember a maiden as fair to see,
Who once was alive, with a heart like June;
She died, but her spirit wanders free,
And charms men's souls to the old mad tune.

Warm she was, in her life's glad day,
Warm and fair, and faithful and sweet;
A man might have thrown a kingdom away
To kneel and love at her girlish feet.

But the night came down and her day was done;
Hoping and dreaming were over for aye;
And then her career as a ghost was begun—
Cold she shone, like the moon on high.

For maiden or moon shall a live man yearn?
Shall a breathing man love a ghost without breath?
Shine, moon, and chill us, you cannot burn;
Go home, Girl-Ghost, to your kingdom of death.

HER SECRET.

When that particularly shrewd and businesslike young man, Mr. Thomas Partington, joined himself in marriage to Ada, relict of the late Isaac Abrahams, his friends evinced considerable surprise at the step. The widow was, indeed, as they admitted, young and fascinating, and had, moreover, inherited a very substantial fortune from her previous husband. But then she was dreadfully extravagant in her habits, and had lately developed a perfect mania for gambling.

In fact, her losses on the turf and at the card tables were becoming quite the talk of society, and it is certain that even during the short period which elapsed between her first husband's death and the date of her second marriage her fortune must have been materially diminished by the drains she made upon it. In another year or two at her present rate she would, so Tom's friends said, run through it altogether, and then he would find himself in the unenviable position of having to support a recklessly spendthrift wife entirely out of his own pocket.

A few of his greatest intimates impressed this upon him before he took the final plunge, and urged him to back out of his engagemet ere it was yet too late. But Tom turned a deaf ear to their advice. He was very much in love with the charming widow. And, besides, he entertained a strong hope that after their union he should be able to reform, or at least control, his wife's extravagance. Instead, therefore of trying to cry off the match, he hurried it forward to the best of his ability, in order that she might have as short an interval as possible in which to enjoy the unchecked expenditure of her money.

But when he was married to the lady he found that his hope of being able to reform her had been decidedly chimerical. Self willed and headstrong, she would scarcely endure advice, much less any semblence of restraint. So, after a few months of useless remonstrance, he gave up all attempt at genuine reformation as a bad job, and had to content himself with showing silent disapproval of her extravagances, or with throwing in their way such feeble obstacles as he could. These were slight enough, for her fortune was entirely at her own control. Still they were not quite fruitless.

And as time went on, people noticed that Mrs. Partington's gambling transactions were on a much smaller scale. Her best friends began to hope that the instincts of the mother were beginning to assert themselves over the cravings of the gambler, and that it was thought for the little one whom she was soon expecting that thus checked her in her career of mad extravagance. It is certain at any rate, that, as time went forward, she grew every day more out of spirits, and nothing was more likely—for, with all her faults, she was a soft-hearted woman—than that she should be fretting over past selfish extravagance, as a sort of robbery perpetrated on her unborn off-spring. Perhaps, also, her weakened physical condition contributed its quota to this altered frame of mind. But whatever the reasons may have been, the fact was undoubtedly there. And each day the once lighthearted and reckless woman grew more moody and depressed.

Tom appeared to notice this change in his wife. His manner toward her, always kind and attentive, became actually tender in its consideration, and he tried his hardest to soothe away her gathering depression of spirits. He was not able to be with her much in the day time, for, shortly after his marriage, being tired of having nothing to do, he had put some of his money into "business" in the city, where his constant presence was now required; but he regularly spent his evenings at home, hardly ever going to the theater or to his club.

His wife seemed to feel his considerate tenderness very deeply, for several times, as he sat beside her of an evening, with his arms thrown caressingly around her, she suddenly buried her face on his shoulder and burst into tears—like one whose remorse is awakened by unmerited and unlooked for kindness. On each of these occasions Tom felt by a certain subtle and inpalpable instinct that his wife was on the very verge of making some confession—perhaps of sorrow and regret for her defiant attitude toward him in the past. But although by his comforting words and soothing caresses he did his best to invite her confidence, the confeision which he felt to be hanging on her lips never issued from them.

Meanwhile, what was so clear to her husband did not escape the notice of Mrs. Partington's female friends. Of these she had many, but by far the most favored and confidential of them was Mrs. Brandon, an old schoolfellow with whom she had kept up a lifelong intimacy. Mrs. Brandon, who was at once a very lively and a highly sensible lady, had, at an early period, detected the unusual gloom which had come over her friend's manner, and rallied her upon taking her new position so seriously.

"My dear Ada," she said at last, in the course of an afternoon call, during which Mrs. Partington had been more dull than ever, "I should never have encouraged you to accept Tom if I had foreseen what a deplorable effect your second dose of matrimony would have upon you. Do you know that in the twenty minutes I have been here, the only original observation you have made was to ask me whether I had enough sugar. What is the matter with you to-day?"

Mrs. Partington muttered something about a "bad headache."

"But have you always a bad headache nowadays?" continued Mrs. Brandon, more seriously. "I should not have alluded to the subject if this were the first time that I have seen you thus. But for weeks I have observed you growing more and more gloomy and depressed. You are getting quite unlike your old self, and I cannot help feeling seriously uneasy about you. What does it mean?"

To Mrs. Brandon's surprise her friend, instead of answering, only burst into tears and buried her face in her handkerchief. Evidently, thought Mrs. Brandon, the once gay and sprightly Ada Isaacs was very changed indeed.

"Come, Ada," she said, drawing her chair closer, and taking one of her friend's hands, "you have something on your mind. I thought so before; now I am sure of it. Tell me all about it. It will do you good to confide in some one, and you and I have never had a secret from one another during the last twenty years. Is it anything to do with Tom?"

"No, no—indeed it isn't! Pray don't think that!" sobbed Mrs. Partington.

"Well, that's a mercy!" observed Mrs. Brandon. "Then it must be something to do with yourself. What is it?"

There was a short pause, during which Mrs. Partington's sobs slightly subsided.

"Nell," she said presently, "it is all your fault."

"My fault, dear!" exclaimed Mrs. Brandon.

"Your fault," repeated Mrs. Partington. "It has all come of your introducing me to that hateful Pompadour Club. Oh, how I wish I had never entered the place!"

"You don't mean to say——" Mrs. Brandon paused and looked at her friend.

"I mean to say that, unknown to Tom, I have been playing there every afternoon, and losing constantly, until—oh, Nell, promise—swear that you will not tell Tom this!"

"Of course not. Have we ever betrayed one another's confidence, dear? But you must promise me something, too. Promise that you will tell Tom."

"I? Oh, Nell, you don't know what you are asking. You have not heard all yet. I would not have Tom know it for the world. Rather than that I would——"

Mrs. Partington's sobs had burst forth again with renewed force. Suddenly she sank back on the sofa with a cry of pain which alarmed her friend. Perceiving that she was really ill Mrs. Brandon summoned assistance. Many minutes did not elapse before one of the servants was hurrying off for a doctor.

Very shortly after the arrival of that functionary, Mrs. Brandon herself left. She drove direct to the club where Tom Partington occasionally called of an afternoon on his way home from the city. By good luck he was there now, and the message which Mrs. Brandon sent in quickly brought him to her carriage door. A very few words passed between them, but enough to make Tom's face grow to twice its normal length.

"I will be off at once," he said.

"Do," replied Mrs. Brandon. "But mind, not a word yet! Not until she is quite well again."

"Trust me!" cried Tom. He was already hailing a passing hansom, and with a hurried bow to Mrs. Brandon he jumped into it.

When he reached home he sprang up the steps and rang the door bell sharply. It was opened in about half a second by the cook, who, with a look of deep importance on her face, gasped out: "Please, sir, will you be as quiet as possible. And—and—it's a boy!"

Before her bewildered master had time to make any inquiries relative to this information the doctor, who had been descending the stairs when he entered, came up to him and shook him by the hand.

"I must congratulate you, my dear sir," he said, "on the birth of a remarkably fine son. I am glad to tell you, too, that Mrs. Partington is going on as well as can be expected. But she is naturally very weak. So if you go to see her do not stop more than a minute or allow her to talk. Anything calculated to excite her must be most carefully avoided. I will call in again later and see how she is progressing."

Under these circumstances Mr. Partington was compelled to abandon for the present the hope which he had entertained of inducing his wife to confide to him the trouble which seemed to have recently oppressed her. He accordingly restrained his patience as best he could, and waited until her strength should return. At the end of the week, however, it was evident that Mrs. Partington was only mending very slowly, and the doctor was by no means satisfied with her progress. Indeed, he expressed his conviction to the husband that something was weighing on his patient's mind, the removal of which was essential to her complete recovery. After this Tom resolved to endeavor at the earliest opportunity to come to an understanding with his wife.

So, on the same afternoon, as he sat by his wife's bedside, with one of her hands in his, he said kindly, "Ada, my dear, you have something on your mind."

A quick flush overspread her pale face, and she averted her gaze, murmuring in a confused tone, "What makes you fancy that, Tom?"

"The eyes of love are quick to see such things," replied her husband tenderly, as he stroked her head with his disengaged hand. "Did you think I failed to remark it just now, when, as your glance fell on the little one there, a groan escaped your lips? And you have shown by many other signs that something is troubling you."

"Oh, Tom," she cried suddenly, leaning forward and hiding her face on his shoulders. "You will not speak so kindly when you know the truth. Yet I must tell you my—my husband. You have been so kind and gentle that I cannot deceive you any longer, but try, Tom,"—pleadingly—"not to be very angry with me."

"There is no fear of that," said Tom encouragingly. "Come, little woman, let us have the murder out."

"Ah, you do not know what it is," she went on in remorseful tones, "else you would not treat it so lightly. Oh, Tom, Tom, I—I—have lost my fortune."

"How did you manage that?" he asked quietly.

"You may well put such a question," she continued in a voice broken by frequent sobs. "You may well fail to understand my folly and madness. Oh, Tom, Tom, although I used to set you at defiance in the matter of gambling, yet your open remonstrance and silent disapproval in time began to vex my impatient heart. And when I discovered a secret gambling club, where I could indulge my insatiable passion without your knowledge, I at once began to frequent it. The game was roulette—the one of all others in which I had always longed to join. I gave myself up to its fascination, and staking wildly incurred heavy losses day after day. Then, as my fortune rapidly diminished, and time went on, and thoughts of the little one whom I was soon to bear were brought home to me, a chord of motherly feeling was touched within me, and I hated myself for my wicked folly in having robbed my child.

"I vowed I would win back all that I had lost, and with that intention (for my strange gambler's craving was somehow dying away) staked heavily at the tables. But my endeavor was nothing else than throwing good money after bad. I lost—lost—lost—until my whole fortune was gone. Do not"—very piteously—"do not reproach me, Tom. My own heart is reproaching me already, almost more than I can bear."

"My darling," he replied, "I have no thought of reproaching you. If I had meant to do that I should have done it before this, for I have known all about it a long while." "You have known all about it a long while!" she cried, raising her tearful eyes wonderingly to his. "Oh, Tom—how did you find out?"

"Very easily, my pet," he answered, kissing her forehead, "seeing that the founder and proprietor of the gambling club where you lost your money is no other than—myself!"

She regarded him in speechless amazement. He went on to explain himself further:

"Yes. It is quite true. When I found that advice and remonstrance were lost on you, my dear, I had to look about for another method of saving you from the effects of your folly. And the starting of that private gambling club was the method which occurred to me. It took some working out of details and the employment of a good bit of capital to get the thing properly afloat. But I enlisted the services of a competent agent, whom I paid well, and undertook to indemnify in case the club were found out by the police. It had not been discovered, nor now ever will be; for, its object having been gained, the establishment is finally closed. There, Ada, that is enough to enable you to grasp the truth. But tell me—are you sorry to learn that all the money which you lost has passed back into my hands?"

"Sorry!" she ejaculated, raising herself in bed and wreathing her arms round his neck in a joyful, fond embrace. "Oh, Tom, how kind and good and clever you are! I can never love or thank you enough."

Tom Partington gave the most convincing proof that he could have given of his belief in the sincerity of his wife's repentence. He handed back to her the whole of her money without condition or reservation, and has never had cause to regret it.—Boston Courier.

An Indispensable Tree.

A fine old patriarch of a hickory, standing upon a bare, wind-swept hillside, was blown down the other day, and the little nut lovers of the neighborhood were loud in their lamentations. For the hoary old tree, with a trunk five or six feet through, wide spread branches, and hight of perhaps 150 feet, never failed to rain down every autumn upon the children a perfect deluge of nuts, sound and rich and sweet. It was amusing, yet pitiful, to see them swarm about their prostrate giant friend and bewail his hard fate. Great pieces of the shaggy bark were carried away and stored in "play houses" as shelves and mementoes by the girls, and the boys came to petition my father for bits of the wood to make handles for their "little hatchets," axes, etc.

Besides their value as nut-bearing trees—and since nut culture is assuming such importance this is great—the hickories are among the most useful and valuable trees in the world. The wood which some of these trees yield has no superior, if, indeed, has an equal for certain important purposes. It is the hickory wood in the handle which has carried the American ax around the world and has driven, wherever it is known, all other axes out of the market. The same wood has made possible those light carriages which in turn have made possible the American trotting horse, one of the marvels of modern times. No other tree is known the wood of which is tough enough and strong enough to stand the strain imposed upon the American trotting sulky, and without the modern sulky, and its heavier forerunner, neither breeding nor training could have produced that race of horses which every American looks upon with patriotic admiration.

The shell-bark hickory is considered the most valuable species of the genus, though its nuts are not esteemed so highly as the pecans. The shell-bark is the tree which people usually have in mind when they speak of a hickory tree, and the peculiarity of the bark, which separates into great thick, loose scales, gives to the tree a distinctive appearance by which it is easily recognized.—Vick's Magazine.

Clearing Off Snow with Six Engines.

A retired engineer, speaking of snowstorms, told a story about clearing railroad tracks. The road on which he was running at the time begins or ends, as you chose, in Jersey City. At one point on the line there is a deep cut, which always gives trouble when a heavy snow fall occurs. Just beyond the cut is a high iron bridge which spans a very deep gorge. "We were driving an old-fashioned snow plow with six of our biggest engines," said the engineer. "It was regular battering-ram work. We would draw back and smash into that drift like a war cruiser, until it seemed as if our string of engines must snap in two. But we just battered away for dear life, gradually opening the cut. We had smashed our way almost through the big drift when we backed up for another drive. We came at the drift like a streak of lightning. It seemed as if we threw a million tons of ice and snow as high as the sky. We did more than that. We cut through the whole drift as if it were made of rotten cloth, and came out of it on the jump. Away we went for that bridge, the six heavy engines roaring like a tornado. I was driving the first one, and when I thought of the tremendous weight that would hit that iron span like a great cannon-ball my heart stood still. There was no stopping then, so I threw open the throttle and let her go. We seemed to jump from one side of that gorge to the other without touching the bridge, and six engineers and six firemen drew long breaths when we found ourselves safely on the other side, tearing along the track."—New York Tribune.

Be a Little Careful.

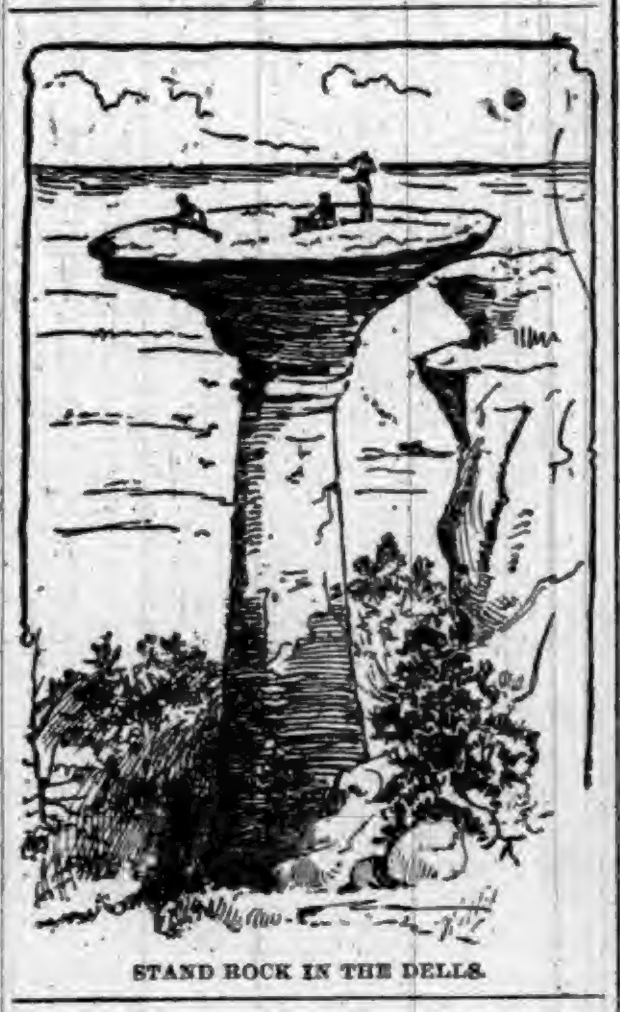
"Mr. Johnson," said one Syracuse man to another, "you are an old sardine packed in molasses, and I wouldn't give you room to die on my land!" Mr. Johnson took the case to court, and has just bought a $600 trotter on the verdict the jury gave him. Always refer to a man as a gentleman, and offer him your whole door-yard for a dying bed.

A PERFUME dealer, though an idiot, is bound to be a man of scents.

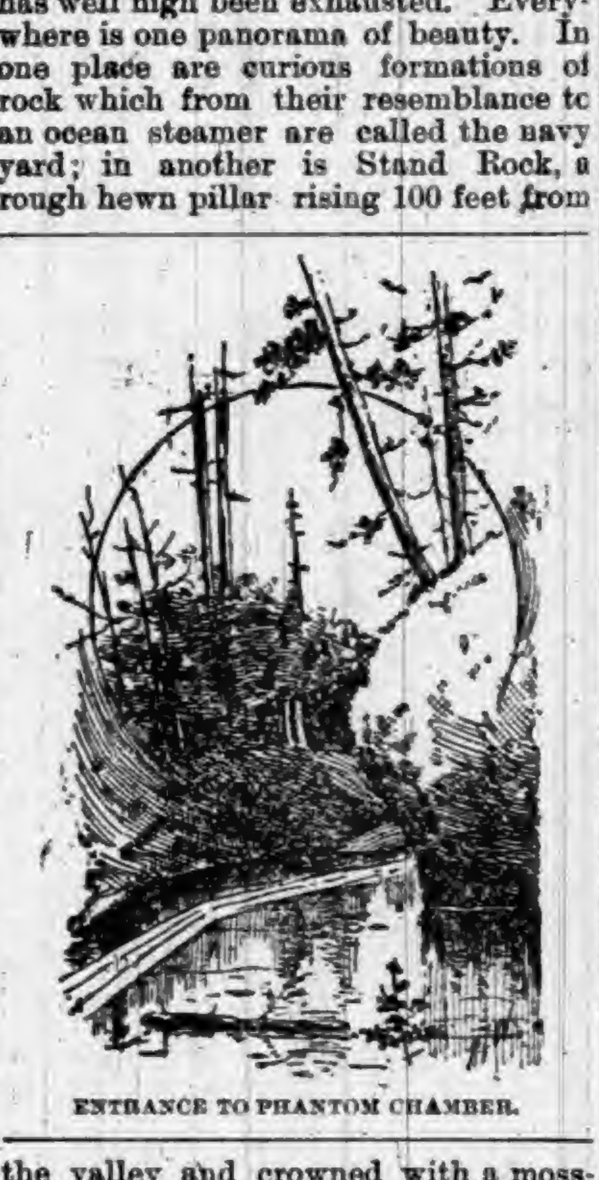
THE LAKE REGION.

A Spot Upon Which Nature Has Exhausted Her Fairest Designs.

The lake country, Wisconsin, is among the most picturesque and interesting portion of our territory, a region with almost indefinite facilities for pleasure and yet one that which although deserving national repute has hardly received anything more than local celebrity. One of the prettiest spots in Waukesha County is Oconomowoc, whose surroundings strongly resemble the sunny valleys and noble forests of Germany. At Portage the Fox and Wisconsin Rivers approach each other within a mile without uniting, and then flow abruptly in opposite directions, the Fox entering the St. Lawrence and the Wisconsin mingling its waters with the Mississippi and the Gulf. The Wisconsin is intimately connected with the wars of Blackhawk and many are the legends still handed down about the famous Indian chief. A part of the Wisconsin known as the Dells is worthy description. The upper and lower Dells form together an irregular gorge some ten miles long, walled in with sandstone rock from 20 to 100 feet high, upon which nature's resource of various designs has well nigh been exhausted. Everywhere is one panorama of beauty. In one place are curious formations of rock which from their resemblance to an ocean steamer are called the navy yard; in another is Stand Rock, a rough hewn pillar rising 100 feet from the valley and crowned with a moss-grown tablet; again is an opening into a cave known as the Phantom Chamber that never has been explored, and a little beyond the Dells is Devil's Lake, a body of water that has no visible inlet or outlet. The Indians regarded the lake with superstitious feeling and gazed with awe on the strange deep waters in the stern and desolate temple of some unknown deity. The wounded stag, dashing into its cooling waves, escaped pursuit; the very fish roamed in shoals unsought, and so strong was this superstitious dread that the dying warrior perished in agony rather than profane its waters with human lips.



STAND ROCK IN THE DELLS.



ENTRANCE TO PHANTOM CHAMBER.

Whoever would wish to see nature in the grandest and most sublime of her effects should not fail to visit the lake country of Wisconsin.

A Quaint Old Watch.

"What sort of a watch is this?" asked Duzenbury, picking up a curious old timepiece from an Austin watchmaker's show case.

"That," replied the watchmaker, "is a real curiosity. It is a watch that belonged to Alexander the Great when he died on the barren island of St. Helena."

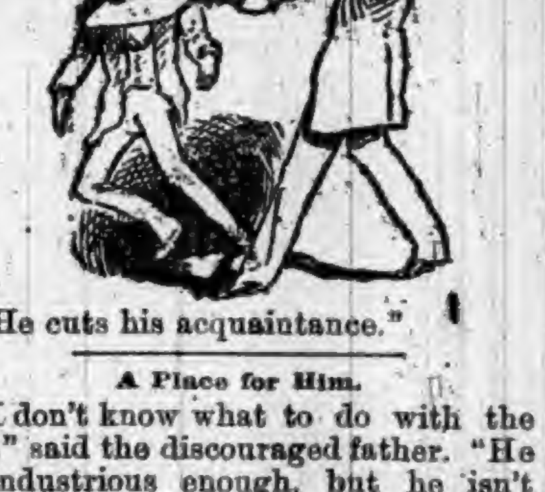
"The sheol you say. Why, man alive, in the days of Alexander the Great they didn't have any watches."

"That's just what makes it such a rarity."

"And Alexander the Great did not die at St. Helena."

"He didn't, eh? Well, that makes it still greater curiosity." And taking the rare relic from the hands of Duzenbury, he locked it in his burglar-proof safe.—Texas Siftings.

English As She Is Spoke.



"He cuts his acquaintance."

A Place for Him.

"I don't know what to do with the boy," said the discouraged father. "He is industrious enough, but he isn't truthful. He'd rather lie than go fishing. I never believe a word he says unless I know it to be true beforehand."

"I need a young man," said the guest, the proprietor of a baking-powder factory, eagerly, "in my advertising department."

Her Opinion.

Visitor (watching the antics of the little dog)—"He seems to have a good deal of pugnacity about him."

Old Lady (slightly deaf)—"Yes, a pug is a nasty animal. I've always said so."

The Tomb of a Seminole Princess.

During his recent visit to Florida Magistrate South came across the tomb of an Indian princess, and took a photograph of her Royal Highness's remains. The tomb was on a beautiful hillock of palmetto trees on the Kissimee prairie, 150 miles south of the town of Kissimee, Fla., and was built of cypress logs. It was 9 feet square and 6 feet high, with a cross on the top. The remains of this Seminole princess had long since been reduced to a skeleton, but around her was the furniture of her wigwam, while from her bony neck hung a string of beads, a cameo ring was on her finger, and a silver watch of ancient make at her side.

After taking the photograph the tomb was closed by replacing the logs. Notwithstanding the fact that this noble squaw has lain there for many years, no one, even in that wild country, has ever yet carried off the ornaments and relics in which she was originally buried.—Philadelphia Record.

An Imperfect Inventory.

Mother—And so your friend Clara is soon to be married?

Daughter (just returned from long absence)—Yes; doesn't it seem strange? I hadn't heard a word about it until I called to see her this morning. She showed me her trouseau. It's perfectly lovely, just from Paris, and she has the handsomest ring I ever saw, and she showed me the house she is to live in, and the furniture she has selected, and the horses and carriages she is to have. She she showed me everything except the man she is going to marry. I guess she forgot about him.—New York Weekly.

In the Name of the Prophet, figs! cry the venders of the fruit in Constantinople. Certainly a "great cry over a little wool." Scarcely less foolish is the practice of those who fly to violent physicking for costiveness. They dose themselves violently, weaken their bowels by so doing, and disable them from acting regularly, so that, verily, the last condition of such people is worse than the first. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the safe and effective substitute for such vast expedients. But no, let us not call them expedients, for it is by no means expedient to use them. What is needed is a gentle but thorough laxative, which not only insures action of the bowels without pain or weakening effects, but also promotes a healthy secretion and flow of bile into its proper channel. Dyspepsia, debility, kidney complaints, rheumatism and malaria give in to the Bitters.

Feline Sagacity.

A very much petted cat of mine, aged 10, was with me while sewing lately. She had seated herself on a portion of the calico which was before me on a small table, and before leaving the room for a few minutes, I carefully arranged the part of the work with the needle in it so that it hung over the edge of the table and was well out of "Tiny's" way. On my return, I found she had gathered up the calico and was sitting upon it, but had kept out the unfinished hem, and was holding down the needle with her right paw, purring loudly the while at what she evidently considered a very successful imitation of her mistress.—The London Spectator.

J. S. PARKER, Fredonia, N. Y., says: "Shall not call on you for the $100 reward, for I believe Hall's Catarrh Cure will cure any case of catarrh. Was very bad." Write him for particulars. Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Bearded the Lion.

Mr. Suburb—It just makes me mad to see the way you New Yorkers pack yourselves away in city flats. Such a life is enough to take all the manhood out of you.

Mr. DeFlatte—Huh! There isn't a braver man living than Skihigh, and he resides in a flat. Brave? He's as brave as a lion. Why, the other day he caught the janitor helping himself to the tenants' milk, and meat, and vegetables. Well, sir, that man Skihigh, instead of pretending not to notice it, just stood right up before that janitor and jawed him."—Street and Smith's Good News.

A LADY returned from a foreign tour claims that her health was sustained by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

When the Youngsters Kick.

There is always great excitement in a house when a woman comes home with her arms full of bundles. And a great howl from the children if the bundles do not contain something good to eat.

Chinese in Mexico.

A Chinese capitalist, under the concession of lands free of rent, is making arrangements to colonize land on the Isthmus of Tehuantepec with Chinese agriculturists.

"A HAND-SAW is a good thing, but not to shave with." It is no falsehood to say of common washing soaps that they are not intended for house-cleaning. Use SAPOLIO.

Scandinavian Sailors.

Scandinavian sailors predominate on vessels of nearly all nationalities.

No Opium in Piso's Cure for Consumption. Cures where other remedies fail. 25c.

NO ONE can suffer in any good cause without being a gainer.

Weak and Weary

In early summer the warmer weather is especially weakening and enervating, and "that tired feeling" is very prevalent. The great benefit which people at this season derive from Hood's Sarsaparilla proves that this medicine "makes the weak strong." It does not act like a stimulant, imparting ficticious strength, but Hood's Sarsaparilla builds up in a perfectly natural way all the weakened parts, purifies the blood, creates a good appetite.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

LADIES Who Value a Refined Complexion Must Use POZZONI'S MEDICATED COMPLEXION POWDER.
For Sale by Druggists & Fancy Goods Dealers Everywhere

FOR OLD AND YOUNG.
Tutt's Liver Pills act as kindly on the child, the delicate female or infirm old age, as upon the vigorous man.
Tutt's Pills
give tone and strength to the weak stomach, bowels, kidneys and bladder.

"August Flower"

What is It For?

This is the query perpetually on your little boy's lips. And he is no worse than the bigger, older, balder-headed boys. Life is an interrogation point. "What is it for?" we continually cry from the cradle to the grave. So with this little introductory sermon we turn and ask: "What is AUGUST FLOWER FOR?" As easily answered as asked: It is for Dyspepsia. It is a special remedy for the Stomach and Liver. Nothing more than this; but this brimfull. We believe August Flower cures Dyspepsia. We know it will. We have reasons for knowing it. Twenty years ago it started in a small country town. To-day it has an honored place in every city and country store, possesses one of the largest manufacturing plants in the country and sells everywhere. Why is this? The reason is as simple as a child's thought. It is honest, does one thing, and does it right along—it cures Dyspepsia.

G. G. GREEN, Sole Man'fr, Woodbury, N.J.

PURIFY YOUR BLOOD.

But do not use the dangerous alkaline and mercurial preparations which destroy your nervous system and ruin the digestive power of the stomach. The vegetable kingdom gives us the best and safest remedial agents. Dr. Sherman devoted the greater part of his life to the discovery of this reliable and safe remedy, and all its ingredients are vegetable. He gave it the name of

Prickly Ash Bitters!

a name every one can remember, and to the present day nothing has been discovered that is so beneficial for the BLOOD, for the LIVER, for the KIDNEYS and for the STOMACH. This remedy is now so well and favorably known by all who have used it that arguments as to its merits are useless, and if others who require a corrective to the system would but give it a trial the health of this country would be vastly improved. Remember the name—PRICKLY ASH BITTERS. Ask your druggist for it.

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

DONALD KENNEDY Of Roxbury, Mass., says

Kennedy's Medical Discovery cures Horrid Old Sores, Deep Seated Ulcers of 40 years' standing, Inward Tumors, and every disease of the skin, except Thunder Humor, and Cancer that has taken root. Price $1.5o. Sold by every Druggist in the U. S. and Canada.

LEWIS' 98 % LYE Powdered and Perfumed. (PATENTED) The strongest and purest Lye made. Will make the best perfumed Hard Soap in 20 minutes without boiling. It is the Best for softening water, cleansing waste-pipes, disinfecting sinks, closets, washing bottles, paints, trees, etc. PENNA. SALT M'F'G CO., Gen. Agts., Phila., Pa.

JONES' SCALES THE BEST FULLY WARRANTED 5 TON SCALES $60 FREIGHT PAID ADDRESS JONES OF BINGHAMTON, N.Y.

It PAID Me—'Twill PAY You

Plain directions by which anybody, anywhere can make from $25 to $2,500 per year. 'Twill not interfere with, but will improve any business. Send Name, Postoffice and State, enclosing $1.00. Address, E. CONGDON, Nunda, Ill.

THE DEAF HEAR. WHEN THE DEAFNESS IS CAUSED BY SCARLET FEVER, COLDS, MEASLES, CATARRH, &C. BY THE USE OF THE INVISIBLE SOUND DISC which is guaranteed to help a larger per cent. of cases than all similar devices combined. The same to the Ears as glasses are to the eyes. Positively invisible. Worn months without removal. H. C. WALES, Bridgeport, Conn.

HIRES ROOT BEER THE GREAT HEALTH DRINK. Package makes 5 gallons. Delicious, sparkling and appetizing. Sold by all dealers. A beautiful Picture Book and Cards sent free to any one sending their address to The C. E. HIRES CO., Philad'a.

FAT FOLKS REDUCED 15 to 25 lbs. per month by harmless herbal remedies. No starving, no inconvenience and no bad effects. Strictly confidential. Send 6c. for circulars and testimonials. Address Dr. O. W. F. SNYDER, McVicker's Theatre Bldg. Chicago, Ill.

AGENTS MAKE $5 A DAY Distributing samples and selling our Medicinal and Toilet Soap to families. Samples free. CROFTS & REED, 193 LaSalle St., Chicago.

LOVELY WOMAN. Beautiful form, brilliant eyes, pearly skin, perfect health, life worth living to all who use DR. AMMETT'S FRENCH ARSENIC WAFERS. $1.00 per box, by mail; sample package, 10c. Middleton Drug Co., 74 East Cortland Street, New York.

LOUIS BAGGER & CO. are the Oldest, Most Efficient, and RELIABLE PATENT SOLICITORS in Washington, D.C.

"WOMAN, HER DISEASES AND THEIR Treatment." A valuable illustrated book of 72 pages sent free, on receipt of 10 cents, to cover cost of mailing, etc. Address P. O. Box 1035, Phila. Pa.

N. U. E. W.......................No. 26—91.

When Writing to Advertisers, please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION. 25 CTS. Best Cough Medicine. Recommended by Physicians. Cures where all else fails. Pleasant and agreeable to the taste. Children take it without objection. By druggists. 25 CTS.

CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH, RED CROSS DIAMOND BRAND PENNYROYAL PILLS. THE ORIGINAL AND GENUINE. The only Safe, Sure, and reliable Pill for sale. Ladies, ask Druggist for Chichester's English Diamond Brand in Red and Gold metallic boxes sealed with blue ribbon. Take no other kind. Refuse Substitutions and Imitations. All pills in pasteboard boxes, pink wrappers, are dangerous counterfeits. At Druggists, or send us 4c. in stamps for particulars, testimonials, and "Relief for Ladies," in letter, by return Mail. 10,000 Testimonials. Name Paper. CHICHESTER CHEMICAL CO., Madison Square, PHILADELPHIA, PA. Sold by all Local Druggists.

GREATEST

Announcement

Ever Heard of!

BEGINNING

April 1,

—WE WILL GIVE AWAY—

TO THE TRADE at large, a handsome PARLOR ORGAN worth in the market $85.00, to the person who buys the highest amount of goods from One Dollar and upward at one time, for CASH ONLY, at our store up to Aug. 1st.

ALSO

A fine SUIT OF CLOTHES worth in the market $18.00 with the next highest amount purchased;

A nice Saratoga Trunk, worth in the market $8,00;

A fine pair of Ladies' French Kid Shoes, worth in the market $4 00,

A nice Fine Silk Umbrella, worth in the market $3.00;

We also give with this elegant instrument a handsome Organ Stool, and Instruction Book and a guarantee from the factory for five years. This instrument was just received from the factory and is bran new. Please call and see these articles. They are now on exhibition at our store. Remember they bear inspection.

Such an opportunity is not offered very often to obtain such elegant gifts for nothing. These goods which you buy you need anyway, and unless you find the prices satisfactory don't buy; and we will sell them to you as low as the lowest and defy competition in our line.

DON'T MISS THIS

Golden

Opportunity which will never be offered to you again.

Respectfully yours,

J. LŒWENSTEIN & CO.

No Money Required of Responsible Parties to Commence Treatment.

DRS. FRUTH,

Formerly of New York, now the celebrated Examining Physicians and Surgeons of the Fruth Medical and Surgical Institute, Chicago, Ill., by request of many Friends and Patients, have decided to visit AUBURN

MONDAY, JULY 6, 1891

Consultation and examination free and strictly confidential in the private parlors of the

SWINEFORD HOUSE,

From 1 to 6 p. m. ONE DAY ONLY.

DR. D. O. FRUTH, Celebrated Surgeon.

DR. A. C. FRUTH, Examining Physician.

—OF THE—

Fruth Medical and Surgical Institute.

Permanently established and incorporated under the laws of the state of Ill., with a capital stock of $100,000, for the scientific and successful treatment of all forms of Chronic and Sexual Diseases, Catarrh, Asthma, Stomach, Kidney, Bladder, Nervous and Spinal Diseases of Men and Women.

Ably assisted by a full staff of eminent physicians and surgeons for every department of medicine and surgery.

Female Diseases positively cured by a never failing method. A home treatment entirely harmless and easily applied. Consultation free and strictly confidential.

Dr Fruth after years of experience has perfected the most infallible method of curing Vital drain in Urine. Nocturnal losses, Impaired Memory, Weak Back, Melancholy, Want of Energy, Premature decline of the Manly Powers if consulted, idiocy, insanity, falling fits, or total impotency results. These terrible disorders arising from ruinous practices of youth, blighting the most radiant hopes, unfitting patients for study society or marriage, annually sweeping to an untimely grave thousands of young men of brilliant intellect and exalted talent.

Piles Cured without pain, knife or cautery.

Marriage. Married persons or young men contemplating marriage, aware of physical weakness, loss of procreative powers, impotency or other disqualification, speedily restored.

Epilepsy positively cured by our new and never failing Hospital treatment.

Kidney and Bladder Diseases. Bright's Disease, Diabetes and kindred maladies treated and cures effected in thousands of cases that had been pronounced beyond hope.

Private Diseases—Blood Poison, Syphillis, Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Stricture, Hydrocele, Varicocele, Loss of Sexual Power and all diseases of the genito-urinary organs speedily and permanently cured. No risks incurred. Consultation free and strictly confidential. Medicine sent free from observation to all parts of the United States.

Catarrh Cured.—Catarrhal affections of the nose, throat, lungs, and stomach, bronchitis, asthma, consumption and dyspepsia, successfully treated by the most recent and scientific methods which a vast hospital experience has proved worthy of confidence. We desire no better proof of success than the testimonials on file at the institute, of thousands of helpless cases that have been restored to health and happiness.

Free Examination of the Urine. Each person applying for medical treatment should send or bring an ounce of their urine, which will receive a careful chemical and microscopical examination.

Wonderful Cures Perfected in old cases which have been neglected or unskillfully treated. No experiments or failures. Parties treated by mail and express, but where possible, personal consultation is preferred. Curable cases guaranteed.

☞ Cases and Correspondence confidential. Treatment sent C. O. D. to any part of the U. S. List of 130 questions free. Address with postage, Dr. D. O. FRUTH, 89 East Madison Street, Chicago, Ill.

4c. LAWNS 4c.

5 & 6c CHALLIES,

Polka Dot Lawns, White and Black India Linens, White and Black Flouncings, Satteens, Ginghams, Prints,

Silk Mitts, 15c., to 75c.

SUMMER CORSETS 50C.

LADIES' VESTS AT 10C.

MRS. M. JONES & SON.

IRA BRANDON,

—Dealer in—

GROCERIES

—AND—

PROVISIONS.

A complete line of

STAPLE

....AND....

FANCY

GROCERIES

Constantly on hand.

Goods are always fresh.

Cash or Trade

....FOR....

Butter, Eggs, and Lard.

Call and see me.

North Main Street,

Opposite Woolen Mills.

County Assessor's Notice.

In order to facilitate the work of revising the assessments lists of of the different townships and corporations of DeKalb county, the following dates have been selected for each, and those persons residing in the townships and towns, and who desire a re-hearing, or who have complaints to be brought before the board for its action, are notified to appear before said board on the day named for each, which will be as follows:

Troy and Stafford townships	July	6
Concord and Newville townships	"	7
Jackson township	"	8
Butler "	"	9
Fairfield "	"	10
Smithfield "	"	11
Franklin "	"	13
Wilmington "	"	14
Grant and Keyser townships	"	15
Richland and Union "	"	16
Auburn town	"	17
Waterloo "	"	18
Garrett "	"	20
Butler "	"	21

SYLVESTER KUTZNER,
County Assessor.

June 23, 1891.

Dissolution of Co-partnership.

Notice is hereby given that the partnership heretofore existing between the undersigned, under the name of Fluke & Kline, as printers and publishers of the Auburn Times, has been dissolved by mutual agreement, and the interest of J. F. Kline transferred to the undersigned Frank E. Fluke, who will continue the business.

All claims and demands owing to said firm are transferred and payable to said Frank E. Fluke only.

FRANK E. FLUKE,
J. F. KLINE.

Auburn, Ind., June 8, 1891.

Notice to Contractors.

I will receive sealed bids for the construction of a brick school house in District No. 6, in Jackson Township, up to

Saturday, June 27, 1891,

at 10 o'clock a. m. Plans and specifications can be seen by calling on me at my office in District No. 2. I reserve the right to reject any and all bids.

J. J. WALTER, Trustee of Jackson Tp.

June 8, 1891.

To Colorado via BURLINGTON ROUTE

Only One Night on the Road.

Leave Chicago at 1:00 p. m., or St. Louis at 8:25 a. m., and arrive Denver 6:15 p. m. the next day. Through sleepers, chair cars and dining cars. All railways from the east connect with these trains and with similar trains via Burlington Route to Denver, leaving Chicago at 6:10 p. m., St. Louis at 8:15 p. m., and Peoria at 3:20 p. m., and 8:00 p. m. All trains daily. Tourists tickets are now on sale, and can be had of ticket agents of all roads and at Burlington Route depots in Chicago, Peoria and St. Louis. There is no better place than Colorado for those seeking rest and pleasure. 38

CORRESPONDENCE

WATERLOO.

Frank Blattner and wife are here on a visit.

Miss Hattie Smith made a trip over to Auburn Tuesday.

Saturday F. L. Forlow, an attorney of Hicksville, was in town.

Sunday evening children's day was observed at the Evangelical church.

Quite a number attended the old settlers' meeting at Auburn Thursday.

The revival meetings that were being held here closed Monday evening of this week.

R. J. Fisk is painting his residence. Mr. Mygrantz and son are doing the work.

Samuel Oberlin, of Massillon, Ohio, Sundayed with the family of Henry Rempis.

Wm. H. Leas, and wife and children returned from Sioux City on Tuesday morning.

Tuesday evening the 23d, the L. M. C. held the last session of their course for the year.

Our town is having a run of the old-fashioned measles, and it is no respecter of persons.

A fine residence is being built in Auburn by Williamson & Rickel for H. McCord.

A temperance meeting will be held in the Presbyterian church Thursday afternoon, the 25th.

Mrs. Clutter of Ft. Wayne has spent a few days here. Her son Dell has recently taken unto himself a wife.

Frank Fisk returned home Sunday morning from Mexico and Texas. His health is somewhat improved.

Mrs. Wm. Kennedy and Miss Daniels have gone this week to Ft. Wayne, Hartford City, and several other places.

The W. R. C. gave a strawberry and ice cream festival Saturday evening in the south room of the Abbey block.

Dell Locke and wife have been entertaining friends from Michigan for a week or more, who have now returned to home.

Abby and Lily Matson are back from the South, where the latter has been teaching for some time at Scotia Seminary.

Mrs. Hodge, of Auburn, and Mrs. Kline, of Warsaw, drove over last week Tuesday afternoon to call upon Mrs. Winslow.

Mr. Marvin and wife who have been visiting friends for several weeks in Auburn and Waterloo have returned to their home at Findlay.

The Picnic at Hamilton last week Tuesday was attended by persons from here and Auburn. Among those from here was Mrs. Frank Beidler.

Mrs. S. D. Long, of Auburn, was up here Tuesday to see the old neighbors. She lived here many years and still finds many old time friends to greet her.

Mrs. J. M. DeWeese, wife of the pastor of the M. E. church of Waterloo, and her son Carl, went last Tuesday to Goshen to attend the Ministerial Convention at Goshen.

Rev. Richard Locke has returned home from DePauw University. He preached one evening in the M. E. church during the series of meetings held there.

Mrs. Bigler and son, of Jackson, Mich., are visiting Mrs. Maggie Bigler. Tuesday evening they all went to Angola, intending to attend the picnic at Lake James and afterward visit in Angola.

Last Tuesday morning, as John St. Clair, who lives on Maple street, was preparing to attend church, he suffered from a sudden attack of heart trouble, from the effects of which he was slow to recover.

Our marshal refused to sell a license to some parties who wished to carry on a gambling scheme a few evenings since. He will make friends for himself among the best people in town if he continues as he has begun.

Every one should read Talmage's late sermon, "The Battle of the Creeds", published in the Toledo Weekly Bee and inside page of the Waterloo Press of last week. It is not only interesting, but contains a lesson for all.

The noted U. B. Publishing House case at Dayton, Ohio, involving over $300,000, which was appealed by the radicals from Judge Elliott's Common Pleas Court, has been on trial in the Circuit Court at Dayton, during a part of the past week, and will, likely, continue all this week. This is the most important case in the church and is looked to with much interest.

The post office in Waterloo is to be moved, and bids have been put in by owners of buildings desiring to rent. There is no suitable room north of the railroad, while there are several on the South side, and no reason why the post-office should not be located in one of them, aside from a desire on the part of those doing business at the north end to keep everything that way. Equal rights is justice to all.

Wednesday, the 17th, the Odd Fellows of Hamilton had extended the members of the same order at this place an invitation to attend a picnic, on that date, at Hamilton. Tuesday evening it rained very hard here also through the night at intervals, and literally poured much of the time Wednesday, yet quite a number from Waterloo accepted the invitation and went. They evidently were not afraid of cold water.

Mrs. Laura Booge, on the 17th of June, 1891, celebrated her 90th birth day, at Sioux City, Iowa, surrounded by many friends. There were nearly 50 of her relatives present. She was once numbered among the early settlers of Dekalb county, having settled in the north part of the county with her husband in the year 1846. Some time later the family moved to the town of Uniontown, now Waterloo, and while living at that place the husband, Harris Booge, was stricken with disease and died. His remains were laid to rest in the cemetery at Hamilton. The sons, having gone to Iowa in 1866, Mrs. Booge and her widowed daughter, Mrs Jones, left DeKalb county for Sioux City, where they have continued to reside since, and where the old lady now enjoys the good old age of four score years and ten.

Waterloo has beed visited by big rains for two weeks past, such as many never remember witnessing in the past. Some damage has been done to gardens; soil and plants being washed away. Among the cellars inundated are Wm. Patterson's, Phillip Morel's, Frank Beidler's and Craig Day's. The last the water was even with the windows, and flowing in and out through them. Among the incidents connected with the overflow, Mrs. Morel's vinegar barrel was afloat, the bung came out and the contents were wasted, twenty pounds of sugar were dissolved and sweet and acid thus mingled. Mrs. Beidler had a nice cake, but destined never to be eaten, as the water soaked it up. Mrs. Lehman never had water in her cellar before, but sufficient and to spare at this time. A field of potatoes east of the school house, was submerged for days, the tops rotted, and undoubtedly the whole are lost. Yet we have reason for thankfulness it was no worse. Sol. Fisher's fine celery garden was destroyed, as the county ditch was clogged up.

BUTLER.

The Tomlinson block is nearly completed.

Geo. Haskins has commenced the erection of his block.

William Goodchild, an old well-known resident of this township, was buried last week.

E. A. Campbell and wife, of Toledo, went from here to Glenn, Mich., to visit the former's sister.

Last Sunday was children's day at the M. E. church. The house was crowded and the occasion was an enjoyable one.

J. A. Campbell and wife were called to Pleasant Lake last week to attend the funeral of the latter's little niece, Ethel Sickles.

A large barn owned by Joseph Sewell, ex-county commissioner, one mile south of Hamilton, was destroyed by fire last Thursday night. Cause supposed to have been lightning. Loss between five and six hundred dollars. Insured in J. A. Campbell's agency.

Miss Sarah Imhoff, living two miles east of town, lies in a very critical condition, with litte hope of recovery. She recently submitted to a surgical operation for the purpose of removing an internal tumor. The operation proved unsuccessful and the physical shock has reduced her to a very precarious condition.

Rev. D. C. Woolpert, of Goshen, passed through here last week on his way to Hamilton, where he addressed the Daughters of Rebekah, on Hamilton island. The day was very unpropitious, the rain falling heavily nearly all the afternoon, and the island is half a mile from any kind of shelter. The chief attraction of the occasion was the new steamboat, which was near enough completed to make a trial trip. Great expectations are indulged in for next Saturday and Sunday, when Bill Gibson, "the wheel-horse of the Ohio G. A. R.", is expected to address the crowds that are expected to assemble to hear him on this noted artificial island.

May Credits.

Subscribers who paid during May have been properly credited and the printer made happy. Read this roll of honor:

Jotham Woolsey, H. H. Slaybaugh, W. B. Adams, Willis Bishop, J. B. Scott, G. F. Krestetter, Benj. Kline, H. H. Smith, J. M. Gœtschius, A. M. A. Miller, David B. Olinger, C. C. Walter, Ernest Peters, W. H. Thomas, James Bender, Frank Rush, Emma Sharritt, Samuel Watson, B. B. Dearborn, Wm. Wise, A. C. Gruhlke, Dr. Wm. Brevier, Henry Maxwell, G. L. Lanning, J. W. Smith, M. B. Swihart, Oron Bair, J. D. Likens, Geo. Smith, T. H. Leasure, Geo. H. Post, A. C. Koepple.

James T. Gott, Carmi, Ill., Says:

He paid thirty-one dollars doctor's bill for his wife in one year, and one bottle of Bradfield's Female Regulator did her more good than all the medicine taken before. H. DALE, Druggist, Carmi, Ill.

Write Bradfield Regl. Co., Atlanta, Ga., for particulars. Sold by F. E. Davenport and all druggists.

GARRETT'S FOURTH.

SHE WILL CELEBRATE.

—AND—

DE KALB COUNTY WILL HELP HER DO IT.

Read This!

Programme:

Industrial Parade.

Reading the Declaration, by Prof. F. M. Merica.

Oration, by Lev. A. L. Lamport, at 11, a. m.

Base Ball game, at 1, p. m.

Horse Racing, 1, p. m.

Bicycle, Sack, Foot and Wheelbarrow Races at 5 p. m.

Fireworks at 8, p. m.

The following program has been arranged for the races.

CLASS 1. Stake race. Free-for-all, trot or pace, open to horses owned in DeKalb Co. Entrance $3.00, association adds $20.00. Five to enter and three to start. Best 3 in 5, ½ mile heats.

CLASS 2. Stake race for gentlemen's drivers, open to horses that have never been tracked. Entrance $1, association adds $10. Five to enter and three to start. Best 3 in 5, two-thirds mile heats.

CLASS 3. Stake race for two-year-old trotters or pacers. Entrance $1, association adds $10. Five to enter and three to start. Best 2 in 3, one-third mile heats.

CLASS 4. Running, for branded ponies. Entrance free. Purse $5 to the winner. Best two in three, one-third mile dash.

All purses divided, first 66⅔ per cent and 33⅓ per cent, except running, which is $5 to the winner. Races called promptly at 1 p. m. and governed by the rules of the American trotting association. A horse distancing the field will only be entitled to first money. Entries close at 12 o'clock on day of races. Admission to the grounds free.

A. F. HALTER, Sec'y.
J. A. CLEVENGER, Pres.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder.

A Pure Cream of Tartar Powder. Superior to every other known. Used in Millions of Homes—40 Years the Standard.

Delicious Cake and Pastry, Light Flaky Biscuit, Griddle Cakes, Palatable and Wholesome.

No other baking powder does such work.

FIRE!

IN THE EYE OF

WILSON

The Shoe Man.

500 PAIRS SHOES

ALL KINDS

AT ACTUAL COST.

J. N. WILSON & SON,

NORTH SIDE OF SQUARE,

AUBURN, IND.

The total production of petroleum in this country in 1889 was 34,820,306 barrels, valued at $26,554,052. Indiana produced 32,758 barrels, and Illinois 1,460.

At Home.

Decatur, Ind., March 25, 1890

The Dr. Marshall Medicine Co.

Genslemen: Permit me to inform you that the medicine which I purchased of you, Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup, is the best medicine I ever used for bronchitis, asthma and coughs. I have for many years been troubled with bronchial affections and asthma, and I never found anything that so effectually removes these difficulties as Dr. Marshal's Lung Syrup. I consider it the best remedy known for bronchitis, asthma and coughs, all of which I am willing to attest by affidavit if demanded.

DAVID SHOWERS
ex-Probate judge of Adams Co.

Sold by F. E. Davenport.

O'Doncvan Rossa is going to Ireland, his term of twenty years' expatriation having expired last January. One purpose of his visit is to see what John Bull will do about it.

How to Succeed.

This is the great problem of life which few satisfactorily solve. Some fail because of poor health, others want of luck, but the majority from deficient grit—want of nerve. They are nervous, irresolute, changeable, easily get the blues and "take the spirits down to keep the spirits up," thus wasting money, time, opportunity and nerve force. There is nothing like the Restorative Nervine, discovered by the great specialist, Dr. Miles, to cure all nervous diseases, as headache, the blues, nervous prostration, sleeplessness, neuralgia, St. Vitus dance, fits, and hysteria. Trial bottles and fine book of testimonials free at F. E. Davenport. 5

The Mobile, Ala., Daily News has started a subscription for the purpose of making a special Mobile exhibit at the exposition. Amounts from five cents to five dollars are solicited.

Electric Bitters.

This remedy is becoming so well known and so popular as to need no special mention. All who have used Electric Bitters sing the same song of praise.—A purer medicine does not exist and it is guaranteed to do all that is claimed. Electric Bitters will cure all diseases of the Liver and Kidneys, will remove Pimples, Boils, Salt Rheum and other affections caused by impure blood.—Will drive Malaria from the system and prevent as well as cure all Malarial fevers.—For cure of Headache, Constipation and Indigestion try Electric Bitters—Entire satisfaction guaranteed, or money refunded.—Price 50cts. and $1.00 per bottle at Robbins & McCord's Drugstore. 5

Phillippoteaux, the celebrated panorama artist who painted the Battle of Gettysburg and other great works of the kind, wants to paint for the exposition a hugh panarama that shall illustrate the life of Columbus from his birth to his death.

A Splendid Horse Medicine.

Chamberlain's Immediate Relief has proven itself to be a great remedy for diseases among horses, and has been found especially effective in the treatment of colic. Read the following testimonial.

Millington, Ill., Feb. 6, 1888.

I have used the immediate Relief for horse medicine with great success, and have witnessed three horses die of colic simply for want of it

J. L. TASDALL.

Owners of horses are not safe in being without it. Get a bottle from your druggist and try it. Sold by all druggists. 3

TIME TABLE

THE WABASH LINE

TRAINS CARRYING PASSENGERS LEAVE

GOING EAST.

Atlantic Express	2:38 am—Daily
Boston Express	5:45 am—Daily
Detroit Accom'n	2:30 pm—ex Su
New York Limited	8:04 pm—Daily

GOING WEST.

Pacific Express	1:32 am—Daily
Logansport Accom'n	7:55 am—Daily
Mail and Express	12:38 pm—ex Su
Chicago & St. Louis Lim	5:12 pm—Daily
St. Louis	7:33 pm—Daily

No. 53 will only stop for Chicago passengers.

For rates, Tickets, Time Table, etc., apply to
I. M. ZENT, Agent,
Auburn, Ind.

T. H. SPROTT, City Ticket Agent.
CHAS. M. HAYS, Gen'l Manager.
F. CHANDLER, Gen'l Pass and Ticket Agent.

FORT WAYNE BRANCH L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE--In Effect June 7, 1891.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations—	Mail.	Exp'ss	Fre'gt.
Fort Wayne,...dp	11 50 am	4 40 pm	6 40 am
New Era	12 20 pm	5 22	7 29
Auburn Junc.	12 31	5 33	7 45
Auburn	12 34	5 36	8 05
Waterloo	12 46	5 47	9 20
Summit	12 55	5 57	10 00
Pleasant Lake	1 05	6 07	10 20
Angola	1 13	6 18	10 45
Fremont	1 27	6 34	11 20
Reading	1 53	7 04	1 07 pm
Bankers	2 00	7 15	1 45
Hillsdale	2 12	7 30	......
Ft. Wayne Junc.	2 23	7 39	2 45
Jonesville	2 25	7 41	2 50
Jackson	3 30	8 40	5 10

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations—	Freight	Exp'ss	Mail
Jackson........dp	6 45 am	11 15 am	6 30 am
Jonesville	8 50	12 10 pm	7 23
Ft. Wayne Junc.	8 55	12 15	7 25
Hillsdale	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Bankers	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Reading	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Fremont	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Angola	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Pleasant Lake	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Summit	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Waterloo	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Auburn	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Auburn Junc.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
New Era	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Fort Wayne	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]

For rates on tickets or freight to all points, call on or address E. T. DELAPP, Agent at Auburn. The Lake Shore via Cleveland in connection with the Erie, and P. & L. E. R. R. forms the quickest and most direct route to Pittsburgh.

Business College.

You can secure a good paying position by attending Parson's Business College, and Normal Institute, Kalamazoo, Mich.

Short Hand

Established twenty-two years. 5,000 of its Students employed in all parts of the United States. Only $5 for the summer term in the Normal Department, which opens July 6. Send for catalogue.

W. F. PARSONS, Pres.

TO WEAK MEN

Suffering from the effects of youthful errors, early decay, wasting weakness, lost manhood, etc., I will send a valuable treatise (sealed) containing full particulars for home cure, FREE of charge. A splendid medical work; should be read by every man who is nervous and debilitated. Address, Prof. F. C. FOWLER, Moodus, Conn.

Recorder's Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XXI. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY JULY 2, 1891. NUMBER 27.

Rickel & Sprott

—Have—

Money

TO LOAN

IN SUMS OF

$1,000

And Up,

AT 6 PER CENT.

Apply at once, as the amount is limited. Apply to

RICKEL & SPROTT,

Real Estate and Immigration Ag'ts,

Under Farmers Bank, AUBURN, IND.

The most beautiful unmarried royal girl in all Europe is the Princess Alex of Hesse-Darmstadt.

A Little Girl's Experience in a Lighthouse.

Mr. and Mrs. Loren Trescott are keepers of Gov. Lighthouse at Sand Beach, Mich., and are blessed with a daughter, four years old. Last April she was taken down with measles, followed with a dreadful cough and turning into a fever. Doctors at home and at Detroit treated her, but in vain, she grew worse rapidly, until she was a mere handful of bones. Then she tried Dr. King's New Discovery and after the use of two and a half bottles, was completely cured. They say Dr. King's New Discovery is worth its weight in gold, yet you may get a trial bottle free at Robbins & McCord's drugstore. 6

Mrs. Seward Webb of New York, it is said, drives four blood bays as gracefully as the best male whips of that city.

A Prominent Farmer.

Mr. Nicholas Wagoner, of Monroe, Ind., gives us the following statement in regard to Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup. He says: I have used a great many different kinds of medicines for bronchitis, a disease I have had for the last ten years, and found nothing that would relieve me until I commenced to use Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup. I took ten 50c. bottles of this medicine and was entirely cured, and can recommend it to any person that is suffering from this disease. NICHOLAS WAGONER.

Sold by F. E. Davenport.

Professor R. Garner, the noted scientist, claims to have discovered that monkeys have a language.

Sudden Deaths.

Heart disease is by far the most frequent cause of sudden death, which in three out of four cases is unsuspected. The symptoms are not generally understood. These are: a habit of lying on the right side, short breath, pain or distress in side, back or shoulder, irregular pulse, asthma, weak and hungry spells, wind in stomach, swelling of ankles or dropsy, oppression, dry cough and smothering. Dr. Miles' illustrated book on heart disease, free at F. E. Davenport's who sells and guarantees Dr. Miles' unequaled New Heart Cure, and his Restorative Nervine, which cures nervousness, headache, sleeplessness, effects of drinking, etc. It contains no opiates. 6

Mrs. P. T. Barnum is on her way to Europe, and will probably spend some time with her family at Bury, Lancashire, and go with them to their seaside resort at Blackpool.

Our Leading Druggists.

F. E. Davenport is a wide awake business man securing that which he knows will give satisfaction to his customers. He has just received a fresh supply of Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup, the favorite cough medicine, and they are selling more of this remedy than all others combined. This being the case there must certainly be great merit in this medicine as it is giving such universal satisfaction. You can buy it of F. E. Davenport.

LOUIS WOLF & CO.,

54 Calhoun St., - - FORT WAYNE, Ind.

CARPET DEPARTMENT

is stacked to the ceiling with a magnificent line of carpets.

Moquettes, that are NEW in pattern and delicate, soft tone, color almost too beautiful to walk on.

VELVETS

54 inches wide, don't cost any more proportionately than the narrow goods, because of the width you have less seams in your carpet. The pile won't sweep or pull out. New patterns in BODY BRUSSELS, and at a price a little lower than elsewhere. Magnificent line of tapestries, and all of them are private patterns to us in this market.

We show the full line of Lowell Ingrains. They are prettier this year than ever before, and the price is right. New styles of Portie s and Chenille curtains. Large line of Lace Curtains and Swiss Muslin. Mats, Rugs, Matting and Window Shades. We will send our Upholsters to your city to lay your new carpets. We employ only strictly first-class workmen.

DRESS GOODS.

Our stock of Dress Goods is complete in every detail. Prices the lowest Spring Jackets, Reefers and capes in great variety.

LOUIS WOLF & CO.,

54 Calhoun St., FORT WAYNE, Ind.

☞ Mail Orders Promptly Attended to

GROVER CLEVELAND.

A Man of Surface Blemishes and of Sturdy Ingrain Excellency.

(Brooklyn Eagle.)

He is a great deal larger man than he was in mental respects when he left Buffalo to become governor and left Albany to become president. He believed he knew it all then and he does not believe now that he knows half of it. He believed then that a difference of opinion from his own was a form of personal affront. He does not always consider that to be an evidence of moral obliquity at the present time. He then had no confidence in applied politics and little in politicians, even of the very highest grade. He knows now that applied politics would have preserved the presidency to his party and that politicians of the highest grade, had their advice been followed, would have secured his re-election instead of his party's defeat. He is as much of a reformer as he ever was. He is as little of a tactician as he ever was, but he is more of a human being than he used to be.

It must be confessed, also, that while his want of consideration for others, his estimate of effective help as a bar to preferment, his theory of intimate personal acquaintance as an exile from cooperative effort and his blunt, gruff, rasping personal ways were and are at times repelling, nevertheless, his truth telling honesty, the fact that his yea is yea and his nay is nay, his hostility to jobbers, the ease with which he kept and keeps schemers and rascals at arm's length, and the almost pathetic conception which he had and has of the people as a collective personality and of public office as a pulpit trust, rendered and render him a wholesome, forcible and clarifying power in public and political affairs. Of the people he was never afraid and of him the mousing politicians were always afraid. With the latter he made no trades or bargains. By them he was seldom deceived and never intimidated.

Neither a man nor a nation can get all the desirable qualities in harmonious union in one person. The American people pretty well know the surface blemishes and the sturdy ingrain excellency of Grover Cleveland. The blemishes have offended quite a number and made them into personal enemies, but, after all, they do not average a hundred in a million or hardly more than that to the sixty-six millions of our citizenship On this account, his presidential availability, not to say indispensibility, has hardly been impaired, even by his own mistakes, while his trimming, burrowing, or scheming opponents have proved to be, by contrast, the very best helpers that his "boom" could possibly have.

Platform of Democratic Editors.

The Democratic state editorial association met at Maxinkuckee last week, and among other important work adopted a series of resolutions, which, to a certain extent foreshadow the lines upon which they propose to make the political fight. Here they are:

The so called protective policy, which is now the sole inspiration of republicanism, is repugnant to democratic theories of government, and we renew the oft-repeated demand of our party in national convention that the tariff shall be reduced to a strictly revenue basis. We regard the appropriation of money out of the public funds for corporation or individual, advantage as a singular perversion of the spirit of our laws, which distinctly forbid legislation granting special privileges, and we regard subsidies, whether to rich steamship companies or wealthy sugar planters, as an intolerable attempt to revive feudal principals and customs.

In general terms we approve the course of the several general assemblies in which the democrats have had the majority, but we wish particularly to give our cordial endorsement to the new election law; the several acts guarding the interests of miners and other laboring people, and the tax law passed by the last legislature, which will insure a fuller return of property values than we have ever had before, compelling owners of property who have heretofore escaped, to bear their just proportion of taxation.

Believing that the purpose of the tax law is to promote justice and prevent unfair discrimination, we urge its strict observance upon all officials charged with its administration, and warn those who would evade or disobey its provisions that the penalties for so doing will be enforced.

Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly.

Some very interesting recollections of the Empress Eugenie and the Court of Tuileries comprise the leading article in the July number of Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly. It was written especially for this magazine by Mme. Carette, nee Bouvet, author of "Souvenirs de la Cour des Tuileries," "Madame Campan," etc., and translated by Mrs. Frank Leslie. The article is charmingly written, and is accompanied by many fine illustrations, including a new portrait of the Empress. This number of the magazine also contains the following illustrated articles: "Some Distinguished Literary Women of America," by Mrs. Van Etten Mack: "On a Chilian Hacienda," by J. S. Whitman; "A Summer Among the Icebergs;" "Pleasures and Pains of Golf;" "An old Mexican Sport;" "A Ferrara Pilgrimage," by Herbert Pierson, and "The National Storehouse of Wealth." Nelly Hart Woodworth contributes another of her delightful bird papers, and William Curtis gives a good explanation of Secretary Blaine's Reciprocity policy. A new installment of the serial "John Maggs, Barbarian," by Scott Campbell, is given; and there are five interesting short stories.

Alliance Picnic in Boots' Grove.

Saturday, June 20, was the day set and looked forward to, by many of the farmers in the southern part of the county, as one of recreation to them. At a glance one could not help observing that no little effort had been put forth to make this a gala day, and one long to be remembered. The grove selected for the occasion was one of the finest resorts in DeKalb county, and with its drooping foliage and flowers, was very suggestive and would certainly have been an acceptable place to Tennyson and Lord Byron or any, who might seek consolation and inspiration from nature.

Until noon, there was one continuous string of teams drawing vehicles loaded with people and spring chickens. The ceremonies were under the direction of several of the leading farmers of Jackson township, John S. Boots, being unanimously chosen as marshal of the day. The latter fact, is ample assurance that nothing was left undone that had any tendency to make everyone comfortable. Three bands of good music enlivened the occasion at intervals during the day and evening. A number of good speakers were present and spoke to a very appeciative audience. Among the speakers of the day, was Hon. Freeman Kelley, who spoke in the forenoon, after which an hour of social intermingling and feasting was had. In the afternoon Mrs. Lou. Snyder, of Newcastle, occupied the stand for two hours and spoke in the midst of great applause. Mrs. Snyder displayed great intellect and power as an orator, and presented the apparent mysteries of the Alliance in various channels, in such a way that a mere child could not fail to comprehend the great and good principles upon which this party is founded. Her whole heart and mind seemed to be entwined with the cause of Farmers' Alliance, and the truth and light she put on the subject will be of inestimable value to the Alliance in DeKalb county.

Communicated.

EDITOR COURIER: I wish to make a statement through your paper in justice to the Hon. Freeman Kelley. Last week when the picnic notes were published in the St. Joe items, I discovered that the item in reference to Mr. Kelley's speech was so changed as to give it a ridiculous composition on the part of the correspondent, or in other words a burlesque on Mr. Kelley. I would also state that a part of the item reflecting credit on Mr. Kelley was left out. I merely make this statement to set the public right and not have them believe that I am a greater blockhead than the editor.

BOOTS' SCHOOL HOUSE CORRESPONDENT.

Fort Wayne will have the next S. of V. Encampment.

Last week the annual encampment of the Indiana Division, Sons of Veterans, was held at LaFayette, Ind. Delegates from the camps over the state assembled at the meeting, and the interest that was taken by them was extraordinary. Col. J. W. Newton, of Winchester, presided over the meeting with impartiality and precision. He was elected Colonel of this division at the encampment held at Evansville last year. His efficiency in that important office was of such a prominent character that he was re-elected by an enormous vote. He will serve as colonel for another year. The elective staff of officers for the division, is as follows: Col., J. W. Newton, of Winchester; Lieut. Col., Will G. Beech, of Indianapolis; Maj., Harry S. Martin; Division Council, E. S. Walker, of West Lebanon, Geo. C. Harvey, of Danville, Fremont Garrett, of Winchester. The staff of appointive officers will be secured later on. The assembly decided by a majority vote that the next encampment be held at Fort Wayne.

The city of LaFayette threw its doors of hospitality wide open to the Sons. In fact the Mayor got out in the gay procession of "boys" and played the fife for them. Everything was done to make the meeting a success in every respect, so far as the citizens of that quiet, old town had anything to do with it. After the boys marched out to the old battle ground and cemetery, the people made them promise to put up a monument in honor of the Tippecanoe heroes. We believe the boys will get a royal welcome to the city of Fort Wayne. Our knowledge of the people there, is, that they know full well how to entertain their guests when in the city. Then, too, there are a great many reasons why a pleasant meeting can be had there.

B. & O. Excursions.

The B. & O. Ry., will sell tickets for for the following excursions, at one fare for round trip, except the last one, which has $2 added. They are:

July 3 to 13th, to the W. R. C. Annual Campmeeting at Mountain Lake, Md.

Fourth of July Excursions from all stations, at half fare. Sold July 3 and 4, and good returning July 6.

To Ohio State Teachers' meeting at Lake Chautaqua, N. Y., July 7 to 9, tickets good the 13th.

To the great Labor Meeting, Steubenville, Ohio, July 6. Good for July 7.

For National Educational Meeting at Toronto, Canada, July 14 to 17, for half fare, plus $2, good returning the 20th. Address your local agents, or L. S. Allen, A. G. P. A., Chicago.

SCHAAB & BRO.

DRY GOODS,

CLOTHING,

CARPETS.

Scorching hot weather — just what we have been expecting; therefore we are prepared to show you a line of wash dress goods, summer coats and vests, light underwear, mitts, fans, parasols, straw hats, &c., much larger than we have ever shown before, all at popular prices.

You should see our stock of Pongee Cloths at 15c. They are going fast.

Challies at 8, 10 AND 20c

Choice Patterns and Elegant Materials.

Summer Coats and Vests for men and boys, all styles and prices. We are sure to please you here.

Underwear for everybody. We have what you want and the price will suit you. Give us your patronage and we will try hard to please you. Yours, respectfully,

Schaab& Bro

THREE Pozzoni's POINTS

COMPLEXION

POWDER: SAFE; CURATIVE; BEAUTIFYING. 1. 2. 3.

THREE White, Flesh, Brunette. 1 2 3 POZZONI'S All Druggists AND Fancy Stores. TINTS

I am laden with freight
From the golden gate.
To lands across the sea.
I carry sweet hope
With SANTA CLAUS SOAP,
As a cargo
clear as can be.
SANTA CLAUS SOAP
Made only by
N. K. FAIRBANK & CO. CHICAGO.
ASK YOUR GROCER FOR IT.

"Some lives are like
Horse shoes
the more worn the brighter."
Busy wives who use SAPOLIO never seem to grow old. Try a cake...

A complete wreck of domestic happiness has often resulted from badly washed dishes, from an unclean kitchen, or from trifles which seemed light as air. But by these things a man often judges of his wife's devotion to her family, and charges her with general neglect when he finds her careless in these particulars. Many a home owes a large part of its thrifty neatness and its consequent happiness to SAPOLIO.

☞ Grocers often substitute cheaper goods for SAPOLIO, to make a better profit. Send back such articles, and insist on having just what you ordered.

AUBURN AND VICINITY.

Some Reminiscences of its Early Days and Pioneer Citizens.

1849,—Continued.

William Clark and Joel Hendricks are remembered as prominent teachers of this date. The former for his interest in elocution and the latter for mathematical instruction. To receive the benefits of each educator, enterprising farmers sent sons and daughters to their schools, just as many others have done and are still doing, much to the benefit of the country youth and the schools themselves.

Mr. Clark taught in a humble frame school house that stood on a lot now owned and occupied by Mrs. Regina Weaver, and which, moved to the north end of Cedar street, was till his death the abode of old John Moore, the woodsawyer.

Mr. Hendricks opened and continued a school through the winter of 1849 and '50, his school room as heretofore being the northeast room, in the second story of the then court house on terms previously required.

County affairs ran smoothly. Licenses to sell liquor were granted in 1849, on payment of $15.00. The prosecuting attorney was allowed an annual salary of $50.00 and A. C. Morton, publisher and editor of the Indiana Review was at the December session of the board of commissioners, allowed $140.25 for publishing the delinquent list of taxes in DeKalb county.

The Indiana Review was published at Angola, Steuben county and the first number was issued in June of 1849. Its motto was the couplet:

> "To win a nation's pure and just applause,
> Give few and simple, but comprehensive laws."

Which advice, however good, seems both by legislation and the congress to have been wholly ignored and the reverse course followed.

It does not appear that Auburn at as early a date as 1849, was visited by a daguerrean artist but it is possible since in the fall of this year, E. J. Cadwell stopped for a few days in towns and villages and advertized his ability to take correct likeness. Who does not or did not at some time have one or more of those pictures, named after the inventor? The picture to be held at such an angle to see the likeness, was of greater fidelity to nature than the ambrotype, and photograph from many a modern gallery.

The marriage of Dr. Wm. B. Dancer, of Auburn, to Miss Julia A. Poag, of Savannah, by the Rev. J. T. Bliss on Nov. 8, 1849, was published in the Indiana Review and thus we learn that to the office of town assessor, and school master was added that of medical practicioner, but the day has come when only the specialist in chosen calling succeeds.

1850.

It may be truthfully recorded of the men who composed the first town board of Auburn that they served without salary and accepted office solely for the best interests of the town. At this time the office sought the man and having found him it was enacted in section 5, of the bylaws governing the corporation "that any person who shall be elected or appointed to any office in this town and shall neglect or refuse to qualify and serve, or shall neglect or refuse to perform any duty required of him, shall at the discretion of the board of trustees be fined in any sum not less than one dollar, nor over five dollars.

There being no record of any fines having been imposed, it is evident that at no time in the history of the town, has there been any difficulty in finding competent men to accept its office and perform their duties regardless of compensation.

Economy in those first years was the rule and when the board finally met April 3, 1850, the first claims for allowances were presented. They were comprised in twelve numbers issued to four persons and aggregated but $24.00.

Six of these claims amounting to $10, were for services of T. R. Dickinson as town clerk: one for $6 was allowed John Rosser & Bro. stationers, for blank orders and receipts; four claims amounting to $5.50 were allowed Nelson Payne for blank books, and on May 2, Wm. B Dancer was allowed $2.50 for services as assesser of the town.

The first general election held as now on the first Monday of May, took place at the court house on May 6, 1850. Messrs. Park, Parsons and Payne, trustees and Mr. Dickinson, clerk were present and Mr. Parsons was appointed president for the time.

At this election 43 votes were cast, resulting in the re election of the old board excepting Wesley Park, who having for competitor, Thomas J. Freeman and each receiving 18 votes, there was no choice for the second ward. A special election was held to fill vacancy Sept. 4, and A. Plum was elected by a light vote. No business was transacted during the summer and the board organized Oct 2, with Payne, president; Dickinson, clerk; Dancer, assessor, and Griswold was appointed town treasurer with John Morris as surety on bond of $500.

The assessment was made 25cts on the $100 valuation and the board concluded their session by ordering "that the meeting of Nov. Dec. Jan. and Feb. be dispensed with."

The town offered at this time few attractions. It was the promise of the future which held residents and brought in others; as some came hopeful, others doubtful or despairing of the distant boom of prosperity, sought elsewhere a realization of their hopes.

(To be continued next week.)

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Choice Selection of Interesting Items.

SEDALIA, Mo., has a park which nobody can get to.

THE tallest man in Parsons, Kan., is named A. Short Inch.

THE largest library is the Imperial, of Paris, which contains over 2,000,000 volumes.

A DELAWARE peach-grower says it doesn't take a frost to kill the setting blossoms. A cold wind will do it as effectually.

THE original whale was quite a male-carrier, but Jonah probably first impressed upon him the need of a free-delivery system.

THE bullet in the new Germany military rifle has the shape of a cigarette. It ought to prove a deadly missile.

A "CLOSED season" for the mouth of the Marquis di Rudini would conduce to the comfort of nations.

A RESIDENT of New Moorefield, Ohio, has a cat which has adopted an infant skunk and is as attached to it as to her own kittens.

A MAN who maintains a crow farm in Michigan has been arrested on complaint of his neighbors. He will probably be indicted for caws.

A TENNESSEE country newspaper has discovered that roaches can fly like grasshoppers, and can be seen late at night coming home to roost.

DURING the past year there were over 5,000,000 pieces of matter withdrawn from the mails because of incorrect or insufficient addresses.

A THIEF in female costume arrested in New York the other day proved to be a man who had been wearing women's clothes for a number of years.

THE first consignment of samples of Chinese tobacco has been received by London brokers. China is desirous of competing in European markets.

THE Czarewitch, during his Indian tour, required no less than thirty tongas or carts for his luggage and about 300 pairs of ponies to draw the same impediments.

GAS is sold in Plymouth, England, by a private company at 42 cents per 1,000 feet; in Leeds at 44 cents per 1,000 by the local authority. In both places a good profit is made.

THE pay-roll of the servants alone of George W. Child's country place at Bryn Mawr amounts $1,000 a month. This is said to be the finest country residence in the United States.

PEDESTRIANISM has a unique exemplar just now in the person of a man who is walking from Paris to Moscow on stilts. He keeps the Parisians posted on his progress by short letters to a popular paper.

TO PUNISH two disobedient pupils, a schoolmistress in Chillicothe, Ohio, tied their hands against a stove-pipe. She then deliberately consumed paper in the stove until the children's hands were severely burned.

THE world is full of women who marry widowers, and learn to think a great deal of their children, but you will seldom see a man who thinks anything of his wife's children by her first marriage. And yet there are people who will sit up and say that men and women are alike.

DOES a man ever know when he is talking too much?. A man will get up knowing he is limited to five minutes, and will talk half an hour, although he knows that he is duller than a case knife. In an entertainment where there are to be short speeches, a Coat Tail committee should be appointed to sit behind a man and pull him down by his coat tails when he has said enough.

THE man who gets up early is a great bore. He usually has no other accomplishments, and is not satisfied to get up, and let others sleep; he knocks around, so that every one around the house may know that the early riser is stirring, and that it is time for others to get up. If a man can sleep until 8 o'clock, and can accommodate his business to those hours, he is a fool not to do it.

SOME years ago a Kansas preacher who was stationed at a town in the northern part of the State did not get on well with his congregation. To get rid of him, the Governor was prevailed upon to appoint him Chaplain in the penitentiary. When the time came for him to depart, he preached a farewell sermon to his congregation. There was nothing in the sermon at which anybody could take offense, but some of the members did not like the text, which was: "I go to prepare a place for you, so that where I am ye may be also."

A TOMB containing two sepulchral urns, one of which contains the ashes of Ecloge, the nurse of the Emperor Claudius Nero, and the other those of his mistress Acte, who was converted to Christianity by St. Paul, has been discovered in Rome in the Vigna Nuova, off the Via Salara, outside of the Salara gate. The tomb is the cemetery of Domitian's famil, where the ashes of Nero himself were also buried. The inscription mentions that Ecloge's ashes were placed there in accordance with her request that they might be interred near those of her nursling, the Emperor.

ACCORDING to the St. Louis Globe-Democrat Postmaster General Wanamaker says the chief temptation that Californians have got to fight is ease of making a living and wealth. The California climate is too mild, the conditions of life are too gracious, and money is made too rapidly. The best human traits are developed in a country where one must struggle against a long, cold winter. The California winter is so mild that it seems as if no one in the State has any need of self denial. Then, the country is so rich, the farmer gets big returns from his land.

THE large indebtedness of the Prince of Wales gets others into trouble rather than himself. First there are his creditors who live in hopes that sometime, when he becomes king, he will have income sufficient to pay them. Now an English editor, who had the indiscretion to allude to the Prince's debts has been discharged, and is bringing suit for continued pay under his old contract. He offers to prove that what he has published is the truth, and asks that the Prince be obliged to appear in court and testify. All this does not add to the strength of monarchial feeling in England. It has been steadily declining the past thirty years.

AN old and famous policeman of Gotham insists that a police club is a clumsy instrument only in the hands of clumsy men. Artistic clubbers, he says, find that to handle a club well is to learn a deep and nice science. The perfect master of a club can hit a blow that will crack a crown, or he can deliver a thump that will stun a man and yet raise no lump or sign of a bruise; better yet, a true adept can hit a man so as to make a clean, fine cut as with a knife blade. While the policeman told what could be done with a club his hearer thought of the advice of a distinguished New Yorker uttered years ago: "Don't ever let a policeman hit you with a club. No matter how brave you are, run before you're hit. A blow with a locust may develop insanity or paralysis ten years afterward."

IN a new book of "Recollections" which has appeared in England this little glimpse is afforded of Mrs. Somerville: One day Sir George Back, the arctic explorer, was sitting beside her, without knowing her, at Mrs Murray's table. They were getting on capitally together until, as they were laughing and chaffing, some one addressed her as Mrs. Somerville. "Now," exclaimed the lady, "you have spoiled it all," for the old sailor's countenance suddenly became grave. "What," said he, "are you the celebrated authoress of 'The Mechanism of the Heavens?'" Sir George (adds the relator of this anecdote) was eating turbot. The celebrated authoress of "The Mechanism of the Heavens" had hanging sleeves with long fringes; and he was so much confused that he thrust his fork through the fringe and put it in his mouth instead of the fish.

NOBODY thinks of New Jersey as a possible rival of California in the making of wine or as a competitor with France in the growing of grapes, yet time may prove it such. The first grape growing in New Yersey was done in the sandy region around Bridgeton and Vineland, but the industry has since followed the pinery sand belt almost to South Ambroy, and grapes are now considered in the categories of half the farmers of Ocean and Monmouth counties. There have been bad years recently, when there was overproduction, but nothing has hindered the growth of the business, and this year more acreage than ever is devoted to grapes. There is as yet no wine making to speak of, but the outlook is that we shall presently all be drinking New Jersey claret and wondering whether it comes from France or California.

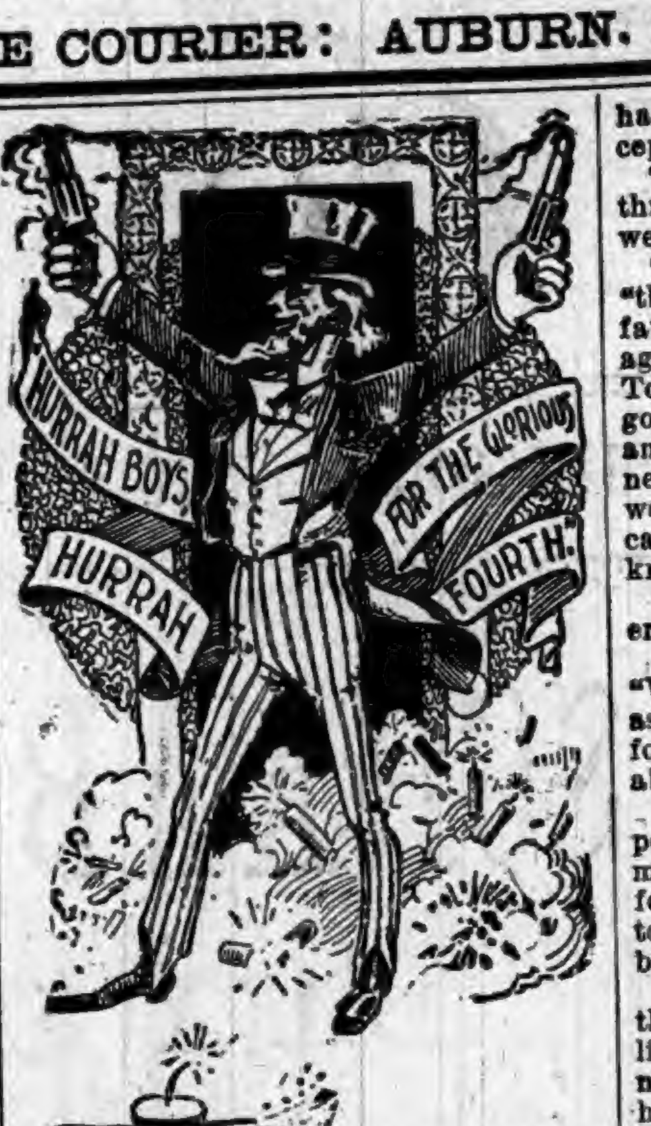
EDUCATION is making great strides in Egypt, and the natives are beginning to show appreciation of the advantages of the reorganized Government schools. In 1887 there were only twelve schools under the Minister of Public Instruction, with an attendance of 1,919 pupils, of whom only 50 per cent. paid fees, and the total receipts were £9,000. Last year the number of these schools throughout the country, as far south as Assuan, open to all races and creeds, was forty-seven; the attendance was 7,307, of whom 62 per cent. were paying pupils, and the receipts reached nearly £20,000. This increase is significant, as education is not compulsory. It is a rule, however, that all pupils must learn either English or French, and it is significant that whereas in 1889 only 14 per cent. of them selected English, in 1890 the proportion rose to 23 per cent.

Bears as Pets.

"Bears make good pets," said a Lieutenant recently. "When I was in the revenue service at Alaska we had one on the boat and he made things hum. We named him Wineska. He used to climb to the crosstrees, going up hand over hand by the ratlins. One day he ventured out on the yardman, and there he staid. We had to get a rope and haul him down. When we were in the cabin he would back down the companion-way and come to us for his mess of gorg. He dearly loved rum, and molasses. Once he vaulted over the head of our Chinese cook and went into the lockers, where he helped himself to sugar and butter. We had a tackling made for him, much the same as a harness of a pet pug, and we would drop him overboard, with a rope attached, to take his bath. Once he landed in a native boat and nearly frightened the occupants out of their wits. We was as playful as a kitten, and although he sometimes disobeyed he was never treacherous or unkind. When he was lost or hid himself, as he often did, we would look in the dark till we saw two little balls of fire. These were his eyes and gave him away every time."

Don't Want to Shave.

The waiters of Paris have risen in revolt against the custom which decrees that they shall shave their faces. They are said to be the only class of men in France who are not now at liberty to do what they like with their faces, and they demand that the condition which signifies the nature of their occupation shall be removed.



THE glorious Fourth of July was close at hand, but this fact did not call forth any great amount of enthusiasm from the grown people of Springville. They seemed to think that they had done their whole duty when they invited an out-of-town orator to read the Declaration of Independence and make a speech.

On some occasions—very rare ones, however—they satisfied their patriotic scruples by going to the expense of having a balloon ascension. But on the Fourth of which I write no such excitement as this was to be given us.

The great day that we boys looked forward to with so much pleasure was considered by our fathers and mothers as a day of noise and accidents, and they were glad when it was over.

But the younger portion of the population of Springville amply made up for the enthusiasm that was lacking in their sires. This was especially true of us four boys, Tom Parks, Joe Blake, Frank Brown, and myself.

On the 2d of July we met by appointment at the band-stand in the square. Of course the general topic of conversation was the approaching holiday and the part we were to take in its observance.

For several weeks previous, we, together with the other village boys, had spent all our spare moments in collecting barrels and other materials to be used in making a big bonfire on the square on the night before the Fourth.

Besides this general attempt at celebration, the boys individually had been saving up their spare pennies, all of which they felt in duty bound to spend on their nation's birthday.

This was the condition of affairs when we met at the band-stand for our last consultation.

"How much money have you saved up?" asked Tom Parks of Frank Brown.

The question was repeated, and it was shown that Tom Parks had $1.15, Joe Blake $1.20, Frank Brown 98 cents, while I had been able to lay by just $1.08.

"Four dollars and forty-one cents," said Joe, after a few seconds' work at mental arithmetic. "Quite a lot, ain't it?"

Our combined savings did seem large.

"Now," said Joe, "I've been thinking of a way to spend that money."

"Oh, that's easy enough!" grumbled Frank, to whom it was a task of self-abnegation to save money, even for a Fourth of July celebration.

Frank's observation was overlooked, and we asked Joe what his proposition was

Joe was, by reason of his superiority in years and experience, our acknowledged leader, and whatever suggestion he made was generally received by us with favor.

"I suggest," said Captain Joe, "that we club together and buy a lot of powder, fireworks and other necessaries, and have a little celebration of our own to finish up the Fourth. You know the town's celebration this year is to be rather a slim affair, and I think with what money we have we can get up quite a little surprise for the people old and young."

"That's so! Wonder we haven't thought of it before," cried we in chorus.

"Our celebration must be a surprise," continued Joe. "I'll borrow father's wheelbarrow to-night, and Tom and I will go to Pottsfield (things are cheaper there than they are here) and buy all the fireworks we can for the money."

Frank, who had determined to include candies and cakes among his items of expense on the Fourth, suggested as an amendment that we each reserve a small part of our savings for contingencies, and this, by general consent, was agreed upon.

Frank was not the only one of us who had a sweet tooth.

"We must get some powder for the cannon," said Joe.

"And for my old musket," put in Frank.

"Is that old relic in existence yet?" put in Tom!

"Yes; it's alive and kicking," replied Frank.

Of the latter part of Frank's statement we have no doubt, for it was a fact well known to us all that the old weapon was possessed of the habits of an ill-natured mule.

Each of us had some advice to offer in regard to what should be purchased for our celebration, and before we parted that day Joe and Tom had a full list of what they were to buy.

Early that evening they started on their mission, while Frank and I eagerly awaited their return.

Pottsfield was only two miles away, and the boys ought to have been back at nine o'clock, but it was fully ten before we heard the creaking of the wheelbarrow announcing their return. Frank and I hastened to examine the purchases, and it was evident that the boys had chosen the articles with an eye to quantity rather than quality.

There were two pounds of powder in an old iron kettle, fire-crackers in all shapes and sizes, and other parcels of pyrotechnics too numerous to mention.

After we had sufficiently examined the contents of the wheelbarrow, the question was asked:

"Where shall we put all this stuff?"

By this time our folks were doubtless in bed, where we ought to have been also, and the barns and sheds locked, so that there seemed to be no opportunity of secreting the goods at our homes. We had not thought of this in our previous planning.

"Say, fellows," whispered Joe, suddenly, "why can't we hide it under the bandstand?"

The place referred to was a hexagonal, box-like affair that stood in the public square at the base of the flagstaff. It was three or four feet high, and this elevated platform was occupied by the local band on occasions like the one now approaching. The sides were composed of lattice-work, painted green, and the space under the floor was used by the authorities to stow away various articles belonging to the town for which no immediate use could be found.

It was close to the spot where we had halted for consultation, and leaving the barrow in the shadow of a fence, we hastened to examine it as a possible receptable for our goods.

"Just the thing," said Tom, peering through the lattice-work. "But how can we get in? The door is locked."

"Oh, that is easy enough," said Joe; "there's a loose board in the floor that father intended to nail down some time ago" (Joe's father was janitor of the Town Hall.), "but luckily for us he forgot to do so. We can pry up the board and drop our fireworks into the space beneath, where they'll be safe enough till we can get them out. I'm pretty sure I can borrow the key, without father's knowing it, to-morrow or next day."

"But if it rains," objected Tom, "everything will be spoiled."

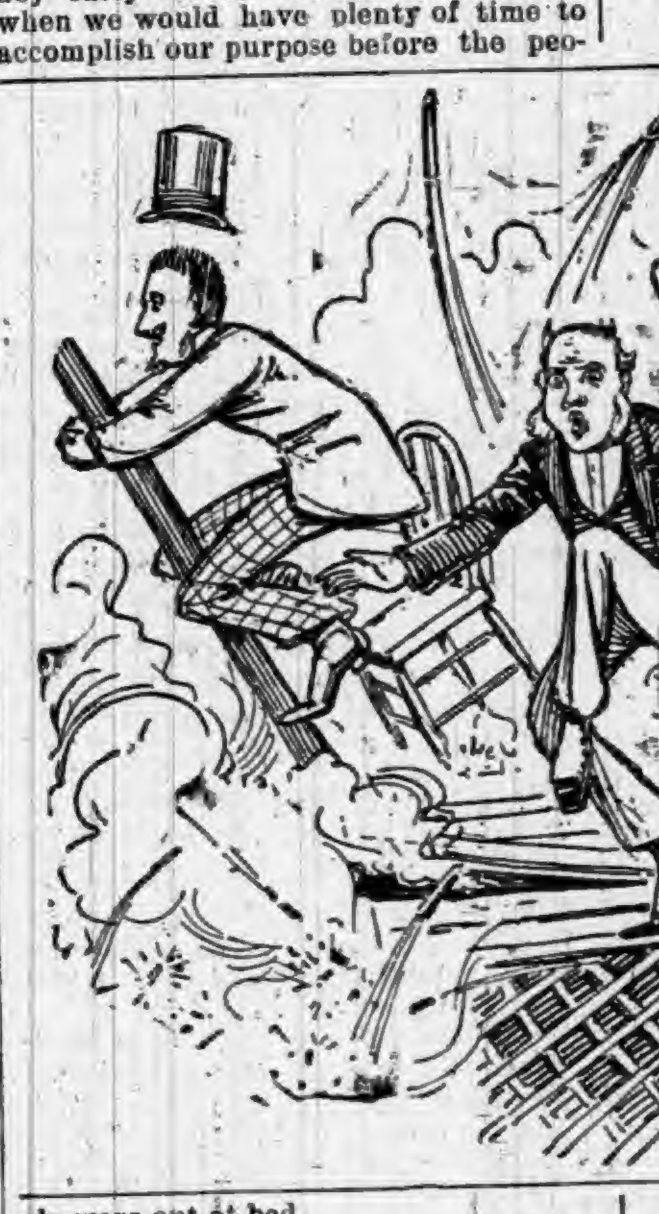
"Oh, I guess it won't rain," said Frank. "We've had so much rain lately, it seems as though we ought to have fine weather for the rest of the week. Besides, the almanac predicts fair weather."

All fears in this direction being dispelled, we hastily and noiselessly removed the defective board, and transferred the contents of the wheelbarrow to the mysterious regions under the band-stand.

There was little fear of being seen at that late hour by any one who would be likely to make an investigation of our nocturnal operations, and, with light hearts, we separated for our respective homes, feeling sure that the Fourth of July that year would end with a surprise that would cause us, the authors of it, to be envied for a long time afterward among the other boys. Alas! there is many a slip— But I will not anticipate.

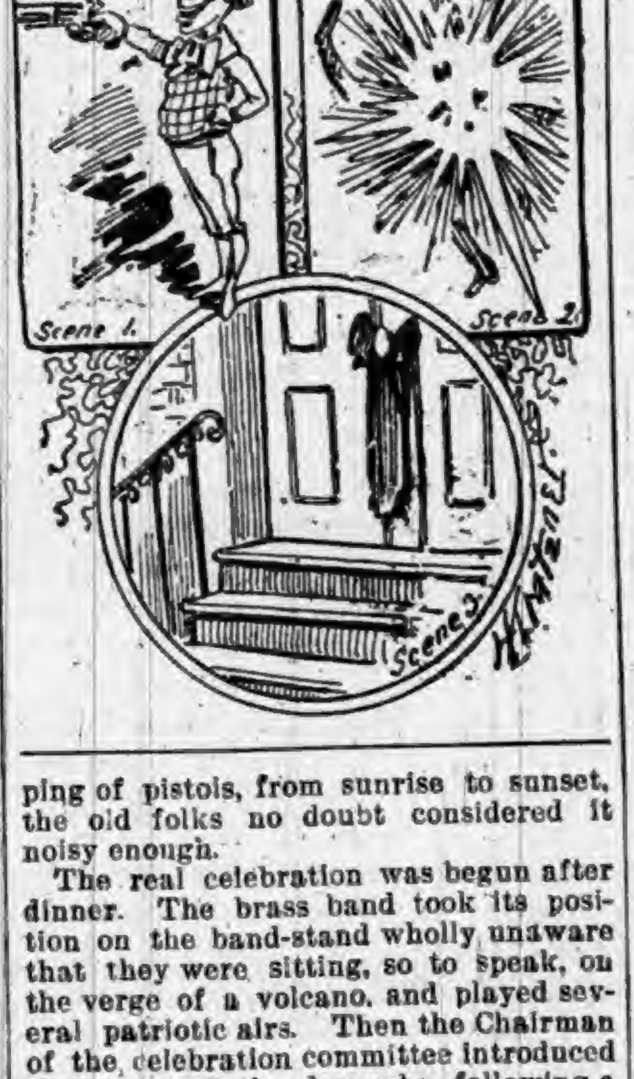
The next day we spent in collecting and placing in position the barrels and boxes for the bonfire that was to usher in the glorious Fourth.

To our disappointment Joe was unable to obtain the key by which we were to gain access to the hiding-place of our pyrotechnics, and we were forced to leave them in their concealment another night. Joe was sure he could get the key early on the following morning, when we would have plenty of time to accomplish our purpose before the people were out of bed.



But, wearied with our exertions on the night of the 3d, we overslept ourselves on the Fourth, and thus again our treasure was forced to run the gantlet of another day. The shades of evening would surely afford us the opportunity that failed to come to us before.

The boys were unanimous in their opinion that it was an unusually quiet Fourth of July. But what with the snapping of fire-crackers and the popping of pistols, from sunrise to sunset, the old folks no doubt considered it noisy enough.



Scene 1.
Scene 2.
Scene 3.

The real celebration was begun after dinner. The brass band took its position on the band-stand wholly unaware that they were sitting, so to speak, on the verge of a volcano, and played several patriotic airs. Then the Chairman of the celebration committee introduced the orator of the day, who, following a time-honored custom, read the Declaration of Independence, after which, taking a drink of water and clearing his throat a number of times, he began a speech that was full of patriotism and politics. In the midst of a period of surpassing eloquence, he was interrupted by the loud cheers of his hearers. The men cheered and clapped, and the boys, always ready to aid in making noise, seized the opportunity to set off some fire-crackers.

The cause of all this turmoil seemed pleased, and bowed repeatedly. The occasion was worth at least a dozen votes to him.

When the noise had somewhat abated, he advanced to the railing of the platform to continue his harangue; but scarce a dozen words were said when, before the eyes of the astonished audience, the platform, with all its occupants, rose in the air in a confused mass, like a steamboat whose boiler had burst.

The truth instantly flashed upon me, and upon the other three boys, as I could see by their white, terrified faces, that the kettle of powder and other explosives had in some manner become ignited, with the result above stated.

The people crowded around the ruined band-stand, and lent their aid in extricating the entangled members of the band and the orator of the unfinished speech.

Fortunately, they were not injured beyond a few scratches; but, as many observed, it was a narrow escape for them.

This put an end to the official celebration of the day. And what an unexpected conclusion it was!

Various theories were advanced as to the cause of the catastrophe, but we who could have thrown light on the mystery thought it best to remain silent and wonder with the rest.

When the remains of the kettle and portions of the fireworks were unearthed, many people were of the opinion that it was an attempt on the part of the enemy to get rid of the orator of the day, who was a politician, and consequently had a host of ill-wishers.

But the people of Springville never learned to whom they were indebted for the subject of a more than nine days' wonder; and we, the progenitors of it, had the doubtful pleasure of seeing the results of our hard-earned savings go off at one burst. But we also had the consolation of knowing that no event of that memorable Fourth of July was longer remembered than "Our Celebration."—Golden Days.

Our National Birthday.

There is no country except the United States, we believe, that celebrates its national birthday. There are certain epochs in the life of European nations that are honored with a celebration, as the 14th of July in France, which commemorates the destruction of the Bastile and is generally accepted as the birth of the French Republic. But the states of Europe have no national birthdays. They are the result of a long series of developments, and it would be difficult to fix any particular natal day. Not so in this country. The Fourth of July, 1776, when the Declaration of Independence was signed in Philadelphia, marked the birth of a nation so unerringly that it was honored as such immediately, and will be as long as the spirit of American Independence survives. Civil war interrupted its general observance for some years, but it was resumed when peace was restored, and now, with ever brightening hopes of a more perfect Union than we have yet known, Independence Day will be greeted with salvos of remembrance and joy from one end of the country to the other. Let the band play "Hail Columbia."

A Fourth of July Idyl.

Jimmy hold the rocket tight,
Hold her tight,
Hold her tight,
Till I try to strike a light,
Strike a light,
Strike a light.
Oh, won't she make a fly
When I touch her off—my eye!
Shooting right up to the sky.
And so bright,
And so bright!
Now I'm lighting the fusee,
The fusee,
The fusee,
And you keep your eye on me,
Eye on me,
Eye on me.
There she goes! ha! * * * *
* * * * * * * * * * * *
* * * * * * * * * * * *
* * * * *
* * * * *

P. S.—The reader can fill the space occupied by the asterisks according to his own ideas. We have nothing further to say about the matter, excepting that physicians give it as their opinion that the boy will pull through, but it was a narrow escape.—Boston Courier.

A Fourth of July Record.

1 was a wide-awake little boy
Who rose at the break of day;
2 were the minutes he took to dress,
Then he was off and away.
3 were his leaps when he cleared the stairs
Although they were steep and high;
4 was the number which caused his haste,
Because it was the Fourth of July!
5 were his pennies which went to buy
A package of crackers red;
6 were the matches which touched them off,
And then—he was back in bed.
7 big plasters he had to wear
To cure his fractures sore;
8 were the visits the doctor made
Before he was whole once more.
9 were the dolorous days he spent
In sorrow and pain! but then
0 are the seconds he'll stop to think
Before he does it again.
—St. Nicholas.

The Spirit of Patriotism.

Robinson—Going to celebrate the Fourth?

Brown—Celebrate! No name for it. I'm going to buy 100 of those crackers that sound like a cannon, and light 'em all at once.

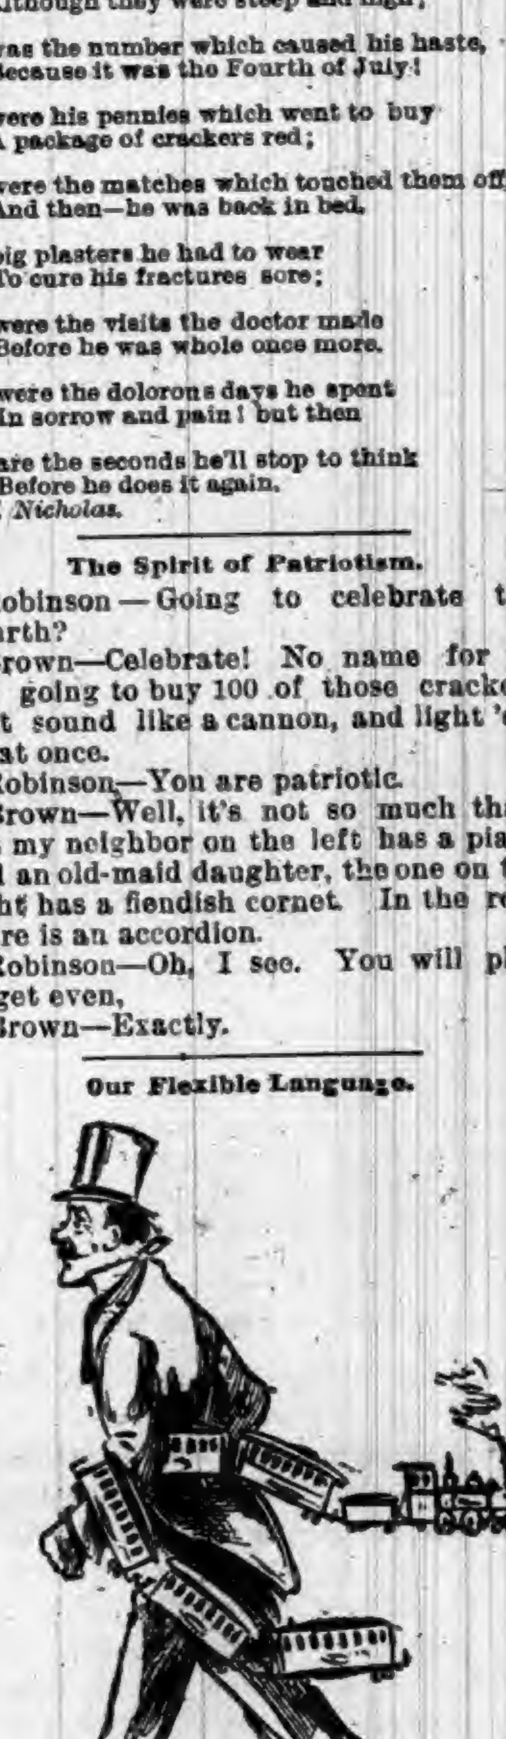
Robinson—You are patriotic.

Brown—Well, it's not so much that, but my neighbor on the left has a piano and an old-maid daughter, the one on the right has a fiendish cornet. In the rear there is an accordion.

Robinson—Oh, I see. You will play to get even,

Brown—Exactly.

Our Flexible Language.



How a man would look if he really took the train for home.

Musn't Be Bluffed on Pulses.

"And where are you going, Katy?" called a Houston street mother from a third-story window to her daughter on the sidewalk.

"Over to Mrs. Johnson's to inquire about her sick boy."

"Well, go on; but remember that if she begins to brag that his pulse has been up to 110, you want to say that our Jimmy's pulse saw that and went fifteen better the week he had the measles."—New York Evening World.

TRADE MARK.
DUTCH JELLY
NONE GENUINE WITHOUT CREST AND SIGNATURE
KEEP THE LID ON THE POT

If you want a beautiful complexion and a perfect skin, use Dutch Jelly. No tan, freckles, moth patches, pimples, black heads or wrinkles. No coarse, rough, greasy, chafed or chapped face and hands. Dutch Jelly is absolutely pure, being a vegetable compound and void of all mineral properties; contains no grease or oil, and after its application the most delicate fabric can be handled without soiling. Gentlemen use it after shaving. For eczema Dutch Jelly is a positive cure. For ulcers pimples, itching and all eruptive skin diseases, Dutch Jelly is simply invaluable and permanently effective. For cuts, bruises, sun burn, insect bites Dutch Jelly is supreme and is absolutely odorless. Dutch Jelly is not a cosmetic, but rather a skin tonic and has the highest medical endorsement. One trial will convince the most skeptical that it will keep the roughest skin in the smoothest and whitest condition. Ask your druggist, or send 50 cents in Stamps or Postal Note for Sample Jar. Address

Dutch Jelly Co.,
50-52 Michigan Ave.,
CHICAGO, ILL.

SANGOLE
ACTUALLY
PRODUCES FLESH
AND CURES
CONSUMPTION
IN INCIPIENCY.
PALATABLE, DIGESTIBLE,
NUTRITIOUS.
IMPARTS LIFE AND VIGOR TO EVERY FIBRE.
SPECIMEN TESTIMONIAL.

Gentlemen:— WHEELING, Feb. 10, 1891.
Early last fall I contracted a severe cold, which settled on my lungs. I coughed dreadfully and lost flesh rapidly until advised to try Sangole, which I did with the most gratifying result.
After taking three bottles my cough ceased and I found that I had gained six pounds in weight. I most heartily recommend it to sufferers of loss of flesh from any cause. Respectfully,
LIZZIE G. CAMPBELL.

Recommended and sold by all Druggists.
Post paid to any address on receipt of $1.00
Silver Guarantee Remedy Co.,
WHEELING, W. VA.

The D&C
TO MACKINAC
SUMMER TOURS
PALACE STEAMERS. LOW RATES.
Four Trips per Week Between
DETROIT, MACKINAC ISLAND
Petoskey, The Soo, Marquette, and Lake Huron Ports.
Every Evening Between
DETROIT AND CLEVELAND
Sunday Trips during June, July, August and September Only.
OUR ILLUSTRATED PAMPHLETS,
Rates and Excursion Tickets will be furnished by your Ticket Agent, or Address
A. A. SCHANTZ, ASS'T G. P. A., DETROIT, MICH.,
THE DETROIT & CLEVELAND STEAM NAV. CO

FARMS IN CENTRAL MICHIGAN
are positively first rate as proven by both State and United States agricultural preports. In yield and value of crops per acre, they excell Southern Michigan, Indiana and Illinois. We offer for sale at low prices and on easy terms 20,000 acres of good unimproved farming lands in Isabella County, the center county of the lower peninsular of Michigan. Write for descriptive pamphlet and sample price list.
C. M. C. Cook, Mt. Pleasant, Mich.

Page CYCLE
SPRING FORK.

EASIEST RIDING
WHEEL - ON - EARTH.
HAS WITHOUT EXCEPTION THE
FINEST SPRING IN AMERICA.
Rides as gently over obstructions as a carriage and is in every sense of the word a perfect cycle
BUILT
FINEST DESIGN.
FINEST STEEL.
FINEST FINISH.
FINEST BALL BEARINGS.
Do not buy without getting our Catalogue or seeing this wheel.
PAGE STEEL WHEEL CO., TOLEDO, OHIO.

Manny
Lemon Juice Extractor

BEST AND MOST ECONOMICAL.

ORDINARY Lemon Squeezers act upon lemon from outside, inducing a bitter oil and crushing living creatures which appear on skin as dark scales.
THE "MANNY" Lemon Juice Extractor operates on pulp within, and gives clear pure juice free from insects, oil or seeds.
IF your dealer cannot supply you send 30 CENTS postal note or stamps for a sample post paid.
Manny Lemon Juice Extractor Co.,
202 COLUMBIA ST., ROCKFORD, ILL.
WE WANT GOOD AGENTS.

DON'T WASTE MONEY
BUYING THE WRONG WAIST.
BUY THE "HAUT-TON" WAIST.

HAUT TON WAIST.
PAT. MARCH 18 1890

IT meets the popular demand for hygienic garments. Made of fine satteen in white, drab, ecru, old gold, and fast black, well stayed with cords; has no steels except in front and back, with clasp or button fronts.
Is so soft and pliable, yet produces a perfect figure.
A Perfect Waist.
Canvassers Wanted. Send for Catalogue.
Waist sent post paid on receipt $1.15
Bortree Mfg. Co., Jackson, Mich.

The Rock Island "Jewett Hay Rake and Loader."
NO FARMER CAN AFFORD TO BE WITHOUT ONE.

TAKES the hay as left by mower, rakes it CLEAN and will deliver a ton onto wagon every fifteen minutes.
Will certainly save its cost in one year, and under some circumstances in one day.
Light Draft. Fully Guaranteed.
Send for full description and testimonials.
Rock Island Plow Co.
ROCK ISLAND, ILL.
(Mention this paper).

The Electric Capsule

is a pleasant laxative and sure cure for general debility, billiousness, torpid liver, malaria, sleeplessness, loss of appetite, melancholy, costiveness, nervousness and pains in the back. It positively cures that lassitude and weariness, and want of appetite experienced by so many. Are you fatigued? The most recently discovered wonderful remedy for
LOST VITALITY.
25 Cents per box.
Address ELECTRIC CAPSULE CO.
Post Office Box 3349, N. Y.
FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

ORANGE BLOSSOM
A POSITIVE CURE FOR
ALL FEMALE DISEASES.
SOME SYMPTOMS: A tired, languid feeling, low spirited and despondent, with no apparent cause. Indigestion, headache, backache, bearing down pains, pain across lower part of bowels, with great soreness in region of ovaries. Tumors, Bladder difficulty, Frequent urination, Leucorrhœa, Constipation of bowels, piles. With all these symptoms patient nervous and irritable. THE ORANGE BLOSSOM TREATMENT removes all these by a thorough process of absorption.
A LOCAL APPLICATION Perfectly harmless, which every lady can use, herself. Medicines taken internally will never relieve the many forms of female weakness. The remedy must be applied to the parts to obtain permanent relief.
A PLAIN TALK TO LADIES in our circular. Ask your druggist for one, or send two cent stamp to home office for sample box and circular.
EVERY LADY CAN TREAT HERSELF.
O. B. Pile Remedy. $1.00 FOR ONE MONTH'S TREATMENT. O. B. Stomach Powders.
O. B. Catarrh Cure. —PREPARED BY— O. B. Kidney Cones.
J. A. McGILL, M. D., & CO., 2 & 4 PANORAMA PLACE, CHICAGO, ILL.
FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
ALONZO O. FISHER, Wholesale Agent, 67 Washington St., Chicago, Ill.

Senator Hearst's Men in Buckram.

One day while the late Senator Hearst was a young man and yet had his fortune to make he and a few companions were on a prospecting tour. Along in the afternoon they sighted a band of Indians, and as in those days all Indians were hostile Mr. Hearst and his friends naturally wanted to get away from there. All the prospectors except the future Senator were mounted on horses. He was on a retired army mule, and soon found himself left in the rear. The Indians were on his trail and things began to look serious when he called out to his rapidly disappearing companions:

"Hold on, boys; there's only a few of them. We needn't be afraid."

Just then the mule scented the approaching Indians, and with a wild snort started out at a gait that soon left the horsemen far behind. When Hearst was about a quarter of a mile in advance he turned in his saddle and yelled at the top of his voice:

"Hurry up, boys; you'll get scalped. There's more'n a hundred of them."

Cigar-Smoking Girls.

The Burmese girls are very bright, and good beggars, too, and when one steps up to you with a six-inch cigar in her mouth and her comely person swathed in garments, the colors of which would rival Joseph's coat, and offers you her wares, the only thing for a man to do is to buy, and buy at once. The Burmese girls are noted, too, for their independence, and they walk about the streets and through the bazaar and around the pagodas with a big cigar in their mouths with as much freedom as do the men in most countries. Their dress is more picturesque, too, than the Arabs'. They use the very brightest red, yellow and pink silks in their adornment, and the prevailing fashion runs to scarfs more than to dresses, and bands of ribbons more than to jackets.

THE WABASH LINE.
H-andsome equipment.
E-legant day coaches, and
W-agner palace sleeping cars
A-re in daily service
B-etween the city of St. Louis
A-nd New York and Boston.
S-pacious reclining chair cars
H-ave no equal
L-ike those run by the
I-ncomparable and only Wabash.
N-ew trains and fast time
E-very day in the year.

From East to West the sun's bright ray,
Smiles on the line that leads the way.

MAGNIFICENT VESTIBULE EXPRESS TRAINS, running free reclining chair cars and palace sleepers to St. Louis, Kansas City, and Council Bluffs. The direct route to all points in Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Texas, Indian Territory, Arkansas, Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, Washington, Montana, and California. For rates, routes, maps, etc., apply to any ticket agent or address
F. CHANDLER,
Gen. Pass. and Ticket Agent,
St. Louis, Mo.

A Large Crop Assured.

Mr. Brickrow—Have you looked over the advertisements of country boarding-houses?

Mrs. Brickrow — Yes. Very few farmers are advertising.

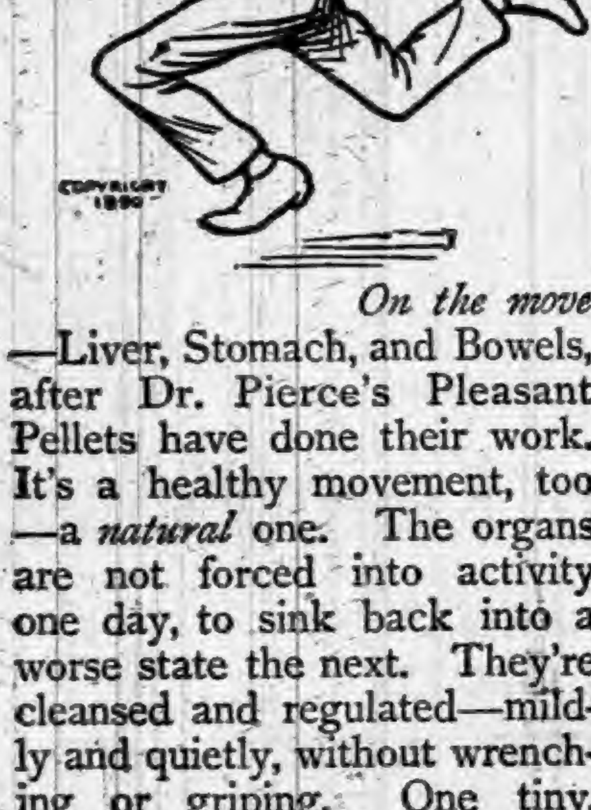
Mrs. Brickrow—That so? The fruit trees must have some fruit on them this year.—Street & Smith's Good News.

It Simply Scoots.

The Mt. Carmel flying machine still refuses to fly. Instead of making a fly of it the machine simply scoots this way and that, like a lame hen dodging a potato and picking up a kernal of corn at the same time. It's simply another failure to add to the list.

FITS.—All Fits stopped free by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. No Fits after first day's use. Marvellous cures. Treatise and $2.00 trial bottle free to Fit cases. Send to Dr. Kline, 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

It takes a good many trials to make some folks faithful.



On the move —Liver, Stomach, and Bowels, after Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets have done their work. It's a healthy movement, too —a natural one. The organs are not forced into activity one day, to sink back into a worse state the next. They're cleansed and regulated—mildly and quietly, without wrenching or griping. One tiny, sugar-coated Pellet is all that's needed as a gentle laxative; three to four act as a cathartic. They're the smallest, cheapest, the easiest to take. Sick Headache, Bilious Headache, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the Liver, Stomach and Bowels are promptly relieved and cured.

"German Syrup"

Asthma. "I have been a great sufferer from Asthma and severe Colds every Winter, and last Fall my friends as well as myself thought because of my feeble condition, and great distress from constant coughing, and inability to raise any of the accumulated matter from my lungs, that my time was close at hand. When nearly worn out for want of sleep and rest, a friend recommended me to try thy valuable medicine, Boschee's German Syrup. I am confident it saved my life. Almost the first dose gave me great relief and a gentle refreshing sleep, such as I had not had for weeks. My cough began immediately to loosen and pass away, and I found myself rapidly gaining in health and weight. I am pleased to inform thee—unsolicited—that I am in excellent health and do certainly attribute it to thy Boschee's German Syrup. C. B. STICKNEY, Picton, Ontario."

Gentle, Refreshing Sleep.

FAMOUS INDIAN FIGHTS.

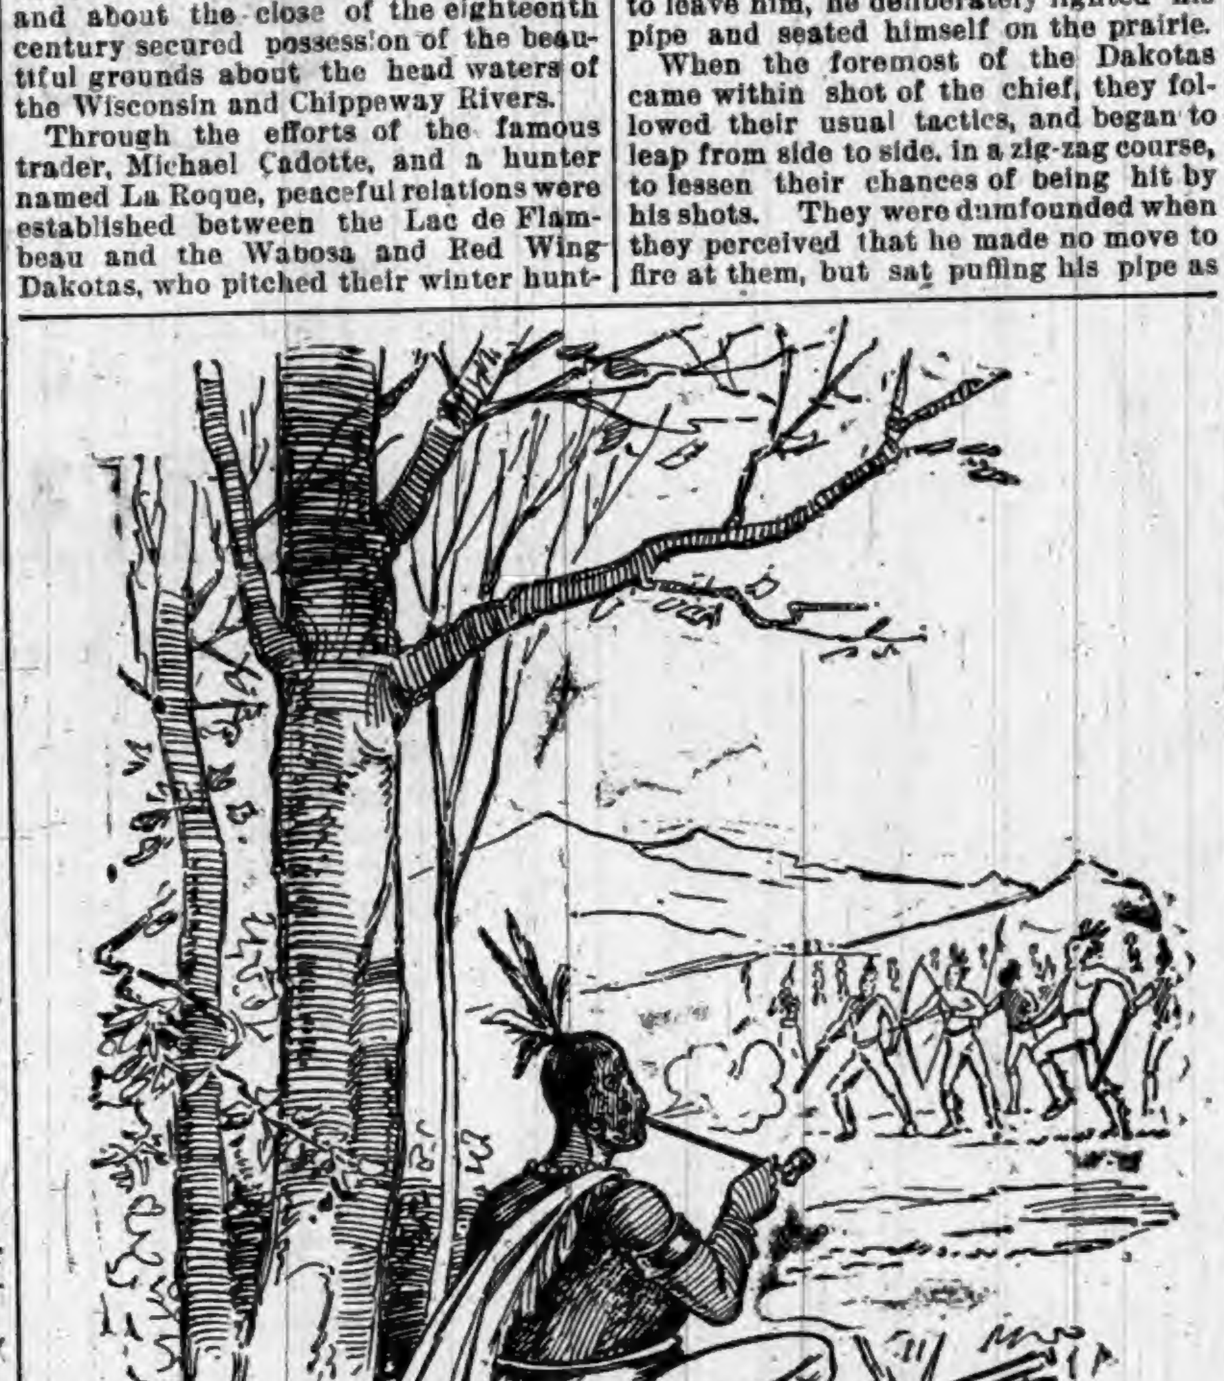
BLOODY ENCOUNTERS OF LONG AGO.

Rival Tribes Contending for the Rich Hunting Grounds of Wisconsin Engage in a Merciless and Exterminating War.

IF an account of the fierce and bloody battles which took place between the Chippeway—or more properly, the Ojibway—Indians and the tribes from which they wrested the Lake Superior and Upper Mississippi country, could be adequately written, it would form a most thrilling chronicle of savage perseverance, craft and daring, not unlighted by many instances of heroic fortitude and genuine romance.

By dint of perpetual warfare, the Ojibways extended their territory from their ancient island home at La Pointe, and about the close of the eighteenth century secured possession of the beautiful grounds about the head waters of the Wisconsin and Chippeway Rivers.

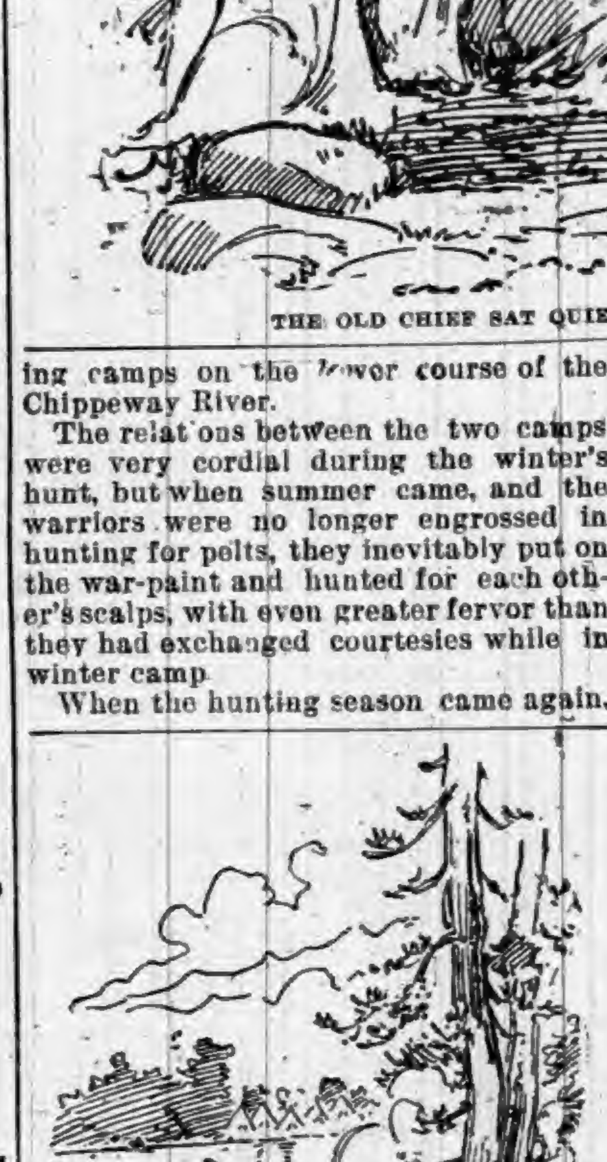
Through the efforts of the famous trader, Michael Cadotte, and a hunter named La Roque, peaceful relations were established between the Lac de Flambeau and the Wabosa and Red Wing Dakotas, who pitched their winter hunting camps on the lower course of the Chippeway River.



THE OLD CHIEF SAT QUIETLY AND PUFFED HIS PIPE.

The relations between the two camps were very cordial during the winter's hunt, but when summer came, and the warriors were no longer engrossed in hunting for pelts, they inevitably put on the war-paint and hunted for each other's scalps, with even greater fervor than they had exchanged courtesies while in winter camp.

When the hunting season came again, all the disagreeable events of the summer would be thrust aside, and the Dakotas and Ojibways would hunt on the same grounds.



THE OJIBWAYS ATTACK THE DAKOTAS.

In one of these famous summer battles the Dakotas killed a favorite relative of "Big Ojibway," war chief of the Lac de Flambeau Ojibways. He announced his determination to have revenge, and twenty-three faithful warriors took the trail under his command.

As they did not succeed in finding any Dakotas in the Upper Chippeway country, they passed down that stream to where it empties into the Mississippi. There their quest was more than satisfied, for the western bank of that great river was spotted with the lodges of their enemies, and they listened in ambush, to the wild music of the Dakota war dance.

Leaving scouts at the immediate junction of the rivers, the main body of the Ojibways returned a short distance up the Chippeway, and secreted themselves in a thick wood that came close down to the river's edge.

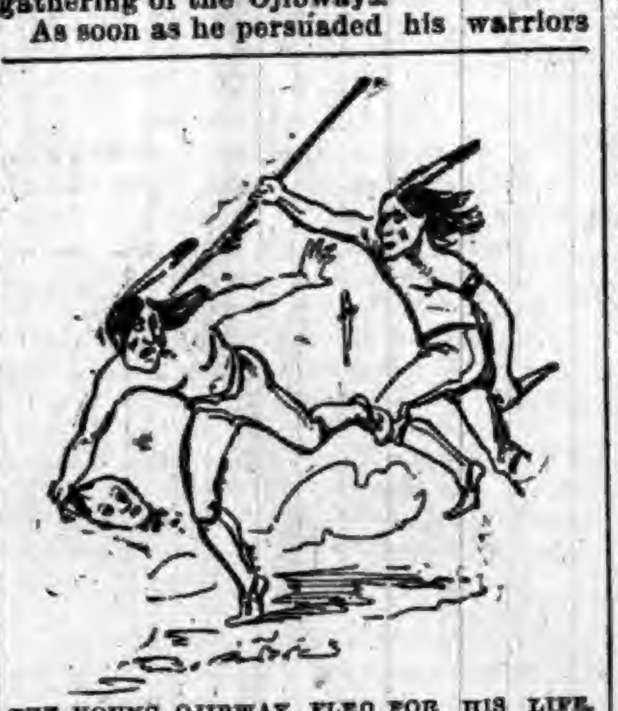
The scouts soon brought word that 200 Dakota warriors were crossing the Mississippi, to go up the Chippeway.

For a party of twenty-three to attack a band of 200 was a desperate undertaking, even in Indian warfare. Realizing this, "Big Ojibway" gave any of his followers who did not wish to join in so hazardous an enterprise opportunity to withdraw, but none of the warriors would leave him, when they could not be dissuaded from the attack.

The old chief planned that his braves could pick off twenty-three of the Dakotas' leading warriors at the first volley and then make a successful flight before the Dakotas recovered from the surprise of the attack sufficiently to reach shore and overtake them. The first "Big Ojibway's" plan was successful and the retreat might have been as successfully executed as the attack if the chief had not been so big. Unfortunately he was quite rotund and was easily outstripped by his fleeing warriors and pursuing enemies.

But he was as magnanimous and brave as he was portly. On seeing that escape for himself was hopeless, he urged his warriors, who had slackened their pace preparatory to rallying around him, to leave him and save themselves, telling them that he had a presentment in a dream of his approaching death. His warriors left him most unwillingly, and would have scarcely made good their escape had it not been for the quick forethought and strategy of their doomed chief, an account of which was afterward given by the Dakotas at a friendly gathering of the Ojibways.

As soon as he persuaded his warriors to leave him, he deliberately lighted his pipe and seated himself on the prairie.



THE YOUNG OJIBWAY FLED FOR HIS LIFE.

When the foremost of the Dakotas came within shot of the chief, they followed their usual tactics, and began to leap from side to side, in a zig-zag course, to lessen their chances of being hit by his shots. They were dumfounded when they perceived that he made no move to fire at them, but sat puffing his pipe as quietly as though he had just finished his midday meal and was surrounded by peaceful solitude, instead of by a posse of his enemies who were ready to scalp him. He even pretended not to notice them.

So confounded were they by this conduct that those in the lead, fearing that Big Ojibway was playing them a bold game, by drawing them into the fire of a large body of ambushed Ojibways, waited for the entire party of Dakotas to come up before they ventured to surround the chief, who had accomplished his object in drawing them off from further pursuit of his braves.

He feigned to fall dead at the first shot, and they approached to scalp him.

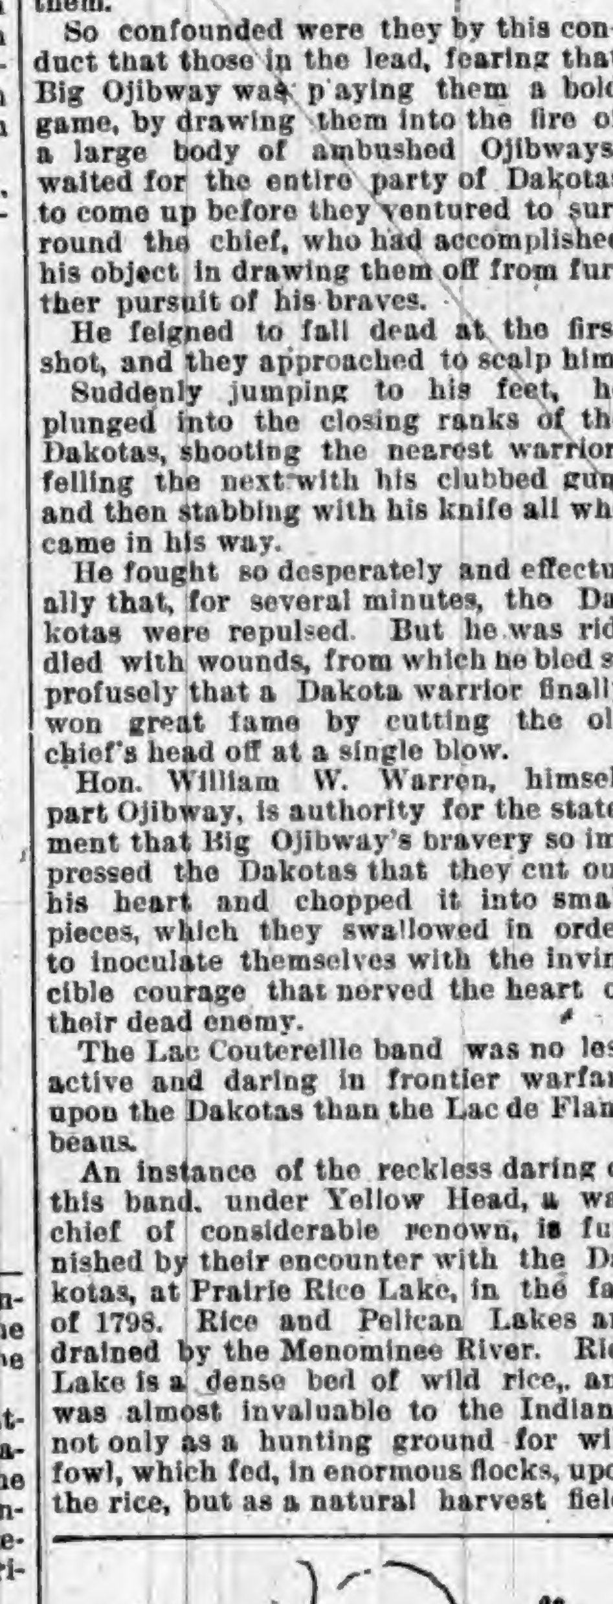
Suddenly jumping to his feet, he plunged into the closing ranks of the Dakotas, shooting the nearest warrior, felling the next with his clubbed gun, and then stabbing with his knife all who came in his way.

He fought so desperately and effectually that, for several minutes, the Dakotas were repulsed. But he was riddled with wounds, from which he bled so profusely that a Dakota warrior finally won great fame by cutting the old chief's head off at a single blow.

Hon. William W. Warren, himself part Ojibway, is authority for the statement that Big Ojibway's bravery so impressed the Dakotas that they cut out his heart and chopped it into small pieces, which they swallowed in order to inoculate themselves with the invincible courage that nerved the heart of their dead enemy.

The Lac Coutereille band was no less active and daring in frontier warfare upon the Dakotas than the Lac de Flambeaus.

An instance of the reckless daring of this band, under Yellow Head, a war chief of considerable renown, is furnished by their encounter with the Dakotas, at Prairie Rice Lake, in the fall of 1798. Rice and Pelican Lakes are drained by the Menominee River. Rice Lake is a dense bed of wild rice, and was almost invaluable to the Indians, not only as a hunting ground for wild fowl, which fed, in enormous flocks, upon the rice, but as a natural harvest field, from which they could reap abundantly without having expended labor in cultivation. In the center of the lake is a large island, heavily timbered.



BRAVERY OF AN OJIBWAY WARRIOR.

An extensive village of Dakotas was located near the lake, and comparatively few seasons of rice gathering passed in which these Dakotas did not succeed in killing some of the Ojibways, notwithstanding the fact that the women who came to do the harvesting were accompanied by a band of braves, who hunted while their squaws worked.

Yellow Head became oppressed one night by a dream that the Dakotas were about to attack him. Early in the morning he requested his warriors to assemble at his lodge. They did so, and two scouts were detailed to examine the shore in search of Dakotas. Rapid firing soon told the Ojibways that their scouts had been attacked.

About twenty-five braves, including old men and boys, led by Yellow Head, swiftly paddled their bark canoes towards where their scouts were being fired upon. They were heading for a spot which presented a favorable landing. The Dakotas anticipated and sent a portion of their warriors to give the Ojibways a bloody reception. This strategy would probably have been successful and very disastrous to the Ojibways had it not been for the fact that the maneuver was discovered by the Ojibway women. Instead of landing where they first intended, warned by their squaws, the Ojibways touched at a nearer point of the main shore and sent their canoes back to camp.

Between this point and the Dakotas was a dense thicket, through which Yellow Head was swiftly leading his party, when they suddenly stumbled upon a Dakota woman and her little son, whom Yellow Head, by their dress, at once recognized as the family of a Dakota chief whose scalp had been added to the bloody trophies of Ojibway bravery some time before.

Yellow Head did not deign to kill the child, but tossing it aside, pursued the woman, who fled through the thicket, mingling her screams for help with his war-whoop. Her swiftest pursuer, however, was a young warrior who outstripped his chief in the chase.

A hundred sturdy Dakota warriors were hastening to protect the woman, but still the young warrior continued the pursuit.

As the woman was almost within the protecting range of Dakota rifles, the young Ojibway plunged a knife into her back.

An Indian will not only risk his life, but tortures at the stake, to secure the scalp of a dead victim. Although the Dakotas were sweeping down upon him, he would not leave without taking her head with him.

As he was securing this bloody trophy, Yellow Head warned him to flee. He did so, but his speed was somewhat impeded by the burden of the woman's head. The chief of the Dakotas, who was armed with only a spear, pressed him closely. The Dakota warriors dare not fire upon the fugitive for fear of killing their chief instead. Finally the young Ojibway felt the spear of the Dakota chief pressing into his back. Then he called to Yellow Head for help. The latter dispatched the Dakota chief with a single shot, thus saving his young warrior's life.

Yellow Head then called upon his little band of warriors to turn and withstand the Dakotas. Only ten responded to this call. But from behind an ambush of trees these ten braves and their chief kept the Dakotas at bay all day.

At night the Dakotas retreated to their village, and the Ojibways secured several scalps.

This daring battle and brilliant victory over such tremendous odds gained Yellow Head a great repute among the entire Ojibway nation.

At the beginning of the present century, Waub-o-jeeg and She-shebe, who were camping, with their families, at Mille Lac, were surprised and massacred by a large party of Dakotas. They were both Ojibway warriors of repute, and their death could not be allowed to pass unavenged by their tribe. Curly Head, chief of the Gull Lake band, and Flat Mouth, chief of the Pillagers, enlisted 160 warriors. With these they surrounded a camp of forty Dakota lodges, at Prairie River.

Just before daybreak they raised the war-whoop and riddled the lodges with bullets. So effective was their opening fire that only sixty Dakota warriors lived to rush out of their lodges and make a stand against the Ojibways.

The battle raged all day. At sunset only seven of their number were living, but those seven warriors, from the cover of their lodges, kept the Objibways at bay and saved their own lives and also the scalps of their fallen brethren. The only Objibway who won enduring fame in this battle was a very young warrior named Strong Ground. Having slain a Dakota brave, this lad leaped into the very midst of the Dakota lodges and snatched his victim's scalp under a running fire.

These instances are only a few of the best-authenticated accounts of the fierce battles which once took place in these Northwestern States between the once savage tribes, the remnants of which are now leading a quiet life on their reservations, some of which are situated on the very spots in Wisconsin, Minnesota and Dakota where their bloodiest battles have been fought. A very cursory glance into the actual history of Indian warfare is sufficient to show that the most sensational story writers who treat of these savage conflicts have hardly exaggerated the craft, cruelty or bravery of the participants.

FORREST CRISSEY.

GENEVA, Ill.

Grows Wealthy on Dirt.

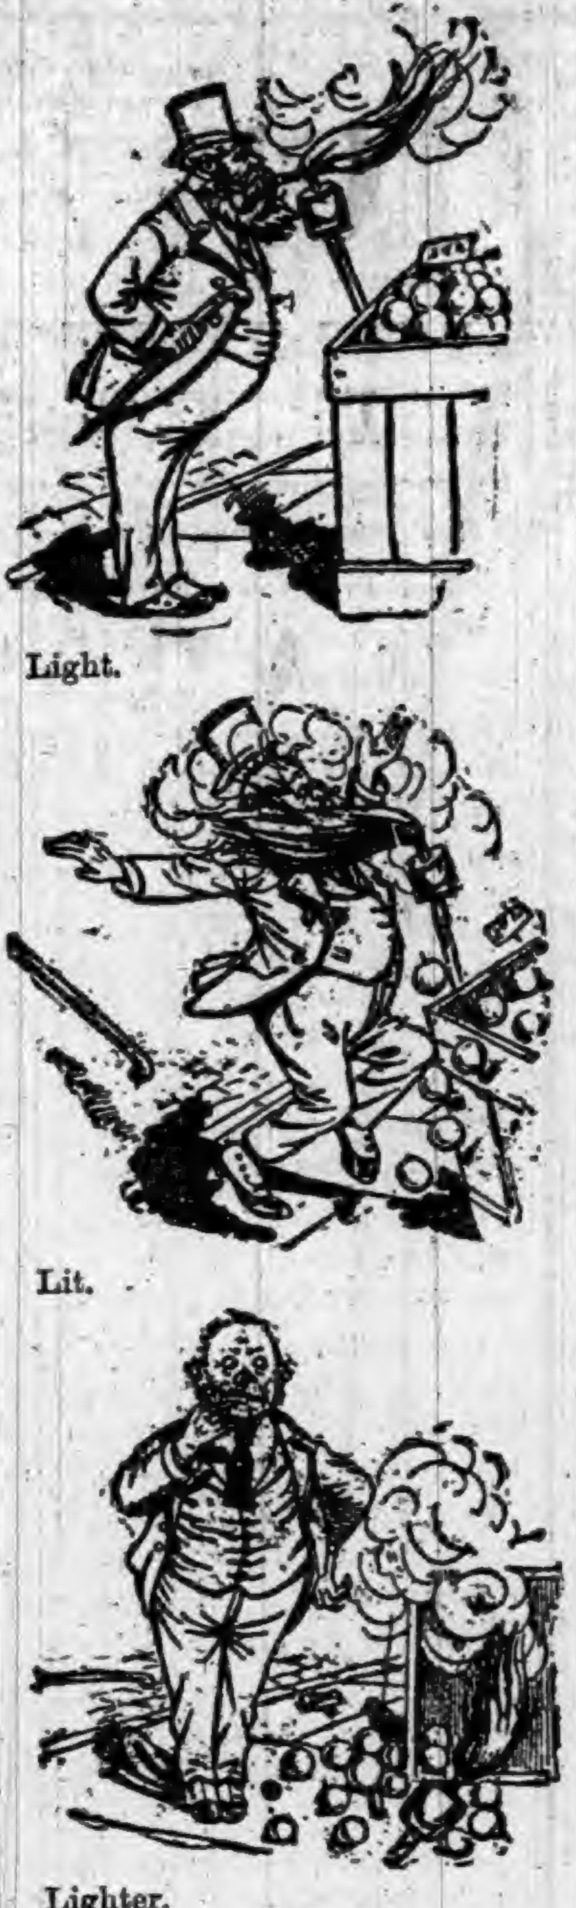
There is a woman in Oakland, Cal., though now living in obscurity, who may yet be the leader of the counterfeit non-blue blood aristocracy which is so prominent in society circles. This woman is a Mrs. Peterson, "Queen of the Dumps," as she is better known in the lower strata of society. Her home is a cottage in the midst of the public dumps at the foot of Oak street. The only decorations that surround her humble residence are tomato cans, old barrels, cast-off clothing, shoes, etc. When she squatted on this land she was, literally, without a dollar, her only property consisting of the house over her head, a few pieces of furniture, one cow and chickens. To-day she is the owner of two houses rented, and a large bank account besides. All this has been made out of the dumps. Every morning it is her regular business to rake over the refuse deposited the day previous. Everything of any commercial value is picked out, even to the bottles and rags, which are sold to the ragman. Others who know of her success and accumulation of wealth would gladly enter into the business, but they know her too well to infringe upon her untitled territory. A few years hence she most likely will send her children to fashionable seminaries or colleges. An elegant mansion will be their home, and the Petersons will give 5 o'clock teas and flourish in society like weeds. The dump-pile, however, will never be their family crest.

Chinese Beggar.

A Chinese beggar does not often appeal to white families for aid, but one came to a Portland (Ore.) residence the other day, was taken in and given a lunch of chops, potatoes, bread, and coffee. The meal over, he produced the vilest kind of a vile Chinese cigar, calmly lighted it, and, cocking his feet on the table, filled the kitchen with smoke. When told to go, he said: "No wantee go; heap likee here: heap enjoy self." In one minute and a half afterward he was kicked out of the house. —San Francisco Call.

HUMOR.

The Wind Shifted.



Light.

Lit.

Lighter.

Was on His Mind.

"I want to ask you a question, Katy," he said, shortly before taking his departure. "It has been on my mind all the evening, but I—I——"

"Well, what, Mr. Dingdong?" asked Katy, encouragingly, her heart throbbing with expectancy. "Speak right out."

"Well, Katy, will you be—I wanted to ask if you would be kind enough to find out if the dog is chained to-night."

Couldn't Help Herself.

Watts—So she refused you, did she?

Dumley—Yes; said she wouldn't even be a sister to me. That made me mad, and now she's got to be one to me.

Watts—How is that?

Dumley—I proposed to her sister and was accepted.

He Got His Dollar.

A strapping young man sat in the Erie depot, across the Hudson, the other day, waiting for his train. He had twelve scythe-stones in a bundle on his right hand, and a cuckoo clock in a box on his left. As he was looking around the waiting-room he gave a sudden start. Then he started some more. Then he rose up and walked over to a flashily dressed man about forty years old, whom any one would have spotted as a fakir, and asked:

"Don't you travel around with a tooth-powder?"

"No, sir," was the sharp reply.

"Wasn't you up in Elizabeth last fall?"

"No, sir."

"Yes, you was, and I'll bet on it. You are the same durned feller, and I know it!"

"Sir! What does this mean?" demanded the other.

"It means that I was in Elizabeth last fall and bought a box of your tooth powder. You changed a five-dollar bill, and darn my hide if you didn't hornswaggle me out of a dollar!"

"Sir!"

"No use, old fellow! I knowed ye the minit I got eyes on ye. Same big diamond pin—same red neck-tie—same nose, humped up in the middle like a circus camel! I want that dollar?"

"This is outrageous! I'll call a policeman!" shouted the fakir.

"Call and be durned to ye, but I'll lick ye first! You either come down with that dollar or I'll wallop ye till ye can't holler?"

"Look here!" replied the other in much milder tones, "you are mistaken. It was my cousin who was in Elizabeth. He is dead now."

"Then I'll take it out of you!"

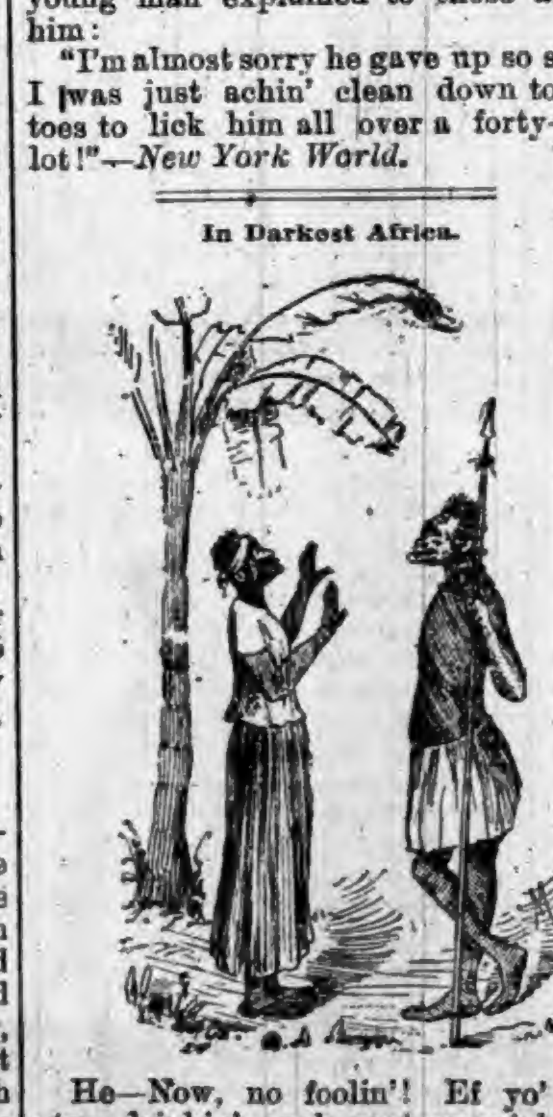
"He is dead, as I remarked, and rather than have any blot resting on his fair escutcheon I will pay you the dollar."

"That's all right! I don't know anything about 'scutcheons, but I've got to have that dollar or pull hair! I've bin lookin' for that hump-backed nose all over the face of the earth. And I've laid awake nights thinkin' how I'd make ye holler like an Injun if ever I got my paws on ye!"

He was given the dollar, and the fakir disappeared at once, and the young man explained to those about him:

"I'm almost sorry he gave up so soon. I was just achin' clean down to my toes to lick him all over a forty-acre lot!"—New York World.

In Darkest Africa.



He—Now, no foolin'! Ef yo' don' stop drinkin', ouah matermonial projection stops short off, heah!

She—G'long, dar, yo' brack fool! What yo' smells on my bref is on'y dat sailor we had foh breakfas'!

A Foreign Invasion.

Terrible winters throughout Europe brought forth bitter fruits that ripened in America. "La Grippe" with varying violence broke forth here, and the mortality lists show its shocking ravages in aggravated cases. An alcoholic principle embodied as a medicated stimulant in the form of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters has and will ever prove the best specific. Leading continental and American physicians declare that a medicine with a spirituous basis, such as this, affords the surest guaranty against the tremendous inroads of this shocking malady. When we consider that a slight change of weather is apt to renew it; that it attacks those easily vulnerable organs, the lungs; that its progress is tremendously swift and destructive, we must admit the necessity of repelling it at the outset with a sure preventive. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is also a safeguard against malaria, dyspepsia, rheumatism, liver and kidney complaints.

Our Canine Friends.

The St. Albans (Vt.) Messenger tells a good dog story. The owner of a dog in that town has a brother who is quite sick, living in the suburbs. During a recent dark and stormy night he decided to send his dog to the brother's residence to learn his condition. A note of inquiry was writen and given to the dog—his master opening the front door and pointing in the direction which the dog should take. The "messenger" trotted merrily away, and in about one hour and a half returned and made his presence known by barking at the front door. The dog brought an answer in the shape of a letter from the wife of the sick brother replying to the inquiry made, much to the gratification of the household receiving the news.

S. K. COBURN, Mgr., Clarie Scott, writes: "I find Hall's Catarrh Cure a valuable remedy." Druggists sell it, 75c.

The Honest Agent.

New Clerk—That house you rented to Mr. and Mrs. Suburb has nothing but a cistern, and that is fifty feet from the door. You told them there was water in the house.

Suburban Agent—There is. Cellar's half full.—Street & Smith's Good News.

An Old City.

Little Brother—Is Boston an old city?

Little Sister (who has been there)—'Deed it is. Why, the streets is bent 'most double with age. — New York Weekly.

How a Tourist Makes Money.

DEAR READERS: While visiting places of interest, I spend my leisure time plating tableware and jewelery and selling platers. I make from $5 to $15 per day. The work is done so nicely that every person wants it. I paid $5 for my plater to H. K. Delno & Co., Columbus, Ohio. Why not have a good time and money in your pocket, when for $5 you can start a business of your own. Write above firm for particulars.

A TOURIST.

Advantages of Wealth.

Mr. Nicefello—I am told that Miss Bullion never wears the same dress twice.

Miss De Pink (rival belle)—Yes, that is true; and I understand she has a different set of teeth for every day in the week.—New York Weekly.

IN the "Guide to Health and Etiquette" will be found much useful advice on both subjects, this book is sent free for two 2c stamps by the Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

Fully Explained.

City Boarder—I notice you keep a big bar of soap outside by the pump. It is for the farm hands, I presume?

Rural Hostess—Yes, farm hands and faces."—New York Weekly.

BRONCHITIS is cured by frequent small doses of Piso's Cure for Consumption.

A DOLLAR in the devil's hand is big enough to hide the sun.

Played Out

How often this and similar expressions are heard from tired, overworked women, and weary, anxious men, who do not know where to find relief. For that intense weariness so common and so discouraging we earnestly recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla. It is not a stimulant, but a true tonic, gradually building up all the weak organs in such a way as to be of lasting benefit. A fair trial will convince you of its merits.

N. B. Be sure to get

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

SYRUP of FIGS

ONE ENJOYS

Both the method and results when Syrup of Figs is taken; it is pleasant and refreshing to the taste, and acts gently yet promptly on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels, cleanses the system effectually, dispels colds, headaches and fevers and cures habitual constipation. Syrup of Figs is the only remedy of its kind ever produced, pleasing to the taste and acceptable to the stomach, prompt in its action and truly beneficial in its effects, prepared only from the most healthy and agreeable substances, its many excellent qualities commend it to all and have made it the most popular remedy known.

Syrup of Figs is for sale in 50c and $1 bottles by all leading druggists. Any reliable druggist who may not have it on hand will procure it promptly for any one who wishes to try it. Do not accept any substitute.

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.
LOUISVILLE, KY. NEW YORK, N.Y.

A RECORD OF A LIFE'S WORK.

The entire facts connected with every case ever treated by Mrs. Pinkham are on record. With the assistance of lady clerks writing at her dictation, over one hundred letters per day have been disposed of, the answers going to ladies in all parts of the world, and the facts compiled in a Library of Reference for the benefit of suffering women.

For the cure of Kidney Complaints, either sex, the Compound has no rival.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S Vegetable Compound

is the only Positive Cure and Legitimate Remedy for those weaknesses and ailments peculiar to women.

Sold by all Druggists as a standard article, or sent by mail, in form of Pills or Lozenges, on receipt of $1.00.

Send stamp for "Guide to Health and Etiquette," a beautiful illustrated book.

Mrs. Pinkham freely answers letters of inquiry. Enclose stamp for reply.

Lydia E. Pinkham Med. Co., Lynn, Mass.

The Soap that Cleans Most is Lenox.

I LIKE MY WIFE TO USE POZZONI'S MEDICATED COMPLEXION POWDER.
Because It Improves Her Looks and is as Fragrant as Violets.
SOLD EVERYWHERE.

Tutt's Hair Dye

Gray hair or whiskers changed to a glossy black by a single application of this Dye. It imparts a natural color, acts instantaneously and contains nothing injurious to the hair. Sold by all druggists, or sent by express on receipt of price, $1.00. Office, 39 & 41 Park Place, New York.

The Oldest Medicine in the World is probably
DR. ISAAC THOMPSON'S CELEBRATED EYE-WATER.
This article is a carefully prepared physician's prescription, and has been in constant use for nearly a century. There are few diseases to which mankind are subject more distressing than sore eyes, and none, perhaps, for which more remedies have been tried without success. For all external inflammation of the eyes it is an infallible remedy. If the directions are followed it will never fail. We particularly invite the attention of physicians to its merits. For sale by all druggists. JOHN L. THOMPSON, SONS & CO., TROY, N. Y. Established 1797.

It PAID Me— 'Twill PAY You

Plain directions by which anybody, anywhere can make from $25 to $2,500 per year. 'Twill not interfere with, but will improve any business. Send Name, Postoffice and State, enclosing $1.00. Address, R. CONGDON, Nunda, Ill.

FREE ILLUSTRATED PUBLICATIONS, WITH MAPS, describing Minnesota, North Dakota, Montana, Idaho, Washington and Oregon, the Free Government and Cheap NORTHERN PACIFIC R. R. LANDS
Best Agricultural, Grazing and Timber Lands now open to settlers. Mailed FREE. Address
CHAS. B. LAMBORN, Land Com. N. P. R. R., St. Paul, Minn.

HIRES ROOT BEER THE GREAT HEALTH DRINK.
Package makes 5 gallons. Delicious, sparkling and appetizing. Sold by all dealers. A beautiful Picture Book and Cards sent free to any one sending their address to The C. E. HIRES CO., Phila'a.

CATARRH, THROAT AND LUNG DISEASES quickly and permanently cured by the new ANTISEPTIC HOME TREATMENT." Thousands of marvelous cures. For free book address with 6cts. THE NATIONAL ANTISEPTIC CO., 148 STATE ST. CHICAGO, ILL.

FAT FOLKS REDUCED 15 to 25 lbs. per month by harmless herbal remedies. No starving, no inconvenience and no bad effects. Strictly confidential. Send 6c. for circulars and testimonials. Address Dr. O. W. F. SNYDER, McVicker's Theatre Bldg. Chicago, Ill.

PENSION JOHN W. MORRIS, Washington, D. C.
Successfully Prosecutes Claims
Late Principal Examiner U. S. Pension Bureau.
3 yrs in last war, 15 adjudicating claims, atty since.

PENSIONS—Due all SOLDIERS! ½ disabled. $2 fee for increase. 25 years experience. Write for Laws. A. W. McCORMICK & SONS, WASHINGTON, D. C. & CINCINNATI, O.

LOUIS BAGGER & CO. are the Oldest, Most Efficient, and RELIABLE PATENT SOLICITORS in Washington, D. C.

PATENTS Illustrated Hand Book free. J. B. CRALLE & CO., Washington, D. C.
Please mention this Paper every time you write.

FRECKLES quickly removed by the old "Mountain Doctor's Freckle Remover." Send $1 for it and six other money-making recipes. Address J. C. TUFTS, Waverly, Ohio.

"WOMAN, HER DISEASES AND THEIR Treatment." A valuable illustrated book of 72 pages sent free, on receipt of 10 cents, to cover cost of mailing, etc. Address P. O. Box 1683, Phila. Pa.

F. W. N. U ....No. 27—91.

When Writing to Advertisers, please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

SWIFT DOUBLE-ACTION AUTOMATIC REVOLVER.
DON'T BUY UNTIL YOU HAVE SEEN THE SWIFT. ASK ANY DEALER.
UNEQUALLED
Safety Barrel Catch.
Price, $10
NEW PATENT. THE ONLY PERFECTLY SAFE PISTOL MADE.

For Symmetry, Beauty, Material and Workmanship.

AS PERFECT A PISTOL AS CAN POSSIBLY BE MADE.

If your dealer does not have it, we will send it postpaid on receipt of price.

Impossible to throw the barrel open when discharged.

38 Cal. Using S. & W. C. F. Cartridges

For Sale by all Dealers.

Send 6c. in stamps for our 100-page Illustrated Catalogue of Guns, Rifles, Revolvers, Police Goods, Sporting Goods of all kinds, etc. This Catalogue is so large the postage on it alone costs 5c.

JOHN P. LOVELL ARMS CO., Manufacturers, Boston, Mass.

PISO'S REMEDY FOR CATARRH.—Best. Easiest to use. Cheapest. Relief is immediate. A cure is certain. For Cold in the Head it has no equal.

CATARRH

It is an Ointment, of which a small particle is applied to the nostrils. Price, 50c. Sold by druggists or sent by mail. Address, E. T. HAZELTINE, Warren, Pa.

How's Your Liver?

Is the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy Liver. When the Liver is torpid the Bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood; frequent headache ensues; a feeling of lassitude, despondency and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. Simmons Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy Liver than any agency known on earth. It acts with extraordinary power and efficacy.

NEVER BEEN DISAPPOINTED.

As a general family remedy for Dyspepsia, Torpid Liver, Constipation, etc., I hardly ever use anything else, and have never been disappointed in the effect produced; it seems to be almost a perfect cure for all diseases of the Stomach and Bowels.

W. J. McELROY, Macon, Ga.

For Sale.

Residence property on VanBuren st., just south new Lutheran church, recently furnished throughout. Will sell cheap and on liberal terms if taken within the next few days. Inquire at W. L. Penfield's law office.

Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the Board of Review of DeKalb county, Indiana, will meet at the room of the County Commissioners, in the Court House, in the town of Auburn, on

Monday, July 6, 1891,

for the purpose of assessment, review and equalization of the valuation of real and personal property in said county. Also to hear all complaints that may properly come before them.

H. N. COFFINBERRY,
Auditor, DeKalb county, Ind.

The Fourth at Ft. Wayne.

Ft. Wayne has a big, old fashioned celebration Saturday and asks you all to come and have a good time. Fare for round trip from Auburn 65 cents. There will be great bicycle races, trotting, etc, boat rides on the river, fireworks at night, baseball, balloon ascension, band concert, and all such things.

SPECIAL TRAIN.

Leaves Hillsdale at 6:30 a. m., Angola, 7:45; Pleasant Lake, 7:55; Summit, 8:05; Waterloo, 8:20; Auburn, 8:32; Junction, 8:35; New Era, 8:45. Returning, leave Ft. Wayne 9 p. m. Tickets good to return on Monday, July 6.

Ft. Wayne Stands Well.

The report of the Superintendent of the census, a part of which is now before the people, gives some interesting figures in regard to the expense of carrying on the government of various cities. We notice especially the list in which Ft. Wayne is situated, the class having a population of fifty thousand or under, and called the "Fourth Class." The average expense per capita, for the fifty towns in this class is $9.74, the lowest being $3.79 and the highest $26.31. Those with the lowest are:

Oswego, N. Y.	$3 79
Little Rock, Ark.	3 79
Mobile, Alabama	3 88
Jacksonville, Florida,	3 92
Ft. Wayne, Ind.	4 32

From this it appears that Ft. Wayne, is one of the best managed cities in the country, there being only four of the fifty in its class that have a lower expense rate. The highest in the list is Duluth, Minn., in which the expense of carrying on the city government, is 26.31 for each person in the city. Ft. Wayne is a democratic city, and our republican friends have always had a "pick" at it, but a look at this list will convince the average taxpayer that democratic communities are pretty good places to live in. The four towns with a lower rate than Ft. Wayne, also are in democratic hands generally, on all local matters, while Duluth, the most expensive of the fifty, is in general, strongly republican. Remember these, figures are furnished by Porter, the republican Census Commissioner.

THE DAY WE CELEBRATE.

JULY 4th,

COME TO FORT WAYNE AND SEE

THE OPENING OF THE NEW B. B. AND DRIVING PARK

July 4

DON'T STAY AT HOME.

A ROUND TRIP TICKET WILL COST YOU ONLY 65c.

The grandest celebration in the state. Horse Races, Base Ball, Balloon ascension, Prof. Baldwin's Parachute drop, $1,000.00 Fire Works.

We Do Not Propose to Wait TILL THE SEASON IS OVER

TO MAKE OUR

REDUCTION SALE!

-But Now-

The time when the people of this city are buying their Summer Clothing, we propose to put the knife deep into prices and make our sale

THE GREATEST EVENT IN THE

Clothing trade ever seen in Auburn. Our former low prices knocked still lower. Your chance to own fine,

TAILOR MADE CLOTHING!

never so good as now, for you can buy the finest of suits at what, possibly, cheap and medium grades sold for. Do not wait until the assortment is broken, but come early, so as

TO SECURE GOOD SELECTIONS.

THE BOSTON CLOTHING STORE.

One Price and the Truth.

AUBURN - - IND.

NORTH OF PUBLIC SQUARE.

THE AUBURN COURIER

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY.

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post-office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY..............JULY 2, 1891.

ANN ARBOR graduated 271 this year.

KUHNS is on now trial at Fostoria.

WHEAT harvesting began in southern Indiana last week.

OUT of 146 applicants for West Point for next year, 99 passed.

LEADING Chicago Jews favor adopting the Christian Sabbath, instead of their own Saturday.

NORTHERN PACIFIC railroad has secured a right of way up into the city, proper, at Chicago.

CHICAGO parks have two Japanese men who wheel children in "rickshas," the little Japan wagons.

LARGE balloon burst at a great height at St. Petersburg, Russia, and the four men in it were killed by the fall.

PINE timber may soon give out. Reports show that at the rate we have been using it, the bulk of it will be gone in ten years.

GOV. BOIES, of Iowa, and his lieutenant governor, Samuel L. Bestow, were renominated by the democrats last Wednesday.

INDIANA supreme court sustains the act forbidding parties to pipe natural gas out of the state. Still the Chicago folks expect to keep right on with the work.

EX-SENATOR McDONALD's funeral was on Thursday of last week in the presence of vast throngs of people who came to pay their last tribute of respect to one of Indiana's greatest statesmen.

THE government deals gently with the poor Indian. A Chicago firm has been awarded the contract for furnishing them with pillows and mattresses, and parties at Moline, Ill., furnish them wagons.

ILLINOIS has passed a ballot reform law nearly like our Australian law, though an entire paragraph was left out in copying, and the governor hesitates about signing it. They also passed the Australian law for a new way of conveying land, etc.

WHEN our government first started out to "protect our infant industries," they put on an average duty of 8 per cent. Now, after the "infant" has reached the age of 100 years, the average rate is put up to 60. When will the people get tired of this weakly infant?

THE Record is once more informed that we insist the tariff is a tax, no matter on what article levied. If an article of any possible sort enters this country from abroad and is not on the free list, it pays a duty, and that duty is a tax, and adds to the cost of the article.

WE imported, so McKinley says, in 1889, $321,120.26 worth of potatoes, and collected on them, $132,507.82, making the total cost $453,627.08. An increase of 41 per cent. Yet the Butler Record says it does not increase the cost of "an article produced in this country."

THE government has helped us to cheap sugar, at a loss to it of fifty or sixty millions. It could have given us as great a favor or greater in the way of cheap clothing without itself losing so very much revenue. But it didn't do this, because the men who paid their campaign expenses, wanted only other people's goods made free.

Business Notice.

Notice is hereby given to any and all parties having, or claiming to have any claim, account or note against me, to present the same and have it adjusted, as I do not wish to have any accounts standing against me unsettled.

ANTHONY ZONKER.

WELL, WE ARE STILL ON DECK WITH one of the largest and most carefully selected stocks of confectionery, cigars, tobaccos, bananas, oranges and lemons, to be found in any like-sized business room in the city. Our LUNCH Counter cannot be excelled; Sandwiches, Pies, Cakes, etc. Also carry a COMPLETE LINE of SOFT DRINKS, such as, pop beer, ginger ale, orange cider, milk shake and lemonade. When hungry or thirsty, ALLEVIATE the cravings of your natural APPETITE at CORA SHUGERS',

NO. 10 W. 7TH STREET.

Notice of Final Settlement of Estate.

Notice is hereby given to all persons interested in the estate of George Ensley, deceased, to appear in the DeKalb circuit court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 20th day of July, 1891, and show cause, if any, why my Final Settlement Accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and others interested are notified to then and there make proof of heirship, or claim, and receive their distributive shares.

Witness my name this 27th day of June, 1891.

Joseph B Ensley, Executor.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

By virtue of an execution to me directed from the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, in a cause wherein Isaac Ochs is plaintiff, and Daniel Firestone is defendant, requiring me to make the sum of Eleven Hundred Forty-three dollars and Forty-three cents, with interest on said judgment and costs, I will expose at public sale to the highest bidder, on Saturday, July 25, 1891.

between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m., and 4 o'clock p. m., of said day, at the door of the Court House of DeKalb county, Indiana, the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years, of the following real estate, to-wit:

The undivided one-tenth (1-10) part of the east half of the northeast quarter of section twenty-two (22), the south half of the north west quarter of section (23) and the west thirty-two and one-half (32½) acres of the north half of the northwest quarter of said section twenty-three 23) all in township thirty-five (35) north of range fourteen [14] east, situate in DeKalb County in the state of Indiana.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said judgment, interest and costs, I will at the same time and place, expose to public sale the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said judgment, interest and costs. Said sale will be made without any relief whatever from valuation or appraisement laws.

PHIL PLUM,
Sheriff of DeKalb County.

Auburn, June 30th, 1891.

JOHN W. BAXTER, Att'y for Plaintiff.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL.

Mrs. Chris. Sailor is seriously ill at present.

Casebeer & Matheny for wall paper and paper and paints. 19tf

Try our perfumes the best in the market, Robbins & McCord.

See those pretty afghans for baby carriages at Robbins & McCord's.

Mrs. Baldwin had two lady friends from Butler visiting this week.

Bert Inks, the pitcher, has joined the Duluth club and gets $250 a month.

Dottie Gibson spent Sunday in Angola, the guest of J. W. McCrory's family.

If you want strictly pure mixed paints call at Casebeer & Matheny's drugstore.

PIANOS & ORGANS on easy terms. Address, Davis & Husselman, Waterloo, Ind.

See those new hammocks at Robbins & McCord's. All prices from 50c to $5.00. 26-28

The "Fair" at Garrett. Most popular emporium of the cheap, beautiful and useful.

Dr. S. B. Johnson, dentist, will be in his office at Waterloo on Thursday of each week.

Don't forget us on baby carriages We are bound to save you money, Robbins & McCord.

For fans, fireworks, flags of all sizes, and other decoration goods at lowest prices, go to The Fair, Garrett, Ind.

Mr. Lamport and family were over here last Saturday, for a few hours. He was called here to preach the funeral sermon of Mrs. Frank Hogue.

The singing society at Sedan will give a lawn social on Mr. Steckley's lawn near the church in that place, on Saturday, July 11. See bills.

The place to buy twine cheap is at Brown & Culbertson's. Tariff all off and most of the profit. Full stock of repairs for the McCormick, Esterly, Empire and other machines. 27

Mrs. Croy who lives in Gas Addition makes beautiful and natural appearing paper flowers, which she furnishes at reasonable prices. They make nice home decorations.

Come and see the display of silver-plated knives, forks, table spoons, tea spoons, sugar shells, butter knives, etc., sold so cheap at The Fair, Opera House Block, Garrett, Ind.

The Fair, at Garrett, is the place to buy cheap tinware, glassware, queensware and all kinds of household necessities. Call and see our 5 and 10 cent counters. J. Wm. Wagoner, Pro.

The Kruger saloon on South Main street has been moved to Holgate, Ohio; Mr. Kruger, senior, and H. J. Mossey, will we are told, put in a stock of groceries and so have two establishments of that kind. We wish them success.

Are you aware of the fact that Beuret is handling one of the finest lines of screen doors, window screens, etc. Well, he is, and those wishing to keep out the pesky flies and insects during the summer months, will find that he has the very screen that will keep 'em out. 19tf

Mabel Hartman will use in her physical culture, the Delsarte system of gymnastics. And for strength and physical training, dumb bells, Indian clubs, etc. Special attention will be given to class work, with a thorough study of Julius Cæsar and pantomimic action.

Do you smoke? If you do, we take it for granted that you want a cigar that has some tobacco about it. There is nothing that will take the place of genuine tobacco for smoking purposes. If you buy Kessler Brothers' brands of cigars, you will get the pure quill every time.

There will be a grand musical concert on Wednesday eve. July 8, at the Presbyterian church given by Prof. Green of Chicago assisted by the famous Hayden Quartet of Ft. Wayne. The new vocalion will be used and the entertainment is guaranteed to be the best of the season. Proceeds to go toward the new organ.

Auburn Normal School.

As already noted, this season's normal begins July 20 and closes August 28. The next week after the school closes, the county institute is held here, beginning on Monday, Aug. 31. Then the next week after that, the Auburn fair is held here. We speak of these things in the order in which they come, so our people, and especially students can understand it and make their arrangements accordingly. There are some other things that will interest students. We will name a few.

SCHOOL EXPENSES.

It is believed by forming clubs, the board can be greatly reduced. Mrs. May Dills says if a reasonable number of students can be clubbed together, if they furnish the material, she can do the cooking so they will not have to pay more than $1.50 a week. Their room rent aside from meals will not cost over 50 cent. So the entire expense will be kept down to about $2.00 a week. Mr. Coe can give any information needed by calling on him.

EXTRA BRANCHES.

Although this term is to take regular studies in the main, it will not be confined to these. For instance there will be a regular set of lessons in short hand by George Henderson, who is court reporter, and thoroughly skilled in the work. He will give a lesson each day, and make it practical, of course this will be an extra charge. There are other special features that we have not space to enumerate, but all can be assured the school will do thorough work. Mr. Harrison is just now in Ohio, on some business matters, but will be home in about a week or so, but in the meantime Mr. Coe is here and can give all desired information. Call on him, or write.

Reduced Rates to Minneapolis, Minn.

For the meeting of Christian Endeavor Society, the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railway will sell reduced rate excursion tickets to Minneapolis, Minn., and return, July 6th to 8th inclusive, 1891. Apply to ticket agents. 27

A Model Railway.

The Burlington Route, C. B. & Q. R. R., operates 7,000 miles of road, with termini in Chicago, St. Louis, St. Paul, Kansas City and Denver. For speed, safety comfort, equipment, track and efficient service it has no equal. The Burlington gains new patrons, but loses none. 38

Auburn Boy Honored.

A late paper from Spokane Falls, Wash., has an item that will be of interest to every citizen here, who knew Harry Rush. It will be seeen that he has been elected to the highest office in the state, in the Knights Templars at the the recent state meeting. Here is what it says:

The Spokane people who attended the Grand Lodge of Masons at Seattle, have most all returned home. They report a full attendance from all parts of the state, and that the growth of the order has been very marked since the last meeting of the Grand Lodges. The Cataract Commandary Knight Templars, of Spokane, captured their share of the Grand Lodge officers. S. H. Rush was elected Right Em. Gr. Commander; D. K. McPherson, of Spokane, Em. Gr. Sr. Warden; W. H. Tyler, Em. Gr. Jr. Warden; W. H. Tyler, of Spokane, being also elected Gr. Scribe of the Grand Chapter R. A. M.

The next meeting of the grand lodges of Masonry of the State of Washington will be held in Spokane some time in June of next year.

The C. L. S. C.

The first public reception of the Cary Chautauqua Literary Circle, took place at the residence of J. C. Henry Tuesday evening, and was a very brilliant and enjoyable affair. Mr. and Mrs. Henry had made their elegant home, more than usually lovely, by an abundance of tasty and beautiful decoration, and everywhere one was met with a profusion of lovely and fragrant flowers, as well as evergreens and similar ornaments. The ladies of the club were untiring in their attentions to their guests, who numbered over sixty and all were made welcome. The evening's program began by a call to order by the president, Mrs. Henry, and then the literary part of the entertainment began. The first was the "Chautauqua Song" finely executed and very appropriate to the occasion; then the roll call, the responses being brief quotations from Tennyson. The address of welcome, by the president followed. It was in perfect good taste, and well delivered, giving a brief history of the club, its work and aims. Edna Davis followed with a well executed piano solo. Then there was "Pictures of Memory" very ably rendered by Mrs. Penfield who spoke in a very dignified, and impressive manner, yet with perfect ease. Laura Keeran followed with an oration, "The Eternal City," which would be difficult to excel. It is high enough praise if we say it was not excelled by anything on the excellent program. Mrs. Fred. Yesbera sang "Swiss Echo Song" with her usual sweetness and to the delight of her hearers. Mrs. W. H. McIntyre then recited "The Plea of Joan of Arc Before the Jury," a master production well given. The first exercise of a humorous nature, was that given by Mrs. Plum, "Railroad Crossing," spoken with the readiness and ease that go so far to make a humorous piece of this style, so effective. She was heartily applauded, as in fact had been those who preceeded her. Mrs. Moss then played some choice selections on the piano, while the charade was put in readiness. This was an original and decidedly witty piece, three scenes, for the three syllables, which stood for the word "Chautauqua." The ladies in this were Mesdames Chas. Schaab, E. C. Sheets, W. H. McIntyre, J. A. Clifton, Anna Moss, M. Baldwin, D. E. Carruth, Fin. Gibson, J. W. McKay, D. D. Moody, Miss Edna Davis and Miss Laura Ober. There is no use to try to tell the good things in this dialogue. It was a grand production, splendidly given and all heartily enjoyed it. This part of the exercises closed with a piano duet by Mrs. Moss and Mrs. W. H. McIntyre. After this came the social part of the entertainment, followed by a lunch that was all the most exacting could wish, showing again, that the ladies' literary work had not in the least lessened their ability and skill in the culinary department. The guests are all highly pleased at their good fortune to be there, and on retiring left worlds of good wishes for Mr. and Mrs. Henry and for all the ladies of the "Cary Chautauqua Circle." It should also be added that there is ten graduates from the course this year out of a total membership of twenty-two. They are: Mrs. Henry, Mrs. Clifton, Mrs. Baldwin, Mrs. Moss Mrs. W. H. McIntyre, Mrs. Penfield, Mrs. Chas. Schaab, Mrs. Clarence Reut, Mrs. Dr. Watson and Mrs. Moody.

Still in the Ring.

Hank Little, who does the "editorial" on the Garrett Clipper, in saite of warnings to keep sober as the new marshal would run him in, could hold out no longer and about four weeks ago, had his usual two weeks' drunk. His friends managed to keep him from coming up town for several days but he finally got away, and in driving and see-sawing about the streets in a sulky, came so near running over several children that the marshal was about to run him in when some of his friends got him away and forced him to go home. The marshal afterwards swore out a warrant to bring him up and have him fined for being drunk in public places. But in the meantime his long spree ended with a spell of sickness, the result of hard drink, same as "snakes." So he was allowed to wait till able to come up town. Last week on Monday evening he was up town, and sober, for the first time we remember seeing him up town in that condition for many years. We had forgotten about his trial and thought he was taking notes of the many new blocks that had gone up, since he had gazed on the town with sober eyes. But it was not that exactly. He was to be tried before 'Squire Hague. The trial was begun by putting on the witnesses for the defense first, so we are told, for it seems the state of Indiana not Hank Little, was to be punished for wrong doing. On Saturday evening the other side was tried, and it would seem from the outcome, that the state of Indiana was altogether wrong, and that Hank Little, the man who got drunk was altogether right, and a very much persecuted person. Those who had seen him in his maudlin condition, claimed he was not drunk, although we are told that one of them led him home. One of the marshal's witnesses testified that there was every appearance of drunk, and that he believed the defendant was drunk, but he could not swear to it strong enough to go down as required. It was also proved that about three hours later, the defendant was drunk, but it was decided that this could not be admitted in this case as evidence. The result was the drunken and disgraced editor (?) was whitewashed and turned loose. And this is the way the marshal is sustained and helped in his efforts to keep better order on our streets! There seems to be no difficulty in proving drunkenness against country boys, or wandering gypsies, although they are found in that condition for but a few minutes. The best thing our authorities can now do is to put the calaboose in order and then the marshal can run these bums right in and keep them there till they are safe and decent in the streets. It will be cheaper, more sure, and may save a great deal of wear and tear on the machinery of justice.

A Mule 90 Years Old.

Mr. A. Wheelock has been down to Toledo and while there heard of an aged mule a few miles out in the country, and went out to see it, as it is a great curiosity. It has been in the family of its present owner, all its life, so that there is no doubt about its age. It is now ninety and still in fair health and spirits, and lives a life of ease and independence, for its owner takes good care that it wants for nothing. It is quite a favorite and has everything its own way. It will even lie down in the road and refuse to move for passing teams and they are obliged to go around it. It is a proof of the mule's claim to immortality, as set for in the old saying "A mule never dies."

To Our Patrons.

The time for our regular annual settlements has arrived and we kindly request all our patrons to call and make settlements. Please do so without further urging, and oblige

Yours Respectfully,
29 CASEBEER & MATHENY.

Town Lots for Sale.

Very desirable residence lots for sale at reasonable terms. Thirteen lots in the S. W. Ralston Addition south of the High school grounds. Also a fractional lot on West Seventh street. All in a good locality. Inquire of Mrs. S. W. Ralston or A. J. Ralston.

On the Fourth of July

You will come to Garrett to Celebrate

with us, and every body in town will assist in making it pleasant for you. But while seeing and enjoying the many pleasing sights especially gotten up for this occasion, do not forget to call and see how many useful and and ornamental articles you can purchase for 5c, 10c, 15c and 25c, at

THE FAIR

in Opera House Building. You will find that you can buy

Queensware,
Glassware,
Woodenware,
Willow-ware,
Tinware,
Table Cutlery,
Pocket Knives,
Brushes,
Combs,
Silver Plated Ware,
Lamps and Trimmings,
Books,
Writing Paper,
Albums,
Toilet Cases,
Games,
Harmonicas,
Jewelry,
Toys,
Toilet Soap,
Vases,
Flower Pots,
Fruit Jars,
Jelly Glasses.

Ribbons,
Fancy Sewing Material,
Laces,
Embroidery,
Flouncing,
Towels,
Fine Table Linen,
Neckwear,
Handkerchiefs,
Hosiery,
Hammocks,
Fans,
Silk Thread,
Cotton Thread,
Yarns, Germantown, Zephyr, Saxony,
Mitts and Gloves,
Lace Pillow Shams,
Baby Carriages,
Toy Carriages,
Rugs,
Matts,
Splint Splashers,

A good stock of Fireworks, Flags, Chinese Lanterns, Parasols, Fans, Balloons and other decoration goods; in fact, thousands of articles we have not space to mention, as cheap as at any house in Chicago or any other city in this country.

Be sure and remember

THE FAIR,

Opera House Building, Garrett, Ind.

J. Wm. WAGNER, Pro,

ROOT & COMPANY,

FORT WAYNE, - - - - INDIANA,

It Pays To Keep Posted

AS TO

WHAT'S GOING ON IN OUR ACTIVE STORE.

☞ Samples from any department mailed to you upon application.

BLACK COTTON FABRICS.

Grenadine Styles, Plain, Stripes and Plaids, absolutely fast black.

10c up to 50c.

BLACK SILK LACES,

all widths, Chantilly flouncings Demi flouncings and edges to match.

COINDOT DRAPERY NETS

at 90c, $1, $1.25 per yard.

WASH FABRICS,

in the new and dainty Brandenbergs, Pine Apple Tissues, Shanton Cloths, at 12½c, 15c and 20c.

The printing upon these fabrics is equal to that of the choicest China Silks.

LADIES' SHIRT WAISTS

made of Silk Madras, Flannelettes, Percales, Zephyrs, etc.

PRINTED CHINA SILKS,

in dark and light grounds, 50c, up to 88c.

DO YOU NEED NEW CARPETS, DRAPERIES, RUGS, SHADES? we will send estimates. Our facilities are greatly increased — our stocks very large.

KID GLOVES

Suede and Glace — 4-button to arm-length to match shades of dress goods.

Evening shades a specialty.

LANSDOWNES,

in Black and Colors at lower prices than can be had anywhere else.

THE NEW YORK STORE.

SUMMER GOODS

Of Every Description Must be Sold, & the

Low Prices

we name will surely do it.

◆●◆

Boys' Waists and Blouses,

13c, 19c, 25c, 38c.

Ladies' & Misses Blouses & Shirt-waists,

75c, $1.00, $1.25.

Black and Cream Silk Mitts,

10c, 20c, 25c, 35c, 40c, and 50c.

Men's Outing Flannel Shirts,

25c, 40c, 50c, and 75c.

Splendid value in

SUMMER UNDERWEAR,

For Ladies, Gentlemen and Children.

HARTER

East of Court House, Auburn.

I. O. BUCHTEL,
Homœopathic
Physician and Surgeon.

Special attention given to chronic and obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.

Office and residence over Smith & Madden's marble works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, night or day.

Dr. James Adams,

VETERINARY SURGEON.

Will treat all Diseases of Domestic Animals. He has had THIRTY YEARS successful PRACTICE. Call on him at his residence No. 34, North Main street, or at ROBBINS & McCORD'S Drug Store.

Dr. David N. Fitch,

VETERINARY SURGEON and DENTIST,

Has located in Auburn, and will give his entire attention to the treatment of all DISEASES of DOMESTIC ANIMALS. Is a graduate in Veterinary Surgery and Dentistry, from the CHICAGO VETERINARY COLLEGE.

Office at the PALACE FEED BARN on West 9th St.

—AUBURN WOOLEN MILLS—

……DOES……

All kinds of CUSTOM WORK, such as Carding, Spinning, Etc.

ALSO

MANUFACTURE for the TRADE, Yarns Flannels, Skirtings, Blankets and Wool Bats.

These goods are absolutely PURE and warranted to give SATISFACTION to the Consumer.

—ENSLEY & FORKNER, Proprietors.—
Call at FACTORY North End of Main street

AUBURN, IND.

LOCAL NEWS.

Fruit jars at Mossey's.

Fruit jars at Beuret's. Don't forget it.

Fire works, flags, etc., for July 4th, at Robbins & McCord's.

Miss Ada Myers, by Rainier's for millinery at reduced rates. 28

ORGAN FOR SALE: A nice large one of the Story & Camp make, as good as new. Call at this office.

J. Beuret for screens that will stand the usage of more than one season. Call and see them before purchasing elsewhere. 19tf

Harper's Young People for June 30th will be a Fourth of July number. It will contain an article on "The Manufacture of Fireworks," by Edmund Collins; a tableau, "America," by Lydia Field Emmet; and stories appropriate to the occasion by E. H. House, David Ker, and others.

MILES' NERVE & LIVER PILLS. Act on a new principle—regulating the liver, stomach and bowels through the nerves. A new discovery. Dr. Miles' Pills speedily cure biliousness, bad taste, torpid liver, piles, constipation. Unequaled for men, women, and children. Smallest, mildest, surest! 30 doses, 25 cts. Samples free at F. E. Davenport's.

McELREE'S WINE OF CARDUI for Weak Nerves.

Buy your fire works for the Fourth at Robbins & McCord's.

Our machine oil is the best on the market, Robbins & McCord.

Fire crackers, sky rockets, etc., for the Fourth at Robbins & McCord's.

For anything in the line of lunch or soft drinks, call on Cora Shugers, No. 10 W. 7th St.

We keep the very best machine oil, lard oil, neatsfoot oil at bottom prices, Robbins & McCord.

HOUSE TO RENT: A good, new house in pleasant part of town, on reasonable terms. Inquire of Wm. J. Walsworth east of Auburn. 28

A few dollars invested in screen doors will add greatly to your comfort during the hot months of summer. J. Beuret has them, and don't you forget it. 19tf

The New Process Vapor stove sold by Beuret is the latest invention in household labor saving stoves. The simplest, easiest and safest. Go and see it for yourselves, at Beuret's, Auburn.

Steam engine and boiler for sale. Engine 45 H. P., boiler 55 H. P. Engine has been rebored and refitted, boiler in good shape. Can be seen at Gavitt & Goodwin,s machine shop, Waterloo, Ind. 27-29

Are you prospering? We hope you are, and if you are we hope you will deal profitably with yourself in so much that you will go up and see the New Process vapor stove, which is handled by J. Beuret. tf

Say young man, if you are going to get married and want to keep in the good graces of your better-half you should go to Beuret's and get herone of those New Process vapor stoves. It will add to her comfort and convenience and at the same time make you happy, because she will always be in a good humor. tf

English Spavin Liniment removes all hard, soft, or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavin, curbs, splints, sweeny, ring-bone, stifles, all swollen throats, coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle, warranted. The most wonderful blemish cure known. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Indiana. tf

RHEUMATISM CURED IN A DAY.—"Mystic Cure" for rheumatism and neuralgia radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immdiately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. 75 cents. Sold by Robbins & McCord, druggists, Auburn.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

Look here! Stop! and think. All men who are interested either in the purchase or employment of a threshing machine, should drop in and see the celebrated threshing machine and engine handled by Heberling & Caruth — the finest threshing machine ever brought to this town. They guarantee them to thresh and clean ready for market from fifteen hundred to two thousand bushels of grain, a day and save all the grain.

Try BLACK-DRAUGHT tea for Dyspepsia.

Fire works at Robbins & McCord's.

A good house on Jackson street for rent. Inquire of W. H. McIntyre.

J. H. Krontz of Wilmington township was in town Saturday. He is attending school at Taylor University, Ft. Wayne.

Ah, ha! Something new! Just call in and get a package of "Queen Bee" Coffee at Brandon's. It's the best in the market.

Miss Myers wishes to reduce her stock of goods now, and will sell all kinds of trimmed goods and flowers at greatly reduced prices.

Miss Myers will sell you flowers and trimmed goods at prices that will surprise you. She is bound not to carry any stock over.

WOOL! WOOL!! WOOL!!! We will pay the highest market price for WOOL. It will be to your interest to see us before you sell. Schaab & Bro. 19tf

W. H. McIntyre has two very desirable residences for sale, to some responsible parties on the installment plan, at from $8 to $12 per month. See him and stop paying rent. 20tf

Bam Swart, "The Rambler" who wrote such interesting letters to the COURIER from Colorado, etc., about a year ago, was here Monday and called on us. He is as wide awake as usual, and at present engaged with a Ft. Wayne House in some mercantile business.

A prominent merchant says "I have sold Megrimine for over a year and guaranteed it to cure any headache without after effects, and have not found a single case it did not relieve." Sold by Robbins & McCord in Auburn. The Dr. Whitehall Megrimine Co., South Bend, Ind.

Summer millinery at greatly reduced prices. We will sell everything in the millinery line way below value to close out, as we do not wish to carry any goods over. We still have a choice variety of hats, bonnets and children's caps from the cheapest to the finest. Nicely trimmed hats for $1.00 and upward. All in need of anything in this line should call and see them.

Miss F. A. Husselman
Corunna, Ind.

GREEN MOUNTAIN SALVE: Is unequalled as a cure for all rheumatic pains, weakness in the side, back or any other place, and is unexcelled for cuts, bruises, corns, etc. It is the uncompromising enemy of pain in whatever form, or wherever manifested, and has never been known to fail in a contest with this dreaded foe of human happiness. If you would live a peaceful and painless life, try this great remedy and you will never regret it.

Our friend Ex-Commissioner Kelham gave us a brief visit Saturday. There is a man who has a clear knowledge of the great tariff steal. He is thankful for free sugar but thinks (and he is right) that more money would have been saved to the people and to the government if our clothing and the articles used in making it could be put on the free list instead. The people could be saved five times what the cheapened sugar will save them and the government would get more revenue, because so much of our sugar came from abroad and must pay duty while clothing material being largely produced or made here, pays so little duty. But the producers of such goods raise their prices just the same, and Uncle Sam gets but little.

☞ BLACK-DRAUGHT tea cures Constipation.

Auburn Normal school, July 20.

Smoking tobacco at Kessler Bros'.

See our little ad, headed "Garrett's Fourth."

See our time card of special trains on the Lake Shore July 4.

All designs of latest style wall paper at Casebeer & Matheny's. 19tf

Farmers—Try our machine oil 40c a gallon, Robbins & McCord. 26

Hats 15, 25 and 35 cents at Mrs. Fnnk's. To close out stock. tf

Mrs. H. R. Culbertson is up in Michigan visiting friends at Ypsilanti.

All new styles of wall paper at Casebeer & Matheny's. No shoddy goods.

Highest market price paid for tub-washed wool at Auburn Woolen Mills. tf

Everything bids fair for a big celebration in Garrett, Saturday, the glorious Fourth.

Hoff has a new stock of goods just opened up. Groceries new and fresh. See him.

A new fair has been organized at Maxinkuckee and will hold its first meeting Sept. 22.

County Teachers' Institute for Noble county, is held at Ligonier beginning August 17.

Still they come in and go out like hot cakes—those baby carriages at Robbins & McCord's. 26-28

Defiance county, Ohio, will hold no fair at the county seat. They will sell the ground, to pay their debts.

Jeff Boyle, of Butler, was over here Saturday with his wife. Both are looking well, and they are prospering.

The New Process Vapor stove at Beuret's has no generator. Nothing to get out of order, and begins to work at once.

The game of ball here last Thursday, was fairly well attended, and resulted in a victory for Auburn, the score standing 10 to 7.

One of our new subscribers of last week is Jacob Souder, of Leo. We are glad to make his acquaintance and hope to give him a good paper.

Wheat harvesting has begun in the sandy portions of this part of the state. Late rains have lodged it some, but the crop bids fair to be a large one.

Megrimine cures any headache in 30 minutes. Sold by Robbins & McCord druggists in Auburn. The Dr. Whitehall Megrimine Co., South Bend, Ind.

St. Joe News: Auburn takes the lead in everything enterprising, and her latest move is a skunk factory. Whew! That's enough to make anybody move.

LOST: Last Friday in the northwest part of Auburn, a gray shawl with a black border. The finder will be suitably rewarded by leaving it at Davenport's drug store.

Mrs. Anice Leas went up to Ann Arbor Monday, to attend the wedding of Agnes Leas, who was married on Tuesday. She is the second daughter of the late Ex-Sheriff A. S. Leas.

Sanford Smith, of Waterloo, remembered his friends in the printing office Saturday. He has rebuilt the burned mill and is now again at work in the lumber business. We hope to see him prosper.

Mrs. W. E. Rush has received the pension she applied for some time ago. This is the right thing on the part of our Uncle Sam and we can assure the old fellow the money will be used for a good purpose.

Veterans who wish to obtain pensions, bounty etc., or who wish information concerning claims already filed, should write to Chas. McClellan Solicitor of Claims, 612 F. St. N. W. Washington, D. C.

Robert Encell of Warsaw, well known to some of our readers, died about a week ago at the insane asylum at Logansport. He had been there a few months. His disease was something like softening of the brain.

LOST: Monday, on Main street between the residences of Dr. Ford and James Brinkerhoff, a silk umbrella and a purse, with a small amount of money in it. Finder will confer a great favor by leaving at this office.

Lagrange county expects to have a fair this fall, as they have re-organized. In the meantime DeKalb county has two good, live fairs in operation, and both bound to be successful. Auburn has hers Sept. 7, and Waterloo starts in Oct. 5.

PLAIN SEWING: Mrs. L. Cone, will do plain dressmaking and sewing, and asks the ladies of Auburn to give her a share of the work, which she will do in a neat, substantial manner and at fair rates. Call on her at her rooms at T. J. Saxton's on South Jackson street.

Indiana will probably have another port or harbor on Lake Michigan, besides Michigan City. The great meat packers, Armour and Swift, of Chicago, have concluded to locate the big new stockyards at Tolleston, near South Chicago, and on the Indiana side of the line. A fine harbor will soon be a large town.

Dr. Allen gave two valuable remedies free, in a conversation the other day. He says the leaves of blackwalnut, put while hot on a boil, will drive it away. And a felon may be cured by cutting open a young, green walnut and binding the half on the felon. He thinks perhaps, the leaves themselves would cure the felon. It would cost nothing to try these remedies.

It will be remembered that a few weeks ago some skilled dentists were at the Swineford House, who extracted teeth without pain. Those who tried them, said it was square goods, the pain being hardly felt at all. They had a patent apparatus and Dr. S. B. Johnston procured one of them, and it will interest our people to learn that he can pull without pain exactly as the Detroit doctors did.

Charles Picker has a fine specimen of the beak of a sword fish, one of the strange and dangerous animals of the great ocean. It is a savage looking thing and had been trimmed so as to leave a place to be grasped by the hand, making it a very ugly weapon, the real sword of the natives of some of the Pacific islands. This specimen came from relatives in Colorado, who had received it from Seattle on the Sound.

A bright little gathering of ladies was that at Edward Wilson's last Friday afternoon. They were the Ladies' Aid Society of the Christian church at Waterloo, who had come over here to hold their regular meeting with Mrs. Wilson, who had been a member. She surprised them by setting out a fine supper for them. Among them were Mrs. Dr. Darby, Mrs. Joel Harms, Mrs. Squires, Mrs. Jennie Shull, Mrs. C. M. Phillips, Miss Bessie Bassett and others whose names we did not learn. Mrs. Wilson also invited a few of her neighbors including Mrs. Wm. Crane, Mrs. Cook Ford and Mrs. Barns. They all agree they had a good time.

☞ WINE OF CARDUI, a Tonic for Women.

Town lots for sale. See our notice.

Court has adjourned for a couple of weeks.

Drink "Queen Bee" Coffee. Brandon is selling lots of it.

Harry Henry is at home for a short visit with his people.

See those high grade hammocks at Robbins & McCord's. 26-28

Try a package of P. D. J. Tea, at Brandon's 25c a pound.

Rev. G. W. Healy visits at his home in Albion, Mich., this week.

Dr. Fruth's visits at the Swineford, July 6. Remember the date.

We lead the market on hammocks from 50c up, Robbins & McCord.

A new line of wall paper just received at Casebeer & Matheny's. 19tf

Megrimine, the new cure for headache and neuralgia, at Robbins & McCord's.

Mrs. A. E. Tanberg went to Janesville, Wis., to-day, to visit her parents who reside there.

Musical entertainment at the Presbyterian church next Wednesday evening. Don't forget.

Miss Belle Tomlinson, of Butler, visited her sister, Mrs. Ernest Sheets a part of this week.

Famous Hayden Quartet of Fort Wayne, at the Presbyterian church July 11, evening.

One of the best quartets in the state, at the Presbyterian church next Wednesday evening, July 8.

Fanny Casebeer and a freind, Miss Smith of Chicago, have been visiting in town for a few days.

Wanted! Wanted!! Wanted!!! at the Auburn Woolen Mills, all the wool we can get. Highest market price, don't forget it. 19tf

Mrs. John McIntyre is here visiting the relatives the families of W. H. and Wm. McIntyre. They reside at Memphis, Tenn.

Big celebration in grand style at Garrett, July 4. There will be trotting, speaking, base ball, bicycle, sack and foot races, and a big parade.

We forgot last week to note a visit from G. M. Scott, now located at Emma, Lagrange county. It will interest the friends to hear that he is in average good health.

PIANO FOR SALE: A good square piano in good condition and on reasonable terms. Inquire of Dr. S. B. Johnston at his residence or dental office on North Main street, Auburn.

The salaries of a number of postmasters have been raised. Of those who get $100 more than before, we find Angola, now $15,000; Auburn now has $1,700; Butler, $1,500; Garrett, $1,200.

At the business meeting for the Presbyterian church Monday evening, the following were chosen trustees: F. J. Yesbera, John Otto and S. D. Hanna. They also decided to build a parsonage, the work to begin soon.

MARRIED: At the residence of W. L. Meese, June 27th, Samuel Morr to Effie Provines. Also, by the same, at the residence of Wm. McKinley June 27th, William Swank to Rebecca Kester. The best wishes of the COURIER go with them.

Miss Flora Jones returned to her home in Columbia City after a visit with friends here. Her friend Miss Zadie Wallace, had returned Sunday evening and we think both had passed a pleasant week. They are always welcome up here.

While Mrs. E. Beaty was visiting at her parents, Jacob Lochner's, last week, her little child Neva, while playing with the large dog, was bitten in the face, causing a painful but not serious wound in the child's cheek. The dog was immediately killed.

Anyone wishing to purchase a first-class roadster or draft horse, or both, can gain information concerning the same by calling at this office. Team will be sold for a reasonable cash price. Investigate at once, as this notice may not appear again.

Our genial friend A. P. Foltz, of Garrett, made this office a pleasant call last Thursday afternoon. He not only entertained us by his smoothness of speech, but he also delighted the printer, by leaving a substantial amount of the dust that makes both ends meet.

Have you tried South American Nervine—the gem of the century? The great cure for indigestion, dyspepsia and nervousness. Warranted the most wonderful stomach and nerve cure ever known. Trial bottles 15 cents. Sold by Robbins & McCord, druggists, Auburn.

Schnell & Weeks are still south of the jail with as fine a line of groceries, provisions, etc., as can be found in the city. They are great favorites with the "reciprocity" plan, that is, you will always get value received for every dollar spent for goods in their establishment.

John O. Snyder of Waterloo is to help work in the normal school at Butler. He recently graduated at Waterloo in the public school, and later on he went to the state University at Bloomington, where he is in the Freshman class, or first college year. He has also taught some in the district schools, giving him a good knowledge of their needs.

Now, that the time of year is fast approaching, when fruits, berries jellies, jams, etc., are to be canned up and set away for winter use, people may begin to wonder where and at what price they are going to get the necessary jars. If, while in town, you go to Beuret's, you will find fruit jars in abundance, with prices to suit the times.

The L. L. C. will have no meeting this Saturday, but one week later, July 11th, they will meet with Mrs. Rose. Miss McTighe, leader, lesson from page 194 to 201. David and Jonathan, Mrs. Emanuel; paper, by Mrs. Willis; reading, by Mrs. Garwood. Mrs. G. H. Forkner was recently elected a member. After this meeting there will be a vacation till the first Saturday in September.

There was quite a bicycle parade on Main street Thursday evening, eighteen of them being in line at one time. They went through various evolutions and drills and made a fine show. This is the way a bicycle show should be given. The little races we have on public days, do not amount to half as much. Let us hereafter have a grand parade, and not a little flirt of a race, that few can see.

Wm. Clark a well known and respected citizen died last Friday morning, and was buried from the M. E. church Sunday afternoon. He was a prominent member of the G. A. R., and the comrades not only of this place, but many from Waterloo took part in the funeral services. The sermon was by Mr. Wooton, and interment in Woodlawn. There was a large attendance. He was a member of Co. G. 152nd Ind., and had resided here about sixteen years. He was born in Ohio, and his age was about fifty-two. The W. R. C. and S. of V., also assisted at the funeral. He leaves a most worthy family, his wife, two sons and a daughter to mourn for him.

McElree's WINE OF CARDUI for female diseases.

Big time for the P. L. folks July 4, at Hamilton's grove near St. Joe.

Ropes, ropes, a good stock for sale at Beuret's in Auburn. Call when you need a rope.

Wanted: All the Ginseng we can buy. Will pay highest market prices Robbins & McCord. 26-28

For cheap tea and good coffee, see Brandon. He's got the stock that will please you.

Chris Curie, of St. Joe, began cutting his wheat last week. It takes an early bird to get ahead of Chris.

Your money will buy a better and larger hammock at Robbins & McCord's than any place in the city. 26

Mrs. W. L. Penfield has returned from a stay at Clear Lake in Steuben county. That is becoming a very popular resort.

Do you know that Brandon has got one of the best grocery stores for its size, in town? Well, he has, and a glance therein will prove it.

Miss Minnie McCray of Mansfield, and her sister Emma of Ashland, with another young lady of the former place, are visiting friends here. They are the guests of Alza Ralston. They return home to-day.

Adam Deetz of Custer, was in town Tuesday, and like a thoughtful friend, remembered how hard it is for the printer to get through harvest time, and so paid up a year ahead. All these things help. Mr. Deetz says a few fields of wheat will be cut in his township this week.

We see by the Benton, Ark., Courier, that its editor, T. C. Mays has received a valuable pin made of Hot Springs diamonds and set in gold, the gift of a Hot Springs friend. Tom always had a faculty of making friends, and getting fine pins and other souvenirs. Well, we wouldn't object if they were real diamonds.

E. H. Bookwalter, of the Ft. Wayne Gazette, made this office a very brief but pleasant call, Tuesday. Besides being a wide-awake business man, he is a live Son of a Veteran, and says that E. S. Walker Camp will begin running excursions in August, to secure an advanced treasury fund with which to warrant a royal entertainment for the encampment of the Indiana Division to be held there in 1892.

Mrs. L D. Britton received word last week of the serious illness of a grandson Ralph Riley at his home near Ashland, Ohio. He died on Friday the same day she started to go there. The young man was about 22, and his father was the Henry Riley, who at one time was in the grocery business with Mr. Swineford in the old room that stood where the Kiblinger block and COURIER office now are.

The canvass for subscriptions to the creamery goes on very nicely. A number of our best men both in town and country have taken shares, and at this writing over $1,000 has been taken. A number of farmers have sent word that they stand ready to help. The time however, is passing, and our people should hurry up and get the new industry established as soon as we can, for it will, we believe be a paying thing, at least for farmers.

A correspondent writes to complain that his report of Mr. Kelley's speech at the Boots school house meeting was not correctly published in the News. We might add, that Mr. Kelley probably does not mind that very much, as it has become a sort of habit to misrepresent him. Our people, however, know him well enough, so that he may well feel at ease, and he has proved himself on all occasions able to take care of himself. We are glad, however, that this correspondent insists on his right, that of having his letters correctly given to the public.

Will Close on the Fourth.

Auburn business men have generally agreed to close their places of business on Saturday, the Fourth of July. We suppose the most of them will open a while in the morning for a short time, and again in the evening, but through the day, they will generally close. They will generally go to Garrett or Fort Wayne.

At Rest.

Mrs. Frank Hogue died last Thursday morning after a long illness of that dread disease consumption. The funeral was at the M. E. church Saturday forenoon, Rev. H. M. Lamport her former pastor preaching the funeral discourse. She was laid to rest in Woodlawn cemetery. They had been married about 8 years, her age being about 36. She was a most worthy woman and exemplary wife, and the blow to Mr. Hogue is a terrible one, though both have had to face its dread certainty for many months. Mr. Hogue has the deepest sympathy of all our people.

A Good Word for Auburn.

The more sensible papers of the north part of the state often show that they understand the situation in Auburn, while others not so careful, insist on copying from some of our local papers that are all the time finding fault with everything Auburn does, magnifying her debt, and never mention the good things we have to show for it. The same is true as to our private affairs, our neighbors often seeming to ignore the very valuable interests our people have built up. Not so, however with such papers as the Columbia City Post. We noticed last week a communication in the Post which after urging the people over there to go on and build up valuable industries, went on to clinch the argument by adding: "Look at your neighbor town of Auburn. Ten years ago she was not half the town yours is. Well, a few years ago some of the people happened to wake up—now they have wakened the rest, that's all."

A Lucky Woman.

DECATUR, ILL., Dec. 1, 1890.

Mrs. Sarah Dodge, of this city has fallen heir to $500,000 left by her grandfather the late Joseph C. Hodson, of London, England. She forwarded proof of her relationship to her lawyers, and will receive her inheritance to-day.—Chicago Times, Dec. 2, 1890.

We are Mrs. Dodge's lawyers, and by her seeing our advertisement, became the agents of her good fortune. If your ancestors came from the old country, write us and inclose $1 for our list of heirs. There are more than half a billion dollars in Great Britain and Germany, unclaimed, which rightly belongs to the people in the United States.

BRUCE'S LAW AND INQUIRY OFFICE.
164 & 166 Randolph St.,
Chicago, Ill., U. S. A.

Card of Thanks.

We take this method of thanking our many friends and neighbors, who rendered us such valuable aid and kind assistance through the sickness and death of our husband and father. We also wish to thank the choir for their services so gratefully given. We shall always hold them in sacred remembrance.

MRS. M. E. CLARK AND FAMILY.

4th of July, Reduced Rates.

The Lake Shore & Michigan Southern railway will sell reduced rate tickets July 3rd and 4th, 1890. Apply to ticket agents for full particulars. 27

Hats! Hats!

HATS!

GREAT REDUCTION SALE!

AT

Cowan Sisters'

You will find us

READY TO GIVE

THE VERY

BOTTOM PRICES

IN

EVERYTHIMG IN OUR LINE.

Auburn Courier.
AUBURN, INDIANA.
JAMES A. BARNS, PUBLISHER.

THE NEWS GATHERED IN

THE FLOODS IN THE WEST AT A STAND-STILL.

A Terrible Picture of Destruction Looms Up—A Forger and Fugitive—Murder and Suicide—Lumber Mills Closed.

IT'S STOPPED.

The Flood at Kansas City Is Receding—A Terrible Picture of Destruction Looms Up.

A special from Kansas City, Kan., dated the 3d inst., says: The flood has reached a stationary stage. The water is now falling at the rate of an inch an hour, and all apprehension of further damage is set at rest. Parts of Kansas City are still submerged by the back-water of the Kaw, but only the houses of squatters on the low lands have been badly damaged. Various industries in the bottoms have been seriously inconvenienced. The Badgers Lumber Company's yards are flooded. The water has inundated the hog yards of Lang Packing Company and the Phœnix Packing house. The water is now falling in the Kaw as the Missouri recedes and no further damage is expected. Harlem, the village across the river, is still under water.

A special from Atchison, Kas., says: The house of Pleasant Little, on Doniphan Point, went into the river with its contents. The house was occupied by John McQueen and his family. Little was boarding with them. They had vacated the house a few hours before it fell, taking refuge in the main land. Little escaped with McQueen's family, but has not been seen since, and it is feared that he returned to the house and was lost with it.

Between Atchison and Rushville the Hannibal and St. Joe, and K. C., St. J. & C. B. tracks are covered with water in several places. Between Rushville and the river not less than twenty-five farm houses are surrounded by water and the farmers are out in boats trying to rescue shocks of wheat that are yet above the water.

A St. Joseph, Mo., special says: The river is stationary at this point, standing 18 feet 10 inches above low water mark, the same as at noon yesterday. The water has overflowed the low lands about Lake Contrary and that body of water is now a part of the great flood. Fears are expressed that as the water recedes a channel will be cut, draining the lake, leaving the hotels and boat houses surrounding an unsightly mud-hole.

Business Failures.

The business failures for the first six months of the present year, reported by R. G. Dun & Co., of New York, number 6,074, as against 5,385 during the same period in 1890. The increase of 689 failures is unusually large. The extent of the liabilities is also excessive. The amount owing by the parties who have failed in 1891 footing up to $92,000,000, while for the same period in 1890 they were only $65,000,000, indicating an increase in liabilities of $27,000,000. Notwithstanding the extreme extent of these casualties and other adverse circumstances, the reports from all portions of the country furnished for the semi-annual business outlook, indicate a fairly healthy condition of trade, and excellent prospects in view for a large increase of wealth from growing crops and active industrial enterprises.

Shot His Sweetheart and Then Killed Himself.

At Lawrence, Mass., Maria Burket, aged 18, was shot and killed by John Rausch, aged 24, who had been paying attention to her for some time and was jealous. Rausch immediately afterward put a bullet through his own head and fell dead. The tragedy occurred in front of the Everett mill, where the girl was employed. The couple had quarreled at her father's house the evening before. Rausch called Maria out of the mill and, after a few words, the shooting occurred. Both the parties were thoroughly respectable and well liked.

Michigan Fruit Crop.

Grand Rapids special: Superintendent Davis, who has just returned from an extended observative tour through Western Michigan, reports that the fruit crop this year will be the largest ever known. Inasmuch as this tour was made with reference to ascertaining the size of the crop for the purpose of providing for its transportation, the estimate is probably the result of careful observation. The trip was made from St. Joseph to Hart with a horse and buggy. Shelby Township plants sixteen car loads of peach and plumb trees this spring; Hart fifteen and Mears six.

A Forger and a Fugitive.

Mercantile circles of New Bedford, Mass., were startled to learn that J. H. J. Doane, a clothing dealer, had disappeared, and was a forger to the extent of $12,000. Doane was a fast young man and dabbled deeply in stocks. His fortune, left him by the late Simeon Doane, a well-known whaling merchant, rapidly disappeared. His wife's property, about $30,000, also went.

A Train Wrecked.

A passenger train on the Western North Carolina division of the Richmond and Danville Railroad went through the Selzer trestle, near Newton, N. C. Captain Linsler, the conductor in charge of the train, was instantly killed, and a negro brakeman fatally injured. The train is a total wreck and it is miraculous how the passengers escaped with their lives.

Lumber Mills Closed.

All the mills of St. Johns, N. B., are closed owing to the demand of the lumber workmen for nine hours a day instead of ten.

Will Not Make the Reduction.

The New York Typothetæ has considered the proposition of the journeymen printers that their working hours be reduced to nine per day after October 1 next. It was decided that it would be impossible to make the proposed reduction.

To Change Its Staff.

It is reported that the London Times is about to make changes in its staff of foreign correspondents, and that M. De Blowitz, its Paris representative, may quit the post which he has occupied for a number of years.

Fell Forty Feet.

Two men were killed and several injured so badly that they will probably die by the fall of a scaffolding at the Worthington Pump Works, Elizabethport, N. J., where a new building is in course of erection. Seventeen bricklayers, with their helpers, were at work on the scaffold when it gave way and they were precipitated a distance of forty feet to the ground. The killed are Michael Nolan and Gabrielle Williams. The injured are: Patrick Moler, colored, badly injured; Kemus Humbel, colored, head crushed; James Kelly, badly bruised and cut; Michael McCarthy, slightly injured; Patrick Jones, slightly injured. A number of others received slight abrasions or bruises. The accident is attributed to the overloading of the scaffold.

A BOAT RACE.

The Cornell Crew Break the Record.

New London (Conn.) special: The Cornell University boat crew covered themselves with glory by winning from the University of Pennsylvania and Columbia crews in the fast time of 14 minutes and 27½ seconds, thereby chopping 15½ seconds off the best previous time on the Tames River course by any of the college crews. The conditions, however, were favorable for fast time, the water being smooth, a strong current running and the wind blowing so as to be of the most assistance to the racers. The race was probably the most exciting ever rowed here, the Pennsylvania crew developing unexpected strength and the rowing almost bow for bow with the crack Cornell crew for nearly two miles. Nearing the finish, however, Cornell spurted in magnificent form and, drawing away from their opponents easily by four open lengths. Columbia was a bad third, finishing five lengths behind Pennsylvania. The poor showing of Columbia was a surprise as they have shown much better form in their practice.

TRAINMEN FIRED.

They Are Accused of Conspiracy in the C., B. & Q. Strike and Reap the Severest Penalty.

The committee appointed to investigate the charge of conspiracy preferred against the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, reported to the Supreme Council of the Federation, in session at Terre Haute, Ind., finding the Brotherhood guilty. The Switchmen's Mutual Aid Association had preferred the charge, alleging that the trainmen conspired with the Northwestern officials to provide men to take the association switchmen's places. The vote sustaining the report was unanimous except for the three votes of the trainmen in the council. When the vote on the penalty moved to be expulsion was taken, two firemen, Debs and Hannahan, voted with the three trainmen. The three votes each of the Switchmen and Brotherhood of Conductors, were in favor of expulsion. Grand Master Sargent of the Firemen, who is the President of the Council, did not vote.

ON THE WARPATH.

Hungarians End a Drunken Spree in a Terrible Fight.

Plymouth (Pa.) special: A desperate fight took place in the Hungarian district at the lower end of town. A large party of Huns had been drinking and making merry for several hours, their shouts causing disturbance to the more peaceful dwellers in the settlement. John Majake went among the crowd and requested them to desist. He was brutally beaten and fled to his home, where he aroused a number of friends, who attacked the drunken gang. A free fight ensued, fully 100 Hungarians taking part. Several shots were fired and two men, Andrew Kamski and Stanislaus Sazcheska, were fatally injured. A large number of rioters are suffering from serious wounds and bruises.

Catholic Knights of St. John.

The Supreme Council Catholic Knights of St. John, in session at Fort Wayne, Ind., elected the following officers: Supreme President, F. P. Bradley, Cincinnati; First Vice President, G. J. Rosenfeld, Columbus; Second Vice President, W. W. Cheezum, Indianapolis; Supreme Secretary, Timothy Nolan, Cleveland; Supreme Treasurer, George Mathison, Wheeling; Grand Commander, Col. W. T. McGurrin, Grand Rapids; First Vice Grand Commander, Capt. J. W. Drury, Detroit; Second Vice Grand Commander, Maj. J. A. Bronner, Cincinnati. The Secretary's report shows a membership of 8,411, a net gain during the year of 1,254. The Supreme Treasurer's report shows receipts for the widows' and orphans' fund to be $11,814; disbursements, $11,200. Toronto was selected as the place for holding the next annual convention.

Indiana Militia.

Fort Wayne special: This city has been selected for holding the annual encampment of the Indiana Legion, which opens July 20th and continues for a week. Adjutant General N. R. Ruckle and General Pope, of Indianapolis, arrived in the city recently, and in company with Majors E. L. Siver and C. D. Tillo, drove to the Hanna farm, north of the city, with a view to selecting a site. The visitors selected the Fort Wayne Park Association grounds as the camp site and the Hanna farm for the parade and drill grounds. The grove in the park will make a pleasant camp ground and the level fields of the Hanna farm will afford an excellent drill ground.

The Account Short.

St. Louis special: The officers of the American Express Company are investigating what appears to be a good-sized deficit on the part of Charles F. Bigelow, heretofore an employe, and who has for several years been assistant cashier of the company. Mr. Bigelow left his home a few days ago, and, failing to put in an appearance, his books were hastily gone over and enough evidence was found to warrant the belief that he was short in his accounts. He was arrested in Chicago and brought here. Hiram Perry, a clerk in Bigelow's office, was also arrested and kept in the sweater all day in the hope of wringing a confession from him.

The American Consul Insults the "Union Jack."

A special from Vancouver, B. C., says that Jay Ewing, the American Consul, is becoming more unpopular every day. The arrival of the first through train to Whatcom, Wash., from here, was celebrated by an excursion and demonstration by Whatcom citizens. In honor of the guests, the Union Jack was conspicuously displayed on an arch side by side with the Stars and Stripes. Ewing, who was one of the excursionists from here, demanded that the Union Jack be taken down, and as a half drunken mob backed up his demand, the Union Jack came down.

Her Clothing Ablaze.

New York special: Mrs. Elizabeth M. Haslett, wife of Samuel A. Haslett, a retired merchant, living at No. 138 Remsen street, Brooklyn, accidentally set her clothing on fire and was so badly burned that she died within two hours. Mrs. Haslett in her fright jumped from the fourth story of her house to the roof of an extension, one story lower, and lay there, frantically endeavoring to tear the blazing clothes from her person, the wind all the time fanning the flames. When the members of the family reached the roof of the extension Mrs. Haslett's clothes were burned completely off her, only her shoes remaining.

To Perpetuate the Name.

At a dinner given by Mrs. James H. Drew, in New York, to Mrs. Jefferson Davis and her oldest daughter, Mrs. Addison Hays, of Colorado, Mrs. Hays introduced her youngest child as "Jefferson Davis." The boy is about 2 years old, and was christened Jefferson Addison Hays at his birth. As Jefferson Davis left only daughters, Mrs. Hays wished to perpetuate his name by giving it to her child, but her husband and family at first objected. Last winter he yielded, however, and the change was made.

A Brave Girl.

The residence of Mr. Charles S. Hollen, at Manitou, Col., caught fire in some unaccountable manner. Miss Lizzie Allen, a domestic, entered the burning building and rescued two little children who were asleep in an upper story. Miss Allen re-entered the house, presumably to recover some valuables, when she was overcome with smoke and burned to death.

He Married Another.

New Orleans special: Miss Beta A. H. Kaesman, of Baltimore, brought suit in the United States Circuit Court for $100,000 for breach of promise against Brownlee W. Taylor, a prominent merchant of this city. Taylor is the head of the large wholesale shoe house of John Henry & Co., and made the acquaintance of Miss Kaesman in Baltimore in July, 1888, promising to marry her. The wedding was subsequently put off from month to month on various pretexts. A few days ago Miss Kaesman learned that Taylor secretly married another lady in this city in April. Hence this suit.

Ohio Farmers Victimized.

Detectives are in the vicinity of Canton, Ohio, after a gang of sharpers, of whom Samuel Camp, of Marshallville, is the leader. They have victimized farmers and others out of $20,000 worth of property. Samuel Rehm, the Wayne County farmer who reported to the police some weeks ago that he had been robbed of $10,000, is also a leader in the gang. Rehm, it has been learned, took this course as a ruse to avert suspicion. He has disappeared. A confederate of the gang named Fetzer has been arrested and has confessed. Other arrests will shortly follow.

Fined for Violating the Lottery Law.

Twenty-eight thousand copies of the Detroit Commercial Advertiser and Home Journal were held in the postoffice of that city as unmailable under the lottery law. The President, Vice President, Secretary and Treasurer of the company were arrested on complaint of Postoffice Inspectors Fleming and Pulcifer. Examination was waived and a plea of guilty entered before Judge Swan, of the United States District Court, who fined the parties $500 and costs.

Shooting Affray.

A shooting affray occurred at a colored picnic from Indianapolis held at Maxwell, Hancock County, Ind., in which three men were shot, two probably fatally. The shooting was the result of an old quarrel between Ed Harvey and John Banks, two negro toughs of Indianapolis. Each had two revolvers and each emptied every chamber of his weapons. Councilman Henry Sweetland (colored) of Indianapolis, was shot through the body but will recover. Banks was shot in five places and will die. Harvey, who is in jail at Greenfield, is probably fatally wounded.

A Crooked Consul.

San Francisco special: Collector of Port Phelps has preferred charges of a serious nature against United States Consul Leonard stationed at Shanghai, China, and the officials at Washington will investigate. Leonard is charged with issuing fraudulent Chinese certificates, allowing Chinese to land at American ports. Phelps has the evidence of fifteen Chinese recently landed on these fraudulent certificates, some of whom paid as high as $200 to Consul Leonard for his signature.

Tortured by Hanging.

Lewis Pegnim, a well-known young man of Hampton, Ark., was decoyed from his home and hanged to a tree by three masked men. A confession was extorted from him as to the whereabouts of a considerable sum of money he was known to possess. The money was secured by his captors and he was left in a secluded portion of woods, more dead than alive. His injuries are believed to be fatal.

Left Him Hanging.

W. S. Smith, an inmate of the Toledo, Ohio, Insane Asylum, hanged himself while the attendant was at a meal with other patients. On returning Smith was found hanging. The attendant, instead of cutting the rope, started out to find the supervisor, and the two returned to the cottage, but both at once started to find the superintendent, the patient still hanging. The physician cut the body down, though it was too late to save his life.

'Twixt Life and Death.

Wilmington (Del.) special: James McElhenny, who was shot by William J. Dunseith in an altercation over the building of a partition railing between their house fronts, did not die as was prematurely reported. He was thought to be dying and the last sacrament was administered, but his physicians entertain hopes of recovery. Dunseith and his wife are held without bail to await the result of McElhenny's injuries.

Chili's New Cabinet.

The Bureau of the American Republic at Washington has received information that the Republic of Chili has organized a new cabinet, as follows: Interior, Don Julio Banados Espinosa: Foreign Affairs and Worship, Don Manuel Maria Aldunate; Justice and Public Instruction, Don Francisco Javier Concha; Finance, Don Manuel Aristides Zanartu; War and Marine, Gen. Jose Velasques; Industry and Public Works, Don Nicanor Ugalda.

A New Mode of Suicide.

Win Ok and his wife Di-Foy introduced a new mode of suicide, at Sacremento, Cal. They lived in an underground den in the Chinese quarter, and becoming crazed with opium took sharp knives and cut their tongues out. The man bled to death and the woman will follow him.

THE MARKETS.

CHICAGO.
CATTLE—Common to Prime	$3.50	@ 6.30
HOGS—Shipping Grades	4.00	@ 4.55
SHEEP	3.20	@ 5.00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.94	@ .96
CORN—No. 2	.55½	@ .56¾
OATS—No. 2	.34	@ .35¾
RYE—No. 2	.76	@ .78
BUTTER—Choice Creamery	.17	@ .17½
CHEESE—Full Cream, flats	.07½	@ .08
EGGS—Fresh	.14½	@ .15
POTATOES—New, per brl	2.50	@ 3.25
INDIANAPOLIS.
CATTLE—Shipping	3.50	@ 5.75
HOGS—Choice Light	4.15	@ 4.65
SHEEP—Common to Prime	4.00	@ 4.50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.94½	@ .95
CORN—No. 1 White	.59½	@ .60½
OATS—No. 2 White	.41	@ .42
ST. LOUIS.
CATTLE	4.00	@ 6.00
HOGS	4.00	@ 4.60
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.97	@ .97½
CORN—No. 2	.55	@ .56
OATS—No. 2	.35	@ .36
RYE—No. 2	.71	@ .72
CINCINNATI.
CATTLE	3.00	@ 5.50
HOGS	3.50	@ 4.85
SHEEP	3.75	@ 5.00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	1.03½	@ 1.04
CORN—No. 2	.58½	@ .59
OATS—No. 2 Mixed	.41	@ .41½
DETROIT.
CATTLE	3.00	@ 3.75
HOGS	3.00	@ 4.50
SHEEP	3.00	@ 4.75
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	1.01	@ 1.02
CORN—No. 2 Yellow	.56	@ .57
OATS—No. 2 White	.42	@ .43
TOLEDO.
WHEAT	1.00½	@ 1.01
CORN—Cash	.58	@ .59
OATS—No. 1 White	.42	@ .42½
CLOVER SEED	4.15	@ 4.25
BUFFALO.
BEEF CATTLE	4.50	@ 5.75
LIVE HOGS	4.30	@ 4.85
WHEAT—No. 1 Hard	1.08	@ 1.08¾
CORN—No. 2	.60	@ .61
MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—No. 2 Spring	.91	@ .92
CORN—No. 3	.57	@ .57¾
OATS—No. 2 White	.40	@ .41
RYE—No. 1	.81	@ .83
BARLEY—No. 2	.69	@ .70
PORK—Mess	10.25	@ 10.50
NEW YORK.
CATTLE	4.50	@ 6.25
HOGS	4.30	@ 5.25
SHEEP	4.25	@ 5.40
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	1.05	@ 1.06
CORN—No. 2	.61	@ .67
OATS—Mixed Western	.40	@ .46
BUTTER—Creamery	.17	@ .18
EGGS—Western	.17	@ .17½
PORK—New Mess	10.50	@ 11.00

SHEET-IRON PROTECTED

TRUE INWARDNESS OF THE TIN-PLATE DUTY.

It Was Put On to Help the Galvanized Iron Men—What Senator Aldrich Said—Roofing Iron and Tin Plate Prices Compared—Our Tin Plate Experiment Too Costly.

One of the main reasons why the McKinleyites put a high tariff on tin plate was to protect the American makers of galvanized iron for roofing purposes. Indeed, this purpose was boldly proclaimed by Senator Aldrich in his report on the Senate tariff bill in 1888. The Rhode Island Senator said in that report: "The free admission of iron and steel sheets of all thicknesses and widths coated with tin or lead, would cause a substitution of imported tin or terne plates in most cases for roofing and other building purposes, and for domestic uses, where galvanized or other sheet iron or steel is now used." The duty which Senator Aldrich was then defending by such frank humbug, amounted to 2.20 cents per pound, the duty which was finally put into effect in the McKinley law.

The purpose of the McKinleyites being to encourage the use of sheet iron for roofing instead of tin, which is better and cheaper, the higher duty and consequent higher price of tin has already begun to boom the sheet-iron business. It is announced in the trade papers that the Garry Iron and Steel Roofing Company of Cleveland, Ohio, has "an exceedingly fine trade for this time of the year." They are said to have "a large number orders ahead," and they are exporting their goods to Mexico, South America and other foreign countries. This latter fact makes it pertinent to ask why was it necessary to tax tin plates in order to help the roofing men when they able to export their products? If they were not able to hold the home market against foreign roofing tin, already taxed 1 cent a pound, or equal to 35 per cent. of its value, how can they export their roofing metal and sell it in foreign markets in competition with the same tin plates? Do they sell their products abroad at lower prices than to American consumers as other American manufacturers generally do?

The demand of the sheet iron men to be protected from tin plates has a flood of light thrown upon it by comparing the prices of their product with those of tin plates for the past five years. The average wholesale price of galvanized sheet iron of the thickness known as "No. 27 wire gauge" since 1886 has been 5.87 cents per pound; while the average import price of roofing tin, No. 28 wire gauge, for the same time has been only 3.19 cents. This is a difference of 2.68 cents a pound, while the McKinley duty on all kinds of tin plates is 2.20 cents a pound.

These figures suggest the very pertinent question, How are our manufacturers going to make tin plates and sell them at lower than present foreign prices, according to the confident boast of the protectionists, when our home-made galvanized iron itself has been selling at prices so far above foreign prices? From these figures, too, it is clear that Mr. Niedringhaus' partner in his St. Louis concern was about right when he saw that McKinley's duty of 2.20 cents was not high enough, and that a duty of at least 4 cents was needed to establish a domestic tin-plate industry.

American consumers have already paid at least $5,000,000 extra for their tin plates since last fall by reason of the rise in prices caused by the McKinley duty. This was the expensive result of the tin-plate duty during the six or eight months before it took effect. What will the consumers think of the added cost beginning with the application of the new duty itself on July 1? Are we not paying rather dearly to protect our roofing-iron industry?

They Dread the American Farmer.

McKinley tried to humbug the farmers by raising the duties on wheat, corn and most other farm products, under the pretense that such duties would help them to realize better prices. He belittled the farmers' foreign market and tried to make it appear that the best thing for our farmers would be to withdraw from their foreign market.

At least such is the only possible meaning of the following words, which McKinley put into his report accompanying the tariff bill:

"The 'world's market,' to which the advocates of tariff for revenue only invite the farmers of this country, is to-day crowded which the products of the cheapest human labor the earth affords. All over the old world there is a rush of their surplus to that market, and it is to such a contest as this that free trade would allure American agriculture."

But American agriculture is and has been for years "allured to such a contest as this," and even now the foreign demand for our agricultural products is causing prices to rise in the home market in a way to rejoice the American farmer's heart. This same American farmer is a dreaded force in all the farming districts of Europe. The following item has just been going the rounds of our agricultural papers:

"The Austrian grain growers, through the official report of the Vienna Agricultural Congress, declare and complain that 'the grain exporting capacity of Russia and extra European countries is the source of a calamity affecting the whole of Central Europe.'"

America is the only one among the "extra European countries" which cuts any great figure in Europe's grain market, and it is the American farmers to which the Austrian grain growers referred as their competitors.

Are not McKinley's duties on farm products the greatest humbug that anybody has ever attempted to palm off upon the farmer?

A Compensating Duty.

Have you ever heard of a "compensating duty?" A compensating duty is this: Woolen goods, for example, bear two duties, so much per cent. ad valorem and so much per pound additional. The reason given for this is that the ad valorem duty is protection against foreign goods of the same kind, and that the duty by the pound is to make good to the manufacturer the duty he had paid on raw wool. It is "compensation" to him for that outlay; the manufacturer himself regards it as such, and always insists on having the "compensating duty" maintained.

Now, if the foreigner pays the tax, why do the protectionists vote a "compensating duty" to the manufacturer? Ought they not in justice to vote it back to the foreigner if it is to "compensate" anybody at all?

It is clear that the McKinleyites themselves do not believe in their time-worn assertion, "the foreigner pays the tax."

The Twine Trust Still Prospers.

When it was proposed last year to make a slight reduction in the binder-twine duty, the twine men signed a paper and sent it in hot haste to Washington, saying that if the proposed duty should be adopted they would be compelled to shut down their mills. Their alarm was still greater when fifteen Northwestern Republican Senators united with the Democrats and voted to put twine on the free list.

After a great amount of lobbying by the trust and certain Republican politicians, backed up by leading high-tariff journals with profuse and picturesque abuse of men who had voted for free twine, a part of the duty was saved. The old duty on manila twine was 2½ cents a pound, and on sisal twine 3½ cents. The trust succeeded in saving 7-10 of 1 cent from the wicked Democrats and Northwestern Republican Senators. This duty was less than one-third of the duty which the trust had said would close up its works.

Now, what is the result? The farmers are buying their twine this year at much lower prices than last year; and is the trust meanwhile shutting up its mills? On the contrary, it has just been announced by a high-tariff organ that the trust has bought the eight cordage works of Canada for $4,000,000.

Moral: When a tariff-protected industry threatens to die if you cut down its protection, it is very likely lying.

A M'KINLEY TRUST.

THE WHIP MAKERS TO ENJOY M'KINLEYISM.

Organized for Tariff Spoils and Whips Are Higher than Ever—Closing Out Petty Rivals—A Monopoly of Materials—What Will Labor Get?—Tariffs and Trusts Akin.

Another McKinley trust has come to light. It is a whip trust. Last year the McKinleyites raised the duty on whips, and now the whip manufacturers have combined to take possession of what was so freely given them.

The whip makers do not understand what protection means if it does not mean higher prices; they know of no other way to realize what Maj. McKinley calls the "beneficiencies" of protection, than through higher prices. Hence it is announced that whips are already higher now than ever before, and one of the monopolists adds, "with a chance of a rise in price as the stock grows scarce."

This enterprising infant trust has provided, moreover, that stocks shall "run scarce." The trust got control of the rattan market and shut off the smaller whip concerns from their supply of this indispensable material. Without rattan whips cannot be made; and with the smaller whip factories closed up and their workmen out of employment, where does labor come for its portion of the blessings which were to follow McKinley's increased duties on whips? Labor simply gets left once more, and as usual a grasping monopoly pockets the tariff plums.

The whip trust is a McKinley trust. Under the old tariff whips covered with leather were taxed in a general "basket clause" at 30 per cent.; but this "basket clause" of the leather schedule was pushed up by McKinley to 35 per cent.

Most whips, however, are covered with flax, and here McKinley got in more of his "basket clause" work, by which whips of this kind were made dutiable at 50 per cent., in place of the old duty of 40 per cent.

The McKinleyites have no right to condemn the whip trust. This trust, like all the tariff trusts, is simply a means by which to harvest the tariff plums. The purpose of a protective tariff is to enable protected interests to charge higher prices for their goods, since this is the only possible way in which protection can protect. But a trust seeks to bring about precisely the same result.

The trusts themselves understand perfectly that they are working to accomplish, by combination, exactly the same thing that protection aims at by so-called legal methods.

President Havemeyer, of the sugar trust, blurted out this kinship between protection and trusts last year when certain high-tariff organs were assailing that great monopoly. Here are the frank and honest words of the sugar king:

"The great cry of one of the great parties is for protection; that is, they cry for it loudly during campaigns. But when we proceed to give ourselves some protection a howl is raised. They demand protection for the industries. When an industry protects itself it is said that it is illegal."

Three-Cornered Trading.

The West Indies and South America sell us from three to seven times as much goods as we sell them. These goods, over and above our exports to those countries, are paid for by European nations in their manufactured articles, and we square matters with Europe by shipping our farm products and manufactures there in payment of our debts in the West Indies and South America.

We swap debts, but in swapping there is always a certain per cent. lost in charges for bills of exchange, and through this cumbersome, three-angled transportation. Freights are lowest and trade consequently most profitable where there are ready cargoes for both ways. A regular steamship line is, in fact, dependent upon this regularity of cargo going and coming. As matters stand much of the traffic is done by the so-called tramp steamers, which go everywhere, according as they can get cargoes.

But why this three-cornered shipping? Why not the direct trade entirely? In answer to that question, the protective tariff must be called into the witness box. The tariff duty on raw materials prevents our manufacturers from competing in many kinds of goods in foreign markets, and there is no large demand for our farm products in West Indian and South American countries, they being themselves agricultural countries. Besides, the tariff prevents a large movement of European goods into our markets, and as Europe takes enormous quantities of our cotton, corn, wheat, flour, meats, etc., cargoes moving out are always much larger than those coming in. Hence European ships which take away our farm products are only too glad to carry cargoes of manufactured goods to the West Indies and South America, and then take in cargoes of sugar and rubber for New York.

PROTECTIONISTS give themselves needless alarm when we buy more abroad than we tell there, and hence they advance a high tariff to keep our people from being ruined by what they call an "unfavorable balance of trade." But people do not need that the Government tell them when they are doing a losing business. Every separate article sold by us in Europe is bargained for by two intelligent merchants. Neither of these can ship a penny's worth without the consent of the other. The old saying holds true that it takes two to make a bargain; and it may be added that these two can make their bargain more satisfactorily between themselves than it can be made when some other power intermeddles.

IN the United States there are six acres of farming land and 9.8 acres of forest land per capita of the entire population; while in Great Britain each person represents only 1.38 acres of farming land and .07 of forest (i. e., seven acres of forest for each 100 persons). This difference in the density of population is persistently ignored by protectionists, who can see no cause for higher wages with us except the tariff.

WOOLEN hosiery and underwear costing 30 cents a pound started out 100 years ago with a protective duty of 5 per cent. These goods have gradually climbed up the protective ladder till now, McKinley having put on a duty of over 200 per cent. When do stockings cease to need protection? Is this a decent way for our stockings to celebrate a century of protection?

A DOWNPOUR IN IOWA

WASHES OUT MANY MILES OF TRACK.

Incalculable Damage to Property—Buildings Whirled Away and Trees Bent and Broken Like Reeds—Hundreds of Families Homeless and in Danger of Starvation—Heartrending Stories of Eye-Witnesses.

Northwestern Iowa has been visited by the heaviest rainfall in twenty years. An eye-witness of the recent floods in the vicinity of Cherokee, states that it is necessary for one to see to have the least idea of the great amount of damage done. "Why," he exclaimed, "It is simply terribly wonderful the way that immense body of water swept things before it. Houses were but bubbles on its crest. I was at Cherokee when the cloud-burst came, and in less time than it takes to tell it a flood was upon the town. Houses were seen to tremble, swing half around, and then carried along by the torrents. Trees were bent and broken like reeds and not a thing could stop the terrific onward rush of the water, and all this occurred before the people could possibly realize what had happened. The most remarkable feature of the disaster is that any of the people in the track of the flood escaped with their lives. As far as I know no lives were lost at Cherokee and the immediate vicinity."

The storm rendered between 300 and 400 families homeless in and about Cherokee. These are being cared for in the Masonic, Grand Army of the Republic and Knights of Pythias halls at Cherokee. The Illinois Central lost 12,777 feet of roadbed and 985 feet of piling. This does not include the bridge taken out over the Sioux River. The amount of damage will reach $250,000. As the waters recede the carcasses of cattle are landed and to-day the stench from them permeates the air. It is estimated that hundreds of head of stock have been lost. Two miles of track of the main line of the Illinois Central has been washed out between Cherokee and Sioux City, and it will take a week to repair the damage. The Onawa and Sioux Fall branches of the same road are in a worse way, and it will be about ten days before traffic can be resumed. Both wire connections are still broken. The Sioux River is subsiding, but it is still forty feet deep, and covers a quarter of a mile of country. The average depth of the river when in its channel is about four feet. The work of clearing away the debris is now in progress, and aid is being rendered the unfortunate inhabitants. The town of Moville is still flooded and not one of the 200 inhabitants is able to occupy his house, and all are camping out. There is only 250 pounds of flour in the town. The town is almost completely cut off from succor. Hundreds of horses and other live stock out in the fields in the valley were fearfully lacerated by the barbed wires carried down by the swollen torrent, in which the beasts become entangled.

The damage at Cherokee is estimated at over $500,000. The river fell about ten feet, but was still twenty feet above low-water mark. At ordinary stage of water the river is only about 200 feet wide, while it is now 1,200 feet.

The engineer of the relief train which was the first to go from Fort Dodge to Cherokee after the big storm, has returned to this city, says a Waterloo special. It took them eight hours to run from Aurelia to Cherokee, and many times they were compelled to stop on account of the rain, which came down in torrents. From Storm Lake to Cherokee the country resembled one vast lake almost as far as the eye could reach in every direction. Only water was visible, while debris of destroyed buildings, bodies of horses and cattle and other farm animals floated past Cherokee in large numbers. Most of them were still struggling to escape, but the rush of the torrents prevented their reaching dry land.

The farmers along the line suffered very much. One farmer living south of Cherokee stated that over 200 cattle are missing from his pasture, and he expects all are drowned. The merchants in the small towns have had their stores undermined, the basements filled with water, and in many instances the water has come on the first floors and damaged their goods extensively. At Cherokee seventy-five to one hundred houses are destroyed and many of them have been swept away. The gravel train which was in the pit at Cherokee is buried out of sight, the only portion of it that is visible being the top of the smokestack of the steam shovel.

Superintendent Gileas reports that the damage to the Illinois Central track already in sight will foot up $200,000, and but little is yet known of the condition of two branches from Cherokee. The water fell about ten feet at Cherokee, and many occupants of houses in the flooded district were able to regain entrance to-day. The ruin wrought made many a heart sick. Where the houses were not destroyed their contents are all covered with thick, black mud, ruining them. Three hundred poor people in Cherokee are being fed and clothed by the relief committee, and a dispatch from there says outside aid will have to be asked.

A. W. Thesher, a mail-clerk on a Milwaukee and St. Paul train that was water-bound, at Hornick, thus relates his experience: "Between Hornick and Hedge's Siding the track is out in many places, and so great was the force of the water that the rails were carried far from the roadbed. I got hungry, as did all the passengers. Our rations were rather slim, and so I made up my mind to come to Sioux City. I put my letter mail in a pouch together with my clothing and started to wade. I waded through fully a mile and a half of water between Hornick and Hedge's, and in many places it was up to my neck. At Hedge's I caught a construction train and rode into Sioux City.

"The low lands are covered with water as far as you can see. Field after field is submerged, and all over the flats the water is from one to four feet deep in the first floors of houses. The farmers have moved out to the high ground in nearly all instances.

"I saw farmers wading in the water up to their waists pushing rafts, on which were loaded their families and household goods, ahead of them to the high land."

KILLED BY A CYCLONE.

Six Men Lose Their Lives While Working on a Coal Breaker, at Natalie, Pa.

The Patterson Coal Company's breaker, located at Natalie, Pa., was destroyed by a cyclone and the following persons were killed:

J. N. Blossom, Hawley, Pa.; J. Bentley Dodson, Shickshinny, Pa.; Richard Roberts, and William Lodge, Luzerne-borough; and two unknown strangers.

Lodge, Roberts, and the two unknown men were slaters and were engaged in roofing the breaker at the time of the accident. The other two killed were carpenters and met their while at work on the the interior of the breaker.

Shortly after noon the sky in the north became black, and the darkness grew in intensity. The men perched on their high tower gazed on the advancing storm, expecting to descend in time to avoid the rain. Suddenly a terrible wind-gust gathered up the mighty structure as though it were a feather, and, whirling it around, dashed it to ruin. The men were mangled almost beyond recognition.

THESE ACTUAL FACTS

ALL FOUND WITHIN THE BORDERS OF INDIANA.

An Interesting Summary of the More Important Doings of Our Neighbors—Crimes, Casualties, Deaths, Etc.

—A. B. Clarn, Richmond, has a violin 400 years old.

—Frank O'Relley fell from a boat and was drowned in the St. Joe at Elkhart.

—Seymour butter dish factory works up 300,000 feet of timber every month.

—David Stobo, ex-County Recorder, of Columbus, was badly injured in a runaway.

—James McCardle seriously injured by an exploding smoothing-iron in Muncie Dye Works.

—Geo. Green, colored, bathing in the Ohio at Evansville, was seized with cramps and drowned.

—Robert Young and wife, near Ladoga, have been arrested for starving their babe to death.

—Mrs. Nancy Fiscus, aged 93, died at Greensburg. She was the mother of ten children, all yet living.

—John Newby, of Hamilton County, had to kill a valuable dog that showed signs of hydrophobia.

—Knights of St. John parade at Ft. Wayne was the finest ever seen in that city—and that's saying a good deal —Much thieving has been going on at Memphis, Clark County, and it is believed to be the work of a female ghost.

—Mrs. John Starr lost her thimble six years ago at English. Last week the family cow was slaughtered and the thimble found in her liver.

—Cynthia Hancock languishes in Danville jail, for marrying 17-year-old Frank Powell when she was undivorced from Ward Trisler of Greenfield.

—While assisting in raising a barn, four miles southeast of Corydon, a few days ago, Madison L. Brown, aged 23 years, ruptured a blood vessel and died a few hours after.

—"Grandma" Ogles, near Martinsville, is 92 years old, has not been further than three miles from home in thirty years, never saw a locomotive and never had her picture taken.

—Mrs. George Hensler was sprinkling Paris Green over her potato vines in Clark County, when her 3-year-old daughter got the can and filled her mouth with poison.

—Governor Hovey recently appointed Jas. V. Sweetser, of Marion, a member of the State World's Fair Commission, to succeed the late John Lee, of Crawfordsville. He is a Democrat.

—A lot of dry goods stolen from Walmer & Co.'s store at Montpelier three years ago, was returned to the postmaster there last week from Chicago with a note from the thief saying he had reformed and repented.

—William Deible, the missing witness in the noted grave-robbery case at New Albany, has returned from a voluntary exile of nearly one year, during which time the cases were tried and the defendants acquitted, on account of the absence of important witnesses for the State.

—At a colored people's picnic near Indianapolis John Harvey and John Barks proceeded to end an old feud with revolvers. Henry Sweetland, who acted as peacemaker and tried to prevent the fight, was shot and fatally wounded by Harvey. Neither of the principals was seriously hurt, though fifty shots were fired.

—At Vincennes Patrick Ryan entered his father-in-law's house and abducted a girl to whom he had been clandestinely married, but who had returned to her father's house on the ground that she had been married against her will. The father recovered his child on a writ of habeas corpus, and now the contest will go to the Courts.

—The attorneys for the capitalists who are interested in the project of piping gas from the Indiana fields to Chicago claim that their clients will go right ahead, regardless of the recent Supreme Court decision. They urge that according to this decision artificial pressure reaching 300 pounds may be used, and that such pressure will be sufficient to pump gas to Chicago. Should these capitalists attempt to go ahead with the work it is likely that injunction proceeding will be brought and the Supreme Court asked to define the meaning of the 300-pound clause in the opinion of Judge Elliott. It is possible the case may get into the United States Supreme Court.

—At the Annual Encampment of the Sons of Veterans, held at Logansport, the following officers were re-elected: Colonel, John W. Newton, of Winchester; Lieutenant-Colonel, William Beach, of Indianapolis; Major, Frank S. Martin, of Lebanon; Camp Council, E. S. Walker, of West Lebanon; George C. Harvey, of Danville, and Fremont Garrett, of Winchester; Delegate at Large, Horace G. Ogden, of Danville; Alternate, Henry H. Weaver, of Pittsboro; Delegates to National Encampment, Thomas W. Burt, of Lafayette; O. E. Ensley, of Indianapolis, and George P. Newman, of Hammond; Alternates, George Krietenstien, of Terre Haute; William R. Steele, of Pendleton, and J. W. Noel, of Star City. The next Encampment will meet at Fort Wayne.

—In the criminal libel suit of Miss Carrie Curran against the Madison Democrat for $5,000 damages for defamation of character the jury gave a verdict for plaintiff for $1,500.

—A riot took place at Mishawaka in a saloon the other night. The participants demanded possession of the saloon driving out the proprietor and bartender with clubs. They defied the police, cut and slashed each other most shamefully until stopped by the marshal and a posse.

—Indiana Association of Spiritualists have bought the mounds near Anderson and will make the historic spot the spiritualist's chautauqua.

—At Brazil, Hon. W. R. Guthrie, prosecuting attorney, was assaulted from behind by an unknown man, receiving a blow which it is thought has fractured the skull and may prove fatal. The would-be assassin broke and run, but was captured and locked in jail. He is supposed to be some old criminal whose conviction Lawyer Gutherie had perhaps secured at some time in the past. He fought desperately when caught.

SAVED AT LAST.

AUBURN, IND., Oct. 3, 1890.

Dr. J. W. Bergen:

Dear Sir:—By this time, I presume, you will want to know how I am getting along with Bergen's Asthma Cure.

Well, you have heard of persons obtaining a new life. Now I really feel that way myself. When I began taking Bergen's Asthma Cure, I was just coming out of a long siege of it, and was reduced to 115 pounds; weak, short of breath, chills, fever, and badly demoralized generally, coughing from half an hour to an hour every night.

Since commencing, from the third night, I have not lost ten minutes' sleep all night, cough gone, gained seventeen pounds, chills gone, fever gone, shortness of breath and difficulty of breathing gone, consequently I feel a thousand per cent. better. I thank God every day that I ever saw your advertisement, and that I was induced to write to you.

This is peculiarly encouraging in my case, as I had suffered so long and was so discouraged about my case, having tried everything. I am telling the good news every day.

Push on the good work; you are on the right track.

Yours Very Gratefully,
R. McDOUGALL.

Sold by ROBINS & McCORD.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The undersigned, having been restored to health by simple means, after suffering for several years with a severe lung affection, and that dread disease, CONSUMPTION, is anxious to make known to his fellow-sufferers the means of cure. To those who desire it he will cheerfully send, free of charge, a copy of the prescription used, which they will find a sure cure for CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, CATARRH, BRONCHITIS, and all Throat and Lung Maladies. He hopes all sufferers will try this Remedy, as it is invaluable. Those desiring the prescription, which will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing, will please address, REV. EDWARD A. WILSON, Williamsburg, Kings County, New York. 1y.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK

Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD

Ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head

ACHE

Is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold by druggists everywhere, or sent by mail.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York.

SMALL PILL. SMALL DOSE. SMALL PRICE

BOURKE'S HOUSEHOLD · SPECIALTIES ·

COMBINATION BRUSH, MOP AND SPONGE HOLDER CARPET STRETCHER and GARDEN RAKE.

Nonpareil Window Cleaner, A MARVEL.

Galvanized iron, rubber adjustable to expose new surface as it wears, no glue or cement, lasts a life-time and more efficient than any cleaner made.

Sash Lock and FASTENER. Most Durable, Most Compact, Most Perfect

BURGLAR PROOF FASTENER MADE.

Bourke Mfg. Co., Youngstown, O.

REMEMBER KLINCK IS THE NAME OF THAT Wonderful Remedy

That Cures Catarrh, Hay-Fever, Cold in the Head, Sore Throat, Canker, and Bronchitis.

The testimonials to these FACTS are NUMEROUS and STRONG, similar to the following:

From the Hon. Harvey D. Colvin, Ex-Mayor of Chicago:

CHICAGO, July 24, 1890.

S. H. KLINCK—DEAR SIR: I am pleased to say that I consider your remedy the best medicine in existence, for the human afflictions you claim to cure. I suffered from catarrh with bronchitis for many years. During that time I employed physicians and faithfully tried many so-called remedies advertised to cure this disease, without any material benefit, when a friend induced me to try your remedy, claiming others had been cured by it. The first bottle gave me the most pleasing results. I have continued its use and I can not say too much for it. It found me too near the grave for comfort and restored me to health again. It adorns my toilet stand and by using it occasionally I am kept well.

I would not be without it if it cost $25 per bottle. I earnestly recommend it to all my afflicted friends.

For Sale by leading Druggists.

PINT BOTTLES - - $1.00

Klinck Catarrh & Bronchial Remedy Co., 82 JACKSON ST., CHICAGO, ILL.

DOUBLE DICK AND JOE;

—OR—

The Poorhouse Waifs.

BY DAVID LOWRY.

CHAPTER II—Continued.

Mr. Caper met them in the hall. He was wiping his face with his handkerchief and bowing deferentially.

"Ah! good afternoon, gentlemen; good afternoon! Come in!"

"Pretty warm, I see," said one of the visitors. "Mr. Caper, I presume?"

The Superintendent bowed again and beamed upon them.

"How can I serve you?"

"Well, to be brief, as our time is short, we have called to inquire——"

"Ah! excuse me," said the other, making a sign to the speaker. "Can we see the people you have here, Mr. Caper. My card."

The visitor, a ruddy-faced man, held out a card, which Mr. Caper examined.

"Certainly, sir. You are welcome—free to look over the premises. Entirely at your service."

Mr. Caper cringed to his visitors. No one to look at him would believe that this was the man who was on the edge of murder two minutes before.

He led the way through the building. Into the main hall, to the dormitory, to the hospital, to the nursery, to the kitchen—everywhere.

The visitors expressed themselves satisfied with what they saw. One was loud in his praise of the excellent order, and Mr. Caper spoke modestly of his "system." The other visitor was reticent.

When they were alone—and Mr. Caper took good care to leave them alone—one said to the other:

"Strange—very strange! She is not here!"

"No? Are you sure, quite sure, Mr. Allen?"

"Quite. From the description, she would be easily found. If, after all——"

He paused. The other looked at him curiously.

"Well, Mr. Allen?"

"If she is dead!"

"Dead! Dead! I never thought of that."

"I have. Indeed, I considered the chances about even from the first."

"I hope she isn't—I do hope she is not!"

The Superintendent rejoined them now.

"Ah, Mr. Caper," said the last speaker, "I dare say your admirable system is carried out even to the—grave?"

"Sir! I do not exactly catch your meaning."

"Why, suppose one or more members of a family die, you have a record that would be accepted in court as conclusive."

"To be sure. Do you wish to look at the mortality record?"

Mr. Caper was all smiles again as he led the way to his room.

"Here, gentlemen. You see how it is."

"Hum," said the ruddy-faced visitor, turning over the pages whereon the record was spread. "Hum. I see here several children—some very young. Here is one called—what is it? It looks like J. But it can't be Joe."

Mr. Caper looked over his shoulder, and suddenly formed a resolution. It was one of those lightning-like projects—formed in a flash of time—carried out on the spur of the moment. "It is Joe—an abbreviation."

Mr. Allen looked at him inquiringly.

"Joe stands for Josephine in this case."

"Ah!"

"Yes. She was, as you see, aged fourteen."

"Just so. I see. No other name?"

"No. But she was, I am satisfied, entitled to a name. I've forgotten the story. Her mother was here, you know."

"Was she, indeed?"

"O, yes. Died here. You can see—back here is the date of burial and death."

"Curious—mother and child. Mother no name?"

"Well—that's the curious part of it. Where the story came in. But she never would confess—never did. We called her Mrs. Simpson, and she never said yes or no."

Mr. Allen's companion looked at him. Mr. Allen apparently was meditating. The companion could not resist the temptation to ask the question that was shaped in his mind.

"Was she—did Mrs. Simpson look like a lady?"

"A lady! Humph! You could buy all she'd on her for three dollars—less money."

"What my friend means, Mr. Caper, is, did she impress you as a woman who might have seen better times—were her manners those of a woman who had moved in good society?"

"Manners! Well, she always seemed to me one of the kind that somehow thinks themselves better than everybody else," answered the Superintendent shortly.

Mr. Allen turned to his friend, then he made a note of the demise of Joe.

Neither he nor his friend nor the Superintendent observed a boy's head that appeared once or twice at the door.

"I suppose we may as well go," said the quiet-spoken visitor to Mr. Allen.

"Yes. We are much obliged to you, Mr. Caper, for your kindness."

The visitors walked out of the main hall, and, bidding the Superintendent good-afternoon, rode away.

"You think you are awful cute; awful smart, Mr. Allen. Well, you ain't. It was pretty close nipping, but I'm one ahead of you in this game. Thought you'd pick her right up—thought nobody was onto your little game, but I know a racket worth two of that. She's buried now—dead and buried, Mr. Allen. You've made a note out, too. You've seen the record—it's in black and white here for you. Oh, you're awful cute—cute as a piece of punk, or a door-knob, or a goslin'. I've thrown you so far off the scent your grandchildren can't find it, and I'm only a plain, uneducated man, tryin' to grease my way through the world with no education to speak of."

Mr. Caper re-entered the house with a wicked smile on his bloodless lips. As he looked about the hall and out in the grounds, he bethought himself of the boy. Walking to a side door, and addressing a man there, he said:

"Where's Dick?"

"I don't know, sir."

"Well, I want you to find him. I'll give you just two minutes."

The man hastened away. Within the time allowed him, he returned with a frightened look.

"Well?" demanded the Superintendent.

"I—I can't—can't find him."

"Can't!"

"He's—he's gone, sir."

"Gone! Gone!"

"Y-y-yes, sir. Clean gone."

The poor creature cowered before the awful glare the Superintendent bestowed upon him.

"Who says Dick's gone?"

"The cook seen him, and the carpenter seen him, and the——"

"Saw the devil! Where did they see him—why didn't they stop him? why didn't they come and tell me?"

"They did—but you was talking to the gentlemen."

"Well, where did Dick go?"

"He ran across the back field, climbed over the fence, jumped on a horse in the lane, and he's galloped off to town."

"To town! I'll have him back in an hour. And when I get him——"

Mr. Caper gritted his teeth as he hastened to the stable, saddled a horse with his own hands, thrust a bridle over his head, and mounting him in great haste, rode to Barnesville like a madman, cursing himself, Dick, the carpenter, the cook, and everybody in Barnesville poorhouse.

"Wait—only wait till I get my hands on him. I'll—I'll murder him! I'll teach the devil's brat to threaten me!"

CHAPTER III.

A FIGHT FOR LIFE.

Zeke Caper whipped his horse unmercifully. He was resolved upon reaching Barnesville as soon as the runaway.

He looked across the fields, and his eyes detected a figure on horseback. It might be Dick and it might be a boy going to mill. No matter who he was, Caper was determined to stop him short or head him off.

He hallooed with all his might, but the wind blew his voice back in his teeth. Then he whipped his horse again. The horse was galloping; he galloped at least five or six minutes at a rate that threatened to unseat the rider. Then he lessened his speed.

The figure on horseback seemed to be hastening his speed, too. He increased his speed until it was plain that Caper could not soon overtake him as long as he kept on the road. Then Caper looked for a low place in the fence to his right, dismounted, shoved the top rails aside, led his horse through the opening, remounted madly, and pursued Dick.

It was plain now that Dick was on the horse he saw. He was urging his horse to his utmost speed. Caper's horse was much the swiftest. In a few minutes more he would overtake Dick. Caper shouted to him, but Dick only urged his horse the faster. Dick was riding a horse without bridle or saddle.

Some men in a field, fancying the man and boy were racing, shouted encouraging words to Dick as he flew past headlong.

"Go it, young 'un! Go it, old man! Go it, both of you!"

One man cut a switch, stepped out and handed it to Dick, and Dick whipped his horse up lively. His horse spurted ahead again, and then Caper swore until the air turned blue.

At last, when man and boy were near each other, Dick looked back and saw murder in his pursuer's face.

Murder looked out of his eyes. Murder was lined in his firm mouth. Above all, murder was expressed in the forward pitch of Caper's head. Dick knew only too well what it meant when Caper held his head down and well forward. The devil always goaded him to desperation then. Dick knew, and more than one in Barnesville knew, that murder was done more than once when Caper rushed at his victims with his head down like a bull charging and lunging in his blind rage.

"Will you stop now?"

"No."

The horses spurted under the drivers' whips again.

"Stop, I tell you."

"I'll die first."

Even as he spoke, Dick's horse stumbled, fell, and came within an ace of rolling over in a gully upon Dick.

In a moment Dick was on his feet, and running as fast as his legs could carry him.

Caper overtook him and tried to ride him down, but his horse shied. Then Caper tried to hit the boy with the butt of his whip.

The handle grazed Dick's shoulder.

"Stop, you devil's imp!"

Dick did not heed him.

"Stop!"

Dick tried to climb over a fence.

Caper was off his horse in an instant. He grasped Dick by the leg. Dick kicked violently with all his might. His foot struck Caper square in the mouth. The blow loosened two of the Superintendent's teeth, and the devil in him was unloosed, too, by the same blow.

"Now I'll kill you, you whelp."

He pulled Dick off the fence; but the boy was supple and full of fire. He hit Caper a stinging blow in one eye with his fists as he was falling off the fence.

The blow amazed—dumfounded Caper. Before he could grasp Dick again the boy was several yards from him.

Caper ran after him. Murder was in every line of his face. His expression was so horrible that Dick gave himself up for lost. But he resolved to sell his life as dearly as possible.

"Say your prayers, you brat! It's the last chance you'll ever have!"

Dick's glance fell on a large, smooth, round stone. His hand was as swift as his eye. He stooped suddenly, picked up the stone, and, just as Caper was within a few feet of him, threw it with all his might at him.

The stone struck Caper on the head.

He fell like a sack, all abroad, on the clay road.

Dick, dreading lest he was playing a trick, stood off, looking at him. Then he approached him, and observed him intently.

If it was acting, it was marvelous. But there was a tiny stream of blood on the ground.

The sight of the blood unnerved Dick.

"What if I have killed him!"

The thought that Caper was only prevented from murdering him did not occur to Dick until he satisfied himself, by putting a hand slowly, timidly on Caper's head, that the Superintendent of Barnesville Poorhouse was not "playing possum."

"I'm sorry! But if I hadn't hit him—where'd I be now?"

And Dick shuddered at the recollection of Caper's murderous expression.

He lifted Caper's hand. The hand fell limp on the ground.

He turned Caper's face up. It was pale and cold—deadly cold.

"I've killed him—I've murdered him!" said Dick aloud.

Then he cried; he looked at the fallen man; at the road, up and down; across the fields.

No human being was in sight.

"They'll hang me! They'll say I did it on purpose. Nobody will believe me. I'll be tried and the preacher will talk to me, and then I'll be hung."

Dick was in a paroxysm of terror.

He knelt beside Caper, felt his heart and his hands. He even opened Caper's eyes. But there was no sign of life.

Dick looked at his horse, scampering away on the road. Then at the horse Caper rode. He thought quickly—very quickly. Presently he made up his mind.

"I'll run away—no use giving myself up to be hung. I'll go as far as I can—and keep going. I'm sorry it happened, 'cos I wanted to go and see Joe at that farm house. But I daren't now—I must skip out mighty quick."

He turned to Caper's horse, turned its head toward the poorhouse, hit it smartly with a switch, and watched it trotting back home.

Then Dick ran swifty across a field; skulking, dodging, looking backward as he ran, in apprehension. But there was no one in sight.

When he reached the edge of the field, he entered a fringe of timber land, and suddenly disappeared from view.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

BREATHES there a man with soul so dead,
Who never to himself hath said,
Were I rewarded as my worth
I'd own the whole of big round earth?

THE CHICAGO DOCKS.

WHERE SAILORS AND RATS MOST DO CONGREGATE.

One of the Hardest Quarters to Be Found in the Western Metropolis—Queer Characters Encountered There—Tough Dives and Their Patrons.

MISTER, will you be real mad if I ask you one question?"

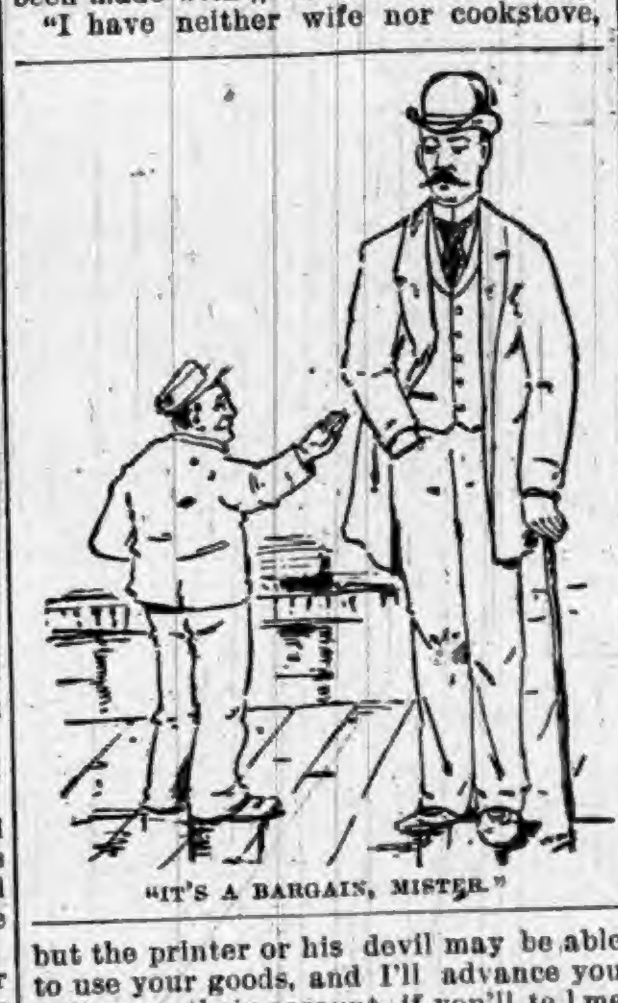
A bare-footed, red-headed, bright-eyed little man, or large boy, it was not easy to determine which, thus accosted the writer at a boat-house under one of the Chicago bridges, a few days since.

"I sometimes ask questions myself, and can't well object," was the reply.

"If I bring two bushel baskets full of shavings to your house for your wife to kindle fires with, will you give me 10 cents to buy a fish-hook and strong line?"

Had the proposition involved the transfer of a controling interest in all the Vanderbilt roads, it could not have been made with greater earnestness.

"I have neither wife nor cookstove, but the printer or his devil may be able to use your goods, and I'll advance you a dime on their account, if you'll tell me what you know about the Chicago docks, and show me around generally."



"IT'S A BARGAIN, MISTER."

"It's a bargain, Mister. I havn't made the price of a snifter out of the shaving fake to-day and my hold needs ballast. I'm the lad for you; I was born in a canal-boat. I know every turn in the creek, an' every plank in the docks. I'm Billy the wharf-rat, I am."

Thus escorted, the writer saw—and smelt—his fill of the docks and their appurtenances, and came away convinced that Butler had the forefathers of the denizens of the Chicago docks in mind when he wrote in Hudibras:

Some rats of an amphibious nature,
Are either of the earth or water.

Probably not many know that the Chicago docks, like the old-time Whitefriars of London, contain, and for the most part conceal, a peculiar people of their own, who there earn and steal their livelihood. Unlike their first cousins, the tramps and bums, they sometimes work. Their principal occupation is that of stevedore, and in loading and unloading vessels they often labor for twenty-four and thirty-six hours without cessation. This is done only when the carrying trade is brisk or the vessel has a cargo awaiting her and time is valuable. In such cases the men are paid large wages, and can afford to loaf for a few days. Night work is a bonanza to the stevedore, who generally manages to conceal and carry away some articles of value. By a pre-arrangement, a small boat often comes alongside in the night, and receives goods of all descriptions dropped overboard by the confederate wharf-rat whenever occasion permits. This is even done while the boat is in charge of a Government inspector, and, in spite of the greatest vigilance, the shortage from the bill of lading is generally considerable. Vessels often discharge and receive their freight at different docks, and carry the stevedores with them, who frequently succeed in throwing overboard metals, pieces of machinery and other heavy articles, which they afterward fish out with grappling irons.

"Where do the rats sleep?" the guide was asked.

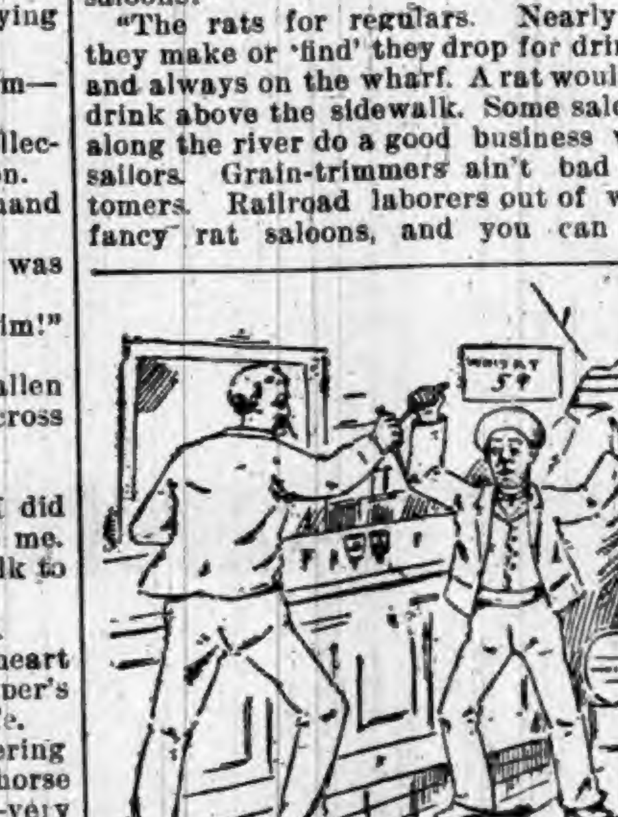
"Some snoozes under the bridge approaches, lots of 'em in saloons and eating houses on the docks; quite a number at cheap lodging houses and the Bethel, while a few actually has homes. We don't pay hotel bills in the summer time, but the winter fetches us, and we have to look up a tenner every day for a berth in a lodging house. Cold weather drives us away from the creek and makes regular bums of us."

"How about the dock saloons?"

"They're generally pretty tough. They make most of their money out of the rats, and always stands in with 'em. There's where sailors are 'done up.' The rats catch onto 'em, steers 'em to a saloon, where they give up everything. They take 'em singly, so they can't make out a case, if they try, which ain't often. Some saloons has some pretty tough women in tow, as an inducement to fetch poor Jack in."

"Who are the patrons of the dock saloons?"

"The rats for regulars. Nearly all they make or 'find' they drop for drinks, and always on the wharf. A rat wouldn't drink above the sidewalk. Some saloons along the river do a good business with sailors. Grain-trimmers ain't bad customers. Railroad laborers out of work fancy rat saloons, and you can bet they're not afraid to go there. Once in a while a well-heeled lubber goes down the stairs at one of the bridges for a drink. He generally gets something in it, as he didn't order, gets absent-minded, and forgets to take his roll and watch away with him."



"A SAILORS' ROW."

"Do river men gamble?"

"Poker's all the go here, though most rats drink too much to play well. Nearly every saloon has a game, but they're never on the square. The boss always wins."

"Is there much fighting along the docks?"

"Lots of it; and mighty ugly, sometimes. A rat don't shoot; he strikes and cuts, and many a gash charged up to a innocent propeller by the coroner's jury was put onto the floater with a knife in a rat saloon. Sometimes sailors as has been done up and kick, get it that way. Generally the man as is fixed ain't known away from here, and is a terror that honest rats are glad to get rid of; so no tears is shed and no fuss made. I know a dozen as has downed their man. You see I get the inside facts."

"Don't the police sometimes capture them?"

"I never hear on't. The cops don't care to come around here much, and you don't catch a rat going far from the river when he can help it. We know where we're safe. Why, in a rat saloon we're as secure as a bank president in Canada. Most of 'em has trap doors behind the bar as connects with the creek, and a rat'll take to the water, dirty as it is, to shake a cop. I've seen it done lots of times."

"Is there much stealing along the docks?"

"Is there much to steal? that's the point. Everything as can be took, goes. Why, in winter I've seen a vessel stripped of her ropes, anchor, bolts that could be got out—everything a junk dealer will buy. A great many are in cahoots with land thieves, and exchange plunder with them. I know cellars along the river where goods are safe and can't be reached except by going under the dock in a boat."

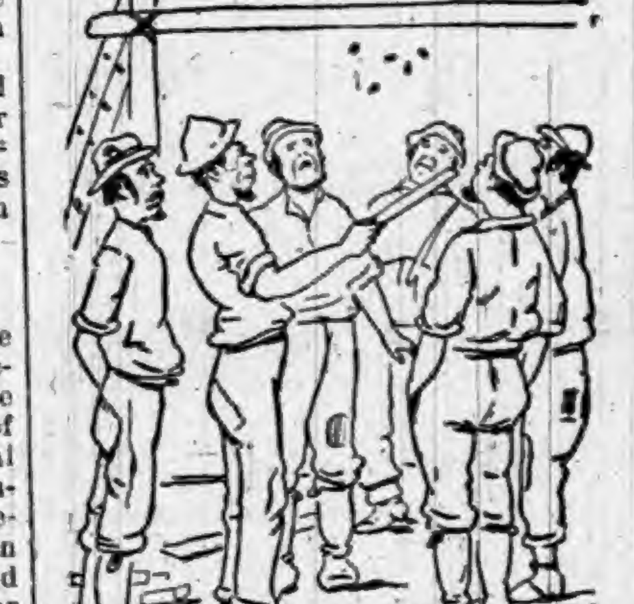
"How about burglaries, are they common?"

"There's a gang as works that fake regular. They often let some one else find the stuff, and get a reward; that's why you don't hear more of 'em. Sometimes they strikes South Water and other streets a block or two away, but generally they enter stores and warehouses direct from the river. They carry the plunder away in boats, and if seen and close pressed, dive and disappear—every rat can swim. The loss of a boat ain't nothing, as they're easy to pick up. Some fellers here does a right handsome trade in boats. They sell 'em to boat-builders, who alter and repaint 'em so that the owner wouldn't know 'em. I know a boat-builder here who sold the same boat to the same party three times—he was a land-lubber."

"Where do the rats come from?"

"That's hard to tell. A good many, like me, has been canal-boat men. Lots has been sailors—a sailor out of a berth naturally comes here, and often stays for good. Some come here because they're 'wanted' elsewhere. We've got two educated fellers what took to drink, and a dozen reformed tramps and bums."

Quite a number of people earn a living at the pier along the Lake Front. They make a good deal of money renting out fishing tackle and selling minnows for bait. These they catch in small dip nets. They buy fish from small boys and others, and sell them to impatient and unskillful fishermen, who are ashamed to return home empty-handed.



TYPICAL DOCK ROUSTABOUTS.

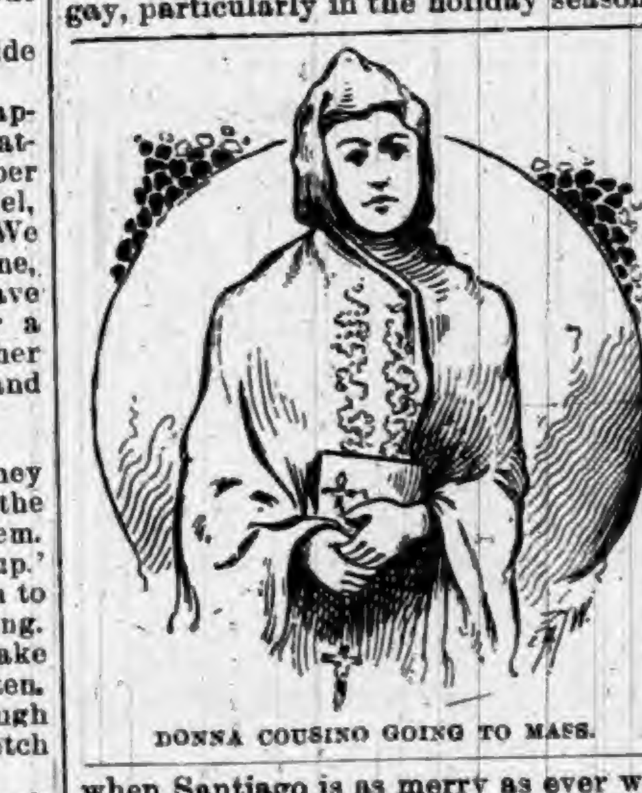
At the Government pier dagos have stands where they sell coffee, pies, cakes, sandwiches, tobacco, and sometimes whisky. In the olden time "bumboats" reigned supreme there, making night hideous. These have mostly been suppressed, though Black Jack Yattaw, the king of "bumboat" masters, still continues to defy the law, in spite of the fact that he is frequently arrested and heavily fined.

DWIGHT BALDWIN.

RICHEST IN THE WORLD.

Chile Has a Woman Worth Her Millions.

Chile is a land of handsome men and beautiful women. Society is very gay, particularly in the holiday season, when Santiago is as merry as ever was Madrid during the carnival. There are no lovelier beings in the world than the young Chilean belles.



DONNA COUSINO GOING TO MASS.

The homes of the wealthier classes are marvels of beautiful and chaste architecture and wonders of interior adornments. This is especially true of the Palais Cousino, the home of the famous Donna Cousino, the richest woman in the world. Her beauty, no less than her almost fabulous wealth, has made her famous even in the United States, and when a few years ago it was announced that Donna Cousino contemplated a visit to New York the news excited a considerable flutter there. Her residence is by far the most luxurious in the republic in point of elegance, artistic decoration and modern comfort, the sculptures being worth a vast fortune and the gardens and grounds superb beyond description.—New York World.

Found a Very Old Sword.

A rare archæological treasure was unearthed at Dubuque, Iowa. Henry Wagner, an old gentleman living in Heeb's Hollow, in the northern part of the city, was digging in his garden when his spade turned over the blade of a rusty sword lying about two feet below the surface. When the rust and dirt which thickly incrusted the blade was carefully removed, numerous inscriptions became visible. On one side near the hilt is an ornamental scroll bearing the date 1580; above is the figure of a hound leaping; still further up the blade is engraved a mailed hand holding a sword. On the reverse is a suit of armor with lances and crossed swords, and above it a papal miter. Over the entire blade runs delicately engraved scroll work, which is now only faintly visible. Local archæologists think the sword a relic of the early French explorers who first visited the valley of the Mississippi.

PLEASURE BOATS

—AND—

CANOES.

Oars, rowlocks, paddles, masts, spars, sails, blocks, cleats, anchors, etc., etc., etc.

$30 A BOAT FOR —TO— $300

THE PLEASURE BOATS OF AMERICA!

DON'T BUY ELSEWHERE until you see my catalogue for 1891; send 5 cent stamp for it.

J. H. RUSHTON, Canton, N. Y.

N. Y. CITY SALESROOM,

H. C. SQUIRES, 178 BROADWAY.

The greatest improvement in Corsets during the past twenty years is the use of Coraline in the place of horn or whalebone. It is used in all of Dr. Warner's Corsets and in no others.

The advantages of Coraline over horn or whalebone are that it does not become set like whalebone, and it is more flexible and more durable.

Dr. Warner's Coraline Corsets are made in twenty-four different styles, fitting every variety of figures—thin, medium, stout, long waists and short waists.

Sold everywhere.

WARNER BROS., Mfrs.,
New York and Chicago.

WANTED experienced and efficient agents to sell line of desirable household articles. Terms liberal, agents make money selling them. Samples furnished prepaid: Holder, 15c., cleaner, 10-inch 15c.; Fasteners, bronze 5c., nickel, 7c. BOURKE MFG. CO., Youngstown, O.

I CURE FITS!

When I say CURE I do not mean merely to stop them for a time, and then have them return again. I MEAN A RADICAL CURE. I have made the disease of

FITS, EPILEPSY or FALLING SICKNESS,

A life-long study. I WARRANT my remedy to CURE the worst cases. Because others have failed is no reason for not now receiving a cure. Send at once for a treatise and a FREE BOTTLE of my INFALLIBLE REMEDY. Give Express and Post Office. It costs you nothing for a trial, and it will cure you. Address

H. G. ROOT, M.C., 183 PEARL ST., NEW YORK

Jackson Favorite Waist HAS STYLE SUPPORTS BACK AND SPINE. GIVES COMFORT AND EASE.

Adjustable shoulder straps, soft button fronts or ordinary clasps.

HYGIENIC, HEALTHFUL, BOON TO WOMEN.

FOR SALE BY ALL DEALERS, OR SENT POST PAID FOR $1.10

State size and if white or drab is desired. ALWAYS ADDRESS THE

Coronet Corset Co., JACKSON, MICH.

"IRON IS KING"

Brown's IRON AND QUININE Bitters IS THE KING OF TONICS!

IRON QUININE GENTION FOR THE BLOOD- NERVES, STOMACH.

BLOOD MAKER AND NERVE STRENGTHENER.

BEST BITTERS ever offered the public and a thoroughly reliable tonic and health restorer and cannot fail to give tone and vigor to the whole system by purifying the blood, strengthening the bones, muscles and nerves, and restoring in a wonderful degree the health and vigor of youth.

EVERY BOTTLE WARRANTED.

PRICE $1.00.

M. K. Brown & Co.,
BURLINGTON, VT.

BETHESDA

Cures Diabetes and Bright's Disease.

RECOMMENDED AND USED BY

Hon. CHAS. FOSTER, Secretary of Treasury.

Hon. J. M. RUSK, Secretary of Agriculture.

Hon. GEO. R. DAVIS, Director General World's Fair, Chicago.

DR. SHRADY, New York City.

Prof. AGASSIZ, Cambridge, Mass.

FRANKLIN MacVEACH, Chicago.

CLEM. STUDEBAKER, South Bend, Ind.

A Pure, Refreshing, Health-Giving Water, so delicately proportioned in mineral qualities by nature as to make it agreeable and wholesome in health, and in cases of Diabetes and Bright's Disease more benefit will be derived from it in twenty-four hours than in three months from any medicine known to science.

Write for Pamphlet. BETHESDA MINERAL SPRING CO., Waukesha, Wis.

MOST POPULAR BUGGY ON WHEELS

SINGLE CENTER SPRING.

POINTS

Body always level.
Load distributed at five points on rear axle.
Gear, best grade steel throughout.
Spring, long and elastic; makes easiest riding wagon made.
Runs easy because it always tracks.
30 pounds lighter than a side bar.
Superior first-class wagon.
Made of choicest materials.
Spring and Gear guaranteed two years.

Vehicles of every style made on this Spring.

CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION. AGENTS WANTED.

BUSINESS MEN'S COMPANION.

Defies Competition for Rough Roads. SINGLE CENTER SPRING CO., EVANSVILLE, INDIANA.

For WEAK AND DEBILITATED MEN.

A NEW DISCOVERY! —BY— DR. ALBERT. TESTICURA EXTERNOSUM

AFTER years of experience in the leading Hospitals of the World, and as a Private Specialist in the treatment of Sexual Weakness, DR. ALBERT has finally been induced to place before the afflicted at a nominal expense, this

WONDERFUL REMEDY!

An Outward Application

TESTICURA EXTERNOSUM For the Cure of Seminal Weakness, Impotency, Nocturnal Emissions, Varicocele, and Lack of Development.

Cure by Absorption.

TESTICURA EXTERNOSUM Applied direct to the parts. No Nauseous Drugs that Ruin the Stomach. Guaranteed Cure, or Money Refunded.

No Nauseous Drugs.

A PERFECT RESTORATION GUARANTEED.

Sent to any part of the U. S., securely packed, free from observation, upon receipt of $2.00.

For full information, address enclosing 4 cents postage,
The ALBERT MEDICAL DISPENSARY, Cleveland, O.

GREATEST
Announcement
Ever Heard of!
BEGINNING
April 1,

WE WILL GIVE AWAY

TO THE TRADE at large, a handsome PARLOR ORGAN worth in the market $85.00, to the person who buys the highest amount of goods from One Dollar and upward at one time, for CASH ONLY, at our store up to Aug. 1st.

ALSO

A fine SUIT OF CLOTHES worth in the market $18.00 with the next highest amount purchased;

A nice Saratoga Trunk, worth in the market $8.00;

A fine pair of Ladies' French Kid Shoes, worth in the market $4 00,

A nice Fine Silk Umbrella, worth in the market $3.00;

We also give with this elegant instrument a handsome Organ Stool, and Instruction Book and a guarantee from the factory for five years. This instrument was just received from the factory and is bran new. Please call and see these articles. They are now on exhibition at our store. Remember they bear inspection.

Such an opportunity is not offered very often to obtain such elegant gifts for nothing. These goods which you buy you need anyway, and unless you find the prices satisfactory don't buy; and we will sell them to you as low as the lowest and defy competition in our line.

DON'T MISS THIS
Golden

Opportunity which will never be offered to you again.
Respectfully yours,

J. LŒWENSTEIN & CO.

No Money Required of Responsible Parties to Commence Treatment.

DRS. FRUTH,

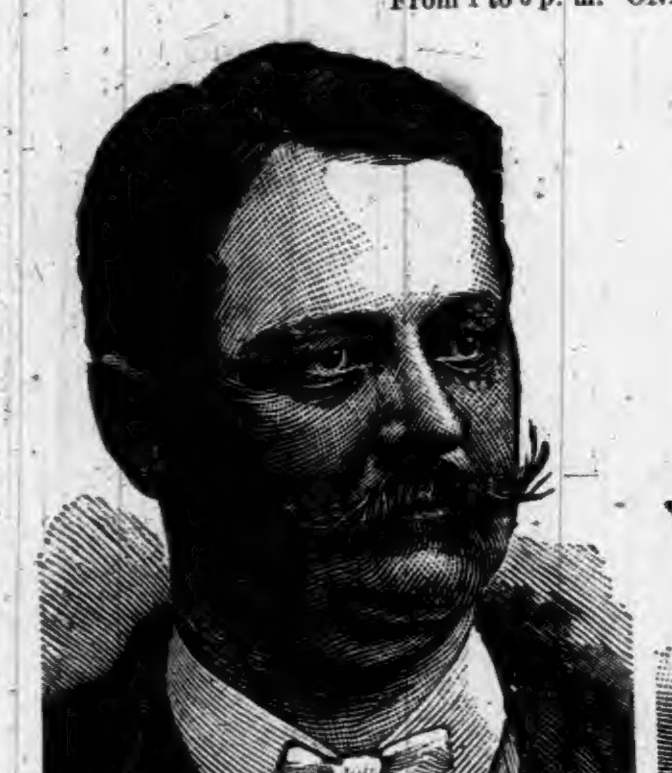
Formerly of New York, now the celebrated Examining Physicians and Surgeons of the Fruth Medical and Surgical Institute, Chicago, Ill., by request of many Friends and Patients, have decided to visit AUBURN

MONDAY, JULY 6, 1891

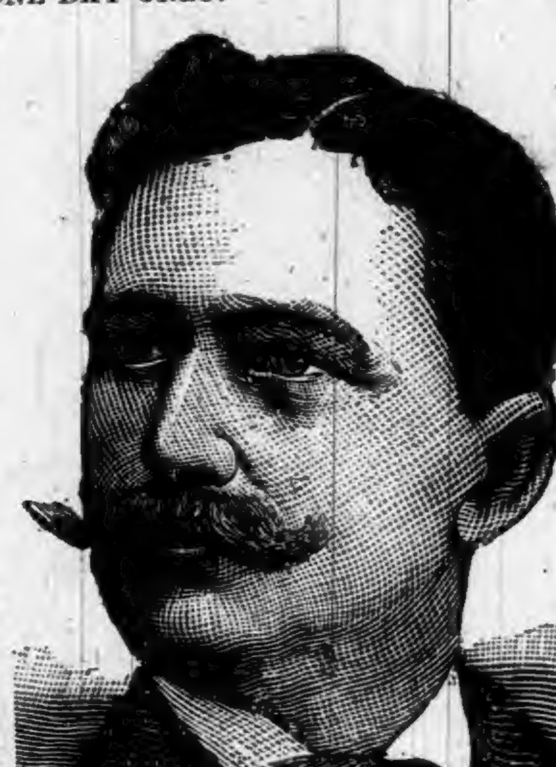
Consultation and examination free and strictly confidential in the private parlors of the

SWINEFORD HOUSE,

From 1 to 6 p. m. ONE DAY ONLY.



DR. D. O. FRUTH,
Celebrated Surgeon.



DR. A. C. FRUTH,
Examining Physician.

—OF THE—

Fruth Medical and Surgical Institute.

Permanently established and incorporated under the laws of the state of Ill., with a capital stock of $100,000, for the scientific and successful treatment of all forms of Chronic and Sexual Diseases, Catarrh, Asthma, Stomach, Kidney, Bladder, Nervous and Spinal Diseases of Men and Women.

Ably assisted by a full staff of eminent physicians and surgeons for every department of medicine and surgery.

Female Diseases positively cured by a never failing method. A home treatment entirely harmless and easily applied. Consultation free and strictly confidential.

Dr Fruth after years of experience has perfected the most infallible method of curing Vital drain in Urine. Nocturnal losses, Impaired Memory, Weak Back, Melancholy, Want of Energy, Premature decline of the Manly Powers if consulted, idiocy, insanity, falling fits, or total impotency results. These terrible disorders arising from ruinous practices of youth, blighting the most radiant hopes, unfitting patients for study society or marriage, annually sweeping to an untimely grave thousands of young men of brilliant intellect and exalted talent.

Piles Cured without pain, knife or cautery.

Marriage. Married persons or young men contemplating marriage, aware of physical weakness, loss of procreative powers, impotency or other disqualification, speedily restored.

Epilepsy positively cured by our new and never failing Hospital treatment.

Kidney and Bladder Diseases. Bright's Disease, Diabetes and kindred maladies treated and cures effected in thousands of cases that had been pronounced beyond hope.

Private Diseases—Blood Poison, Syphillis, Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Stricture, Hydrocele, Varicocele, Loss of Sexual Power and all diseases of the genito-urinary organs speedily and permanently cured. No risks incurred. Consultation free and strictly confidential. Medicine sent free from observation to all parts of the United States.

Catarrh Cured.—Catarrhal affections of the nose, throat, lungs, and stomach, bronchitis, asthma, consumption and dyspepsia, successfully treated by the most recent and scientific methods which a vast hospital experience has proved worthy of confidence. We desire no better proof of success than the testimonials on file at the institute, of thousands of helpless cases that have been restored to health and happiness.

Free Examination of the Urine. Each person applying for medical treatment should send or bring an ounce of their urine, which will receive a careful chemical and microscopical examination.

Wonderful Cures Perfected in old cases which have been neglected or unskilfully treated. No experiments or failures. Parties treated by mail and express, but where possible, personal consultation is preferred. Curable cases guaranteed. Cases and Correspondence confidential. Treatment sent C. O. D. to any part of the U. S. List of 130 questions free. Address with postage, Dr. D. O. FRUTH, 59 East Madison Street, Chicago, Ill.

4C. LAWNS 4C.

5 & 6c CHALLIES,

Polka Dot Lawns, White and Black India Linens, White and Black Flouncings, Satteens, Ginghams, Prints,

Silk Mitts, 15c., to 75c.

SUMMER CORSETS 50C.

LADIES' VESTS AT 10C.

MRS. M. JONES & SON.

IRA BRANDON,

—Dealer in—

GROCERIES

—AND—

PROVISIONS.

A complete line of

STAPLE

....AND....

FANCY
GROCERIES

Constantly on hand.

Goods are always fresh.

Cash or Trade

....FOR....

Butter, Eggs, and Lard.

Call and see me.

North Main Street,
Opposite Woolen Mills.

County Assessor's Notice.

In order to facilitate the work of revising the assessments lists of of the different townships and corporations of DeKalb county, the following dates have been selected for each, and those persons residing in the townships and towns, and who desire a re-hearing, or who have complaints to be brought before the board for its action, are notified to appear before said board on the day named for each, which will be as follows:

Troy and Stafford townships	July	6
Concord and Newville townships	"	7
Jackson township	"	8
Butler "	"	9
Fairfield "	"	10
Smithfield "	"	11
Franklin "	"	13
Wilmington "	"	14
Grant and Keyser townships	"	15
Richland and Union "	"	16
Auburn town	"	17
Waterloo "	"	18
Garrett "	"	20
Butler "	"	21

SYLVESTER KUTZNER,
County Assessor.

June 23, 1891.

To Colorado via BURLINGTON ROUTE
Only One Night on the Road.

Leave Chicago at 1:00 p. m., or St. Louis at 8:25 a. m., and arrive Denver 6:15 p. m. the next day. Through sleepers, chair cars and dining cars. All railways from the east connect with these trains and with similar trains via Burlington Route to Denver, leaving Chicago at 6:10 p. m., St. Louis at 8:15 p. m., and Peoria at 3:20 p. m., and 8:00 p. m. All trains daily. Tourists tickets are now on sale, and can be had of ticket agents of all roads and at Burlington Route depots in Chicago, Peoria and St. Louis. There is no better place than Colorado for those seeking rest and pleasure. 38

Money can be Saved.

If you prefer to save your money rather than pay it out in doctor bills, invest in a box of Chamberlain's Restorative Gelatine Coated Pills which are a substitute for a doctor in a host of cases and will save money to the user in every instance. Try one box. Sold by all druggists. 4

An International Exposition regatta is talked of as one of the attractions of the World's Fair. It is believed that the great oarsmen of the world can easily be induced to participate in such an event, and negotiations to that end have already been begun by interested parties.

Drunkenness, or the Liquor Habit, Positively Cured by administering Dr. Haines' Golden Specific.

It is manufactured as a powder, which can be given in a glass of beer, a cup of coffee or tea, or in food, without the knowledge of the patient. It is absolutely harmless, and will effect a permanent and speedy cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an alcoholic wreck. It has been given in thousands of cases, and in every instance a perfect cure has followed. It never Fails. The system once impregnated with the Specific, it becomes an utter impossibility for the liquor appetite to exist. Cures guaranteed. 48 page book of particulars free. Address GOLDEN SPECIFIC CO., 185 Race St., Cincinnati, O.

CORRESPONDENCE

WATERLOO.

Frank Till has gone south.

Mrs. John Koons, was over at Auburn Tuesday.

Mrs. S. Barnhart went to Elkhart Thursday.

Miss Walker, of Butler, spent Sunday in Waterloo.

Thursday T. E. Hill of Covington, O., was in our city.

Saturday night the windows of the north side saloon were broken.

Wednesday Messrs. Bath and Miller, of Kendallville, were in our town.

S. Barnhart was affected by, and nearly succumbed to the heat last Thursday afternoon.

Miss Maud McBride, who has been visiting in Toledo, returned home a few days since.

Dell Locke and J. E. Johnson returned home last Saturday from their fishing expedition.

Thursday evening, July 2d, a mass temperance meeting will be held in the M. E. church.

Last Sunday quite a number of Waterloo people attended the Assembly meeting at Hamilton.

Mr. McRodgers, of Rochester, N. Y., has been engaged by Mr. Herzog to work in his shop.

Miss Ora Yeagy expects to go to Bluffton, on Thursday, of this week, for a visit of some days.

C. H. Woodruff, of Defiance, Ohio, and a late teacher in College there, visited our city Wednesday.

Effie Barr, a niece of S. P. Strow, is here visiting the family of her uncle. She is from Ottawa, Ohio.

Thursday G. W. Gaskill, who represents the National Loan and Saving association, of Logansport, was in town.

Isaac Speer and daughter, Flora, went to Pleasant Lake Tuesday to attend the dedication of the new U. B. church at that place.

Mrs. Fannie Shaffer, of Albion, recently visited friends in Waterloo. Mrs. S. formerly resided here, where she has many friends.

Prof. Keep's normal commenced Monday morning. It seems natural to hear the ringing of the bell again, at the usual school hours.

Mrs. Dr. Broughton went to Toledo last Saturday to spend a week with her mother and friends. Her little boy went some days earlier with his grandmother, Mrs. Kimsey.

Friday evening, July 3d, a lecture will be given by Mrs. Mitchell; a returned missionary, we suppose. We understand she will be dressed in costume of the land, probably, where she has labored.

Mrs. May Koontz returned to her home in Toledo last week, Saturday, after a visit of two weeks in Waterloo. She has a host of friends in Waterloo and vicinity, and found the time allotted quite too brief to see them all.

Miss Lenore Alleman, a graduate of DePauw University, has been engaged as Principal in the Waterloo schools. She has held the same position hertofore and filled it to general satisfaction. Outside of her school connections she had many warm friends and was generally popular.

The L. M. C. met Tuesday evening of this week with Miss Rose Blair. At the regular session of the club last week, the last one of the course for the year, the majority present decided by vote to have no vacation but continue the regular weekly meetings and review geology, in which the members generally are much interested.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Leas returned a few days ago from Sioux City, Iowa, where they have spent several weeks with relatives. The ninetieth birthday of Mrs. Bogue was celebrated during their visit. Mrs. Bogue is grandmother to Mrs. Leas, and formerly lived in Waterloo, where she and her daughter, Mrs. Jerry Jones were well known and highly respected.

Last week a lady of Waterloo, lost a delightful visit with a number of Auburn ladies, because she finds herself too much occupied to make a daily visit to the P. O., and consequently failed to receive her invitation in time. This is the second time such an occurrence has happended, to her great regret. And now she promises herself, whatever else has to be neglected, her mail matter shall be looked after.

BUTLER.

Some of the farmers near Hamilton, cut wheat, Saturday.

J. A. Campbell paid the Joseph Sewell loss within four days after the fire.

E. A. Campbell and family returned from their trip to Michigan last Friday, going on their home in Toledo, Saturday.

Ninnie Champion seems to have been so successful typo, while at Chicago, as to justify a husband in the "stick" of her affections.

The street crossings put down by the town board are reported as failures. Parties from neighboring towns are trying their hands at others.

We were pleased on Sunday, to meet Charles V. Lewis, of Kansas City, a former Butler boy, who has made his mark in the banking business.

The past week has been very favorable for hay-making and corn culture. Farmers improved the time, and made some of the finest hay ever put up in the county.

Charles Imhoff narrowly escaped serious injury last week, by accidentally falling from a load of hay upon the handle of a fork. He will retire from activity a few days.

A scattered "few" of Butler people, with "fewer" from other places greeted Bill Gibson, on Hamilton Island, last Saturday. Too much hay down to picnic was the probable reason.

CORUNNA.

Miss Mertie Calkin went to Waterloo Saturday.

Mr and Mrs. Debois drove to Kendallville Thursday.

Dr. F. Snyder, of Kendallville, was in town Saturday.

Mrs Emory Shook is on the sick list again this week.

Joe Loveland made a business trip to Auburn Tuesday.

Mrs. Stullar, of Brimfield, was visiting in town last week.

Rev. Moot, of Waterloo, took dinner Thursday at the Cline Hotel.

Miss Inna Sisson has a lady friend from Pleasant Lake visiting her.

D. Zonker is lying very low with spinal trouble, with no hopes of recovery.

Miss Edith Griffith is spending the week at Kendallville, the guest of Dr. Snyder and wife.

The young people were agreeably entertained at the home of Miss Della Orr, Tuesday evening.

Mrs. W. Drury, Minnie and Ona Finch were guests of friends at Kendallville several days last week.

Tom Orr and sister Della and Mary Perrine were the guests of Miss Sadie Shearer at Auburn Sunday.

Dr. Fruth,

Formerly of New York, now the celebrated examing surgeon of the Fruth Medical and Surgical Institute, of Chicago, Ill., by request of many friends and patients, has decided to visit Auburn, Monday, July 6. Consultation and Examination Free and Strictly Confidential in the private parlor of the Swineford House, one day only. South Bend Post in speaking of Dr. Fruth, editorially in a recent issue, said:

"No physician of modern times has made so profound a sensation in his century, or ever, in so short a number of years, or at so early a period of his life, encircled the world with his fame, or achieved by his actual works so large a measure of professional renown, in his own country. Though not in competition, much less in antagonism, with the legitimate and recognized profession of medicine in the United States and of other foreign and civilized nations where his treatment has been applied by correspondence, and where his name and almost supernatural skill, though less familiar than in America, are yet widely known, there is yet no question that the established and authenticated cases of his absolutely successful treatment of many thousands of invalids who had been the despair of contemporary skill—as in his well-known, rapid, complete and final cure in numberless instances of seated nervous ailments, heart diseases, rheumatism and consumption of long standing, and in all forms of chronic derangements of vital functions, where patients, many of them prominent members of society, had been finally 'given over' by the profession as hopeless beyond reach of human remedies—there is little question but that his happy prestige of 'life-saving,' where the profession have admitted failure, has made the genius of Dr. Fruth an object of envy with too many physicians, even of his own school. But the recognition of his matchless skill, his wholly unparalleled success, and of his eminent service to humanity, have been too universal to admit of any professional or non-professional disarrangement of his modes of treatment. Throughout Ohio and the middle states there is to-day no physician in general practice more sought by the profession for consultation in trying and extreme cases than Dr. Fruth.

Resolution of Condolence.

We the committee appointed to draft resolutions of condolence to sister Mary Clark, for the loss of her beloved husband, who departed this life on the 26th day of June, 1891, do respectfully submit the following:

WHEREAS It has pleased the all-seeing eye to take from our midst and from the embrace of his beloved wife and family and friends, William Clark, although unwilling to intrude on the sacred privacy of grief, until its pangs have in some measure subsided, we participate so sincerely in the affliction of the bereaved family for the loss of a true husband and father, that we cannot refrain from enrolling on the pages of memory, the name of our friend. Yet so weak and ineffectual is all human consolation, that we scarcely know how to express the deep sense we have of the heavy stroke with which she has been submerged. Yours is indeed a sad bereavment, but we doubt not, from a strong faith in "Him who doeth all things well," you will be sustained and comforted by His own consolations which are neither few nor small; and in further token of respect

RESOLVED That we extend our heartfelt sympathy to our sister, the wife, sons and daughter, and friends of the deceased, in this their sad bereavment.

RESOLVED That a copy of these resolutions be spread on the minutes, and a copy be sent to our papers; also a copy to the bereaved family, and assure them as true members of our Order, we will join heart and hand to bear away their burdensome grief and sorrow.

ALICE STAFFORD,
SARAH C. ALTENBURG, } Com.
LAURA ZENT,

GARRETT'S FOURTH.

SHE WILL CELEBRATE;

—AND—

DE KALB COUNTY WILL HELP HER DO IT.

Read This!

Programme:

Industrial Parade.

Reading the Declaration, by Prof. F. M. Merica.

Oration, by Rev. A. L. Lamport, at 11, a. m.

Base Ball game, at 1, p. m.

Horse Racing, 1, p. m.

Bicycle, Sack, Foot and Wheelbarrow Races at 5 p. m.

Fireworks at 8, p. m.

The following program has been arranged for the races.

CLASS 1. Stake race. Free-for-all, trot or pace, open to horses owned in DeKalb Co. Entrance $3.00, association adds $20.00 Five to enter and three to start. Best 3 in 5, ½ mile heats.

CLASS 2. Stake race for gentlemen's drivers, open to horses that have never been tracked. Entrance $1, association adds $10. Five to enter and three to start. Best 3 in 5, two-thirds mile heats.

CLASS 3. Stake race for two-year-old trotters or pacers. Entrance $1, association adds $10. Five to enter and three to start. Best 2 in 3, one-third mile heats.

CLASS 4. Running, for branded ponies. Entrance free. Purse $5 to the winner. Best two in three, one-third mile dash.

All purses divided, first 66⅔ per cent and 33⅓ per cent, except running, which is $5 to the winner. Races called promptly at 1 p. m. and governed by the rules of the American trotting association. A horse distancing the field will only be entitled to first money. Entries close at 12 o'clock on day of race. Admission to the grounds free.

A. F. HALTER, Sec'y.
J. A. CLEVENGER, Pres.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder.

A Pure Cream of Tartar Powder. Superior to every other known. Used in Millions of Homes—
40 Years the Standard.

Delicious Cake and Pastry, Light Flaky Biscuit, Griddle Cakes, Palatable and Wholesome.

No other baking powder does such work.

FIRE!
IN THE EYE OF
WILSON
The Shoe Man.

500 PAIRS SHOES
ALL KINDS
AT ACTUAL COST.

J. N. WILSON & SON,

NORTH SIDE OF SQUARE,

AUBURN, IND.

The Rev. Dr. Scott, Mrs Harrison's father, shortly starts for Port Townsend, Wash., accompanied by Judge Scott his son, who lives there. The old man is ninety, but hale and active.

Startling Facts.

The American people are rapidly becoming a race of nervous wrecks, and the following suggests the best remedy: Alphonso Hempfling, of Butler, Pa., swears that when his son was speechless from St. Vitus dance Dr. Miles' great Restorative Nervine cured him. Mrs. J. R. Miller, of Valparaiso, and J. D. Taylor, of Logansport, Ind., each gained 20 pounds from taking it. Mrs. H. A. Gardner, of Vistula, Ind., was cured of 40 to 50 convulsions a day, and much headache, dizziness, backache and nervous prostration by one bottle. Trial bottles, and fine book of marvelous cures, free at F. E. Davenport's who recommends and guarantees this unequaled remedy. 6

The youngest litigant on record is Richard Jones of St. Louis, six months old, who is suing a railroad for $5,000 damages for the death of his father, who was killed in a wreck.

The First Step.

Perhaps you are run down, can't eat, can't sleep, can't think, can't do anything to your satisfaction, and you wonder what ails you. You should heed the warning, you are taking the first step into Nervous Prostration. You need a Nerve Tonic and in Electric Bitters you will find the exact remedy for restoring your nervous system to its normal, healthy condition. Surprising results follow the use of this great Nerve Tonic and Alterative. Your appetite returns, good digestion is restored, and the Liver and Kidneys resume healthy action. Try a bottle. Price 50c. at Robbins & McCord's Drugstore. 6

The Empress Carlotta has recovered her reason, but her whole life since the time, 25 years ago, when her husband was shot, has been a blank, of which no memory lingers.

Cheapest and Best.

Chamberlain's Immediate Relief is pronounced by those who have used it to be the cheapest and best remedy that can be had. Listen to the following testimonial.

Sturgis, Mich., July 26, 1886.

I find Chamberlain's Immediat Relief not only the cheapest but the best remedy to keep in the house and would not be without it for double its cost

HENRY DRIESBUCH

Sold by all druggists. 4

Four thousand women are employed in the various government departments in Washington. They get good salaries, have easy hours and do good work.

A Boon to Wives.

Having used "Mother's Friend" I would not be without it. It is a boon to wives who know they must pass through the painful ordeal of childbirth. Mrs. C. Melbourne, Iowa. Write The Bradfield Regulator Co, Atlanta, Ga, for further particulars. Sold by F. E. Davenport and all druggists.

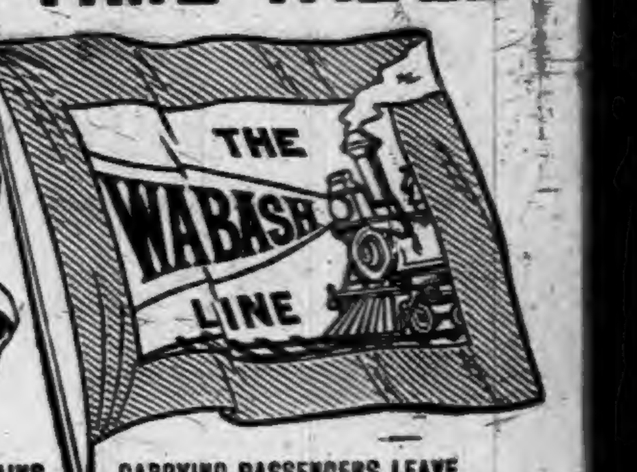
The Chilian government has applied for one acre of space on which to erect a building for that government at the World's fair.

She Suffered for Fifteen Years.

My wife has suffered for fifteen years from congestion and painful menstruation. After using three bottles of Bradfield's Female Regulator she is now able to do her house work and go where she pleases. J. W. DAVIS, Moravian Falls, N. C.

Write Bradfield Reg. Co., Atlanta, Ga., for particulars. Sold by F. E. Davenport and all druggists.

TIME TABLE



TRAINS CARRYING PASSENGERS LEAVE

GOING EAST.
Atlantic Express	2:38 am—Daily
Boston Express	5:35 am—Daily
Detroit Accom'n	2:30 pm—ex Su
New York Limited	8:04 pm—Daily
GOING WEST.
Pacific Express	1:32 am—Daily
Logansport Accom'n	7:55 am—Daily
Mail and Express	12:38 pm—ex Su
Chicago & St. Louis Lim	5:12 pm—Daily
St. Louis	7:33 pm—Daily

No. 53 will only stop for Chicago passengers.

For rates, Tickets, Time Table, etc., apply to
I. M. ZENT, Agent,
Auburn, Ind.

T. H. SPROTT, City Ticket Agent.
CHAS. M. HAYS, Gen'l Manager.
F. CHANDLER, Gen'l Pass and Ticket Agent.

FORT WAYNE BRANCH
L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—In Effect June 7, 1891.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations—	Mail.	Exp'ss	Fre'gt.
Fort Wayne....dp	11 50 am	4 40 pm	6 40 am
New Era	12 20 pm	5 22	7 29
Auburn Junc.	12 31	5 33	7 45
Auburn	12 34	5 36	8 05
Waterloo	12 46	5 47	9 20
Summit	12 55	5 57	10 00
Pleasant Lake	1 05	6 07	10 20
Angola	1 13	6 18	10 45
Fremont	1 27	6 34	11 20
Reading	1 53	7 04	1 07 pm
Bankers	2 00	7 15	1 45
Hillsdale	2 12	7 30	......
Ft. Wayne Junc.	2 23	7 39	2 45
Jonesville	2 25	7 41	2 50
Jackson	3 30	8 40	5 10

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations—	Freight	Exp'ss	Mail
Jackson........dp	6 45 am	11 15 am	6 30 am
Jonesville	8 50	12 10 pm	7 23
Ft. Wayne Junc.	8 55	12 15	7 25
Hillsdale	......	12 45	7 40
Bankers	9 40	12 56	7 51
Reading	10 05	1 07	8 01
Fremont	11 20	1 50	8 32
Angola	12 01 pm	2 10	8 48
Pleasant Lake	12 30	2 22	8 58
Summit	12 55	2 35	9 08
Waterloo	2 00	2 50	9 20
Auburn	2 55	3 10	9 33
Auburn Junc.	3 13	3 13	9 36
New Era	3 50	3 23	9 47
Fort Wayne	5 30	3 55	10 20

For rates on tickets or freight to all points, call on or address E. T. DeLAPP, Agent at Auburn. The Lake Shore via Cleveland in connection with the Erie, and P. & L. E. R. R., forms the quickest and most direct route to Pittsburgh.

TO WEAK MEN

Suffering from the effects of youthful errors, early decay, wasting weakness, lost manhood, etc., I will send a valuable treatise (sealed) containing full particulars for home cure, FREE of charge. A splendid medical work; should be read by every man who is nervous and debilitated. Address, Prof. F. C. FOWLER, Moodus, Conn.

U. S. Consul General Ballentine, of Bombay, says that he believes several native Indian princes will attend the Exposition.

Consumption Surely Cured.

TO THE EDITOR:—Please inform your readers that I have a positive remedy for the above-named disease. By its timely use thousands of hopeless cases have been permanently cured. I shall be glad to send two bottles of my remedy FREE to any of your readers who have consumption if they will send me their Express and P. O. address. Respectfully, T. A. SLOCUM, M. C., 181 Pearl St., N. Y.

Recorder's Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XXI. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY JULY 9, 1891. NUMBER 28.

Rickel & Sprott

—Have—

Money

TO LOAN

IN SUMS OF

$1,000

And Up,

AT 6 PER CENT.

Apply at once, as the amount is limited. Apply to

RICKEL & SPROTT,

Real Estate and Immigration Ag'ts,

Under Farmers Bank, AUBURN, IND.

On the beautiful island of Hayti the prevailing color of the houses is white with green blinds.

The Greatest Strike.

Among the great strikes that of Dr. Miles in discovering his New Heart Cure has proven itself to be one of the most important. The demand for it has become astonishing. Already the treatment of heart disease is being revolutionized, and many unexpected cures effected. It soon relieves short breath, fluttering, pains in side, arm, shoulder, weak and hungry spells, oppression, swelling of ankles, smothering and dropsy. Dr. Miles' book on Heart and Nervous Diseases free. The unequaled New Heart Cure is sold and guaranteed by F. E. Davenport, also his Restorative Nervine for headache, fits, sprees, hot flashes, nervous chills, opium habit, etc 1

Boys at Santa Anna, Cal., are engaged in picking mulberry leaves to feed the silk-worms at the San Diego cocoonery.

Our Leading Druggists.

F. E. Davenport is a wide awake business man securing that which he knows will give satisfaction to his customers. He has just received a fresh supply of Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup, the favorite cough medicine, and they are selling more of this remedy than all others combined. This being the case there must certainly be great merit in this medicine as it is giving such universal satisfaction. You can buy it of F. E. Davenport.

They say the principal occupation of guests at the Cape May hotels consists in waiting for meals and wondering why they ever visited such a prosy place.

MERIT WINS. We desire to say to our citizens, that for years we have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Dr. King's New Life Pills, Bucklen's Arnica Salve and Electric Bitters, and have never handled remedies that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, and we stand ready to refund the purchase price, if satisfactory results do not follow their use. These remedies have won their great popularity purely on their merits.

Robbins & McCord, Druggists. 1

They found a snake on top of the court house at Danville the other day, the Republican says. This is suspicious, as Danville is a "dry" town.

A Prominent Farmer.

Mr. Nicholas Wagoner, of Monroe, Ind., gives us the following statement in regard to Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup. He says: I have used a great many different kinds of medicines for bronchitis, a disease I have had for the last ten years, and found nothing that would relieve me until I commenced to use Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup. I took ten 50c. bottles of this medicine and was entirely cured, and can recommend it to any person that is suffering from this disease. NICHOLAS WAGONER.

Sold by F. E. Davenport.

LOUIS WOLF & CO.,

54 Calhoun St., FORT WAYNE, Ind.

CARPET DEPARTMENT

is stacked to the ceiling with a magnificent line of carpets.

Moquettes, that are NEW in pattern and delicate, soft tone, color almost too beautiful to walk on.

VELVETS

54 inches wide, don't cost any more proportionately than the narrow goods, because of the width you have less seams in your carpet. The pile won't sweep or pull out. New patterns in BODY BRUSSELS, and at a price a little lower than elsewhere. Magnificent line of tapestries, and all of them are private patterns to us in this market.

We show the full line of Lowell Ingrains. They are prettier this year than ever before, and the price is right. New styles of Portiers and Chenille curtains. Large line of Lace Curtains and Swiss Muslin. Mats, Rugs, Matting and Window Shades. We will send our Upholsters to your city to lay your new carpets. We employ only strictly first-class workmen.

DRESS GOODS.

Our stock of Dress Goods is complete in every detail. Prices the lowest Spring Jackets, Reefers and capes in great variety.

LOUIS WOLF & CO.,

54 Calhoun St., FORT WAYNE, Ind.

☞Mail Orders Promptly Attended to

Garrett's Big Day.

Garrett had a big celebration on the "Glorious Fourth" and Auburn in her usual friendly spirit, turned out as one man and went over to help them. They did this all the more willingly because Garrett people came to Auburn by hundreds to help us celebrate last year. A special train was expected to come off the B. & O. onto the Wabash to the station, but they did not succeed in this, so it came up on the Lake Shore. A B. & O. agent, Mr. Bell, from the Junction came up and brought his little stamp, and in the Lake Shore ticket office dealt out the little paste boards to the anxious crowds till Mr. DeLapp needed the window to sell tickets for his own special over the Lake Shore to Ft. Wayne. It was lively. But both trains got off in good shape. At Garrett the train found all the countryside waiting and soon the great industrial parade was formed. It was headed by the Garrett band, the Auburn band having a place farther down the line. The uniformed rank of K. P's. were at the head, the "Canton" Odd Fellows followed by the Catholic Knights and these by a large number of the Red Men. Then came the wagons etc., of the industrial parade, making a long procession, too many of them for us to note fully in the space we have. We think the most appropriate and tasty was that of the Milling Co., which not only showed piles of sacks of their fine flour, but had a cover of wheat freshly cut from the fields, the long straw and awns forming a most natural and graceful thatch. After this, came the speaking in the grove. T. S. Merica presided with a good deal of dignity and his brother F. M. Merica read the Declaration. The address was made by Rev. A. L. Lamport, and was one of the very best Independence Day orations we ever heard. On the stand with him was Father Young of the Catholic Church and another clergyman we failed to recognize. The singing was good. In the afternoon came the races, base ball, etc. The ball game was rather wildly played, and Auburn lost, the score showing Garrett 12; Auburn 11. There were two trotting races. The class "Gentlemen's Roadsters" was won by Mr. Moody's colt, "Mattie M." The other class "Free for all;" was won by Chester Hodge's horse. So that Auburn took all the horse honors, so to speak. The entire day passed off quietly and the big crowd went home after the fireworks feeling that the old-fashioned national holiday had been properly observed. We ought to say a good word for the marshals. Reub. Lantz headed them, and is a splendid officer. Everybody obeyed him, for everybody likes him, and he was ably assisted by Uncle Ed. Sargent and another, whose name escapes us just now. It was a pleasant affair all around.

NOTES.

The comic band, or "Calathumpians," took the cake. Their instruments must have cost a fortune.

As a reminder that "the memories of the war are passing away," an old lady was heard to remark pointing to the K. P. boys, "Them's the G. A. R's."

Garrett was ablaze with flags and other decorations.

The only unpleasant feature we remember, was a little hitch at the races. In the first heat for gentlemen's roadsters, the judges suddenly became aware of a lurid flash of light from the west, preceded by an ominous rattle of bones, and shut their eyes as something sizzled by, in the cool air. It was the luminous nose of the horse editor of the Garrett Clipper, preceded by his Rozinante, that had caused the flash, and he claimed the first heat. But the judges not being astronomers, meteorologists or anatomists declared they had not seen any horse flesh or driver go by till John Gillan and Mr. Moody's colt Mattie M. had gone under the wire. And so Mr. Moody was awarded the heat. There was some trouble in the second heat, that we did not understand. At the fourth heat we were not present but have it from good authority that things had been getting hotter and as the horses came up the home stretch, the same lurid light and racket came up from the west, with such a blaze and roar, that the judges jumped from the stand and fled the scene. And from their concealment in the dense woods north of the railroad, they shouted back their decision, that Mr. Moody's colt had taken first money. When last heard of the judges were footing it to Chicago. It is as well, for we presume they will be "writ up."

Florence Hollopeter well known in Auburn, was a very nice goddess of liberty.

In the parade, was an old-time bicycle with wooden wheel. The owner ought to bring it over to the fair Sept. 7, and show it alongside of some of the fine nickle plated ones we have now.

Mr. Moody's two-year old was the youngest trotter in the races. All the rest were "of age."

B. & O. Excursions.

The B. & O. Ry., will sell tickets for for the following excursions, at one fare for round trip, except the last one, which has $2 added. They are:

July 3 to 18th, to the W. R. C. Annual Campmeeting at Mountain Lake, Md.

For National Educational Meeting, at Toronto, Canada, July 14 to 17, for half fare, plus $2, good returning the 20th. Address your local agents, or L. S. Allen, A. G. P. A., Chicago.

Auburn's Fourth.

Auburn did not have much of a celebration, for even the Drum Corps, that has several times been employed all day, to "amuse" those who staid at home when we did not celebrate, was left off the program. So the few who remained had a quiet day. Of course the small boy and the small, but vicious firecracker, did more or less business that day, as the thousands of little pieces of red paper plainly showed the next morning. But all in all, it was a sort of Sunday, and the business men had little to do, except to meditate. Some of our people went to Ft. Wayne, but the bulk went to Garrett, as already stated, and a few took advantage of the half rates on railroads to visit friends farther away.

Land Appraisements.

The work of the various township assessors, shows a little variation as might be expected. Some lands are farther from town than others, and there is a difference for many reasons. We give the rate per acre, at which land is assessed in the several townships.

Butler township,	Av.	per	A.	$31	48
Jackson	"	"	"	21	08
Concord	"	"	"	29	48
Newville	"	"	"	28	55
Stafford	"	"	"	25	65
Wilmington	"	"	"	29	25
Union	"	"	"	32	50
Richland	"	"	"	31	25
Fairfield	"	"	"	30	00
Smithfield	"	"	"	22	09
Franklin	"	"	"	20	90
Troy	"	"	"	28	20
Keyser	"	"	"	35	50
Grant	"	"	"	31	50

It will be observed that these rates are for the land alone. The improvements will add more or less to it.

In Summer Paths and By-Ways.

To him who takes a vacation and buys tickets via the double track Lake Shore Route (L. S. & M. S. R'y) will come a pleasant time.

Tourist tickets are now on sale at Lake Shore ticket offices, to resorts on the St. Lawrence River, in the White Mountains, on the Atlantic Sea Coast, to Chautauqua, N. Y., Petoskey and Mackinac, Mich, St. Paul, Duluth, Ashland, Yellowstone Park, Denver, Colorado Springs and to the many and pleasant resorts of the east and west.

Send to A. J. Smith, G. P. & T. A., Cleveland, O., for copy of tourist book—Summer Excursions to the Mountains and Sea Shore; free to any address. 30

Law School.

The Indiana University Law School, at Bloomington, opens Sept. 17th. The course covers two years and leads to the degree of bachelor of laws. The pleading and practice taught has particular reference to the practice in Indiana and all other code states.

Write to Dr. John M. Coulter, President of the Indiana University at Bloomington, or to D. D. Banta, Dean of Law School, at Franklin, Ind., for catalogues and circulars.

McElree's Wine of Cardui

and THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT are for sale by the following merchants in DeKalb Co.:

Robbins & McCord,	Auburn,
F. E. Davenport,	"
J. D. Campbell,	Waterloo,
Willis & Co.,	"
Geo. Kehrer,	Butler,
S. G. Stone,	"
O. P. Raber,	Corunna,
W. M. Mercer,	"
J. M. Lefern,	Garrett,
Patterson Bros.,	St. Joe,
J. W. Wyatt,	Concord.

Unclaimed Letters.

Unclaimed letters remaining in the postoffice at Auburn Ind., for the week ending July 3, 1891. Mrs. Georgia Johnson, John Dewitt, Allen Johnson, H. C. Martin & Co., James Walter.

Claimants will please call for letters in advertised list.

GEO. W. GORDON, P. M.

A Model Railway.

The Burlington Route, C. B. & Q. R. R., operates 7,000 miles of road, with termini in Chicago, St. Louis, St. Paul, Kansas City and Denver. For speed, safety comfort, equipment, track and efficient service it has no equal. The Burlington gains new patrons, but loses none. 38

Notice to Contractors.

Sealed proposals will be received by the Board of County Commissioners of DeKalb County. Indiana, at Auburn, at the Auditor's office, until 1 o'clock p. m. of Wednesday, July 22nd, 1891, for the construction of a CLOSET on the public square, in rear of the Jail, according to plans and specifications on file in the office of the County Auditor. The right to reject any and all bids is reserved.

JOHN HOFFELDER,
J. M. HENDERSON, } Comm'rs.
G. I. PATTERSON,

SHERIFF'S SALE.

By virtue of a certified copy of a decree to me directed from the Clerk of the DeKalb circuit court, in a cause wherin Lewis C. Shutt, administrator of the estate of Barbara Ann Wearley, deceased, is plaintiff, and William L. Wearley is defendant, requiring me to make the sum of Two hundred and twenty dollars, with interest on said decree and costs, I will expose at public sale, to the highest bidder, on

Saturday, August 1, 1891,

between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m., and 4 o'clock p. m., of said day, at the door of the court house, in Auburn, DeKalb county, Indiana, the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years, of the following real estate, to-wit:

Commencing at the southeast corner of the northwest quarter of section thirty-four [34], in township thirty-three [33] north of range fourteen [14] east, thence west forty [40] rods, thence northeasterly to the northeast corner of said quarter, and thence south to the place of beginning, situated in DeKalb County, State of Indiana.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said decree, interest and costs, I will at the same time and place expose to public sale the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficent to discharge said decree, interest and costs. Said sale will be made without any relief whatever from valuation or appraisement laws.

PHIL PLUM, Sheriff of DeKalb county, Indiana.

DON A. GARWOOD, Att'y for plaintiff.

Auburn, July 8, 1891.

SCHAAB & BRO.

DRY GOODS,

CLOTHING,

CARPETS.

Scorching hot weather—just what we have been expecting; therefore we are prepared to show you a line of wash dress goods, summer coats and vests, light underwear, mitts, fans, parasols, straw hats, &c., much larger than we have ever shown before, all at popular prices.

You should see our stock of Pongee Cloths at 15c. They are going fast.

Challies at 8, 10 AND 20c

Choice Patterns and Elegant Materials.

Summer Coats and Vests for men and boys, all styles and prices. We are sure to please you here.

Underwear for everybody. We have what you want and the price will suit you. Give us your patronage and we will try hard to please you. Yours, respectfully,

Schaab& Bro

THREE Pozzoni's POINTS

COMPLEXION

POWDER: SAFE; CURATIVE; BEAUTIFYING. 1. 2. 3.

THREE White, Flesh, Brunette. POZZONI'S All Druggists and Fancy Stores. TINTS

"A man works from Sun to Sun.
But a woman's work Was never done"
Until SANTA CLAUS SOAP
came to her ken, And now
She's through before the men.
N.K.FAIRBANK & CO. SANTA CLAUS SOAP Chicago.

"Thrift is a — good revenue."
Great Saving
results from cleanliness and SAPOLIO:
It is a solid cake of scouring soap.
Try it in your next house-cleaning and be happy.

Looking out over the many homes of this country, we see thousands of women wearing away their lives in household drudgery that might be materially lessened by the use of a few cakes of SAPOLIO. If an hour is saved each time a cake is used, if one less wrinkle gathers upon the face because the toil is lightened, she must be a foolish woman who would hesitate to make the experiment, and he a churlish husband who would grudge the few cents which it costs.

AUBURN AND VICINITY.

Some Reminiscences of its Early Days and Pioneer Citizens.

1850,—Continued.

Houses were scattered at wide intervals; logs lay upon the court house square and pawpaw bushes grew rank and tall. Several good houses were built this year and, still in use, are in their stout frame work, of more value than some more showy structures of this day.

John Morris had built for his residence what has long been known as the Dills property on South Main street, and the same year Houghton built the capacious dwelling, still the commodious home of his widow.

Among additional names of voters at the election of 1850 we find those of but one still living and resident. This is that of our worthy and respected townsman, Samuel Swihart, by trade a carpenter, as were Jonathan Hall, Amos Hutchins, Jefferson Wallace and others.

Hall long lived in a house built by himself and now the home of Mrs. Moss and her parents. He was a quiet man and a good neighbor. He moved about 1868 to a farm in Richland Twp., carried mail for a time between Corrunna and Salem Center and died years ago. The old house in Auburn was a temporary home to various renters till Geo. H. K. Moss, having been elected county clerk, bought and greatly improved the property where he resided till his death.

Hutchins was the builder, some time in the '50s, of the house on South Jackson street, the home of George Ensley, a prominent and enterprising resident of Auburn for many years and intimately identified with the most substantial improvements. This house, now occupied by Mr. Zent, was erected for James Griswold, owner at that time, of quite a tract of land in that locality; including the grounds on which stands Mitchell's saw mill and the old grist mill.

John Butt, long closely associated with those to whom the town's interests were intrusted, was an emigrant from England to this country and locality. He first essayed pioneer work upon a farm and in later years took pleasure in recounting his experience as a settler. To fell a tree he hacked for a long time wearily, all around the height of the proposed stump, and by dint of patient labor, finally brought down the tree in triumph. But his specialty was not in tree-felling. About 1850, he became a resident of Auburn and kept a grocery store in a small frame which stood on the lot where now John Hebel has his fine residence. He became proprietor of the Weaver House which stood on the present site of the Swineford House, and from this stand, ran a daily line of hacks between Angola and Fort Wayne. Removing to Waterloo, he was long proprietor of a hotel there, which he traded for Auburn property, with Frank Ryan, ex-county treasurer, and once more and finally made his home at this place. He had been elected county recorder on the democratic ticket. He died about eight months after the expiration of his term of office. He was a stately, courteous and sociable citizen, highly esteemed by the community in general.

John Parnell ran an ashery for some time for the manufacture of pearl-ash. This business, characteristic of early settlements, he, in the end made profitable, and finally moved upon a farm in Smithfield township, where relatives now reside. The ashery stood on a lot east of the court house.

A party named John Tridell perhaps about this time, had built and operated a foundry on a small scale on the corner where now stands the law office of John W. Baxter. Later Samuel Weaver became owner, who in turn, sold to John Miller, a prominent official of those years.

Wyllys Griswold migrated in 1838 from Danbury, Connecticut, to Canton, Ohio, thence to DeKalb county. He was accompanied by his wife Abigail and three children, Hiram, Helen and Whedon He long lived in the property which for years since has been the home of William McIntyre, ex-auditor, and, since the organization of the First National Bank, of Auburn, an official thereof. Mr. Griswold was one of the original members of the Presbyterian society organized in 1846 and lived to see the denomination worship in their present beautiful church. He owned and ran the old water saw mill for a time and was justice of the peace about this time and in 1851 was elected town treasurer and from 1855 to 1859 was county recorder.

During his long life he was an active member of society and, like Samuel Ralston, could not endure idleness, and his last work was leveling the fill leading east to the old Ninth St. bridge.

In the fall of 1849, quite a colony migrated from Stark county Ohio, to the vicinity of Auburn. The party, nineteen in number, consisted of John and Peter Brandon, with families; Philip Grube, who had a month before leaving married Sarah Brandon, and a John Slater, who was looking for a location. John Brandon located just outside the corporation to northward of town on the land now occupied by a son, Isaac B. Brandon; Peter Brandon owned a farm in Richland township, now property of Elijah McDowel, and Slater entered land in Smithfield near the present farm of Fred Gfeller, and lived there. Philip Grube lived till his death a few year ago on a farm in Jackson township. It is remembered that he brought west with him a daguerreotype apparatus, but sold it shortly after his arrival to a party who failed in its profitable use, and soon moved away taking it along. John Brandon was county commissioner during the early sixties.

(To be Continued.)

Auburn Courier.
AUBURN, INDIANA.
JAMES A. BARNS, - PUBLISHER.

NEWS BY TELEGRAPH.

FARMERS ARE DETERMINED TO HOLD THEIR CEREALS.

Street Car Collision at Pittsburgh—Wreck on the Monon—Two Men Horribly Mangled at Akron—A $200,000 Fire.

STREET CAR COLLISION.

Electric Cars Come Together With a Crash, Injuring Three People.

Pittsburgh special: Car No. 1 on the Atwood's Street Electric road, and car No. 61 on the Duquesne electric road collided at the Forbes avenue and Atwood street crossing. The cars crashed together at full speed. The Atwood street car was much the lighter, and with its seventeen passengers was knocked over twenty feet from the crossing and thrown upon its side. The Duquesne car was also derailed and damaged. John Hazlett, Jr., the 14-year-old son of City Editor Hazlett of the Leader, was standing on the front platform of the Atwood street car and was knocked, rolled and dragged several feet. His shoulders and limbs are terribly cut and it is stated that the skull was badly fractured. It is believed that his injuries are fatal. Mrs. Davies, of Fifth avenue, a passenger on the Atwood car, and Wm. Nagle, a passenger on the Duquesne car, were also seriously bruised and cut. Several other persons were less seriously hurt. Both of the motor men were arrested and locked up. The flagman at the crossing had signalled the Atwood street car to cross over. The Duquesne motor man paid no attention to the warning given him by the policeman and came ahead at full speed.

A Huge Corner on Grain.

A circular of advice issued through accredited official channels of the Farmer's Alliance to all members of the farmer's organizations in the United States urges them to combine and withhold this year's wheat crop from market until the farmers can get their own price, or at least a price considerably above the average. The circular, which is presumed to be a secret document, is now ready for mailing and it will be sent to the members of the Farmers' Alliance and Industrial Union and the members of the National Colored Alliance, members of the National Farmers' Alliance of the North, the eight hundred thousand members of the Farmers' Mutual Benevolent Association, the six hundred thousand members of the Patrons of Husbandry, the Patrons of Industry and the 150,000 members of the Farmers' League. The farmers' organizations now apparently feel in a position to make demands calculated to yield pecuniary profits to the agricultural classes and they propose to begin with a gigantic combination in wheat.

Death Was Painless.

The autopsies on the bodies of the four executed men at Sing Sing prison, N. Y., were concluded by Dr. McDonald and Prof. Landy, and the doctors left for their homes on the earliest train thereafter. Dr. McDonald said to a reporter: "We are not at liberty to talk upon these cases, but will take the responsibility of saying that in each case unconsciousness was instantanous and death painless. There was but one application of current in each case and there was no burning of flesh. The bodies were those of men in first-rate health. There was no resistance by the condemned men, neither did any of them break down or give way."

It Was Not Whisky.

Alvens Mills went to the drug store in Servia, Ind., and asked for a dose of quinine and whisky. The clerk placed the quinine in a glass and handed Mills a bottle of what he supposed was whisky. Mills filled the glass containing the quinine with a half ounce of the liquid and drank the mixture, remarking at the same time that the stuff did not taste like whisky. He had given Mills by mistake a bottle of potassa arsenica. Mills was soon taken with a violent fit of vomiting. He will die.

Races at Fort Wayne, Ind.

The first meeting of the Fort Wayne Driving Club occurs July 14, 15, 16 and 17. The program includes a 2:48 trot and a 2:40 pace on Tuesday; a 2:24 class trot, a 2:30 pace and a 2-year-old race on Wednesday; a 2:38 trot, a 2:17 pace and a 3-year-old trot on Thursday, and a 2:17 trot, a 2:24 pace and a 2:30 class trot on Friday. All the purses are for $400 each except the colt races, which are for $150.

Wreck on the Monon.

A very bad collision occurred on the Monon Railroad, six miles south of Lafayette, Ind. A work train which was backing north was run into by a freight going south. Aaron Heck, of Delphi, was killed. Frank Wyatt, of Delphi, was badly bruised. Julius Domekee, of Medaryville, was scalded on the left arm and badly shaken up.

Trouble Feared.

The Navy Department evidently fears that trouble is likely to arise in Samoa between the followers of King Malietoa and Chief Mataaf, as instructions have been issued to the Iroquois now stationed at Honolulu, to proceed at once to Apia. The Charleston will probably be at Honolulu in the Iroquois' place.

A $200,000 Fire.

The large four-story building of the Empire Print Works, at Janes street and Thirteenth avenue, New York, was burned, together with the stock, machinery, etc. The loss is estimated at $200,000. The building and business were owned by Worthen & Aldrich.

Two Men Horribly Mangled.

Foreman Wm. G. Berg, and his helper, James Quinn, were caught in a huge clay crusher at Ewart's tile works, Akron, O., and were terribly mangled. Quinn died within a few moments, and Berg cannot possibly recover.

A Cargo of Seal Skins.

The steamer Danube has reported at Victoria, B. C., with 18,000 seals skins gathered from the Victoria fleet, which is in Behring Sea. She reports that all the vessels will continue sealing despite the order.

CYCLONE IN PRUSSIA.

Many People Killed and Great Damage to Houses and Trees.

A terrible tornado swept over the Creifield district of Rhienish Prussia. In the town of Creifield booths and a hall which had been erected for the purpose of a rifle meeting, together with fifty houses, were destroyed. Many persons have been killed and injured, but how many is not known. Trees, telegraph poles and wires are prostrated, while fences, sign boards and awnings were hurled through the air with incredible force. Soldiers, policemen and firemen are engaged in removing the debris, and it is feared that the number of those killed will be found to be much greater than it is already known to be.

FELL INTO THE CRATER.

A Brazilian Tourist Meets His Death in a Horrible Manner.

Dispatches from Naples give meager details of a terrible accident which occurred on Mount Vesuvius, by which a Brazilian traveler lost his life. Another Brazilian was rescued with difficulty. Mount Vesuvius, it has been recorded, has for some months past been showing signs of activity at intervals. Within the last week or so, however, Vesuvius has been somewhat quieter, but recently renewed signs of cativity were noticed, and travelers were warned that it would be advisable not to ascend to the crater. In spite of this warning the Brazilian travelers, accompanied by a guide, determined to make the ascent. They did so and reached the top of the mountain in safety. There they were noticed to be standing near the crater gazing into its mysteries. Suddenly the whole crowd was enveloped in a dense cloud of sulphurous smoke, which so stupefied the travelers that one of them reeled about for a moment, then staggered and fell headforemost into the crater. The guide, had in the meantime caught hold of the second traveler and half dragged, half pushed him into a position where the crater fumes could not affect him, thus saving the traveler's life.

A SCORCHER.

Cardinal Gibbons on the Cahensly Idea.

Baltimore special: Cardinal Gibbons said in regard to the Rome cablegram, which stated that the Pope had written him declaring that he would never concede the demands of Herr Cahensly: "I will be very glad to receive the letter from the Pope, for it will remind foreigners that the episcopate of the United States are fully capable of discharging their duties, and that whilst the bishops are zealous in the fulfillment of their spiritual functions, they are thoroughly loyal to the country and in harmony, as they ought to be, with her political institutions, I trust that the letter of the Holy Father will serve to restrain foreigners from any haste or unwarranted interference with our domestic affairs in the future. They seemed to be impressed with the idea that the Catholic community in the United States is a simple aggregation of foreigners, while in reality the great bulk of the Catholic community is made up of natives; some of whose ancestors, especially in Maryland, have been settled in the country for several generations."

STREET CAR COLLISION.

Two Men Seriously Injured and Two Cars in Ruins.

Car No. 7, on the Fifth avenue line, and Duquesne and Electric car No. 3, collided at the crossing of the lines at South Highland and Ellsworth avenues, East Liberty, Pa. Both cars were badly smashed at their forward ends. J. W. Wessel and a man named Jacob, passengers on the cable car, were badly cut and bruised. Motorman John Beck, on the Duquesne, was cut about the head and side and received internal injuries, which may prove fatal. Both cars were filled with passengers, who were badly frightened, but escaped serious injuries. Gripman Vallo, on the cable car, was arrested for failing to obey the signal to stop his car until the electric car had passed.

Locked in a Safe.

Philadelphia special: It has been rumored for some time past that Bardsley, the ex-City Treasurer, really made a confession, which involved the names of such prominent people that its publication was stopped. There seems no longer to be a doubt as to the truth of the story and it is believed by the investigating committee that the confession is locked up in the safe of one of the leading newspapers of this city. There has been a studied effort from the first, from influences unseen, to block the investigation and to shield those who have been mixed up with the Bardsley and Marsh affair.

Knights of Pythias Flourishing.

According to the annual report of the Knights of Pythias, which has just been issued, that organization has been making great strides during the last year. In that period its membership has increased by 44,000, making a total of names on the roll July 1 of not less than 308,000. The amount of cash on deposit in the name of the order is also $7,000,000 larger that in any previous year, while the endowment rank is also in a flourishing condition despite the excessive morality of the last twelve months. The order is twenty-eight years old this month.

A Gold Sensation.

A decided sensation was produced at Pueblo, Colo., by the arrival from Breckinridge, Colo., of Messrs. J. W. Sursher and C. I. Westerman with $75,000 worth of crystalized native gold specimens, which will be displayed in the Colorado mineral palace. Nature has produced in this richest of American gold sections the most artistic forms ever seen in any metal. Interested spectators stood on tip toe to get a glimpse of this marvelous display. Every man in the city is talking of the wonderful find.

The Strike a Failure.

Pittsburgh special: The building trades' strike is virtually at an end. After a struggle lasting more than two months, the striking carpenters, through actual necessity, have been forced to surrender. The ranks are in such a demoralized condition that to continue the fight would be hopeless. Although the battle was fought fairly and the men bravely stood up for eight hours, there was not enough money to assist them. They surrender in order to preserve their organization and to sustain their families.

The Murderer, Marvin Kuhns, Found Guilty.

Marvin Kuhns, the Indiana desperado, who has been on trial for several weeks at Tiffin, Ohio, for the murder of his comrade in crime, Wm. Campeau, was found guilty of murder in the second degree, and sentenced to the penitentiary for life. It will be remembered that he came near killing two Fort Wayne, Ind., officers, who arrested him at Cherubusco, Ind., after a terrible battle, Kuhns being wounded seven times.

American Dredgers Excluded.

Huckler & Sons, of Buffalo, the contractors for the new Canadian canal at Sault Ste Marie, have been notified by the Canadian authorities that none but Canadians shall be permitted to be employed on the work. This throws out of employment over a hundred American dredgmen. The cause of the action is supposed to be the exclusion of Canadians from work on the "Soo" canal on the American side.

Killed in Indian Territory.

A special from Guthrie, O. T., says: Indian scouts from the Sac and Fox country have arrived here with the intelligence of a triple killing in the Indian country, east of here. The three killed were white men and bad characters, and had been peddling whisky to the Indians for some months. Their names are unknown.

The Goshen Canal Breaks.

Eighty feet of the bank of the Goshen, Ind., canal went out, entailing a heavy loss and necessitating a shut down of the factories along the canal bank, which are not furnished with steam power. The rushing waters undermined C. H. Hawks' furniture factory, carrying away part of it.

A Subject for Lynch.

Albert Parnitske shot and killed James Warder, near Utica, Iowa. Parnitske entered the room of Warder's sister and made indecent proposals. The girl refused to submit to him and he shot her, the bullet entering her cheek, when Warder drove him from the house. Parnitske then secured a rifle and shot Warder, the latter dying instantly. Lynching parties are scouring the country in search of the murderer.

Run Down a Stage.

New York special: A stage, in which was a party of twenty members of the Junior Dramatic Club, of Newark, was run down by a train at the Washington place crossing of the New York, Lake Erie and Western Railroad, at Passiac. Thomas Hart, aged 21, was killed, and Prof. Dunn, Thomas Hill, and John O'Keefe, were seriously, though not fatally hurt. The rest of the passengers were either badly shaken up by the collision or slightly bruised by jumping from the stage.

Blair Rejected.

Acting Secretary of State Wharton declined to talk about the formal declination of the Chinese Government to receive Ex-Senator Blair as United States Minister to that country. He said, however, that he would like to have it known that Mr. Blair has drawn but one month's salary, which the law allows, since his appointment, and he is not, as erroneously reported, drawing a salary now as Minister to China.

Mlle. Bentley Falls From a Balloon and Is Killed.

As Mlle Zoetta Bentley was making a balloon ascension at Elyria, Ohio, a strong gust of wind caught her air ship and dragged the trapeze upon which she was sitting through the trees. She was not able to retain her hold and fell to the ground, a distance of about sixty feet. She was instantly killed. Every rib in her body was broken.

Singular Accident.

An electric car coming down a hill from the Soldiers' Home at Dayton, Ohio, with twenty passengers, at the rate of twenty miles an hour, burst a motor, instantly snapping a thousand copper wires with a loud report, breaking off the iron motor cap and hurling a large plank through the floor of the car. A Sister of the Precious Blood was slightly injured.

The New York Times Sued.

The officers of the New York Life Insurance Company have instructed their counsel, William B. Hornblower, to begin suit at once against the editors, publishers, and proprietors of the New York Times for $1,000,000 damages for libel, and have retained as associate counsel Messrs. Joseph H. Choate, Frederick R. Coudert and Henry R. Beckman.

Engineer Hale Gets $25,000.

The Minnesota Supreme Court has confirmed the $25,000 damages awarded Fred A. Hale, an engineer, against the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad. Hale is a cripple for life. A jury originally awarded him $40,143, but this was cut by the trial judge to $25,000. It is the largest damages ever obtained in that State.

Princess Victoria a Bride.

Princess Victoria, of Schleswig-Holstein, granddaughter of Queen Victoria, was married in St. George's chapel, Windsor, England, to Prince Albert of Anhalt Dessau. Queen Victoria, the Emperor and Empress of Germany, the Prince and Princess of Wales and numerous members of the royal and imperial households were present.

A Carpet Mill Destroyed.

Fire destroyed the large five-story carpet mill of E. R. Priestly, 1210 Lawrence street, Philadelphia, Pa., involving a loss of about $100,000. Messrs. Furbush & Co., who had machinery stored in the building will lose at least $30,000. Mr. Priestly has an insurance of about $40,000 on buildings and contents.

Another Wreck.

The engine and three cars of the north-bound express on the Santa Fe road were thrown off the track at Willow Springs, Kan. Fireman George Penny had two ribs broken and his foot crushed. Engineer James Hahn was badly bruised. The engine is a complete wreck.

Explosion in a Powder Mill.

The press mill of the Moosic Powder Company, at Jermina, Pa., exploded with a terrific shock, instantly killing John Lutey and Phillip Fordket, who were the only workmen in the place at the time. The mill was shattered into fragments.

Heavy Loss in Tea.

A car oad of tea, which was being run on board a freight boat from the dock at San Francisco, fell into the harbor and sank. About 20,000 pounds of tea in all were lost.

Murder at Montpelier, Ind.

Cash Herron, in a drunken quarrel, five miles southeast of Montpelier, Ind., stabbed John Lanning in the left side of his neck, nearly cutting his head off, killing him instantly.

Death in an Electric Current.

Four murderers, Slocum, Smiler, Wood, and Jugiro, were executed at Sing Sing prison, New York, by electricity, Wednesday morning.

THE MARKETS.

CHICAGO.
CATTLE—Common to Prime.....	$3.50	@ 6.50
HOGS—Shipping Grades.....	4.00	@ 5.00
SHEEP.....	3.20	@ 5.25
WHEAT—No. 2 Red.....	.93	@ .94
CORN—No. 2.....	.59	@ .60
OATS—No. 2.....	.33	@ .34
RYE—No. 2.....	.75	@ .77
BUTTER—Choice Creamery.....	.16	@ .18
CHEESE—Full Cream, flats.....	.08	@ .09
EGGS—Fresh.....	.14½	@ .15½
POTATOES—New, per brl.....	2.50	@ 4.00
INDIANAPOLIS.
CATTLE—Shipping.....	3.50	@ 5.75
HOGS—Choice Light.....	4.15	@ 4.65
SHEEP—Common to Prime.....	4.00	@ 4.50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red.....	.94½	@ .95
CORN—No. 1 White.....	.59½	@ .60½
OATS—No. 2 White.....	.41	@ .42
ST. LOUIS.
CATTLE.....	4.00	@ 6.00
HOGS.....	4.00	@ 5.00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red.....	.87	@ .88
CORN—No. 2.....	.55	@ .56
OATS—No. 2.....	.34	@ .35
RYE—No. 2.....	.71	@ .72
CINCINNATI.
CATTLE.....	3.00	@ 5.75
HOGS.....	3.50	@ 5.00
SHEEP.....	3.75	@ 5.25
WHEAT—No. 2 Red.....	1.04½	@ 1.05½
CORN—No. 2.....	.59	@ .61
OATS—No. 2 Mixed.....	.39	@ .40
DETROIT.
CATTLE.....	3.00	@ 3.75
HOGS.....	3.00	@ 4.50
SHEEP.....	3.00	@ 4.75
WHEAT—No. 2 Red.....	1.01	@ 1.03
CORN—No. 2 Yellow.....	.56	@ .57
OATS—No. 2 White.....	.42	@ .43
TOLEDO.
WHEAT.....	1.00	@ 1.01
CORN—Cash.....	.56	@ .58
OATS—No. 1 White.....	.37	@ .39
CLOVER SEED.....	4.25	@ 4.35
BUFFALO.
BEEF CATTLE.....	4.50	@ 5.75
LIVE HOGS.....	4.30	@ 4.85
WHEAT—No. 1 Hard.....	1.04	@ 1.05
CORN—No. 2.....	.62	@ .63
MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—No. 2 Spring.....	.86	@ .88
CORN—No. 3.....	.57	@ .58
OATS—No. 2 White.....	.37	@ .39
RYE—No. 1.....	.78	@ .80
BARLEY—No. 2.....	.67	@ .69
PORK—Mess.....	10.00	@10.50
NEW YORK.
CATTLE.....	4.50	@ 6.50
HOGS.....	4.30	@ 5.25
SHEEP.....	4.25	@ 5.75
WHEAT—No. 2 Red.....	1.04	@ 1.06
CORN—No. 2.....	.68	@ .69
OATS—Mixed Western.....	.36	@ .42
BUTTER—Creamery.....	.14	@ .18½
EGGS—Western.....	.17	@ .17½
PORK—New Mess.....	11.50	@12.25

RAILWAY HORRORS.

TERRIBLE WRECKS IN OHIO AND WEST VIRGINIA.

A Rear End Collision and a Rotten Trestle—Excursionists the Victims in Both Instances—Two Score Dead and Eighty Wounded.

In quick succession two frightful railway accidents have horrified the country. Two score of victims instantly killed, several fatally hurt, and nearly a hundred more or less seriously injured, is the awful result.

The first occurred at an early morning hour, at Ravenna, Ohio. Just as dawn was mingling with the darkness, passenger No. 8, east bound, on the New York, Lake Erie and Western, pulled into the station a few minutes late. The train consisted of an express and baggage car, three day coaches, two Pullmans, and a special, the latter occupied by forty glass-blowers from Corning, N. Y., returning from an excursion at Findlay. Trouble with a coupling detained the train men, and a flagman was sent back to warn a fast freight which was following close. Before he had gone two car-lengths past the special car the heavy freight came thundering down a long grade, and in the next instant twenty-one dead and over thirty wounded victims were buried in the ruins. Fire quickly started, and the scene that followed beggars description. Ravenna's fire department was summoned, and but for its assistance the list of fatalities must have been greatly augmented. The rear special car, the freight engine, and the sleeper "Warsaw" were totally destroyed, entailing a property loss of over $100,000. The sleeper "Warsaw" had no passengers. In the sleeper "Ascoli," next in front, Mrs. Jas. Gasser and child, of Chicago, and three men from Brooklyn, N. Y., were killed. Of the forty glass-blowers, seventeen were instantly killed, and all the rest injured, two fatally. Several of those fatally hurt suffered such agony from wounds and fire that they bgged the rescuers to kill them. The wrecked passenger train was the famous "Thunderbolt," the favorite east-bound train on the Erie route. It is one of the new solid vestibuled trains, Chicago to New York. There were many Chicago passengers on the train besides Mrs. Gasser, and before the news of the accident had reached that city they had wired their friends of their safety. Gen. Nelson A. Miles and Captain E. L. Huggins were of the number. The killed and wounded were all from Brooklyn and Corning, N. Y. The second accident, following before the public had fully realized the awful extent of the first, was none the less terrible and but slightly less fatal. The list of wounded is much larger, while the dead and fatally hurt number nineteen. It was the worst accident in the history of West Virginia, and occurred eight miles west of Charleston, on the Kanawha and Michigan Railway. The passenger train for Columbus, Ohio, was pulling two carloads of excursionists—the Charleston Lodge of United American Mechanics. The sleepers of a high trestle had been weakened by fire, presumably caused by a passing engine the night before. All the train except the excursion cars passed the trestle safely, but the latter were derailed by spreading rails.

A third accident, fatal, but slight compared to those detailed above, occurred in Chicago. At the railroad crossing at Rockwell and Madison streets, a horse car was struck by a switch engine, one passenger killed, two fatally hurt, and three seriously injured. This accident occurred at 2:30 a. m., and was caused directly by the combined carelessness of the railway gateman, the engineer, and the conductor of the street car.

HANNIBAL HAMLIN DEAD.

Stricken by Heart Disease While at His Club, He Never Rallies.

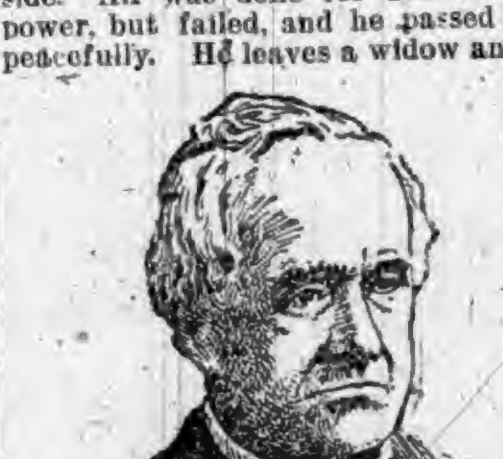
At Bangor, Me., on Independence Day, ex-Vice President Hannibal Hamlin was down town and went to the Tarratine Club rooms, where he was playing pedro, when his head fell forward on his chest.

A gentleman remarked: "The Senator seems to feel badly."

Mr. Hamlin said: "I do."

The men gathered around him, and he was taken to a lounge. Dr. Robinson, who was in the next room, attended him, and Drs. Mason and Phillips were called. No pulse was visible for an hour, and it was thought they could not bring him out.

Finally he revived somewhat and managed to articulate freely. The doctors worked over him faithfully, and his family was sent for. Soon Mrs. Hamlin, Gen. Charles Hamlin, his wife and his son, and other members, were at his side. All was done for him in human power, but failed, and he passed away peacefully. He leaves a widow and two sons, Gen. Charles Hamlin, Esq., a lawyer of Ellsworth, and Frank Hamlin, now living in Chicago. Mr. Hamlin has been perceptibly failing for a year, but seemed about as usual this afternoon and walked down town.



HANNIBAL HAMLIN.

The remains were removed from the club rooms to his residence. His son, Hannibal Hamlin, arrived from Ellsworth about twenty minutes after his father's death. His son Frank, in Chicago, was sent for.

Hannibal Hamlin was born at Paris, Me., Aug. 27, 1809. He was admitted to the bar in 1833, and continued to practice until 1848. In 1836 he was elected a member of the Legislature, of which he was speaker from 1837 to 1840. In 1842 he was elected to Congress as a Democrat, and re-elected in 1844; and in 1848 he was chosen to fill a vacancy in the United States Senate, and in 1851 was elected for a full term of six years. In 1856 he withdrew from the Democratic party, and was elected by the Republicans as Governor of Maine, but he resigned that office on being re-elected Senator. In 1860 he was elected Vice President of the United States on the ticket with Abraham Lincoln. In 1865 he was appointed Collector of the port of Boston, but soon resigned, and in 1869 he was again elected United States Senator for the term expiring March 4, 1875. He was re-elected for the term expiring 1881, and then gave place to Eugene Hale. Mr. Hamlin retired from politics at this time, although he continued to take a great interest in public affairs until the last election. He attended the Presidential convention in Chicago in 1884.

NEW WESTERN WONDER

SUDDEN APPEARANCE A SEA IN THE DESERT.

It Covers Seven Hundred Square Miles, Has Salt-Water Fish, Its Waters Are Salt, and Its Origin Shrouded in Mystery—An Indian Legend.

Settlers in portions of Colorado and California are in no small degree alarmed at the sudden appearance of a large body of water in what has been known as the desert portion of that country. It now seems as if nature had decided to solve the question of irrigation for herself. The water appeared immediately after the recent seismic disturbances in Italy and the slighter shocks felt in San Francisco. Exploring parties are out, and, from the report of one, the inland sea is estimated to be twelve miles wide and from fifty to seventy miles long. The boat was launched, and the crew set forth on one of the strangest trips ever known. There was a stiff and rattling breeze, and the boat danced merrily upon the blue waves. There was plenty of salt, sodine, and ozone in the air, and early in the morning the trip was extremely pleasant. A mile out a small smelt was picked up—a salt water fish—and to the most of the sailors in the party this seemed to prove conclusively that the water was the result of a cloudburst. Others thought it was from the gulf by a subterranean passage, while Roadmaster Mulvihill clung to the idea that the water was coming from the Colorado River. Water was tested and its gravity found. It went about 18 per cent. salt. The water in the pool generally went 26 per cent., while the ocean is about 30, so it could not be told whether the newly arrived water was salt or fresh.

There was a fair wind and the party sailed to a point fifteen miles southeast of Salton. Here a current about a mile wide and running like a mill race was struck. The water was fourteen inches deep and very clear. The swiftness of the current caused the shallowness of the water. This current settled the question in the mind of Mr. Mulvihill that the water came from the Colorado River; the naval contingent returned to Salton without further incident. A dispatch was found there from Colonel Blaisdell, superintendent of the Cargo Muchacho mines, which confirmed the Colonel's theory. He said during the flood last February the Colorado River overflowed its banks and filled New River and many basins. The water has since continued to pour out of the Colorado River into these basins and New River, and to pour out of these in turn. He had always wondered where the water went to, and the Salton floods settled the question. The water started to Salton five months ago, but owing to delay caused by the sandy soil and evaporation has just arrived. It was behind time, but it came as fast as it could over the desert.

It is thought the flood will last as long as the Colorado River is high, and it is now twenty-seven feet above high-water mark. At places on New River, where the water is overflowing, the banks are about twenty-five feet high and of sand. They are getting weak, and if they give way a bank of water twenty feet high and many miles long will rush down like a tidal wave. If this occurs, which is very probable, it will make things very lively with the railroad company and will change the course of the Colorado or New River entirely. In fact, if the water holds out in these rivers, it will simply form a sea 100 miles long by fifty wide, and Banning will become a port of entry. Men have been sent to a point on the desert ten miles south of Volcano Springs, and if the current is found there it is certain that the water is from the Colorado. The place where the break occurred is thirteen miles below Elryo and seventy miles from Salton.

SUDDEN RISE OF TULARE LAKE.

Many Settlers Driven from the Ranches by Floods.

The wonderful phenomenon now witnessed on the Colorado Desert, at Salton, is being repeated at Tulare, Cal., where the practically dried-up Tulare Lake, the largest body of fresh water in the State is beginning to fill up, driving out many settlers who have located ranches on the rich alluvial bed of the old lake. There is a legend among the Indians of Tule River that the lake once covered many times its present area, that it receded year by year till it had shrunk to a small pond, around which were gathered fishish villages of their grandfathers, but suddenly the waters from the snow-capped Sierras rolled down into the great Tulare Valley, which is a hundred miles wide at this point, the lake began to spread, Indian villages were swept away before the occupants could remove their effects, and many Indians were drowned. Those who escaped fled to the foothills, and they and their descendants refused to dwell near the shore of the lake. The heavy snowfall last winter in the mountains brought down an enormous quantity of water when the spring thaws set in. The soil was also heavily soaked and couldn't absorb the usual amount of moisture, hence all the streams have carried water to the lake, but principally the Kern and Tule Rivers. H. H. Fuman, a settler who has a ranch at the mouth of Tule River, says the stream is sixty feet wide and fifteen feet deep, and has swept away several ranch houses. Fuman says the lake has spread out nearly ten miles in a few days and the waters have risen ten feet. A new road made round the lake is under water, and several men who tried to follow it had narrow escapes from drowning. This sudden rise of the waters and spread of the lake is remarkable, as for ten years the lake has been gradually receding, and scientists who have examined it predicted it would entirely dry up soon. The loss to settlers around the lake is heavy. The land is extremely fertile, and there is a project of building a levee to confine the waters of Tulare Lake, which is noted for its large supply of fish and mussels. Before the present rise it was about twenty-four by twenty miles in area, but ten years ago it was fully double this area.

Missouri Storm Sufferers.

Dispatches received at Kansas City from Blairstown state a heavy rain and wind storm swept over that town and did serious damage. Several houses were blown down and several persons were injured, though not badly. The depot, a large, substantial frame building at Landis Station, on the Kansas City, Osceola and Southern Railway, was blown off its foundation and seriously damaged. The rain storm was a terrific one, and the low lands are covered with water.

Fire in a Mine.

Fire is again raging in the Reading Company's colliery at Ashland, Pa., and the men and mules were hauled up to the surface. Five hundred men are affected.

Thought He Was a Convict.

J. Oscar McCoe, residing six miles from Fort Gibson, Miss., was shot and instantly killed by Robert Thetford. Thetford mistook him for an escaped convict.

Sad Beginning and End of a Honeymoon.

John Smith and Miss Mary Dawson were killed by a runaway horse at Franklin, Ky. They had just been married the day before.

NEARLY A LYNCHING.

MURDER BY A NOTORIOUS DES MOINES MAN.

In a Causeless Rage He Fires Four Bullets Into E. H. Wishart—This Is Not His First Shooting—An Angry Populace.

Frank Pierce fatally wounded E. H. Wishart, at Des Moines, and narrowly escaped lynching. Intense excitement prevailed when he was arrested, and cries of "Bring a rope!" and "Lynch him!" were heard on every hand. Forty policemen were necessary to escort him to the jail. The feeling is so strong against Pierce that trouble may come at any moment. Wishart was hit by four bullets, and a crowd of 500 people gathered at the City Hall when Pierce was placed in jail. For three years Pierce was the leader of the Des Moines searchers. He has shot several persons in that city, and on three occasions mobs have been organized to lynch him. The cases of Harry Lloyd and Terry Chambers attracted great attention at the time. Another of his victims is in the insane asylum from injuries received at Pierce's hands. Heretofore, Pierce has received the support and sympathy of the temperance people, but this crime is the last straw which any kind of public opinion can stand.

Pierce, who is a scavenger, drove one of his wagons toward the customary dumping grounds on lower West Ninth street. The officers had notified him that he had no right to use the ground used by another or that which was owned by the city. Driving down Ninth street, he came about opposite the new crematory. Mr. Wishart, who is the legal guardian of the property in behalf of the city as foreman of the crematory, ordered him not to dump there. On Wishart's coat was the star of his authority as an officer. The two men fell into a sharp dispute. Pierce ordered his men to dig again. They hesitated. Mr. Wishart, a revolver hanging at his side, said: "I am an officer of the law. I have orders to allow no man to dump in the street. They are going to pave and will not allow dumping." Pierce said he had a right to dump somewhere, and that he would tear down the fence which blocked the street, it being still unopened. Wishart said: "I have no authority over the fence. You can tear that down at your own risk, but the street I am here to defend." Pierce seized a shovel and made an attempt to dig, when, his rage overcoming him, he whipped from the holsters at his belt two revolvers and jumped toward Wishart. "Consider yourself under arrest," he screamed. "I'll shoot you or any other man that tries to stop me," and fired. Wishart raised his revolver to fire back. In doing so his revolver came in contact with Pierce's and was broken. Whether a bullet left it is a matter of doubt. Wishart, seeing his revolver was useless, let it drop to the ground. The first bullet of Pierce struck Wishart in the arm. But Pierce, seeing his victim unarmed, did not desist his murderous work. He fired three more shots, one, according to the statement of an eye-witness, after Wishart had dropped to the ground.

To the crowd which gathered and was gathering in he said: "Stand back, or there will be some more dead men." With revolver in hand his wagon was driven down toward the river where he had concluded to go and dump. The patrol was sent for and Wishart was taken to the City Hall. Doctors were called in and made an examination. Besides the wound in the arm a hole was found in his abdomen. One of the other shots had entered a little to the right of the middle and lodged somewhere in his back. While in the City Hall Wishart lay in great agony on a pallet until Mrs. Wishart arrived. The grief of the poor woman was terrible to see. At last for the sake of her husband she was induced to control herself. The little son of the dying man also was there. He had happened to be at the City Hall as his father was brought in. He pushed up to him to speak. Mr. Wishart said nothing, but raised up his lips to kiss him. He was a manly little fellow of about twelve years and struggled hard to keep back the tears. He kept continually asking: "Tell me how he is, please. Will he die?" While Wishart was lying in the City Hall basement the officers arrived with Pierce. The crowd had collected in great numbers at the first intimation that the notorious Pierce had killed a man. They were jammed about the City Hall so thickly that the officers had difficulty in opening a way through the mob. As he slipped out of his buggy the Marshal demanded his revolvers. He gave them up. A voice in the crowd cried out: "Where is the rope?" A look of dismay flashed over Pierce's features. He gave one look at the angry crowd, another at his weapons, now out of his hands, and then bounded up the steps. He was carried down the stairs. On the way he was cursing and swearing continually. He said: "You can't put me in jail. You've no right to. I demand bonds." But, bonds or no bonds, he was hustled down. When he came to the door of the cells he was searched. The holsters were still on him. Then turning to the officers who were searching him he said: "What are you trembling for? Why, you shake like a leaf. Does it take six or eight men to arrest one man? I can arrest a man alone and he will come."

After a few hurried words, in which he said he had acted in self-defense, Pierce was taken to the cage and put in. When brought down the lower hall he passed by the head of his groaning victim, but he did not deign to give him a glance, and seemed actually proud of his deed. He was cool and collected, having recovered from his fright, and continually taunted the officers. His lean, cadaverous features and furtive eyes did not quail as he looked at any one, and his whole appearance was one of dare-devil defiance.

The Next Congress.

The next House of Representatives under the census of 1890 will consist of 356 members. A ratio of representation is 173,901 inhabitants. But the law is that those States having a fraction of half the ratio or more shall get a representative thereon. There were seventeen such fractions, and they were apportioned to the following States:

	Fraction.	M.C.		Fraction.	M.C.
California.....	164,724	1	Wisconsin.....	121,771	1
Indiana.....	135,592	1	Alabama.....	121,809	1
Iowa.....	172,8?6	1	Georgia.....	98,343	1
Maine.....	13?,3?8	1	Kentucky.....	119,625	1
Oregon.....	139,8?6	1	Maryland.....	172,885	1
Massac'tts.....	152,131	1	S. Carolina.....	107,773	1
Rhode Isl'nd.....	171,605	1	Texas.....	148,711	1
S. Dakota.....	154,9?7	1	Virginia.....	90,871	1
Vermont.....	158,?21	1

It will be seen that Georgia and Virginia gain each a member on the smallest fractions. New York has an unrepresented fraction of 85,219, Arkansas of 84,773, Colorado of 64,396, Louisiana of 75,181, Minnesota of 84,519, Missouri of 70,669, and West Virginia of 67,190.

Missing Links.

AN English judge recently sentenced a woman to five minutes' imprisonment for bigamy. It is probably the shortest sentence on record.

MONSTER turtles are so abundant in Magdelena Bay, Lower California, that a company has gone into the business of canning the extract for exportation.

A VALLEY more wonderful than the Yosemite, except in the matter of waterfalls, is said to have been discovered in King's River Canyon, above the far-famed Yosemite.

IT IS RIGHT IN LINE,

IS THIS COLUMN OF FRESH INDIANA NEWS.

A Large Number of Accidents—A Few Suicides and Deaths—And Other Important News.

—Peas are cultivated by Bartholomew County farmers with greater profit than grain.

—John Edwards, of Crawfordsville, took two spoonfuls of ammonia by mistake.

—Cornelius Birch, a Crawfordsville lad, was badly injured by the explosion of a toy cannon.

—Christopher Gaynor, 89, and his wife, 87, died within ten hours of each other at Pilot Knob.

—Big Four had a $3,000 freight wreck near Farmland. Twelve cars demolished, trainmen uninjured.

—The body of a 2-months-old male child was fished from Middle Creek, Floyd County, by hunters.

—Jesse Paulus, of Fort Wayne, a traveling man, was killed by lightning during a heavy storm at Bourbon.

—Mrs. Stephen Caldwell's little girl died at Evansville from a dose of morphine given her by mistake.

—"Sam" is the name of a fire department horse that has seen twenty-five years of service at Jeffersonville.

—Lightning struck Alexander Conley's house near Lawrenceburg, instantly killing his wife and dangerously injuring him.

—The bones of a man six feet in height, representing an unknown race, were found in a mound near English last week.

—Coal miners, out since April 1, have resumed work in Vincennes mines. Board of arbitrators will settle question of wages.

—A copper box filled with continental scrip was unearthed at Leavenworth a few days ago. The box was inscribed "H. B., 1892."

—Henry Harvey was kicked in the head by a horse attached to a reaper near Columbus. The skull was fractured and he lay unconscious for hours.

—South Bend citizens are much exercised over the fact that the artesian water supplied by the water-works is mixed with river water, endangering the health of the community.

—At a meeting of the teachers of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home, at Knightstown, Prof. A. H. Graham, principal of the Normal School at Rushville, was appointed Superintendent.

—Jordon Scott, a farmer, living one mile north of Hobbs, was struck by lightning and instantly killed, while in his yard viewing the approaching storm. He was 35 years old, and leaves a wife and one child.

—Four boys of Birdseye found an old coat near the railroad and began tossing it about and beating each other with it. A bank note slipped from beneath one of the patches. The boys ripped the coat to pieces, and it panned out $1,711.

—Edward Charles, of Jeffersonville, met with a peculiar and distressing accident which came near resulting in his death. The boy, in standing on the platform of a pump, missed his footing and fell, impaling himself on the hook which protrudes from the spout.

—Deputy County Treasurer Calvin Armstrong made an assault on M. W. Pershing, editor of the Tipton Advocate. The editor received a small scalp wound, but grappled with his assailant and gave him an unmerciful whipping, forcing him to his knees and pounding him until he was red with blood. Armstrong escaped, and when again heard from was in the hands of a surgeon. The trouble grew out of a publication in the Advocate.

—The State Board of Health has appointed Dr. Theo. McMechan, of Crawfordsville, as a member of the State Dental Board in place of E. J. Church, of LaPorte, whose term had expired. Rules governing sanitary inspection, quarantine, disinfection and other matters pertaining to contagious diseases were adopted. They were chiefly the old rules, with changes here and there to make them conform to the new law relating to health and health officers.

—The remains of John Carlisle, of Washington, County, New York, were exhumed at La Porte for shipment East. The deceased died of cholera on his way West in 1838. A small tree that stood near the newly-made grave is now quite large. When the grave was opened the bones lay directly underneath the tree, being encircled by its roots. All that is left of the coffin were the hinges used in those days and the small blocks of wood to which they were attached.

—Lieutenant Colonel B. C. Wright, of the Second Regiment, Indiana Infantry Legion, visited Greencastle, recently, for the purpose of mustering into the service of the State a military company, to be known as the Greencastle Light Infantry. The total enrollment numbers sixty-three members. The following-named officers were elected: J. F. Fee, Captain; First Lieutenant, Homer I. Jones; Second Lieutenant, John E. Stevens; First Corporal, Warren Florer. The company aims to go into the encampment at Fort Wayne, and will make immediate application for arms and uniforms.

—The body of John Baker, a farmer, aged about 60 years, was found in the Wabash River at Vincennes. He had been murdered and robbed.

—Mrs. Claude Shelley, New Castle, dreamed 'tother night her hair was on fire, and woke up to find her lace curtains ablaze, just in time to save herself.

—The onion crop raised by the farmers residing on the river bottom west of New Albany is said to be very large and fine this season. Four hundred barrels have already been shipped to Northern points.

—An aged soldier, John Robinson, and his wife, he aged 72 and she 68, died at New Albany from the effects of a beating at the hands of White Caps and subsequent exposure.

—David Strickler's badly decomposed body was found in a box-car at Middletown, supposed he took poison and shut himself up there a week ago. Was highly educated but dissipated.

—Fort Wayne is making extensive preparations to entertain the Indiana Legions at their annual encampment which is to be held in that city for a week, commencing the 20th inst.

SAVED AT LAST.

AUBURN, IND., Oct. 3, 1890.

Dr. J. W. Bergen:

Dear Sir:—By this time, I presume, you will want to know how I am getting along with Bergen's Asthma Cure.

Well, you have heard of persons obtaining a new life. Now I really feel that way myself. When I began taking Bergen's Asthma Cure, I was just coming out of a long siege of it, and was reduced to 115 pounds; weak, short of breath, chills, fever, and badly demoralized generally, coughing from half an hour to an hour every night.

Since commencing, from the third night, I have not lost ten minutes' sleep all night, cough gone, gained seventeen pounds, chills gone, fever gone, shortness of breath and difficulty of breathing gone, consequently I feel a thousand per cent. better. I thank God every day that I ever saw your advertisement, and that I was induced to write to you.

This is peculiarly encouraging in my case, as I had suffered so long and was so discouraged about my case, having tried everything. I am telling the good news every day.

Push on the good work; you are on the right track.

Yours Very Gratefully,
R. McDOUGALL.

Sold by ROBINS & McCORD.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The undersigned, having been restored to health by simple means, after suffering for several years with a severe lung affection, and that dread disease, CONSUMPTION, is anxious to make known to his fellow-sufferers the means of cure. To those who desire it he will cheerfully send, free of charge, a copy of the prescription used, which they will find a sure cure for CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, CATARRH, BRONCHITIS, and all Throat and Lung Maladies. He hopes all sufferers will try this Remedy, as it is invaluable. Those desiring the prescription, which will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing, will please address, REV. EDWARD A. WILSON, Williamsburg, Kings County, New York. 1y.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK

Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD

Ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head

ACHE

Is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold by druggists everywhere, or sent by mail.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York.

SMALL PILL. SMALL DOSE. SMALL PRICE

BOURKE'S HOUSEHOLD · SPECIALTIES ·

COMBINATION BRUSH, MOP AND SPONGE HOLDER CARPET STRETCHER and GARDEN RAKE.

Nonpareil Window Cleaner, A MARVEL.

Galvanized iron, rubber adjustable to expose new surface as it wears, no glue or cement, lasts a life-time and more efficient than any cleaner made.

Sash Lock and FASTENER, Most Durable, Most Compact, Most Perfect.

BURGLAR PROOF FASTENER MADE.

Bourke Mfg. Co., Youngstown, O.

REMEMBER KLINCK IS THE NAME OF THAT Wonderful Remedy

That Cures Catarrh, Hay-Fever, Cold in the Head, Sore Throat, Canker, and Bronchitis.

The testimonials to these FACTS are NUMEROUS and STRONG, similar to the following:

From the Hon. Harvey D. Colvin, Ex-Mayor of Chicago:

CHICAGO, July 24, 1890.

S. H. KLINCK—DEAR SIR: I am pleased to say that I consider your remedy the best medicine in existence, for the human afflictions you claim to cure. I suffered from catarrh with bronchitis for many years. During that time I employed physicians and faithfully tried many so-called remedies advertised to cure this disease, without any material benefit, when a friend induced me to try your remedy, claiming others had been cured by it. The first bottle gave me the most pleasing results. I have continued its use and I can not say too much for it. It found me too near the grave for comfort and restored me to health again. It adorns my toilet stand and by using it occasionally I am kept well.

I would not be without it if it cost $25 per bottle. I earnestly recommend it to all my afflicted friends.

For Sale by leading Druggists.

PINT BOTTLES · · $1.00

Klinck Catarrh & Bronchial Remedy Co., 82 JACKSON ST., CHICAGO, ILL.

DOUBLE DICK AND JOE;

OR

The Poorhouse Waifs.

BY DAVID LOWRY.

CHAPTER IV.

A HEAVEN ON EARTH.

Job Wonder looked down at Joe with a curious twinkle in his eye. She was such a "little mite," he said to himself.

"I reckon now you don't know much. Like as not you can't cook a tater"

"I can learn. You—you put bilin' water round 'em, don't you?"

Job laughed outright. Joe felt more at home with him after she heard his jolly laugh.

"I won't ax any more questions. Case why? If I do, and you tell me how awful green you be—you see, why, I can't have any excuse for taking you to my wife."

Joe somehow began to think Job's wife was an awe-inspiring woman.

"How old be you?"

"I don' no."

"Sho! so you said before. Well, I never could tell women's ages. My wife says so—and she knows."

Joe laughed now.

"I'm more at home judgin' horseflesh. Say—kin you play that thing there?"

"Yes—easy.

"Well, I reckon we'll get on fust rate then."

"I'm sure we will," Joe answered.

It seemed true, too. Job Wonder possessed the indefinable charm that drew children and dumb animals to him. Dogs that snapped at the heels of other men and snarled let Job range free. Joe looked at him furtively. As he remembered it afterward, he recalled with a feeling of pity the pathetic little figure beside him on the wagon-seat. She looked neither to the right nor left, but straight ahead.

"Haven't you any relatives?"

"Me?" The query startled her. "No—nobody that ever I heard of."

"All—all alone by yourself?"

Joe was silent.

"That's kind o' hard. Kin you play a good tune on that thing there?"

"Not very. I can play on the 'cordion."

"The what?"

"The 'cordion," said Joe, demurely.

"The accordion. Where is it?"

"Got it in this bundle."

Joe nursed the bundle as if it contained a baby.

"There! Thought you had clothes there."

"So I have—got my other apron here."

"Apron!" Job looked down at Joe open-mouthed.

"Yes. Did you think I'd a whole suit here? 'Tain't big enough to fill a wardrobe, is it?"

Job shook his head. Joe's queries were too much for his gravity. He burst out laughing; he laughed until tears ran down his cheeks, and Joe was greatly offended and looked glum.

"So you can play the accordion? Well, we'll have music to the farm, anyhow, o' nights, when you get there. We will get along fust-rate, I reckon. If you're a good girl I'll stand by you, mind—mind what I'm saying. Job Wonder's never said one thing and did another. If my women folks don't like you, they'll come 'round by an' by to like you, and you've got a friend in me, mind. But you'll find plenty to do—plenty. You won't have no time to play with dolls at my house."

"Dolls! What's dolls?"

Job turned square around and looked at her.

"Dolls—why, just dolls, of course. Every girl knows what dolls are. I never seed a girl didn't have a doll."

"I never had one—never seen a doll."

"Never seed a doll!" The idea was too much for Job. He looked at her, shook his head, and muttered to himself, "Never seed a doll!" unconsciously. "I say," he added, suddenly, "what else have you got in that small parsel?"

"Patches an' things—things all tangled up, colored yarns and old buttons."

"Buttons? You mean ribbons—purty ribbons, don't ye?"

"Never had no purty ribbons. Yarns to darn my stockings. See!" She showed her stockings to him. "Darned 'em all myself."

But Job Wonder did not look at them. He was thinking—wondering what sort of childhood it was that was ignorant of dolls and ribbons.

When he reined up before his farmhouse (there was not a snugger or more inviting farmhouse in Acorn County than Wonder's, or one that was kept in better order), and helped Joe out of the wagon, his movements were sharply scrutinized by two pairs of keen eyes.

The eyes belonged to Mrs. Job Wonder and Job's sister Samantha.

The women's eyes took in at a glance, first, "the belongings" of the girl. The second glance revealed her disposition, age and nationality.

She was full of fire, apparently fourteen, and an American.

Before Job was well out of the wagon with Joe, Samantha Wonder beckoned her sister-in-law.

"Where in all the world did Job pick that critter up?"

Samantha's tone indicated disgust.

"One would think he couldn't find her like in Acorn County," Mrs. Wonder replied. Then the women advanced to the door.

"I've brought you more help," said Job, as he entered the house. "Here's the makin' of a good woman, I'll be bound."

Mrs. Wonder made no response. Samantha sniffed her disapproval. Job quietly took Joe's hand, and saying:

"Come—I'll show you where to put your things, Joe," led the way to an inner room. When he re-entered the kitchen his sister said sharply:

"You always was a master hand. What did you bring that girl here for? Where did she come from—where did you pick her up?"

"Yes," chimed in his wife, "that's what I want to know. Such a sight as she is. She hasn't anything fit to wear."

"That's just why I brought her."

"Job Wonder! Whatever do you mean?"

"You've been tellin' me you had too much work—I brought her to help you."

"Help! That girl a help!" Samantha turned up her nose in derision.

"Yes—for to help. I brought her from Barnesville Poorhouse."

"Job Wonder! Have you gone crazy?"

"I guess not. But I'm goin' to have my own way. She's here—an' to stay, mind. To stay as long as she wants to. If she don't suit me—I'll stand it, I reckon. You women folks needn't make any row about it!"

"O, very well!" exclaimed Samantha, with another toss of the head.

"Very well," said his wife. "We ain't barbarians. We sha'n't put her out. But if I went to the poorhouse and brought a boy or girl here I'd not hear the last of it. You'll be the talk of the township, Job."

"That for the whole county," said Job, snapping his fingers. Then he stepped out to see how his farm hands had taken care of his horses, and to discuss his farm affairs with his oldest farm-hand.

When he returned to the house he found Joe in the yard, looking at the peacocks with great eyes. There were more chickens than she thought was in the whole world—ducks, geese and turkeys strutting about. The fowl made a great noise as they ran to the feed the men threw them. The peacocks and peahens were new to her—indeed nearly all that was there was new to poor Joe.

"What's them?" she asked, pointing to the peacocks.

"Peacocks. Purty, ain't they?"

"And them things without tails?"

"Them's guinea hens."

"I never heard of them. All yours, Mr. Wonder?"

"All mine. Now, you come in with me and see if the folks hain't got something for us to eat."

She followed him in shyly. There were five or six men—farm hands—looking at her. For the first time in her life poor Joe was disconcerted. The farm hands followed Mr. Wonder into the dining-room and seated themselves at a long table.

Such a table Joe never saw in her dreams. Her eyes sparkled as she looked over it.

There was a pile of bread—beautiful white bread—at each end of the table; such big slices, too. There were two heaped dishes—covered out of sight with brown biscuit. There was a large, a very large, plate with ham on it, and another with cold chicken. There were so many things Joe couldn't remember them all. Plates of butter, and honey, and fried eggs, and preserves, and pitchers of milk. And such coffee! Joe never tasted anything like it in all her life.

Job Wonder was a man who grew the best of everything, got the best prices for his products, and enjoyed the very best at his own table. "There can't be nothin' too good for us as grows it," Job was in the habit of telling his friends, whom he entertained with lavish hospitality, and husband and wife were in accord, for Mrs. Job Wonder delighted in the reputation she had acquired of being the most bountiful of housewives.

"Here, now," said Job, heaping upon poor Joe's plate everything within reach—a greater quantity than she had been accustomed to receiving in two days—"you just make yourself to home. Nobody's mindin' you—they've as much as they can 'tend to helpin' ov themselves. You must be mighty hungry after that long ride."

At first Joe only nibbled at her dainties. Then, seeing that no one observed her, she ate timidly; and then the odor of the viands—their toothsomeness and sweetness conquered all reserve, and she ate to repletion; ate until she felt ashamed of herself as she looked at her plate. What seemed sufficient for three meals had disappeared.

"Now, as soon as you're a mind to, you can go to bed. We're early risers here, all on us. Mebbe you're not used to it."

"O, yes, I am. I a'lus got up at five to the"—she was going to say Poorhouse, but she checked herself in time.

"You don't say! Well that's as airly as we'll want you, I reckon. Mrs. Wonder will tell you anything you want to know," said the farmer kindly as he lit his pipe and sat down on the back porch overlooking his broad acres.

Joe looked out in the yard, at the chickens rustling among the trees, at the farm hands laughing and joking, then shyly asked the farmer's wife if she would please tell her where she was to sleep.

"Come right here," said Mrs. Wonder, leading the way to an upper room. "If you want a candle, you can have it tonight. I'll leave this."

Then Joe was left alone in the clean white room. "My!" she exclaimed, "this must be like heaven!"

She undressed slowly, very slowly, looking at the pictures on the wall. Then she looked at the bed in dismay.

"Good gracious! How am I to get in there. It's almost as high as my head."

She tried to climb in, and rolled back laughing to herself. Then she moved a chair alongside of the bed, turned the clothes down, and hopped in.

As she did so, she gave a little cry that was like a squeal. The feathery mountain rose all around her. She was almost buried in the soft bed.

"My goodness! There can't be nothing nicer than this in heaven!"

She lay there laughing softly to herself, like a baby crowing or crooning in its waking morning hours. Then she became very, very drowsy, and then Joe suddenly became oblivious to all the world.

She was sound asleep.

CHAPTER V.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

When Zeke Caper regained consciousness, he put a hand up and felt a lump on his head, and swore softly to himself.

Then he sat up and looked about him in a dazed way. He looked at the blood on the ground and the stains of blood on his shirt-bosom, and his expression once more was that of a murderer.

"I'll kill him if I ever get him in my power." The Superintendent of Barnesville Poorhouse fairly gritted his teeth. "I'll kill him—but I'll do it in my own time and way. I'm not the man to risk the penitentiary or the gallows."

He rose to his feet, and then discovered that his head whirled—or was it the ground? He felt sick at the stomach, too. In short, Mr. Zeke Caper was, like many a big, hulking brute, as soft as mush. When he got a knock half as hard as he was accustomed to giving his victims, he weakened. A great, overgrown coward was Zeke Caper, like all bullies. And what made him rage in vain was the reflection that he, a six-footer, big of limb and broad-shouldered, had succumbed to a mere boy—a second Goliah brought to grief by a stripling less than David.

"Curse him—curse him through all eternity!" a favorite oath; "but I'll make him pay up for this."

He looked down the road. Was that somebody coming up? Yes. He could see them plainly—a group of men. He advanced to meet them. They proved to be some farm hands and laborers on the public highway returning home.

When they reached Zeke Caper, they stopped to speak to him.

"Yes—no wonder you look at me. The wonder is I'm here to look at. See there."

He bared his head. They looked at the lump on his head, at the bloody face. He presented a sickening spectacle. He was really only a trifle the worse of the hurt, but he looked like a man whose head had been pounded to a jelly.

Then the way Zeke Caper groaned and moaned! It was enough to move any one "Who did it? Did they rob you?"

"I don't know. I haven't looked. It was a boy—a boy who ran away from the poorhouse. I was trying to take him back, and he took me unawares and thought he had murdered me. It was long ago. I laid on the road a long time."

"What a devilish creature he must be."

"An awful bad boy did that."

"Ought to be hung."

"He will be some day."

"Yes, he's bound to hang."

These were the comments Zeke's tale elicited.

"So you belong to the poorhouse?"

"I'm Zeke Caper, the Superintendent."

"What! the Superintendent! This is a mighty serious business," said one laboring man.

His fellows nodded.

"Which way did the boy go?"

"I don't know. To Barnesville, I suppose."

"He'll be caught—he'll come to grief," said one.

"If we get our hands on him, you'll get him back soon."

"I'll let the law deal with him," said Caper. "I'm a law-abiding man."

"That's more than most of us would say with that head."

There was a chorus of sympathy now for the poor Superintendent.

At that moment a farm hand espied a boy's head peering at them above a fence rail. The boy was lying on the ground. The farm hand pretended to walk along without observing the boy, but all at once he shouted:

"Here he is!"

Instantly the remainder of the group ran in the direction he pointed.

The boy ran as fast as he could. The pursuers sprang, clambered over, and crawled through the fence. They separated, and were not long in heading the boy off.

The man who espied him first caught the boy roughly and flung him down. He would have done him bodily injury in his wrath, but a fellow checked his arm.

"Look out. Don't you kill him. Leave that to the law."

They took him back to the road. There, with Caper glaring at him, surrounded by men who regarded him as a murderer, Dick's heart sank.

For, as the reader has inferred, it was poor Dick. He felt like a murderer. He could not leave the scene of his crime, as he thought, and had stolen back to look at the Superintendent, when he was surprised, first upon beholding Caper sit up, then curiosity impelled him to remain and witness the meeting with the workmen.

And this was the result. He would be put in the penitentiary or returned to the poorhouse. Anything was preferable—death was preferable to Barnesville poorhouse.

"What have you to say for yourself?" demanded Caper, grasping Dick's arm.

"Nothing to you." Then, addressing the men near him, "Take me to prison. I am ready to go anywhere but to the poorhouse. I am willing to let him tell his story, and if the judge will only listen to mine, whatever they do will be right. That man swore he would kill me. He tried to murder me, and I saved my life by hitting him with a stone."

"What a liar! Oh, what a liar that boy is," said Zeke Caper, groaning.

"Yes, you can tell that by looking at him," said one.

"See here, mates," said one who had hitherto been silent, "I'm not so sure about that. How'd any of you like to live at the Poorhouse? Was you ever in a Poorhouse?"

"No, I never was."

Another and another said the same.

"Well, I have been. I've been in Barnesville Poorhouse, and I don't like it."

"Nobody does," growled Caper. "I guess I made you work, and it didn't suit you."

"No, you're out there, Mr. Superintendent. I was there helpin' the plumbers—I worked there three weeks, and the way you treat folks don't suit me, nohow. You've got your own sweet will of them—and you wallop 'em right and left. I'm in favor of giving the boy a fair trial. If he calls me as a witness —say, I'll go right willing, and tell all I know."

"And what do you know?" demanded Caper, beginning to bluster. "Who are you that talks to me in this way?"

"There! There! You see! You hear him," retorted the man of spirit. "That's not a patching to the lordly airs I've seen him put on. I've seen him strike old men—yes I have, and women. Yes—I saw this man lick a little girl—they called her Joe——"

"He was always abusing her until I took his mind off her, and then he's been down on me ever since," said Dick, with fire in his eyes.

Caper discovered when too late that he had revealed his real disposition. He pretended his head hurt him, but no one pitied him now.

"Tell you what I believe, mates," said the speaker, who manifested an independent spirit. "If he'll wash himself I've an idea he won't look much the worse. Smear me with blood and I'd look awful, too."

Caper cursed him beneath his breath.

"Look you, boy," said the man who befriended him. "Do you want to go back with him?"

"I'd sooner die!" exclaimed Dick.

"Well, will we take you to Barnesville and put you in jail?"

"I don't care what becomes of me," said Dick, desperately.

The workman talked apart with his fellows. Caper meanwhile walked homeward.

The man turned to Dick again.

"You take my advice, now. Cut your hookey. Run for your life. If that fellow gets you in his clutches he'll pay you off—he'll do for you. If you're caught near here, they'll put you in jail; maybe send you to the penitentiary. I know what it is to have no friends. You get as far away as you can before morning, and keep moving—mind what I say, keep moving. I was only blowing. They wouldn't mind what I'd say in court. He'd have it all his own way."

Dick looked alert. He was impressed, too, with the advice given him.

"We'll keep quiet. Nobody'll hear anything from us. He may tell. He's likely to get his clutches on you."

"I'm very much obliged to you," said Dick.

"You'll walk a little ways with us, so as to deceive him—then cut your stick."

This was the plan Dick pursued. When he was a quarter of a mile on the road, he darted from the laborers, fled across a field, and once more disappeared in the fringe of timber land that he had sought shelter in earlier in the day.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

Where Wheat is Raised.

Wheat is raised 1,500 miles north of the northern boundary of the United States. An erroneous opinion prevails that what we know as the Dominion of Canada, or the British possessions in North America, is cold and barren. This may be true of some of its eastern portions, but there is a region there as large as all the States east of the Mississippi River which has a climate not much if any more severe than the climate of Iowa and Northern Illinois, and which is destined to become the great wheat-growing country of the globe. During July and August people can bathe in Hudson's Bay as well as they can in Lake Michigan, and there are some months of very warm weather at Winnipeg. What is known as the Saskatchewan country could easily support a population of 30,000,000, and as the more southern lands of the United States are occupied, a strong tide of emigration will flow into these northern and rich wheat lands.

THERE is a spot a thousand miles square in Central Africa where there is neither coal, iron, water supply, tillable soil, trees for lumber, fodder for stock, or anything else of the least value to man, and it can be bought cheap, advertised as the El Dorado of the world, and sold for $25 a foot front.

THE population of the State of Maine has increased only 12,150 in ten years, or less than 2 per cent. Its present population is 661,086. The stationary character of the population in portions of New England is no doubt owing to the fact that so many of the young people "go West."

HUMOR.

Dancing to the Station.

Yesterday forenoon a hand-organ man stopped the wheels on which his music was mounted in South street, near the Pavonia Ferry, and started off with the lively air of "The Girl I Left Behind Me." He hadn't ground out over half a dozen bars when a small man with a new straw hat on his head and his dungaree trousers stuffed into his bootlegs, stepped out from the crowd, flung his hat down and began to shuffle.

"Here, you quit that!" called a policeman, as the crowd began to laugh.

"No law agin dancing in the State of New York, and I know it," replied the man. "First two couple forward and back! Forward again and salute! Next two couple forward and back! Forward again and——!"

"You must stop!" interrupted the officer.

"All balance to partners! Partners swing! Swing with the girl behind you! Hi! Whoop! Hoe 'er down, boys!"

"Stop, I say!" called the officer.

"Two head couple lead up to the right! Ladies change! Half-promenade! Balance all to partners, and swing with the gal behind you! Hi! Hi! Let 'er flicker!"

"I shall have to arrest you!" said the officer, as he seized the man by the arm.

"Arrest and be hanged! Side couples lead up! Ladies change! Half-promenade! Balance to corners, and swing with the gal——"

"Come along!" said the officer, as he pulled him away.

"Am I arrested?"

"You are!"

"For flopping my hoofs around to that glorious old tune?"

"Yes."

"Well, all right—shoot away; but I'll bust the law if it takes me a week and costs me $37."

And the crowd cheered him and declared the officer had no soul.—New York World.

They Are Different.

"They are an awfully patient people in this town," he was saying to an acquaintance in a Park Row car.

"In what respect?" queried the other.

"Why, I've been on these horse-cars fifty times when a team got in the way and bothered 'em half to death. I expected to see the driver heave a brickbat, but he always took it as easy as grease."

"Yes; I've seen the same thing."

"Do you suppose we'd stand that in our town? Not much! Why, I was on the 'bus going over to the depot the other day when we met Hank Johnston leadin' his red cow to the river.

"'Git off the face of the globe!' hollered Bill Haynes, the driver.

"'I won't!' says Hank.

"With that, Bill put the horses and wagon right at him. The cow was knocked into Joe Turner's hedge fence, with her neck broke, and Hank got so mixed up with the off fore-wheel that he had to have four doctors to piece him together."—M. Quad.

They Put the U Before the A.

We live in a cultured age,
And learning is largely the rage,
Yet nine out of ten
Meet an obstacle when
They tackle the little word "gauge."

A New Milton.

"Where are those parodies I handed you the other day?" he inquired of the editor.

"There," responded the editor pointing to the waste-basket.

"Ah," he smiled, "I didn't know before that I was the author of 'Parodies Lost,'" and the editor embraced him to his throbbing bosom with a wild, hysteric laugh.—Washington Star.

How He Wanted His Steak.

The waiter came back to the table for the third time.

"Will you have your steak plain, sir?" he asked.

"That's what I said ten minutes ago."

"Yes, sir. Have it well done?"

"That's what I told you."

"Yes, sir. All right, sir. Have it extra thick?"

"That was my order."

"All right, sir."

Then as the waiter started to go the customer straightened up and called him back.

"You forgot one thing," he said.

"Yes, sir."

"I'll also have it served."

"What, sir?"

"O, that's all right. I know the place. You have good meats here. You have them rare, medium, and well done; you have them tender; you have them plain and with trimmings; but it's only about once in three hours that you have them served, and I'm particular to have mine that way. Now go ahead."

He got his order in three minutes.

An Important Meeting.

Mr. De Cash—Very sorry, my dear; but I cannot accompany you to-day. I must attend a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Happy-Go-Lucky National Bank.

Mrs. De Cash—What have you to do with that institution?

"I am one of the Board of Directors."

"You never attended a meeting of the board before, and I don't see why you should break up my programme for that to-day."

"But, my dear, this meeting is important. It is to find out how our cashier managed to steal $500,000 without our knowing it."—New York Weekly.

A Child of Fortune.

"You remember little Dickey who ran away from the field at Bull Run?"

"Yes, very well."

"I understood yesterday that he came into about $10,000 a year."

"Well, you know fortune favors the brave."—Rochester Post-Express.

Still His Own.

"I proposed to Marie last night," said Mawson.

"Well, were you self-possessed?" asked Davidson.

"Yes," replied Mason, sadly, "I am still."—New York Herald.

Making a pleasure of duty.—Puck.

PLEASURE BOATS —AND— CANOES.

Oars, rowlocks, paddles, masts, spars, sails, blocks, cleats, anchors, etc., etc., etc.

$30 A BOAT FOR —TO— $300

THE PLEASURE BOATS OF AMERICA!

DON'T BUY ELSEWHERE until you see my catalogue for 1891; send 5 cent stamp for it.

J. H. RUSHTON, Canton, N. Y.
N. Y. CITY SALESROOM,
H. C. SQUIRES, 178 BROADWAY.

The greatest improvement in Corsets during the past twenty years is the use of Coraline in the place of horn or whalebone. It is used in all of Dr. Warner's Corsets and in no others.

The advantages of Coraline over horn or whalebone are that it does not become set like whalebone, and it is more flexible and more durable.

Dr. Warner's Coraline Corsets are made in twenty-four different styles, fitting every variety of figures—thin, medium, stout, long waists and short waists.

Sold everywhere.

WARNER BROS., Mfrs.,
New York and Chicago.

WANTED experienced and efficient agents to sell line of desirable household articles. Terms liberal, agents make money selling them. Samples furnished prepaid: Holder, 15c., cleaner, 10-inch 15c.; Fasteners, bronze 5c., nickel, 7c. BOURKE MFG. CO., Youngstown, O.

I CURE FITS!

When I say CURE I do not mean merely to stop them for a time, and then have them return again. I MEAN A RADICAL CURE. I have made the disease of

FITS, EPILEPSY or FALLING SICKNESS,

A life-long study. I WARRANT my remedy to CURE the worst cases. Because others have failed is no reason for not now receiving a cure. Send at once for a treatise and a FREE BOTTLE of my INFALLIBLE REMEDY. Give Express and Post Office. It costs you nothing for a trial, and it will cure you. Address H. G. ROOT, M.C., 183 PEARL ST., NEW YORK

Jackson Favorite Waist

HAS STYLE — SUPPORTS BACK AND SPINE. GIVES COMFORT AND EASE.

Adjustable shoulder straps, soft button fronts or ordinary clasps.

HYGIENIC, HEALTHFUL, BOON TO WOMEN.

FOR SALE BY ALL DEALERS, OR SENT POST PAID FOR $1.10

State size and if white or drab is desired. ALWAYS ADDRESS THE Coronet Corset Co., JACKSON, MICH.

"IRON IS KING"

Brown's IRON AND QUININE Bitters

IS THE KING OF TONICS!

IRON QUININE CENTION FOR THE BLOOD NERVES, STOMACH.

BLOOD MAKER AND NERVE STRENGTHENER.

BEST BITTERS ever offered the public and a thoroughly reliable tonic and health restorer and cannot fail to give tone and vigor to the whole system by purifying the blood, strengthening the bones, muscles and nerves, and restoring in a wonderful degree the health and vigor of youth.

EVERY BOTTLE WARRANTED.

PRICE $1.00.

N. K. Brown & Co., BURLINGTON, VT.

BETHESDA

Cures Diabetes and Bright's Disease.

RECOMMENDED AND USED BY

Hon. CHAS. FOSTER, Secretary of Treasury.
Hon. J. M. RUSK, Secretary of Agriculture.
Hon. GEO. R. DAVIS, Director General World's Fair, Chicago.
DR. SHRADY, New York City.
Prof. AGASSIZ, Cambridge, Mass.
FRANKLIN MacVEAGH, Chicago.
CLEM. STUDEBAKER, South Bend, Ind.

A Pure, Refreshing, Health-Giving Water, so delicately proportioned in mineral qualities by nature as to make it agreeable and wholesome in health, and in cases of Diabetes and Bright's Disease more benefit will be derived from it in twenty-four hours than in three months from any medicine known to science.

Write for Pamphlet. BETHESDA MINERAL SPRING CO., Waukesha, Wis.

MOST POPULAR BUGGY ON WHEELS

SINGLE CENTER SPRING.

Body always level. Load distributed at five points on rear axle. Gear, best grade steel throughout. Spring, long and elastic, makes easiest riding wagon made. Runs easy because it always tracks, 30 pounds lighter than any other buggy made. Superior first-class wagon. Made of choicest materials. Spring and Gear guaranteed two years. Vehicles of every style made on this Spring. CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION. AGENTS WANTED.

5 POINTS

BUSINESS MEN'S COMPANION.

Defies Competition for Rough Roads. SINGLE CENTER SPRING CO., EVANSVILLE, INDIANA.

For WEAK AND DEBILITATED MEN.

A NEW DISCOVERY! —BY— DR. ALBERT. TESTICURA EXTERNOSUM

AFTER years of experience in the leading Hospitals of the World, and as a Private Specialist in the treatment of Sexual Weakness, DR. ALBERT has finally been induced to prepare for those afflicted at a nominal expense, this

WONDERFUL REMEDY!

An Outward Application

TESTICURA EXTERNOSUM For the Cure of Seminal Weakness, Impotency, Nocturnal Emissions, Varicocele, and Lack of Development.

Cure by Absorption

TESTICURA EXTERNOSUM Applied direct to the parts. No Nauseous Drugs that Ruin the Stomach. Guaranteed Cure, or Money Refunded.

No Nauseous Drugs.

A PERFECT RESTORATION GUARANTEED.

Sent to any part of the U. S., securely packed, free from observation, upon receipt of $3.00.

For full information, address enclosing 4 cents postage, The ALBERT MEDICAL DISPENSARY, Cleveland, O.

THE AUBURN COURIER

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY.

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, postoffice as second-class matter.

THURSDAY.............JULY 9, 1891.

ILLINOIS will now pay 2 cents for each English sparrow killed.

ONLY one Ex-Senator of Indiana is now living, Dr. Graham N. Fitch of Logansport.

FIRST railway train went up to summit of Pike's Peak June 30, nearly 15,000 feet above the sea level. Ran into a snow storm.

HANNIBAL HAMLIN died at his home in Bangor, Me., Saturday, at the age of 82. He was vice-president during Lincoln's first term.

THE port of Chicago shows a large increase of imports from the old country since Jan. 1, in spite of the McKinley tariff that was to keep foreign goods out.

THE increased tariff tax on tin plate went into effect July 1. The republican teaching is that this increased tax makes the tin plate cheaper. Yet singular to relate, there was a grand rush of firms to get their loads landed at the custom houses the day before. It is likely they took a business view of the matter, not a political view. The old tax was one cent cent a pound and the new tax two and two-tenths.

THE Indianapolis Journal, the leading republican daily of the state, after spending the spring and summer so far, trying to make political capital out of the new tax and assessment law, last week came out with an abundance of good words for it. The school text book law, and the new election law, were equally abused at first, but now both are popular with the people.

A TOURIST fell into the crater of Mt. Vesuvius last week. The volcano was in active eruption and as the party of two men and a guide, looked over into the crater, the fumes of sulphur overcame one of them. He fell 172 feet striking into the boiling lave. It was a horrible thing, though death must have been instantaneous. Of course his body could never be recovered; there was nothing left to recover.

REPUBLICAN editors are to be congratulated on their persistence if nothing else. For thirty years they have been cajoling the farmers, telling them what a blessed thing a tariff is, and how good it is for the farmers, and yet all this time the farmer's land has been dropping lower and lower in price, he has been getting less and less profits from his business, and still the persistent republican editor smiles on him, and tells him how thankful he ought to be for all these blessings, and how he ought to love the dear old party that insists on keeping up these taxes that are grinding him year after year. The more intelligent of our farmers are beginning to see through all this.

VETERANS of the German Army expect th hold a reunion at Fort Wayne this fall. Of course there are thousands of them in this country. Auburn has two at least, Fred Funk and Mr. Otto.

THE desert near the Colorado river in Southern California is becoming a lake, high water flowing in from the river. The valley is several hundred feet below the river and was at some time a part if the sea.

LIEUTENANT HALL, who was second in command with Lieutenant Benner who lost his life carrying supplies to the yellow fever cities a few years ago, is now at Fort Wayne in charge of a recruiting station.

THE B. & O. will secure tracks into Chicago in connection with the Chicago and Northwestern, going up to the grand station of the latter in the center of the city. Then our B. & O. trains will not run in along the Lake Shore to the Exposition building as now. In fact the Exposition building will soon be torn down.

SECRETARY FOSTER has stopped the coining of dollars, and will make up the silver he is obliged to buy, into smaller coins. The loop hole in the recent silver bill got through by republicans, gave him a chance to do this. Farmers and others who believe in more silver, can now see which party is more friendly to them—democrats who want more silver or republicans who want none.

THE last twelve months shows a great increase in imports, in spite of McKinley's assertions, and as foreign nations will not take more of our productions than they can help, we have to send gold. This accounts in part for the 70 millions in American gold, that has gone abroad in six months. The friends of gold have also helped to get gold out, so as to get up a scare about silver.

THE Butler Record now says "the tariff is a tax if levied on an article not produced in this country, but on all articles produced in this country, the tariff is not a tax." Corn, wheat, eggs, coal, iron, copper, and thousands of articles are produced in this country. Now, suppose, as in the case of most of them, some of these things are shipped in from abroad, and a duty is paid, would not that be a tax? Take potatoes of which we have been forced to buy many from abroad, during the last year. Say the first cost is 60 cents. Then on landing at New York or any port, a duty of 25 cents a bushel is collected, can you add 25 to 60 without increasing the 60? And so of all similar cases. But it is not necessary even that a thing be shipped into this country, as a great part of the tariff tax can be, and is put on anyway. This is the very essence of protection. A tariff to "protect', either keeps the foreign articles out of this country entirely, or adds the amount of the duty to the original cost if it is brought in. In either case the producer in this country can raise his price, for that is his "protection." It is for this that he goes before congress and asks for a higher duty. It is to secure favorable action from the republican part of the government, that he pays out his money to get a republican administration elected, and when elected that administration goes on and makes just such laws, as will please this man, who has furnished "soap" for its Dudleys and Wanamakers. And the people pay these increased prices for the fun of being taxed. If the article protected cannot be sold higher than if it were not protected, then why do these favored ones ask to be protected? Could they pay out their money to corrupt and carry elections if it did not enable them to get higher prices, and to make greater profits? If they can charge higher prices, the increased price is a tax on the consumer and the people generally. As this increased price can be, and is put on thousands of articles "produced extensively in this country," then the tariff on such articles is a tax, and the editor of the Record is wrong. And of all the above questions that we have often asked, he has never answered one, and he cannot.

BEN. J. LOSSING, the historian, died at his home in New York this week. He wrote about thirty valuable works in his chosen subject, and while he did not rank with Bancroft, his works have excellent points not found in any others, especially his illustrations, which being an eminent engraver, he made with his own hands and according to his own knowledge or ideas.

POOR Sir John McDonald is dead, and is now being crucified after death, by the most villainous set of pictures in newspapers, ever saddled on a defunct notable. They show him in all sorts of expressions from a Gladstone to a Jesse James, from a dude to a medical college cadaver. If this thing continues, great men will hesitate some before deciding to "shuffle off."

IF THE manufacture of tin plate in this country is such a valuable thing, why was it not done before? The tin itself has long been on the free list, and and we could always make the sheet iron.

BIG balloon in Chicago was struck by lightning Monday evening, and its 160,000 feet of gas exploded. It was held by long ropes, and people paid to go up in it.

THE state board of agriculture will not move to the new fair grounds this year, as they have not time to put up new buildings. So it will be held on the old grounds.

BIG national encampment at Indianapolis is over. Some of the finest drills and military displays ever seen on a small scale were shown there.

ANOTHER queer accident. Cyclone tore down the state prison at Baton Rogue, La., Monday. Ten prisoners killed, and 36 badly injured.

FOUR murderers executed by electricity at Sing Sing, N. Y., Tuesday morning. Didn't seem to hurt 'em.

CHEAP sugar is a good thing. Why not have cheap clothing, cheap tin, etc?

WHEAT harvest is over in the southern part of the state.

Board of Review.

The county Board of Review, or Equalization, met as advertised in the COURIER, on Monday, and began work. They are S. Kutzner, county ossessor; H. N. Coffinberry, auditor; and Treasurer Sawvel, hearing such complaints and requests for changes, as have been brought to their notice. On Monday, the townships of Slafford and Troy were heard. There was one complaint from Troy, but the assessor of the township came in and corrected that. Toward evening Mr. Hamilton who has the mill at Orangeville came and asked to have the appraisement put the same as the mill at Spencerville. This was a Concord case, and went over till next day, as that was Concord's day, though but few came in. The same may be said of yesterday, which was the day for Jackson. The board has, however, done a good deal of adjusting, and will do its best to see that all are fairly treated.

New Paper at Waterloo.

We see that parties are about to start a new paper at Waterloo. This appears to us, the height of folly. The county has already twice as many papers as it can afford to support, leaving them all very weak. It is also said it is to be another democratic paper. We trust no democrat will give this wild scheme any countenance, as the party is sufficiently confused and weakened already by a multitude of such "organs." Even an independent paper at Waterloo could not do well, though it would do vastly better than either another democratic or republican paper. It will be a losing scheme for some one, and whoever puts money into it, will never see it again.

$25.00 in Gold.

Will be paid to any team of horses that Young Sampson cannot out pull in front of the Opera House to-night at 7 o'clock. Geary's big show 32 people will play at the Opera House every afternoon and evening this week. Admission 10 and 15 cents.

HELP WANTED! BETTER THAN A GOLD MINE! No Capital needed! No risk, but $10 to $15 a day profit! Teachers, Students Ministers, Bright Men and Ladies wanted in every Town and County. No experience needed. Credit given if desired. Be early this time and secure first choice of exclusive territory on this brand New Book.

DON'T BE AN OSTRICH! Write and get full information and solid facts about

FOOTPRINTS OF THE WORLD'S HISTORY,

BY WM. S, BRYAN AND JOHN CLARK RIDPATH,

THE WORLD CELEBRATED HISTORIANS.

The Story of the Nations is told in the brilliant deeds and grand achievements of the World's Heroes and Heroines. A rich storehouse of History, Travel, Adventure, and the weird and wonderful events of the "times that tried men's souls. Thrilling Stories of the days of chivalry, startling heroic achievements of Warriors and Crusaders. Also a vast collection of the rarest gems of English and American Historical Literature. The most wonderful New Book of today, the great self-educator; just the book the people want. Over 350 grand Historical Illuminations. Half-Tone Steel Engravings, and brilliant Oil-colored Plates. Everybody finds it a bonanza of success. It sells without asking. No Capital, no risk. Straight business and big profits. Splendid illustrated circulars and full particulars sent free. Address, 2at4

The Jones Bros. Publishing Co.

P. O. BOX, 649, Cincinnati, Ohio.

We Do Not Propose to Wait

TILL THE SEASON IS OVER

TO MAKE OUR

REDUCTION SALE!

-But Now-

The time when the people of this city are buying their Summer Clothing, we propose to put the knife deep into prices and make our sale

THE GREATEST EVENT IN THE GREATEST EVENT IN THE

Clothing trade ever seen in Auburn. Our former low prices knocked still lower. Your chance to own fine,

TAILOR MADE CLOTHING!

never so good as now, for you can buy the finest of suits at what, possibly, cheap and medium grades sold for. Do not wait until the assortment is broken, but come early, so as

TO SECURE GOOD SELECTIONS.

THE BOSTON CLOTHING STORE.

One Price and the Truth.

AUBURN - - IND.

NORTH OF PUBLIC SQUARE.

Licensed in May and June.

J. Maxwell and Lou Rittenhouse, Daniel Rhinesmith and Alice Jane Shaffer, David Shook and Mertie E. Bower, William Coyle and Iona Hawk, Cornelius C. Moore and Maggie E. Mitchell, Milo Nickols and Sidney Brandaberry, L. Birge Dickinson and Carrie L. McDougall, Marshall Euzer and Edith J. Maxwell, William Baker and Delsina Nelson, James E. Hammon and Rose E. Hall, John Zimmerman and Clara E. Altenberg, George E. Campbell and Mary E. Hoy, Moses Stomm and Mattie McClish, Eli W. Mutzfeld and Sadie B. Sawvel, Jacob H. Oberlin and Elva E. Livergood, H. S. Plotner and Bertha Rose, George Daily and Emma M. Knight, Felix F. Barr and Katie B. Sperry, Brayton P. Myers, Jessey M. McKinley, James A. Potter and Mary E. Holden, O. E. Applegate and Rose Yeiders, Clifford Robbins and Ada Farver, Murray A. Smith and Caroline Hesley, John Marvin and Mellie Hurni, Simon W. Chubb and Ida V. Best, J. Edgar Buchanan and Nellie Brechbill, George W. Cope and and Mattie B. Scott, Louis Loebet and Minnie Idel Champion, James W. W. Ladbrook and Florence Thornton, Frederick Simons and Lizzie Housley, Samuel Morr and Effie Provines, William Swank and Rebecca Kester, G. W. Rynearson and Fanny A. Strow.

The Fair.

A look into this grand establishment at Garrett, will convince one, that other towns besides Chicago, can have a big room filled with a vast and varied stock of goods. J. Wm. Wagner, the owner of the Opera House block, uses the south first floor for this purpose, and such a display of articles one seldom sees in this section. Arranged on all sides, in rows—in show cases—on shelves—in stacks and pyramids—and in every way and place, though not in confusion, but all in order, one sees the greatest possible variety of articles, the useful, the beautiful, and all so very cheap. It would seem as if there was nothing that could be used in the household, but could be found here, and bought for a trifle. Everything can be inspected, and the prices are plainly marked, so one can see whether it will pay to invest. And it seems generally to pay, for each time a COURIER reporter has called there, the room was full of people, especially the ladies, all looking for the thousand-and-one little household articles they needed. Mr. Wagner, as is well known, is always pleasant, and his assistants, a part of whom are his daughters, are always polite, careful and painstaking. We have heard several ladies say, "How much this resembles the big 'fairs' at Chicago!"

Mr. Wagner has a large list of customers and a wide territory to trade with him, and we shall be surprised if he does not have a long and prosperous run of business in his new venture.

Footprints of the World's History.

[Christian Record, Reading, Pa.]

Ben Franklin once made the statement, "Schools teach us the rudiments of language, but books teach us how to think! therefore, no man is truly educated unless he is a reader of books." Ben was right, but he lived in an age when books were so scarce, comparatively speaking, that but little of the pernicious in literature was tolerated. But in these days it is different. Your boys thirst for a knowledge of the world, and if you don't give them some wholesome reading to slake their thirst, they will get hold of cheap, sensational stories that will poison their minds and do them terrible injury.

There is such a vast amount of this trashy stuff being poured into the market at the present time, that it is a relief to pick up a new book that is at once thrilling, romantic, wholesome, pure and true.

Such a work is "Footprints of the World's History," the latest and greatest work of the two celebrated historians John Clark Ridpath and Wm. S. Bryan. These distinguished gentlemen, having won their laurels by independent writings, have co-operated on this work and produced a gem "of the purest ray serene." It is not a dry, uninteresting statement of the plain facts, but rather, each of the most important events of history has been taken up and described by a master of language, who holds the reader entranced as he wends his way along the paths of history, following carefully in the footprints of progress.

We are delighted with this superb volume. Perfect in thought, superb in style, and magnificent in execution. The bindings are sumptuous, as are also the many illustrations and colored plates. The Publishers have rightly concluded that such a gem should have a rich setting.

It is a valuable addition to literature. It is a book for the old as well as the young; the married as well as the single; the gay as well as the grave. Everybody will read it with equal eagerness and profit. It is sold only through agents, and the Publisher's advertisement appears in another column.

Best Farm Wagons.

We allude to Shaffer & Berg's wagons made right here in Auburn. They stand by their work and can prove it the best. No shoddy work about a wagon of their make. It pays to buy of home manufacturers, for you know what you are getting. Their work has stood the test for years. All parts are made on honor. Get new wagons there, or bring in your repair work to their shops on South Main St., Auburn.

Who Can Waltz?

Manager Geary will pay $5.00 to any gentlemen that will step on the stage and waltz with Big Susie at the Opera House to-night. Geary's three combined shows every day this week at 2:30 and 8 p. m. Admission 10 and 15cts.

For Sale.

Residence property on VanBuren st., just south new Lutheran church, recently furnished throughout. Will sell cheap and on liberal terms if taken within the next few days. Inquire at W. L. Penfield's law office.

Business Notice.

Notice is hereby given to any and all parties having, or claiming to have any claim, account or note against me, to present the same and have it adjusted, as I do not wish to have any accounts standing against me unsettled.

ANTHONY ZONKER.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL.

Miss Lucy Otto is visiting friends in Ft. Wayne.

Mrs. M. Jones spent the Fourth with relatives in Elkhart.

Rev. E. H. Shanks, of Ft. Wayne, Ind., called up to see us yesterday.

Miss Blanche Nichols of St. Joe, is in town the guest of Miss Jennie Askew,

G. W. Gordon has been on the sick list, but was able to be up town awhile yesterday.

Miss Frances Otto who has been teaching in Wabash college, is home for a vacation.

Phillip Fluke has returned from a two week's visit with relatives in Ashland county, his old home.

Miss Anna Edgar and two cousins from Wood county. Ohio are in Auburn the guests of Miss Veva Griswold.

Trustee Whetsell, of Franklin, was here yesterday. He builds two school houses this year; one at the Center, and one at Dutch Gap.

The C. L. S. C. will meet with Mrs. Henry on next Friday, July 10th, at 2 p. m., to elect officers for the ensuing year. A full attendance is desired.

Bill of fare at the Presbyterian church Friday evening: Veal loaf, biscuit, butter, slaw, salad, berries, pickles, tea, coffee, cake, etc. Mite 15 cents.

The Ft. Wayne Gazette notes the issue of a marriage license Monday to W. H. McDowell and Elva Campbell. From this we suppose the parties to be Will. McDowell of this place, and G. W. Campbell's daughter Elva.

"Flying Hill Farm" is the title of a new serial story by Sophie Swett, to be begun in Harper's Young People for June 2l. It is a story of country life, fresh and breezy, and each installment will be handsomely illustrated by Alice Barber Stephens.

Our friend Andrew Cramer, of Garrett, was in town Tuesday. He was in unusually good spirits, as Uncle Sam had just paid him a tribute of respect to about the tune of $12 per month since August 1st, 1890. We are glad to note his good fortune, and that he may succeed in getting all that is due him as a worthy veteran who helped to defend his country when it was in peril.

We were both surprised and pleased Tuesday to see Jacob Ochs. now a young man walk into our office in company with Will Swarts. When he lived here he was known as "little Jakie," and one has to think twice to make the great change seem real. He is now at Jackson, Mich, and traveling for some firm. His brother Louis is also on the road. His sister Edith, now a grown woman, is at home with her people at Arkansas City. All are in good health. And "Jake" is a bright young business man.

It is a fact beyond question, that the state of Indiana is growing more prominent every year as a repository for the most popular, successful and wealthy manufacturing institutions in the world. This may seem like a broad assertion, but if we go over to South Bend, there is to be seen in all their magnitude the Studebaker Carriage Works, the largest carriage factory known in the world, and the Oliver Chilled Plow Works of a like reputation. These two concerns supply a large per cent of the demand for the goods in their lines, in almost every continent on the globe. Then we go on a little farther to the town of Whiting, a place of about three thousand inhabitants, and find the vast refineries of the Standard Oil Company, the largest corporation in the world. Two years ago, this great Company started for a plant within the suburbs of Chicago, but finding Illinois taxes too high for their tastes, they receded back to Indiana, where a tract of 400 acres of land was purchased for their extensive business. These three institutions are sufficient to give Indiana a distinction over her sister states.

The Other Text Books.

The other text books, recently adopted by the state board of education are as follows:

Indiana school book company—"Spelling Book," Indiana state series, 10 cents; "Advanced Lessons in English Grammar," Indiana state series, 40 cents; "Advanced Lessons in Human Physiology;" Indiana state series, 60 cents; "Elementary Lessons in Human Physiology," Indiana state series, 30 cents.

Ginn & Co., Boston—"Montgomery's History of the United States," 65 cents; "Elementary Lessons in English," 25 cents.

Council Meeting.

At the council meeting Monday evening, the board hired Marshal Pfefferl for the rest of the year at $60 a month, to take care of the town team and arrange to have at least one man sleep in the barn nights so as to be ready for fires. He also has to hire at his own expense, one man to drive for three months in the year. We think the bargain a fair one. Mr. Hartman was engaged as town attorney the rest of the year for $60.

$5.00 for a Kiss.

Manager Geary's show will be at the Opera House all this week giving a performance each day at 2:30 and at night at 8. The above amount will be given to any gentleman who will step on the stage and kiss Big Susie in full view of the audience. Admission 10 and 15cts. Will not show in tent.

To Our Patrons.

The time for our regular annual settlements has arrived and we kindly request all our patrons to call and make settlements. Please do so without further urging, and oblige

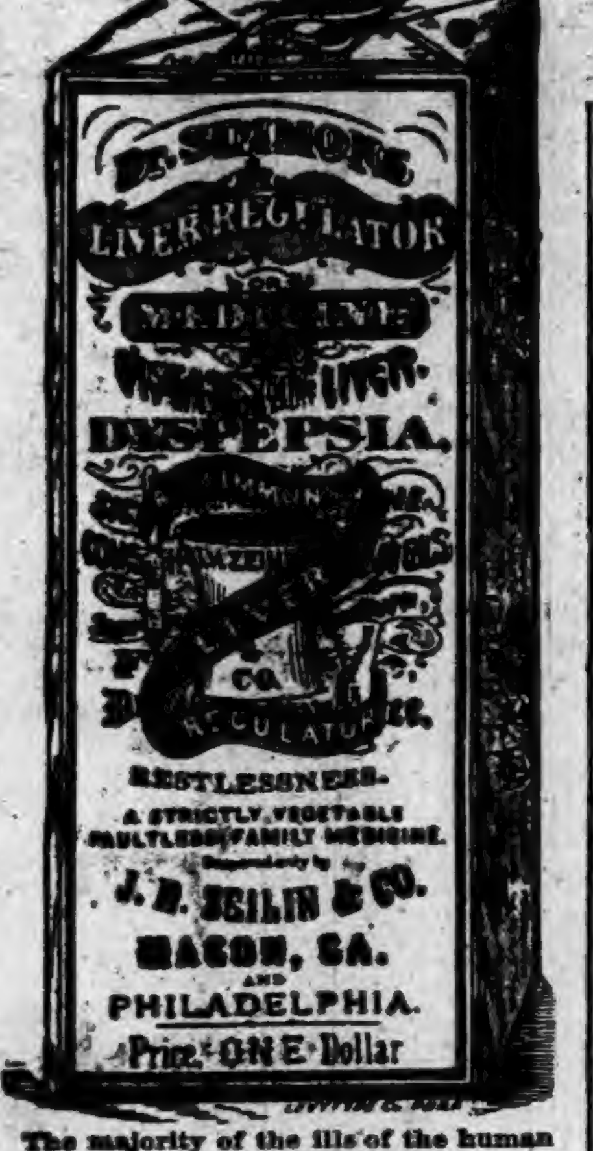
Yours Respectfully,
29 CASEBEER & MATHENY.

Town Lots for Sale.

Very desirable residence lots for sale at reasonable terms. Thirteen lots in the S. W. Ralston Addition south of the High school grounds. Also a fractional lot on West Seventh street, All in a good locality. Inquire of Mrs. S. W. Ralston or A. J. Ralston.

WELL, WE ARE STILL ON DECK WITH one of the largest and most carefully selected stocks of confectionery, cigars, tobaccos, bananas, oranges and lemons, to be found in any like-sized business room in the city. Our LUNCH Counter cannot be excelled; Sandwiches, Pies, Cakes, etc. Also carry a COMPLETE LINE of SOFT DRINKS, such as, pop beer, ginger ale, orange cider, milk shake and lemonade. When hungry or thirsty, ALLEVIATE the cravings of your natural APPETITE at CORA SHUGERS',

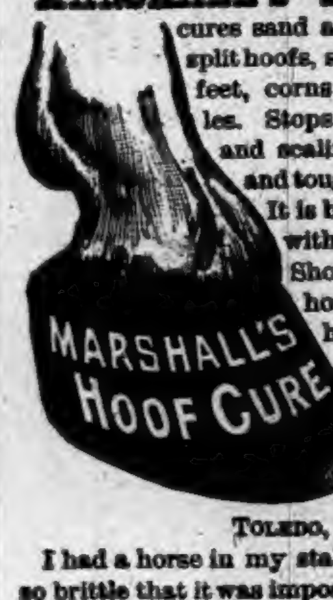
NO. 10 W. 7TH STREET.



The majority of the ills of the human body arise from a diseased Liver. Simmons Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy Liver than any other agency on earth.

SEE THAT YOU GET THE GENUINE.

MARSHALL'S HOOF CURE



cures sand and quarter cracks, split hoofs, sore and contracted feet, corns and all hoof troubles. Stops cracking, shelling and scaling hoofs. Softens and toughens brittle hoofs. It is better than soaking with oil, meal, etc. Should be used on all horses standing on hard floors or driven on hard roads. It also cures scratches, tetter, galls of all kinds, bruises, etc.

TOLEDO, O., April 6, 1891.

I had a horse in my stables that had hoofs so brittle that it was impossible to keep a shoe on his feet. I have used one can of Marshall's Hoof Cure on his hoofs and the horse has been shod for four weeks and the shoes stay on all right. I consider it the best hoof cure I have ever used.

JOSEPH POPP, Liveryman.

Sold by CASEBEER & MATHENY.

YOUNG WIVES!

Who are for the first time to undergo woman's severest trial we offer

MOTHER'S FRIEND

a remedy which if used as directed for a few weeks before confinement, robs it of its Pain, Horror and Risk to Life of both mother and child, as thousands who have used it testify.

A Blessing to Expectant Mothers.

MOTHER'S FRIEND is worth its weigh in gold. My wife suffered more in ten minutes with either of her first two children than she did altogether with her last, having previously used four bottles of MOTHER'S FRIEND. It is a blessing to mothers.

Carmi, Ill., Jan., 1890, G. F. LOCKWOOD.

Sent by express, charges prepaid, on receipt of price, $1.50 per bottle. Sold by all druggists. Book to Mothers mailed free. BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., Atlanta, Ga.

F. E. DAVENPORT,
Auburn, Ind.

Do You Chew ? Then get the BEST which is FINZER'S OLD HONESTY

Genuine has a RED H tin tag on every plug.

OLD HONESTY is acknowledged to be the purest and most lasting piece of Standard Chewing Tobacco on the market. Trying it is a better test than any talk about it. Give it a fair trial. Your dealer has it.

JNO. FINZER & BROS., Louisville, Ky.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

By virtue of an execution to me directed from the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, in a cause wherein Isaac Ochs is plaintiff, and Daniel Firestone is defendant, requiring me to make the sum of Eleven Hundred Forty-three dollars and Forty-three cents, with interest on said judgment and costs, I will expose at public sale to the highest bidder, on

Saturday, July 25, 1891,

between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m., and 4 o'clock p. m., of said day, at the door of the Court House of DeKalb county, Indiana, the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years, of the following real estate, to-wit:

The undivided one-tenth (1-10) part of the east half of the northeast quarter of section twenty-two (22), the south half of the northwest quarter of section (23) and the west thirty-two and one half (32½) acres of the north half of the northwest quarter of said section twenty-three 23) all in township thirty-five (35) north of range fourteen [14] east, situate in DeKalb County in the state of Indiana.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said judgment, interest and costs, I will at the same time and place, expose to public sale the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said judgment, interest and costs. Said sale will be made without any relief whatever from valuation or appraisement laws.

PHIL PLUM,
Sheriff of DeKalb County.

Auburn, June 30th, 1891.
JOHN W. BAXTER, Att'y for Plaintiff.

ROOT & COMPANY,

FORT WAYNE, - - - - INDIANA.

It Pays To Keep Posted

AS TO

WHAT'S GOING ON IN OUR ACTIVE STORE.

☞ Samples from any department mailed to you upon application.

BLACK COTTON FABRICS.

Grenadine Styles, Plain, Stripes and Plaids, absolutely fast black.

10c up to 50c.

BLACK SILK LACES,

all widths, Chantilly flouncings Demi flouncings and edges to match.

COINDOT DRAPERY NETS

at 90c, $1, $1.25 per yard.

WASH FABRICS,

in the new and dainty Brandenbergs, Pine Apple Tissues, Shanton Cloths, at 12½c, 15c and 20c.

The printing upon these fabrics is equal to that of the choicest China Silks.

LADIES' SHIRT WAISTS

made of Silk Madras, Flannelettes, Percales, Zephyrs, etc.

PRINTED CHINA SILKS,

in dark and light grounds, 50c, up to 88c.

DO YOU NEED NEW CARPETS, DRAPERIES, RUGS, SHADES?

we will send estimates. Our facilities are greatly increased — our stocks very large.

KID GLOVES

Suede and Glace — 4-button to arm-length to match shades of dress goods. Evening shades a specialty.

LANSDOWNES,

in Black and Colors at lower prices than can be had anywhere else.

THE NEW YORK STORE.

SUMMER GOODS

Of Every Description Must be Sold, & the

Low Prices

we name will surely do it.

◆●◆

Boys' Waists and Blouses,
13c, 19c, 25c, 38c.

Ladies' & Misses Blouses & Shirt-waists,
75c, $1.00, $1.25.

Black and Cream Silk Mitts,
10c, 20c, 25c, 35c, 40c, and 50c.

Men's Outing Flannel Shirts,
25c, 40c, 50c, and 75c.

Splendid value in

SUMMER UNDERWEAR,

For Ladies, Gentlemen and Children.

HARTER

East of Court House, Auburn.

I. O. BUCHTEL,
Homœopathic
Physician and Surgeon.

Special attention given to chronic and obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.

Office and residence over Smith & Madden's marble works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, night or day.

Dr. James Adams,

VETERINARY SURGEON.

Will treat all Diseases of Domestic Animals. He has had THIRTY YEARS successful PRACTICE. Call on him at his residence No. 34, North Main street, or at ROBBINS & McCORD'S Drug Store.

Dr. David N. Fitch,

VETERINARY SURGEON and DENTIST,

Has located in Auburn, and will give his entire attention to the treatment of all DISEASES of DOMESTIC ANIMALS. Is a graduate in Veterinary Surgery and Dentistry, from the CHICAGO VETERINARY COLLEGE.

Office at the PALACE FEED BARN on West 9th St.

----AUBURN WOOLEN MILLS----

DOES........

All kinds of CUSTOM WORK, such as Carding, Spinning, Etc.

ALSO

MANUFACTURE for the TRADE, Yarns Flannels, Skirtings, Blankets and Wool Bats.

These goods are absolutely PURE and warranted to give SATISFACTION to the Consumer.

—ENSLEY & FORKNER, Proprietors.—
Call at FACTORY North End of Main street

AUBURN, IND.

LOCAL NEWS.

Fire works at Robbins & McCord's.

Fruit jars at Beuret's. Don't forget it.

Dr. S. B. Johnson, dentist, will be in his office at Waterloo on Thursday of each week.

ORGAN FOR SALE: A nice large one of the Story & Camp make, as good as new. Call at this office.

Harvest days are usually dull in Auburn, but this year, the work on the new blocks makes it lively and even noisy.

MILES' NERVE & LIVER PILLS. Act on a new principle—regulating the liver, stomach and bowels through the nerves. A new discovery. Dr. Miles' Pills speedily cure biliousness, bad taste, torpid liver, piles, constipation. Unequaled for men, women, and children. Smallest, mildest, surest! 30 doses, 25 cts. Samples free at F. E. Davenport's.

A double-page portrait, drawn from life, of Thomas A. Edison in his laboratory will be published in Harper's Weekly for June 10th. A sketch of the Yale and Princeton base-ball teams, with portraits, will be another interesting feature of the same number. The four-page supplement will comprise an article on the New York Coffee Exchange written by Dr. Richard Wheatly and amply illustrated.

McELREE'S WINE OF CARDUI for Weak Nerves.

Fire crackers, sky rockets, etc., for the Fourth at Robbins & McCord's.

PIANOS & ORGANS on easy terms. Address, Davis & Husselman, Waterloo, Ind.

See those new hammocks at Robbins & McCord's. All prices from 50c to $5.00. 26 28

We keep the very best machine oil, lard oil, neatsfoot oil at bottom prices, Robbins & McCord.

HOUSE TO RENT: A good, new house in pleasant part of town, on reasonable terms. Inquire of Wm. J. Walsworth east of Auburn. 28

Who says the 4th of July is not a great institution? It isn't the small boy with a bunch of fire crackers and a box of parlor matches—sure.

Megrimine cures any headache in 30 minutes. Sold by Robbins & McCord druggists in Auburn. The Dr. Whitehall Megrimine Co., South Bend, Ind.

Steam engine and boiler for sale. Engine 45 H. P., boiler 55 H. P. Engine has been rebored and refitted, boiler in good shape. Can be seen at Gavitt & Goodwin,s machine shop, Waterloo, Ind. 27-29

Schnell & Weeks are still south of the jail with as fine a line of groceries, provisions, etc., as can be found in the city. They are great favorites with the "reciprocity" plan, that is, you will always get value received for every dollar spent for goods in their establishment.

English Spavin Liniment removes all hard, soft, or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavin, curbs, splints, sweeny, ring-bone, stifles, all swollen throats, coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle, warranted. The most wonderful blemish cure known. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn. Indiana. tf

RHEUMATISM CURED IN A DAY.—"Mystic Cure" for rheumatism and neuralgia radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immdiately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. 75 cents. Sold by Robbins & McCord, druggists, Auburn.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

The Essex, Canada, Free Press, speaks of seeing a specimen of that rare Alpine flower, the "Edelweiss." It was brought from Switzerland by a lady there, and its description calls up the same flower, brought back three or four years ago, by Fred. C. Davis of this city. It was examined by many of our citizens, and was in the school exhibit at the Waterloo fair and everywhere an object of curiosity and admiration.

Look here! Stop! and think. All men who are interested either in the purchase or employment of a threshing machine, should drop in and see the celebrated threshing machine and engine handled by Heberling & Caruth — the finest threshing machine ever brought to this town. They guarantee them to thresh and clean ready for market from fifteen hundred to two thousand bushels of grain, a day and save all the grain.

Try BLACK-DRAUGHT tea for Dyspepsia.

Buy your fire works for the Fourth at Robbins & McCord's.

A good house on Jackson street for rent. Inquire of W. H. McIntyre.

Ah, ha! Something new! Just call in and get a package of "Queen Bee" Coffee at Brandon's. It's the best in the market.

WANTED: A good watchman by Eckhart Carriage Co., Auburn, Ind. Must be married and furnish first-class reference. No other need apply.

WOOL! WOOL!! WOOL!!! We will pay the highest market price for WOOL. It will be to your interest to see us before you sell. Schaab & Bro. 19tf

W. H. McIntyre has two very desirable residences for sale, to some responsible parties on the installment plan, at from $8 to $12 per month. See him and stop paying rent. 20tf

John Kruger has his store room on South Main street, nearly fitted up for his brand new stock of goods, which he put before the public in the near future. He will adopt the Cash System, and proposes by that means to save money for his patrons.

Mabel Hartman will use in her physical culture, the Delsarte system of gymnastics. And for strength and physical training, dumb bells, Indian clubs, etc. Special attention will be given to class work, with a thorough study of Julius Cæsar and pantomimic action.

Are you aware of the fact that Beuret is handling one of the finest lines of screen doors, window screens, etc. Well, he is, and those wishing to keep out the pesky flies and insects during the summer months, will find that he has the very screen that will keep 'em out. 19tf

A. P. Shoaff was shaking hands on all street corners Monday. He is located at Sydney, Ohio, and prospering. His daughter Anna, who graduated at the conservatory of music at Ft. Wayne a week or so ago, has been visiting the young people here a few days.

A prominent merchant says "I have sold Megrimine for over a year and guaranteed it to cure any headache without after effects, and have not found a single case it did not relieve." Sold by Robbins & McCord in Auburn. The Dr. Whitehall Megrimine Co., South Bend, Ind.

GREEN MOUNTAIN SALVE: Is unequalled as a cure for all rheumatic pains, weakness in the side, back or any other place, and is unexcelled for cuts, bruises, corns, etc. It is the uncompromising enemy of pain in whatever form, or wherever manifested, and has never been known to fail in a contest with this dreaded foe of human happiness. If you would live a peaceful and painless life, try this great remedy and you will never regret it.

The Dispatch says that twice as many republicans graduate from colleges each year, as democrats. In the first place, this is not true. In the second place, it would be proper enough if it were, for we know of no party into which an injection of intelligence and ordinary information would be as valuable as it would to the republican party. We have not a very high idea of a party that believes a nation prospers by taxation, and whose editors teach that a tax added to the original cost of an article makes that article cheaper. There is room for a vast influx of graduates into that party.

BLACK-DRAUGHT tea cures Constipation.

Auburn No mal school, July 20.

Heavy rain Monday night lodged the wheat still more.

Fire works, flags, etc., for July 4th, at Robbins & McCord's.

Hats 15, 25 and 35 cents at Mrs. Funk's. To close out stock. tf

Miss Allie Moree returned from a visit with friends at Kendallville.

Buy a swing washer of Mr. Messe, and saves half the labor of washing.

Highest market price paid for tub-washed wool at Auburn Woolen Mills. tf

The new cement walks at the M. E. church, are completed and partly ready for use.

L. E. Lane of the laundry went up to his old home at Big Rapids, Mich., last Thursday.

Still they come in and go out like hot cakes—those baby carriages at Robbins & McCord's. 26-28

For anything in the line of lunch or soft drinks, call on Cora Shugers, No. 10 W. 7th St.

Forty-four stars in the flag now. Six new ones went in on the Fourth, for the six new states recently admitted.

The New Process Vapor stove at Beuret's has no generator. Nothing to get out of order, and begins to work at once.

Fred. Kring is pushing the carpenter work on the Hoff building. Both that and Mr. Leasure's will be done about Aug. 1.

Mrs. Bell came down from Detroit, Sunday, and will remain here awhile, visiting her daughter, Mrs. G. H. Yesbera.

See Beuret's big ad. this week. Ladies will find it to their advantage to call and see the latest improved gasolene cooking steve.

Remember the Auburn normal school that begins here July 20 and closes August 28. No better opportunity for study and review can be had.

Mrs. Judge McClellan is in Detroit, visiting her sister-in-law, Mrs. Miles. She went by way of Ann Arbor, to attend the wedding of Miss Agnes Leas.

Ladies, the newest washer is the new swing washer patented by W. L. Messe, Auburn. Buy the best and save all the hard work you can.

Clyde Nedry came home from Garrett last Friday on his bicycle, making the four miles and a half to Auburn in just sixteen minutes. That beats walking.

Inventors who wish to obtain patents or wish to sell rights in patents should address, Chas McClellau, Solicitor of Claims, 612 F. St. N. W. Washington, D. C.

All who have tried it agree that the new swing washer is the best, the easiest and does the best work. Wait till the inventor, W. L. Meese comes along, and then try one.

LOST: Last Friday in the northwest part of Auburn, a gray shawl with a black border. The finder will be suitably rewarded by leaving it at Davenport's drug store.

Levi Rice is going to have a fine house for all its odd appearance, turned cornerwise to the street. And it is going to look well, too. Perry Long and John Weaver do the wood work.

John Leasure had a severe attack of cholera morbus Saturday, and took his Fourth of July at home wrestling with the disease. He is all right now thanks to the doctor and a good constitution.

Mrs. Lizzie Kelley, of the COURIER office, and her daughter Pearl, are visiting relatives at York and Hastings, Nebraska. They started Thursday night over the Wabash, and will be absent about three weeks.

LOST: Monday, on Main street between the residences of Dr. Ford and James Brinkerhoff, a silk umbrella and a purse, with a small amount of money in it. Finder will confer a great favor by leaving at this office.

Shaffer & Berg are the men to make you a valuable wagon. Every part of the work is done on honor. They live here, and their wagons are used here and they are not afraid to see one of their make go by with a heavy load.

The Hoosier Quartet will take the road again in August and be away a month or so in Illinois. L. N. Fisher will not be with them on this tour, but his place will be taken by Mr. Harper, of Waterloo. They start about August 1.

Miss Ida Stahl went up to Burr Oak, last week, to visit Com. Uries' family. Mr. Urie has been given a "raise," that is, the Lake Shore gives him a better position, and he comes to Butler soon. We shall welcome him back to the old home county.

MARRIED: July 2, at the home of the bride in Auburn, John W. Bucher of New Era to Lauretta L. Gulich, Rev. W. L. Meese officiating. Also, by the same minister, July 3, at the home of the bride near Newville, Freeman Hensinger of Auburn, to Belle McCrum.

PLAIN SEWING: Mrs. L. Cone, will do plain dressmaking and sewing, and asks the ladies of Auburn to give her a share of the work, which she will do in a neat, substantial manner and at fair rates. Call on her at her rooms at T. J. Saxton's on South Jackson street.

We see by the program that commencement exercises at the popular Ft. Wayne Business College, will be held on Friday evening of this week. In the class to graduate in November, appears the name of our young friend Amos Mc Oscar, son of the late John McOscar of Smithfield.

Chris Baker and Dave Matheny, two of our boss plasterers, have been pushing things at a lively rate this season. At present they are doing the work on the new Leasure block in town, and have the plastering on Alex McClure's new residence southwest of the Junction and on Gust Helmuth's, beyond Garrett. We are glad to see the boys busy, for they are good workmen.

Summer millinery at greatly reduced prices. We will sell everything in the millinery line way below value to close out, as we do not wish to carry any goods over. We still have a choice variety of hats, bonnets and children's caps from the cheapest to the finest. Nicely trimmed hats for $1.00 and upward. All in need of anything in this line should call and see them.

Miss F. A. Husselman
Corunna, Ind.

The Waterloo Press of week before last says: "The Auditor's report shows that DeKalb county is in debt nearly $50,000, and that the debt was increased over $6,000 during the year." Now, the only paper, we believe, that published the auditor's statement, was the COURIER. So the Press must have seen the report as we had it, and in no other shape. Our report showed in plain figures, and the only place where he could have been looking, that the debt had increased during the year just $3,378 27. Now will the Press tell why it almost doubled the figures that were right before its eyes? Little instances like this tend to strengthen the belief in total depravity.

WINE OF CARDUI, a Tonic for Women.

Town lots for sale. See our notice.

Nothing like the new swing washer.

The swing washer has proved a great success.

New dining hall to be built at the fair ground.

Mrs. Judge Best returned to Minneapolis, Tuesday.

Mrs. Saxby McIntosh has been on the sick list this week.

Drink "Queen Bee" Coffee. Brandon is selling lots of it.

See those high grade hammocks at Robbins & McCord's. 26-28

Try a package of P. D. J. Tea, at Brandon's 25c a pound.

Mrs. Dr. Johnson, of South Bend, is in the family of F. J. Yesbera.

We lead the market on hammocks from 50c up, Robbins & McCord.

Megrimine, the new cure for headache and neuralgia, at Robbins & McCord's.

Mrs. F. Picker and Frank Joliff and wife spent the Fourth with relatives in Columbia City.

Don't forget us on baby carriages We are bound to save you money, Robbins & McCord.

The Golden Rule is a stayer, and is manufactured and placed on the market by Kessler Brothers.

Elias Zimmerman fell from a cherry tree in his grounds here, Monday, and was considerably hurt.

There will be a Gospel temperance meeting on the court lawn Sunday at 2:30. Address by Rev. Nelson of St. Joe.

Mrs. W. H. McIntosh had something like a stroke of paralysis about three weeks ago, but is now able to be out again.

Wanted! Wanted!! Wanted!!! at the Auburn Woolen Mills, all the wool we can get. Highest market price, don't forget it. 19tf

Mrs. Walters, of Bucyrus, Ohio, is here visiting her daughter, Mrs. W. L. Penfield. She resided here for a time, some years ago.

The Wilcox family are here with the Geary show that is here for the rest of this week. The show is said to be a good one.

Daily papers report the destruction by fire a week or so ago, of the Snyder wagon works at Danville, Ill., from the explosion of a lamp.

If you want to see about the finest residence in town, look at the new Ober building going up on North Main. It will be a big one too.

A. J. McClure, beyond the Junction, is putting up a fine farm residence this season. Alex is in a good neighborhood and proposes to keep up with the best of 'em.

The Hicksville News of July 2, says: Miss Pluma Rex left for Aspen, Col., last week, where she will be employed in the store of her uncle, King Rex, formerly of Newville.

T. P. Scott and wife spent Sunday in Ligonier. She will remain there this week but will come home Monday. He reports a good time among the whole-souled Ligoniereans.

PIANO FOR SALE: A good square piano in good condition and on reasonable terms. Inquire of Dr. S. B. Johnston at his residence or dental office on North Main street, Auburn.

Ft. Wayne Driving club has its summer races July 14 to 17. The premiums offered amount to $4,000, and should bring out the best horses in the country. Lovers of the race course should observe the date.

The attractions of a trip to Mackinac Island via the Detroit & Cleveland Steam Navigation Co., are unsurpassed. It only costs about $13.00 from Detroit, or $18.00 from Cleveland, for the round trip, including meals and berths.

Secretary Husselman informs us that there will be plenty of peanuts and popcorn on the fair ground this year. He has sold a number of privileges for hot candy and popcorn, so the giggling girls and gawky boys need not stay away on this account.

The board of commissioners met Monday in special session, to consider plans etc, for the new water closets to be put up near the court house, as the old one has become a nuisance. They advertise for bids in this issue. But little else was done.

Have you tried South American Nervine—the gem of the century? The great cure for indigestion, dyspepsia and nervousness. Warranted the most wonderful stomach and nerve cure ever known. Trial bottles 15 cents. Sold by Robbins & McCord, druggists, Auburn.

J. M. Lounsberry, of Elkhart, was here last week on his way to attend the funeral of Harvey Ackley at Hicksville. Mr. L. was a resident of this county all his life till a few years ago, when he went into business at Elkhart. He stopped over night here with his son-in-law, Wm. Vollmar.

Now, that the time of year is fast approaching, when fruits, berries jellies, jams, etc., are to be canned up and set away for winter use, people may begin to wonder where and at what price they are going to get the necessary jars. If, while in town, you go to Beuret's, you will find fruit jars in abundance, with prices to suit the times.

The executive committee of the fair has concluded to build a dining hall for the better accomodation of the fair going people. S. R. Heberling and his good wife will have charge of the commissary department of the new hall and we feel sure that no one need go away hungry. Sol. knows how to live well himself and will see that all are supplied with the staff of life.

Are you aware of the fact that in nine weeks from to day the fair will be in full blast. Get a premium list now and get something ready for the fair and tell your neighbors to do likewise. We must all pull together if we want to make the fair a success. The officers can not make a fair if the people will not become interested. We have one of the most liberal premium lists of any in the field of fairs and our people should wake up. WAKE UP, WAKE UP.

It may not be generally known, but the Zimmerman Manufacturing Company are hustling business for all there is in it. They recently enlarged their extensive factory, extending it from the street clear back to the railroad. Besides putting on the market a windmill that stood the test of sharp competition for several years, they are engaged in the manufature of hubs and a high grade of road wagons, with a separate departments for each. The demand for the road wagon has already far exceeded the firm's expectations the first year. They started in to make and sell 300 of these vehicles this year, but instead, that many have been made, with a large list of orders in excess of manufactured stock. To be reasonable and fair in commendation, this firm is an ornament and a benefit to the town, and their rapidly growing business is furnishing employment for a large number of men.

McElree's WINE OF CARDUI for female diseases.

T. J. Cuppy was home over Sunday.

Now begin to think of something to show at the fair.

Try our perfumes the best in the market, Robbins & McCord.

Our machine oil is the best on the market, Robbins & McCord.

See those pretty afghans for baby carriages at Robbins & McCord's.

Ropes, ropes, a good stock for sale at Beuret's in Auburn. Call when you need a rope.

Wanted: All the Ginseng we can buy. Will pay highest market prices Robbins & McCord. 26-28

For cheap tea and good coffee, see Brandon. He's got the stock that will please you.

For fine, fragrant smoke, the Bill Head is a leader. Manufactured and sold by Kessler Brothers.

Remember the social at the Presbyterian church to-morrow, Friday evening. They always give splendid suppers.

Mrs. Sailor, who had been sick some time, died Friday evening, and her remains were taken to Bryan, Ohio for burial.

Elza Shaffer drove his father's hearse with the remains of Mrs. Sailor, over to Bryan Monday. The round trip would be about sixty miles.

Do you know that Brandon has got one of the best grocery stores for its size, in town? Well, he has, and a glance therein will prove it.

W. B. Clock for several years a resident of Auburn, but now of Bryan, Ohio. was here Monday. He came to see about selling their property here, on North VanBuren street.

Wm Carr reported the ground solid and all right on Monday, so that binders could be worked in the wheat fields. Many had feared that recent heavy rains had made the ground too soft.

Another accession to the M. E. church, not on probation either, we believe. It is a little girl, born to the good pastor Mr. Wooton and his wife, Monday forenoon. The COURIER joins with the happy parents in rejoicing over the arrival of the little stranger.

Kuhns, the Noble county desperado, was convicted and sentenced to prison for life. This is the fortunate conclusion of the trial at Fostoria, Ohio, last week. The people of Noble county seem well pleased to be rid of a dangerous character. one who has tried to make a target of a dozen or so of her citizens

The heavy rain storm that went through here last Thursday evening, at about ten o'clock did a great deal of damage one way and another. Quite a number of shade trees in town were blown down or injured and many forest trees in the country. The standing wheat was badly lodged, all the more so. because the straw was very tall. It will not hurt the grain, as the wheat is too nearly ripe for that, but it will add greatly to the expense of harvesting. The heaviest wind passed north of us.

In the hurry and rush of work last week we forgot to call the attention of DeKalb county people generally, that two of the best known of their former citizens had been visiting in the county. Judge Best and wife had been here over Sunday, guests in the family of J. E. Rose, the two ladies being sisters. The Judge was for many years in partnership with Judge McClellan in the law business, as litigants and lawyers of a few years ago will remember. Both have made a success in life. Judge Best was at one time on the state supreme bench as commissioner; Judge McClellan is in congress, and both are close up to the head of the list in their chosen profession. Mrs. Best spent some time visiting in this section, but the judge was here only a short time.

Some new dwellings in Gas Addition.

Mr. and Mrs. Elza Shaffer, of Albion, were here over Sunday.

The Boston Clothing Store is here to stay, and don't you forget it!

You get value received every time you smoke a K. & B. cigar. They are made of tobacco.

Mrs. James Campbell was up to Walkerton over Sunday, visiting the relatives there.

Frank Davenport was back from Chicago over Sunday, returning to the city Sunday evening.

Hon. Nick. Ensley was up here yesterday from Indianapolis to attend to some of his business interests.

The L. L. C. meet this week with Mrs. Rose. and then have a vacation till the first Saturday in September.

Mrs. Kirby Davis, of Wabash, is here visiting the family of J. E. Davis. She expects to remain several weeks.

The Ladies' Aid Society, of the Catholic Church, will meet Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Schaab. All come.

Mrs. Emma Day, of Chicago, is home with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Johnson. She has been sick and is taking a rest.

Dr. Johnston is home from attending the state Dental meeting at Indianapolis. He says it was a valuable meeting.

Mrs. High and Mr. Feagler, on North Jackson street, have fine displays of the old style, reliable, but always beautiful flowers.

We see by the Press that the salary of postmaster at Waterloo has been raised $100. We had not noticed it in the list we copied from.

Mr. McIntosh has received a letter from Mr. Pearce, who published one of the first papers in Auburn. We hope to lay it before our readers soon.

The town has built some new crossings to connect the new cement sidewalks on North Jackson, including those along Mr. Maxwell's and Mr. Reesch's lots.

"Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Sprott, a boy." That's the way it reads since Tuesday. The real estate firm of Rickel & Sprott keeps right up with the Seventh street procession.

The Angola Republican did not see the correct statement of DeKalb county's debt in the COURIER, but did see the incorrect one in the Press. A lie always travels faster than the truth.

It is said America is for Americans. It is also said that the Young Americans will soon traverse the footsteps of their elders. The same is true of the Young America cigar made by Kessler Bros.

Now that a very entertaining and profitable 4th of July celebration is over, everybody has settled down to that degree of tranquillity, which so fittingly follows a season of pleasure and excitement.

The ladies of the South section of the Presbyterian church will give a supper in the basement of the church on Friday evening, July 10, to which all are cordially invited. Supper from 5 to 8 o'clock p. m.

Howard McCord's new residence begins to show up in fine shape. It will add another to the fine dwellings along that side of North Main street. Williamson and Rickel, of Waterloo, are doing the work and they are mechanics of the highest skill and ability.

The Reading Room is still open to all who wish to avail themselves of the best literature extant. The shelves and tables are laden with the best books, magazines and newspapers, and every young man and young woman should cultivate a taste for reading good literature One of the greatest evangelists of the nineteenth century, says: "A young man cannot go very far in the wrong, who is in the habit of reading good books."

Hats! Hats!

HATS!

GREAT REDUCTION SALE!

AT

Cowan Sisters'

You will find us

READY TO GIVE

THE VERY

BOTTOM PRICES

IN

EVERYTHIMG IN OUR LINE.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A CHOICE SELECTION OF INTERESTING ITEMS.

Comments and Criticisms Based Upon the Happenings of the Day—Historical and News Notes.

COREA has a cave from which a wintry wind perpetually blows. The force of the wind is such that a strong man can not stand before it.

FOR fifteen years glasses had been used by Daniel Kern, aged 62, of Martinsville, Ind. Within a few months his eyesight has so improved that he has discarded the spectacles, and can see as well as when he was a young man.

HEREAFTER every soldier in active service in the British Army will have a card attached to his clothing bearing his name, rank and regiment. This plan is to facilitate identification in case of death on the battle-field. It has long been in vogue in the German army.

SO MANY girls are wearing four-leaved clovers in their shoes that the man who does not want to be engaged, is saftest off the streets. The first man who bows to a girl with a four-leaved clover in her shoe, will some day marry her.

NEW YORK drug clerks contemplate organizing a labor union. They claim that they have to work about sixteen hours a day, Sundays included, not to mention the possibility that they may have to be called up in the middle of the night.

SOME Philadelphia clergymen have got into difficulty by neglecting to make returns of the marriages they have solominized during the past year. The penalty is $10 for every offense, and the profits of the business are quickly wiped out by it.

THE Philosophical Society of Berlin offers a prize of 1,000 marks ($250) for the best essay on the relation of philosophy to the empirical science of nature. The essays may be written in German, French, English or Latan, and must be sent in before April 1, 1893.

Germany's new dispatch boat Meteor is, excluding the torpedo boats, the lastest craft afloat. Her length is 262 feet, width thirty-one feet, draught thirteen feet, with 950 tons displacement. Her engines develop 5,000 horse power, and at full speed she goes twenty-four knots an hour.

A RETIRED farmer, who has time to try experiments and note the results, says that for the past three years he has planted a bean or two in each potato hill, and has never seen a bug on the potato tops where beans were growing in the same hill. If this is a protection against the bugs the remedy is simple and will pay for the trouble in the crop of beans.

EMPEROR WILLIAM has ordered that none of the nobility, unless he be engaged in government service, shall be allowed to ride free on the government railroads. There may yet be a revolt of the barons in Germany and a demand for a magna charta which will put an end to the young Emperor's dream of absolutism.

A WINDOW in the postoffice at Hannibal, Mo., is so clean that the glass must have been invisible to a quail. The bird flew through it with such velocity that it made a hole in it only a little larger than its body. The crash of glass directed attention to the incident, and the quail was found dead on the floor.

A HUNGARIAN woman 31 years old was a passenger in a canal boat that reached Brooklyn to Kensington. When the boat was made fast she and the boat's commander, aged 66, went arm in arm to a police court and were married. Neither could speak the other's language; so the ceremony, like the courting, had to be performed with the aid of an interpreter.

THE waiters of Paris have risen in revolt against the custom which decrees that they shall shave their faces. They are said to be the only class of men in France who are not now at liberty to do what they like with their faces, and they demand that the condition which signifies the nature of their occupation shall be removed.

HERE is a queer advertisement from the Flying Post of July 2, 1699: "The man that eat the live Cock at Islington, and another since, on the 15th of June last, at Stand-up Dicks at Newington Butts, near the Borough of Southwark, is to eat another there on Tuesday next, being St. James' day, with the Feathers, Bones and Garbage. Any person may see it performed, paying but 2d. for their admittance."

A BAPTIST missionary tells of 1,371 persons being baptized in one place, between the hours of 1:30 and 6 o'clock p. m., by three ministers. This is an average of more than one hundred to the hour for each officiating baptizer—more than three in every two minutes. That beats the record. They must have been decidedly muscular Christians to accomplish such a feat.

THE working classes of Italy are very poorly fed. The consumption of meat is very scant except on feast days, and but little wine is drunk. Living is almost exclusively confined to cereals (wheat, maize, rice,) with vegetables and other green herbs, cooked with bacon. The food in general is very deficient in nitrogenous qualities, the bulk of which is derived from vegetable rather than from animal food.

A WOMAN living in a small village near Allentown, Pa., was notified to come to Reading to sign off her interest in an estate, which was 95 cents. She declined to go, because her inheritance would not pay the car fare. The amount goes to the State unless the lawyers cover it in fees.

SIR CHARLES E. SMITH, the new British Minister to Morocco, has begun an agitation for the abolition of slavery, which still flourishes in this country. Thousands of boys and girls are brought to Tangier and other cities from the interior for sale. They are treated with great cruelty, particularly the boys.

A CURIOUS freak of lightning is reported from Montana. George Walker, wife and baby were out riding, the sky being lightly clouded, when he was knocked from the buggy by a bolt of lightning, his face being horribly disfigured, but he will recover. The wife was not seriously hurt, but a clear impress of a tree was made on her body, while the baby was not touched. The horse fell dead, as did a cow fifteen feet away.

IN France it is prohibited by law to open a public subscription for the purpose of covering the expenses and fines inflicted by judicial authority and judgment in cases convicted of crimes or misdemeanors. Fortunately that method of expressing our sympathy for those unjustly convicted, as we think, is not debarred in this country. Perhaps, however, if it were, there would be more energetic efforts to repeal unpopular laws.

A MAN was convicted at Batley Police Court, England, recently, of practicing as a peddler without a license, and in due course he was fined 10s. and costs, "or fourteen days." After surveying the situation for a short time the man asked permission to leave the court in order to pawn his boots and neckerchief, by which means, with the help of 6s. 6d. which he had in his pocket, he hoped to pay the fine. The request was granted, and the defendant's wife having accompanied her husband and pawned her shawl, the required sum was raised and the imprisonment avoided.

SINCE his going East Murat Halstead has become a confirmed diner-out. He must make on an average two after-dinner speeches a week in addition to attending silently upon at least as many banquets. A perpetual round of big public dinners is perhaps as hard upon a man as any other experience he can encounter, and some of Mr. Halstead's friends are wondering how long his health, never very strong since his attack at a club house a year or so ago, will bear the strain, added to the labor of writing an enormous amount of matter for his paper daily and considerable magazine work. Mr. Halstead is in appearance the ideal field marshal, and fills the eye satisfactorily on public occasions. It was he who, when Secretary Windom lay dying in a small side room at the last Board of Trade dinner, stood at the door answering inquiries of reporters and others while the doctors labored over the prostrated man, and a very dignified bodyguard he made with his fine, erect figure and gray imperial.

THE year 1890-91 has been a remarkable one for the length of its death roll of statesmen and of those whom the mutations of political parties or the weight of years have compelled to retire from their positions as leaders and rulers. Andrassy, Lutz, Jean Bratiano, and now Sir John McDonald have passed away; Crispi, Tisza, Bismarck and Parnell forced into retirement, and Secretary Blaine and Gladstone, if not seriously ill, are at least sadly in need of rest and freedom from the cares of leadership and official position. The year in diplomacy has also been a remarkable one for the number of questions discussed, most of which are happily in a fair way to be settled without disturbing the peace of nations. The disputes of England with Portugal and France in regard to the partition of Africa; the Newfoundland fisheries question, in which England and France and possibly America are involved; the Behring Sea complication; the Mafia tragedy and its possible international difficulties; the Brazilian, Chilian and Venezuelan imbroglios, one of which has already involved the United States, and another, the Venezuelan, may yet draw this country into strained relations with Great Britain. These are the most important of the great diplomatic contests that have signalized the present year, the end of which is not yet. The passing away of the great Canadian premier may still further add to the questions of diplomacy. As long as Sir John was at the helm Canadian affairs were likely to follow the course marked out by his skillful hand on the chart of diplomacy. What couse they will now take it is impossible to predict with any certainty. Rulers die, but the government lives, and happy is the country whose rulers are able to guide it on the way of prosperity, and by the wise art of statemanship secure to it peace with honor without recourse to the tribunal of war.

The Sparrow.

For the common house sparrow, as distinguished from the so-called hedge sparrow and the tree sparrow, nothing can be urged in its favor. Destroy them utterly, is my advice; and I have reason to think that Miss Ormerod has come to the same conclusion. Experience has shown that their ill-advised importation into Australia and North America has wrought incalculable harm to cultivated vegetation. The bird is a grain and vegetable feeder for at least three-fourths of the year, seeking insects only when leaf-buds and cereals are not available for food. Sparrow clubs should be encouraged in every village in order to check the undue increase of the species, which, by the by, breeds at least three times in the year. In connection with these sparrow clubs, it is somewhat curious to note that the authorities in some of the English country parishes have from time immemorial paid the village lads at the rate of four a penny for killing these birds, and have, moreover, purchased eggs. And some kind of sparrow seems to have been considered destructive in Syria in ancient days, for we are expressly told that "two sparrows were sold for a farthing."—Macmillan's Magazine.

FASHION'S DECREE.

HOW A PROTECTION ORGAN INVENTS ARGUMENTS.

The New York Press on the Reduction in the Price of Cotton Cloth—Not a Case of Protection—True Causes of the Fall in Price—Cheaper Cotton and Changed Fashions—Cheap American Labor.

The New York Press is engaged in manufacturing some exceedingly cheap arguments for protection, and is printing them in large black letters at the head of its editorial columns. The Press is the paper of Census Superintendent Robert P. Porter, and was founded for the purpose of propagating high tariff ideas, the money for the purpose having been put up by several wealthy beneficiaries of the tariff.

The Press prints every morning its so-called "tariff picture." A sample of its cheap and easy methods for concocting "arguments" in support of protection may be seen from a recent "tariff picture" on the subject of printing cloth. This is the plain white cloth from which calico is made. The figures are printed upon the cloth, and hence the material used in making calico is called printing cloth. This cloth is nearly all woven with sixty-four threads to the inch each way, and hence it is generally designated in the trade "64x64 printing cloth." Nearly all of the calico printing cloth used in this country is made at Fall River, Mass., and in Providence, R. I., there being sixty-five mills at these and neighboring points engaged in weaving these goods.

The boast of the New York Press is that the price of printing cloth fell from 3 5-16 cents per yard last fall to 2 15-16 cents during the past few months, and that this latter price is the lowest price ever reached by these goods. The figures of the Press are correct, but its claim that this fall in price was due to protection is "all off." The lower price can be accounted for on perfectly natural grounds. The causes of the decline are two, the lower price of cotton and the change in the fashion. Last summer the mills had to pay about 4 cents and last fall about 2 cents per pound more for cotton than they have been paying recently.

This alone is enough to account for the fall in prices; but a still more serious matter has been the encroachment of ginghams upon calicoes as a dress material. Every woman knows that during the past few months calicoes have almost ceased to be worn among those who keep up with the fashions. They have been driven out by ginghams.

Any one who watches the wholesale markets of New York will find the effects of this change. Calicoes are uniformly reported as dull; and such orders as have been received come largely from distant points, where the new rage for ginghams has not yet taken full possession of the feminine mind. On the other hand, there has been a ready demand for ginghams. "Fall styles continue to be freely ordered," "Agents report unusually good progress so far," "Prices ruled very steady"—such are the terms in which the market for ginghams is reported.

There are some further facts concerning the manufacture of printing cloth which will be of interest to the public at large. This industry, which is being held up to us as an illustration of the beautiful workings of protection, is even now debating the question whether it will close down or reduce wages, so unfavorable are the market conditions at present. The workmen are opposed to a reduction of wages, and prefer instead to have the owners order a shut down in order to relieve the overcrowded market. The same thing was done last August, when fully three-fourths of the mills closed their doors for a week or two, owing to overproduction.

Besides the conditions already named, the present low price of printing cloth is due to the further fact that the Fall River "combine" fell to pieces early in last December. The price of the cloth during the latter part of last year was fixed by an "agreement" which expired in December. Under this agreement not to sell below 3 5-16 cents a yard, the mills ran at white heat, and the stocks of cloth on hand during the summer and autumn were phenomenally large. When the "combine" broke up, there was a rush to realize on these enormous stocks, and prices were at once broken.

And now these protected mills are once more in the same predicament, overproduction, and no remedy but shutting down or reducing wages. Why do they not go out and "capture the foreign market?" They have the advantage of cheaper labor than their competitors in Europe; they ought to beat those competitors in neutral markets. They could do it if they would only content themselves with smaller dividends and would exert themselves to gain a footing in foreign countries. Some of the more prosperous of these mills earned from 15 to 20 per cent. on their capital last year, notwithstanding the high price of cotton and the complaints of overproduction.

The operatives in these Fall River mills are paid considerably less by the piece than is paid in England and Switzerland. Their higher daily wages are earned by attending to a larger number of looms, thus producing more cloth than the English and Swiss weavers. Here is how the matter stands:

Number of looms run by one weaver in a cotton mill:

In America	6 to 8
In England	3 to 4
In Switzerland	2 to 3

Number of yards, same quality and width, turned out by one weaver:

In America	1,850
In England	875
In Switzerland	466

Rates of wages in 100 yards print cloth:

In Fall River	.40 cents
In England	.51 cents
In Switzerland	.60 cents

When protectionist organs boast of what the tariff has done for our cotton cloth industry, do they include in that boast the cheapness of American labor at Fall River?

The Great American Jackdaw.

The way the protectionists boast of the workings of the high tariff and claim for it the progress which has been achieved through invention, reminds one of the old story of the jackdaw stealing the canary's feathers and strutting around proudly in borrowed plumage. They never weary of telling us that protection has brought down the price of steel rails from $166 a ton to $30; but every man of intelligence knows that the reduction was caused by the great invention of Sir Henry Bessemer, an unprotected Englishman. This reduction, too, has gone to a much lower point in England than in the United States, the price in England being now from $21.90 to $22.50 per ton, against the trust price of $30 to $31 here.

In the same way the invention of a remarkable machine for making wire nails, which requires little or no labor, has reduced the price of these nails from 8.33 cents a pound in 1883, when the duty of 4 cents was imposed, to 2.85 cents a pound in 1890. The protectionist organ grinders make no mention of the machine. They simply state that the duty was imposed, that the price was reduced, and that this was all owing to protection. And thus the jackdaw plucks the canary's feathers.

Our corn canning industry affords an excellent example of how industries may be developed and costs be lowered by inventions and improved methods, entirely apart from any outside stimulus like a protective tariff. Of course there is a duty on canned corn, but this duty has had absolutely no effect on the industry, being simply one of those bogus duties put into the tariff to hoodwink farmers.

"Thirty years ago," says a leading corn packer, "corn was cut from the cob by hand at the rate of a bushel an hour, placed into hand-made cans, the labor cost of which was $1.25 per dozen, cooked six hours, and sold for $5.50 per dozen. Now a machine, with the aid of one hand, will cut 125 bushels an hour. Another machine will fill the can at an equal gait. The labor cost in cans will not exceed three cents per dozen, while improved cookers have run the time for processing down to a single hour, and the corn is sold at a profit for $1 per dozen. The revolution has been from a horde of unskilled laborers, doing all the work by hand, to fewer but better laborers, who are intelligent enough to use machinery; while increased facilities—the emanations from the brain of a Norton, Sprague, Chisholm, and a host of other tireless inventors—have reduced the creative cost over 80 per cent."

Protection's Fruit in Germany.

One touch of protection makes all the world kin. In Germany the effects of protection have been the same as in our own country, as is seen in an article by Prof. Geffcken in the July Forum. The protective measures inaugurated by Bismarck in 1878 were brought about through a compact between the great landed proprietors and the manufacturers, the latter consenting to duties on corn (wheat), meat, timber, etc., while the landed proprietors consented to reintroduce duties on iron, and to raise considerably those on manufactured goods.

"The consequence," says Professor Geffcken, "was the usual one of protectionism—an artificial impulse given to industry by excluding foreign competition, and overproduction resulting from increasing internal competition. A German workman had to pay more for his meat, bread and all the blessings of life than the Englishman or Belgian; and if this led to a rise of wages he did not profit by it, while the manufacturer, with higher wages to pay and the enhanced price of raw materials, had more difficulty in competing in foreign markets. Consequently there has been a considerable falling off in German exports, and in order not to lose the foreign market the manufacturers have offered their goods at lower prices, retrieving themselves for the ensuing loss by organizing rings, and thus enforcing proportionately higher prices at home."

"That last remark especially reads like a description of American instead of German industries. The organization of trusts at home to put up and control prices at the same time that American-made goods are sold much cheaper in foreign markets, has become a familiar story. Thus the "beneficiaries" of protection are the same the world over, and in Germany we may see ourselves as in a looking-glass.

The Tin-Plate "Infant" in Germany.

The McKinleyites are making many rosy promises about the way the McKinley high tariff on tin-plates is going to establish the tin-plate industry in this country, and how American factories will be supplying all the tin-plate we can use by July 1, 1892. They should not be too hasty with their promises. We are not the only nation which has tried to wrest from Wales her supremacy in tin-plate manufacturing. Germany has tried the experiment with very unsatisfactory results, despite the fact that wages in that country are admitted by protectionists to be only about half what they are in England.

The effort of Germady to nurture her infant tin-plate industry from the protection pap bowl resulted in "advancing backward," as the following figures will show:

	Tons produced.	Tons imported.	Tons exported.
1878	8,582	5,307	1,696
1885	4,892	5,798	188

Trusts and Inventions.

One of the greatest evils of trusts is undoubtedly to be found in the fact that they tend to prevent those inventions and improvements which are constantly being made in freely competing industries. Protection is granted under the professed claim that it will cause competition and so reduce prices. Most of our industries are controlled by trusts in one form or another; and these defeat the introduction of new inventions, and thus prevent the cheapening of their product to the people.

This view is expressed by that eminent high-tariff authority the Boston Commercial Bulletin. It has recently been discussing the proposed 'combine' of the several companies engaged in making automatic sprinklers for extinguishing fires in factories. The Bulletin thus states its objection to this combine:

"It is not for the interest of the community that the sprinkler 'combine' should come to pass. Automatic sprinklers have not reached perfection by any means, and any combination would surely retard the development and the improvement of this almost indispensable instrument of protection."

Is McKinley a Free-Trader?

McKinley cannot avoid showing that he does not believe his own words when he tells that "the tariff is not a tax." In order to develop the manufacture of beet-root sugar in this country, he put a provision into the tariff law that all machinery for manufacturing it should be admitted at the custom houses free of duty till July 1, 1892.

This was intended to encourage the new beet-root sugar industry; but if the tariff is not a tax, how can this exemption from the duty help the sugar industry? McKinley is anxious to help a young and promising infant industry, and the first food he gives it is a large chunk of free trade in its machinery. After doing this, McKinley goes up and down the land trying to prove that this very free trade would ruin the country; that it is advocated only by "those who serve foreign interests" and are enemies to their country.

It is singular that McKinley should give such a high indorsement to free trade as to hold it like a pap-bottle to the lips of the new-born infant of beet-sugar making.

Beating the Tariff in South America.

In South America a tariff tax is no more pleasant to pay than in our own country. Hence the South Americans devise curious ways to avoid the tax, having never discovered, as Major McKinley has, that the foreigner pays the tax.

An American traveling in the Argentine Republic and Paraguay reports the following curious method of evading the tariff tax: "Before reaching the boundaries of the Paraguay and Argentine Republics, just on the border line you see some manufactories of the native drink (Cana) erected here to escape the heavy duties imposed by the governments of these countries. The raw material from which they make the spirit enter in at the Paraguay side, while at the other end the manufactured spirit passes out."

The Copper Trust's Monument.

The exports of copper from this country have been very heavy since the beginning of the year, and already in four months amount to 44,512,628 pounds of fine copper, or about 80 per cent. of the total amount exported in 1890. Notwithstanding our ability to export copper in such enormous quantities, the McKinleyites did not venture to remove the whole of the duty on copper. They preserved a small part of it to stand as a monument to the fact that two years ago a copper combine existed to keep up prices in the home market, and American copper was being sold in London from two to seven cents a pound lower than in New York.

Etna's Crater.

At last we stood on a level, and the boiling vapor was seen seething up from a great yawning pit at our feet. "Behold it!" cried Sebastian, with a salute, bareheaded, to the mountain, and I realized that I was 10,800 feet above the sea, and in as convenient a situation for a sensational ending as a man may find anywhere in the world. Etna responded to Sebastian's civilities with a terrific bellow, and an out-throw of ashes and rocks that put me in much doubt of my ability to live through it. The stench of the sulphur, too, was villainous, and though I adopted Sebastian's plan of binding a handkerchief over my mouth and nostrils, it was all I could do to draw one satisfactory breath in ten. Add to this fact that the ground upon which we stood was composed of burning ashes and hot mud, and it will be apparent that Etna's summit is not altogether fit for the daintily shod tourists who climb Vesuvius by the funicolare, nor an easy spot for the indulgence of political rhapsodies.

Some say that the crater of Etna is two miles round; others are satisfied with half the estimate. The truth is that both reckonings may be justified. At one time the crater is two miles in circumference; at other times, more or less. The volcano is so terribly active that it is always revising and reshaping itself. The outbreak of ash one week—most of which falls back into the crater obliquely, so as to form an inclined bank—may be so prodigious that the crater itself seems curtailed of a third of its previous area. But, perhaps, on the eighth day that part of the floor—to speak loosely—of the crater which has to support this growing weight of material suddenly gives way, and not only all of the newly formed boundaries, but part of the original environing rim of the crater fall in, and so the circuit of the crater is enlarged. This process is always going on with greater or less rapidity. And the fact that it occurs so constantly makes the traveler's measurements of so little permanent value that he may generally be counseled to spare himself all trouble in the matter.—Chambers' Journal

Rubber Belting for Germany.

The undiscriminating and reckless manner in which the McKinleyites raised duties, even in cases where there was absolutely no need for an increase, is seen in India rubber belting. The duty on articles made of India rubber was raised by McKinley from 25 per cent. to 30 per cent. ad valorem.

When a duty is raised it ought, even on protection grounds, to be done only when it has been found that a domestic industry is being hard pressed by foreign competition. But, that such is not the case with the makers of rubber belting may be seen from the fact that the Boston Belting Company has recently shipped a large invoice of rubber belting to Germany.

"Pick up a German paper and you will find," says the New York agent of this company, "that the manufacturer, if he advertises at all, puts it after this manner: 'Belting made after the American mode.' It is a compliment which pleases us, and the orders we get are substantial tokens of our merit in this line."

Able to export, and yet McKinley increases the protection!

She Is With Us.

The thin girl has come to stay. The thinner, the more meager and attennuated she is, the greater her charms. Thin as a match applies to her every time. She will never wear an ounce of superfluous flesh, and she eats her meals standing, because comfort superinduces fat. As she walks along the street she looks like the shadow of her brother, with her divided skirts, cloth gaiters and nobby jacket. She is straight and athletic, may break but never bend. Do you know her?—Free Press.

Hardships of Teaching in Spain.

The condition of the public teacher in Spain is not to be envied. The payment of their salaries is almost always far in arrears, and a case came up the other day of a man who had not received a cent of money from the Government in seventeen years. The total amount of back salary at present due to teachers is about $700,000. In some cases the sufferers are sustained by charity, and in others are compelled to send their children out as servants. Many schools have been closed altogether.

THE zeal of the political wool shepherds of Ohio, in urging the Government to apply the so-called "sorting clause" of the McKinley law to carpet wools, by which the duty on them will be doubled, is threatening to have disastrous consequences on the carpet manufacturing industry.

From Philadelphia, the great center of carpet making, it is reported as follows: "The carpet trade is getting worse, as the decision on sorted imported carpet wools is most harassing to the trade. If this is upheld it must result in the stoppage of a great portion of the machinery engaged in the manufacture of carpets."

A LONDON daily says that in consequence of a recent heavy increase of the Spanish import duties, famine prices are being paid for many kinds of food by the Spaniards. Pork sells at 50 cents per pound; potatoes at 4½ cents, flour at 7 cents and bread at 7 cents per pound. Will some wise McKinleyite explain how this can be, considering that it is always the foreigner who pays the tariff tax? Ought not that highly orthodox protectionist maxim to prove true in Spain, too? That benighted land evidently needs a McKinley to teach it that its pork cannot sell at 50 cents a pound, owing to the high duty, since the American farmer pays the pork tax!

THE umbrella manufacturers of Philadelphia have been agitating the subject of forming a trust, but the result of their efforts has not yet been made public. McKinley put these men in a more favorable position to form a trust than they were under the old law. The old duty on silk and alpaca umbrellas was 50 per cent., but McKinley raised it to 55. Umbrellas of other materials were taxed 40 per cent., but this duty was raised to 45. If these manufacturers "get together," it will be simply to take advantage of protection so freely voted them by our McKinleyite solons.

ALTHOUGH the iron industry of the South is young it has none of Pennsylvania's dread of foreign competition, and it evidently cares little for protection. At a recent meeting of the Alabama Industrial and Scientific Society, Mr. B. F. Peacock, of the United States Rolling Stock Company, at Anniston, said that its natural resources made it "easy for Alabama to compete, even in the world's markets, in pig-iron, bar-iron and steel products."

LINEN shirts and shirt fronts paid 45 per cent. duty under the old tariff; the McKinley duty is 55 per cent. Embroidered shirt bosoms paid 30 per cent.; the McKinley duty is 60 per cent.

IN modern English the "prodigal son" was a chap who went away a dude and came back a tramp.

TRADE MARK
DUTCH JELLY
NONE GEUNUINE WITHOUT CREST AND SIGNATURE
K van Amhem
KEEP THE LID ON THE POT

If you want a beautiful complexion and a perfect skin, use Dutch Jelly. No tans, freckles, moth patches, pimples, black heads or wrinkles. No coarse, rough, greasy, chafed or chapped face and hands. Dutch Jelly is absolutely pure, being a vegetable compound and void of all mineral properties; contains no grease or oil, and after its application the most delicate fabric can be handled without soiling. Gentlemen use it after shaving. For eczema Dutch Jelly is a positive cure. For ulcers, pimples, itching and all eruptive skin diseases, Dutch Jelly is simply invaluable and permanently effective. For cuts, bruises, sun burn, insect bites Dutch Jelly is supreme and is absolutely odorless. Dutch Jelly is not a cosmetic, but rather a skin tonic and has the highest medical endorsement. One trial will convince the most skeptical that it will keep the roughest skin in the smoothest and whitest condition. Ask your druggist, or send 50 cents in Stamps or Postal Note for Sample Jar. Address

Dutch Jelly Co.,
50-52 Michigan Ave.,
CHICAGO, ILL.

Page CYCLE
SPRING FORK.

EASIEST RIDING
WHEEL - ON - EARTH.
HAS WITHOUT EXCEPTION THE
FINEST SPRING IN AMERICA.

Rides as gently over obstructions as a carriage and is in every sense of the word a perfect cycle

BUILT
FINEST DESIGN.
FINEST STEEL.
FINEST FINISH.
FINEST BALL BEARINGS.

Do not buy without getting our Catalogue or seeing this wheel.

PAGE STEEL WHEEL CO., TOLEDO, OHIO.

SANGOLE
ACTUALLY
PRODUCES FLESH
AND CURES
CONSUMPTION
IN INCIPIENCY.
PALATABLE, DIGESTIBLE, NUTRITIOUS.
IMPARTS LIFE AND VIGOR TO EVERY FIBRE.
SPECIMEN TESTIMONIAL.

Gentlemen:— WHEELING, Feb. 10, 1891.

Early last fall I contracted a severe cold, which settled on my lungs. I coughed dreadfully and lost flesh rapidly until advised to try Sangole, which I did with the most gratifying result.

After taking three bottles my cough ceased and I found that I had gained six pounds in weight. I most heartily recommend it to sufferers of loss of flesh from any cause.

Respectfully,
LIZZIE G. CAMPBELL.

Recommended and sold by all Druggists.
Post paid to any address on receipt of $1.00
Silver Guarantee Remedy Co.,
WHEELING, W. VA.

Manny Lemon Juice Extractor

BEST AND MOST ECONOMICAL.

ORDINARY Lemon Squeezers act upon lemon from outside, inducing a bitter oil and crushing living creatures which appear on skin as dark scales.

THE "MANNY" Lemon Juice Extractor operates on pulp within, and gives clear pure juice free from insects, oil or seeds.

IF your dealer cannot supply you send 30 CENTS postal note or stamps for a sample post paid.

Manny Lemon Juice Extractor Co.,
202 COLUMBIA ST., ROCKFORD, ILL.
WE WANT GOOD AGENTS.

The D&C
TO MACKINAC
SUMMER TOURS
PALACE STEAMERS. LOW RATES.
Four Trips per Week Between
DETROIT, MACKINAC ISLAND
Petoskey, The Soo, Marquette, and Lake Huron Ports.
Every Evening Between
DETROIT AND CLEVELAND.
Sunday Trips during June, July, August and September Only.
OUR ILLUSTRATED PAMPHLETS,
Rates and Excursion Tickets will be furnished by your Ticket Agent, or Address
A. A. SCHANTZ, Ass't G. P. A., DETROIT, MICH.,
THE DETROIT & CLEVELAND STEAM NAV. CO

DON'T WASTE MONEY
BUYING THE WRONG WAIST.
BUY THE "HAUT-TON" WAIST.

IT meets the popular demand for hygienic garments. Made of fine satteen in white, drab, ecru, old gold, and fast black, well stayed with cords; has no steels except in front and back, with clasp or button fronts.

Is so soft and pliable, yet produces a perfect figure.

A Perfect Waist.
Canvassers Wanted. Send for Catalogue.
Waist sent post paid on receipt $1.15
Bortree Mfg. Co., Jackson, Mich.

FARMS IN CENTRAL MICHIGAN

are positively first rate as proven by both State and United States agricultural preports. In yield and value of crops per acre, they excell Southern Michigan, Indiana and Illinois. We offer for sale at low prices and on easy terms 20,000 acres of good unimproved farming lands in Isabella County, the center county of the lower peninsular of Michigan. Write for descriptive pamphlet and sample price list.

C. M. C. Cook, Mt. Pleasant, Mich.

The Rock Island "Jewett Hay Rake and Loader."
NO FARMER CAN AFFORD TO BE WITHOUT ONE.

TAKES the hay as left by mower, rakes it CLEAN and will deliver a ton onto wagon every fifteen minutes.

Will certainly save its cost in one year, and under some circumstances in one day.

Light Draft. Fully Guaranteed.

Send for full description and testimonials.

Rock Island Plow Co.
ROCK ISLAND, ILL.
(Mention this paper).

The Electric Capsule

is a pleasant laxative and sure cure for general debility, biliousness, torpid liver, malaria, sleeplessness, loss of appetite, melancholy, costiveness, nervousness and pains in the back. It positively cures that lassitude and weariness, and want of appetite experienced by so many. Are you fatigued? The most recently discovered wonderful remedy for LOST VITALITY.

25 Cents per box.

Address ELECTRIC CAPSULE CO.
Post Off Box 3349, N. Y.
FOR SALE BY ALL DRUG TS.

ORANGE BLOSSOM
A POSITIVE CURE FOR
ALL FEMALE DISEASES.

SOME SYMPTOMS: A tired, languid feeling, low spirited and despondent, with no apparent cause. Indigestion, headache, backache, bearing down pains, pain across lower part of bowels, with great soreness in region of ovaries, Tumors, Bladder difficulty, Frequent urination, Leucorrhœa, Constipation of bowels, piles. With all these symptoms patient nervous and irritable. THE ORANGE BLOSSOM TREATMENT removes all these by a thorough process of absorption.

A LOCAL APPLICATION Perfectly harmless, which every lady can use, herself. Medicines taken internally will never relieve the many forms of female weakness. The remedy must be applied to the parts to obtain permanent relief.

A PLAIN TALK TO LADIES in our circular. Ask your druggist for one, or send two cent stamp to home office for sample box and circular.

EVERY LADY CAN TREAT HERSELF.

O. B. Pile Remedy. $1.00 FOR ONE MONTH'S TREATMENT. O. B. Stomach Powders.
O. B. Catarrh Cure. —PREPARED BY— O. B. Kidney Cones.

J. A. McGILL, M. D., & CO., 2 & 4 PANORAMA PLACE, CHICAGO, ILL.
FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
ALONZO O. FISHER, Wholesale Agent, 67 Washington St., Chicago, Ill.

Confirmed.

The favorable impression produced on the first appearance of the agreeable liquid fruit remedy, Syrup of Figs, a few years ago, has been more than confirmed by the pleasant experience of all who have used it, and the success of the proprietors and manufacturers, the California Fig Syrup Company.

Is Your Draught Good?

There is no doubt but the form of a roof has much to do with the draught of a chimney. The flat roof offers no resistance to the passage of air, but as the pitch is increased the current is more and more disturbed, until with a high-pitched and many-gabled roof it is broken into innumerable eddies, some of which are sure to curl down and force the smoke and gases in the flue into the rooms below. Chimneys on such roofs should be built higher than ordinarily.—Scientific American.

THE WABASH LINE.

H-andsome equipment,
E-legant day coaches, and
W-agner palace sleeping cars
A-re in daily service
B-etween the city of St. Louis
A-nd New York and Boston.
S-pacious reclining chair cars
H-ave no equal
L-ike those run by the
I-ncomparable and only Wabash.
N-ew trains and fast time
E-very day in the year.

From East to West the sun's bright ray,
Smiles on the line that leads the way.

MAGNIFICENT VESTIBULE EXPRESS TRAINS, running free reclining chair cars and palace sleepers to St. Louis, Kansas City, and Council Bluffs. The direct route to all points in Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Texas, Indian Territory, Arkansas, Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, Washington, Montana, and California. For rates, routes, maps, etc., apply to any ticket agent or address
F. CHANDLER,
Gen. Pass. and Ticket Agent,
St. Louis, Mo.

Down in the Mines.

The workmen in the deepest mines of Europe swelter in almost intolerable heat, and yet they have never penetrated over one seven-thousandth part of the distance from the surface to the center of the earth. In the lower levels of some of the Comstock mines the men tought scalding water, and could labor only three or four hours at a time until the Sutro tunnel pierced the mines and drew off some of the terrible heat.

Ladies employed in fashionable stores, whose duties keep them standing all day, should send two 2c stamps to Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for "Guide to Health and Etiquette."

An Artificial Man.

A man named Jones was recently fitted out with two glass eyes, a complete set of false upper and lower teeth, and an artificial nose, in a New York Hospital.

IMPURE blood is the primary cause of the majority of diseases to which the human family is subject. The blood in passing through the system visits every portion of the body—if pure, carrying strength and vitality; if impure, disease and death. Blood poisoning is most dangerous. Prickly Ash Bitters will render the last impossible, and will regulate the system so that health will be a sure result.

Russian Peasants' Lands.

Russian Peasants will be prohibited by law shortly from selling or mortgaging their lands.

FITS.—All Fits stopped free by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. No Fits after first day's use. Marvellous cures. Treatise and $2.00 trial bottle free to Fit cases. Send to Dr. Kline, 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

THE only heavy burdens are those we try to carry ourselves.

COPYRIGHT 1890.

A prompt return of your money, if you get neither benefit nor cure. Risky terms for the doctor, but safe and sure for the patient. Everything to gain, nothing to lose. There's just one medicine of its class that's sold on these conditions—just one that could be—Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It's a peculiar way to sell it—but it's a peculiar medicine. It's the guaranteed remedy for all Blood, Skin and Scalp Diseases, from a common blotch or eruption to the worst Scrofula. It cleanses, purifies and enriches the blood, and cures Salt-rheum, Tetter, Eczema, Erysipelas, and all manner of blood-taints, from whatever cause. It costs you nothing if it doesn't help you. The only question is, whether you want to be helped.

"Golden Medical Discovery" is the cheapest blood-purifier sold, through druggists, because you only pay for the good you get.

Can you ask more?

The "Discovery" acts equally well all the year round. Made by the World's Dispensary Medical Association, at 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

IF YOU HAVE
Malaria or Piles, Sick Headache, Costive Bowels, Dumb Ague, Sour Stomach and Belching; if your food does not assimilate and you have no appetite,
Tutt's Pills
will cure these troubles. Price, 25 cents.

It PAID Me—
'Twill PAY You
Plain directions by which anybody, anywhere can make from $25 to $2,500 per year. 'Twill not interfere with, but will improve any business. Send Name, Postoffice and State, enclosing $1.00. Address, R. CONGDON, Nunda, Ill.

The Soap
that Cleans
Most
is Lenox.

ICE BY MACHINERY.

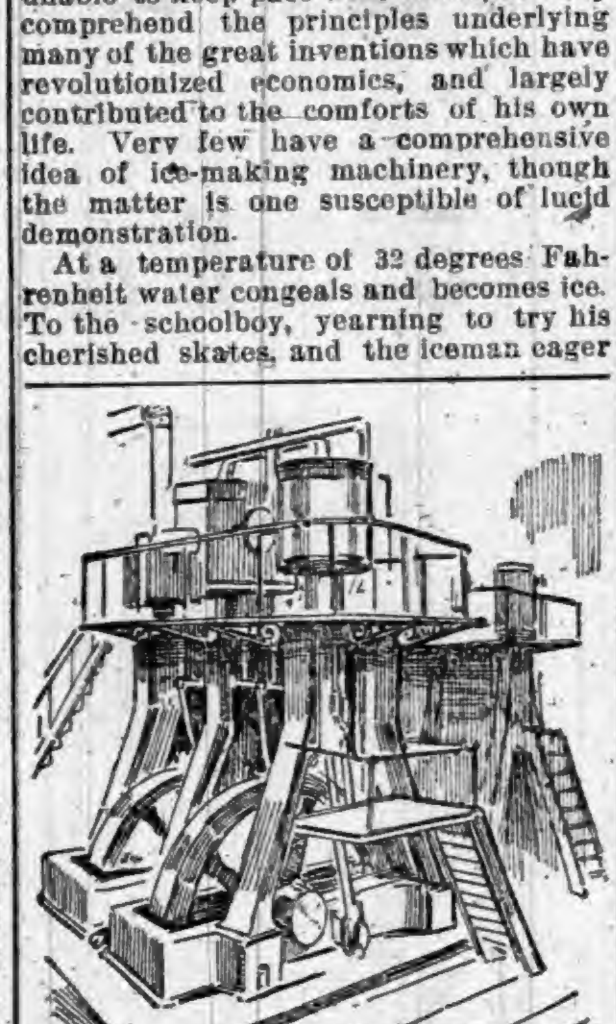
A NEW AND WONDERFUL INDUSTRY.

How Artificial Ice Is Made by the Aid of Steam—The Different Methods Employed in Manufacturing It—Interesting Facts.

To make ice by steam; to reduce the temperature by the combustion of coal; to convert heat into cold, is a problem which modern science has solved, and that, too, in a practical way. Paradoxical as this statement appears, the most skeptical may be convinced of its absolute truth by inspecting any one of the three large manufactories in Chicago where ice-making and refrigerating machinery is constructed. After viewing the enormous engines there, possessed of the strength of an hydraulic-ram and the nicety of a chronometer, any remaining doubt as to their practicability will be dispelled by visiting the new ice-making plant at Throop and Van Buren streets, or any large packing-house or brewery, where acres of space are kept, summer and winter, at a constant temperature but little above the freezing point, by the use of these very engines, and without consuming a single pound of ice.

In this century of unparalleled progress, wonders have trod so closely upon the heels of wonders, that the ordinary layman in the world of science has been unable to keep pace with them, or fully comprehend the principles underlying many of the great inventions which have revolutionized economics, and largely contributed to the comforts of his own life. Very few have a comprehensive idea of ice-making machinery, though the matter is one susceptible of lucid demonstration.

At a temperature of 32 degrees Fahrenheit water congeals and becomes ice. To the schoolboy, yearning to try his cherished skates, and the iceman eager to begin the harvest of his crop, this process appears a very slow one. It would seem, indeed, that water, reduced to a temperature below the freezing point, ought almost instantly to take on a crystalline form, and change en masse from a fluid to a solid. For lack of better terms we speak of nature as possessed of likes and dislikes; loving this and abhorring that. In this sense matter seems both to change its state and take on another and different condition. Were it not for this change would be the rule; nothing would be stable; chaos would reign. That water does not freeze more rapidly is due to the presence in it of latent heat, which must be expelled before the change can take place. Latent heat is as mysterious an affair as electricity. In no way can it affect the senses; the most delicate thermometer will not indicate its presence, yet it is none the less certain that it exists and in never varying quantities. To illustrate this, place a block of ice at a temperature of 32 degrees in a kettle over a brisk fire. When it is entirely melted the resulting water will be but little raised in temperature from that of the ice. Faraday determined that to melt a cubic yard of ice, about 1,500 pounds, without raising the temperature, requires seventy pounds of coal.



REFRIGERATING MACHINES.

It was known to the people of ancient Rome that wet clothing becomes rapidly and powerfully chilled, yet not one of all her philosophers saw in the circumstance a suggestion for manufacturing ice to cool the wine and sherbet of royalty, in lieu of the snow brought from the tops of mountains. This was left to Dr. Joseph Black, the Scotch-Irish chemist of Edinburgh, who, about 1760, who formulated and made public his famous theory of latent heat. He found that to convert one pound of water at 212 degrees into steam, at the same temperature, requires six and one-half times the heat necessary to raise the same amount of water from 62 to 212 degrees. In other words, if one pound of steam at 212 degrees is mixed with six and one-half pounds of water at 62 degrees, there will result seven and one-half pounds of boiling water. It was at once evident that if, of six and one-half pounds of water at 62 degrees, one-half pound could be suddenly converted into steam, the remaining six pounds would be frozen. The problem was, how to effect this.

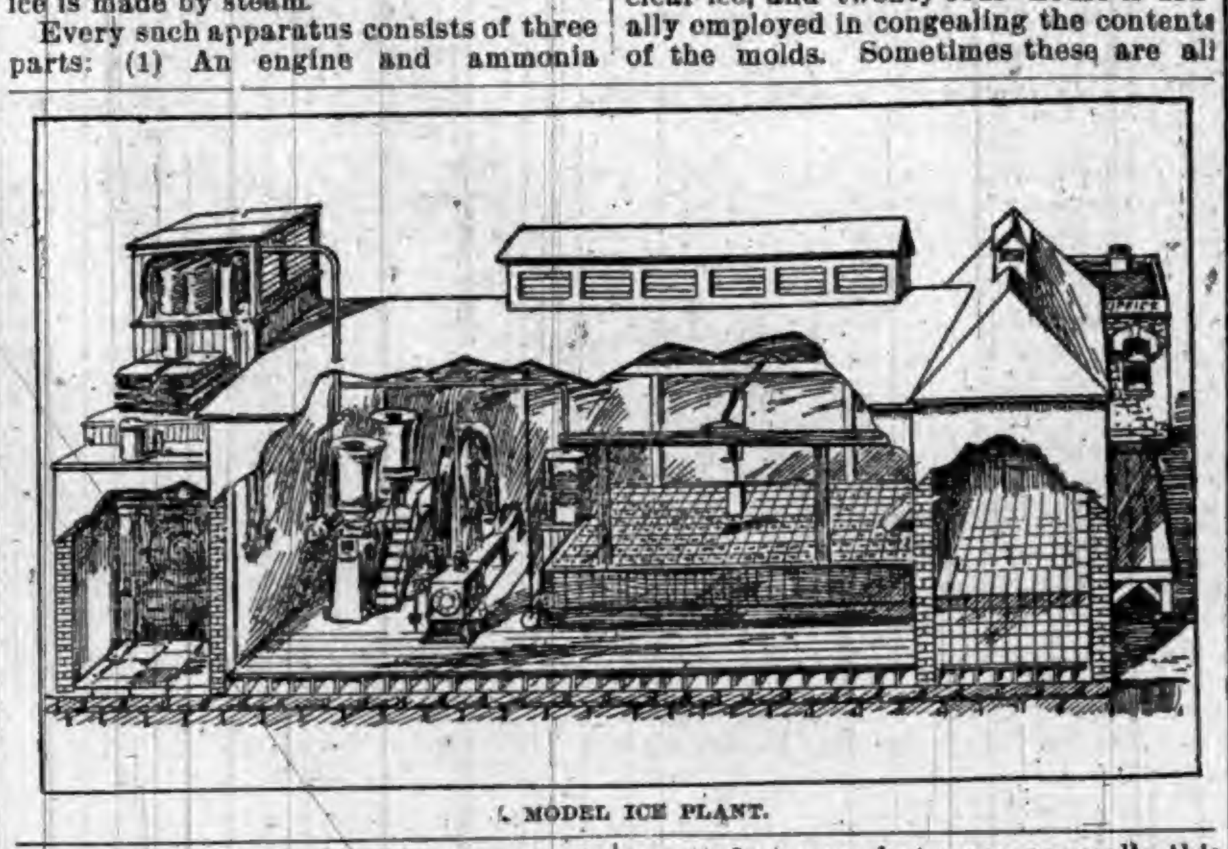
If any elastic fluid, atmospheric air, for instance, is compressed, it becomes heated, and if cooled down to its original temperature, the same heat must be restored in the process of expansion to its normal condition. This heat is withdrawn from the atmosphere or other surrounding substance, thus reducing the temperature. By the expansion of liquid sulphuric acid or solidified carbonic acid, water can be frozen in a red-hot dish, and a small quantity added to a glass of boiling water will almost instantly convert it into solid ice. It is upon this principle of latent heat that ice-making machinery depends.

The original or "ground" patents for lowering the temperature by machinery expired some years ago, and are now common property. In consequence of this, vast numbers of ice-machinery manufactories have sprung up all over the civilized world, more than fifty being located in the United States alone. Every manufactory has its own special patents, and the number of different forms of machines on the market is hence very large. They may, however, all be reduced to two distinct varieties—ether and ammonia machines.

Ether machines include all those where cold is produced by the evaporation of a volatile liquid. They include the apparatus which employ sulphuric ether, gasoline, chymogene and other derivatives of petroleum. The liquid is evaporated in a partial vacuum, by means of which the process is greatly facilitated. Having absorbed heat in the process the gas is condensed and used over and over.

Ammonia machines differ from those using ether principally in this: that no air-pumps are required to produce a partial vacuum and draw off the vapor, and that enormous pressure is necessary to condense the ammonia into fluid form. In ether machines the power is principally employed in aiding evaporation; while in ammonia machines it is used only in the compression of the gas. The reason of this is found in the different natures of the two materials employed. Ether is, in its normal condition, an exceedingly volatile liquid, while ammonia is a gas having but little more than half the weight of atmospheric air. Like all gases, ammonia can be compressed to a liquid, and it is in this form that it is introduced into an ice machine. Ether machines are decidedly passe in this country, though they are still used to some extent in Europe; as likewise are air machines, particularly in England. The latter are fast giving place to ammonia machines, being operated on the same general principle of expansion.

A description of the construction and modus operandi of an ammonia machine will convey an intelligent idea of how ice is made by steam.



1. MODEL ICE PLANT.

Every such apparatus consists of three parts: (1) An engine and ammonia pumps, by means of which the gas is placed under a liquefying pressure; (2) a condenser, in which the compressed gas, heated by the process of compression, is cooled and so changed into a liquid form; (3) a system of evaporating coils, in which the liquid ammonia is expanded into a gaseous state and then cools the surrounding space, when used as a refrigerator, or brine when employed in making ice.

Liquid ammonia is prepared by manufacturing chemists, and is furnished in heavy iron drums to guard against the danger of explosion. It is allowed to enter the evaporating coils, and, having been fully expanded, enters the compression pumps and is fairly started on its circuit.

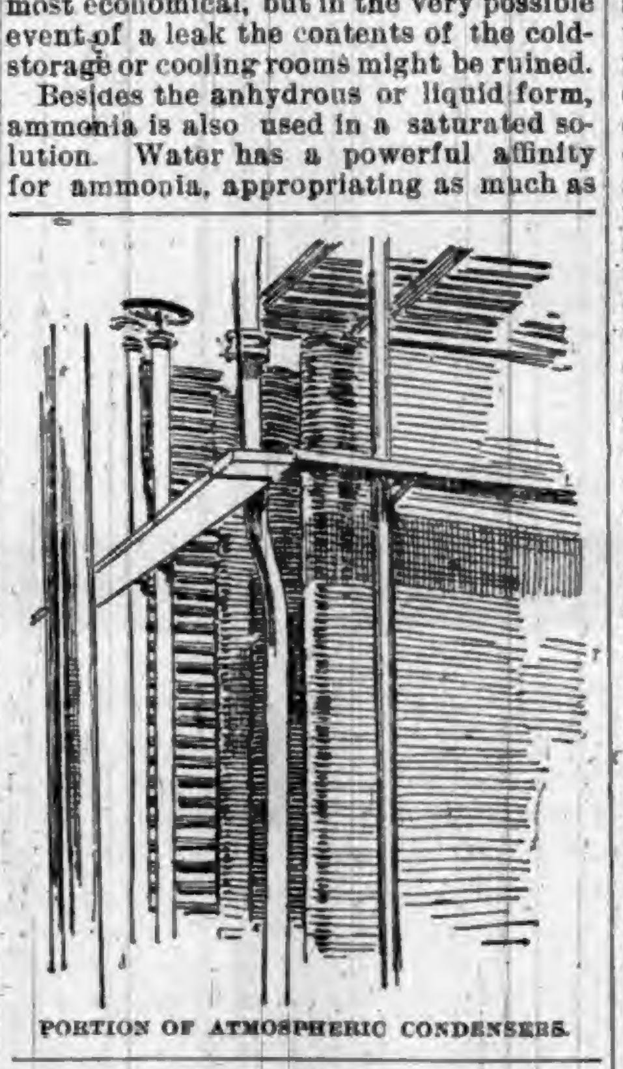
What the heart is to the human body the compression pumps are to the ammonia machines, and it is here that the greatest strength must be combined with the finest possible finish. The compressor must be able to withstand a pressure of more than three hundred pounds to the square inch, while the piston must fit so tightly and perfectly that not even the subtle gas can find a leak, and at the same time occasion no great amount of friction. It is in the construction of the apparatus that the greatest amount of ingenuity has been exercised.

Another very important matter is the cooling apparatus by which the compressed gas is reduced in temperature until it assumes a liquid form. Where water can be cheaply attained, it is generally employed alone, the gas being allowed to circulate through it in metal coils. Where water is scarce, however, or of rather a high temperature, huge piles of coils are erected in the open air, and a large amount of the heat thus disposed of. To facilitate this, water is allowed to drip over the coils, and by its low temperature, and the fact that it largely evaporates, greatly aids the process.

The method thus described is called the "direct expansion" process. The "brine system" is the same, except that the expanding gas is confined to coils which are submerged in brine—i. e., a strong solution of salt, which will not congeal unless at a very low temperature. When the brine has become very cold it is forced in pipes through the rooms to be cooled. Both systems are used and have their advocates. The direct expansion plan is probably the most economical, but in the very possible event of a leak the contents of the cold-storage or cooling rooms might be ruined.

INVENTIONS MAKE STRANGE COMBINATIONS.

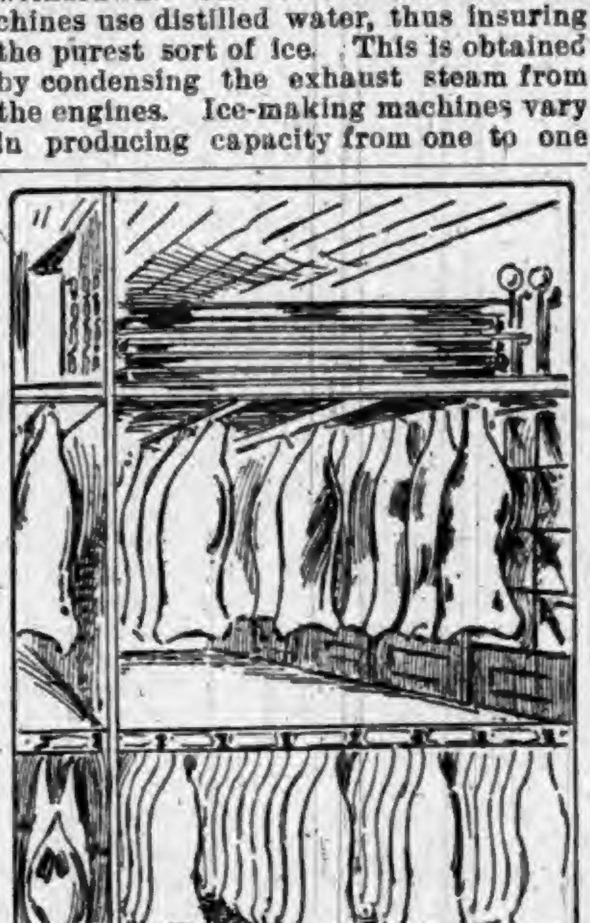
Besides the anhydrous or liquid form, ammonia is also used in a saturated solution. Water has a powerful affinity for ammonia, appropriating as much as 670 times its own bulk of the gas. Aqua ammonia is introduced and expanded, and the same results obtained as by the other system. It is, however, an inferior method, rapidly falling into disuse, and need not be described in detail.



PORTION OF ATMOSPHERIC CONDENSERS.

An ice machine in operation is a curious spectacle. Liquid ammonia begins to expand at a temperature of forty degrees below zero, and in consequence of this intense cold the large iron pipes in which it takes place are, on the hottest days of summer, covered with solid frost, and appear to be coated with a snow-white enamel. Some machines leak ammonia badly and thus produce a most disagreeable odor. This waste is quite an important matter from a financial stand-point, since anhydrous ammonia costs in the neighborhood of fifty cents a pound.

In making ice the same machine is used as in refrigerating. The ammonia is allowed to expand in coils which are submerged in brine. The tanks holding the brine are shallow, and present a large surface. Into these are immersed tin molds or cans, containing the water to be frozen. These vary in size according to the ice-producing capacity of the machine. They are usually two feet or more in length and from eight by eight to eleven by twenty-two inches in breadth and depth. Slow freezing makes clear ice, and twenty-four hours is usually employed in congealing the contents of the molds. Sometimes these are all emptied at once, but more generally this is done singly, and at such intervals of time as to complete the circuit every twenty-four hours, the cans being refilled with water as fast as the ice is withdrawn. The better class of machines use distilled water, thus insuring the purest sort of ice. This is obtained by condensing the exhaust steam from the engines. Ice-making machines vary in producing capacity from one to one hundred tons in twenty-four hours. A ton of coal will produce, in machines of large capacity, seven tons of ice.



VIEW OF CHILL-ROOMS.

Artificial ice is clear as crystal, and being uniformly frozen and free from air bubbles, is not only of the most wholesome sort imaginable but has greater lasting properties than the natural product. It is claimed to have been demonstrated from actual experiments that manufactured ice requires, under the same conditions, 10 per cent more time to melt than does that naturally frozen.

Just now the demand for ice machinery largely excels the producing capacity of all the factories in the country. This is no doubt largely due to the mildness of the past winter and the consequent shortness of the ice crop; but ice-making is largely on the increase, and in time will drive the natural product from the market, except, perhaps, in the extreme northern portion of the country. In Chicago refrigerating machinery has been found not only more convenient, but much cheaper than ice, and is employed by the greater part of the breweries, packing-houses and cold-storage establishments. It is claimed that ice can be made in Chicago for 90 cents a ton, which is doubtless much less than the cost of the natural article in ordinary seasons, storage, transportation, extra handling and waste being taken into account. If this estimate proves to be correct, steam-made ice will soon be almost universally used in this city.

The Germans have gone deeper into the science of making artificial ice than any other nation. They have technically exhausted the subject, but are a long way behind the United States in the character and practical operation of the machines actually in use.

Chicago, who counts herself as nothing if not in the lead, is sending cold-producing machinery to all parts of the Union and to South America, where she successfully competes with European machines. The industry is new, but will assume, and that in the near future, vast proportions, enabling people of very moderate circumstances to use ice, and that in the summer as well as winter season.

DWIGHT BALDWIN.

Driving Englishmen Out of England.

The English clerk and hotel waiter is being supplanted at his chosen profession by foreigners, mostly Germans, and the native is either compelled to seek a new means of gaining a livelihood or emigrate. Nothing except that these foreigners sell their services cheaper can be given as the cause of the preference of the former over the latter.

WALKING the plank is not the same as making a board walk.

A GENUINE COWBOY'S SADDLE.

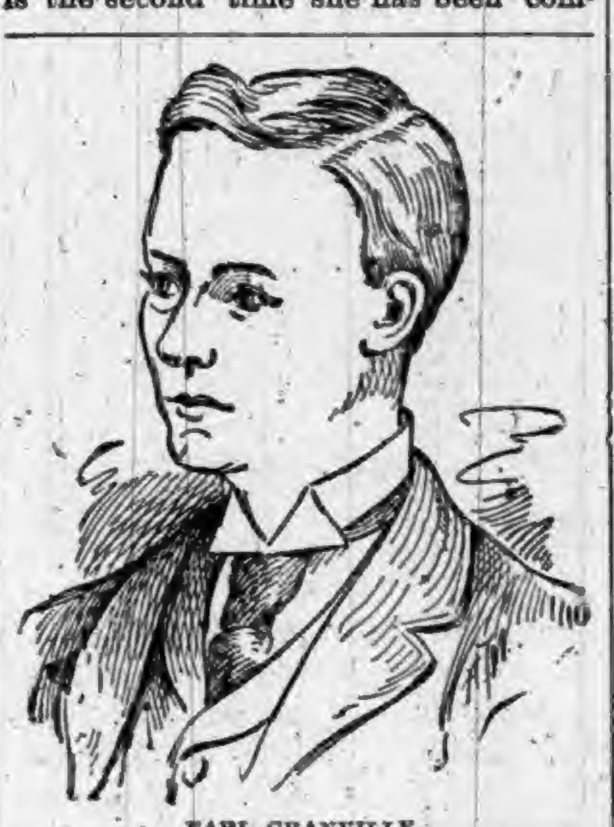
The cowboy saddle, illustrated herewith, was drawn from a photograph sent by a Montana correspondent who is himself a cowboy. He describes the saddle and its uses as follows: An ordinary saddle would never on earth stand the racket of cow work. You see, when a puncher ropes—I guess in the East you would call it "lassoes"—a big, healthy 4-year-old steer, which is lighting out on a Salvator gait, and undertakes to stop him with a jerk, he has a big contract on his hands. When a steer is running, and you rope him, he will run still faster; then you "take your turns," that is, you twist the end of the lariat, which you have in your hands, around the horn of the saddle two or three times and jerk your cayuse up short; the steer comes to the end of the rope or lariat, suddenly turns a double somersault, and lands on his back, pawing the air. So you can see that it takes a good strong saddle to stand the jerk. The horns of our saddles here are made of steel, and are strongly fixed to a mahogany or ironwood tree. The whole thing is then covered with wet rawhide, which shrinks on, and then the leather parts of the saddle are put on. A saddle ordinarily weighs thirty-five to forty-five pounds, and nearly all good cow-puncher saddles are made in the range country. The saddle I send the photograph of is not particularly ornate or costly, I paid $35 for mine when it was new. Fine saddles are the desire of every cow-puncher's heart, and they are willing to pay big prices, although they are not willing to take care of them after they get them. A man often has a riding outfit costing $150 or $200. Indeed, these are average, although some have outfits that come much higher. Silver inlaid bits, spurs, guns, conchas, and so on cost like not a little out here.—American Agriculturist.

MONTANA COWBOY'S SADDLE.

THE NEW EARL GRANVILLE.

A Youth of Nineteen Left with a Big Title and a Small Estate.

The successor of the late Earl Granville is a minor now in his nineteenth year and cannot take his place in the House of Lords until he attains his majority. He was born Aug. 8, 1872, and up to his father's death bore the honorary title of Lord Leveson. His full name is Granville George Leveson-Gower. He is the eldest son by the late Earl's second marriage, the first one proving childless, and is now a student at Eton, where the photograph from which the accompany cut was made was taken. The new Earl has at present no home, his father's property, which was largely in coal mines, having very much depreciated in value. His mother, the late Earl's wife, was Miss Castalia Campbell, daughter of the famous Campbell of Islay, whose magnificent style of living, both on his family estates and in London, dissipated a large fortune in a few years. The dowager countess is still handsome, with a tall, stately figure. This is the second time she has been compelled to live on slender means. As Constable of Dover and Lord Warden of Cinque Ports, a position once occupied by William Pitt and afterward by the "Iron Duke," the late Lord Granville occupied Walmer Castle, which he turned into a beautiful country seat. As soon as his successor is appointed the family must move out.



EARL GRANVILLE.

His Choice.

Proud Father (showing off his son before company)—My son, which would you rather be, Shakspeare or Edison?

Little Son (after meditation)—I'd rather be Edison.

"Yes? Why?"

"'Cause he ain't dead."—Street & Smith's Good News.

PRINCE BARTENIEFF, the young Russian officer of hussars who was condemned a few weeks ago to a term of eight years' penal servitude in the mines of Saghalien for the murder of a lovely and popular young Polish actress at Warsaw, has just had his sentence commuted into a detention of one year in the Monastery of Soloretsky, near Archangel. The murder having been a peculiarly cowardly one, the extraordinary and altogether unusual clemency of the Czar has given rise to great astonishment throughout the empire.

"THE way to sleep is to think of nothing," says a scientist. All an editor has to do is to ruminate over his bank account.

Drawing the Long Bow.

The London Globe tells the story of a candidate for a Yorkshire borough addressing the electors in flattering terms, and telling them that for "the hope of being their representative he had given up valuable prospects in India, and traveled many hundreds of miles." "What a jolly fool you must be," was the unsympathetic response of one of the crowd. The speaker had, in fact, returned to England because his prospects in India had proved delusive. Exaggerators of this class have been held up to derision for centuries. Lando (sixteenth century) tells a story of an Italian ecclesiastic, who was so given to drawing the long bow that his friends only derided his tales. He at last hired a simple country lad, whose whole duty it was to stand behind his master's chair and corroborate his anecdotes. The boy did his work for a time; but at length his employer ventured on a tale so amazing that the honest servant startled the company by exclaiming, "Nay, master, take back my livery; I cannot swear to that." Epitaphs offer a very usual field for exaggeration. Few imitate the sensible conciseness of an inscription in a Hampshire church, where the survivor merely adds, after the name of the deceased: "To those who knew him a narration of his virtues would be needless; to those who knew him not it would be tedious"—a fact too often lost sight of by the writers of monumental inscriptions.

Facts themselves may be presented in a light which exaggerates them to the listener. Boswell once praised the profuse hospitality of a gentleman who "never entertained less than a thousand friends in the course of a year." "That is to say, about three persons dined with him daily," said Johnson. Both "ways of putting it" were true, but they conveyed widely different meanings.

Minnesota's Wonderful Climate.

"Curious winter phenomena we have here," remarked the St. Paulite to the visitor from St. Louis. "You notice that icicle up there on the cornice of that eight-story building? Should say it was ten feet long. Well, this very morning one just like that dropped as Sam Bones was passing and the point struck him square on the top of the head. It went through him like a shot and pinned him to the sidewalk bolt upright and stiff as a statue."

"Kill him?"

"Hardly. As soon as the icicle melted he walked off all right enough. See?"

"An extraordinary escape, truly—perhaps an isolated case. But I should think he would be liable to take cold from the draft through the hole in his body."

"Not at all! You see, the winter climate here is so dry that—"

"Bosh!"—Nature's Realm.

Why Women Marry.

An article in the North American Review asks: "What Makes Women Marry?" Why do the flowers bloom? Why does water run down hill? Why does the sun rise and set? And why does the world turn round? There would be just as much sense in asking these questions as why women marry. They marry because it was ordained from the beginning of creation; because marriage is a part of the divine plan; because, as a rule, women are safest and happiest in the married state; because it is right and proper that they should marry, and because a natural, normal, well-balanced girl turns to wedlock as the flowers turn to light. As Artemus Ward said in reply to the query "Why do summer roses fade?" "Because it's their biz."—Indianapolis News.

A Fragile Structure.

A system which chronic indigestion has depleted and rendered nervous and feeble is, indeed, a very fragile structure, a tenement fast toppling into irretrievable decay. Excessive irritability of temper, abnormal and causeless anxiety, hypochondria, hysteria, and sleeplessness—these are some of the manifestations of nervousness. That grand, invigorating nervine, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, tranquilizes by strengthening the nerves, accomplishing the double result through the medium of renewed digestion and assimilation. No tonic in existence exhibits such thoroughness, produces such speedily appreciable effects as the Bitters. It is a perfectly reliable safeguard against malaria and dangerous kidney trouble, and remedies completely liver and bowel inactivity and disorder. Nervous invalids should not fail to fortify their systems with this benign protective, which merits a persistent trial.

Large Timber Wanted.

A Chicago man is out here in search of a stick of timber 110 feet long and four feet square. He has not been able to find such a stick in any of the lumber yards around town, and so has gone down to the Nehalem to look for a tree to make one. He is working in the interest of the Columbian Exposition, and it is supposed that the stick is wanted for the centerpole of that great circus.—Portland Oregonian.

Wanted Comfort.

Guest—Your bill sir, is outrageous. Instead of charging me your usual rates, you have charged three times that, and credit it to extras.

Hotel Clerk—You forget that you said you wished to be made comfortable.—Street & Smith's Good News.

HALL'S CATARRH CURE is a liquid and is taken internally. Sold by Druggists, 75c.

A Dime Bank.

A Kansas woman began saving dimes a year and a half ago, and she broke her bank open the other day and counted out $118.70.

THE best cough medicine is Piso's Cure for Consumption. Sold everywhere. 25c.

DON'T tell a man his wrongs are not wrongs. You will add to his wrongs if you tell him that.

Don't Feel Well,

And yet you are not sick enough to consult a doctor, or you refrain from so doing for fear you will alarm yourself and friends—we will tell you just what you need. It is Hood's Sarsaparilla, which will soon lift you out of that uncertain, uncomfortable and dangerous condition, into a state of good health, confidence and cheerfulness. You've no idea how potent this peculiar medicine is in such cases as yours.

N. B. If you decide to take Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to buy anything else instead.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

The Soft Glow of The
TEA ROSE
Is Acquired by Ladies Who Use
POZZONI'S
MEDICATED
COMPLEXION
POWDER.
TRY IT. SOLD EVERYWHERE.

PISO'S CURE FOR
25 CTS
Best Cough Medicine. Recommended by Physicians.
Cures where all else fails. Pleasant and agreeable to the taste. Children take it without objection. By druggists.
25 CTS
CONSUMPTION

"August Flower"

Mr. Lorenzo F. Sleeper is very well known to the citizens of Appleton, Me., and neighborhood. He says: "Eight years ago I was taken "sick, and suffered as no one but a "dyspeptic can. I then began taking August Flower. At that time "I was a great sufferer. Everything I ate distressed me so that I "had to throw it up. Then in a "few moments that horrid distress "would come on and I would have "to eat and suffer "again. I took a "little of your medicine, and felt much "better, and after "taking a little more "August Flower my "Dyspepsia disappeared, and since that time I "have never had the first sign of it. "I can eat anything without the "least fear of distress. I wish all "that are afflicted with that terrible "disease or the troubles caused by "it would try August Flower, as I "am satisfied there is no medicine "equal to it."

For that Horrid Stomach Feeling.

Have You Tried It?
—IF NOT.—
Try It Now!
Go to your Druggist, hand him one dollar, tell him you want a bottle of . . . .
PRICKLY ASH ★ BITTERS ★
The BEST MEDICINE known for the CURE of
All Diseases of the Liver,
All Diseases of the Stomach,
All Diseases of the Kidneys,
All Diseases of the Bowels.
PURIFIES THE BLOOD,
CLEANSES THE SYSTEM,
Restores Perfect Health.
P.A.B. P.A.B. P.A.B. P.A.B. P.A.B. P.A.B.

DONALD KENNEDY
Of Roxbury, Mass., says

Kennedy's Medical Discovery cures Horrid Old Sores, Deep Seated Ulcers of 40 years' standing, Inward Tumors, and every disease of the skin, except Thunder Humor, and Cancer that has taken root. Price $1.50. Sold by every Druggist in the U. S. and Canada.

THIS IS THE ONLY SCALE
5 TON. $60.
JONES.
RELIABLE, ACCURATE, DURABLE.
BEAMBOX-BRASS-BEAM-IRON-LEVERS.
ADDRESS, JONES. "HE PAYS THE FREIGHT" FOR TERMS.
BINGHAMTON, N.Y.

LEWIS' 98 % LYE
Powdered and Perfumed.
(PATENTED)
The strongest and purest Lye made. Will make the best perfumed Hard Soap in 20 minutes without boiling. It is the Best for softening water, cleansing waste-pipes, disinfecting sinks, closets, washing bottles, paints, trees, etc.
TRADE MARK
PENNA. SALT M'F'G CO.,
Gen. Agts., Phila., Pa.

PENN MUTUAL LIFE Age, stability, sound methods; cash values, incontestable policies; the best extension system; low cost. Address 921-3-5 Chestnut St., Philad'a.

HIRES ROOT BEER THE GREAT HEALTH DRINK.
Package makes 5 gallons. Delicious, sparkling and appetizing. Sold by all dealers. A beautiful Picture Book and Cards sent free to any one sending their address to The C. E. HIRES CO., Philad'a.

CATARRH, THROAT AND LUNG DISEASES quickly and permanently cured by the new ANTISEPTIC HOME TREATMENT. Thousands of marvelous cures. For free book address with 6 cts. THE NATIONAL ANTISEPTIC CO., 146 STATE ST. CHICAGO, ILL.

FAT FOLKS REDUCED 15 to 25 lbs. per month by harmless herbal remedies. No starving, no inconvenience and no bad effects. Strictly confidential. Send 6c. for circulars and testimonials. Address Dr. O.W.F.SNYDER, McVicker's Theatre Bldg, Chicago, Ill.

LOVELY WOMAN. Freckles, Pimples, Blackheads, Oily Skin, all Skin Diseases cured at once by DR. AMMETT'S FRENCH ARSENIC WAFERS, perfectly harmless. $1.00 per box by mail, sample package, 10c. Middleton Drug Co., 74 East Cortlandt Street, New York.

LOUIS BAGGER & CO. are the Oldest, Most Efficient and RELIABLE PATENT SOLICITORS in Washington, D.C.

"WOMAN, HER DISEASES AND THEIR Treatment." A valuable illustrated book of 72 pages sent free, on receipt of 10 cents, to cover cost of mailing, etc. Address P. O. Box 1666, Phila., Pa.

F. W. N. U .... No. 28—91.

When Writing to Advertisers, please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

GREATEST

Announcement

Ever Heard of!

BEGINNING

April 1,

—WE WILL GIVE AWAY—

TO THE TRADE at large, a handsome PARLOR ORGAN worth in the market $85.00, to the person who buys the highest amount of goods from One Dollar and upward at one time, for CASH ONLY, at our store up to Aug. 1st.

ALSO

A fine SUIT OF CLOTHES worth in the market $18.00 with the next highest amount purchased;
A nice Saratoga Trunk, worth in the market $8,00;
A fine pair of Ladies' French Kid Shoes, worth in the market $4.00,
A nice Fine Silk Umbrella, worth in the market $3.00;

We also give with this elegant instrument a handsome Organ Stool, and Instruction Book and a guarantee from the factory for five years. This instrument was just received from the factory and is bran new. Please call and see these articles. They are now on exhibition at our store. Remember they bear inspection.

Such an opportunity is not offered very often to obtain such elegant gifts for nothing. These goods which you buy you need anyway, and unless you find the prices satisfactory don't buy; and we will sell them to you as low as the lowest and defy competition in our line.

DON'T MISS THIS

Golden

Opportunity which will never be offered to you again.
Respectfully yours,

J. LŒWENSTEIN & CO.

OH, DON'T!

FRY AND SIZZLE YOUR BRAINS OUT! over a wood stove in hot weather but buy

A VAPOR STOVE LIKE THIS

Lights in a few seconds, is easy to manage, perfectly safe, and in every way a vast improvement on the old style gasolene stoves, and we might say that has them. Step into his Hardware Store and see them. See him light one and see how simple it is.

BEURET, in Auburn

LIFE IS SHORT

and we should enjoy it as much as we can. Then don't let us roast out our brains over a fire. It is money saved to have a Vapor Stove, and time saved. Call on BEURET, AUBURN.

4c. LAWNS 4c.

5 & 6c CHALLIES,

Polka Dot Lawns, White and Black India Linens, White and Black Flouncings, Satteens, Ginghams, Prints,

Silk Mitts, 15c., to 75c.

SUMMER CORSETS 50C.

LADIES' VESTS AT 10C.

MRS. M. JONES & SON.

IRA BRANDON,

—Dealer in—

GROCERIES

—AND—

PROVISIONS.

A complete line of

STAPLE

....AND....

FANCY

GROCERIES

Constantly on hand.

Goods are always fresh.

Cash or Trade

....FOR....

Butter, Eggs, and Lard.

Call and see me.

North Main Street,

Opposite Woolen Mills.

County Assessor's Notice.

In order to facilitate the work of revising the assessments lists of of the different townships and corporations of DeKalb county, the following dates have been selected for each, and those persons residing in the townships and towns, and who desire a re-hearing, or who have complaints to be brought before the board for its action, are notified to appear before said board on the day named for each, which will be as follows:

Troy and Stafford townships	July	6
Concord and Newville townships	"	7
Jackson township	"	8
Butler "	"	9
Fairfield "	"	10
Smithfield "	"	11
Franklin "	"	13
Wilmington "	"	14
Grant and Keyser townships	"	15
Richland and Union "	"	16
Auburn town	"	17
Waterloo "	"	18
Garrett "	"	20
Butler "	"	21

SYLVESTER KUTZNER,
County Assessor.

June 23, 1891.

To Colorado via
BURLINGTON ROUTE
Only One Night on the Road.

Leave Chicago at 1:00 p. m., or St. Louis at 8:25 a. m., and arrive Denver 6:15 p. m. the next day. Through sleepers, chair cars and dining cars. All railways from the east connect with these trains and with similar trains via Burlington Route to Denver, leaving Chicago at 6:10 p. m., St. Louis at 8:15 p. m., and Peoria at 3:20 p. m., and 8:00 p. m. All trains daily. Tourists tickets are now on sale, and can be had of ticket agents of all roads and at Burlington Route depots in Chicago, Peoria and St. Louis, There is no better place than Colorado for those seeking rest and pleasure. 38

Blondes and brunettes seem to have been wiped off the face of the face of the earth, so far as Paris is concerned, as red hair reigns supreme there.

None as Good.

Mr. Elmer W. Jacoy, of Edgar Springs, Mo., says of Chamberlain's Restorative Pills: "I have tried your pills, and have never found any as good." Everyone who has used them say the same thing. Nothing can take their place. For sale by all druggists. 5

It is said on good authority that all the sweet milk one can drink will help anybody to quit the use of tobacco.

Drunkenness, or the Liquor Habit, Positively Cured by administering Dr. Haines' Golden Specific.

It is manufactured as a powder, which can be given in a glass of beer, a cup of coffee or tea, or in food, without the knowledge of the patient. It is absolutely harmless, and will effect a permanent and speedy cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an alcoholic wreck. It has been given in thousands of cases, and in every instance a perfect cure has followed. It never Fails. The system once impregnated with the Specific, it becomes an utter impossibility for the liquor appetite to exist. Cures guaranteed. 48 page book of particulars free. Address GOLDEN SPECIFIC CO., 185 Race St., Cincinnati, O.

CORRESPONDENCE

WATERLOO.

Monday, Mr Fisher drove over to Auburn.

Friday, George Ralston of Auburn was in town.

Mr. Baker of Auburn, was in town Monday.

Mr. Burk of Edon, Ohio, visited here recently.

Rev. W. O. Butler spent the Fourth with his family.

Jacob Hoover of Auburn visited Waterloo, a few days ago.

Katie Braun went to Ft. Wayne to spend the Fourth with relatives.

W. Sharpless and G. M. Stahl of Hicksville, were in our town last week.

Laura Warren, who has been making a visit in Eastern Ohio, has returned.

Dillah Wilcox of Maple Grove, Mich., is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Isaac Speer.

Monday Rev. J. M. DeWeese went to Hamilton to conduct a funeral service.

Saturday and Sunday Mr. Hartwick spent in Angola, the guest of Mr. Hoff.

Mrs. George Braun of Angola visited her relatives in Waterloo a few days ago.

Mr. Bundy and family of Chicago, last week, visited his parents E. Bundy and wife.

There will be preaching on the street each Saturday evening to which all are invited.

Cyrus North went to Toledo last week where he has obtained an engagement in a drug store.

Dollie Hills of California, Mich., spent Sunday here the guest of her sister Mrs. Dr. Carpenter.

A number of our people went to Garrett the Fourth and report quite a crowd there. Many also went to Ft. Wayne on that day.

The temperance meeting last Thursday evening at the M. E. church was not well attended owing to the stormy weather.

At the cake and ice cream festival given by the M. E. ladies Saturday evening the attendance was quite large and receipts satisfactory.

Last Sunday at the school house in Uniontown, services were held. One of the ministers from here will conduct services there every Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Wm. Lockhart went to Grand Rapids last Saturday, to undergo another operation for the removal of the tumor, which has commenced to grow again.

Married, at the residence of and by Rev. S. P. Klotz, July 5, Simon Rohm of Grant township and Estelle Hartman of Richland township. May happiness attend them through life.

At the election of officers of the M. E. Sunday school Monday evening, F. N. Beidler was elected superintendent; Anna Deventer, secretary; Alfred Bartholomew, treasurer; Gertrude DeWeese, organist.

Rev. S. P. Klotz of the U. B. church administered the rite of baptism to 12 persons at the creek north of town on Sunday. It was a beautiful and impressive service and the best of order was maintained.

Gertrude Willis has gone to Minneapolis this week to attend the National meeting of the Christian Endeavor societies. Her father F. W. Willis goes next week to attend the National Editorial meeting at St. Paul.

Mrs Frank Beidler stepped on a weak board last Tuesday which broke and she would have fallen into the well, but caught on to something before going far; but was hurt and the shock affected her nervous system for some time.

The evening of July 7, Geary's Museum of Ft. Wayne exhibits here. Big Susie weighing 900 pounds; the bearded lady; the ventriloquist; Prof. Davis, the great prestidigitator; the modern Hercules: the smallest and youngest clown in the world; the funniest comedian alive; the Russian wire walker and many other persons worth seeing.

Saturday evening all the people in town seemed to have congregated on Wayne street, and from the way the carriages of all kinds poured in from the country it would seem every body came to town. Rev. DeWeese preached in front of the engine house; the M. E. ladies were ready to serve ice cream and cake, and balloons were being sent up at intervals, and fireworks set off to a late hour.

The temperance, law and order question is now occupying the attention of our people, and as a result, there were no business houses open on last Sunday for the selling of goods. How much better it is to respect the law of their own accord rather than to be compelled to do so by prosecution. We think when this matter is rightly presented to these people, they will desist from the practice of keeping open houses on Sabbath.

Joseph Takasugi a native of Hiriosaki, Japan, lectured at the M. E. church last Thursday evening. He has been in this country four years, and is a graduate of DePauw University. He was in Japanese costume and some parts of his lecture were very interesting. It was not always easy to understand him, and sometimes he hesitated evidently trying to remember the word he needed, but when he told of his conversion to Christianity and that of his family, and of his hope to return in two more years a minister of the Gospel to preach Christ to his people, what a marvelous change, he was as if awakened, he spoke rapidly, yet never hesitating, and there was no difficulty in understanding all. It was a satisfactory evidence of his sincerity as a believer, and his earnest desire that others may be saved.

SPENCERVILLE.

Jefferson Walter returned from Ohio Thursday.

Joseph Metcalf died at his home in St. Joe Saturday evening.

Rev. J. J. Fred and family returned from McCordsville Thursday.

Kelly Hart will soon have his new residence ready for occupancy.

John Scott is building a barn for Hon. S. S. Shutt just west of town.

As a result of the festival last week, the ladies of the M. E. church procured a new carpet for the church.

Joseph E. Hull, an old resident of Concord township, died Sunday morning, aged 76 years. The funeral services were held in the M. E. church, conducted by Rev. J. J. Fred.

Rev. H. Bridge, of Fort Wayne, conducted the quarterly meeting exercises, Saturday and Sunday in the M. E. church. About thirty persons were baptized Sunday.

CONCORD.

Mr. Mansfield has gone to Cincinnati.

The farmers will wind up their wheat harvest this week.

Loren Saylor steps high and smokes 10 cent cigars. It is a girl.

G. W. Reed and wife of Union Chapel, attended church here Sunday.

Sue Miller of Auburn is here spending a few days with her many friends.

Mrs. Lavina Johnson had relatives visiting her from Hicksville, Thursday.

A number attended the children's day exercises at St. Joe Sabbath evening.

F. Monroe and bride of Suman, spent the Fourth with his mother, Mrs. H. Milton.

Joseph Hull died Sabbath morning at six o'clock, as also Joseph Metcalf at his home in St. Joe.

Will. Sheldon and wife of Garrett, spent several days with the latter's parents, S. Wasson and wife.

Mrs. Dick returned to her home west of Auburn, after spending two weeks with her daughter, Mrs. Graham.

The young boys (or the kid drummers as they are called) will give a social next Saturday evening on the old church lawn. A cordial invitation is extended to all. They range in age from 6 to 12 years. Come and hear the boys play and give them a good showing.

SUMMIT.

Summit is on the boom.

Mrs. A. A. Forney and little child have been having the measles the past week.

Mrs. Thos. Lacy visited her parents, P. H. Grambling and wife, last Saturday.

Mrs. Geo. Craig and and her son of Michigan, visited relatives hear here over Sunday.

B. Duncan, of Waterloo, was up here visiting at R. T. Duncan's, his uncle, one day last week.

Albert Grambling steps around big now since that little boy came to his house last Tuesday.

Some of our young people went up to Hog Back lake last Sunday, and had a picknic of their own.

Geo. Erwin and wife and Henry Lawson and wife were guests of Edward Erwin and family last Sunday.

M. Yerker, who has been sick for some time, died last Wednesday evening. He was buried last Friday in the Catholic cemetery.

Messrs Dona Schiffli, Clemmon Bapst, Joseph Bapst and Katie Fetters, Liza and Theresa Schiffli visited relatives in Albion, Mich., over Sunday.

Another High-Tariff Lie.

In the Kendallville Standard we find this: "An individual subscribing himself "high tariff democrat" writes from LaPorte to the New York Press that the manufacturers of flannels in that town find their business so stimulated by the McKinley law that the cost has been reduced from 60 cents a yard, last year, to 47 cents this year."

As will be seen this precious piece is from the New York Press, the paper from which republican editors are now taking their editorial matter, especially the tariff matter, with the black turned rules. Now let us see about the above. Why don't they name the "high tariff democrat" at Laporte? No doubt it is because there is no such democrat there. But the Butler Record, is more imprudent than the rest, and goes so far as to say that the "manufacturer of flannels" is Louis Fox. This gives the scheme away. Mr. Fox does make flannel goods at Laporte. But he is a democratic tariff reformer, and believes in a low tariff only. He has not "found his business stimulated by the McKinley law," but has put into it his own energy, pluck and business ability and finds of course that he don't need anything else to "stimulate" business. We have a letter from a friend in Laporte who pronounces the story a lie in total. Instead of his business being stimulated by a high tariff, the factory has been closed for some weeks on account of dull trade. Mr. Fox has made no "reduction in prices," the best grade of flannels selling for 30 cents, same as last year and previous years. They claim he reduced from 60 to 47 cents. But when wool was at $1 his mill sold this same grade of flannel at 57½ cents, and never higher, though of late years, it has gone down to 30 cents, and still keeps at that, and the McKinley bill made no change in the price of wool or flannel, at the factory.

Will Be Given Away.

Our enterprising druggist F. E. Davenport who carries the finest stock of drugs, perfumeries, toilet articles, brushes, sponges, etc., is giving away a large number of trial bottles of Dr. Miles' celebrated Restorative Nervine. They guarantee it to cure headache, dizziness, nervous prostration, sleeplessness, the ill effects of spirits, tobacco, coffee, etc. Druggists say it is the greatest seller they ever knew, and is universally satisfactory. They also guarantee Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure in all cases of nervous or organic heart disease, palpitation, pain in side, smothering, etc. Fine book on "Nervous and Heart Diseases" free. 1

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder.

A Pure Cream of Tartar Powder. Superior to every other known. Used in Millions of Homes—40 Years the Standard.
Delicious Cake and Pastry, Light Flaky Biscuit, Griddle Cakes, Palatable and Wholesome.
No other baking powder does such work.

FIRE!

IN THE EYE OF

WILSON

The Shoe Man.

500 PAIRS SHOES

ALL KINDS

AT ACTUAL COST.

J. N. WILSON & SON,

NORTH SIDE OF SQUARE,

AUBURN, IND.

The Bank of England has reduced its rate of discount from 3 per cent. to 2½.

A Safe Investment.

Is one which is guaranteed to bring you satisfactory results, or in case of failure a return of purchase price. On this safe plan you can buy from our advertised Druggist a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. It is guaranteed to bring relief in every case, when used for any affection of throat, lungs or chest, such as consumption, inflammation of lungs, bronchitis, asthma, whooping cough, croup, etc. It is pleasant and agreeable to taste, perfectly safe, and can always be depended upon. Trial bottles free at Robbins & McCord's. 1

President Harrison says he is "tired out." Then the President knows how the rest of the country feels over his administration.

Just as Advertised.

Chamberlain's Immediate Relief has been tried for years and no one yet has ever found it to lack any of the qualities which it has been advertised to possess. It is a case where the truly great virtues of the medicine makes it necessary to add a single iota to the unvarnished truth about it. When Chamberlain's Immediate Relief is recommended as a cure for certain diseases, the public may rest assured that such results will be obtained, if the medicine is used according to directions. Try it and be convinced. Watch for testimony in next week's issue. Sold by all druggists. 5

Sheriff Warfield of Arkansas City, is said to be a defaulter to the extent of $55,000.

A Boon to Wives.

Having used "Mother's Friend" I would not be without it. It is a boon to wives who know they must pass through the painful ordeal of childbirth. Mrs. C. Melbourne, Iowa. Write The Bradfield Regulator Co, Atlanta, Ga., for further particulars. Sold by F. E. Davenport and all druggists.

G. M. Lowry, agent of the New York Life insurance company at Oakland, Cal., is charged with embezzling $20,000.

She Suffered for Fifteen Years.

My wife has suffered for fifteen years from congestion and painful menstruation. After using three bottles of Bradfield's Female Regulator she is now able to do her house work and go where she pleases. J. W. Davis, Moravian Falls, N. C.

Write Bradfield Reg. Co., Atlanta, Ga., for particulars. Sold by F. E. Davenport and all druggists.

Notice of Final Settlement of Estate.

Notice is hereby given to all persons interested in the estate of George Ensley, deceased, to appear in the DeKalb circuit court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 20th day of July, 1891, and show cause, if any, why my Final Settlement Accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and others interested are notified to then and there make proof of heirship, or claim, and receive their distributive shares.

Witness my name this 27th day of June, 1891.
Joseph E. Ensley, Executor.

J. A. CAMPBELL,

BUTLER, IND.,

INSURANCE,

In all the leading companies promptly placed in DeKalb and Steuben Counties.

TIME TABLE

THE WABASH
LINE

TRAINS CARRYING PASSENGERS LEAVE

GOING EAST.

Atlantic Express	2:38 am—Daily
Boston Express	5:45 am—Daily
Detroit Accom'n	2:30 pm—ex Su
New York Limited	8:04 pm—Daily

GOING WEST.

Pacific Express	1:33 am—Daily
Logansport Accom'n	7:55 am—Daily
Mail and Express	12:38 pm—ex Su
Chicago & St. Louis Lim	5:12 pm—Daily
St. Louis	7:33 pm—Daily

No. 53 will only stop for Chicago passengers.
For rates, Tickets, Time Table, etc., apply to
I. M. ZENT, Agent,
Auburn, Ind.

T. H. SPROTT, City Ticket Agent.
CHAS. M. HAYS, Gen'l Manager.
F. CHANDLER, Gen'l Pass and Ticket Agent.

FORT WAYNE BRANCH

L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE--In Effect June 7, 1891.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations—	Mail.	Exp'ss	Fre'gt.
Fort Wayne,...dp	11 50 am	4 40 pm	6 40 am
New Era	12 20 pm	5 22	7 29
Auburn Junc	12 31	5 33	7 45
Auburn	12 24	5 36	8 05
Waterloo	12 46	5 47	9 20
Summit	12 55	5 57	10 00
Pleasant Lake	1 05	6 07	10 20
Angola	1 13	6 18	10 45
Fremont	1 27	6 34	11 20
Reading	1 53	7 04	1 07 pm
Bankers	2 00	7 15	1 45
Hillsdale	2 12	7 30	......
Ft. Wayne Junc	2 23	7 39	2 45
Jonesville	2 25	7 41	2 56
Jackson	3 30	8 40	5 10

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations—	Freight	Exp'ss	Mail
Jackson.........dp	6 45 am	11 15 am	6 30 am
Jonesville	8 50	12 10 pm	7 23
Ft. Wayne Junc	8 55	12 15	7 25
Hillsdale	....	12 45	7 40
Bankers	9 40	12 56	7 51
Reading	10 05	1 07	8 01
Fremont	11 20	1 50	8 32
Angola	12 01 pm	2 10	8 48
Pleasant Lake	12 30	2 22	8 58
Summit	12 55	2 35	9 08
Waterloo	2 00	2 50	9 20
Auburn	2 55	3 10	9 33
Auburn Junc	3 13	3 13	9 36
New Era	3 50	3 23	9 47
Fort Wayne	5 30	3 55	10 20

For rates on tickets or freight to all points, call on or address E. T. DeLAPP, Agent at Auburn. The Lake Shore via Cleveland in connection with the Erie, and P. & L. E. R. R., forms the quickest and most direct route to Pittsburgh.

TO WEAK MEN

Suffering from the effects of youthful errors, early decay, wasting weakness, lost manhood, etc., I will send a valuable treatise (sealed) containing full particulars for home cure, FREE of charge. A splendid medical work; should be read by every man who is nervous and debilitated. Address, Prof. F. C. FOWLER, Moodus, Conn.

Taral, the jockey, has been offered $18,000 to ride for Marcus Daly next year.

Consumption Surely Cured.

To THE EDITOR:—Please inform your readers that I have a positive remedy for the above-named disease. By its timely use thousands of hopeless cases have been permanently cured. I shall be glad to send two bottles of my remedy FREE to any of your readers who have consumption if they will send me their Express and P. O. address. Respectfully, T. A. SLOCUM, M. C., 181 Pearl St., N. Y.

Recorder's Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XXI. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY JULY 16, 1891. NUMBER 29.

Rickel & Sprott

Real Estate and Insurance Ag'ts.

LOOK OUT

FOR NEW LIST

OF Farms

AND

Town Properties

SPECIAL BARGAINS

NEXT WEEK!

RICKEL & SPROTT,

Real Estate and Immigration Ag'ts.

Under Farmers Bank, AUBURN, IND.

A woman has been fined at Liverpool for smuggling tobacco. She concealed the contraband goods in her bustle.

A Husband's Mistake.

Husbands too often permit wives, and parents their children, to suffer from headache, dizziness, neuralgia, sleeplessness, fits, nervousness, when by the use of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine such serious results could easily be prevented. Druggists everywhere say it gives universal satisfaction, and has an immense sale. Woodworth & Co, of Ft. Wayne, Ind.; Snow & Co., of Syracuse, N. Y.; J. C. Wolf, Hillsdale, Mich.; and hundreds of others say "it is the greatest seller they ever knew." It contains no opiates. Trial bottles and fine book on nervous diseases, free at F. E. Davenport's. 2

Illinois has appropriated $800,000 for its exhibit at the Exposition. It will erect an immense building costing about $350,000, and endeavor to make the most complete exhibit of any of the states. The State Board of Agriculture has charge of the matter.

Our Leading Druggists.

F. E. Davenport is a wide awake business man securing that which he knows will give satisfaction to his customers. He has just received a fresh supply of Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup, the favorite cough medicine, and they are selling more of this remedy than all others combined. This being the case there must certainly be great merit in this medicine as it is giving such universal satisfaction. You can buy it of F. E. Davenport.

Horse meat sausage is disturbing the minds but not the stomachs of the population of Chicago.

La Grippe Again.

During the epidemic of La Grippe last season Dr King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds, proved to be the best remedy. Reports from the many who used it confirm this statement. They were not only quickly relieved, but the disease left no bad after results. We ask you to give this remedy a trial and we guarantee that you will be satisfied with the results, or the purchase price will be refunded. It has no equal in La Grippe, or any throat, chest or lung trouble. Trial bottles free at Robbins & McCord's drug store. Large bottles, 50c and $1.00. 2

The surplus would make a great model for Chicago's leaning tower. It has the right leanness.

A Prominent Farmer.

Mr. Nicholas Wagoner, of Monroe, Ind., gives us the following statement in regard to Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup. He says: I have used a great many different kinds of medicines for bronchitis, a disease I have had for the last ten years, and found nothing that would relieve me until I commenced to use Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup. I took ten 50c. bottles of this medicine and was entirely cured, and can recommend it to any person that is suffering from this disease. NICHOLAS WAGONER.

Sold by F. E. Davenport.

LOUIS WOLF & CO.,

54 Calhoun St., FORT WAYNE, Ind.

CARPET DEPARTMENT

is stacked to the ceiling with a magnificent line of carpets.

Moquettes, that are NEW in pattern and delicate, soft tone, color almost too beautiful to walk on.

VELVETS

54 inches wide, don't cost any more proportionately than the narrow goods, because of the width you have less seams in your carpet. The pile won't sweep or pull out. New patterns in BODY BRUSSELS, and at a price a little lower than elsewhere. Magnificent line of tapestries, and all of them are private patterns to us in this market.

We show the full line of Lowell Ingrains. They are prettier this year than ever before, and the price is right. New styles of Portiers and Chenille curtains. Large line of Lace Curtains and Swiss Muslin. Mats, Rugs, Matting and Window Shades. We will send our Upholsters to your city to lay your new carpets. We employ only strictly first-class workmen.

DRESS GOODS.

Our stock of Dress Goods is complete in every detail. Prices the lowest. Spring Jackets, Reefers and capes in great variety.

LOUIS WOLF & CO.,

54 Calhoun St., FORT WAYNE, Ind.

☞Mail Orders Promptly Attended to

AUBURN AND VICINITY.

Some Reminiscences of its Early Days and Pioneer Citizens.

1850,—Continued.

Silas J. Brandon, a son of John Brandon, and well known as having been trustee of Jackson township, and later county treasurer, now traveling salesman in the Auburn Foundry and Machine Works, in which he has an interest, having passed his early life in this vicinity, has seen the fluctuation of Auburn's growth and is familiar from boyhood with its history.

He remarks upon the uncleared court yard when he, with others of the boys of that date, played their games and remembers the new town as he saw it in 1850. The buildings were very scattering and he estimates the number of houses at about thirty. Thomas Freeman in which is now the Moody House, kept by John Moody, himself an early settler, then carried on a grocery and general store, Nelson Payne was in business in a store building which stood about the site of Edward Eldridge's saloon and Watkins & Woodbury traded in a small way in a little building then located on the lot where is now the residence of M. Boland, ex county recorder.

The district school as distinguished from the select schools of which mention has been made was in the fall and winter of 1849, kept by a young man, a relative of Samuel W. Sprott, named Paul A. McMynn.

At a meeting of the board of commissioners held in 1850, this person was selected as a student from DeKalb county to the university of Indiana, and was probably the first student to represent the county at any state institution of learning. Of those who have succeeded him there have been none but have reflected credit upon this county.

We hardly need mention, the Seilers, Michael and Cyrus, Fairfield township boys, who attended the state normal, of Terre Haute to good advantage, the one a prominent educator in this state, the other has been county treasurer of Elkhart county. Or Calvin P. Houser one of the first to attend the normal and to bring into practice in DeKalb district schools the progressive methods then taught.

We can no more than name such as William Spangler, librarian at Bloomington, Orrin Hubbell, now state senator, an eloquent speaker, and later the Hines boys from near Sedan, Irvin Hoffman, who has given a bright example of what perseverance in a chosen calling can accomplish, and Josiah Teeters, an athlete in manly sports and a close, earnest student.

It would be of interest to know what became of McMynn, and of still further moment if Supt. Merica, himself a Valparaiso student, could find time to name in one article all DeKalb boys, who have gone out since 1850 to improve their condition and incidentally reflect credit upon the locality whence they came.

The district school in the fall and winter of 1850-1 was taught by Joshua R. Steves, who long resided at Corunna, and of late years a resident of Auburn and a worthy citizen. His successor in turn was James W. Case, later postmaster and storekeeper, and now resident of Washington, D. C., where his son, a talented Auburn boy and a graduate of Ann Arbor University, has a lucrative and responsible government position.

The text books in use in those days preceeding the advent of the McGuffy series were of a mixed character. Each family had its own books. Among other books Mr. Brandon recalls Cobb's readers, and the testament. The children of Judge Mott constituted the class in Kirkham's grammar, and the discipline of the schools was severe as compared with the present.

George W. Brandt came to Auburn in 1850 and we are informed bought the block which fronts from the old Case building to Davis' Pioneer hardware store, although deeds on record do not confirm the statement. On the lot to the rear of the former, stood a building in which he carried on a business as cabinet maker and the next year erected and finished the house next north of the old frame Presbyterian church, now owned by the society known as "Church of God". In his quaint, old fashioned home he passed many years. He delighted in reminiscences of the past, and when he suddenly died, few persons more familiar were missed from our streets.

George Stahl, of whom we have spoken was yet another of the settlers of 1850 in Auburn and still remains with us.

Turning to the records of Auburn as the county seat we find her townsmen active in measures tending to the improvement of the country and the well being of its citizens.

When the board of county commissioners met in the spring of 1850, they were convened by Sheriff Samuel W. Ralston, and Miles Waterman, auditor was ex-officio, clerk of the board.

Amzi Seely was president and the other members were A. L. Casebeer and John V. Keeran, the latter appointed by circuit court to fill vacancy caused by resignation of James M. Goetchius.

John Baxter the county assessor, in accordance with the law then in force, appeared and took his seat as ex-officio, a member of the board of equalization.

It is interesting to note how history repeats itself as fashions run out, and again, after lapse of years, return, so now in 1891, the new law creates a county assessor, and again makes him a member with the auditor and treasurer of a board of equalization to meet in July.

Road viewing has given place to ditch viewing, requiring many days and litigated ditch cases, like the Moody or the Bubb drain have involved viewers' fees amounting to hundreds of dollars. Compared to ditch viewing and the placing of values on estimated benefited acreage, road viewing was but child's play, yet in 1860, no small amount of official duty lay in the appointment of qualified viewers.

Among these, Henry Fusselman, Noyce Coats and George L. Tanner were viewers on that part of the Morning Star road lying between the crossing of sections 20 and 21 and sections 8 and 9 in then Union township, and on favorable report the road was opened to a width of forty feet.

S. W. Ralston, T. R. Dickinson and O. A. Parsons, Auburn people, served this season in the capacity of road viewers, but of later years the selection of farmers for this service gives general satisfaction.

(To be Continued.)

AN IMPORTANT BILL.

The Royal Baking Powder Condemned in the New York Legislature.

(New York Press.)

Last Monday Mr. Kelley introduced the following bill in the assembly. A careful reading of it will show that it is a very important one:

AN ACT to prevent the poisonous and injurious ingredients in baking powders.

WHEREAS Baking Powders manufactured in this State, known as the "ROYAL," alum and and other Baking Powders are advertised as absolutely pure; and,

WHEREAS, Official examination show them to contain ammonia and other injurious ingredients; therefore The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

SEC. 1. Every can or package of baking powder containing ammonia offered for sale in this state shall have a conspicuous label thereon with the words "Contains Ammonia" printed thereon in plain type, not smaller than great primer, and any person who shall sell, or have or offer for sale, any such can or package of baking powder without such label thereon, shall be guilty of misdemeanor.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect July 1, 1891.

In Summer Paths and By-Ways.

To him who takes a vacation and buys tickets via the double track Lake Shore Route (L. S. & M. S. R'y) will come a pleasant time.

Tourist tickets are now on sale at Lake Shore ticket offices, to resorts on the St. Lawrence River, in the White Mountains, on the Atlantic Sea Coast, to Chautauqua, N. Y., Petoskey and Mackinac, Mich, St. Paul, Duluth, Ashland, Yellowstone Park, Denver, Colorado Springs and to the many and pleasant resorts of the east and west.

Send to A. J. Smith, G. P. & T. A., Cleveland, O., for copy of tourist book—Summer Excursions to the Mountains and Sea Shore; free to any address. 30

McElree's Wine of Cardui

and THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT are for sale by the following merchants in DeKalb Co.:

Robbins & McCord,	Auburn,
F. E. Davenport,	"
J. D. Campbell,	Waterloo,
Willis & Co.,	"
Geo. Kehrer,	Butler,
S. G. Stone,	"
O. P. Raber,	Corunna,
W. M. Mercer,	"
J. M. Lefern,	Garrett,
Patterson Bros,	St Joe,
J. W. Wyatt,	Concord.

To Our Patrons.

The time for our regular annual settlements has arrived and we kindly request all our patrons to call and make settlements. Please do so without further urging, and oblige

Yours Respectfully,

29 CASEBEER & MATHENY.

A Model Railway.

The Burlington Route, C. B. & Q. R. R., operates 7,000 miles of road, with termini in Chicago, St. Louis, St. Paul, Kansas City and Denver. For speed, safety comfort, equipment, track and efficient service it has no equal. The Burlington gains new patrons, but loses none. 38

Notice to Contractors.

Sealed proposals will be received by the Board of County Commissioners of DeKalb County, Indiana, at Auburn, at the Auditor's office, until 1 o'clock p. m. of Wednesday, July 22nd, 1891, for the construction of a CLOSET on the public square, in rear of the Jail, according to plans and specifications on file in the office of the County Auditor. The right to reject any and all bids is reserved.

JOHN HOFFELDER,
J. M. HENDERSON, } Comm'rs.
G. I. PATTERSON,

SHERIFF'S SALE.

By virtue of a certified copy of a decree to me directed from the Clerk of the DeKalb circuit court, in a cause wherin Lewis C. Shutt, administrator of the estate of Barbara Ann Wearley, deceased, is plaintiff, and William L. Wearley is defendant, requiring me to make the sum of Two hundred and twenty dollars, with interest on saiddecree and costs, I will expose at public sale, to the highest bidder, on

Saturday, August 1, 1891,

between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m., and 4 o'clock p. m., of said day, at the door of the court house, in Auburn, DeKalb county, Indiana, the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years, of the following real estate, to-wit:

Commencing at the southeast corner of the northwest quarter of section thirty-four [34], in township thirty-three [33] north of range fourteen [14] east, thence west forty [40] rods, thence northeasterly to the northeast corner of said quarter, and thence south to the place of beginning, situated in DeKalb County, State of Indiana.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said decree, interest and costs, I will at the same time and place expose to public sale the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficent to discharge said decree, interest and costs. Said sale will be made without any relief whatever from valuation or appraisement laws.

PHIL PLUM, Sheriff of DeKalb county, Indiana.

DON A. GARWOOD, Att'y for plaintiff.

Auburn, July 8, 1891.

Lady Macdonald as an Author.

Just before her bereavement, Lady Macdonald, widow of the late Sir John Macdonald, completed her first ambitious literary effort in a series of articles for The Ladies Home Journal, the first one of which will appear in the August number of that periodical. Last summer Lady Macdonald, with a party of friends, traveled in her private car through the most picturesque parts of Canada, and in a delightfully fresh manner she describes her experiences on this trip, in these articles to which she has given the title of "An Unconventional Holiday." A series of beautiful illustrations, furnished by Lady Macdonald, will accompany the articles.

As an infernal machine the toy pistol has never been improved upon.

How Not to do it.

Sometimes one can learn as much by other people's failures as by studying the successes of their more brilliant brothers. Thus much by way of preface or apology for Johnny's composition, made public in the San Francisco Examiner:

Gees hisses, but ducks quacks, and wen Franky, that's the baby, is painfle on his lap he hollers, but the lionroars like distanthunder and makes the welkon wring! Uncle Ned, which has been in Injy, and every where, he says one nite a lion came out of the woods and went to his correl for to eat his cattle. Uncle Ned he got up and looked in the correl thru a crack, the lion shode his teeth, and Uncle Ned sed, "The iddiot thinks I am a dentist, but I haven't no time for to tend to him. Ile send for the lion tamer to quell him with his I."

SCHAAB & BRO.

DRY GOODS,

CLOTHING,

CARPETS.

Our Annual

SUMMER REDUCTION

Sales!

Commencing This Week.

We are offering all Summer Goods at closer prices than ever before. We must have room for an immense Fall Stock.

It will pay you to see us before purchasing anything in our line.

Yours Respectfully,

Schaab& Bro

SANTA CLAUS SOAP
THE BEST
SANTA CLAUS SOAP
HUMBUG SOAP
Tell your Grocer you must have "SANTA CLAUS"
BAD SOAP
Like Humpty Dumpty on the wall, All the soaps have a great fall When SANTA CLAUS SOAP comes their way; For FAIRBANK'S SOAP has come to stay
MADE ONLY BY N.K.FAIRBANK&CO. CHICAGO.

DIRT BREEDS VERMIN

Of a good house-wife, who uses SAPOLIO, it is well said; "The mouse is muzzled in her house." Try it and keep your house clean. All grocers keep it.

Cleanliness and neatness about a house are necessary to insure comfort. Man likes comfort, and if he can't find it at home, he will seek elsewhere for it. Good housewives know that SAPOLIO makes a house clean and keeps it bright. Happiness always dwells in a comfortable home. Do you want cleanliness, comfort and happiness? Try SAPOLIO and you will be surprised at your success.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

PIONEER WEDDINGS.

1850.

(Samuel W. Sprott Clerk.)

January 19, Alonzo King to Mary Marilla Alton, by James Hadsell, January 24.

January 21, Josiah C. Wells, to Hannah Gushwa, by R. H. Warrell, J. P., January 24.

January 24, William Shaw to Eliza Wilkinson, by Elam Day, minister, January 24.

February 2, Lorenzo D. Thurston to Honor L. Enzor, by Samuel Lawhead, February 7.

March 2, John C. Reaser to Mary Wilbur, by John Bates, March 3.

March 7, Omri Parker to Margaret Moody, by Isaac G. Clark, J. P., March 7.

March 19, Hiram Hull to Louisa Franks, by Samuel Widney, associate judge, March 21.

March 27, Asa M. Brumbeck, to Julia M. A. Calkins, by Wm. N. Walker, minister, April 7.

March 30, Rufus Goer to Elizabeth Glessmere, by Samuel Lamb, April 4.

April 2, Jesse M. Brumbeck to Malissa Shoum, by Wm. Showers, J. P, April 7.

April 3, Louis H. Weaver to Mary Ann Hopkins, by Jeremiah Hemstreet, April 4.

April 10, David S. Fuller to Caroline E. Wright, by Samuel Lamb, April 11.

April 12, John Fisher to Mercy Tanner, by S. B. Ward, pastor first Baptist church of Wilmington, DeKalb county, Ind., April 18.

April 20, Henry Benton to Isabella Carper, by S. W. Russel, J. P., April 20.

April 23, Edward Rohrabaugh to Rachel McEnterfer, by George Beard, J. P., April 25.

April 24, Franklin Jones to Marietta Hall, by A. S. Bissell, April 24.

April 30, John George Zeigler to Christena Bower, by A. Deeter, minister, May 1.

May 2, John C. Potts to Ann M. Prince, by W. R. McAnally, J. P., May 2d.

May 3, George Moughler to Mary Ann Hart, by Elder H. Cherry, (no date.)

May 23, Elbridge G. Wheelock to Hannah Moody, by John C. Smith, May 23d.

May 25, Edsall Cherry to Malvina Brown, by Elder H. Cherry, June 2.

June 5, Benj. Ludwig to Elizabeth Ann Sanders, by Samuel Widney, associate judge, June 6.

June 11, Morgan Harris to Eliza Base, by George Barney, J. P., June 11.

June 29, Jonathan Bailes to Susannah Rumels, by James Sewell, minister, June 30th.

July 27, John Dorsey to Emily D. Conine, by T. F. Palmer, minister, July 30th.

July 27, Alva O. Espy to Mary Jones, by A. S. Bissell, August 1.

August 6, John Billman, to Harriet Foster, by Wm. Showers, J. P., Aug. 8.

August 15. Alonzo D. Austin to Elizabeth Closson, by George Beard, Aug. 17.

August 21, Abraham Corbin to Flora Nodine, by Geo. Wolf, J. P., August 28.

August 24, Harlow George to Lucinda Loomis, by John Cary, August 24.

August 27, David Weaver to Catharine Fleshman, by William Showers, Aug. 29.

September 27, Christian Kimmel to Rachel Davis. by George Wolf, J. P., September 8.

September 23, Daniel Till to Susan Grambling, by Geo. Wolf, J. P., Sept. 26.

September 25, Elias Zimmerman, to Mary Bittenger, by J. J. Hoffman, September 26.

September 28, John Parnell to Sevilla Halm, by Wm. L. Welker, September 29.

September 30. Devolzo Bruce to Sarah Clark, by G. R. Hoffman, J. P., Oct. 3.

October 9, Arthur Bird to Mary Ann McCauley, by Geo. Barney, October 10.

October 10, Isaac Bowers to Sarah King, by J. F. Bliss, October 10.

October 15, Frederick Oberlin to Mary Slentz, by William King, J. P., Oct. 17.

October 16, Richard Dearborn to Samantha Harding, by Wm. L. Welker, October 20.

October 25, Joseph C. Mead, to Elizabeth Palmer, by John C. Wade, Oct. 27.

October 26, David Powless to Drusilla Wyrick, by William Showers, October 27.

October 31, Elisha Crusan to Louisa Haning, by Jeremiah Hemstreet, Nov. 3.

November 6, James Knight to Nancy Layman, by Henry Brown, Nov. 6.

November 9, John W. Sebert to Mary Elizabeth Ingman, by Daniel Altenberg, J. P., Nov. 13.

November 12, Nathaniel Brace to Debora McCauley, by R. S. Latta, November 14.

November 13, Richard Teeters to Sarah Jane Abright, by J. F. Bliss, Nov. 14.

November 13, James L. Steward to Lydia Jane Tarney, by Samuel W. Widney, V. D. M., November 14.

Nov. 13, Geo. Jones to Emily McQueen, by George Beard, Nov. 14.

November 15, John M. Hoover to Barbara Low, by Richard H. Warrell, November 17.

November 19, Jacob North to Margaret Wallace, by Daniel Altenberg, November 20.

November 22, Joseph Freed to Emeline Till, by Job C. Smith, Nov. 24.

November 29, Henry Gault to Mary Milbourn, by Richard H. Warrell, December 12.

December 7, Jacob Rupert to Harriet Altman, by Richard H. Warrell, Dec. 8.

December 20, George Motter to Mary Jane Smith, by Daniel Altenberg, December 22.

December 20, Thomas Hammon to Elizabeth Shuler, by J. Hemstreet, December 20.

December 27, Frederick Ensley to Matilda Croy, by J. Hemstreet, Dec. 31.

Auburn Courier.
AUBURN, INDIANA.
JAMES A. BARNS, - PUBLISHER.

FROM HILL AND DALE,

AND EVERY NOOK OF EARTH THIS NEWS WAS GLEANED.

Texas Cattle Fever in Kentucky—Skin Grafting—Fatal Explosion—Mail Clerks Hurt—Farmer Disappears—Editors Meet.

The Editors Meet.

The seventh annual convention of the National Editorial Association of the United States convened at the Grand Opera House, St. Paul, Minn. The edifice was beautifully decorated for the occasion, and there were present 700 delegates exclusive of ladies and other spectators. The convention opened with an address of welcome by Mayor Robert A. Smith, who extended the freedom of the city in a neat speech. The formal address of welcome followed by United States Senator C. K. Davis, who spoke on behalf of the State press. His remarks were eloquent and scholarly. A response was made by E. W. Stephens, President of the Editorial Association. The appointment of committees followed, after which President Stephens delivered his annual address.

Skin Grafting.

San Francisco special: Mrs. Lucy Pratt, a young widow, sold forty-five square inches of her skin for $190. A strip of skin nine by five inches was cut from her body by surgeons and grafted into the leg of William A. Daggett, a railway mail clerk, who was frightfully injured in a railroad accident at Port Costa. His right leg was terribly burned and the wound would not heal and as a last resort skin grafting was resorted to. Mrs. Pratt is one of the trained nurses at the hospital for children and training school for misses. She has three children and needed money, so she offered to furnish the necessary amount of skin. She submitted bravely to the operation, which was successfully performed, and was paid for her sacrifice.

United With a Band of Iron.

Recent advices from Quito give an elaborate account of a breakfast given by the international Railway Engineers to the President of Equador. The entertainment was given in the camp of the Engineers just outside the city of Quito. Breakfast was served in a tent and was attended by all the prominent officials of that republic as well as by the chief men of the church and several private citizens. President Flores proposed the health of the President of the United States, and made a long address. His toast was that "the interests of Equador and the United States should always be united with a band of iron."

Fatal Explosion.

The steamship R. C. Booth, 2,000 tons burden, lying at the foot of Richard street, Brooklyn, with a cargo consigned to Spencer & Co., New York, was seriously damaged while reloading a box of dynamite cartridges that exploded, killing two men. Two others were wounded. One of the men was blown to pieces by the explosion, and fragments of his body were found strewn at some distance from the scene of the accident. The pieces were gathered up and placed in a box. A large hole was blown in the starboard side of the steamship. At last accounts she was sinking. The cause of the explosion is a mystery.

Texas Fever.

A disease in cattle supposed to be Texas fever has broken out at Independence, Ky., and is creating alarm in that neighborhood. It is in a herd of fifty cattle owned by Judge Shaw. Seven have died and twenty others are seriously sick. Judge Shaw's herd was purchased last spring at the Cincinnati stock yards to be pastured during the summer. Two weeks ago a drove of cattle passed by Judge Shaw's farm, out of which one cow died by the roadside, next to which Judge Shaw's herd was pasturing. Since then the disease has made its appearance. The State veterinarian will investigate the matter.

Farmer Disappears.

Solomon Helmuth, a wealthy farmer of Harrison Township, Miami County, Ind., went to Peru last week to renew notes in bank and see the races, neither of which he did. Instead, he mysteriously disappeared, and the most diligent search has failed to reveal the cause. His team was found in a livery barn. The various theories include foul play and financial embarrassment.

Mail Clerks Hurt.

The north-bound New Orleans limited, on the Illinois Central, ran into an open switch at Duquoin, Ill., and badly wrecked the mail car for the south-bound train. Mail Clerks Hughey and Hodge were badly injured, but are not in a dangerous condition. No one else was hurt, which was miraculous, as the train was making good time.

Plot to Release Murderer Neal.

A plot has been discovered to overpower and murder the guards at the Douglas County, Nebraska, jail and release Ed. Neal, who is sentenced to be hanged in October for the murder of Allen Jones and wife. Extra care will be taken to prevent any successful execution of the plan.

Charged With Fraud.

New York stockholders in the Louisville, New Albany and Chicago Railroad have brought suit against the estate of the late President, E. D. Staniford, of the Louisville and Nashville Road, for $550,000, charging fraud.

Soldiers' and Sailors' Reunion.

The Executive Committee of the Southern Illinois Soldiers and Sailors have selected at Murphysboro the grounds for holding their reunion September 9, 10 and 11.

Bad Blood Spilled.

The evening before the meeting of the Democratic Convention at Cleveland, disputes between the Neal and Campbell factions resulted in a shooting scrape in which Pete Nolan, of Cincinnati, a Campbell man, was seriously injured by William and James Patterson, Neal delegates, of Cincinnati.

Receiver Appointed.

Philo W. Matson was appointed receiver of the Lafayette, Ind., Car Works under friendly arrangements of all concerned.

A Michigan County Burning.

Sault Ste. Marie (Mich.) special: The entire wooded portion of Chippewa County and the Canadian territory north of it are on fire. Settlers are being burned out and everybody is fighting the flames. Detour, Bay Mills, Gatesville, Raber, Wellsburg, Scammon Cove and many other places are in imminent danger. At Detour the people have their household effects packed ready to take to Lake Huron by boat. There has been no rain for over three months, and the country is in a similar condition to that during the great fire of 1873, when hundreds of people perished all through the North. The sun is obscured, breathing is difficult, and so dense is the air with smoke that St. Mary's River is navigated with difficulty, resulting in the grounding of five boats.

IT IS A SUCCESS.

Edison's New Invention Works Like a Charm—You See the Person and Hear What He Says.

New York special: After years of the hardest kind of work, Thomas Edison has brought forth another invention which is even as wonderful as the telephone. It records and reproduces sound. It works with the phonograph and by the combination of the two you can see the speaker and hear just what he says. The public exhibition was attended by two hundred invited guests and they all say it was a grand success and that the invention will do all that Mr. Edison expects it to do. In his own words. "you can sit in your parlor and look at a big screen and see Chauncey Depew come on the stage and bow and smile and take a drink of water and start off with his oration. Every time your eyes see him open his mouth your ears will hear what he says." It is called the Kinetograph and is arranged somewhat like a photographic camera on the principle of the Zootrope. The Zootrope, or wheel of life is a card on which are represented the same figure, man or beast, as the case may be, in a number of slightly different positions. On the wheel revolving the single figure or figures appear as one making a perfectly natural movement. The revolution of the wheel is too quick for the eye to see each variation in the figure, and consequently a unit picture is the result. The interior of the camera has gelatine strips, unrolled from one spindle and re-rolled on the other, which, in passing, are carried before the lens of the camera. It is so arranged that forty-six perfect photographs are taken in the lightning time of one second. The result, when reproduced, is pure motion.

TERRIBLE!

Seven People Dead in One House.

A special from Ellis, Neb., says: Mrs. Dr. Allen, of Beatrice, went to Ellis to visit her brother, John H. Puterbaugh, a farmer, living one and a half miles from that place. Repeated knocks at the door failed to obtain a response. She entered, and a horrible sight met her eyes. On the floor lay her brother, Puterbaugh, with a bullet hole through his head, and an empty revolver lying beside his dead body. Mrs. Allen called to her driver and the two made further investigation. On a bed lay Mrs. Puterbaugh dead. Beside the wife and mother lay the dead body of the 2-year old babe. On a lounge in the room lay the dead body of Puterbaugh's 10-year-old son. Up stairs were found the dead bodies of Puterbaugh's two daughters, aged 13 and 15 years. Each one had been shot through the head and evidently while all but Puterbaugh were asleep. It is believed Puterbaugh himself committed the terrible deed, probably in a fit of insanity. He was a well-to-do farmer without any known trouble, and insanity is the only motive that can be ascribed for the deed. One son, aged 17 years, was saved from the slaughter by being absent from home at the time.

SHOCKING!

Threshing Machine Boiler Lets Go, Killing or Maiming Eight Persons.

A boiler explosion occurred near Bruceville, Knox County, Ind., that killed two men and fatally injured another and wounded and scalded five others. The cause of the accident is not known. The engineer had just fairly started the threshing machine when an entire side of the boiler gave way with a terrific noise. John Flock, who was feeding the machine, sixty feet distant, had his head blown off. Alvin Price was horribly scalded and injured by pieces of the flying engine. He died six hours after the accident. Herman Milburn, the owner of the threshing outfit, is reported to be scalded beyond recovery. The following porsons were seriously scalded: Charles Gibson, Will Coan, Newt Baker, Theodore Leueron, and A. J. Barr. Flock, who was killed, is a single man and about 35 years of age. Price was a young man about 20. Barr was blown about forty feet from where he was standing at the moment of the accident. It is claimed that there was only twenty pounds of steam on at the time of the explosion. The accident is the most shocking that has occurred in Knox County for a long time.

QUAY SPEAKS.

And Confirms McClure's Statement Regarding Lincoln's Attitude Toward Hamlin.

Brigantine Beach, N. J., special: "I see by the papers," said Senator Quay, "a division of recollection between Colonel McClure and Mr. Nicolay regarding President Lincoln's attitude toward Vice-President Hamlin during the convention of '64. I have no desire to enter the controversy, but justice to Colonel McClure causes me to speak. It is fresh in my mind now, his recital of the events of the Baltimore convention upon his return to Harrisburg from the National Convention. He came to talk with Governor Curtin. I have not the slightest hesitancy in supporting Colonel McClure's statement as it has been printed." Senator Quay remarked that he will call a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Republican National Committee upon the return of John S. Clarkson from Europe.

A SHREWD TRICK.

Captain Mauzen Tells How the Itata Unloaded Her Munitions of War.

San Francisco special: A British officer named Smith, who has just come from San Diego, reports a conversation he had with Second Officer Taylor, of the Itata, which, if true, clears up the mystery of the disappearance of the greater part of the arms and ammunition which the Itata took away from San Diego but did not have on board when she was turned over to the United States at Iquique. This officer met Taylor in a saloon and, both being Englishmen from the same county, they became great friends. He says Taylor bragged of the shrewd trick Captain Mauzen had played on the Americans, and said the transfer of 15,000 out of 20,000 stand of arms was made from the Itata to the Esmeralda far out from the coast of Mexico.

A Volter Killed.

William Hanlon, one of the Hanlon volters, performing with the Forepaugh shows, fell and was killed at Clinton, Iowa. The high trapeze upon which he was performing, gave way, and he fell missing the net beneath and striking on his head on the ground. His neck was broken and death followed instantly. Last August he had a similar accident at the Academy of Music, New York, falling from the dome and breaking two parquette chairs. His work was upon the horizontal bar in the center, Robert and James Hanlon doing the flying trapeze. Robert and James will remain with Forepaugh through the balance of the season. William left a wife, but had no children.

A Governor Assaults a Reporter.

There was a sensational scene in the executive mansion at Olympia, Wash. Gov. Terry, taking umbrage at a newspaper article, pitched into the reporter, and after thundering out all the epithets he could think of threw the young man out of his office and instructed his private secretary never to give him any information. The Governor, supposing State Auditor Lindley was the authority for the offensive articles, walked up to the latter in the hotel and denounced him as a liar. The parties were separated before blows were passed.

A Mother's Crazy Act.

Mrs. John Curran, crazed with drink, climbed from the fourth-story window of the tenement on the corner of Reid avenue and Chauncey street, Brooklyn. She stood up on the window sill, and, grasping the frame with one hand, held her infant by the foot, head downward, with the other hand. She shouted that she was going to kill herself and the child. Releasing her grasp from the window sill, she reached over and took hold of the fire escape and swung herself onto it. Mounting the railing, she swung her infant back and forward, continuing her wild cries. Finally she tossed the infant through the open window into the room, and then followed it herself. She appeared next at the rear window, where she went through the same performance. As she was about to make her reappearance at the front of the house a policeman grasped her.

Letter from Gladstone.

Mr. Gladstone, in a letter intimating that he will be unable to attend a Liberal meeting, says: "We, in our affliction, are deeply sensible of the mercies of God. He gave us for fifty years a most precious son. He has now only hidden him for a brief space from the sight of our eyes. It seems a violent transition from such thoughts to the arena of political contention; but the transition may be softened by the conviction we profoundly hold that we, in the first and greatest of our present controversies, work for the honor, well-being and future peace of our opponents not less than for our own."

Miss Cousins Loses.

Chicago special: The suit of Phoebe Cousins against the World's Fair Commission and the Board of Lady Managers was decided by Judge Blodgett. The decision was against Miss Cousins and she was defeated at every point in the contentions against the World's Fair. Judge Blodgett decided that Miss Cousins' position as secretary of the Board of Lady Managers, from which she was dismissed and sought reinstatement, could not be regarded as a public office, but was merely that of a clerk or employe, and the services of the secretary could be dispensed with at the will of the Board.

Grasshopper Invasion.

Topeka special: Startling reports from Eastern Colorado and Western Kansas about the reported grasshopper invasion have been received here. The grasshoppers cover an area of 460 square miles where the Santa Fe road crosses the Colorado line. They are young and not able to fly, but they are hopping eastward at the rate of two miles a day and much damage is anticipated. In the region infected by the hoppers the few fields of corn and wheat have been swept clean.

Revolution in Guatemala.

Advices from Guatemala say: Information has been received from Quezaltenango to the effect that the mountains are full of discontented men who are organizing for war. Revolutionary proclamations are plentiful. The outbreaks so far are unimportant, as the rebels are not united, but union will be effected. President Barillas is sending troops to Quezaltanango, although he claims that no revolution exists.

How'll He Explain.

Rev. Henry Howell, living at LaPlace, Piatt County, Ill., has been arrested on a warrant sworn out by his two sons, charging him with adultery with a Miss Alice Mann, a young lady whom Mr. Howell brought from the South with him on one of his visits there during the winter. He has a wife and the affair has caused a sensation. Howell was held in $200 bond and Miss Mann in $100 bond for their appearance before the grand jury.

Child Murdered.

For some time Cynthia Adkins has had a grudge against the family of James Creamins, at Barboursville, W. Va. The other night their child was found murdered, the deed having been committed during the absence of its mother, she having left the little one asleep. Miss Adkins was arrested, charged with the murder. She is about thirty years of age and of excellent family.

A Sad Accident.

The 3-year-old son of Farmer John Lewis, four miles north of Alliance, Ohio, unobserved went into a field where the father was mowing, and playfully hid in the timothy. His father not seeing him continued cutting, and with a sweep of the scythe ended his little boy's life, the blade, cutting his arm off and cutting half way through his body.

Shot His Father in the Back.

Elias Phipps, of Boone, Iowa, was shot by his 14-year-old son. Phipps came home drunk and was beating his wife when the boy took a musket and shot his father in the back. Phipps is alive, but will die. The boy is in jail.

Fire in a Colliery.

By a fire in the West Stanley colliery at Consett, near Durham, England, the pit-head was wrecked and most of the machiney destroyed. One hundred men are out of employment, and the loss is estimated at about $300,000.

A Desperado Lynched.

Sam Gillespie, a negro desperado, who has been terrorizing the public in the vicinity of Love's Station, Miss., was lynched by a mob.

THE MARKETS.

CHICAGO.
CATTLE—Common to Prime	$3.50	@ 6.50
HOGS—Shipping Grades	4.00	@ 5.00
SHEEP	3.00	@ 5.50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.92½	@ .93
CORN—No. 2	.60	@ .61
OATS—No. 2	.37½	@ .38
RYE—No. 2	.76	@ .77
BUTTER—Choice Creamery	.18	@ .18
CHEESE—Full Cream, flats	.08	@ .09
EGGS—Fresh	.14	@ .16
POTATOES—New, per brl	2.00	@ 2.75
INDIANAPOLIS.
CATTLE—Shipping	3.50	@ 5.75
HOGS—Choice Light	3.50	@ 5.00
SHEEP—Common to Prime	3.50	@ 4.50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.86	@ .86½
CORN—No. 1 White	.61	@ .62
OATS—No. 2 White	.35	@ .36½
ST. LOUIS.
CATTLE	4.50	@ 6.00
HOGS	4.00	@ 5.00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.87	@ .89
CORN—No. 2	.55	@ .55½
OATS—No. 2	.37½	@ .38½
PORK—Mess	10.50	@10.75
CINCINNATI.
CATTLE	4.00	@ 5.50
HOGS	4.00	@ 4.25
SHEEP	3.00	@ 5.00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.90	@ .92
CORN—No. 2	.59	@ .61
OATS—No. 2 Mixed	.38½	@ .39½
DETROIT.
CATTLE	3.00	@ 3.75
HOGS	3.00	@ 4.50
SHEEP	3.00	@ 4.75
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	1.01	@ 1.02
CORN—No. 2 Yellow	.56	@ .57
OATS—No. 2 White	.42	@ .43
TOLEDO.
WHEAT	.96	@ .96½
CORN—Cash	.61	@ .62
OATS—No. 1 White	.36½	@ .37½
CLOVER SEED	4.25	@ 4.35
BUFFALO.
BEEF CATTLE	4.50	@ 5.75
LIVE HOGS	4.25	@ 5.25
SHEEP	4.00	@ 5.25
WHEAT—No. 1 Hard	1.00	@ 1.07
CORN—No. 2	.66	@ .67
MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—No. 2 Spring	.80	@ .89½
CORN—No. 3	.59	@ .60
OATS—No. 2 White	.42	@ .43
RYE—No. 1	.81	@ .82
BARLEY—No. 2	.69	@ .71
PORK—Mess	10.00	@10.50
NEW YORK.
CATTLE	3.50	@ 6.25
HOGS	4.00	@ 5.25
SHEEP	4.25	@ 6.00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	1.05	@ 1.07
CORN—No. 2	.72½	@ .73¼
OATS—Mixed Western	.42	@ .47
BUTTER—Creamery	.14	@ .18
PORK—New Mess	11.50	@12.25

AVALANCHE OF EARTH.

NORTH DAKOTA THE SCENE OF VIOLENT STORMS.

Murders and Suicides in Missouri—Ohio Society Girls Find Fun in Base-Ball—A Pennsylvania Village in Danger of Being Swallowed Up.

A dispatch from Nanaimo, B. C., says: The steamer Princess Louisa, from Skeena, brings news of a terrible landslide on the banks of the Skeena River, resulting in the death of one woman and about forty Indians. Those residing near the Northern Pacific Cannery at Skeena River heard a great rushing noise in the direction of the high, steep mountain at the back of the cannery. In a moment an avalanche of rocks and earth and trees was upon the doomed settlement, carrying everything before it into the slough close by the cannery. The occupants of the houses had time to get outside the buildings, but before they could escape from the advancing column of debris, they were caught and carried along at a fearful velocity. In all nine houses and their occupants were destroyed, including the mess-house and residence of the foreman of the cannery. In the mess-room was the young Swedish wife of the foreman. She was carried along in the mad and deadly current, and dashed to death hundreds of feet below. Indians claim that among those destroyed were about forty Indians of the Port Simpson, Sitka, Motlakahla, and Kitimiat tribes. Two days after the slide thirteen bodies of the Indians were recovered. The body of the foreman's wife has not yet been found, but there is not the slightest hope for any living thing within the range of the terrible slide of bowlders, trees, and earth. The slide just missed the cannery building about two feet. Had the slide struck the cannery or occurred half an hour earlier, the death-roll would have reached into the hundreds. It had been raining in torrents for the previous four days, and it is thought that the accumulation of water in the ravines on the mountain side broke away, carrying death and destruction with it. The Indians are greatly excited over the disaster, and are mourning bitterly for their dead.

STORMS STOP THE TRAINS.

Bad Washouts Reported in North Dakota —Damage in City and Country.

Specials from various points in North Dakota report heavy rains for forty-eight hours, which have caused many washouts on the railroads and much destruction to property.

Between 300 and 400 west-bound passengers on the Northern Pacific were stopped at Mandan, N. D. Tremendous rains washed out a large number of small bridges and culverts and track west of this point. All the bridges that are gone are small ones, those of the Heart River being all intact. The Heart River is running bank full, and is rising. In Mandan most of the sidewalks were lifted and scattered along the street. Numbers of cellars are full, and a good deal of damage done. The rain extended from west of Medora to Jamestown and poured in torrents for several hours. This supposed arid region has enough rain now to insure a bounteous crop.

At Dickinson, N. D., the rain was worse than at first supposed. Crews of track repairers are working both east and west repairing heavy washouts. Westbound passengers were delayed forty-eight hours. Streams are rising rapidly and it has commenced to rain again. Farmers will sustain damages from lodged grain.

MURDERS AND SUICIDES.

A Jealous Ex-Policeman's Cruel Deed—Double Tragedy on the Road from Church.

Ex-Policeman Crowley, of Kansas City, Mo., who has been married only six months, shot and killed his wife, of whom he was insanely jealous. He then turned the weapon on himself, but inflicted only a scalp wound. Running down to the kitchen, Crowley snatched up a carving knife and attempted to cut his throat, but made only slight gashes. Crowley, fearing violence from the large crowd attracted by the disturbance, ran up the street, the crowd pursuing him crying "lynch him, hang him," and throwing rocks and other missiles at him. He was protected by the police with drawn revolvers. Crowley's injuries are not serious.

Murder and self-slaughter were committed at Toos, nine miles southwest of St. Louis, Mo. Frand Bacleman, the teacher of the Catholic church, and Joseph Frank were coming from mass at 9 o'clock when Frank fired at Bacleman with a revolver. The bullet took effect but did not kill, but the second shot did. Frank then, in the presence of a hundred or more people, turned the revolver against himself and took his own life. Had he not done so he would have been lynched. No reason can be assigned for the deed.

THE EARTH FELL IN.

Disaster at an Old Mine in Pennsylvania—A Village in Peril.

A disastrous cave-in occurred at the old slope of the Kingston Coal Company, near Larkeville, five miles from Wilkesbarre, Pa., and the inhabitants of Larkeville, which is built directly over the mine, were in great fear of their lives and property. The cave was caused by the snapping of the old timbers in the slope directly under the fan house, where the surface sank so suddenly that the upward rush of air lifted the roof off the fan house, depositing it within a hundred feet of the opening. For hundreds of feet in all directions the surface is covered with large seams and cracks, some of them a foot wide, and extending down into the workings. A number of houses in the vicinity were damaged. A dozen men were at work in the mines at the time, but they all escaped through a second opening.

BELLES AT THE BAT.

Society Girls Play Base-Ball, with a Preacher Acting as Umpire.

The society girls at Washington, Ohio, have dropped the tennis racquet and taken up the base-ball bat. An exciting and amusing game was played between a nine they have just organized and a picked nine of the society young men. The Rev. S. B. Alderson, D. D., a prominent Presbyterian minister of the place, and an enthusiast on base-ball, stood behind the bat as umpire, and dodged the foul tips with great agility. The young men played left-handed, so as to give the girls a fair chance. The score stood 22 to 17 in favor of the young men. The girls say they will not play in public or travel. They belong to the best families.

Hannibal Hamlin.

He took things seriously, as does every man whose career has been a battle, but he had withal a grim humor which occasioned almost as many characteristic anecdotes of him as are related of the immortal man with whom his name is to live in history.—Pittsburg Times.

THE present generation hardly knew of him except historically. Many will remember, however, seeing him on his visit to the West and this city a few years ago. He was a genial, old-school gentleman, and his departure will recall a period of the country's history of which there are no prominent survivors. —St. Paul Globe.

HE HAD SIX VICTIMS.

DREADFUL WORK OF A GRIP-CRAZED FARMER.

A Mother and Four Children Killed—Indications that the Husband and Father Was the Perpetrator of the Awful Deed—Probably Insane from the Grip.

Mrs. Dr. Allen, of Beatrice, went to Ellis, Neb., on a visit to her brother, John H. Puterbaugh, who lived a mile and a half south of town. She was driven to the farm by Louis Perling and knocked at the door, but receiving no response entered the house, the door not being locked. As she entered she saw her brother on the floor near the door, and supposed he was asleep. She spoke to him, but there being no response, she looked more closely, and saw blood on her brother's ghastly face. Mrs. Allen called Perling in, who made an investigation, and found a horrible state of affairs.

On a bed in the room in which the husband and father lay was the mother with a bullet through her head. In bed with her was a 2-year-old babe, also shot through the head. On a lounge in the room lay a lad of 10 years dead, shot through the head. In the room above was another bed occupied by two young girls, one 13 and one 15, both dead with bullet-holes in their heads.

The dead are John Puterbaugh, his wife, and four children. How they met their terrible fate is as yet not known, only by surmise. The general belief is that the terrible deed was the work of the husband and father. The motive is not known, as Puterbaugh was a peaceable man in comfortable circumstances, and it is believed no trouble existed in the family.

It seems certain that the terrible crime was committed by Puterbaugh. By his side, under his arm, lay a 32-caliber six-chambered revolver with all the chambers empty.

The scene in the house was a horrible one and made the strongest hearted turn away. The faces of the dead, though covered with blood, were calm as though sleeping. No signs of fear were portrayed on any of them, and no evidence of a struggle were seen anywhere. All seemed to have been killed while sleeping, and all were shot directly through the skull. In every case the pistol was placed close to the head, as powder stains were visible upon the pillows or bed clothing.

